restored the dead to life, behold, the woman whose son he had restored to life appealed to the king for her house and her land. And Gehazi said, "My lord, O king, here is the woman, and here is her son whom Elisha restored to life." [6]†And when the king asked the woman, she told him. So the king appointed an official for her, saying, "Restore all that was hers, together with all the produce of the fields from the day that she left the land until now."

Hazael Murders Ben-hadad

7 ‡† Now Elisha came to Damascus. Ben-hadad the king of Syria was sick.
And when it was told him, “The man of God has come here,” 8 † the king said to Hazael, “Take a present with you and go to meet the man of God, and inquire of the Lord through him, saying, ‘Shall I recover from this sickness?’” 9 † So Hazael went to meet him, and took a present with him, all kinds of goods of Damascus, forty camel loads. When he came and stood before him, he said, “Your son Ben-hadad king of Syria has sent me to you, saying, ‘Shall I recover from this sickness?’” 10 † And Elisha said to him, “Go, say to him, ‘You shall certainly recover,’ but the Lord has shown me that he shall certainly die.” 11 And he fixed his gaze and stared at him, until he was embarrassed. And the man of God wept. 12 † And Hazael said, “Why does my lord weep?” He answered, “Because I know the evil that you will do to the people of Israel. You will set on fire their fortresses, and you will kill their young men with the sword and dash in pieces their little ones and rip open their pregnant women.” 13 † And Hazael said, “What is your servant, who is but a dog, that he should do this great thing?” Elisha answered, “The Lord has shown me that you are to be king over Syria.” 14 Then he departed from Elisha and came to his master, who said to him, “What did Elisha say to you?” And he answered, “He told me that you would certainly recover.” 15 † But the next day he took the bed cloth[1] and dipped it in water and spread it over his face, till he died. And Hazael became king in his place.

Jehoram Reigns in Judah

16 ‡ ‡ ‡In the fifth year of Joram the son of Ahab, king of Israel, when Jehoshaphat was king of Judah,[2] Jehoram the son of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, began to reign. 17He was thirty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem. 18†And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, as the house of Ahab had done, for the daughter of Ahab was his wife. And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord. 19†Yet the Lord was not willing to destroy Judah, for the sake of David his servant, since he promised to give a lamp to him and to his sons forever.

20In his days Edom revolted from the rule of Judah and set up a king of their own. 21†Then Joram[3] passed over to Zair with all his chariots and rose by night, and he and his chariot commanders struck the Edomites who had surrounded him, but his army fled home. 22†So Edom revolted from the rule of Judah to this day. Then Libnah revolted at the same time. 23†Now the rest of the acts of Joram, and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? 24†So Joram slept with his fathers and was buried with his fathers in the city of David, and Ahaziah his son reigned in his place.

Ahaziah Reigns in Judah

25 ‡‡In the twelfth year of Joram the son of Ahab, king of Israel, Ahaziah the son of Jehoram, king of Judah, began to reign. 26 Ahaziah was twenty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Athaliah; she was a granddaughter of Omri king of Israel. 27 †He also walked in the way of the house of Ahab and did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, as the house of Ahab had done, for he was son-in-law to the house of Ahab.

28 †He went with Joram the son of Ahab to make war against Hazael king of Syria at Ramoth-gilead, and the Syrians wounded Joram. 29 †And King Joram returned to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds that the Syrians had given him at Ramah, when he fought against Hazael king of Syria. And Ahaziah the son of Jehoram king of Judah went down to see Joram the son of Ahab in Jezreel, because he was sick.

Jehu Anointed King of Israel

9 [1]‡‡†Then Elisha the prophet called one of the sons of the prophets and said to him, “Tie up your garments, and take this flask of oil in your hand, and go to Ramoth-gilead. [2]†And when you arrive, look there for Jehu the son of Jehoshaphat, son of Nimshi. And go in and have him rise from among his fellows, and lead him to an inner chamber. [3]†Then take the flask of oil and pour it on his head and say, ‘Thus says the Lord, I anoint you king over Israel.’ Then open the door and flee; do not linger.”

[4]So the young man, the servant of the prophet, went to Ramoth-gilead.
[5]†And when he came, behold, the commanders of the army were in council.
And he said, “I have a word for you, O commander.” And Jehu said, “To which of us all?” And he said, “To you, O commander.” [6]†So he arose and went into the house. And the young man poured the oil on his head, saying to him, “Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel, I anoint you king over the people of the Lord, over Israel. [7]†And you shall strike down the house of Ahab your master, so that I may avenge on Jezebel the blood of my servants
the prophets, and the blood of all the servants of the Lord. [8]†For the whole house of Ahab shall perish, and I will cut off from Ahab every male, bond or free, in Israel. [9]And I will make the house of Ahab like the house of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, and like the house of Baasha the son of Ahijah.
[10]†And the dogs shall eat Jezebel in the territory of Jezreel, and none shall bury her.” Then he opened the door and fled.

[11]†When Jehu came out to the servants of his master, they said to him, “Is all well? Why did this mad fellow come to you?” And he said to them, “You know the fellow and his talk.” [12]†And they said, “That is not true; tell us now.” And he said, “Thus and so he spoke to me, saying, ‘Thus says the Lord, I anoint you king over Israel.’” [13]†Then in haste every man of them took his garment and put it under him on the bare[1] steps, and they blew the trumpet and proclaimed, “Jehu is king.”

Jehu Assassinates Joram and Ahaziah

14 ‡ ‡ † Thus Jehu the son of Jehoshaphat the son of Nimshi conspired against Joram. (Now Joram with all Israel had been on guard at Ramoth-gilead against Hazael king of Syria, 15 † but King Joram had returned to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds that the Syrians had given him, when he fought with Hazael king of Syria.) So Jehu said, “If this is your decision, then let no one slip out of the city to go and tell the news in Jezreel.” 16 Then Jehu mounted his chariot and went to Jezreel, for Joram lay there. And Ahaziah king of Judah had come down to visit Joram.

17 † Now the watchman was standing on the tower in Jezreel, and he saw the company of Jehu as he came and said, “I see a company.” And Joram said, “Take a horseman and send to meet them, and let him say, ‘Is it peace?’” 18 † So a man on horseback went to meet him and said, “Thus says the king, ‘Is it peace?’” And Jehu said, “What do you have to do with peace? Turn around and ride behind me.” And the watchman reported, saying, “The messenger reached them, but he is not coming back.” 19 † Then he sent out a second horseman, who came to them and said, “Thus the king has said, ‘Is it peace?’” And Jehu answered, “What do you have to do with peace? Turn around and ride behind me.” 20 † Again the watchman reported, “He reached them, but he is not coming back. And the driving is like the driving of Jehu the son of Nimshi, for he drives furiously.”

21 † Joram said, “Make ready.” And they made ready his chariot. Then Joram king of Israel and Ahaziah king of Judah set out, each in his chariot, and went to meet Jehu, and met him at the property of Naboth the Jezreelite. 22 † And when Joram saw Jehu, he said, “Is it peace, Jehu?” He answered, “What peace can there be, so long as the whorings and the sorceries of your mother Jezebel are so many?” 23 † Then Joram reined about and fled, saying to Ahaziah, “Treachery, O Ahaziah!” 24 † And Jehu drew his bow with his full strength, and shot Joram between the shoulders, so that the arrow pierced his heart, and he sank in his chariot. 25 † Jehu said to Bidkar his aide, “Take him up and throw him on the plot of ground belonging to Naboth the Jezreelite. For remember, when you and I rode side by side behind Ahab his father, how the Lord made this pronouncement against him: [26]† ‘As surely as I saw yesterday the blood of Naboth and the blood of his sons—declares the Lord—I will repay you on this plot of ground.’ Now therefore take him up and throw him on the plot of ground, in accordance with the word of the Lord.”

[27]† When Ahaziah the king of Judah saw this, he fled in the direction of Beth-haggan. And Jehu pursued him and said, “Shoot him also.” And they shot him[1] in the chariot at the ascent of Gur, which is by Ibleam. And he fled to Megiddo and died there. [28]His servants carried him in a chariot to Jerusalem, and buried him in his tomb with his fathers in the city of David.

[29]† In the eleventh year of Joram the son of Ahab, Ahaziah began to reign over Judah.

Jehu Executes Jezebel

30 When Jehu came to Jezreel, Jezebel heard of it. And she painted her eyes and adorned her head and looked out of the window. 31 And as Jehu entered the gate, she said, “Is it peace, you Zimri, murderer of your master?” 32 And he lifted up his face to the window and said, “Who is on my side? Who?” Two or three eunuchs looked out at him. 33 He said, “Throw her down.” So they threw her down. And some of her blood spattered on the wall and on the horses, and they trampled on her. 34 Then he went in and ate and drank. And he said, “See now to this cursed woman and bury her, for she is a king’s daughter.” 35 But when they went to bury her, they found no more of her than the skull and the feet and the palms of her hands. 36 When they came back and told him, he said, “This is the word of the Lord, which he spoke by his servant Elijah the Tishbite, ‘In the territory of Jezreel the dogs shall eat the flesh of Jezebel, 37 and the corpse of Jezebel shall be as dung on the face of the field in the territory of Jezreel, so that no one can say, This is Jezebel.’”

Jehu Slaughters Ahab's Descendants

10 [1]‡†Now Ahab had seventy sons in Samaria. So Jehu wrote letters and sent them to Samaria, to the rulers of the city,[2] to the elders, and to the guardians of the sons[3] of Ahab, saying, [2]"Now then, as soon as this letter comes to you, seeing your master's sons are with you, and there are with you chariots and horses, fortified cities also, and weapons, [3]†select the best and fittest of your master's sons and set him on his father's throne and fight for your master's house." [4]† But they were exceedingly afraid and said, "Behold, the two kings could not stand before him. How then can we stand?" [5]† So he who was over the palace, and he who was over the city, together with the elders and the guardians, sent to Jehu, saying, "We are your servants, and we will do all that you tell us. We will not make anyone king. Do whatever is good in your eyes." [6]†Then he wrote to them a second letter, saying, "If you are on my side, and if you are ready to obey me, take the heads of your master's sons and come to me at Jezreel tomorrow at this time." Now the king's sons, seventy persons, were with the great men of the city, who were bringing them up. [7]And as soon as the letter came to them, they took the king's sons and slaughtered them, seventy persons, and put their heads in baskets and sent them to him at Jezreel. [8]† When the messenger came and told him, "They have brought the heads of the king's sons," he said, "Lay them in two heaps at the entrance of the gate until the morning." [9]‡Then in the morning, when he went out, he stood and said to all the people, "You are innocent. It was I who conspired against my master and killed him, but who struck down all these? [10]† Know then that there shall fall to the earth nothing of the word of the Lord, which the Lord spoke concerning the house of Ahab, for the Lord has done what he said by his servant Elijah." [11]†So Jehu struck down all who remained of the house of Ahab in Jezreel, all his great men and his close friends and his priests, until he left him none remaining.

[12]† Then he set out and went to Samaria. On the way, when he was at Beth-eked of the Shepherds, [13]†Jehu met the relatives of Ahaziah king of Judah, and he said, "Who are you?" And they answered, "We are the relatives of Ahaziah, and we came down to visit the royal princes and the sons of the queen mother.” 14 † He said, “Take them alive.” And they took them alive and slaughtered them at the pit of Beth-eked, forty-two persons, and he spared none of them.

15 † And when he departed from there, he met Jehonadab the son of Rechab coming to meet him. And he greeted him and said to him, “Is your heart true to my heart as mine is to yours?” And Jehonadab answered, “It is.” Jehu said,[1] “If it is, give me your hand.” So he gave him his hand. And Jehu took him up with him into the chariot. 16 † And he said, “Come with me, and see my zeal for the Lord.” So he[2] had him ride in his chariot. 17 † And when he came to Samaria, he struck down all who remained to Ahab in Samaria, till he had wiped them out, according to the word of the Lord that he spoke to Elijah.

Jehu Strikes Down the Prophets of Baal

18 ‡‡‡Then Jehu assembled all the people and said to them, “Ahab served Baal a little, but Jehu will serve him much. 19 †Now therefore call to me all the prophets of Baal, all his worshipers and all his priests. Let none be missing, for I have a great sacrifice to offer to Baal. Whoever is missing shall not live.” But Jehu did it with cunning in order to destroy the worshipers of Baal. 20 And Jehu ordered, “Sanctify a solemn assembly for Baal.” So they proclaimed it. 21 †And Jehu sent throughout all Israel, and all the worshipers of Baal came, so that there was not a man left who did not come. And they entered the house of Baal, and the house of Baal was filled from one end to the other. 22 †He said to him who was in charge of the wardrobe, “Bring out the vestments for all the worshipers of Baal.” So he brought out the vestments for them. 23 †Then Jehu went into the house of Baal with Jehonadab the son of Rechab, and he said to the worshipers of Baal, “Search, and see that there is no servant of the Lord here among you, but only the worshipers of Baal.” 24 ‡Then they[1] went in to offer sacrifices and burnt offerings.

Now Jehu had stationed eighty men outside and said, “The man who allows any of those whom I give into your hands to escape shall forfeit his life.” 25 So as soon as he had made an end of offering the burnt offering, Jehu said to the guard and to the officers, “Go in and strike them down; let not a man escape.” So when they put them to the sword, the guard and the officers cast them out and went into the inner room of the house of Baal, 26 †and they brought out the pillar that was in the house of Baal and burned
it. 27 †And they demolished the pillar of Baal, and demolished the house of Baal, and made it a latrine to this day.

Jehu Reigns in Israel

28 ‡‡Thus Jehu wiped out Baal from Israel. 29But Jehu did not turn aside from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, which he made Israel to sin—that is, the golden calves that were in Bethel and in Dan. 30†And the Lord said to Jehu, “Because you have done well in carrying out what is right in my eyes, and have done to the house of Ahab according to all that was in my heart, your sons of the fourth generation shall sit on the throne of Israel.” 31But Jehu was not careful to walk in the law of the Lord, the God of Israel, with all his heart. He did not turn from the sins of Jeroboam, which he made Israel to sin.

32 †In those days the Lord began to cut off parts of Israel. Hazael defeated them throughout the territory of Israel: 33†from the Jordan eastward, all the land of Gilead, the Gadites, and the Reubenites, and the Manassites, from Aroer, which is by the Valley of the Arnon, that is, Gilead and Bashan.
34†Now the rest of the acts of Jehu and all that he did, and all his might, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? 35†So Jehu slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria. And Jehoahaz his son reigned in his place. 36The time that Jehu reigned over Israel in Samaria was twenty-eight years.

Athaliah Reigns in Judah

11 [1]‡†Now when Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah saw that her son was dead, she arose and destroyed all the royal family. [2]†But Jehosheba, the daughter of King Joram, sister of Ahaziah, took Joash the son of Ahaziah and stole him away from among the king's sons who were being put to death, and she put[1] him and his nurse in a bedroom. Thus they[2] hid him from Athaliah, so that he was not put to death. [3]†And he remained with her six years, hidden in the house of the Lord, while Athaliah reigned over the land.

Joash Anointed King in Judah

4 ‡ †But in the seventh year Jehoiada sent and brought the captains of the Carites and of the guards, and had them come to him in the house of the Lord. And he made a covenant with them and put them under oath in the house of the Lord, and he showed them the king's son. 5 ‡ And he commanded them, "This is the thing that you shall do: one third of you, those who come off duty on the Sabbath and guard the king's house 6 † (another third being at the gate Sur and a third at the gate behind the guards) shall guard the palace.[3] 7 † And the two divisions of you, which come on duty in force on the Sabbath and guard the house of the Lord on behalf of the king, 8 †shall surround the king, each with his weapons in his hand. And whoever approaches the ranks is to be put to death. Be with the king when he goes out and when he comes in."

9 The captains did according to all that Jehoiada the priest commanded, and they each brought his men who were to go off duty on the Sabbath, with those who were to come on duty on the Sabbath, and came to Jehoiada the priest. 10 † And the priest gave to the captains the spears and shields that had been King David's, which were in the house of the Lord. 11 † And the guards stood, every man with his weapons in his hand, from the south side of the house to the north side of the house, around the altar and the house on behalf of the king. 12 † Then he brought out the king's son and put the crown on him and gave him the testimony. And they proclaimed him king and anointed him, and they clapped their hands and said, "Long live the king!"

13 † When Athaliah heard the noise of the guard and of the people, she went into the house of the Lord to the people. 14 † And when she looked, there was the king standing by the pillar, according to the custom, and the captains and the trumpeters beside the king, and all the people of the land rejoicing and blowing trumpets. And Athaliah tore her clothes and cried, "Treason! Treason!" 15 † Then Jehoiada the priest commanded the captains who were set over the army, "Bring her out between the ranks, and put to death with the sword anyone who follows her." For the priest said, "Let her not be put to death in the house of the Lord." 16 † So they laid hands on her;

and she went through the horses' entrance to the king's house, and there she was put to death.

17 † And Jehoiada made a covenant between the Lord and the king and people, that they should be the Lord's people, and also between the king and the people. 18 † Then all the people of the land went to the house of Baal and tore it down; his altars and his images they broke in pieces, and they killed Mattan the priest of Baal before the altars. And the priest posted watchmen over the house of the Lord. 19 † And he took the captains, the Carites, the guards, and all the people of the land, and they brought the king down from the house of the Lord, marching through the gate of the guards to the king's house. And he took his seat on the throne of the kings. 20 † So all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city was quiet after Athaliah had been put to death with the sword at the king's house.

Jehoash Reigns in Judah

21 †[1] Jehoash[2] was seven years old when he began to reign.

12 1 †In the seventh year of Jehu, Jehoash[3] began to reign, and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Zibiah of Beersheba. 2 †And Jehoash did what was right in the eyes of the Lord all his days, because Jehoiada the priest instructed him. 3 †Nevertheless, the high places were not taken away; the people continued to sacrifice and make offerings on the high places.

Jehoash Repairs the Temple

4 ‡† Jehoash said to the priests, “All the money of the holy things that is brought into the house of the Lord, the money for which each man is assessed—the money from the assessment of persons—and the money that a man’s heart prompts him to bring into the house of the Lord, 5 † let the priests take, each from his donor, and let them repair the house wherever any need of repairs is discovered.” 6 † But by the twenty-third year of King Jehoash, the priests had made no repairs on the house. 7 ‡† Therefore King Jehoash summoned Jehoiada the priest and the other priests and said to them, “Why are you not repairing the house? Now therefore take no more money from your donors, but hand it over for the repair of the house.” 8 So the priests agreed that they should take no more money from the people, and that they should not repair the house.

9 † Then Jehoiada the priest took a chest and bored a hole in the lid of it and set it beside the altar on the right side as one entered the house of the Lord. And the priests who guarded the threshold put in it all the money that was brought into the house of the Lord. 10 And whenever they saw that there was much money in the chest, the king’s secretary and the high priest came up and they bagged and counted the money that was found in the house of the Lord. 11 † Then they would give the money that was weighed out into the hands of the workmen who had the oversight of the house of the Lord. And they paid it out to the carpenters and the builders who worked on the house of the Lord, 12 and to the masons and the stonecutters, as well as to buy timber and quarried stone for making repairs on the house of the Lord, and for any outlay for the repairs of the house. 13 ‡ But there were not made for the house of the Lord basins of silver, snuffers, bowls, trumpets, or any vessels of gold, or of silver, from the money that was brought into the house of the Lord, 14 for that was given to the workmen who were repairing the house of the Lord with it. 15 And they did not ask an accounting from the men into whose hand they delivered the money to pay out to the workmen, for they dealt honestly. 16 † The money from the guilt offerings and the money from the sin offerings was not brought into the house of the Lord; it belonged to the priests.

[17] †At that time Hazael king of Syria went up and fought against Gath and took it. But when Hazael set his face to go up against Jerusalem, [18] †Jehoash king of Judah took all the sacred gifts that Jehoshaphat and Jehoram and Ahaziah his fathers, the kings of Judah, had dedicated, and his own sacred gifts, and all the gold that was found in the treasuries of the house of the Lord and of the king's house, and sent these to Hazael king of Syria. Then Hazael went away from Jerusalem.

The Death of Joash

19 ‡ † Now the rest of the acts of Joash and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? 20 † His servants arose and made a conspiracy and struck down Joash in the house of Millo, on the way that goes down to Silla. 21 It was Jozacar the son of Shimeath and Jehozabad the son of Shomer, his servants, who struck him down, so that he died. And they buried him with his fathers in the city of David, and Amaziah his son reigned in his place.

Jehoahaz Reigns in Israel

13 [1]†In the twenty-third year of Joash the son of Ahaziah, king of Judah, Jehoahaz the son of Jehu began to reign over Israel in Samaria, and he reigned seventeen years. [2]†He did what was evil in the sight of the Lord and followed the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, which he made Israel to sin; he did not depart from them. [3]† And the anger of the Lord was kindled against Israel, and he gave them continually into the hand of Hazael king of Syria and into the hand of Ben-hadad the son of Hazael. [4]† Then Jehoahaz sought the favor of the Lord, and the Lord listened to him, for he saw the oppression of Israel, how the king of Syria oppressed them. [5]† (Therefore the Lord gave Israel a savior, so that they escaped from the hand of the Syrians, and the people of Israel lived in their homes as formerly. [6]†Nevertheless, they did not depart from the sins of the house of Jeroboam, which he made Israel to sin, but walked[1] in them; and the Asherah also remained in Samaria.) [7]†For there was not left to Jehoahaz an army of more than fifty horsemen and ten chariots and ten thousand footmen, for the king of Syria had destroyed them and made them like the dust at threshing. [8]†Now the rest of the acts of Jehoahaz and all that he did, and his might, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? [9]†So Jehoahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria, and Joash his son reigned in his place.

Jehoash Reigns in Israel

10 ††In the thirty-seventh year of Joash king of Judah, Jehoash[1] the son of Jehoahaz began to reign over Israel in Samaria, and he reigned sixteen years. 11 †He also did what was evil in the sight of the Lord. He did not depart from all the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, which he made Israel to sin, but he walked in them. 12 †Now the rest of the acts of Joash and all that he did, and the might with which he fought against Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? 13 †So Joash slept with his fathers, and Jeroboam sat on his throne.
And Joash was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel.

The Death of Elisha

14 †† Now when Elisha had fallen sick with the illness of which he was to die, Joash king of Israel went down to him and wept before him, crying,
"My father, my father! The chariots of Israel and its horsemen!" 15 And Elisha said to him, "Take a bow and arrows." So he took a bow and arrows.
16 † Then he said to the king of Israel, "Draw the bow," and he drew it. And Elisha laid his hands on the king's hands. 17 † And he said, "Open the window eastward," and he opened it. Then Elisha said, "Shoot," and he shot. And he said, "The Lord's arrow of victory, the arrow of victory over Syria! For you shall fight the Syrians in Aphek until you have made an end of them." 18 † And he said, "Take the arrows," and he took them. And he said to the king of Israel, "Strike the ground with them." And he struck three times and stopped. 19 † Then the man of God was angry with him and said,
"You should have struck five or six times; then you would have struck down Syria until you had made an end of it, but now you will strike down Syria only three times."

20 † So Elisha died, and they buried him. Now bands of Moabites used to invade the land in the spring of the year. 21 † And as a man was being buried, behold, a marauding band was seen and the man was thrown into the grave of Elisha, and as soon as the man touched the bones of Elisha, he revived and stood on his feet.

22 † Now Hazael king of Syria oppressed Israel all the days of Jehoahaz.
23 † But the Lord was gracious to them and had compassion on them, and he turned toward them, because of his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and would not destroy them, nor has he cast them from his presence until now.

24 † When Hazael king of Syria died, Ben-hadad his son became king in his place. 25 Then Jehoash the son of Jehoahaz took again from Ben-hadad the son of Hazael the cities that he had taken from Jehoahaz his father in war. Three times Joash defeated him and recovered the cities of Israel.

Amaziah Reigns in Judah

14 [1]‡†In the second year of Joash the son of Joahaz, king of Israel, Amaziah the son of Joash, king of Judah, began to reign. [2]He was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jehoaddin of Jerusalem. [3]† And he did what was right in the eyes of the Lord, yet not like David his father. He did in all things as Joash his father had done. [4]† But the high places were not removed; the people still sacrificed and made offerings on the high places.
[5]† And as soon as the royal power was firmly in his hand, he struck down his servants who had struck down the king his father. [6]† But he did not put to death the children of the murderers, according to what is written in the Book of the Law of Moses, where the Lord commanded, "Fathers shall not be put to death because of their children, nor shall children be put to death because of their fathers. But each one shall die for his own sin."

[7]† He struck down ten thousand Edomites in the Valley of Salt and took Sela by storm, and called it Joktheel, which is its name to this day.

[8]† Then Amaziah sent messengers to Jehoash[1] the son of Jehoahaz, son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying, "Come, let us look one another in the face."
[9]† And Jehoash king of Israel sent word to Amaziah king of Judah, "A thistle on Lebanon sent to a cedar on Lebanon, saying, 'Give your daughter to my son for a wife,' and a wild beast of Lebanon passed by and trampled down the thistle. [10]† You have indeed struck down Edom, and your heart has lifted you up. Be content with your glory, and stay at home, for why should you provoke trouble so that you fall, you and Judah with you?"

[11]† But Amaziah would not listen. So Jehoash king of Israel went up, and he and Amaziah king of Judah faced one another in battle at Beth-shemesh, which belongs to Judah. [12]† And Judah was defeated by Israel, and every man fled to his home. [13]† And Jehoash king of Israel captured Amaziah king of Judah, the son of Jehoash, son of Ahaziah, at Beth-shemesh, and came to Jerusalem and broke down the wall of Jerusalem for four hundred cubits,[2] from the Ephraim Gate to the Corner Gate. [14]† And he seized all the gold and silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of the Lord and in the treasuries of the king's house, also hostages, and he returned to Samaria.

15 †Now the rest of the acts of Jehoash that he did, and his might, and how he fought with Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? 16 †And Jehoash slept with his fathers and was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel, and Jeroboam his son reigned in his place.

17 Amaziah the son of Joash, king of Judah, lived fifteen years after the death of Jehoash son of Jehoahaz, king of Israel. 18 †Now the rest of the deeds of Amaziah, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? 19 †And they made a conspiracy against him in Jerusalem, and he fled to Lachish. But they sent after him to Lachish and put him to death there. 20 †And they brought him on horses; and he was buried in Jerusalem with his fathers in the city of David. 21 †And all the people of Judah took Azariah, who was sixteen years old, and made him king instead of his father Amaziah. 22 †He built Elath and restored it to Judah, after the king slept with his fathers.

Jeroboam II Reigns in Israel

23 ‡‡In the fifteenth year of Amaziah the son of Joash, king of Judah, Jeroboam the son of Joash, king of Israel, began to reign in Samaria, and he reigned forty-one years. 24 †And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord. He did not depart from all the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, which he made Israel to sin. 25 †He restored the border of Israel from Lebo-hamath as far as the Sea of the Arabah, according to the word of the Lord, the God of Israel, which he spoke by his servant Jonah the son of Amittai, the prophet, who was from Gath-hepher. 26 †For the Lord saw that the affliction of Israel was very bitter, for there was none left, bond or free, and there was none to help Israel. 27 †But the Lord had not said that he would blot out the name of Israel from under heaven, so he saved them by the hand of Jeroboam the son of Joash.

28 †Now the rest of the acts of Jeroboam and all that he did, and his might, how he fought, and how he restored Damascus and Hamath to Judah in Israel, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? 29 †And Jeroboam slept with his fathers, the kings of Israel, and Zechariah his son reigned in his place.

Azariah Reigns in Judah

15 [1]‡‡In the twenty-seventh year of Jeroboam king of Israel, Azariah
the son of Amaziah, king of Judah, began to reign. [2]He was sixteen years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty-two years in Jerusalem.
His mother's name was Jecoliah of Jerusalem. [3]And he did what was right in the eyes of the LORD, according to all that his father Amaziah had done.
[4] † Nevertheless, the high places were not taken away. The people still sacrificed and made offerings on the high places. [5]† And the LORD touched the king, so that he was a leper[1] to the day of his death, and he lived in a separate house.[2] And Jotham the king's son was over the household, governing the people of the land. [6]Now the rest of the acts of Azariah, and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? [7]† And Azariah slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David, and Jotham his son reigned in his place.

Zechariah Reigns in Israel

8 ‡‡‡In the thirty-eighth year of Azariah king of Judah, Zechariah the son of Jeroboam reigned over Israel in Samaria six months. 9 †And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, as his fathers had done. He did not depart from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, which he made Israel to sin.
10 †Shallum the son of Jabesh conspired against him and struck him down at Ibleam and put him to death and reigned in his place. 11 †Now the rest of the deeds of Zechariah, behold, they are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. 12 †(This was the promise of the Lord that he gave to Jehu, “Your sons shall sit on the throne of Israel to the fourth generation.”
And so it came to pass.)

Shallum Reigns in Israel

13 ‡‡Shallum the son of Jabesh began to reign in the thirty-ninth year of Uzziah[3] king of Judah, and he reigned one month in Samaria. 14 ‡Then Menahem the son of Gadi came up from Tirzah and came to Samaria, and he struck down Shallum the son of Jabesh in Samaria and put him to death and reigned in his place. 15 ‡Now the rest of the deeds of Shallum, and the conspiracy that he made, behold, they are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. 16 ‡At that time Menahem sacked Tiphsah and all who were in it and its territory from Tirzah on, because they did not open it to him. Therefore he sacked it, and he ripped open all the women in it who were pregnant.

Menahem Reigns in Israel

17 In the thirty-ninth year of Azariah king of Judah, Menahem the son of Gadi began to reign over Israel, and he reigned ten years in Samaria. 18 And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord. He did not depart all his days from all the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, which he made Israel to sin.
19 Pul[4] the king of Assyria came against the land, and Menahem gave Pul a thousand talents[5] of silver, that he might help him to confirm his hold on the royal power. 20 Menahem exacted the money from Israel, that is, from all the wealthy men, fifty shekels[6] of silver from every man, to give to the king of Assyria. So the king of Assyria turned back and did not stay there in the land. 21 Now the rest of the deeds of Menahem and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel?
22 And Menahem slept with his fathers, and Pekahiah his son reigned in his place.

Pekahiah Reigns in Israel

23 ‡ ‡ In the fiftieth year of Azariah king of Judah, Pekahiah the son of Menahem began to reign over Israel in Samaria, and he reigned two years.
24 And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord. He did not turn away from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, which he made Israel to sin.
25 † And Pekah the son of Remaliah, his captain, conspired against him with fifty men of the people of Gilead, and struck him down in Samaria, in the citadel of the king's house with Argob and Arieh; he put him to death and reigned in his place. 26 † Now the rest of the deeds of Pekahiah and all that he did, behold, they are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

Pekah Reigns in Israel

27 ‡ † In the fifty-second year of Azariah king of Judah, Pekah the son of Remaliah began to reign over Israel in Samaria, and he reigned twenty years. 28 † And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord. He did not depart from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, which he made Israel to sin.

29 † In the days of Pekah king of Israel, Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria came and captured Ijon, Abel-beth-maacah, Janoah, Kedesh, Hazor, Gilead, and Galilee, all the land of Naphtali, and he carried the people captive to Assyria. 30 † Then Hoshea the son of Elah made a conspiracy against Pekah
the son of Remaliah and struck him down and put him to death and reigned in his place, in the twentieth year of Jotham the son of Uzziah. 31 † Now the rest of the acts of Pekah and all that he did, behold, they are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

Jotham Reigns in Judah

32 ‡ † In the second year of Pekah the son of Remaliah, king of Israel, Jotham the son of Uzziah, king of Judah, began to reign. 33 † He was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jerusha the daughter of Zadok. 34 And he did what was right in the eyes of the Lord, according to all that his father Uzziah had done. 35 † Nevertheless, the high places were not removed. The people still sacrificed and made offerings on the high places. He built the upper gate of the house of the Lord. 36 † Now the rest of the acts of Jotham and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? 37 † In those days the Lord began to send Rezin the king of Syria and Pekah the son of Remaliah against Judah. 38 † Jotham slept with his fathers and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father, and Ahaz his son reigned in his place.

Ahaz Reigns in Judah

16 [1]In the seventeenth year of Pekah the son of Remaliah, Ahaz the son of Jotham, king of Judah, began to reign. [2]†Ahaz was twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. And he did not do what was right in the eyes of the Lord his God, as his father David had done, [3]††but he walked in the way of the kings of Israel. He even burned his son as an offering,[1] according to the despicable practices of the nations whom the Lord drove out before the people of Israel. [4]†And he sacrificed and made offerings on the high places and on the hills and under every green tree.

[5]†Then Rezin king of Syria and Pekah the son of Remaliah, king of Israel, came up to wage war on Jerusalem, and they besieged Ahaz but could not conquer him. [6]†At that time Rezin the king of Syria recovered Elath for Syria and drove the men of Judah from Elath, and the Edomites came to Elath, where they dwell to this day. [7]†So Ahaz sent messengers to Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, saying, “I am your servant and your son.
Come up and rescue me from the hand of the king of Syria and from the hand of the king of Israel, who are attacking me.” [8]†Ahaz also took the silver and gold that was found in the house of the Lord and in the treasures of the king’s house and sent a present to the king of Assyria. [9]†And the king of Assyria listened to him. The king of Assyria marched up against Damascus and took it, carrying its people captive to Kir, and he killed Rezin.

[10]†When King Ahaz went to Damascus to meet Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, he saw the altar that was at Damascus. And King Ahaz sent to Uriah the priest a model of the altar, and its pattern, exact in all its details.
[11]And Uriah the priest built the altar; in accordance with all that King Ahaz had sent from Damascus, so Uriah the priest made it, before King Ahaz arrived from Damascus. [12]†And when the king came from Damascus, the king viewed the altar. Then the king drew near to the altar and went up on it [13]and burned his burnt offering and his grain offering and poured his drink offering and threw the blood of his peace offerings on the altar. [14]†And the bronze altar that was before the Lord he removed from the front of the house, from the place between his altar and the house of the Lord, and put it on the north side of his altar. 15 ‡ † And King Ahaz commanded Uriah the priest, saying, “On the great altar burn the morning burnt offering and the evening grain offering and the king’s burnt offering and his grain offering, with the burnt offering of all the people of the land, and their grain offering and their drink offering. And throw on it all the blood of the burnt offering and all the blood of the sacrifice, but the bronze altar shall be for me to inquire by.” 16 Uriah the priest did all this, as King Ahaz commanded.

17 † And King Ahaz cut off the frames of the stands and removed the basin from them, and he took down the sea[1] from off the bronze oxen that were under it and put it on a stone pedestal. 18 † And the covered way for the Sabbath that had been built inside the house and the outer entrance for the king he caused to go around the house of the Lord, because of the king of Assyria. 19 Now the rest of the acts of Ahaz that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? 20 † And Ahaz slept with his fathers and was buried with his fathers in the city of David, and Hezekiah his son reigned in his place.

17 1 ‡ ‡ In the twelfth year of Ahaz king of Judah, Hoshea the son of Elah began to reign in Samaria over Israel, and he reigned nine years. 2 † And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, yet not as the kings of Israel who were before him. 3 † Against him came up Shalmaneser king of Assyria. And Hoshea became his vassal and paid him tribute. 4 † But the king of Assyria found treachery in Hoshea, for he had sent messengers to So, king of Egypt, and offered no tribute to the king of Assyria, as he had done year by year. Therefore the king of Assyria shut him up and bound him in prison. 5 † Then the king of Assyria invaded all the land and came to Samaria, and for three years he besieged it.

The Fall of Israel

6 †† In the ninth year of Hoshea, the king of Assyria captured Samaria, and he carried the Israelites away to Assyria and placed them in Halah, and on the Habor, the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes.

Exile Because of Idolatry

7 ‡ † And this occurred because the people of Israel had sinned against the Lord their God, who had brought them up out of the land of Egypt from under the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and had feared other gods 8 † and walked in the customs of the nations whom the Lord drove out before the people of Israel, and in the customs that the kings of Israel had practiced.
9 † And the people of Israel did secretly against the Lord their God things that were not right. They built for themselves high places in all their towns, from watchtower to fortified city. 10 † They set up for themselves pillars and Asherim on every high hill and under every green tree, 11 and there they made offerings on all the high places, as the nations did whom the Lord carried away before them. And they did wicked things, provoking the Lord to anger, 12 and they served idols, of which the Lord had said to them, “You shall not do this.” 13 † Yet the Lord warned Israel and Judah by every prophet and every seer, saying, “Turn from your evil ways and keep my commandments and my statutes, in accordance with all the Law that I commanded your fathers, and that I sent to you by my servants the prophets.”

14 But they would not listen, but were stubborn, as their fathers had been, who did not believe in the Lord their God. 15 † They despised his statutes and his covenant that he made with their fathers and the warnings that he gave them. They went after false idols and became false, and they followed the nations that were around them, concerning whom the Lord had commanded them that they should not do like them. 16 † And they abandoned all the commandments of the Lord their God, and made for themselves metal images of two calves; and they made an Asherah and worshiped all the host of heaven and served Baal. 17 † And they burned their sons and their daughters as offerings[1] and used divination and omens and sold themselves to do evil in the sight of the Lord, provoking him to anger. 18 † Therefore the Lord was very angry with Israel and removed them out of his sight. None was left but the tribe of Judah only.

19 † Judah also did not keep the commandments of the Lord their God, but walked in the customs that Israel had introduced. 20 † And the Lord rejected

all the descendants of Israel and afflicted them and gave them into the hand of plunderers, until he had cast them out of his sight.

21 When he had torn Israel from the house of David, they made Jeroboam the son of Nebat king. And Jeroboam drove Israel from following the Lord and made them commit great sin. 22 † The people of Israel walked in all the sins that Jeroboam did. They did not depart from them, 23 † until the Lord removed Israel out of his sight, as he had spoken by all his servants the prophets. So Israel was exiled from their own land to Assyria until this day.

Assyria Resettles Samaria

24 ‡†And the king of Assyria brought people from Babylon, Cuthah, Avva, Hamath, and Sepharvaim, and placed them in the cities of Samaria instead of the people of Israel. And they took possession of Samaria and lived in its cities. 25 †And at the beginning of their dwelling there, they did not fear the Lord. Therefore the Lord sent lions among them, which killed some of them.
26 †So the king of Assyria was told, “The nations that you have carried away and placed in the cities of Samaria do not know the law of the god of the land. Therefore he has sent lions among them, and behold, they are killing them, because they do not know the law of the god of the land.” 27 ‡Then the king of Assyria commanded, “Send there one of the priests whom you carried away from there, and let him[1] go and dwell there and teach them
the law of the god of the land.” 28 So one of the priests whom they had carried away from Samaria came and lived in Bethel and taught them how they should fear the Lord.
29 †But every nation still made gods of its own and put them in the shrines of the high places that the Samaritans had made, every nation in the cities in which they lived. 30 ‡The men of Babylon made Succoth-benoth, the men of Cuth made Nergal, the men of Hamath made Ashima, 31 and the Avvites made Nibhaz and Tartak; and the Sepharvites burned their children in the fire to Adrammelech and Anammelech, the gods of Sepharvaim. 32 † They also feared the Lord and appointed from among themselves all sorts of people as priests of the high places, who sacrificed for them in the shrines of the high places. 33 ‡So they feared the Lord but also served their own gods, after the manner of the nations from among whom they had been carried away.
34 †To this day they do according to the former manner. They do not fear the Lord, and they do not follow the statutes or the rules or the law or the commandment that the Lord commanded the children of Jacob, whom he named Israel. 35 ‡†The Lord made a covenant with them and commanded them, “You shall not fear other gods or bow yourselves to them or serve them or sacrifice to them, 36 but you shall fear the Lord, who brought you out of the land of Egypt with great power and with an outstretched arm. You shall bow yourselves to him, and to him you shall sacrifice. [37]And the statutes and the rules and the law and the commandment that he wrote for you, you shall always be careful to do. You shall not fear other gods, [38]and you shall not forget the covenant that I have made with you. You shall not fear other gods, [39]but you shall fear the Lord your God, and he will deliver you out of the hand of all your enemies.” [40]However, they would not listen, but they did according to their former manner.

[41]† So these nations feared the Lord and also served their carved images. Their children did likewise, and their children’s children—as their fathers did, so they do to this day.

Hezekiah Reigns in Judah

18 [1]In the third year of Hoshea son of Elah, king of Israel, Hezekiah the son of Ahaz, king of Judah, began to reign. [2]He was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem.
His mother's name was Abi the daughter of Zechariah. [3]And he did what was right in the eyes of the LORD, according to all that David his father had done. [4]He removed the high places and broke the pillars and cut down the Asherah. And he broke in pieces the bronze serpent that Moses had made, for until those days the people of Israel had made offerings to it (it was called Nehushtan).[1] [5]He trusted in the LORD, the God of Israel, so that there was none like him among all the kings of Judah after him, nor among those who were before him. [6]For he held fast to the LORD. He did not depart from following him, but kept the commandments that the LORD commanded Moses. [7]And the LORD was with him; wherever he went out, he prospered.
He rebelled against the king of Assyria and would not serve him. [8]He struck down the Philistines as far as Gaza and its territory, from watchtower to fortified city.

[9]In the fourth year of King Hezekiah, which was the seventh year of Hoshea son of Elah, king of Israel, Shalmaneser king of Assyria came up against Samaria and besieged it, [10]and at the end of three years he took it. In the sixth year of Hezekiah, which was the ninth year of Hoshea king of Israel, Samaria was taken. [11]The king of Assyria carried the Israelites away to Assyria and put them in Halah, and on the Habor, the river of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes, [12]because they did not obey the voice of the LORD their God but transgressed his covenant, even all that Moses the servant of the LORD commanded. They neither listened nor obeyed.

Sennacherib Attacks Judah

13 ‡†In the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah, Sennacherib king of Assyria came up against all the fortified cities of Judah and took them. 14 †And Hezekiah king of Judah sent to the king of Assyria at Lachish, saying, “I have done wrong; withdraw from me. Whatever you impose on me I will bear.” And the king of Assyria required of Hezekiah king of Judah three hundred talents[1] of silver and thirty talents of gold. 15 ‡And Hezekiah gave him all the silver that was found in the house of the Lord and in the treasuries of the king’s house. 16At that time Hezekiah stripped the gold from the doors of the temple of the Lord and from the doorposts that Hezekiah king of Judah had overlaid and gave it to the king of Assyria.
17 †And the king of Assyria sent the Tartan, the Rab-saris, and the Rabshakeh with a great army from Lachish to King Hezekiah at Jerusalem.
And they went up and came to Jerusalem. When they arrived, they came and stood by the conduit of the upper pool, which is on the highway to the Washer’s Field. 18 †And when they called for the king, there came out to them Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, who was over the household, and Shebnah
the secretary, and Joah the son of Asaph, the recorder.

19 †And the Rabshakeh said to them, “Say to Hezekiah, ‘Thus says the great king, the king of Assyria: On what do you rest this trust of yours?
20 †Do you think that mere words are strategy and power for war? In whom do you now trust, that you have rebelled against me? 21 †Behold, you are trusting now in Egypt, that broken reed of a staff, which will pierce the hand of any man who leans on it. Such is Pharaoh king of Egypt to all who trust in him. 22 †But if you say to me, “We trust in the Lord our God,” is it not he whose high places and altars Hezekiah has removed, saying to Judah and to Jerusalem, “You shall worship before this altar in Jerusalem”?
23 †Come now, make a wager with my master the king of Assyria: I will give you two thousand horses, if you are able on your part to set riders on them.
24 †How then can you repulse a single captain among the least of my master’s servants, when you trust in Egypt for chariots and for horsemen?
25 †Moreover, is it without the Lord that I have come up against this place to destroy it? The Lord said to me, Go up against this land, and destroy it.’”

[26] † Then Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, and Shebnah, and Joah, said to the Rabshakeh, “Please speak to your servants in Aramaic, for we understand it. Do not speak to us in the language of Judah within the hearing of the people who are on the wall.” [27] † But the Rabshakeh said to them, “Has my master sent me to speak these words to your master and to you, and not to the men sitting on the wall, who are doomed with you to eat their own dung and to drink their own urine?”

[28] † Then the Rabshakeh stood and called out in a loud voice in the language of Judah: “Hear the word of the great king, the king of Assyria! [29] Thus says the king: ‘Do not let Hezekiah deceive you, for he will not be able to deliver you out of my[2] hand. [30] † Do not let Hezekiah make you trust in the Lord by saying, The Lord will surely deliver us, and this city will not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria.’ [31] † Do not listen to Hezekiah, for thus says the king of Assyria: ‘Make your peace with me[1] and come out to me. Then each one of you will eat of his own vine, and each one of his own fig tree, and each one of you will drink the water of his own cistern, [32] † until I come and take you away to a land like your own land, a land of grain and wine, a land of bread and vineyards, a land of olive trees and honey, that you may live, and not die. And do not listen to Hezekiah when he misleads you by saying, The Lord will deliver us. [33] Has any of the gods of the nations ever delivered his land out of the hand of the king of Assyria? [34] † Where are the gods of Hamath and Arpad? Where are the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Ivvah? Have they delivered Samaria out of my hand? [35] Who among all the gods of the lands have delivered their lands out of my hand, that the Lord should deliver Jerusalem out of my hand?’”

[36] † But the people were silent and answered him not a word, for the king’s command was, “Do not answer him.” [37] † Then Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, who was over the household, and Shebna the secretary, and Joah the son of Asaph, the recorder, came to Hezekiah with their clothes torn and told him the words of the Rabshakeh.

Isaiah Reassures Hezekiah

19 [1]†† As soon as King Hezekiah heard it, he tore his clothes and covered himself with sackcloth and went into the house of the Lord. [2]† And he sent Eliakim, who was over the household, and Shebna the secretary, and the senior priests, covered with sackcloth, to the prophet Isaiah the son of Amoz. [3]† They said to him, "Thus says Hezekiah, This day is a day of distress, of rebuke, and of disgrace; children have come to the point of birth, and there is no strength to bring them forth. [4]† It may be that the Lord your God heard all the words of the Rabshakeh, whom his master the king of Assyria has sent to mock the living God, and will rebuke the words that the Lord your God has heard; therefore lift up your prayer for the remnant that is left." [5]† When the servants of King Hezekiah came to Isaiah, [6]† Isaiah said to them, "Say to your master, 'Thus says the Lord: Do not be afraid because of the words that you have heard, with which the servants of the king of Assyria have reviled me. [7]† Behold, I will put a spirit in him, so that he shall hear a rumor and return to his own land, and I will make him fall by the sword in his own land.'"

Sennacherib Defies the Lord

8 ‡ † The Rabshakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria fighting against Libnah, for he heard that the king had left Lachish. 9 †Now the king heard concerning Tirhakah king of Cush, “Behold, he has set out to fight against you.” So he sent messengers again to Hezekiah, saying, 10 † “Thus shall you speak to Hezekiah king of Judah: ‘Do not let your God in whom you trust deceive you by promising that Jerusalem will not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria. 11 †Behold, you have heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all lands, devoting them to destruction. And shall you be delivered? 12 †Have the gods of the nations delivered them, the nations that my fathers destroyed, Gozan, Haran, Rezeph, and the people of Eden who were in Telassar? 13 Where is the king of Hamath, the king of Arpad, the king of the city of Sepharvaim, the king of Hena, or the king of Ivvah?’”

Hezekiah's Prayer

14 ‡‡† Hezekiah received the letter from the hand of the messengers and read it; and Hezekiah went up to the house of the Lord and spread it before the Lord. 15 † And Hezekiah prayed before the Lord and said: "O Lord, the God of Israel, enthroned above the cherubim, you are the God, you alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth; you have made heaven and earth. 16 † Incline your ear, O Lord, and hear; open your eyes, O Lord, and see; and hear the words of Sennacherib, which he has sent to mock the living God. 17 Truly, O Lord, the kings of Assyria have laid waste the nations and their lands 18 † and have cast their gods into the fire, for they were not gods, but the work of men's hands, wood and stone. Therefore they were destroyed. 19 † So now, O Lord our God, save us, please, from his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that you, O Lord, are God alone."

Isaiah Prophesies Sennacherib's Fall

20 Then Isaiah the son of Amoz sent to Hezekiah, saying, "Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel: Your prayer to me about Sennacherib king of Assyria I have heard. 21 This is the word that the Lord has spoken concerning him:

"She despises you, she scorns you—
the virgin daughter of Zion;
she wags her head behind you—
the daughter of Jerusalem.

22 "Whom have you mocked and reviled?
Against whom have you raised your voice
and lifted your eyes to the heights?
Against the Holy One of Israel!
23 By your messengers you have mocked the Lord,
and you have said, 'With my many chariots
I have gone up the heights of the mountains,
to the far recesses of Lebanon;
I felled its tallest cedars,
its choicest cypresses;
I entered its farthest lodging place,
its most fruitful forest.
24 I dug wells
and drank foreign waters,
and I dried up with the sole of my foot
all the streams of Egypt.'

25 "Have you not heard that I determined it long ago?
I planned from days of old
what now I bring to pass,

that you should turn fortified cities
into heaps of ruins, 26 while their inhabitants, shorn of strength,
are dismayed and confounded,
and have become like plants of the field
and like tender grass,
like grass on the housetops,
blighted before it is grown.

27† "But I know your sitting down and your going out and coming in,
and your raging against me.
28† Because you have raged against me
and your complacency has come into my ears,
I will put my hook in your nose
and my bit in your mouth,
and I will turn you back on the way
by which you came.

29†"And this shall be the sign for you: this year eat what grows of itself, and in the second year what springs of the same. Then in the third year sow and reap and plant vineyards, and eat their fruit. 30† And the surviving remnant of the house of Judah shall again take root downward and bear fruit upward. 31†For out of Jerusalem shall go a remnant, and out of Mount Zion a band of survivors. The zeal of the LORD will do this.

32"Therefore thus says the LORD concerning the king of Assyria: He shall not come into this city or shoot an arrow there, or come before it with a shield or cast up a siege mound against it. 33By the way that he came, by the same he shall return, and he shall not come into this city, declares the LORD. 34†For I will defend this city to save it, for my own sake and for the sake of my servant David."

35†And that night the angel of the LORD went out and struck down 185,000 in the camp of the Assyrians. And when people arose early in the morning, behold, these were all dead bodies. 36† Then Sennacherib king of Assyria departed and went home and lived at Nineveh. 37†And as he was worshiping in the house of Nisroch his god, Adrammelech and Sharezer, his sons, struck him down with the sword and escaped into the land of Ararat. And Esarhaddon his son reigned in his place.

Hezekiah's Illness and Recovery

20 [1]In those days Hezekiah became sick and was at the point of death. And Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz came to him and said to him, "Thus says the Lord, 'Set your house in order, for you shall die; you shall not recover.'" [2]Then Hezekiah turned his face to the wall and prayed to the Lord, saying, [3]"Now, O Lord, please remember how I have walked before you in faithfulness and with a whole heart, and have done what is good in your sight." And Hezekiah wept bitterly. [4]And before Isaiah had gone out of the middle court, the word of the Lord came to him: [5]"Turn back, and say to Hezekiah the leader of my people, Thus says the Lord, the God of David your father: I have heard your prayer; I have seen your tears. Behold, I will heal you. On the third day you shall go up to the house of the Lord, [6]and I will add fifteen years to your life. I will deliver you and this city out of the hand of the king of Assyria, and I will defend this city for my own sake and for my servant David's sake." [7]And Isaiah said, "Bring a cake of figs. And let them take and lay it on the boil, that he may recover."

[8]And Hezekiah said to Isaiah, "What shall be the sign that the Lord will heal me, and that I shall go up to the house of the Lord on the third day?" [9]And Isaiah said, "This shall be the sign to you from the Lord, that the Lord will do the thing that he has promised: shall the shadow go forward ten steps, or go back ten steps?" [10]And Hezekiah answered, "It is an easy thing for the shadow to lengthen ten steps. Rather let the shadow go back ten steps." [11]And Isaiah the prophet called to the Lord, and he brought the shadow back ten steps, by which it had gone down on the steps of Ahaz.

Hezekiah and the Babylonian Envoys

[12]At that time Merodach-baladan the son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent envoys with letters and a present to Hezekiah, for he heard that Hezekiah had been sick. [13]And Hezekiah welcomed them, and he showed them all his treasure house, the silver, the gold, the spices, the precious oil, his armory, all that was found in his storehouses. There was nothing in his house or in all his realm that Hezekiah did not show them. [14]Then Isaiah the prophet came to King Hezekiah, and said to him, “What did these men say?
And from where did they come to you?” And Hezekiah said, “They have come from a far country, from Babylon.” [15]He said, “What have they seen in your house?” And Hezekiah answered, “They have seen all that is in my house; there is nothing in my storehouses that I did not show them.”

[16]Then Isaiah said to Hezekiah, “Hear the word of the Lord: [17]Behold, the days are coming, when all that is in your house, and that which your fathers have stored up till this day, shall be carried to Babylon. Nothing shall be left, says the Lord. [18]And some of your own sons, who shall be born to you, shall be taken away, and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.” [19]Then said Hezekiah to Isaiah, “The word of the Lord that you have spoken is good.” For he thought, “Why not, if there will be peace and security in my days?”

[20]The rest of the deeds of Hezekiah and all his might and how he made the pool and the conduit and brought water into the city, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? [21]And Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and Manasseh his son reigned in his place.

Manasseh Reigns in Judah

21 [1]Manasseh was twelve years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty-five years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hephzibah.
[2]And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, according to the despicable practices of the nations whom the Lord drove out before the people of Israel. [3]For he rebuilt the high places that Hezekiah his father had destroyed, and he erected altars for Baal and made an Asherah, as Ahab king of Israel had done, and worshiped all the host of heaven and served them. [4]And he built altars in the house of the Lord, of which the Lord had said, "In Jerusalem will I put my name." [5]And he built altars for all the host of heaven in the two courts of the house of the Lord. [6]And he burned his son as an offering[1] and used fortune-telling and omens and dealt with mediums and with necromancers. He did much evil in the sight of the Lord, provoking him to anger. [7]And the carved image of Asherah that he had made he set in the house of which the Lord said to David and to Solomon his son, "In this house, and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, I will put my name forever. [8]And I will not cause the feet of Israel to wander anymore out of the land that I gave to their fathers, if only they will be careful to do according to all that I have commanded them, and according to all the Law that my servant Moses commanded them." [9]But they did not listen, and Manasseh led them astray to do more evil than the nations had done whom the Lord destroyed before the people of Israel.

Manasseh’s Idolatry Denounced

[10]And the Lord said by his servants the prophets, [11]“Because Manasseh king of Judah has committed these abominations and has done things more evil than all that the Amorites did, who were before him, and has made Judah also to sin with his idols, [12]therefore thus says the Lord, the God of Israel: Behold, I am bringing upon Jerusalem and Judah such disaster[1] that the ears of everyone who hears of it will tingle. [13]And I will stretch over Jerusalem the measuring line of Samaria, and the plumb line of the house of Ahab, and I will wipe Jerusalem as one wipes a dish, wiping it and turning it upside down. [14]And I will forsake the remnant of my heritage and give them into the hand of their enemies, and they shall become a prey and a spoil to all their enemies, [15]because they have done what is evil in my sight and have provoked me to anger, since the day their fathers came out of Egypt, even to this day.”

[16]Moreover, Manasseh shed very much innocent blood, till he had filled Jerusalem from one end to another, besides the sin that he made Judah to sin so that they did what was evil in the sight of the Lord.

[17]Now the rest of the acts of Manasseh and all that he did, and the sin that he committed, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? [18]And Manasseh slept with his fathers and was buried in the garden of his house, in the garden of Uzza, and Amon his son reigned in his place.

Amon Reigns in Judah

[19]Amon was twenty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned two years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Meshullemeth the daughter of Haruz of Jotbah. [20]And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, as Manasseh his father had done. [21]He walked in all the way in which his father walked and served the idols that his father served and worshiped them. [22]He abandoned the Lord, the God of his fathers, and did not walk in the way of the Lord. [23]And the servants of Amon conspired against him and put the king to death in his house. [24]But the people of the land struck down all those who had conspired against King Amon, and the people of the land made Josiah his son king in his place. [25]Now the rest of the acts of Amon that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? [26]And he was buried in his tomb in the garden of Uzza, and Josiah his son reigned in his place.

Josiah Reigns in Judah

22 [1]Josiah was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned thirty-one years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jedidah the daughter of Adaiah of Bozkath. [2]And he did what was right in the eyes of the LORD and walked in all the way of David his father, and he did not turn aside to the right or to the left.

Josiah Repairs the Temple

3In the eighteenth year of King Josiah, the king sent Shaphan the son of Azaliah, son of Meshullam, the secretary, to the house of the Lord, saying, 4"Go up to Hilkiah the high priest, that he may count the money that has been brought into the house of the Lord, which the keepers of the threshold have collected from the people. 5And let it be given into the hand of the workmen who have the oversight of the house of the Lord, and let them give it to the workmen who are at the house of the Lord, repairing the house 6(that is, to the carpenters, and to the builders, and to the masons), and let them use it for buying timber and quarried stone to repair the house. 7But no accounting shall be asked from them for the money that is delivered into their hand, for they deal honestly."

Hilkiah Finds the Book of the Law

[8]And Hilkiah the high priest said to Shaphan the secretary, “I have found the Book of the Law in the house of the Lord.” And Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan, and he read it. [9]And Shaphan the secretary came to the king, and reported to the king, “Your servants have emptied out the money that was found in the house and have delivered it into the hand of the workmen who have the oversight of the house of the Lord.” [10]Then Shaphan the secretary told the king, “Hilkiah the priest has given me a book.” And Shaphan read it before the king.

[11]When the king heard the words of the Book of the Law, he tore his clothes. [12]And the king commanded Hilkiah the priest, and Ahikam the son of Shaphan, and Achbor the son of Micaiah, and Shaphan the secretary, and Asaiah the king’s servant, saying, [13]“Go, inquire of the Lord for me, and for the people, and for all Judah, concerning the words of this book that has been found. For great is the wrath of the Lord that is kindled against us, because our fathers have not obeyed the words of this book, to do according to all that is written concerning us.”

[14]So Hilkiah the priest, and Ahikam, and Achbor, and Shaphan, and Asaiah went to Huldah the prophetess, the wife of Shallum the son of Tikvah, son of Harhas, keeper of the wardrobe (now she lived in Jerusalem in the Second Quarter), and they talked with her. [15]And she said to them, “Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel: ‘Tell the man who sent you to me, [16]Thus says the Lord, Behold, I will bring disaster upon this place and upon its inhabitants, all the words of the book that the king of Judah has read. [17]Because they have forsaken me and have made offerings to other gods, that they might provoke me to anger with all the work of their hands, therefore my wrath will be kindled against this place, and it will not be quenched. [18]But to the king of Judah, who sent you to inquire of the Lord, thus shall you say to him, Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel: Regarding the words that you have heard, [19]because your heart was penitent, and you humbled yourself before the Lord, when you heard how I spoke against this place and against its inhabitants, that they should become a desolation and a curse, and you have torn your clothes and wept before me, I also have heard you, declares the LORD. [20]Therefore, behold, I will gather you to your fathers, and you shall be gathered to your grave in peace, and your eyes shall not see all the disaster that I will bring upon this place.’” And they brought back word to the king.

Josiah's Reforms

23 [1]Then the king sent, and all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem were gathered to him. [2]And the king went up to the house of the Lord, and with him all the men of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem and the priests and the prophets, all the people, both small and great. And he read in their hearing all the words of the Book of the Covenant that had been found in the house of the Lord. [3]And the king stood by the pillar and made a covenant before the Lord, to walk after the Lord and to keep his commandments and his testimonies and his statutes with all his heart and all his soul, to perform the words of this covenant that were written in this book. And all the people joined in the covenant.

[4]And the king commanded Hilkiah the high priest and the priests of the second order and the keepers of the threshold to bring out of the temple of the Lord all the vessels made for Baal, for Asherah, and for all the host of heaven. He burned them outside Jerusalem in the fields of the Kidron and carried their ashes to Bethel. [5]And he deposed the priests whom the kings of Judah had ordained to make offerings in the high places at the cities of Judah and around Jerusalem; those also who burned incense to Baal, to the sun and the moon and the constellations and all the host of the heavens. [6]And he brought out the Asherah from the house of the Lord, outside Jerusalem, to the brook Kidron, and burned it at the brook Kidron and beat it to dust and cast the dust of it upon the graves of the common people. [7]And he broke down the houses of the male cult prostitutes who were in the house of the Lord, where the women wove hangings for the Asherah. [8]And he brought all the priests out of the cities of Judah, and defiled the high places where the priests had made offerings, from Geba to Beersheba. And he broke down the high places of the gates that were at the entrance of the gate of Joshua the governor of the city, which were on one's left at the gate of the city. [9]However, the priests of the high places did not come up to the altar of the Lord in Jerusalem, but they ate unleavened bread among their brothers. [10]And he defiled Topheth, which is in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, that no one might burn his son or his daughter as an offering to Molech.[1] [11]And he removed the horses that the kings of Judah had dedicated to the sun, at the entrance to the house of the Lord, by the chamber of Nathan-melech the chamberlain, which was in the precincts.[2] And he burned the chariots of the sun with fire. 12And the altars on the roof of the upper chamber of Ahaz, which the kings of Judah had made, and the altars that Manasseh had made in the two courts of the house of the Lord, he pulled down and broke in pieces[3] and cast the dust of them into the brook Kidron. 13And the king defiled the high places that were east of Jerusalem, to the south of the mount of corruption, which Solomon the king of Israel had built for Ashtoreth the abomination of the Sidonians, and for Chemosh the abomination of Moab, and for Milcom the abomination of the Ammonites. 14And he broke in pieces the pillars and cut down the Asherim and filled their places with the bones of men.

15Moreover, the altar at Bethel, the high place erected by Jeroboam the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin, that altar with the high place he pulled down and burned,[4] reducing it to dust. He also burned the Asherah. 16And as Josiah turned, he saw the tombs there on the mount. And he sent and took the bones out of the tombs and burned them on the altar and defiled it, according to the word of the Lord that the man of God proclaimed, who had predicted these things. 17Then he said, “What is that monument that I see?” And the men of the city told him, “It is the tomb of the man of God who came from Judah and predicted[5] these things that you have done against the altar at Bethel.” 18And he said, “Let him be; let no man move his bones.” So they let his bones alone, with the bones of the prophet who came out of Samaria. 19And Josiah removed all the shrines also of the high places that were in the cities of Samaria, which kings of Israel had made, provoking the Lord to anger. He did to them according to all that he had done at Bethel. 20And he sacrificed all the priests of the high places who were there, on the altars, and burned human bones on them. Then he returned to Jerusalem.

Josiah Restores the Passover

[21]And the king commanded all the people, “Keep the Passover to the Lord your God, as it is written in this Book of the Covenant.” [22]For no such Passover had been kept since the days of the judges who judged Israel, or during all the days of the kings of Israel or of the kings of Judah. [23]But in the eighteenth year of King Josiah this Passover was kept to the Lord in Jerusalem.

[24]Moreover, Josiah put away the mediums and the necromancers and the household gods and the idols and all the abominations that were seen in the land of Judah and in Jerusalem, that he might establish the words of the law that were written in the book that Hilkiah the priest found in the house of the Lord. [25]Before him there was no king like him, who turned to the Lord with all his heart and with all his soul and with all his might, according to all the Law of Moses, nor did any like him arise after him.

[26]Still the Lord did not turn from the burning of his great wrath, by which his anger was kindled against Judah, because of all the provocations with which Manasseh had provoked him. [27]And the Lord said, “I will remove Judah also out of my sight, as I have removed Israel, and I will cast off this city that I have chosen, Jerusalem, and the house of which I said, My name shall be there.”

Josiah’s Death in Battle

[28]Now the rest of the acts of Josiah and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? [29]In his days Pharaoh Neco king of Egypt went up to the king of Assyria to the river Euphrates. King Josiah went to meet him, and Pharaoh Neco killed him at Megiddo, as soon as he saw him. [30]And his servants carried him dead in a chariot from Megiddo and brought him to Jerusalem and buried him in his own tomb. And the people of the land took Jehoahaz the son of Josiah, and anointed him, and made him king in his father’s place.

Jehoahaz's Reign and Captivity

[31]Jehoahaz was twenty-three years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. [32]And he did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his fathers had done. [33]And Pharaoh Neco put him in bonds at Riblah in the land of Hamath, that he might not reign in Jerusalem, and laid on the land a tribute of a hundred talents[1] of silver and a talent of gold. [34]And Pharaoh Neco made Eliakim the son of Josiah king in the place of Josiah his father, and changed his name to Jehoiakim. But he took Jehoahaz away, and he came to Egypt and died there. [35]And Jehoiakim gave the silver and the gold to Pharaoh, but he taxed the land to give the money according to the command of Pharaoh. He exacted the silver and the gold of the people of the land, from everyone according to his assessment, to give it to Pharaoh Neco.

Jehoiakim Reigns in Judah

[36]Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Zebidah the daughter of Pedaiah of Rumah. [37]And he did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his fathers had done.

24 [1]In his days, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up, and Jehoiakim became his servant three years. Then he turned and rebelled against him. [2]And the LORD sent against him bands of the Chaldeans and bands of the Syrians and bands of the Moabites and bands of the Ammonites, and sent them against Judah to destroy it, according to the word of the LORD that he spoke by his servants the prophets. [3]Surely this came upon Judah at the command of the LORD, to remove them out of his sight, for the sins of Manasseh, according to all that he had done, [4]and also for the innocent blood that he had shed. For he filled Jerusalem with innocent blood, and the LORD would not pardon. [5]Now the rest of the deeds of Jehoiakim and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? [6]So Jehoiakim slept with his fathers, and Jehoiachin his son reigned in his place. [7]And the king of Egypt did not come again out of his land, for the king of Babylon had taken all that belonged to the king of Egypt from the Brook of Egypt to the river Euphrates.

Jehoiachin Reigns in Judah

[8]Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he became king, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Nehushta the daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem. [9]And he did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that his father had done.

Jerusalem Captured

[10]At that time the servants of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up to Jerusalem, and the city was besieged. [11]And Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came to the city while his servants were besieging it, [12]and Jehoiachin the king of Judah gave himself up to the king of Babylon, himself and his mother and his servants and his officials and his palace officials. The king of Babylon took him prisoner in the eighth year of his reign [13]and carried off all the treasures of the house of the Lord and the treasures of the king's house, and cut in pieces all the vessels of gold in the temple of the Lord, which Solomon king of Israel had made, as the Lord had foretold. [14]He carried away all Jerusalem and all the officials and all the mighty men of valor, 10,000 captives, and all the craftsmen and the smiths. None remained, except the poorest people of the land. [15]And he carried away Jehoiachin to Babylon. The king's mother, the king's wives, his officials, and the chief men of the land he took into captivity from Jerusalem to Babylon. [16]And the king of Babylon brought captive to Babylon all the men of valor, 7,000, and the craftsmen and the metal workers, 1,000, all of them strong and fit for war. [17]And the king of Babylon made Mattaniah, Jehoiachin's uncle, king in his place, and changed his name to Zedekiah.

Zedekiah Reigns in Judah

[18]Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. [19]And he did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to all that Jehoiakim had done. [20]For because of the anger of the LORD it came to the point in Jerusalem and Judah that he cast them out from his presence.

And Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon.

Fall and Captivity of Judah

25 [1]And in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came with all his army against Jerusalem and laid siege to it. And they built siegeworks all around it. [2]So the city was besieged till the eleventh year of King Zedekiah. [3]On the ninth day of the fourth month the famine was so severe in the city that there was no food for the people of the land. [4]Then a breach was made in the city, and all the men of war fled by night by the way of the gate between the two walls, by the king's garden, though the Chaldeans were around the city. And they went in the direction of the Arabah. [5]But the army of the Chaldeans pursued the king and overtook him in the plains of Jericho, and all his army was scattered from him. [6]Then they captured the king and brought him up to the king of Babylon at Riblah, and they passed sentence on him. [7]They slaughtered the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes, and put out the eyes of Zedekiah and bound him in chains and took him to Babylon.

[8]In the fifth month, on the seventh day of the month—that was the nineteenth year of King Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon—Nebuzaradan, the captain of the bodyguard, a servant of the king of Babylon, came to Jerusalem. [9]And he burned the house of the Lord and the king's house and all the houses of Jerusalem; every great house he burned down. [10]And all the army of the Chaldeans, who were with the captain of the guard, broke down the walls around Jerusalem. [11]And the rest of the people who were left in the city and the deserters who had deserted to the king of Babylon, together with the rest of the multitude, Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard carried into exile. [12]But the captain of the guard left some of the poorest of the land to be vinedressers and plowmen.

[13]And the pillars of bronze that were in the house of the Lord, and the stands and the bronze sea that were in the house of the Lord, the Chaldeans broke in pieces and carried the bronze to Babylon. [14]And they took away the pots and the shovels and the snuffers and the dishes for incense and all the vessels of bronze used in the temple service, [15]the fire pans also and the bowls. What was of gold the captain of the guard took away as gold, and what was of silver, as silver. [16]As for the two pillars, the one sea, and the stands that Solomon had made for the house of the Lord, the bronze of all these vessels was beyond weight. [17]The height of the one pillar was eighteen cubits,[1] and on it was a capital of bronze. The height of the capital was three cubits. A latticework and pomegranates, all of bronze, were all around the capital. And the second pillar had the same, with the latticework.

[18]And the captain of the guard took Seraiah the chief priest and Zephaniah the second priest and the three keepers of the threshold, [19]and from the city he took an officer who had been in command of the men of war, and five men of the king's council who were found in the city, and the secretary of the commander of the army who mustered the people of the land, and sixty men of the people of the land who were found in the city. [20]And Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard took them and brought them to the king of Babylon at Riblah. [21]And the king of Babylon struck them down and put them to death at Riblah in the land of Hamath. So Judah was taken into exile out of its land.

Gedaliah Made Governor of Judah

[22]And over the people who remained in the land of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had left, he appointed Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, governor. [23]Now when all the captains and their men heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Gedaliah governor, they came with their men to Gedaliah at Mizpah, namely, Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and Johanan the son of Kareah, and Seraiah the son of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Jaazaniah the son of the Maacathite. [24]And Gedaliah swore to them and their men, saying, “Do not be afraid because of the Chaldean officials. Live in the land and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall be well with you.” [25]But in the seventh month, Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, son of Elishama, of the royal family, came with ten men and struck down Gedaliah and put him to death along with the Jews and the Chaldeans who were with him at Mizpah. [26]Then all the people, both small and great, and the captains of the forces arose and went to Egypt, for they were afraid of the Chaldeans.

Jehoiachin Released from Prison

27 And in the thirty-seventh year of the exile of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month, Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the year that he began to reign, graciously freed[1] Jehoiachin king of Judah from prison. 28 And he spoke kindly to him and gave him a seat above the seats of the kings who were with him in Babylon. 29 So Jehoiachin put off his prison garments. And every day of his life he dined regularly at the king's table, 30 and for his allowance, a regular allowance was given him by the king, according to his daily needs, as long as he lived.

2 Kings

In early Hebrew tradition, 1 and 2 Kings were not separate books but were one long document, as the flow of the story itself shows (see outline, p 528). For an introduction to the entire document, see pp 526–28.

Study Notes

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 1:1 Ahab. See note, 1Ki 16:30. Moab rebelled. Explains why Ahaziah's brother and successor, Jehoram, later undertook an expedition against Moab with the cooperation of Jehoshaphat of Judah (3:4–27). Moab. See note, Jgs 3:12.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 1:2 Ahaziah. Cf 1Ki 22:51–53. lattice. Windows were covered by latticework rather than glass. upper chamber. Typically, the living and sleeping quarters. inquire. See note, 1Co 10:20. Baal-zebub. Originally Baal-zebul (NT Beelzebul), "Baal is prince"; here, the writer expresses disdain for this Canaanite idol by calling it Baal-zebub, "Lord of a fly." Ekron. A Philistine city c 40 mi SW of Samaria. It boasted of a baal with unusual powers of healing. Archaeological finds suggest a switch from devotion to Dagon (1Sm 5:1–5; see note, Jgs 16:23) to Baal, whose name is then often incorporated in Philistine personal names. See color map 1.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 1:3 angel of the LORD. See p 1227. Tishbite. See note, 1Ki 17:1.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 1:4 not come down. From the upper room (see note, v 2).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 1:8 garment of hair. Hbr "baal [or possessor] of hair" is used only here. Either his hair (including his beard) was long or he wore a hairy garment, which became characteristic of prophets. Tishbite. See note, 1Ki 17:1.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 1:9 fifty men. Typical platoon. Come down. Elijah was well known. The men were apparently afraid to take him but may have mocked him (cf v 4).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 1:10 If I am a man of God. Immediate, mocking reply, likely answering the captain in the manner he had addressed Elijah. fire came. God would not have His servant mocked. A similar situation arose in Jesus' life. Because the purpose of Jesus' first coming was "to seek and to save the lost" (Lk 19:10), He did not perform a miracle of judgment such as Elijah's (Lk 9:51–55). However, cf Mt 25:41, on Jesus' judgment.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 1:11 quickly! Further insult. See notes, vv 9, 10.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 1:12 fire … consume. There were other mass punishments in the OT; see notes, Nu 31:2; Dt 2:34. fifty. See note, v 9.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 1:13 on his knees. See p 1276. please. Complete change of address (cf vv 9, 11). servants of yours. Captain realizes his place and weakness of the king.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 1:15 the angel of the LORD. See p 1227. not be afraid. Elijah could now speak plainly and forcefully with the king. See note, 1Ki 19:3.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 1:16 Baal-zebub. See note, v 2. no God in Israel. King's actions denied God His rightful place in Israel. Elijah never conceded the actual existence of false gods, even though he mockingly encouraged the prophets of Baal to intensify their cry to the unresponsive idol (cf 1Ki 18:27).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 1:17 Jehoram became king. Son of Ahab, brother of Ahaziah; he only reigned about two years. See note, 8:16; see p 529.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON Ch 1 King Ahaziah and his troops show disdain for the Lord and His servant Elijah and are condemned with fire and death. Today, the Lord would have us treat His servants with proper respect, pray for them, and hear His Word from them. In this sinful world, God's Word is rare and precious, preserving our lives and delivering us from all condemnation. In Christ, we need not fear our enemies or His wrath. • Mighty Lord, strengthen us to speak Your Word without fear and to treasure the souls of others by sharing Your precious Word with them. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON Ch 2 After briefly noting Ahaziah's death (1:17–18) and before taking up the account of his successor's reign (ch 3), the author records the end of Elijah's ministry (2:1–12a) and the first deeds of his disciple Elisha (vv 12b–25).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:1 whirlwind. True tornados are rare in Israel. Term describes a strong wind. Gilgal. Not the Gilgal northeast of Jericho. See note, v 2.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:2 stay. Throughout ch 2, Elijah looks for a way to separate from his disciple. Bethel. On a final journey, perhaps to bid farewell to his friends and associates, Elijah went 7 mi S from a place called Gilgal to Bethel and from there c 12 mi SE to Jericho (v 4) and then east to the Jordan (v 7). As the LORD lives. Oath formula; see note, Nu 30:2. will not leave. Apparently sensing what was to happen, Elisha insisted on accompanying Elijah, even though the latter discouraged him.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:3 sons of the prophets. See p 555. I know. The Lord had revealed the matter.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:4 See note, v 2.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:5 sons of the prophets. See p 555. I know. See note, v 3.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:6 See note, v 2.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:7 Fifty. Ironically, a respectful platoon of prophets gathered to witness a miracle the Lord would work through Elijah. Contrast with 1:9–10. sons of the prophets. See p 555.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:8 cloak and rolled. When this rectangular cloak was rolled, it would take the shape of a rod. struck the water. Moses had stretched out his rod to open a path through the Red Sea.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:9 double portion. Firstborn son typically received twice the inheritance of other children (see note, Gn 25:31; cf Dt 21:17). Elisha requested a share of his father's spirit double that of the other "sons of the prophets" (see p 555).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:10 hard thing. Inheritance issues often bring hardship, even division, within families. see me. Elijah asked Elisha to stick close, as was proper for the master's chief disciple, thus distinguishing himself from the other sons.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:11 went on and talked. Common method of teaching and discipleship, since training did not take place in a classroom setting. See note, Pr 1:8. chariots … horses of fire. Either a vision or angels. On angels appearing as animals, see note, Ezk 10:1. Elisha later saw the mountains around hard-pressed Samaria "full of horses and chariots of fire" (6:17), a visible demonstration of God's protection and power. went up … into heaven. Where God's saints will reside bodily hereafter in God's presence. See note, 1Th 4:17. The ascension of Elijah was to teach Elisha; it happened because of Elijah's special relationship with the Lord. See note, Gn 5:22. whirlwind. See note, v 1.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:12 My father, my father! See p 555. Repetition expresses longing. The chariots of Israel and its horsemen! A prophet like Elijah, who kept the people in communion with the omnipotent Ruler of heaven and earth, deserved this title. A later Israelite king bestowed the same title on Elisha (13:14). Here, Elisha confessed that Israel's true strength and glory were not in war horses and military prowess, as Israel's kings believed, but in the Word and the faith of her prophets. no more. Some expected Elijah to return in the flesh (see note, Mal 4:5). tore them. See note, Jb 1:20.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:13 the cloak. After tearing his own clothes, Elisha dramatically demonstrated that he had inherited the spirit of Elijah: with his master's mantle, he performed the same miracle of parting the Jordan (vv 12b–14).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:14 Where is the LORD, the God of Elijah? Not expressing doubt, but confronting the question that would be on the hearts of the faithful, because the Lord's chief prophet was now gone (see note, v 9). God settled the matter with a miracle. parted. See note, v 8.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:1–14 When the Lord takes Elijah to heaven, He also bestows Elijah's office and authority on Elisha, his chief disciple. The burning desire to serve God and His people through faithful leadership is proper (cf 1Tm 3:1). If you set your heart on such noble service, walk and talk with the Lord's servants to learn from them His Word and wisdom, by which the Lord will prepare you for your calling. The heavenly Father will send His Spirit to embolden and uplift you, through Jesus, His Son. • Build me up by Your Word, O Lord, and bear me up by Your grace, that I may serve You honorably and rush to Your side when my service is fulfilled. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:15 sons of the prophets. See p 555. opposite them. On the far bank of the Jordan. The spirit of Elijah. Elisha had received the prophet's office of service. See note, v 14. bowed. See p 1276.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:16 It may be … valley. The Lord had hidden Elijah previously (see note, 1Ki 17:3–7). The sons of the prophets expressed some doubts about the events they witnessed and wanted to be sure of Elisha's succession. You shall not send. Elisha had no doubt about what had taken place.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:17 ashamed. Disappointed, Elisha bears with the weakness of their faith because they needed to confirm the succession and the miracle.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:19 city. Jericho. water is bad. Problem with the water is unknown. See note, v 21.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:21 spring. Ain Sultan spring near Jericho. salt. Symbolic of cleansing, freshness. healed. Purified or made healthy. Cf Ex 15:25. death nor miscarriage. Could describe the water's effects on the land or its inhabitants.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:23 small boys. Same modifier is used of David (1Sm 17:14, 33). See also note, 1Sm 20:35. Go up. Boys demanded that

Elisha imitate Elijah and go up into heaven in order to prove that he was not an impostor. baldhead! Jeering at baldheaded Elisha's claim to be the successor of bushy-haired Elijah (see note, 1:8). They displayed the disdainful attitude present among the people of Israel.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:24 cursed. See p 6. she-bears. Female Syrian brown bears. See note, Hos 13:8. woods. See note, Jgs 9:48. tore. Mauled. forty-two. Boys were apparently gathered for some training or service. Mount Carmel … Samaria. See map, p 581.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 2:15–25 Through three miracles, the Lord removes all doubts about Elisha as Elijah's successor. As the Lord calls you to service, He will prepare and support you. Though miracles may not follow you (as with Elisha), you have God's miraculous Word in the pages of Holy Scripture by which the Lord will bless you with the comfort of salvation and equip you for every good work. • O Lord, as You bore insult on the cross and brought forth life for me, let me bear all insults and burdens of my calling. I entrust my defense to Your almighty power and my life to Your surpassing mercy. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON Ch 3 Jehoram's succession to the throne after the death of his brother Ahaziah (see note, 1:17) is followed in ch 2 by the story of the ascension of Elijah and the beginning of Elisha's ministry. Ch 3 tells the story of King Jehoram's participation in an ill-fated campaign against Moab. The report of his death appears in ch 9.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:1 Jehoshaphat. Ruled 873–848 BC. Jehoram. Record of his reign is interrupted at several points.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:2 evil … not like his father and mother. See note, 1Ki 16:30. put away the pillar of Baal. Probably a massebah stone with a relief carving of the chief Canaanite god on the front. See note, Gn 28:18.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:3 sin of Jeroboam. See note, 1Ki 12:28. Jehoram opted for a more local and customary form of false worship in Israel.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:4 Mesha. He inscribed his version of the conflict with the allied invaders on a stone discovered in AD 1869. Written in a language similar to Hbr, this Moabite, or Mesha, Stone supplements and confirms the biblical account. On the stone, Jehoram is called Omri's son rather than his grandson. had to deliver. Tribute payment.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:7 Northern and Southern kings work together. See note, 1Ki 15:25–16:28.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:8 wilderness of Edom. Instead of crossing the Jordan above the Salt Sea and invading Moab from the north, the allied kings agreed on a "circuitous march" (v 9) around the southern end of the sea "by the way of the wilderness of Edom."
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:9 king of Edom. They forced the Edomite king to join the expedition, assuring there would be no rear attack from the south. animals. Likely horses for chariots and mules for riding and packing provisions.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:10 Jehoram expressed despair and blamed the Lord. In contrast, Jehoshaphat would seek the Lord (v 11).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:11 Elisha … is here. Traveling with the troops, perhaps as a chaplain would. poured water. Service that a person rendered his master or teacher. Washing was typically done by pouring because water was often scarce. See note, Ezk 36:25.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:15 musician. Music is sometimes mentioned as a means to make a prophet receptive to divine inspiration. See note, 1Ch 25:1. More often, "the hand of the LORD" came upon His spokesman without musical accompaniment (e.g., on Elijah and Ezekiel). hand of the LORD. See p 842.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:16 pools. Natural depressions in the streambeds were valued and used like cisterns.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:19 In the conquest of the Promised Land, the Israelites were not to engage in this scorched-earth policy (Dt 20:19–20). Moab, in a drier region, was more susceptible to such an attack.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:20 water came from the direction of Edom. Brook of Zered and other wadis flow from Edom toward the south end of the Salt Sea. See map, p 250.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:21 border. Along the Brook of Zered.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:22 red as blood. Reflection of the sun's early morning glow on the reddish cast of the soil gave the water the appearance of blood. From this phenomenon, the Moabites drew the false conclusion that the allies had "struck one another down" (v 23).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:23 to the spoil! Hoping to find a weak enemy, they advanced in an unguarded manner and suffered heavy losses in a counterattack by the Israelites (v 24).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:25 threw a stone. Making the best fields difficult to cultivate, guaranteeing poorer crops and a less-resistant populace.

stopped … felled. See note, v 19. only its stones. Barren landscape. Kir-hareseth. Identified with modern Kerak, Jordan, c 10 mi E of the Salt Sea.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:26 king of Edom. Perhaps Mesha (cf v 4) hoped the Edomites would offer less resistance. However, the Hbr words for Edom and Aram (Syria) look almost identical. If the original text read "Aram," as translated in an ancient Latin version, then Mesha tried to break through to the north in an attempt to get help from the Syrians.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 3:27 he took his oldest son … on the wall. Remarkable sacrifice to invoke the Moabite gods' sympathy (perhaps Chemosh; see note, 1Ki 11:7). wrath against Israel. Meaning is unclear. Hbr term commonly speaks of God's wrath. LXX indicates the Israelites felt regret. The armies perhaps withdrew from Mesha to show their revulsion at the human sacrifice (Lv 18:21; 20:3). Also, Jehoram and the Israelite leaders may have offended the Judeans and even the Edomites by the extreme nature of the siege or the negotiations, which brought on the horrific sacrifice.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON Ch 3 King Jehoram led Jehoshaphat and the Edomites against Moab on an ill-conceived military campaign, which had some success due to the Lord's intervention through Elisha. Today, do not equate poor planning with faith. For all your endeavors, seek God's blessing through prayer and make your plans through the wisdom of His Word. The Lord grants us wisdom and thoughtful hearts so that we may honor Him with our deeds. Thankfully, He planned for our victory over evil and our everlasting salvation in the person of His Son, Jesus, who offered Himself freely for the sins of all people. • Guide us, O Lord, toward purposeful ends that honor You. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:1–8:15 This long section about Elisha's life follows the story of his participation in the Moabite campaign (ch 3). Apparently, the accounts are not arranged in chronological sequence. None of them is dated. The ruling monarch is not identified by name but simply called "the king of Israel" (5:5; 6:9). Elisha was active during the reign of Jehoram's successors (13:10, 14). Chs 4–7 record eight miraculous deeds (4:1–7, 8–37, 38–41, 42–44; 5:1–14; 6:1–7, 8–23; 6:24–7:20). Ambr: "Other men for the sake of rest are wont to withdraw their minds from business, and to retire from the company and companionship of men; to seek the retirement of the country or the solitude of the fields, or in the city to give their minds a rest and to enjoy peace and quietness. But Elisha was ever active…. When can the upright man be alone, since he is always with God? When is he left forsaken who is never separated from Christ?" (NPNF 2 10:68).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:1 sons of the prophets. See p 555. feared. See p 1001. creditor … his slaves. Because the woman's husband was dead, the creditor had the right to demand that the sons' labor be impounded to pay the debt.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:2 jar of oil. Olive oil. See p 236.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:7 pay your debts. God would have us fulfill our obligations (cf Rm 13:8).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:1–7 Through Elisha, the Lord delivers a widow from poverty and her sons from slavery. The Lord cares about your finances, your freedom, and every aspect of your life. Plan well for the future, seek His guidance, and turn to Him with your requests. As the Lord blesses you, use your resources and freedom to honor His name. For His name's sake, He adopts us as members of His household and delivers us from evil. • Pour out for me, O Lord, the oil of gladness, that my mouth may overflow in praise to You. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:8 Shunem. Elisha's second deed has two miraculous elements: the birth of a son (vv 11–17) and healing for the son (vv 32–37).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:9 holy. See p 7.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:10 on the roof. Lit, "an upper room of a wall." See note, Jsh 2:6. Apparently, she suggested that the wall of the house be raised, at least on one side, to make possible the construction of a permanent room on the flat roof. Israelite pillared houses typically had two stories. The furnishings are likewise typical. The account illustrates a wife's household authority. See note, Pr 31:10–31.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:13 he said to him, "Say now to her." Implies that Elisha used Gehazi as an intermediary, perhaps due to a difference in language or dialect. on your behalf. Elisha offered to intercede on her behalf with the highest authorities, who were known to respect his counsel (cf 3:11–12). I dwell among my own people. The Shunammite woman's friends and relatives kindly shielded her from harm, so she felt she had no need for an outsider's intervention. However, cf 8:2–6.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:15 doorway. Such portals represented changes in life; also clarifies that the prophet had no contact with the woman who would become pregnant.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:16 lie. The woman regarded the birth of a son impossible.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:8–17 Through Elisha, the Lord returns a kindness shown by a couple at Shunem. Though we do not merit salvation by our good works, the Lord often provides temporal rewards to His people, acknowledging their faith and kindness. Honor the Lord in all your ways, most of all rejoicing in the gift of His Son, your Savior, who redeems you by grace alone. • Merciful Savior, reward us not as we deserve but according to Your merciful goodness, through Christ, our Lord. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:19 my head, my head! Perhaps he suffered sunstroke, which esp threatens children. Later emphasis on sneezing (v 35) may indicate he had a respiratory problem.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:22 come back again. She wanted to turn around and come back at once.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:23 new moon nor Sabbath. Appointed service times. See pp 200–201. All is well. Hbr "peace," meaning to say: "Good-bye, don't worry about the outcome." Her hurry perplexed her husband because it was not the time of a religious festival that required the prophet's presence at a specified time. She did not disclose the reason for the hasty journey. Later, she gave the same answer to Gehazi, not wishing to be detained by him (v 26).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:25 Mount Carmel. Point of ministry for Elijah and Elisha, c 20–25 mi NW of Shunem.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:26 All is well. See note, v 23.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:27 she caught hold of his feet. See "fall," p 1276. She hid her concern until she reached the one man she believed could help. push her away. Gehazi seemed confused or even offended by her behavior. hidden. At other times, the Lord fully informed His prophets. Cf 1Sm 3:17.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:29 staff. Wielded by Gehazi, the symbol of his master's authority was to work a miracle of healing.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:30 As the Lord lives. Oath formula; see note, Nu 30:2. Here she swears also by the life of the prophet to demonstrate her attachment to him, as Elisha had done with Elijah (2:2). I will not leave you. See note, v 27.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:31 not awakened. Gehazi spoke in a polite way, confirming the child's death. However, cf Mk 5:39.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:32 He had likely set out after Gehazi, who, being younger, could travel more quickly. his bed. Elisha's bed (cf v 10).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:33 prayed. See note, 1Ki 17:22.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:34 See note, 1Ki 17:21. warm. Possibly indicating a return to life.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:35 up again and walked. Reason is unclear. He may have been simply pacing between "treatments" or warming his body, to warm the child. house. Or, room.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:37 bowing. See p 1276.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:18–37 The Shunammite woman passionately seeks the Lord's help for her son by seeking out Elisha. When you seek the Lord in prayer, pour out your heart to Him. Bow before Him and make your petitions known. The Lord has made His heart known for you in the life, death, and resurrection of His only-begotten Son, our Savior. • Hear me, O Lord, when I cry to You. Answer me according to Your mercy. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:38 a famine. Hbr "the famine," perhaps referring to the one mentioned in 8:1. sons of the prophets. See p 555.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:39 wild gourds. Fruits of a cucumberlike vine thought to be the colocynth. Although used for medicinal purposes, they can prove fatal if eaten in large quantities.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:40 death. Someone detected the poisonous substance. could not eat. Prospect of losing a whole meal for a large group during extended famine was upsetting.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:41 flour. Basic for making bread, the most common food of the Israelites and emblematic of life itself. See p 236. Though extra flour would disperse the effects of the poison, the result here was not merely clever but miraculous.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:42 Baal-shalishah. Perhaps the same place called Shalishah in 1Sm 9:4, located c 15 mi NW of Gilgal. bringing the man of God. Recognizing in Elisha a "man of God," a man brought him "the firstfruits," normally given to the priests (Ex 23:19). Perhaps this indicates the weakness of the genuine priesthood in the Northern Kingdom of Israel. fresh ears of grain. Likely heads of wheat, which could be parched or ground for flour.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:43 How can I … hundred men? Jesus' disciples made similar remarks when He fed the multitudes (Mt 14:17; 15:33).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:44 according to the word of the LORD. God gives life according to His Word, by which this miracle was produced. See p 971.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 4:38–44 Through Elisha, the Lord miraculously provides for the sons of the prophets. Food proclaims the Lord's providential care for His creation. Your daily bread is so much more than sustenance for your weak flesh. His Son, working wonders greater than those of Elisha, declared Himself the bread of life for your sake and continues to sustain the faithful in His Holy Meal. • O Lord, in joy I offer to You the firstfruit of my labors, for You have labored to save me and serve me life-giving bread. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON Ch 5 Longest of the miracle accounts.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:1 the LORD had given victory. The God of Israel was the Ruler of all nations. The enemies of Syria whom Naaman defeated were probably the Assyrians. See map, p 581. leper. Cf Lv 13–14 for rules in Israel regarding leprosy.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:2 little girl. See note, 1Sm 17:33. service. Taken captive on some Syrian raid in Israel, this slave girl became a foreign missionary.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:3 cure. Cf 4:18–37 for an example.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:5 letter. See p 1900. ten talents … of clothing. Massive gift to the king of Israel, to secure his cooperation.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:6 you may cure. Apparently, the king of Syria thought that his commander would be cured by a prophet (v 3) who was attached to the court in Samaria.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:7 tore his clothes. In grief (see note, Jb 1:20) or possibly in anger (cf Mt 26:65). Am I God. Wording and request placed the Israelite king in an awkward position. He feared that the Syrian king would hold him responsible if Naaman was not healed. to kill and to make alive. God's role, physically and spiritually. See note, Dt 32:39. The king perhaps hesitated to get Elisha involved because Israelite kings rarely had positive relations with true prophets.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:8 a prophet in Israel. A shaming word to the doubting king, but a word of promise to Naaman.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:9 stood at the door. He did not invite in the unclean Gentile (Lv 13:46), which would have appeared rude to a foreign dignitary.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:10 a messenger. Continued distance toward Naaman, which could provoke further insult. wash in the Jordan … clean. Cf Lv 13–14.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:11 call upon the name of the LORD. See p 842. his God. Naaman knows of the Lord but does not confess Him. the place. Infection was apparently limited to one area of Naaman's body.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:12 Abana and Pharpar ... Damascus. See map, p 558. They watered fertile fields along their banks. The murky waters of the Jordan, rushing in a low, deeply eroded riverbed to the Salt Sea, had little irrigation value.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:13 father. See p 555. a great word. Overlooking the perceived insults from Elisha, the servants focused properly on the word of promise.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:14 dipped himself. Verb typically describes dipping a portion of something in a liquid, rather than total immersion (cf Jsh 3:15). Naaman would likely have immersed the portion of his body that was leprous. See note, v 11. seven times. See p 217. according to the word. See note, v 13. Iren: "As we are lepers in sin, we are made clean, by means of the sacred water and the invocation of the Lord, from our old transgressions; being spiritually regenerated as new-born babes" (ANF 1:574). restored … clean. See notes, Lv 13. Ambr: "Being forthwith cleansed, [Naaman] understood that it is not of the waters but of grace that a man is cleansed" (NPNF 2 10:319); "Naaman the Syrian thought that his leprosy could not be cleansed by water. But that which was impossible God made to be possible, Who gave us so great grace" (NPNF 2 10:346). little child. See note, 1Sm 17:33.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:1–14 The Syrian commander Naaman is convinced that the Lord can heal him of leprosy, according to the Lord's Word. The Lord cleanses us too by water and the Word, for His Word gives life and salvation. • Wash me, O Lord, and I shall be clean. Give me life according to Your Word. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:15 he. Naaman. no God … but in Israel. God's Word and act of mercy have turned Naaman's heart. He now understands that all the gods of the nations are not genuine. present. Lit, "blessing"; see note, Gn 33:11.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:16 As the LORD lives. Oath formula; see note, Nu 30:2. I will receive none. Scripture does not explain Elisha's refusal.

However, see note, v 9.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:17 load of earth. Only recently converted to the God of Israel (v 15), Naaman thought that he needed to worship God on Israelite soil if his offerings were to be acceptable. The notion prevailed in his day that the domain of a god was determined by national borders. For other instances of this view, see note, 1Ki 20:23; cf 2Ki 17:16; 1Sm 26:19–20.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:18 pardon. Hbr salach, "to forbear," as in responding with patience. He realized the fellowship and worship issues that naturally arose for one who believed in and worshiped the one true God. He repeated this request for emphasis. Rimmon. Syrian storm god Hadad (see note, 1Ki 15:18). leaning. Likely describing a function of his office, by which he literally and symbolically supported the king. I bow myself in the house of Rimmon. Has become proverbial to describe those who compromise their principles when under stress.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:19 Go in peace. Instead of upbraiding the new convert for visiting the house of Rimmon, Elisha dismissed him "in peace." However, of the Israelites, fully taught by God, Elijah demanded that they stop "limping between two different opinions" (1Ki 18:21). Jesus likewise required uncompromising commitment (Lk 11:23; 16:13).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:20 spared. Gehazi decided the Syrian owed them. As the Lord lives. Oath formula; see note, Nu 30:2.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:22 All is well. See note, 4:23. sent me. A lie. Ephraim. Such centers of the "sons of the prophets" as Gilgal and Bethel were situated in Ephraim, north of Jerusalem (2:1–3). See color map 2; see also p 555. changes of clothing. Not your everyday change of clothes. Given the wealth Naaman brought with him (v 5), Gehazi's request is fairly modest.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:24 the hill. Hbr is transliterated Ophel in 2Ch 27:3; 33:14. Not the usual noun for "hill." Except in this instance, Ophel is used exclusively of the Jerusalem temple hill. The definite article indicates that in this case too, a well-known Samaritan elevation is meant. house. The Hbr word can also describe a temple.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:25 nowhere. As in the case of Joseph's brothers, lies beget lies in an attempt to cover up fraud (cf v 22; Gn 37:31–32). However, dishonesty is only one of the noxious growths that spring from the love of money, "a root of all kinds of evils" (1Tm 6:10).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:26 Did not my heart. In a vision, Elisha witnessed what had happened. a time to accept. Elisha seems to probe Gehazi's intentions, which were fixed on gaining material goods.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:27 your descendants. Leprosy is not genetic but is spread by persistent exposure to the sick. a leper. According to 8:1–6, Gehazi was not absolutely isolated from people. However, his intercession for the widow of Shunem in ch 8 may have taken place some time before the healing of Naaman. See note, 4:1–8:15.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 5:15–27 Elisha's servant Gehazi pursues Naaman's riches, hoping for great wealth; then he lies to Elisha about what he has done. When you are caught in sin, do not hesitate to acknowledge your deeds before the Lord. He is rich in mercy toward the brokenhearted and all who confess their needs to Him. • Lord, grant me a steadfast heart and sincere repentance, that I may inherit the wealth of Your grace in Christ. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:1 sons of the prophets. See p 555. too small. Under Elisha's leadership, the number of prophets was likely growing.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:2 Jordan. Prophetic center was likely at Jericho, not far from the "thicket of the Jordan" (2:4–8; Jer 12:5).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:5 borrowed. He would have to pay for the lost axe head.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:6 cut off a stick and threw it in there. As in other examples (2:21; 4:41), God worked a miracle through Elisha's symbolic action. The stick, which would naturally float, leads the axe head to float as well.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:1–7 With a miracle of compassion through Elisha, the Lord delivers a son of the prophets from debt. We have similar concerns today. Yet, the Lord cares about every aspect of our lives, as Jesus' compassion toward His disciples showed. Greater still, the Lord removes the debt of our sin by the wood of His cross. • Lord, lead me to use my property and the property of others wisely, that I may share Your compassion with others. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:8 Once when. Hbr indicates nonchronological order of this collection of events from Elisha's life. See note, 4:1–8:15. warring. Elisha miraculously foiled two Syrian attacks on Israel (6:8–23; 6:24–7:20).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:9 man of God. Elisha.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:10 to the place. An Israelite reconnaissance party verified the truth of Elisha's disclosures. Elisha's information was so accurate, the Syrian king was convinced there was a traitor among his servants (v 11). used to warn. Prophets could act as court counselors. See p 1077–88.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:11 Syrian leader feared an Israelite spy had infiltrated his government. Israel had used spies in the past. Cf Nu 13; Jsh 2.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:12 Elisha … tells the king. The Syrian's comment reveals that he, too, had contacts with the Israelite court. bedroom. Hyperbole.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:13 seize him. Ignoring Elisha's special ability to know his plans, the king commanded a special mission. Cf 1:9–14. Dothan. 20 mi W of the Jordan. See map, p 581. Controlling a pass through the mountain (v 17) of the Carmel Ridge, Dothan lay on the road from Syria to Egypt on which the Ishmaelites took Joseph to the land of the pharaohs (Gn 37:17).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:14 Rather than sending spies or a discreet force, the Syrian king fully invaded Israel, encountering no opposition along the way.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:15 servant. Perhaps Gehazi. Cf 4:12.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:16 Luth: "Where there are twenty devils, there are a hundred angels, and if that were not so, we should long since have perished. We are on the battle front whenever we teach the Word, whenever we preach and glorify Christ, and then live, as far as possible, according to the Gospel and the Word of God" (AE 12:227).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:17 open his eyes. Normally unseen by human eyes, "the angel of the LORD encamps around those who fear Him, and delivers them" (Ps 34:7). Chem: "If our eyes were opened, as Elijah's were … then we might live our lives in greater concern and in fear of God" (LTh 1:175). Luth: "Christ does not want us to be alone on the road of death, from which all men shrink. Indeed, we set out upon the road of suffering and death accompanied by the entire church…. All that remains for us now is to pray that our eyes, that is, the eyes of our faith, may be opened that we may see the church around us. Then there will be nothing for us to fear, as is also said in Psalm 125 [:2], 'As mountains are round about it, so the Lord is round about his people, from this time forth and forever.' Amen" (AE 42:163). horses and chariots of fire. No matter how invincible the forces of evil may appear, they never are a match for the heavenly hosts at God's command (Mt 26:53; Rm 8:31). around Elisha. As the leader of the Lord's prophets, Elisha received a special detachment of guardian angels. Luth: "It is a great comfort for all Christians to learn from these and other passages of Holy Scripture that they are not forsaken in the cross which they encounter in various forms throughout their lives. For they have the dear angels with them as protectors and guards. Furthermore, God is always present with His gifts, although one angel would really suffice to cope with all the enemies…. Wherever faith prevails and the divine Word is treasured, there we find such radiance shining into our hearts that I have a clear vision of God as my Father, of the open heaven, of the angels about me, and of the help that is mine. Such a precious possession is ours in God's Word and in the Christian faith" (AE 22:210–11).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:18 Prayer is ironic, given Elisha's prayer for sight in v 17.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:19 led. The prophet personally led the Syrian army. to Samaria. Distance of c 10 mi S of Dothan. See map, p 581. Samaria was the capital of Israel.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:22 Elisha, as the Lord's servant, sets a standard for treating prisoners. Ambr: "Elisha gained more renown by pardoning than he would have done by slaying, and preserved those enemies whom he had taken for greater usefulness" (NPNF 2 10:82). See also "devote to destruction," p 6.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:23 great feast. Not prison food. Israel provided exceptional treatment. Cf Pr 25:21. did not come again. Seems contradicted in 6:24–7:20, but the miracles are not arranged in chronological sequence (see note, 4:1–8:15). This may be a relative term meaning that the Syrians did not raid Israelite territory as long as a conciliatory spirit lasted.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:8–23 Through Elisha's leadership, the Lord compassionately settles a war between Syria and Israel. In these events, the Lord teaches us about having mercy on our enemies. When in conflict, prayerfully consider how you might use your strength to pursue peace. Consider that, when we were enemies with God due to our sin, He sought peace with us in the compassionate ministry of Jesus, who gave His life for us. • O Lord, surround us with the care of Your holy angels, that we may not fear but act confidently and compassionately, through Christ, our Lord. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:24 Ben-hadad. See note, 1Ki 15:18. Syria … Samaria. See map, p 581. besieged. Common strategy that often brought brutal results. Because ancient warfare did not necessarily have "rules" of war, cities were hesitant to surrender, anticipating horrific treatment and slaughter.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:25 donkey's head. Normally scorned as food, it sold at highly inflated prices. kab. See p cx. dove's dung. Possibly the name of a plant that ordinarily was not eaten. In some sieges, people could be driven to seek nourishment from various kinds of excrement.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:27 The king of Israel blamed God for the suffering to disguise his own shortcomings. threshing floor … winepress. Out of reach. Outside the city walls.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:29 boiled my son. Woman does not simply regret the loss of her son but complains that she unfairly did not get to eat the other woman's son (cf 1Ki 3:16–26). During the final siege of Jerusalem by the Babylonians (587 BC), "compassionate women … boiled their own children" (Lm 4:10; 2:20).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:30 tore his clothes … sackcloth. See notes, Jb 1:20; 16:15.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:31 God do so to me. For this oath formula, see note, Ru 1:17; see also note, Nu 30:2. God's deed in the vow is not specified but perhaps is illustrated by the tearing of the clothes or the threatened beheading of Elisha. Since the king cannot punish God, he will punish His prophet, who had likely counseled against surrender.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:32 his house. In city of Samaria. the elders. Still taking counsel with the prophet. See note, Ex 3:16. See also p 228. messenger. Hbr mal'ak, often translated "angel." In this case, an executioner. the sound of his master's feet behind him? The Lord showed Elisha that the king regretted his command and was rushing to stop the executioner.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:33 the messenger came. Compressed sentence means "the messenger came down and [the king who came down immediately behind him] said," etc. This trouble is from the LORD! Why should I wait. Elisha apparently had promised God's intervention.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 6:24–33 The Syrians impose a horrific and frustrating siege upon Samaria, causing the Israelite king to blame God and Elisha for the suffering. When you suffer, you will be tempted to blame the Lord or the Church for evil that you witness. May God strengthen you to resist temptation and to call on the Lord with a broken heart. Like the elders of Samaria, seek consolation and direction from God's prophetic Word, which does not fail. The Suffering Servant, Jesus, knows the depth of your trials. He will bear your sins and griefs as your beloved Savior. • Weeping Jesus, hear my cry, and deliver me from my sins and from all evils. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:1 thus says the LORD. See p 1080. shekel. See ESV note; see also p cx. Prices would drop drastically. at the gate. Where business was transacted. See p 792; see also note, Jb 29:7.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:2 on whose hand the king leaned. A high official. See note, 5:18. windows. Coming through the "windows of the heavens" (Gn 7:11; 8:2), rain would raise crops and eventually supply food. But the captain doubted that more immediate relief from the famine could be forthcoming. you shall not eat of it. Because he doubted.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:1–2 Elisha boldly prophesies that the Lord will feed the people, but the king's commander expresses doubt. God's promises always seem too good to be true. Yet He provided bread from heaven to Israel in the wilderness (Ex 16:4–31) and today sustains us with the true bread of heaven, the life-giving body of Jesus in the Sacrament of the Altar. • Sustain me, O Lord, against the devil's siege, my doubts, and the world's temptations. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:3 at the entrance. Excluded from the city, as required in Lv 13:45–46. Why. They did not know where to go.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:4 Lepers would be unwelcome in the city (cf Lv 13:45–46). The gate would soon be a battleground. Though it was unlikely the Syrians would welcome the lepers, it was their best option.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:5 twilight. Before dawn.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:6 Hittites. See p 345. Egypt. Hbr is similar to a term that in Assyrian records designates a territory bordering on Hittite territory. If this northern area is meant, the Syrians fled because they were hopelessly outnumbered by a "great army" of confederates. come against us. If the Hittites came upon them from the north and the Egyptians from the south, the Syrians could be ground to pieces like grain between the upper and the lower millstone.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:7 abandoned. Packing and saddling animals would delay the retreat. They believed the attack was immediate.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:9 not doing right. The lepers believed it was a crime to let the people in the city die of starvation when food in abundance was available. Failure to share material or spiritual blessings with others is no less reprehensible today (Heb 13:16). Ambr: "Why need we wonder that the people of the Lord had regard for what was seemly and virtuous when even the lepers … showed concern for what is virtuous?" (NPNF 2 10:86). the king's household. King could organize the gathering of the spoil and dispatch messengers and troops for guiding the work.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:12 in the night. Things had happened quickly, since the sun was still not up (cf v 5).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:13 remaining horses. Other animals were probably devoured. will fare like the … perished. If the scouting party did not risk death at the hands of the Syrians, they would die of starvation in the city.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:14 two horsemen. Lit, "two chariot[s] of horses," apparently drawn by teams of two and three horses. Number of men assigned to the chariots is not actually specified.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:15 Jordan. C 20 mi E, the direction Syrians would flee on their way toward Damascus.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:16 fine flour. One word in Hbr. Ground wheat flour was more expensive than barley. See p 236. according to the word of the LORD. See p 971.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:17 on whose hand he leaned. See note, v 2. man of God. Elisha. had said. Cf v 2.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:18 See note, v 1.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 7:3–20 Ironically, the Lord works through helpless, outcast beggars to bring word to Samaria of His victory over Syria and to reveal the bounty of provisions left for the city. As God blesses you with bounty, act honorably and generously toward others, according to His Word. The Lord will fulfill His Word for your sake, providing for all your needs through Christ Jesus, the Lord (Php 4:19). • Lord, grant me a generous heart to share Your bounty and the good news of the promised mercy in Jesus, the bread of life. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:1–6 Result of one of "the great things that Elisha" did (v 4). When the king saw the son of the Shunammite woman "whom Elisha restored to life" (v 5; 4:8–37), he granted her request for the restitution of her property.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:1 Now. See note, 6:8. Not an account of another miracle but a conclusion to 4:8–37. woman. Elisha works with her rather than her husband, which seems unusual. A family or spiritual kinship likely stands behind these circumstances (cf 4:8–10). household. Not just their property, but their extended family. sojourn. See note, Gn 12:10. famine. See note, 4:38.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:2 Philistines. Isaac sought survival in their territory during a famine in his day (Gn 26:1). Cf Ru 1:1; see color map 2.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:3 appeal. During her long absence, her house and land evidently had been become the king's property by law.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:4 Gehazi. Incident took place before he became a leper (5:27). Through his servant, Elisha spoke on the Shunammite woman's behalf, as he had offered to do (4:13). man of God. Elisha.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:5 the woman … appealed. She had been waiting as Gehazi represented her.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:6 produce. Income that accrued from her property. See "portion," p 7.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:1–6 As Elisha had promised, he supports the Shunammite woman (4:13). Today, the Lord calls you as God's servant to make meaningful, thoughtful promises and to keep your word. Thanks be to God! He keeps His Word to us, granting us an inheritance with His Son, Jesus Christ, our Savior. • Lord, let my word be my bond, in imitation of Your integrity and compassion. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:7 Damascus. In the Syrian capital, Elisha carried out the task assigned to Elijah: "anoint Hazael to be king over Syria" (1Ki 19:15). See map, p 581. Acting in accord with divine revelation (2Ki 8:8–9), Elisha supported a revolt against Ben-hadad so that "Hazael became king in his place" (v 15).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:8 inquire. See "call," p 842. this sickness? No doubt, the king knew that Naaman owed his recovery to Yahweh, Elisha's God.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:9 forty camel loads. Remarkable amount. son. Expression of humility. See p 555.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:10 Elisha gave a cryptic answer. The king would recover from his present illness but would nevertheless certainly die from another cause.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:12 Elisha carried out his mission regardless of his personal feelings in the matter. For the evil that he foresaw, cf 10:32–33; 13:3; 15:16; Hos 13:16; Am 1:3–4.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:13 a dog. Hazael registered surprise that a person of his low status should rise to royal heights. great thing? Hazael feels honored despite the prophet's description of brutal acts committed under his leadership.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:15 he took. Hazael took. dipped it in water. Water apparently swelled and thickened the cloth so that it could effectively suffocate the weak king.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:7–15 Elisha prophesies the death of Ben-hadad, the rise of Hazael, and the destruction of Israel through Hazael. The gruesome passage records the particular means and persons God used for judging rebellious Israel and brutal Ben-hadad. Elisha's tears illustrate the pain of God's heart over the sins and condemnation of His rebellious people. How difficult to apply God's Law when our hearts and God's heart long to show compassion! This text shows the seriousness of sin and its ravages against sinners. How dearly we need God's Word to well up our eyes with tears of sincere repentance and swell our hearts with genuine faith. The Lord can and does grant us such blessings through dearest Jesus.

• Penetrate my ears, O Lord. Break my hardened heart and flood my arid eyes. Teach me the need and use of Your Law that I may weep tears of joy at the sound of Your Gospel. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:16–29 Before resuming the account of Jehoram, king of Israel, begun in ch 3, the author inserts brief notices of two Judean rulers: Jehoram (vv 16–24) and Ahaziah (vv 25–29). The latter is introduced here because ch 9 relates how he and his Northern contemporary, Jehoram, came to be killed in a revolt led by the Israelite general Jehu. See p 529.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:16 Joram. In this period, the divided kingdom had rulers with the same name. In Israel, King Ahaziah had a Jehoram as successor; in Judah, the sequence was the reverse: a Jehoram was followed by an Ahaziah. The shortened form Joram occurs for the rulers in both kingdoms. The history of the Israelite Jehoram, begun in ch 3, was interrupted by a lengthy report of Elisha's activities (4:1–8:15).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:18 walked. See p 7. daughter of Ahab. Athaliah (v 26). See note, 1Ki 3:1–2. evil. See note, 1Ki 16:30.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:19 lamp. See note, 1Ki 11:36; cf 2Sm 7:14–16.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:21 Joram. See note, v 16. Zair. In Judah.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:22 to this day. To the time when the sources of 2Ki were written. See note, Jsh 4:9. Libnah. City on the edge of Philistine territory c 23 mi SW of Jerusalem. Sennacherib's army would encamp there (19:8). See map, p 615.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:23 Chronicles. See p 335–37.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:24 See note, 1Ki 2:10.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:16–24 Though Judah binds itself to sinful Israel through a marriage alliance, the Lord does not yet snuff it out but continues in His promised mercy. Today, when temptation confronts you, do not test the Lord's patience by making peace with wickedness or ungodly relationships but pray that He would guide you through the Word into wholesome relationships. His Word is a lamp for your feet and enlightenment for life everlasting in Christ. • Enlighten us, Lord, by the light of Your Christ, and preserve Your people. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:25–26 Illustrates family connections between the two kingdoms. Omri. See note, 1Ki 16:22.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:27 See note, v 18.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:28 Hazael. God's chosen instrument of judgment against sinful Israel (v 12). Ramoth-gilead. See map, p 581.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:29 Jezreel … Ramah. See map, p 558. Ahaziah … went down to see Joram. Shows again the strengthening of the bond between Judah and Israel through their leaders.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 8:25–29 Ahaziah, king of Judah, marries into the family of Joram, king of Israel. They fight alongside each other, and Ahaziah visits Joram when he is wounded. Marriage, mutual defense, and visiting the sick are usually noble acts, blessed by God. But Ahaziah uses them to strengthen his bond with evildoers. Today, act with integrity, seeking what is good and fleeing what is evil. The Lord claims us as His family, not as we are, but through the call to repentance and through the forgiveness of sins in Baptism, making us the Bride of Christ (Eph 5:25–27). • O Savior, by the mystery of Your love and mercy, sanctify us as members of Your household. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:1–13 Jehoram, king of Israel, was fighting against Hazael, king of Syria, at Ramoth-gilead, where Ahab had opposed Ben-hadad (see note, 1Ki 22:3). While the battle was in progress, Elisha sent

"one of the sons of the prophets" to carry out the second task assigned to Elijah: to anoint Jehu "to be king over Israel" (1Ki 19:16).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:1 sons of the prophets. See p 555. Tie up your garments. Tucked into the belt to free the legs for running. Ramoth-gilead. See map, p 581.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:2 inner chamber. Perhaps he was to act discreetly until things were settled with Jehu (vv 11–13).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:3 pour it on his head. See note, 1Sm 10:1. flee; do not linger. Jehu would lead a violent coup, from which the prophet should distance himself.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:5 in council. Leaders of the Israelite army were considering the battle with the Syrians who occupied Ramoth-gilead (8:28).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:6 the people of the LORD. Some Israelites still belonged to the Lord.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:7 house of Ahab … avenge. King Joram of Israel was descended from Ahab, whose wife Jezebel had led him into greater sin. See note, 1Ki 16:30; cf 1Ki 18:4, 13.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:8 house of Ahab. The Lord would do away with wicked Ahab's descendants just as He had cut off previous dynasties. Jeroboam, Israel's first king, had only one successor, who was murdered (1Ki 14:10, 20; 15:29). The fate of Baasha, the third king, and his son was similar (1Ki 16:3–4, 12–13). every male. See note, 1Ki 14:10. bond. Slaves were regarded as members of a master's household. See p 101.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:10 fled. See note, v 3.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:11 mad fellow. The way the prophet tore in and raced out drew suspicion. Jehu used a derogatory reference to put off his curious fellow officers. the fellow and his talk. Luth: "As [Isaiah] himself testifies in chapter 5 they put out their tongues at him and pointed their fingers at him; and except for a few devout children of God in the crowd, such as King Hezekiah, they all regarded his preaching as foolishness. For it was the custom among the people to mock the prophets and consider them madmen, … as has always happened to all servants of God and preachers, is happening every day, and will continue to happen" (AE 35:278).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:12 tell us now. Jehu's fellow officers saw through his crass dismissal of the prophet. They may have anticipated the prophet's real purpose.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:13 bare steps. Lit, "the bone of the steps." The phrase suggests that the soldiers put their clothes on the stones much as flesh covers the bare skeleton of the body. When Jesus entered Jerusalem riding on a donkey (as Solomon rode a mule at his coronation), the people spread their garments before Him, acclaiming "the Son of David" as their king (Mt 21:7–9; cf 1Ki 1:32–34). Jehu's accession to the throne marked the end of the brief period of cooperation between the two kingdoms (see note, 1Ki 16:22). Much blood was to flow before Jehu's revolt had eliminated all possible sources of opposition. By Jehu's own hand, or on his orders, the following lost their lives: the king of Israel, Jehoram (vv 14–26); the king of Judah, Ahaziah, who was visiting his brother-in-law Jehoram (vv 27–29); Jezebel, queen mother of Israel (vv 30–37); "seventy sons" of Ahab, Jehoram's father (10:1–11); 42 relatives of Ahaziah (10:12–14); Ahab's remaining descendants (10:15–17); a templeful of Baal worshipers (10:18–27).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:1–13 Elisha sends a "son of the prophets" to anoint Jehu ruler over Israel, to fulfill God's promise of judgment against the dynasty of Ahab. Just as this apprentice to the prophet fulfills his duty diligently, so fulfill your calling diligently in the Lord's name, no matter how others may dismiss it or jeer at you. God will fulfill His purpose for you and bless you with the strength for dedicated service, through Jesus Christ, who bore all your scorn and served you diligently for the sake of your salvation. • O Lord, swing wide the door of opportunity for me, that I may run to serve You in all confidence of Your Word. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:14–26 Trusting that the army was of a mind to support him, Jehu at once went c 45 mi W to Jezreel, where King Joram was recuperating from wounds sustained at Ramoth-gilead (8:28–29). Apparently not suspecting his commander of unfriendly intent, King Joram rode out. Jehu pierced his heart with an arrow. "In accordance with the word of the LORD" (v 26; 1Ki 21:19), his corpse was thrown on the plot of ground stolen from its former owner, Naboth (1Ki 21:1–19).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:14 Joram. See note, 8:16.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:15 let no one slip out. Jehu would race to Jezreel to beat any messengers who might warn the king.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:17 watchman. See notes, Is 21:6–12. tower in Jezreel. Jezreel overlooked an important east-west pass in Israel's highlands. From the tower, the watchman could see down the Valley of Jezreel toward the Jordan River plain c 12 mi away. company. Military unit.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:18 horseback. Israelites typically rode mules or donkeys, not horses, which were used for drawing chariots. But here the rider apparently mounts the horse itself. Is it peace? Rider may be inquiring about the war at Ramoth-gilead rather than Jehu's intentions. Jehu dismisses the man's concern and formal question in a manner that may have characterized him (cf v 11). ride behind. In order to keep his mission secret, he commanded the horseman, sent out from the city to meet him, to ride behind him.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:19 second horseman. Receives the same treatment as the first horseman (v 18).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:20 furiously. Lit, "with madness." Jehu's fast and furious driving became proverbial.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:21 went to meet Jehu. Anxious for news of Ramoth-gilead, the kings left the security of the city. property of Naboth. Highly ironic, given that Jezebel (Joram's grandmother) had orchestrated Naboth's death in order to seize his property (1Ki 21:1–19).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:22 whorings. By her Baal worship, Jezebel "whored after other gods." Biblical writers and Jesus do not mince words in describing unfaithfulness to God (Jgs 2:17; Jer 3:2; Hos 2:2–3; Mt 12:39; 16:4). sorceries. See note, Dt 18:10–11.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:23 Treachery. Joram knew from Jehu's answer what he intended to do.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:24 shot … between the shoulders. In some cultures, striking an enemy in the back is considered cowardly. Not so in ancient Canaan, as demonstrated by a Ugaritic myth about the victories of Baal.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:25 his aide. Chariots typically carried two or three warriors. Naboth the Jezreelite. See note, v 21. behind Ahab. In his retinue.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:26 in accordance with the word of the LORD. See note, 1Ki 17:22; see also p 971.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:27 Ahaziah … fled. Warned by his uncle's cry of "Treachery!" (v 23), the king of Judah escaped southward in the direction of Beth-haggan, c 7 mi S of Jezreel. A little farther south, near Ibleam and at an unknown ascent of Gur, Jehu's men wounded him. From there he backtracked c 10 mi NW to Megiddo. See map, p 558. According to 2Ch

22:9, the fugitive did not die until he made his way back to Samaria, where Jehu killed him. And they shot him. See ESV note. In the Tel Dan Stela, a victory monument, Hazael of Damascus credits his god Hadad for victory over Yahweh, Joram, and Ahaziah.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:29 eleventh year. A postscript, repeating in part the summary of Ahaziah's reign given in 8:25, according to which his accession occurred in the 12th year. For the different bases of computing the years, see pp xcii–xciii.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:14–29 The Lord's judgment against Ahab's household is fulfilled with vicious irony when Jehu shoots Joram and has his body cast into the vineyard of Naboth. The Lord will fulfill His Word of condemnation and also His Word of deliverance, removing a wicked ruler from over His people. He puts to death and gives life; to us who believe, He gives life everlasting in Christ. • Lord, give me life according to Your Word. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:30 Jezebel. Now a widow (cf 1Ki 22:29–40). painted her eyes. Eye shadow and other cosmetics were well known to women in the ancient world. See note, Jb 42:14. Groomed in her queenly finery as if she were about to hold court, Jezebel faced her executioners with iron nerve. looked out of the window. Phoenician ivory carvings depict women wearing headdresses looking out of windows. Perhaps there is some significance to this action.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:31 you Zimri. Proverbial for a traitor. More than 50 years earlier, Zimri assassinated Baasha, the third king of Israel (1Ki 16:8–10).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:32 eunuchs. Servants whose testicles were removed so that they might oversee a king's harem without the risk of becoming romantically involved with the women. Could also describe an official who may not have had such an operation. See p 228.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:33 horses. Those driven by Jehu or others of his company. trampled. Startled horses rear and paw at what they perceive as a threat.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:34 ate and drank. Showing indifference for Jezebel's death. Trip had also been very long from Ramoth-gilead (cf v 14). a king's daughter. Her father was the king of Sidon.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:35–36 bury her. Violating the prophet's wording in v 10, anticipating future disobedience and evil (10:29). dogs shall eat.

Fulfillment of God's Word, spoken by Elijah. Similar gruesome account appears in Egyptian "Story of Two Brothers."

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 9:30–37 Jehu executes and disdains the body of Jezebel, the wicked queen mother of Israel. Despite Jehu's unwillingness to follow the Lord's Word completely (see note, vv 35–36), the Lord brought the prophecy to absolute completion through trampling horses and biting dogs. Not a letter of His Word shall fail! Though we fail, God's Word will and does succeed for His sake and for our sakes in Christ the Savior. • King of heaven, reign in justice and compassion for the sake of Your Church. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:1 seventy sons. Clearly, Jezebel was not Ahab's only wife. Samaria. Capital of Israel. letters. See p 1900.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:3 Jehu issued a challenge, forcing the guardians to come to arms or conspire against the young men in their care. The guardians of Ahab's 70 sons or grandsons realized that resistance to the conspiracy was useless.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:4 two kings. Jehoram, Ahab's son and king of Israel, and Ahaziah, king of Judah (9:24, 27).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:5 We are your servants. They transferred their loyalty to the new dynasty and proved their loyalty by sending the severed heads of the former king's offspring to Jehu (v 7).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:6 great men. The leaders.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:8 two heaps. So everyone could see that the coup had wiped them out.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:9–10 who struck down. Pretending to be surprised by the grisly heap of heads, Jehu pointed out to the turncoats that by their execution of "the house of Ahab" they now were irrevocably committed to his cause.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:10 word of the LORD. Cf 9:8.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:11 He killed all potential traitors.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:12 set out. Traveling from Jezreel. Beth-eked. Lit, "the house of binding," so named because shepherds bound their sheep there at shearing time.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:13 relatives. Next victims of the purge were 42 Judean relatives of King Ahaziah, whose father had married Athaliah, sister of the slain Israelite king Jehoram (8:18, 26).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:14 alive. Perhaps to question them. slaughtered them. As Jehu proceeded to establish himself on the throne, his wholesale executions went beyond the directive of "the word of the LORD" (see note, v 17). Carried away by personal ambition rather than motivated by "zeal for the LORD" (v 16), God's appointed avenger of the house of Ahab (9:8) went so far as to provoke the Lord to say: "I will punish the house of Jehu for the blood of Jezreel" (Hos 1:4). Cf Is 10:5–19 for God's judgment of Assyria.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:15 Jehonadab. Descendants of Rechab (a Kenite like Moses' father-in-law, Jethro [cf Jgs 1:16]) were extreme in their opposition to the fertility cult of baalism. They opposed agricultural pursuits, particularly the growing of vineyards (Jer 35:6–10), believing that a return to a Bedouin way of life was Israel's salvation. Jehonadab believed Jehu's revolt was a step in the right direction. give me your hand. Welcoming him and drawing him into the chariot.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:16 zeal for the LORD. See note, v 14.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:17 Overall, Jehu fulfilled the prophecy as God had intended. However, in some matters he went beyond what God had said. See note, v 14.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:1–17 Jehu pretends to be zealous for the Lord's way, while disobeying the Lord's Word. Today, the Lord calls you to follow His Word deliberately, yet not as an excuse for cruel judgment against others. Even the condemnation of God's Law ultimately serves the peaceful, life-giving purposes of His Gospel, by which He forgives our sins and restores us. • Grant me a faithful heart, O Lord, to follow Your Word and see in it Your compassionate purposes. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:18–27 Jehu's treacherous cunning in luring the Baal worshipers to their death richly deserved the Lord's rebuke (Hos 1:4).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:18–19 serve him much … I have a great sacrifice to offer to Baal. Ironic statements declare, yet hide, Jehu's deadly intent against the Baal worshipers, who had been close supporters of Ahab's dynasty. Cf 1Ki 16:31.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:19 prophets … worshipers … priests. Different orders of the religion.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:21 all the worshipers. Leaders, not simply every person who sacrificed to Baal. worshipers. Lit, "servants." house of Baal. A temple.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:22 vestments. Jehu used clothing to identify his victims.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:23 no servant of the LORD. Jehu likely hoped to make an alliance with those who followed the Lord. The Baal worshipers, as supporters of Ahab, had to be eliminated.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:24–25 offer sacrifices. In order to allay all suspicion, Jehu pretended to join in the worship of Baal. inner room. Similar to the Most Holy Place in the Jerusalem temple.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:26 pillar. Lit, "pillars." See note, Gn 28:18. burned. May have been made of wood. However, stone was a common medium for these pillar (massebah) stones, which could be cracked and destroyed by heating and cooling.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:27 latrine. Hbr introduces a more polite term ("sinks") for the public reading of the text.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:18–27 Through deception, Jehu wipes out more potential rivals, the servants of Baal, who were closely allied with Ahab's dynasty. Again, Jehu demonstrates his wit and taste for irony (cf 9:11, 34; 10:9, 19). How regrettable that this clever man did not put his talents to work for the sake of proclaiming God's Word. Rather than using your talents for personal gain, turn your God-given talents over to the Lord's service and the service of others. Christ, whose wit confounded His detractors, also spoke plainly the life-changing message of God's grace. • Dearest Jesus, teach me to love my enemies and declare to them Your promises rather than attack them with lies and weapons. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:28–29 Three main religions competed for the hearts of the Israelites: Baal worship, the worship associated with the golden calves (see note, 1Ki 12:28), and the worship of Yahweh. did not turn aside. Jehu did not receive a wholehearted endorsement (vv 28–31). He retained the golden calves and was excessive in overcoming opposition to his regime.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:30 what is right in My eyes … in My heart. The Lord commended Jehu only specifically for overthrowing Ahab's idolatrous house. fourth generation. Israel's next four kings were Jehu's descendants: Jehoahaz, J[eh]oash, Jeroboam II, Zechariah.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:32 cut off. Zeal for the Lord did not automatically guarantee outward success. During Jehu's reign, the Syrians overran Israelite territory "from the Jordan eastward" (v 33).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:33 Arnon. River that empties into the Salt Sea almost midway between its northern tip and its southern extremity. See map, p 615.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:34 Chronicles. See p 335–37.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:35 See note, 1Ki 2:10.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 10:28–36 Despite Jehu's excesses, the Lord grants him a long reign and a four-generation dynasty. The Lord tolerates unjust rulers when it serves His purposes of judgment and it is for the good of His people. Pray for your leaders, that they may be not only successful but also just and righteous. Your just and righteous leader, the King of heaven, will hear your pleas and answer according to His good purposes and according to the mercies of Jesus. • Preserve Your Church, O Lord. Deliver and grant all nations faithful, peaceful leaders. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:1 Athaliah. Ahab's daughter, the mother of Ahaziah, slain by Jehu (9:27–28). destroyed all the royal family. Made herself sole ruler. She almost succeeded in eliminating all possible contenders for the throne, including her own grandchildren. She may have learned such brutality from her father's wife, the infamous Jezebel.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:2 Jehosheba. We are not told whether she survived the purge. Joash. Ahaziah's infant son escaped the purge because his aunt Jehosheba hid him (vv 1–3). king's sons. Likely the focus of the purge (v 1). nurse. A wet nurse. a bedroom. Hbr denotes an inner chamber at the palace, which may have been used for sleeping, for storing bedding, or even as a restroom.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:3 six years. He was a mere infant when hidden (cf v 21). Joash would have been weaned at age 3 or 4. hidden in the house of the LORD. Joash stayed in the priestly quarters of the temple.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:1–3 The bloody dynastic practices of pagan nations and of the Northern Kingdom of Israel erupt in Judah through Athaliah. Amid this vicious purge, the Lord preserves the house of David and the renewal of faithful worship by protecting Joash through his aunt Jehosheba. As an aunt or uncle, commend your nieces and nephews to the Lord's care by looking out for their welfare, praying for them, and turning them over to the security of the Lord's house. As the Lord preserved the house of David, from which Jesus would be born, so He will through the Word preserve and nurture the treasured members of your family. • Lord, grant unity and peace in our families on the basis of Your Holy Word and a common confession of Christ. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:4 Jehoiada. A faithful priest, perhaps a high priest. Carites. Name suggests that Athaliah's bodyguards were recruited in Caria in Asia Minor. Hbr consonants composing "Carites" and "Cherethites" are similar. For the latter, see note, 2Sm 15:18. covenant … oath. See p 6–7.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:5–7 Not every detail of the plot is clear. off duty. Jehoiada planned to have on hand a double detachment of Levites (2Ch 23:8) and of temple guards. On a certain Sabbath Day, the groups going off duty were to reinforce the contingents coming on duty. By deploying "the two divisions" (v 7) at strategic places, Jehoiada isolated the surprised queen from her supporters. He was also able to surround the king with a sufficiently strong bodyguard.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:6 gate Sur … gate behind the guards. Locations unclear.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:7 the king. Joash.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:8 out … in. No matter where he goes.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:10 spears … shields. The temple contained a treasury, which here served as an armory.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:11 Sizable number lined up in the temple court area.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:12 crown. The king for God's people was confirmed by God's prophets or priests (cf 1Sm 16:12–13; 1Ki 1:38–39). the testimony. Copy of the Law. The crown and the Law were the insignia of the royal office (cf 1Ki 2:3).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:13 Athaliah … went. Without a trace of fear, she faced the crisis as defiantly as Jezebel greeted her executioners (9:30–31). the people. See note, v 19.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:14 by the pillar. Perhaps on a dais. all the people. Hyperbole. People were broadly represented. tore her clothes. See note, Jb 1:20.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:15 between the ranks. Soldiers lined the path. not be put to death in the house of the LORD. To avoid desecrating the sacred place.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:16 horses' entrance. Apparently the entrance closer to the temple court, where the king or guests brought up their chariots. king's house. The palace, which stood nearby and downhill from the temple.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:17 covenant. They solemnly pledged to observe the provisions by which God had agreed to constitute Israel as His "treasured possession among all peoples" (see note, Ex 19:5). See p 127.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:18 people of the land. See note, v 19. the house of Baal. Located in Judah, perhaps even Jerusalem. Mattan. Priest of Baal whom Athaliah had imported from Israel for the promotion of the Phoenician idol worship, which her mother, Jezebel, had introduced from her homeland (1Ki 16:31–33). watchmen. To guard against a reverse coup. Cf Is 21:6–12.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:19 Carites. See note, v 4. people of the land. Recurring expression (vv 13, 18) seems to refer to a particular segment of the population, very likely the landowners. Cf 21:24; 23:30, 35; 25:19; see p 228.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:20 city was quiet. Revolt against the power of foreign domination had popular support. There was no wholesale bloodshed such as Jehu instituted in Israel (chs 9–10).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:4–20 Through a covenant promise, the Lord emboldens Jehoiada, the Carites, and the guards to place David's heir, Joash, on his rightful throne. As the Lord gives you strength, work with His servants to secure the good of His people. God's Word and promise are the basis of our unity and strength in Christ. • Grant Your people, O Lord, unity in faith and purpose to withstand all evil. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:1 forty years. A boy king of 7 years when he began to reign, J[eh]oash was only 47 when "his servants … struck him down" (v 21). Zibiah of Beersheba. From Judah's southernmost city. She must have perished in Athaliah's purge (11:1). See map, p 615.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:2 all his days, because Jehoiada. Or, "as long as Jehoiada" (cf 2Ch 24:2, 17–18). instructed. The Hbr verb is the basis of "Law" (torah). See p 971.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:3 Reforms by other kings were likewise only partly successful. high places. See p 526.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 11:21–12:3 Through faithful instruction, the Lord's priest Jehoiada leads Joash to have a long and blessed reign. As the Lord grants you opportunity, faithfully instruct the children in your charge through God's Word, which alone can lead to a good and hopeful life. The Lord, who Himself studied, learned, and grew as a child, will strengthen and support you in this loving work, even as He forgives your weaknesses and covers your sins. • Teach me to walk in Your ways, O Lord, and to guide young people in the paths of truth. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:4 money of the holy things. General term for all money set aside for sacred purposes, which included the required temple tax and freewill contributions. (Cf Ex 30:11–16 for the religious poll tax; cf Ex 35:5; Lv 27:1–8 for regulations regarding voluntary offerings.) heart prompts him. See note, Ex 35:29.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:5 priests … donor. Priests were to collect funds from those laypeople with whom they were personally acquainted. According to 2Ch 24:5, there was a solicitation among all Israel. donor. Occurs only here and in v 7. If it refers to a fellow officiant in the temple, then the priests were also to ask their associates to contribute to the fund.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:6 Corruption may have hindered the work (cf v 15).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:7–8 King was concerned about the waste of the people's generosity.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:7 donors. See note, v 5.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:9 a chest. In Jesus' time, there was a receptacle in the temple for special contributions ("the treasury," Mt 27:6). Jehoiada placed the chest "beside the altar" of burnt offering that stood in a courtyard outside the temple proper (2Ch 24:8). priests. Apparently a different group from the collectors in v 8. guarded the threshold. Watching the entry to the temple. See notes, 23:4; 1Ch 9:17–33.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:11 workmen who had the oversight. A new, more honest group (cf v 15).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:13–14 not made. At first, all collected money was necessary to make structural repairs. After these were completed, funds continued to come in, with which "were made utensils for the house of the LORD" (2Ch 24:14).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:16 guilt offerings and … sin offerings. See notes, Lv 4:3; 5:15–16; Nu 18:8.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:17 Gath. To reach this Philistine city, c 25 mi SW of Jerusalem, the Syrian king had swept down from the north "throughout the territory of Israel" (10:32).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:18 Tribute was paid, to pursue peace. Pious King Asa had to resort to the same humiliation (1Ki 15:18). treasuries. See note, 1Ch 26:20–28.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:4–18 The Lord's house receives much needed attention from Jehoash, Jehoiada, and other faithful servants. Care for sacred duties is an act of worship, just as surely as the singing of a hymn or the saying of a prayer. Today, regard the church offerings and your church property with due diligence. By the Word of His house, the Lord will instruct you in faith, life, and the way of salvation. • O Savior, I offer back to You what You have first so generously provided to me. Continually bless me by Your Word. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:20 house of Millo. Hbr, "Beth-millo"; see notes, Jgs 9:6; 2Sm 5:9. Silla. Location unknown.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 12:19–21 Joash, who began so well, comes to a sorrowful end because he departs from the Lord's way. Through faith, let the end of your life honor your Savior and your heritage. Jesus, who abides with you always, will day by day forgive your faults and deliver you from temptation. His instruction and presence are everlasting. • O Lord, let Your mercies be new for me every morning to the end of my days. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON Ch 13 Before taking up the reign of Amaziah, the next king of Judah (12:21; 14:1–22), the author turns to two contemporary rulers in the Northern Kingdom: Jehoahaz (vv 1–9) and J[eh]oash (vv 10–25).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:2 sins of Jeroboam. See note, 1Ki 12:28.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:3 Hazael. Cf 1Ki 19:15–17. Ben-hadad. Not the same as in 1Ki 20.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:4 sought the favor of the LORD. Not necessarily in repentance (cf v 6), but an acknowledgment that Israel had given offense to the Lord. favor. See p 6.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:5 a savior. Hbr moshia'. See note, Jgs 3:15; see also p 380. Israel was saved from oppression by the Syrians because the Syrians had to defend their eastern borders against inroads by the Assyrians. The situation is ironic, since the Assyrians would later take Israel into exile. This relief from Syrian pressure was evident particularly under the next two Israelite kings: Jehoash (v 25) and Jeroboam II (14:27). See note, Jgs 3:9.

homes as formerly. Refugees from the wars returned to the border towns that the Syrians had overrun.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:6 sins of … Jeroboam. See note, 1Ki 12:28. Asherah. See note, Ex 34:13.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:7 ten chariots. Israel's military strength had all but vanished. According to Assyrian records, Ahab had once been able to field a cavalry contingent of 2,000 chariots. like the dust at threshing. Useless, fine dust that was normally blown away or burned. See note, Ps 1:4.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:8 Chronicles. See p 335–37.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:9 See note, 1Ki 2:10. Joash. Or, "Jehoash" (vv 10–25).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:1–9 In dire threat from the Syrians, Jehoahaz is one of the few Israelite kings to seek the Lord's favor. God's favor is ever available, especially for those who sincerely repent of their sins (which Jehoahaz failed to do). The repentant will not have a savior like the Assyrians but will have the true Savior, Christ Jesus, who bears away our sins and establishes an eternal homeland for us. • Savior Jesus, have mercy on me according to Your surpassing favor. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:10 Joash … Jehoash. King of Judah (ch 12) and the king of Israel had the same name: Jehoash. Both are known also by the shorter form Joash (12:19).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:11 sins of Jeroboam. See note, 1Ki 12:28. walked. See p 7.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:12 against Amaziah. Cf 14:8–14 for the battle between the two kings. Chronicles. See p 335–37.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:13 See note, 1Ki 2:10.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:10–13 Jehoahaz walks in his forebears' ways and renews war with Judah, using the respite from Syria to multiply his sins. God's mercy is abused most when used as an opportunity to do evil. As the Lord has mercy on you, exercise mercy and kindness toward others. His mercy is the dearest treasure of His great and gracious reign, by which He grants forgiveness for your sins. • Lord, grant me opportunities for faithful service and the heart to act on them. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:14 fallen sick. Some 50 years had passed since Elisha had helped put Jehu on the throne (9:1–13). Now old and stricken with a fatal illness, he had one more message to deliver. My father. See p 555. The chariots of Israel and its horsemen! See note, 2:12.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:16 laid his hands on the king's hands. Expressing a bond with the king and a blessing of the deeds committed with his hands. The gesture symbolized that the arrow became "the LORD's arrow of victory" (v 17) because divine power was transmitted to the king. (For other symbolic acts, see notes, Jsh 8:18; 1Ki 22:11; cf Jer 19:10–11.) See p 1220.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:17 Open the window. Elisha freed the king to make the shots. Aphek. Various sites bore the name, which in Hbr means "fortress" (see note, 1Ki 20:26). This Aphek probably was located east of the Sea of Chinnereth.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:18 Strike … with them. Elisha refers to shooting all the arrows. three times and stopped. Rather than making an "end of them" (v 17).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:19 five or six times. Shooting to the end of the quiver. The strikes represent victorious battles against Syria.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:20 bands of Moabites. Raiders, seeking spoil or slaves. spring. See calendar, p 262.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:21 thrown. Placed hastily. grave of Elisha. Burials were in caves or tombs, where numerous corpses would be placed. bones. Corpses would decay down to the bones in about a year. The bones would be lying on a bench, where another body might be laid. See p 1651. revived. A resurrection amid a decaying kingdom, oppressed by Syrian armies, raiders, and unfaithful rulers. The Lord works one last miracle through Elisha, a shocking illustration that the Lord is the master of life and the future. Ambr: "Why should we wonder … that flesh returns to the bones [in the resurrection], when we remember the dead raised by the touch of the prophet's body?" (NPNF 2 10:187).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:22 oppressed. Or, "had oppressed." The servile condition of Israel under Joash's predecessor is recalled in contrast with the freedom promised in v 17.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:23 gracious … compassion. Chem: "It is correct to say that grace is mercy. For the word cha¯nan is translated this way by the interpreters, and the word 'to have mercy' is often joined with [it]" (LTh 2:524). See p 842. covenant. Writer reaches back past David to the beginning of Israel as a people chosen and blessed by God. In their rebellion and failure, their heritage wears away down to the first promise from God, which became the last basis of hope. presence until now. At the time this passage was written, Israel still stood as a people. See note, Jsh 4:9.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:24 Ben-hadad. See note, v 3.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 13:14–25 The end of Elisha's life signals lingering hope for the Israelites as the Lord's covenant people. But it also signals the loss of their last great prophet, whose service kept them connected to the Lord. When matters appear hostile or even hopeless, remember that the Lord is gracious and compassionate. He cannot forget you and will not cast you aside. • Revive me, O living Savior; draw me to Your side as Your beloved child. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:1 History of Southern Kingdom, which ended at 12:21 with the note that Amaziah succeeded Joash, his assassinated father, now resumes.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:3 not like David. Kingdom would continue to erode.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:4 high places. See p 526.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:5 struck down. See note, 1Ki 2:31.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:6 Book. The Five Books of Moses are treated as a unit. See pp 3–5.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:7 Edomites. They had "revolted from the rule of Judah" some 50 years before, during the time of Joram of Judah (8:20–22). By defeating the Edomites, Amaziah opened the trade routes south to Elath on the Gulf of Aqaba (v 22; cf 1Ki 9:26–28 for Solomon's use of this port). Valley of Salt. Marshy region near the Salt Sea. See map, p 500. Sela. Lit, "rock," later known by its Gk name "Petra." Joktheel. Probably meaning "vanquished by God." to this day. Time when Edomite campaign was recorded, which author of Kings cites. See note, Jsh 4:9.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:8 look … in the face. Meet face-to-face, perhaps for the sake of a political marriage and treaty. On Israel-Judah relations, see notes, 1Ki 3:1–2; 16:22; 22:4.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:9 A thistle. Similar fable was told by Jotham (cf Jgs 9:8–15). cedar. Representing Jehoash of Israel, who magnifies himself against Amaziah.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:10 Jehoash's response likely indicates that Amaziah's request included assertion of rights to the throne of Israel.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:11 Beth-shemesh. C 15 mi W of Jerusalem. See map, p 615.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:12 every man fled. A full retreat.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:13 Ephraim Gate. On north side of Jerusalem; opening on a road to Ephraim. Corner Gate. At northwest corner of Jerusalem's wall.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:14 seized … the vessels. Plundering the temple showed disregard for the Lord. hostages. Lit, "sons of the pledges," held for ransom.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:15 Chronicles. See p 335–37.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:16 See note, 1Ki 2:10.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:18 Chronicles. See pp 335–37.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:19 they. Conspirators are never identified but likely included leaders of Judah who disapproved of Amaziah's disastrous policy. (Amaziah was not said to have the counsel of God's prophets.) Since kings were not impeached, assassination was a common means for changing policy. Lachish. C 35 mi SW of Jerusalem. See map, p 615.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:20 Apparently, the conspirators arranged for a respectful state funeral.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:21 Although Amaziah and his father were victims of assassination, the Davidic dynasty continued. In the Northern Kingdom, assassinations led to new ruling houses. See notes, 1Ki 15:33; 16:7.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:22 Elath. Cf 1Ki 9:26. slept with his fathers. See note, 1Ki 2:10.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:1–22 Amaziah serves the Lord, yet he overestimates his power and tries to gain influence in the kingdom of Israel, which defeats him. Faith is not a guarantee of success. Pride leads to downfall. Enact your plans with reflection on God's Word, with prayer, and with wisdom from God. The Lord watches over those who are His and welcomes them by faith as noble children of His everlasting kingdom. • Lord, grant me the wisdom of Your Word, along with bold faith, that I may serve You with peace of mind and enduring hope. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:23–29 Only seven verses are devoted to the long and politically noteworthy reign of Jeroboam II.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:24 sins of Jeroboam. See note, 1Ki 12:28.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:25 restored the border. During Jeroboam II's reign, both Syria and Assyria were too weak to prevent the extension of his domain as far north as Lebo-hamath (see note, 1Ki 8:65) and as far south as the Sea of the Arabah (Salt Sea). The prosperity that followed this expansion brought moral degeneracy, social evils, and religious corruption, which in turn called forth vehement denunciations and dire threats of punishment by the prophets Amos (Am 2:6–8) and Hosea (Hos 4:1–2). the LORD, the God of Israel. See p 1227. The Lord had not given up on the Northern Kingdom but continued to send them true prophets. Jonah. The international situation that made possible Jeroboam's rise to power was not an accident of history. The Lord of the nations made it known in advance through the same prophet whom He chose to bring a message of repentance to the Assyrians. Gath-hepher. Israelite town north of Nazareth. See map, p 1479.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:26 affliction … bitter. Constant attack from Syria, rivalry with Judah, and internal strife decimated them. none left, bond or free. Israel so lacked proper leadership that God had to raise up Jeroboam II if the people were to continue. help. See note, Ps 72:12–14.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:27 blot out. Cf 8:19. saved. See "salvation," p 843.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:28 Damascus and Hamath. Portions of these kingdoms formerly belonged to Judah. Jeroboam II exercised authority far to the north, reaching back to the glory of David's and Solomon's reigns. See map, p 609. Chronicles. See p 335–37.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:29 See note, 1Ki 2:10.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 14:23–29 The Lord grants Israel an opportunity to reestablish its kingdom through Jeroboam II, as prophesied by Jonah. The Lord again shows remarkable patience for His rebellious people on the basis of His promises and compassion, proclaimed in Dt 32. If members of your family have wandered from the faith they professed before the Church, do not stop praying for them or proclaiming the Word to them. With the Lord there is great compassion, and His promises uphold us. • Lord, grant restoration to those who wander. Grant me patience as I pray for them and wait on You. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:1–7 Azariah. Long reign of Judah's next king (52 years), also called Uzziah (vv 13, 30, 34), is allotted no more space than his contemporary Jeroboam II in Israel received (14:23–29). In Azariah's case also, there is no record of his political and military activity, even though he extended the borders of Judah so that the territory of the two kingdoms at this time approximated the size of David's empire (14:22; 2Ch 26:6–15). Though the writer cites material prosperity as an example of spiritual blessing, as happens with Solomon (1Ki 3), he consistently leaps over examples of material prosperity to press his greater case: the Lord of history keeps His covenant promises. (See notes, 1Ki 16:22, 25, 27.)

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:4 high places. See p 526.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:5 touched. Or, "struck," implying punishment. a leper. Account in 2Ch 26 states that the Lord touched him with this disease because he usurped the priestly function of offering incense in the temple.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:7 See note, 1Ki 2:10.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:1–7 Azariah prospers with God's blessing but also faces His judgment, which brings isolation. Prosperity or sin can divide you from the Lord and His people. Repent daily and focus on the Word, which will prosper you in God's mercy, wisdom, and love. Rejoice in your freedom to gather with the saints for prayer and to receive the Word and the Sacraments, the greatest treasures. • O Lord, whether my house is full or bare, fill my heart with love of Your Word and my mouth with praise for Your saving name. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:8 Zechariah. Not the prophet who lived c 225 years later (Zec 1:1).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:8–31 Covers 22 years of Israelite history. During these turbulent times, following the vigorous reign of Jeroboam II, no fewer than five kings laid claim to the throne. One maintained himself only a month; three were assassinated; only one succeeded his father.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:9 sins of Jeroboam. See note, 1Ki 12:28.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:10 struck him down. Zechariah was the last descendant of Jehu, fulfilling the Word of the Lord that Jehu's sons were to sit on the throne of Israel to "the fourth generation" (10:30). Ibleam. See note, 9:27.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:11 Chronicles. See p 335–37.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:12 See note, v 10.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:8–12 During Zechariah's reign, the Lord returns to judgment against Israel, ending Jehu's dynasty, as He had said. Earthly prosperity and power are at the Lord's discretion, to add or remove according to His purposes. Therefore, do not entrust your future to your strength or the strength of your family. The Lord alone is your strength and salvation. • O Lord, look upon me with favor, and preserve my life and family by grace. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:13–14 Shallum, Zechariah's assassin, was struck down by another conspirator, Menahem, who put down all resistance with the most barbarous atrocities (v 16; Hos 13:16; Am 1:13).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:14 Tirzah. Onetime capital of Israel, replaced by Samaria (1Ki 16:24).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:15 conspiracy. To usurp the throne. Chronicles. See pp 335–337.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:16 Tiphsah. Allotted to Ephraim (Jsh 17:8), this city was located c 15 mi S of Tirzah. See note, 1Ki 14:17; see also color map 3. did not open. They would not surrender to his reign. ripped open. Brutality, intended to destroy the city's next generation. See note, 8:12; cf Hos 13:16.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:13–16 Shallum, the conspirator, has a remarkably short reign. Divided loyalties in Israel lead to even greater brutality. When you experience frustration or rejection, do not resort to violence but take your frustrations to the Lord in prayer. His counsel will deliver you from the heat of anger and calm your troubled spirit. • Jesus, grant me passion for all that is good, but deliver me by Your Passion from all that is evil, and grant me peace. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:17 Menahem. Mentioned alongside other kings in a tribute list for Tiglath-pileser III of Assyria.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:18 sins of Jeroboam. See note, 1Ki 12:28.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:19 Pul. Assyrian king Tiglath-pileser (v 29), known in Babylon as Pul, reigned 744–728 BC. With his help, Menahem was able "to confirm his hold on the royal power," ending the bloody rivalry for the throne. Six years after Pul's death, the Assyrian army was to capture Samaria and crush Israel's independence. See map, p 609.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:20 exacted the money. A property tax. fifty shekels. To make up the required sum of "a thousand talents of silver" (v 19), more than 50,000 "wealthy men" had to each contribute c $30. (See p cx.) This general prosperity was soon to end.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:21 Chronicles. See pp 335–37.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:22 See note, 1Ki 2:10.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:17–22 Assyria, the kingdom by which the Lord will eventually punish Israel with exile, now appears and takes tribute. Israel would fall within a generation's time. God's people should not put off repentance. Instead, learn to lead your children and grandchildren in a life of repentance, based on God's Law and promised mercy in Christ. For the Lord is merciful to a thousand generations of those who love Him. • Send now Your mercy, dear Father. Please do not delay. Turn our hearts, and draw us to You in Christ. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:23–25 Conspiracies and infighting continued in the Northern Kingdom. After occupying the throne for only two years, Pekahiah lost his life in another military coup. Pekah, who conspired against him, in turn was struck down by Hoshea (v 30), the last of the Israelite kings.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:25 his captain. This was a military coup. Gilead. East of the Jordan, where Assyria would threaten first. See color map 2. The Gileadites likely served as the king's bodyguards. citadel. In this part of "the king's house," Zimri, an earlier contender for the throne, also died a violent death (1Ki 16:18). Argob and Arieh. Aides who died with their king.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:26 Chronicles. See pp 335–37.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:23–26 Under pressure from Assyria, the Israelites once again conspire against their king, Pekahiah, and establish yet another vulnerable rule. When times are difficult, you may feel tempted to turn on those close to you, but that will only bring further despair. Instead, turn to the Lord in prayer, requesting peace and unity through the Gospel, which unites God's people through Baptism in His name and communion in His Supper. • Lord, remove from us every conspiracy for human power. Move us to pray for one another and to support one another in peace. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:27 twenty years. Chronology of this period presents particularly serious difficulties. See p 529.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:28 sins of Jeroboam. See note, 1Ki 12:28.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:29 Pekah and his Syrian ally Rezin, whose land formed a buffer state between Israel and Assyria, tried to put a stop to Tiglath-pileser's conquests by forcing Judah into an alliance against their common enemy. Despite this maneuver, briefly noted in v 37 and further explained in 16:5–17:5, Tiglath-pileser overran Israelite cities and territories on both sides of the Jordan. captive to Assyria. Deportation of inhabitants from invaded territories, initiated by Tiglath-pileser, was designed to break their resistance to the conqueror.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:30 Samaria and the adjacent area retained some semblance of independence under the next Israelite king, Hoshea. However, he ruled only by the will of his Assyrian overlord (17:3). Tiglath-pileser III recorded that he placed Hoshea on the throne and exacted 10 talents of gold and 1,000 talents of silver from him as tribute.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:31 Chronicles. See pp 335–37.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:27–31 Assyria begins to dismantle Israel during the reign of Pekah and carries away the first captives. The bondage the Israelites experienced in Egypt returns to them because they reject God's Word. In our lives too, rejection of God's Word leads to bondage. Through the Word of Christ, God sets us free. • Deliver me, O Savior, and grant me life according to Your Word. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:32 Jotham. Before continuing the story of Hoshea and the end of Israel (ch 17), the author resumes the account of Judah's kings where he left it in 15:1–7. Jotham, the first of these kings, receives the same kind of short notice accorded all kings mentioned in this chapter (vv 32–38).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:33 Zadok. Famous name, elsewhere associated with the priesthood, though no further details are given about this individual.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:35 high places. See p 526. built. Repaired. upper gate. Cf 11:19; Jer 20:2. house of the LORD. The temple.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:36 Chronicles. See p 335–37.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:37 Pressure on Judah by this northern coalition began to build up during Jotham's reign; its full thrust came in the days of his son Ahaz (16:5–17:5). Syria and Israel cajoled Judah to join them against Assyria. (Assyrian records show that Rezin was the last true Syrian ruler at Damascus. He was already a vassal to Assyria.) Pressure comes in the form of temptation for Judah to trust in human resources rather than in the Lord.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:38 See note, 1Ki 2:10. David his father. Judah's stability, rooted in God's promise to David (2Sm 7), offers an important contrast with the instability of Israel.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 15:32–38 King Jotham of Judah faces pressure from the kings of Syria and Israel, who tempt him to focus on human alliances and strength rather than on the Lord. God, of course, is not opposed to alliances, friendships, or trust between His subjects. Indeed, He calls us to faithfulness in such relationships. Yet, He places the greatest importance on trust in His salvation. He is our greatest ally against misplaced faith and false saviors. • Jesus, author and perfecter of my faith, lead me to do what is right in the eyes of the Lord. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:2 his father David. All Judean rulers were compared with David, the ideal king and founder of Judah's dynasty.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:3–4 Record leaves no doubt that Ahaz rivaled the northern kings in wickedness. He engaged in all "the despicable practices" of Canaanite Baal worship (vv 1–4).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:3 burned his son. Offering him to an idol (see ESV note). Cf 2Ch 28:3, where Hbr verb "to burn" is used; see also the account of human sacrifice by the king of Edom (2Ki 17:31). Ahaz's grandson Manasseh likewise "burned his son as an offering" (21:6). Such a practice was typically associated with the gods Chemosh and Molech. See p 403. Luth: "Reverence and fear constitute the true and God-pleasing worship. If Abraham had killed his son because of foolish zeal and with contempt for the Word of God as Ahaz did (2 Kings 16:3), it would indeed have been myrrh, that is, a difficult and painful sacrifice that distresses the heart. But God does not look at the outward work; He looks at the heart itself" (AE 4:100). despicable … nations. In Dt 12:31, Moses warned the Israelites not to adopt the practice of the Canaanites, who "burn their sons and their daughters in the fire to their gods" (cf Jer 7:31; 19:4–5; Ezk 16:20; 20:31). the LORD drove out. See notes, Jsh 3:10; 23:9.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:4 high places. See p 526. under every green tree. See note, Ex 34:13.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:5 wage war. Cf 15:29 for the reason behind this so-called Syro-Ephraimitic war, which also was the occasion for the Immanuel prophecy (Is 7).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:6 king of Syria. LXX has "King of Edom." Hbr words for Edom and Aram (Syria), which originally had no vowels, are composed of consonants that look similar (see note, 3:26). Earlier, Uzziah had defeated the Edomites; Elath, the southern port city, had been occupied by Amaziah (see notes, 14:7, 22). Edomites came to Elath. Perhaps the Edomites were allied with Syria and gained by their ally's victories in the north; they were likely contending with Judah over sources of copper. to this day. See note, Jsh 4:9.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:7 your son. See p 555.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:8 a present. Tribute. See note, Jgs 3:15.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:9 Kir. Probably a city on the Euphrates, where they had sojourned before they migrated farther north and east (Am 9:7).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:10 Damascus. Capital of Syria; lay across the conqueror's path into Israel. Tiglath-pileser therefore "marched up against Damascus and took it" (v 9) before he overran Israel (15:29). Ten years later, Israel's capital, Samaria, would be captured by the Assyrians. model of the altar. After receiving aid from Tiglath-pileser in his struggle against the kings of Israel and Syria (vv 5–9), Ahaz also had an Assyrian altar erected in the Jerusalem temple (vv 10–18). Ahaz manifested abject submission to Tiglath-pileser by giving the worship of the Assyrian idol a place in the Jerusalem temple.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:12 went up on it. The altar was significantly elevated. Cf Ex 20:26.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:14 bronze altar. Made by Solomon (1Ki 8:64). It lost its place of prominence to the replica of "the great altar" of the Assyrian god Asshur, whose worship the conqueror already had established in the former Syrian capital (2Ki 16:14–15).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:15–16 As happened under Jeroboam in Israel, Ahaz corrupted and replaced the true worship of Yahweh with false worship. Uriah's complicity shows the weakness and corruption of the Levitical priesthood. Daily sacrifices would now be offered to another god.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:15 offering of all the people. Ahaz dragged the nation into his sin. inquire by. The apostate king may have gone so far in desecrating the bronze altar as to use it for examining entrails of sacrificial animals for good or bad omens, a mode of divination used also by the king of Babylon (Ezk 21:21). However, he may have retained it for inquiring of the Lord, mixing religions as happened in Israel.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:17 See notes, 1Ki 7:23, 26, 27.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:18 he caused to go around. Unclear why structural changes were made in the temple "because of the king of Assyria," i.e., in deference to him.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 16:20 See note, 1Ki 2:10.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON Ch 16 After generations of relatively faithful rulers, Judah is led badly astray by Ahaz, who is cowed by the pressures from Israel, Syria, and Assyria. In savage irony, the wicked King Ahaz, who sacrifices his son to a false god, would receive the sign of Immanuel that announced the coming of the Son of God, our Savior (Is 7:10–25; 9:6–7; 11:1–9). At all times—even the worst of times—the Lord has us and our salvation on His heart. • Deliver us, O Lord, from wicked leaders who would corrupt or impede the offerings and praise of Your dear people. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:1–23 End of Hoshea's short reign also marked fall of Samaria and dissolution of Northern Kingdom. Brief description of events leading up to this catastrophe (vv 1–6) is followed by a longer review of the reason why this calamity befell Israel. From the time God brought the chosen people up from Egypt, they "despised His statutes and His covenant" (v 15), "provoking Him to anger" (v 17). The Lord was very patient with His apostate children. "But they would not listen" (v 14) when He repeatedly called them to repentance. Finally, their measure of iniquity was full. "Very angry with Israel," He "removed them out of His sight" (v 18), as He had spoken by all His "servants the prophets" (v 23).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:2 not as the kings of Israel. How Hoshea's evil differed is not explained. Likely, he did not practice the religion introduced by Jeroboam. See note, 1Ki 12:28.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:3 vassal … tribute. To prevent invasion.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:4 treachery. According to Assyrian records, Hoshea's conspiracy against Pekah succeeded because he accepted support from Tiglath-pileser (15:29–30). When the latter's son Shalmaneser came to the throne, the Israelite puppet king did not remain a tribute-paying vassal for long. Misled by a promise of help from Egypt (which never came), he threw off the Assyrian yoke. So. No pharaoh by that name has been found in Egyptian records. It may represent a transliterated Egyptian common noun meaning "vizier"; the sentence would then read "he had sent messengers to the vizier of the king of Egypt." king … prison. Shalmaneser lost no time in putting down the insurrection by imprisoning Hoshea.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:5 Archaeological surveys of Samaria and its major cities attest to the total destruction wrought by the Assyrians.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:1–5 Hoshea, the last king of Israel, placates the Assyrians, conspires against them, and even resists them for three years.

All of these strategies fail to save the kingdom. All human efforts to hold on to God's blessings and promises—embodied here in the Promised Land—are doomed to fail. Israel received God's call and blessings by grace through faith, which is the only way we receive God's blessings still today. • O Lord, I cannot by my own reason or strength attain and hold Your blessings. Grant them all to me by grace in Christ. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:6 king of Assyria. In his annals, Shalmaneser's successor, Sargon (721–705 BC), takes credit for destroying Samaria. He claims to have taken 27,280 captives into exile, no doubt the upper social stratum. Broader calculations from Assyrian records for Tiglath-pileser III and Sargon II total c 50,000 deportees from Israel to Mesopotamia. Halah. Unidentifiable site. Gozan. City on the Habor River, which empties into the middle Euphrates. cities of the Medes. South of the Caspian Sea. See map, p 609. Here, the so-called "lost tribes" lost their national identity. Most of them were integrated with the population of their new homes.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:6 Settled in distant lands, the northern tribes are more or less lost to history. Speculators have proposed numerous accounts of what happened to them. Some groups have even claimed to be Israel's descendants. All such theories have proven false and fruitless. The Lord has erased the heritage of these rebellious people. The enduring heritage of the OT passed from Judah, through Jesus, the Son of David, to all people who would receive the promises and blessings of God by grace. • Preserve Your Word and heritage among us, O Lord, from generation to generation. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:7–23 Summarizes major issues and theological themes.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:7 this occurred. Disappearance of Northern Kingdom and later the fall of Jerusalem (vv 19–20) were the result of God's direction of world history. Proud, cruel Assyria was unaware that it served God's purpose. It was the rod of His anger on a people who did not keep His covenant (Is 10:5–19). feared. See p 1001.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:8 walked. See p 7. customs. Elsewhere translated "statutes." See p 971. the nations whom the LORD drove out. Canaanites. See notes, Jsh 3:10; 23:9.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:9 high places. See p 526. from watchtower to fortified city. See note, 18:8.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:10 pillars … Asherim. See notes, Gn 28:18; Ex 34:13.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:13 prophet … seer. See note, 1Sm 9:9. Turn. See p 1080. commandments … statutes … Law. See p 971. sent … by My servants the prophets. Not only the preaching but also the writings that would finally be gathered as Scripture. This summarizes the appeal for repentance that the prophets consistently preached, a message firmly rooted in God's Word as recorded in the Books of Moses (Scripture at that time) and the Lord's revelations in connection with Scripture. See p 320.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:15 covenant. See p 127. false idols. Lit, "vanity." See note, Ec 1:2.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:16 metal images of two calves. See note, 1Ki 12:28. Asherah. See note, Ex 34:13. host of heaven. Astral deities; worship of them was forbidden. Cf Dt 17:3; see note, Dt 4:19. Baal. See note, Nu 25:3.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:17 burned. See note, 16:3. divination and omens. See note, Dt 18:10–11. sold themselves. Free people could sell themselves as slaves to pay off debt. See notes, Ex 21:2–7.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:18 Judah only. Tribes of Benjamin and Simeon were more or less absorbed by Judah to form the Southern Kingdom called "Judah." Many Levites would also have dwelt there because of the Jerusalem temple. See map, p 615.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:19 walked. See p 7.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:20 afflicted. Not just in punishment by the Assyrians but throughout Israel's history.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:22 sins that Jeroboam did. See note, 1Ki 12:28.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:23 Israel was exiled. Main group was taken in 722 BC. until this day. Time when record was written on which the author of Kings drew for this account. See note, Jsh 4:9.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:7–23 The Lord allowed Israel to fall and go into exile as a warning to all generations of believers. The NT, too, warns us to guard our doctrine and life lest we fall away from the Lord. God calls us to teach His Word faithfully to each generation, emphasizing His Law (by which the Lord leads us to daily repentance) and His promises of the covenant in Christ (by which He grants us everlasting salvation). • "Help us Your holy Law to learn, To mourn our sin and from it turn In faith to You and to Your Son And Holy Spirit, Three in One." Amen. (LSB 865:2)

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:24 brought people. Deportation of the inhabitants and importation of foreigners was designed to break the spirit of nationalism in occupied countries. Archaeological surveys at Samaria show the Assyrians ending their policy of destruction and beginning reconstruction for the new settlers. Intermarriage between the remaining Israelites and the heathen newcomers produced "the Samaritans" (v 29; see p 1557). Babylon, Cuthah, Avva, Hamath, and Sepharvaim. Eastern regions conquered by the Assyrians. Some locations are unknown. See map, p 609.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:25 fear the LORD. See p 1001. lions. Asiatic lions. Through creation, God displays His displeasure with the pagan settlers.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:26 god of the land. Ancient people typically believed in local deities or spirits, which inhabited a place. Though the Promised Land was special to the Lord, the people failed to see that He was also Lord of all creation. See note, 1Ki 20:23.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:27–28 The Lord tolerates and works with the foreigners' misunderstanding, that they might learn His Word. See note, Ex 12:19.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:29 gods of its own. Although the repatriated priest taught the immigrants how they should fear the LORD (v 32), they "also served their own gods" (v 33) whom they had worshiped in their homeland. They came from widely separated places: from Babylon south of Assyria to Hamath in northern Syria. Their gods also represented a motley assortment, some of whom have not been identified (vv 30–31).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:30–31 List includes Babylonian, Elamite, and unknown gods.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:32 high places. See p 526.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:33–34 fear the LORD. By their syncretistic religion, the new settlers thought "they feared the LORD," but their religion was displeasing to Him, as was Israel's agelong failure to have no other gods besides Him (Ex 20:3).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:34 To this day. See note, v 23. statutes … rules … law … commandment. See p 971.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:35 See note, Dt 32:39.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:35–40 An aside, rehearsing essential features of the covenant established under Moses with Israel, which the priest (v 28) would need to teach to the people.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:41 these nations. After condemning Israel's past unfaithfulness (vv 34b–40), the writer returns briefly to the mixed worship of the Samaritans. By the time of Jesus, they no longer "served their carved images." See "Samaritans," p 1557. to this day. See note, v 23.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 17:24–41 Through a priest and teaching about the covenant, the Lord reaches out to the people settled in Israel. The Lord had commanded Israel to deal graciously with sojourners and to teach them the faith and practices of the true God (see note, Ex 12:19). He would have us deal kindly and patiently with sojourners and guests among us, proclaiming to them God's Law and Gospel, by which the Lord consecrates for Himself a people. • Lord, grant me an open heart to share Your Word and patience with those who know little about You. Lead our congregations to focus on this important mission. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON Chs 18–25 Story returns to the kings of Judah and the kingdom's ultimate downfall under the Babylonians.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON Ch 18–20 Hezekiah. Fall of Northern Kingdom occurred in the early part of the reign of Hezekiah, the pious son of wicked Ahaz (18:9–10). Six more kings were to occupy the throne of Judah. Chs 18–19 tell what happened when Hezekiah "rebelled against the king of Assyria" (18:7), whose vassal he had become after the fall of Samaria.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:2 twenty-five years old. Hezekiah's father was only 36 when he died (16:2). Zechariah. Likely not the prophet who wrote the Book of Zechariah.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:4 high places. See p 526. pillars … Asherah. See notes, Gn 28:18; Ex 34:13. the bronze serpent. Hezekiah's reform was more thorough than that of his predecessors. He even broke the bronze serpent to which the people burned incense as if it were an idol, perhaps a symbol of fertility or healing. See note, Nu 21:9. Nehushtan. Combination of Hbr words for serpent and bronze.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:5 trusted. Hbr batach, rarely used in 1 and 2Ki but is used repeatedly in ch 18 for the story of Hezekiah. God of Israel. See p 1227.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:6 When Israel went into exile, the Lord raised up an exceptional king for Judah who was well acquainted with the Law of Moses.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:7 the LORD was with him. See "be with," p 5. wherever he went. To war. rebelled. Results of his rebellion are given in 18:13–19:37. Actually, Jerusalem almost shared Samaria's fate, briefly recalled (vv 9–12).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:8 struck down the Philistines. Events mentioned in the introductory survey of Hezekiah's reign (vv 1–8) are not dated. His campaign against the Philistines may have been an attempt to force the coastal cities to join him in his rebellion against the Assyrians. Gaza. See map, p 615. from watchtower to fortified city. Battlements small and great, an expression that may describe the military outposts along the Judean hills. See note, 2Ch 11:5.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:9–10 Provides a link from the earlier history (17:6) to the setting for 18:13–19:37.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:1–12 The Lord raises up Hezekiah to guide Judah through its most challenging moment, facing the great Assyrian Empire. Like Hezekiah, you are to trust and serve the one true God without compromise, presenting a positive testimony of His grace. The Lord will support you in the face of every obstacle, equipping you through His Word (v 6). • "I am trusting Thee to guide me; Thou alone shalt lead, Ev'ry day and hour supplying All my need." Amen. (LSB 729:4)

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:13 fourteenth year. According to Assyrian records, this was 701 BC, which in turn should have been Hezekiah's 28th year, for according to vv 9–10, Samaria's fall (722 BC) took place in the sixth year of his reign. Likely, his first 14 years are here reckoned as a period before he assumed sole regency. Sennacherib. Succeeded Sargon to rule Assyria (704–681 BC). In his annals, he relates how after four years he was able to deal with rebellious groups in the west, including Hezekiah. According to Assyrian records, when Sennacherib held a rally of his vassals to gather tribute, Hezekiah and a few rulers did not attend. fortified cities. Judah's line of defense along the hill country. There may have been as many as 46.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:14 Lachish. Strongly fortified city, c 28 mi SW of Jerusalem, guarded the main road from the lowlands up to Judah's capital. See map, p 615. Before proceeding to Jerusalem, Sennacherib took time to capture Lachish, not wanting to have a center of resistance at his rear. I have done wrong. He had resisted Assyrian demands for tribute. impose. Tribute to assure peace. A relief depicting the siege records Sennacherib reviewing the tribute. Archaeological remains at Tell ed-Duweir show the Assyrian siege ramp and a counterramp raised by the Judeans. Sennacherib's records boast the conquest of 46 Judean settlements during the campaign and the deportation of c 200,000 people.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:15–16 gave him all the silver. Still safe behind Jerusalem's walls, Hezekiah sent Sennacherib a huge amount of gold and silver, apparently with the understanding that nothing beyond payment of tribute was expected of him (vv 13–18). To make the tribute payment, Hezekiah even stripped the gold foil off the recently repaired areas of the temple.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:17 Tartan … Rab-saris … Rabshakeh. Not personal names but titles of Assyrian officials. A tartan was also the commander in chief for Sargon, Sennacherib's predecessor. See note, Is 36:2. great army. 185,000 men. Cf Is 37:36. conduit of the upper pool. Here, outside the city, Isaiah had tried in vain to persuade Hezekiah's father, Ahaz, that the Lord was able to avert a threat to Jerusalem. A well-known site at the time, it can no longer be identified with certainty. Washer's Field. See note, Is 36:2.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:18 Hezekiah sent top-ranking men of his cabinet to meet Sennacherib's delegation. Such officials aided the kings since the days of Solomon (1Ki 4:1–6).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:19 this trust of yours? See note, v 5. Assyrian official maligns Hezekiah's greatest quality.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:20 mere words. See note, 19:7. rebelled against me? Cf v 14. The tribute had not satisfied Sennacherib.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:21 To rely on Egypt for help was as foolish as leaning for support on the crushed stalk of a marsh plant. The last king of the Northern Kingdom learned this lesson too late (17:4–6). Trust in Egypt proved to be a fatal mistake also in Judah's policy (Is 31:1–3).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:22 The Assyrian argued that Judah could not expect divine intervention because Hezekiah had curtailed rather than promoted the worship of the national deity. Later, he blatantly mocked the living God with the blasphemous claim that even if the Lord would put all His power at Hezekiah's disposal, He would not be able to "deliver Jerusalem" out of Sennacherib's hand (vv 30, 35; 19:4, 10). high places. See p 526. saying to Judah. The Assyrian was fully informed about Hezekiah's policies, intimidating the king with his intimate knowledge. He perhaps implies the use of spies or citizens who defected to Assyria.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:23 set riders. Even if Egypt supplied the horses, Hezekiah did not have the manpower to set riders on them.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:24 captain. Minor governing official.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:25 See note, Is 36:10.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:26 Aramaic. The kingdom of Aram or Syria did not attain world power by force of arms. However, its Semitic dialect became the language of international diplomacy, understood by government officials but not by the common people. After the Babylonian captivity, Aramaic replaced Hebrew even on the popular level. A few Aramaic words spoken by Jesus are preserved in the NT (Mk 5:41; 15:34). language of Judah. Hebrew language. people … on the wall. Troops on the ramparts were straining to listen to the negotiations. Hezekiah's officials feared that their troops would be demoralized by the Assyrian's rhetoric.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:27 doomed. Threatening a severe famine because of the siege. dung … urine? The Assyrian demonstrates a knowledge of vulgar Hbr terms. Later, scribes placed more polite terms in the margins of manuscripts so the text could be read aloud in synagogues without giving offense.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:28–35 The Rabshakeh tried to convince the people that their only hope of survival was surrender to Sennacherib. Even if they were exiled, life would be agreeable, at least preferable to death by starvation in the doomed city.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:30 trust. See note, v 5. deliver. See p 842.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:31 See note, Is 36:16.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:32 See p 236. take you away. The Assyrian promises a pleasant location for their exile. The LORD will deliver us. The Assyrian knows about or anticipates the king's encouragement and faith. See p 842.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:34 Hamath … Arpad … Sepharvaim, Hena … Ivvah? See notes, 17:29, 30–31; Is 36:19.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:36 silent. People show solidarity with their king.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:37 clothes torn. See note, Jb 1:20; cf 2Sm 3:31; Jer 41:5; Jl 2:13.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 18:13–37 An Assyrian official shows disdain for Hezekiah, but the people demonstrate their steady trust in their faithful king. At times, we may grow discouraged that there are no good leaders left. Be assured: the Lord always leads His people and can raise up faithful leaders for them. Pray for your leaders, entrusting them to Jesus Christ, the Good Shepherd. He will faithfully lead you in the way of peace. • Trustworthy Lord, bless our leaders with faith, discernment, and courage to stand up for what is right. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:1 tore his clothes. See note, Jb 1:20. sackcloth. See note, Jb 16:15. house of the LORD. The temple courts. Disaster seemed inevitable, but Hezekiah was a man of faith and prayer.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:2 senior priests. The high priest and leaders of the priestly families. Amoz. Not to be confused with another prophet, Amos. Cf 16:5–9; Is 7:12 for Hezekiah's father, Ahaz's, failure to trust in the Lord.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:3 distress … rebuke … disgrace. Hezekiah fears that the Lord is forsaking them. no strength to bring them forth. See note, Is 37:3.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:4 your God. Hezekiah feels isolated. He speaks as though Isaiah has a special connection with the Lord that he, the king, does not have. mock the living God. Hezekiah detects a weakness in the Assyrian's appeal. remnant. People of Judah would have fled into Jerusalem for safety from marauding Assyrian soldiers.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:5 servants. See note, v 2.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:6 reviled Me. Hezekiah's hunch was right. The Lord had taken offense.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:7 put a spirit in him. The Lord would set in motion a feeling of fear in his heart. rumor. Hbr word is usually translated "report" or "news." The Assyrian had mocked Hezekiah for fighting with "mere words" (18:20). The Lord plans to defeat the mighty Assyrian with just that.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:1–7 Through Isaiah, the Lord comforts Hezekiah and promises to defeat the mocking Assyrians with a mere word. Do not mock God or misuse His name! He regards words greatly and will answer you according to your words. Though His Word of rebuke has deadly force, His Word of comfort has life-giving force, as He demonstrated at creation and in the Gospel of His Son, our King. • Speak, O Lord, for Your servant is listening. Instruct me from Your Word. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:8 Libnah. Judean fortress southwest of Jerusalem. See map, p 615. Lachish. See note, 18:14.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:9 heard. The rumor God promised (v 7). Tirhakah. General and brother of a ruling pharaoh of the Twenty-fifth (Ethiopian) Dynasty, who later became king in his own right (690–664 BC). There is no record that the two armies actually met in battle. Cush. See color map 3. sent messengers. While awaiting the approach of an Ethiopian (Egyptian) army, Sennacherib was still hoping to convince the hard-pressed king of Jerusalem that it would be suicidal to continue the defense of the city.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:10 trust. See note, 18:5.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:11 devoting them to destruction. See p 6. The Assyrian increases the threat to Jerusalem.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:12 gods of the nations. Sennacherib claimed that the idols of the peoples whom he defeated were no match for the Assyrian gods. The cities and areas mentioned here are in part those cited on the Rabshakeh's first visit to prove how futile it was to resist his master (18:34). Some cities have not been identified. See notes, 17:29–31. Eden. Likely a state on the upper Euphrates known in extrabiblical sources as Bit-'Adinni.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:8–13 The Lord shakes the Assyrian's confidence with a report about the Egyptians coming to Judah's aid. Today, have confidence in God's Word, though scoffers and critics may despise it. What the Lord promises, He performs and works salvation for all who trust in Him. • Grant me life, O Lord, according to Your Word. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:14–19 Contrast Hezekiah's response with Israel's in 17:14–17. Hezekiah's prayer is rooted in Yahweh's uniqueness.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:14 See note, Is 37:14.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:15 enthroned above the cherubim. See note, Ezk 10:1; see also p 495. You alone. Thorough denial of Sennacherib's assertion that idols directed the fate of "the kingdoms of the earth." See note, Dt 6:4.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:16 Hezekiah appealed to the only "living God," the Creator of heaven and earth, who had condescended to reveal Himself to Israel, "enthroned above the cherubim" (v 15) of the ark of the covenant (see notes, Ezk 10:1; Ex 25:18–20; Nu 7:89; 1Ki 8:12). mock the living God. See note, v 4.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:18 Cf Dt 4:28; 28:36, 64; 29:17; Is 44:9–20; Ezk 20:32 for descriptions of other gods as nothing more than "wood and stone."

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:19 save us. See "salvation," p 843. the earth may know. Jerusalem's deliverance would demonstrate to all kingdoms of the earth that the world conqueror, who had cast the gods of the other nations into the fire, could not "mock the living God" (v 16) with impunity (Ex 14:18; Ps 92:5–9).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:14–19 Placing Sennacherib's words before the Lord, Hezekiah asks the Lord to distinguish Himself from the idols of the nations. When you pray, appeal to the Lord on the basis of His Word, which describes His unique attributes. The Lord will hear your prayer for Jesus' sake and will answer faithfully. • O Lord God, please save us, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that You, O Lord, are God alone. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:20 Amoz. See note, v 2. sent. Likely a letter; cf v 14. prayer … heard. Since Isaiah's earlier promise of divine help (vv 5–7), the situation had become more desperate. In answer to Hezekiah's continued pleading, the prophet again assured him that his prayer had been heard.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:21–28 the LORD has spoken. Literary form of prophetic utterance called a taunt or mocking song (cf Is 10:5–11). Addressing the Assyrian with devastating irony, Isaiah deflates his blasphemous arrogance. "The Holy One of Israel," whom Sennacherib "mocked and reviled" (v 22), will force the overconfident conqueror to retreat to his homeland, leading him like an animal by a hook in his nose or a bit in his mouth (2Ch 33:11; Ezk 19:4).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:21 you. Singular. A personal message to Sennacherib that also applies to his army. virgin daughter of Zion … Jerusalem. Even the little girls would feel confident in mocking the Assyrians. However, see note, Ps 48:11 for a different understanding of the expression. See p 1079. wags her head. Gesture expressing contempt. Jesus suffered the same kind of derision (Mt 27:39).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:22 the Holy One of Israel! See p 1227.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:23–24 See note, Is 37:24–25.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:24 Sennacherib did not actually invade Egypt. He merely prided himself that he could overcome all resistance also in that land.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:25 See note, Is 37:26.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:27 I know. See note, Is 37:26.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:28 hook … bit. Tools used to control animals and slaves. See note, Am 4:2.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:29 See note, Is 37:30.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:30 remnant. See note, Is 37:31.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:31 zeal. See notes, Ex 20:5; Is 37:32.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:34 My own sake. In order to be true to His promises, which He gave to His servant David (2Sm 7:4–17). See "for Your name's sake," p 842.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:35 angel of the LORD. At the time of the exodus, the Lord sent "the destroyer" into every Egyptian home to smite its firstborn. The angel of the Lord executed judgment at David's time by means of a pestilence. It is possible that he slew the Assyrian army by employing the same means. See p 1227. Luth: "It is well known that at the time of King Hezekiah the angel of the Lord killed 185,000 Assyrians in a single night and by a single assault (2 Kings 19:35). And Christ praises the might of the angels when He tells Peter (Matt. 26:53) about the twelve legions, although a single angel would have been enough to turn back and destroy the enemies of Christ. Indeed, the story of Job proves that even the wicked angels are endowed with great power. It is profitable to know these facts; they serve to comfort the godly but to frighten the ungodly. For we who believe must be certain that the princes of heaven are with us, not one or two, but a great multitude of them, as is recorded in Luke that the heavenly hosts were with the shepherds (Luke 2:13)" (AE 3:270).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:36 See note, Is 37:37.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:37 See note, Is 37:38.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 19:20–37 The Lord mockingly explains for Hezekiah how He planned for the rise and fall of Sennacherib to fulfill His purposes. When headlines disturb you, take comfort in the truth that all the intrigues of the nations and politicians are subject to the Lord's plans for His creation and Church. The Lord responded to Hezekiah's prayer for the sake of His promise to David, Hezekiah's ancestor and the forefather of Jesus, our Savior. He will likewise respond to our prayers. • O Lord, in Your zeal, deliver us from evil. Grant us all confidence in prayer. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:1–11 The Lord answered Hezekiah's prayer in another matter. He received divine help not only in national calamity (chs 18–19) but also in personal affliction. His recovery from a fatal illness likely occurred during the Assyrian invasion (20:6, 19).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:1 house in order. Prepare the successor to your throne.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:2 See note, Is 38:2.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:3 remember. Wrestling with the Lord in prayer, as Jacob did (Gn 32:22–32), Hezekiah holds the Lord to the oft-repeated covenant promise that those will "live long" who "walk in all the way that the LORD … has commanded" (Dt 5:33; see also the promise attached to obedience to parents, Dt 5:16). In his song of praise after his recovery, the king confesses his need of forgiveness for "all my sins" (Is 38:17), thus disavowing any self-righteous claim to God's goodness. Cyr Jer: "Take heed lest without reason you mistrust the power of repentance…. Hezekiah did not desist from repentance; but remembering what is written, When you shall turn and lament, then shall you be saved [Is 30:15], he turned to the wall" (NPNF 2 7:11). walked before You. See p 7. whole heart. Lit, "heart of peace"; content.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:4 middle court. Apparently a location within the palace.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:5 father. See note, Is 38:5. Aph: "Hezekiah prayed, and was healed of his sickness; Jesus prayed, and arose from the abode of the dead. Hezekiah after he arose from his sickness added to his years; and Jesus after His Resurrection received great glory. Hezekiah, after the prolongation of his life, death was given dominion over him; but Jesus, after that He rose, death shall not again have dominion over Him for ever" (NPNF 2 13:398).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:7 figs. Still used for medical purposes in the Near East. boil. Serious infection during an era lacking antibiotics.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:8 sign. Evidently, Hezekiah requested the sign before the cure (v 7) took place. Isaiah had rebuked Hezekiah's father, Ahaz, for refusing to ask for a sign (Is 7:10–14).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:11 back ten steps. Normal recording of the sun's progress on "the steps of Ahaz" was reversed. Apparently, the phenomenon was observed only locally (2Ch 32:31). An outer stairway may have been built in such a way as to let the sun's shadow appear on various levels as the day wore on, or something like a sundial could be meant. See note, Is 38:8.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:1–11 The Lord heeds Hezekiah's prayer and heals him. At times, people wonder whether prayer really matters to God, as He already knows all things and what will happen. This passage removes any excuse for holding your tongue in the hour of need. Call on the Lord, as He invites you to do, and trust, like faithful Hezekiah, that the Lord indeed hears and answers for His mercy's sake, which He has revealed to us in Christ. • O Lord, remember me, and hear my daily requests for the sake of Your promises through Jesus. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:12 At that time. Perhaps c 712 BC. As in the case of Hezekiah's illness and cure (vv 1–7), his reception of the Babylonian embassy is not supplied with a definite date. Though this incident occurred after Hezekiah's sickness, its relationship to the Assyrian invasion (chs 17–18) is not clear. Hezekiah had not as yet emptied his treasure house of its silver and gold (18:15). Merodach-baladan. This Babylonian ruler gathered a coalition of several nations against Assyria in 703 BC. letters and a present to Hezekiah. Hezekiah's recovery from illness was only a diplomatic window dressing for the real purpose of the mission. The Babylonian envoys came to enlist support in the west for a resistance movement against Assyrian domination. Hipp: "Merodach the Chaldean, king of Babylon, being struck with amazement at the time [which changed (v 11)]—for he studied the science of astrology, and measured the courses of these bodies carefully—on learning the cause, sent a letter and gifts to Hezekiah, just as also the wise men from the east did to Christ" (ANF 5:176).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:13 Hezekiah displayed the resources that he could contribute to a joint attempt to throw off the Assyrian yoke (vv 12–15).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:14–15 Isaiah … came. Prophets could serve as court counsel. See pp 1077–83. What … where … What. Prophet boldly questions the king, a testimony to their close relationship and to Isaiah's determination to lead the king in seeing his error.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:17–19 Isaiah reproved the king for pride in his own strength and trust in a foreign alliance. Sennacherib's invasion was soon to teach the vain king the futility of his boasting. Ironically, the very nation enlisting his cooperation would, in 587 BC, carry off the treasures and inhabitants of Jerusalem to its land of Babylon.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:18 eunuchs. See note, Is 39:7. Hbr word translated "officer" in Gn 37:36; 1Ki 22:9; 2Ki 8:6. In some instances, these men were castrated. Cf Est 2:3; see notes, 2Ki 9:32; Is 56:3. Castration would directly threaten the Davidic dynasty, though the Lord would prevent the total loss of the family. Aph: "The Kingdom of the Son of Man shall be established, an eternal Kingdom…. Be quiet, O you [ruler] that does exalt yourself; vaunt not yourself! For if your wealth has lifted up your heart, it is not more abundant than that of Hezekiah, who went in and boasted of it before the Babylonians, (yet) it was all of it carried away and went to Babylon. And if you glory in your children, they shall be led away from you to the Beast, as the children of King Hezekiah were led away, and became eunuchs in the palace of the King of Babylon" (NPNF 2 13:354).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:19 Why not … in my days? His self-centered response, showing little regard for his descendants, seems shocking. Perhaps he hoped that if God postponed the disaster, He could be moved to avert it entirely if the next generation would truly repent.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:20 conduit. Summary of Hezekiah's reign specially mentions the tunnel he made through solid rock from Gihon Spring outside Jerusalem to the Pool of Siloam within the city's walls. More than 1,700 ft long, this amazing engineering feat was discovered in 1838. On its wall is a Hbr inscription of Hezekiah's day, telling of the tunnel's construction. Chronicles. See pp 335–37.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 20:12–21 Hezekiah displays unusual callousness in a spiritual matter, gladly accepting a prophecy condemning his descendants. When you consider the future, curb the pride you take in this hour and take pride in faithful sons and daughters who trust in the Lord and honor His calling and grace. The Lord will not fail to show mercy toward all who trust in His goodness. • Lord, speak Your good Word to me, my children, and my grandchildren, that we may know Your everlasting peace. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:1 twelve years. Hezekiah enjoyed a comparatively long reign, so it seems odd that he would not have an older successor. No further information is given.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:2 Hezekiah hoped in vain for a successor who, by wholehearted devotion to God, might save Jerusalem from the doom pronounced upon it by Isaiah (20:16–19). The 55-year rule of his son Manasseh was longer and more wicked than that of any king of Judah. Nevertheless, a little more than half a century was to elapse before divine judgment engulfed the city (2Ch 33:10–13). despicable practices. See notes, 16:3; Dt 18:10–11. nations whom the LORD drove out. Canaanites. See notes, Jsh 3:10; 23:9.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:3–6 Manasseh's "despicable practices" (v 2) ran the whole gamut from baalized worship of the Lord on "the high places" to unabashed adoption of the fertility idols of Canaan and the veneration of the heavenly bodies, imported by the Assyrians.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:3 high places. See p 526. Baal … Asherah … host of heaven. See notes, 17:16; Nu 25:3; 1Ki 14:24. Asherah. Could describe an image of the goddess, a wooden pole that symbolized the goddess, or a place sacred to her, such as a tree or grove. See note, Ex 34:13.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:5 two courts. See p 842.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:6 burned his son. See note, 16:3. fortune-telling … omens … mediums … necromancers. See note, Dt 18:10–11.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:7 put My name. Cf Dt 12:5. Tragically, Manasseh despised God's graciousness by putting an idol in the very place God had put His name for Israel.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:9 Either hyperbole or a reference to additional gods and deities that the Canaanites had not known. Cf 17:30–31.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:1–9 Ironically, faithful Hezekiah leaves his throne to the worst king in Judah's history, Manasseh, who had 55 years to thoroughly corrupt the people. Make parenthood and family among your highest priorities, by which you may serve not only this generation, but generations to come. The Lord makes you and your family the object of His love and mercy in giving His one and only Son for you. • By Your grace, O heavenly Father, bless and keep my family in the one true faith unto life everlasting. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:10 prophets. See p 1077–83.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:11 Amorites. Pre-Israelite inhabitants of the Promised Land. Sometimes used as a general term for the various racial groups of Canaan (cf Gn 15:16, 21). See p 345.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:13 measuring line … plumb line. Instruments used in erecting buildings to make them conform to predetermined specifications. Judah will discover that its fate will correspond with measured exactness to the words of threat here uttered (24:3–4). Samaria … Ahab. End of Ahab's dynasty and destruction of Samaria were warnings that the Lord's condemnation of apostasy should not be ignored.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:14 remnant of My heritage. Judah. See "portion," p 7.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:16 much innocent blood. Like Jezebel, Manasseh persecuted the prophets; like Ahab, he stooped to judicial murder whenever a citizen stood in his way (1Ki 18:4; 21).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:17 Chronicles. See pp 335–37.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:18 See note, 1Ki 2:10. garden of Uzza. I.e., summer house; part of Manasseh's palace outside Jerusalem. See note, v 26.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:10–18 During Manasseh's reign, the Lord determines to do away with the kingdom of Judah. He does not yet reveal how this will happen. Today, rather than test God's patience, make daily repentance part of your life. For such repentance to be faithful and not just routine, cling to the teachings of God's Word, which shows you your sins and the ways of God's heritage. The Lord will prosper you in His way and regard you as His dear child. • Merciful Father, You are our shield and portion. Preserve Your heritage, we pray. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:20 did what was evil. Amon continued his father's policies.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:21 walked. See p 7.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:22 way. See p 844.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:23–24 Amon was assassinated after reigning only two years. However, his servants or courtiers did not succeed in seizing the throne. "The people of the land" (see note, 11:20) slew the conspirators and perpetuated David's house by making "Josiah his son king in his place."
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:24 struck down. Countercoup.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:25 Chronicles. See pp 335–37.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:26 garden of Uzza. For some reason, Amon and his father were not buried "in the city of David" with their predecessors but in a private, unidentified tomb (see note, v 18; cf 12:21; 14:20). This may reflect the people's condemnation of their rule (cf v 24).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 21:19–26 King Amon rejects God's ways and walks in the ways of evil King Manasseh, his father. Today, do not simply accept the antics of evil rulers, but also do not read this passage as a blessing for overthrowing your government! Pray for your leaders and look for legitimate ways to condemn their errors (e.g., elections; protest) in order to establish justice in your land. Your just and gracious Ruler in heaven oversees all things. He will bless and keep you according to the grace of His beloved Son. • Dearest Jesus, faithful Son, bless the people of our land with justice and peace. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:1 Josiah was eight years old. The boy king evidently was under the tutelage of such elders as Hilkiah, the high priest, who taught him "what was right in the eyes of the LORD" (v 2; parallel case in 12:2). During his reign, Josiah vigorously promoted a national return to covenant faithfulness (22:3–23:25). Bozkath. Near Lachish. See map, p 615.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:2 walked in all the way. See p 7. David his father. David was the head of the dynasty and the touchstone for a righteous king. right or … left. Cf Dt 5:29; 17:11, 20; 28:14. Even a faithful king might later stray.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:1–2 Through the faithful guidance of Hilkiah, the Lord instructs Josiah and raises up another faithful king for Judah. God's people cannot overestimate the value of faithful teachers and counselors for their youth. Do not withhold the teachings of God's Word from the young but teach them right and wrong, truth distinguished from falsehood, during their earliest years. God's beloved Son, who grew up in favor with God and people, will Himself instruct your youth with love and mercy through the Word. • Lord, give us a heart for Christian education, that our children may grow in Your grace and favor. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:3 eighteenth year. According to 2Ch 34:3–8, Josiah began his reforms 10 years before he undertook the repair of the temple. In this project, he followed procedures adopted two centuries earlier by Jehoash, who likewise came to the throne at an early age (11:21–12:18).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:4 keepers of the threshold. See note, 12:9.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:6 house. The temple.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:7 they deal honestly. Trust and good reputation go hand in hand.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:3–7 King Josiah, Shaphan, and Hilkiah organize the repairs of the temple, contracting faithful workers. In your work, honor your Christian vocation and your Lord by gaining a reputation for honesty and faithfulness. The Lord will not fail to bless those who deal honestly. He deals honestly with us in calling us to repentance and in setting all things right by the faithful service of His beloved Son. • Lord, make me wise in my work, especially in fairness and honesty, that I might enjoy a God-pleasing reputation before all people. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:8 the Book of the Law. The scroll contained the Law, a definite body of legislation of unchallenged authority. Its teaching had existed in written form and was known as "the Book of the Law of Moses" (14:6; cf Jsh 1:8; 8:34). A copy of it survived the religious persecutions of Manasseh (55 years) and of Amon (2 years). Perhaps it lay hidden at the bottom of the treasury chest as 2Ch 34:14 seems to indicate. Scholars debate the exact contents of the scroll. Many propose that it was Dt because of literary parallels with that writing of Moses. However, 1 and 2Ki use expressions similar to "Book of the Law" for Moses' writings generally (1Ki 2:3; 2Ki 14:6; 17:13; 21:8), and many parallels can be found with Ex (a portion of which was called "the Book of the Covenant," Ex 24:7) and Lv so it is not safe to assume the scroll contained only Dt. See note, 23:2.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:9 Matter-of-fact report indicates that Shaphan, and perhaps also Hilkiah, had not fully appreciated the importance of the discovery.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:10 Shaphan read it. Kings typically relied on professional scribes for reading and writing. Cf Est 6:1.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:11 he tore his clothes. See note, Jb 1:20.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:13 inquire. See "seek," p 843. wrath of the LORD. "The words of this book" that threatened to "bring disaster" on an apostate city and nation (v 16) were clearly summarized in such passages as Lv 26:14–20; Dt 31:16–18. our fathers have not obeyed. See notes, 21:2, 20.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:14 Huldah the prophetess. See p 389. No reason is given why Jeremiah, who began his ministry in the 13th year of Josiah, was not consulted (Jer 1:2). keeper of the wardrobe. See p 389. Second Quarter. Probably the newer residential area of Jerusalem on the western hill.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:17 God had earlier determined to do away with Judah. Cf 21:14.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:18–19 heard … heard. See note, v 10; cf 20:5. your heart was penitent. Lit, "your heart was soft" or tender. torn. See note, Jb 1:20.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:20 gather … to your fathers. In contrast to Manasseh and Amon. See note, 21:26. in peace. Based on the Book of the Law, Huldah proclaimed that God's wrath against the people would "not be quenched" (v 17). No doubt, Josiah's reforming legislation met only with grudging and outward compliance that by and large left the hearts of the people untouched. shall not see all the disaster. Because of the sincerity of the king's repentance, Jerusalem would remain intact during Josiah's lifetime, even though he would die in battle (23:30).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 22:8–20 Through the prophetess Huldah, the Lord confirms the message that King Josiah learned from the Book of the Law: the Lord would condemn Judah. However, the Lord also promises mercy to Josiah, in view of his repentance. Sincere repentance is never in vain, even if someone continues to experience hardship after turning to the Lord. Rather, it is the loving work of God's Holy Spirit through His Word, and His works avail for our salvation. • Instruct me, dear Savior, through Your precious Word, and take not Your Holy Spirit away from me. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:1–25 Josiah hoped that the destruction of Jerusalem could still be averted if he and the people complied with the Book of the Law. Josiah "made a covenant before the LORD, to walk after the LORD" (v 3); cleansed the temple and its environs of idolatrous altars, images, and paraphernalia (vv 4–14); destroyed the false altar at Bethel and "all the shrines also of the high places" (vv 15–20); revived the celebration of the Passover (vv 21–23); and ordered the people to abolish private superstitious practices (vv 24–25).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:1 elders. See note, Ex 3:16. See also p 228.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:2 house. The temple. he read. Josiah may have done the reading personally, but he could also have made certain that others read on his behalf (see Solomon's role in building the temple, 1Ki 6:14–16). Book of the Covenant. Because the king could read "all the words of the Book" at an assembly of the people, the rediscovered scroll may not have contained all the writings of Moses, but only a portion of Ex, Lv, or Dt. However, see the events described in Ne 8:1–8, which may be a complete reading of the Five Books of Moses, also called "the Book of the Law" as in 2Ki 22:8. All five books can be read aloud in c 15 hours.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:3 the pillar. See note, 11:14; see also diagram, p 541. covenant. In a solemn ceremony, Josiah and the people pledged themselves to the Lord in a solemn agreement. See p 6. For similar renewals of the covenant that God made with Israel at Mount Sinai, see notes, Dt 5:3; Jsh 24:1, 25. walk. See p 7. commandments … testimonies … statutes. See p 971.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:4 second order. Common priests, in distinction from the high priest(s). keepers of the threshold. Order of Levites who acted as temple guards (1Ch 23:5). Baal … Asherah. See notes, Ex 34:13; Nu 25:3. Kidron. Trash was dumped near this brook. See map, p 548. Bethel. Where Jeroboam set up false worship. Cf 1Ki 12:29.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:5 priests. Hbr term for officiants in idolatrous worship occurs only here and in Hos 10:5; Zep 1:4. They are distinguished from "the priests of the high places" (v 9), who professed to worship the Lord but at shrines outside the temple of Jerusalem. the constellations. Possibly signs of the zodiac. The Hbr word occurs again in a slightly different form in Jb 38:32, where the ESV transliterates it "Mazzaroth." Horoscopes, though false, are still popular today.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:6 Kidron. See note, v 4. dust … upon the graves. Act of defilement. common people. Lit, "sons of the people"; perhaps idolaters.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:7 male cult prostitutes. See note, 1Ki 14:24. hangings. May describe garments for idols to wear.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:8 high places. See p 526. Geba to Beersheba. Judah's territory extended from Geba, a few miles north of Jerusalem (see note, 1Ki 15:22), to Beersheba. See map, p 615. At Beersheba, large cut-stone blocks were used to build a horned altar, which may have served the local high place. A temple discovered at Arad was likely destroyed during Josiah's reform. Its small altars were overturned and plastered over. See note, Jgs 20:1. the gate of Joshua. Perhaps near his home.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:9 unleavened bread. Prohibited from officiating at the altar, these demoted priests did not have to take up a secular occupation but were allowed to share in the benefits of their brethren, the loyal sons of Aaron (Nu 18:8–20).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:10 Topheth. Place where children were burned to Molech. Perhaps a vocalization for a word meaning "fireplace." Valley of … Hinnom. Basis of NT "Gehenna" (see note, Jsh 18:16; see also ESV note on "hell", Mt 5:22). Molech. Hbr for king (melek) supplied with vowels of the word for shame (bosheth; cf Jer 7:32).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:11 horses … chariots. Equipment dedicated to the sun god for his trip across the sky. Cf Ps 19:4–6. chamber … precincts. Location unknown.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:12 Ahaz … Manasseh. Unfaithful kings. Cf 21:1–5.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:13 high places. See p 526. mount of corruption. Apparently refers to a part of the Mount of Olives. Ashtoreth. See note, Ex 34:13. Chemosh … Milcom. These gods were worshiped with child sacrifice. See notes, 1Ki 11:5, 7.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:14 pillars … Asherim. See notes, Gn 28:18; Ex 34:13. the bones of men. Means of defiling the place.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:15 Bethel. Controlled by Judah at this time. See map, p 615.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:16 as Josiah turned. Shows that the king personally oversaw the work. the word of the LORD. See note, 1Ki 13:2.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:18 prophet who came out of Samaria. Cf 1Ki 13:31–32.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:19 high places. See p 526. in the cities of Samaria. Judah's rule even reached toward Samaria. See map, p 615.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:20 sacrificed. Or, killed. burned human bones on them. The bodies of the wicked priests themselves were used to make the place unholy, to prevent people from returning there to sacrifice.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:1–20 With bitter detail, the writer describes Josiah's campaign to remove all elements of false worship from regions under his rule. Such bold action no doubt offended some of his subjects. Today, the Lord may call you to take bold action. Set your heart to serve the Lord and pray for His help to make changes peaceably. In all circumstances, the God of peace will sustain you for good works. Best of all, He has accomplished your salvation through His beloved Son. • Give me a soft heart toward You, O Lord, but a firm heart toward those who seek to overthrow Your ways. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:21 Passover. Described in Ex 12; Nu 9; Dt 16. Book of the Covenant. See note, v 2.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:22 no such Passover. Hbr seems to qualify the event as a remarkable celebration, not simply as the only Passover celebrated in the past 783 years (cf Jsh 5:10–12). Passover was also celebrated under Hezekiah (cf 2Ch 30:1). Ambr: "My sons, think before you act, and when you have thought long then do what you consider right…. [Josiah] celebrated the Lord's passover when he was eighteen years old, as no one had done it before him. As then in zeal he was superior to those who went before him, so do you, my sons, show zeal for God" (NPNF 2 10:67).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:24 put away. By dismissal or worse (cf v 20). mediums … necromancers. See note, 1Sm 28:3. household gods. See note, Gn 31:19.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:25 no king like him. Hezekiah's reform was not nearly as complete or far-reaching, because he did not have authority in Samaria. turned. See p 1080. heart … soul … might. See notes, Dt 6:5; 1Ki 15:14 (Chem comment).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:26 did not turn. God's great wrath resulted from the people's deeply rooted false belief and worship. The official decrees and acts of Josiah did not produce a popular reform. provocations. What the Lord resolved in 21:12 would still come to pass.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:21–27 The great and memorable Passover celebrated under Josiah does not fundamentally change matters of faith in Judah. The Lord will sift the people through the Babylonian exile only 26 years later. In all nations and congregations, the wicked and the righteous live alongside one another. We live, prosper, suffer, and die together. Yet, the Lord knows those who are His and will preserve them unto Himself. He has placed His name on us in Baptism, and the world cannot take it away. • Preserve Your people, O Savior, and prepare for us a homeland in Your eternal kingdom. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:28 See pp 335–37.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:29 Josiah was able to carry out his reforms even in the former Northern Kingdom because for some time Assyria had lost control of Israel. In 612 BC, Assyria's capital, Nineveh, was destroyed by the Babylonians and the Medes. In the ensuing contest for regional control, Pharaoh Neco II (610–595 BC) marched through Israel to join surviving Assyrian forces against the rising power of Babylon. The allied army was defeated at Carchemish on the upper Euphrates in 605 BC. In an attempt to block the Egyptian advance through Israel, Josiah opposed Neco at Megiddo, one of the most strategic passes through the Carmel Ridge. See map, p 615; see also notes, 9:27; 1Ki 9:15. Josiah lost his life in the battle. Aph: "Josiah also was persecuted as Jesus was persecuted. Josiah was persecuted, and Pharaoh the Lame slew [h]im; and Jesus was persecuted, and the people that were made lame by their sins slew Him. Josiah cleansed the land of Israel from uncleanness; and Jesus cleansed and caused to pass away uncleanness from all the earth" (NPNF 2 13:398–99). Neco … went up to the king of Assyria. According to Babylonian chronicles, Neco intended to help the Assyrians.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:30 dead in a chariot. Success in mundane ventures was not a matter of course in Josiah's life, even though in his efforts to reform the people there was no king like him (v 25; 18:5–6). his own tomb. Huldah's prophecy is fulfilled (22:20). anointed. See note, 1Sm 10:1.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:28–30 King Josiah dies due to conflicts over the rising regional power of Babylon. Yet, the Lord fulfills His Word to Josiah by gathering him to the tombs of the kings of Judah. When good people meet a tragic end, such as faithful soldiers or officers who fall in the line of duty, do not assume that they or their families are being punished by the Lord or that He has forsaken them. Instead, honor the noble who fall too soon in your eyes, offering thanks to God for their noble service. Jesus, too, met an early end (to our notions), but His death was purposefully timed by God for our salvation. • "Lord, let at last Thine angels come, To Abr'ham's bosom bear me home, That I may die unfearing; And in its narrow chamber keep My body safe in peaceful sleep Until Thy reappearing. And then from death awaken me, That these mine eyes with joy may see, O Son of God, Thy glorious face, My Savior and my fount of grace. Lord Jesus Christ, my prayer attend, my prayer attend, And I will praise Thee without end." Amen. (LSB 708:3)

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:31 twenty-three years old. No reason is given why the people chose Jehoahaz, who was two years younger than his brother (cf v 36).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:33 Riblah. After killing Josiah, Neco proceeded northward beyond Tyre and Sidon to Riblah on the Orontes River "in the land of Hamath." Here, at Nebuchadnezzar's later base of operations (25:6), Pharaoh deposed Josiah's son Jehoahaz, also called Shallum (Jer 22:11), and "put him in bonds." No doubt Neco feared that "the people of the land" (2Ki 23:35) had made Jehoahaz king because he would follow his father's anti-Egyptian policy.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:34–35 Eliakim … Jehoiakim. Neco changed the name of his appointee to the throne to impress his vassal with his authority. Cf 24:17 for a similar action. taxed. The overlord also exacted tribute, which the puppet king paid by taxing "the people of the land" (see note, 11:19).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:31–35 In three short months, Jehoahaz is able to restore false worship in Judah and so overturn his father's reform. How easy to destroy and corrupt! How hard to set things right again! The Lord alone can truly change hearts, accomplished through His life-giving Word, which purifies us from every stain of sin. • Cleanse me, O spotless Lamb, from all my sins, that I may do what is right in Your eyes. Amen.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:36 twenty-five years old. See note, v 31.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:37 Jeremiah describes in greater detail the evil that Jehoiakim did in the sight of the Lord (Jer 7:16–18; 22:18–23; 25; 26).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 24:1 Nebuchadnezzar … came up. Neco's domination of Judah was short-lived (23:29–36). servant. Vassal of Babylon. After defeating Neco at Carchemish, Nebuchadnezzar pursued him to the borders of Egypt. Jehoiakim had no other choice but to submit to the new regional conqueror. On his return to Babylon, Nebuchadnezzar took with him a group of hostages, consisting of members "of the royal family and of the nobility" (Dn 1:3). Among them were Daniel and his associates (Dn 1:1–7). rebelled. When after three years the Babylonians suffered serious reverses in a battle with Neco, Jehoiakim rebelled. His trust in Egypt was unwarranted (v 7).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 24:2 the LORD sent. In Judah's moment of weakness, all her neighbors exploited her. This was not simply politics but part of God's judgment. Cypr: "The adversary can do nothing against us except God shall have previously permitted it; so that all our fear, and devotion, and obedience may be turned towards God" (ANF 5:454). Nebuchadnezzar was not at once in a position to deal personally and in full force with the rebellion. During this time, the Lord sent against Jehoiakim the Chaldaean (Babylonian) occupation troops, stationed in neighboring Syria, Moab, and Ammon. Bands from these countries joined in harassing raids against Judean territory. He spoke. Cf 20:17–18.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 24:3 sins of Manasseh. See note, 21:2.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 24:4 the LORD would not pardon. See note, 1Ki 2:31, for principle of bloodguilt.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 24:5 Chronicles. See pp 335–37.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 24:6 See note, 1Ki 2:10.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 24:7 Brook of Egypt … river Euphrates. All of Canaan and Aram.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 23:36–24:7 The Lord arranges regional politics against Jehoiakim and Judah, determined to avenge the evils committed by Judah's kings. Sins, even when forgiven, continue to bear consequences in our lives. As you consider your life in view of God's Word, consider also the lives and futures of those against whom you sin and ask the Lord for mercy, not only for yourself, but also for those affected by your sins. The Lord, whose mercies are new every morning, will surely hear your prayers. Entrust all things to His good and gracious will. • Take away my sins, O Savior, and guard others from the consequences of my faults. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 24:8 Three years after Jehoiakim's rash revolt, Nebuchadnezzar was ready to mount a full-scale attack against Jerusalem. In the meantime, Jehoiakim, only 36 years old (23:36), had died or been assassinated. Jehoiachin. Jehoiakim's 18-year-old son, also called Jeconiah and Coniah.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 24:12 gave himself up. Jehoiachin became Nebuchadnezzar's prisoner in 597 BC. eighth year. Of Nebuchadnezzar.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 24:13 Cf 20:17–18. This final sad episode, the destruction of the temple, also happened according to the Lord's purposes. Ambr: "It was far better to preserve souls than gold for the Lord. For He Who sent the apostles without gold also brought together the churches without gold. The Church has gold, not to store up, but to lay out, and to spend on those who need…. Is it not much better that the priests should melt it down for the sustenance of the poor, if other supplies fail, than that a sacrilegious enemy should carry it off and defile it? Would not the Lord Himself say: Why did you suffer so many needy to die of hunger? Surely you had gold? You should have given them sustenance. Why are so many captives brought on the slave market, and why are so many unredeemed left to be slain by the enemy? It had been better to preserve living vessels than gold ones. To this no answer could be given. For what would you say: I feared that the temple of God would need its ornaments? He would answer: The sacraments need not gold, nor are they proper to gold only—for they are not bought with gold. The glory of the sacraments is the redemption of captives. Truly they are precious vessels, for they redeem men from death. That, indeed, is the true treasure of the Lord which effects what His blood effected" (NPNF 2 10:64). Cf Ex 25:10–22 regarding the ark of the covenant.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 24:14 men of valor. Soldiers. 10,000 captives. Nebuchadnezzar deported with him the royal family, the palace officials, and a large segment of the population, leaving behind only the poorest. See note, 17:6. Among these captives was the prophet Ezekiel (Ezk 1:2–3).

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 24:16 men of valor. Soldiers for his army. craftsmen and the metal workers. Skilled laborers to strengthen his kingdom.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 24:8–17 In the surrender of Jehoiachin, the Lord allows the dismantling of the temple David had planned and Solomon had built. Thanks be to God, He does not dwell in temples we make, as He explained to Solomon at the beginning (1Ki 8:27). He dwells instead in the hearts of His people by faith. • "Abide with me, fast falls the eventide. The darkness deepens; Lord, with me abide. When other helpers fail and comforts flee, Help of the helpless, O abide with me." Amen. (LSB 878:1)

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 24:18 Zedekiah. Son of Josiah; brother of Jehoahaz (23:30–31). Cf v 17. became king. Puppet ruler whom Nebuchadnezzar had not removed.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 24:20 He cast them out from His presence. The Lord would reject even the rule of this vassal king over the Promised Land.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 24:18–20 The Lord remains repulsed by Judah's evils, rejecting even the vassal rule of Zedekiah. The depth of God's anger and disappointment over sin is beyond our ability to fathom, just as surely as we cannot understand the depth of our own sins. Yet, the Lord does not cast off His people forever but calls them to repent. Ever present in His Word and Sacraments, He administers to us the full blessings of forgiveness. • "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me. Cast me not away from Thy presence, and take not Thy Holy Spirit from me. Restore unto me the joy of Thy salvation, and uphold me with Thy free spirit." Amen. (LSB, pp 192–93)

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:1 siegeworks. See note, 18:14.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:2 besieged. A decade after the first capture of the city (24:10–17), the anger of the Lord burst upon Jerusalem and Judah with unrestrained vehemence. The prophet Jeremiah urged the king to keep his solemn pledge of allegiance to the Babylonian overlord (Jer 27). However, weak-willed Zedekiah yielded to a pressure group in the city that advocated rebellion. The anticipated help from Egypt proved a delusion (Jer 37:5–11; Ezk 17:15–21). Nebuchadnezzar's patience was at an end. He directed the siege of Jerusalem from his headquarters at Riblah (see note, 23:33).
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:4 breach was made. After about a year and a half, the city's fortification began to give way. way of the gate. No longer identifiable; seems to have been on the eastern side of the city. Arabah. Zedekiah and his men tried in vain to escape toward this valley of the Jordan. See color map 2; see also note, Jsh 3:16.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:5 plains of Jericho. Near the Jordan River.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:6 Riblah. See map, p 609; see also note, 23:33.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:7 It is unclear why the Babylonians did not kill Zedekiah.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:8–9 In the year 587 BC, a month after "a breach was made in the city" (v 4), Nebuchadnezzar's general carried out his orders to reduce to rubble the temple, the walls, and the other structures of the city. These actions made the city indefensible, incapable of rebelling again.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:11–12 Almost all of the remaining inhabitants were exiled.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:13–17 Large quantities of bronze, silver, and gold, taken from furnishings and vessels of the temple, were sent as plunder to Babylon. The detailed interest in the parts of the temple implies the writer may have been a priest or Levite. For more on components of the temple, see notes on 1Ki 6–7; see also diagram, p 541. pillars of bronze. The two large pillars, named Jachin and Boaz, which Solomon erected at the entrance of the temple (1Ki 7:15–22). See note, 1Ki 7:21.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:18–21 Nebuchadnezzar vented his fury not only on the king and his sons, but he also executed religious leaders, political officials, and "sixty men of the people of the land" (v 19). The latter were the more prominent citizens who had considerable influence in state affairs. See note, 11:20.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:18 Seraiah. Grandfather or great-grandfather of Ezra. three keepers of the threshold. Leaders of this group. See note, 1Ch 9:17–33.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:20 Riblah. See note, 23:33.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:21 into exile. Other nations that suffered the fate of Israel and Judah became extinct. Even the captors of Samaria and Jerusalem, Assyria and Babylon, disappeared under the sands of time. However, God did not let the ruins of Jerusalem and the Babylonian captivity become the grave of His chosen people. Humanly speaking, its hopes of revival were as dead as the dried skeletons in Ezekiel's vision (Ezk 37:1–14). But God remained true to His covenant promise to bless all nations through Abraham's Seed (Gn 12:3). By His "breath of life" (Gn 2:7), He raised the national corpse from its Babylonian tomb.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:1–21 After Judah's third rebellion, the Babylonians enforce sterner policies, killing off all manner of community leadership and ending Judah's status as a kingdom and a holy land. Yet, all human institutions eventually fail, even mighty Babylon. The holy kingdom of God abides forever because its King, our God and Savior, cannot be overthrown. • Heavenly Father, rule among us by Your Word and Sacraments, that we might be Your own and live under You in peace. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:22 Gedaliah. Name was found on a Judean administrative seal. Judah now was reduced to a Babylonian province. Ahikam. Rescued Jeremiah from mob violence when the prophet urged submission to the Babylonians (Jer 26:24). No doubt, Nebuchadnezzar entrusted the son with the governorship, hoping that he, too, would advocate nonresistance. Cf Jer 40–41 for a more complete account of Gedaliah's ill-fated administration. Shaphan. Josiah's secretary had this name, but it may not refer to the same person. governor. The term does not appear in the Hbr, but is provided by translators to describe Gedaliah's appointment.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:23 captains. Can describe administrators or military men. Mizpah. Gedaliah set up headquarters a few miles north of ruined Jerusalem in a city that an earlier king of Judah had fortified (see note, 1Ki 15:22). Here, the governor met with the captains of the forces who had eluded the siege of Jerusalem. Jaazaniah. Name was found at Mizpah on a seal impression that described a "servant of the king."

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:24 officials. Lit, "servants"; no doubt officers in command of Babylonian garrisons.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:25 the seventh month. Oct/Nov 587. Ishmael … struck down. This fanatic member of the royal family acted on the instigation of the king of neighboring Ammon, where he had fled during the siege and fall of Jerusalem. Gedaliah. Likely regarded as a traitor. Jews. Lit, "Judeans," people of Judah. See note, Ezr 4:12.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:26 Afraid that they were not safe from Nebuchadnezzar's long arm anywhere in Judah, the remaining Judeans fled to Egypt, taking Jeremiah with them (Jer 43:7–8). As the only other great regional power, Egypt was the best refuge. Five years later, the Babylonian king exiled another contingent from Jerusalem, possibly in reprisal for Ishmael's rebellion or in anticipation of a similar incident.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:22–26 Unable to adjust to changing times, the royal family of Judah continues to resist Babylonian governance of former Judean territory. Today, the Lord blesses us, not only with His Word (Jeremiah warned the royal family against further rebellion, Jer 42), but also with common sense. With God's counsel, adjust to the disappointments you face and make different plans for the future. Most of all, repent of your failures and confess your shortcomings. Your Lord yet has great blessings in mind for you, which He grants in Christ. • Turn my face, O Lord, in the way that I should go. Quiet my heart and grant me hope for the future. Amen.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:27 thirty-seventh year. 561 BC. Jehoiachin. Cf 24:12. king of Judah. In title, not in fact. Evil-merodach. Hbr form of the name Amel-Marduk, Nebuchadnezzar's son. graciously freed. As if prophesying a brighter future, the account ends with new freedom for a dynastic descendant of David. Jehoiachin's grandson was Zerubbabel (Hg 2:20–23; Zec 4), who with Jeshua the priest (Zec 3) "built the altar of the God of Israel" in Jerusalem for the freed Babylonian exiles (Ezr 3:1–7). See note, Ezr 3:2.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:28 seat above. Like Joseph (cf Gn 40–41), Jehoiachin rose in favor to secure a new future for his people.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:29 dined … at the king's table. See note, 2Sm 9:7.
2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:30 a regular allowance. His former territory may have supported the king's feasting (cf v 12) and could make Jehoiachin's expected contribution to life at court (1Ki 2:7). Babylonian administrative records mention deliveries of oil for the sons of the king of Judah and rulers from other nations.

2 KINGS—NOTE ON 25:27–30 Despite all that has happened, the Lord provides for the preservation of the "house of David" (see notes, 2Sm 7:12–17). For the next 500 years, the Judeans would anticipate the restoration of David's reign, which the heavenly Father fulfilled in the coming of Jesus, a "Son of David." His kingdom—the Church—shall never end. • Rule over us, gracious Lord. Welcome and sustain us at Your banquet table, which is a foretaste of the feast to come. Amen.

From Adam to Abraham

1 [1] ‡ ‡ [1] Adam, Seth, Enosh; [2]Kenan, Mahalalel, Jared; [3]Enoch, Methuselah, Lamech; [4]†Noah, Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

[5]The sons of Japheth: Gomer, Magog, Madai, Javan, Tubal, Meshech, and Tiras. [6]The sons of Gomer: Ashkenaz, Riphath,[2] and Togarmah. [7]The sons of Javan: Elishah, Tarshish, Kittim, and Rodanim.

[8]‡The sons of Ham: Cush, Egypt, Put, and Canaan. [9]The sons of Cush: Seba, Havilah, Sabta, Raama, and Sabteca. The sons of Raamah: Sheba and Dedan. [10]†Cush fathered Nimrod. He was the first on earth to be a mighty
man.[3]

[11]†Egypt fathered Ludim, Anamim, Lehabim, Naphtuhim, [12]Pathrusim, Casluhim (from whom the Philistines came), and Caphtorim.

[13]Canaan fathered Sidon his firstborn and Heth, [14]and the Jebusites, the Amorites, the Girgashites, [15]the Hivites, the Arkites, the Sinites, [16]the Arvadites, the Zemarites, and the Hamathites.

[17]‡The sons of Shem: Elam, Asshur, Arpachshad, Lud, and Aram. And the sons of Aram:[4] Uz, Hul, Gether, and Meshech. [18]Arpachshad fathered Shelah, and Shelah fathered Eber. [19]†To Eber were born two sons: the name of the one was Peleg[5] (for in his days the earth was divided), and his brother's name was Joktan. [20]Joktan fathered Almodad, Sheleph, Hazarmaveth, Jerah, [21]Hadoram, Uzal, Diklah, [22]Obal,[6] Abimael, Sheba, [23]Ophir, Havilah, and Jobab; all these were the sons of Joktan.

[24]Shem, Arpachshad, Shelah; [25]Eber, Peleg, Reu; [26]Serug, Nahor, Terah; [27]Abram, that is, Abraham.

From Abraham to Jacob

28 ‡ † The sons of Abraham: Isaac and Ishmael. 29 † These are their genealogies: the firstborn of Ishmael, Nebaioth, and Kedar, Adbeel, Mibsam, 30 Mishma, Dumah, Massa, Hadad, Tema, 31 Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah. These are the sons of Ishmael. 32 † The sons of Keturah, Abraham's concubine: she bore Zimran, Jokshan, Medan, Midian, Ishbak, and Shuah. The sons of Jokshan: Sheba and Dedan. 33 The sons of Midian: Ephah, Epher, Hanoch, Abida, and Eldaah. All these were the descendants of Keturah.

34 † Abraham fathered Isaac. The sons of Isaac: Esau and Israel. 35 ‡ † The sons of Esau: Eliphaz, Reuel, Jeush, Jalam, and Korah. 36 The sons of Eliphaz: Teman, Omar, Zepho, Gatam, Kenaz, and of Timna,[7] Amalek.
37 The sons of Reuel: Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah.

38 The sons of Seir: Lotan, Shobal, Zibeon, Anah, Dishon, Ezer, and Dishan. 39 † The sons of Lotan: Hori and Hemam;[1] and Lotan's sister was Timna. 40 The sons of Shobal: Alvan,[2] Manahath, Ebal, Shepho,[3] and Onam. The sons of Zibeon: Aiah and Anah. 41 The son[4] of Anah: Dishon.
The sons of Dishon: Hemdan,[5] Eshban, Ithran, and Cheran. 42 The sons of Ezer: Bilhan, Zaavan, and Akan.[6] The sons of Dishan: Uz and Aran.

43 ‡ † These are the kings who reigned in the land of Edom before any king reigned over the people of Israel: Bela the son of Beor, the name of his city being Dinhabah. 44 Bela died, and Jobab the son of Zerah of Bozrah reigned in his place. 45 Jobab died, and Husham of the land of the Temanites reigned in his place. 46 † Husham died, and Hadad the son of Bedad, who defeated Midian in the country of Moab, reigned in his place, the name of his city being Avith. 47 Hadad died, and Samlah of Masrekah reigned in his place.
48 † Samlah died, and Shaul of Rehoboth on the Euphrates reigned in his place. 49 Shaul died, and Baal-hanan, the son of Achbor, reigned in his place.
50 † Baal-hanan died, and Hadad reigned in his place, the name of his city being Pai; and his wife's name was Mehetabel, the daughter of Matred, the daughter of Mezahab. 51 And Hadad died.

The chiefs of Edom were: chiefs Timna, Alvah, Jetheth, [52]Oholibamah, Elah, Pinon, [53]Kenaz, Teman, Mibzar, [54]Magdiel, and Iram; these are the chiefs of Edom.

A Genealogy of David

2 [1] These are the sons of Israel: Reuben, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Zebulun, [2]Dan, Joseph, Benjamin, Naphtali, Gad, and Asher.
[3] The sons of Judah: Er, Onan and Shelah; these three Bath-shua the Canaanite bore to him. Now Er, Judah's firstborn, was evil in the sight of the LORD, and he put him to death. [4]His daughter-in-law Tamar also bore him Perez and Zerah. Judah had five sons in all.

[5]The sons of Perez: Hezron and Hamul. [6]The sons of Zerah: Zimri, Ethan, Heman, Calcol, and Dara, five in all. [7]The son[7] of Carmi: Achan, the troubler of Israel, who broke faith in the matter of the devoted thing; [8]and Ethan's son was Azariah.

[9] The sons of Hezron that were born to him: Jerahmeel, Ram, and Chelubai. [10] Ram fathered Amminadab, and Amminadab fathered Nahshon, prince of the sons of Judah. [11]Nahshon fathered Salmon,[1] Salmon fathered Boaz, [12]Boaz fathered Obed, Obed fathered Jesse. [13]Jesse fathered Eliab his firstborn, Abinadab the second, Shimea the third, [14]Nethanel the fourth, Raddai the fifth, [15]Ozem the sixth, David the seventh. [16]And their sisters were Zeruiah and Abigail. The sons of Zeruiah: Abishai, Joab, and Asahel, three. [17]Abigail bore Amasa, and the father of Amasa was Jether the Ishmaelite.

[18]Caleb the son of Hezron fathered children by his wife Azubah, and by Jerioth; and these were her sons: Jesher, Shobab, and Ardon. [19]When Azubah died, Caleb married Ephrath, who bore him Hur. [20]Hur fathered Uri, and Uri fathered Bezalel.

[21] Afterward Hezron went in to the daughter of Machir the father of Gilead, whom he married when he was sixty years old, and she bore him Segub. [22]And Segub fathered Jair, who had twenty-three cities in the land of Gilead. [23]But Geshur and Aram took from them Havvoth-jair, Kenath, and its villages, sixty towns. All these were descendants of Machir, the father of Gilead. [24]After the death of Hezron, Caleb went in to Ephrathah,[2]
the wife of Hezron his father, and she bore him Ashhur, the father of Tekoa.

25 ‡The sons of Jerahmeel, the firstborn of Hezron: Ram, his firstborn, Bunah, Oren, Ozem, and Ahijah. 26Jerahmeel also had another wife, whose name was Atarah; she was the mother of Onam. 27The sons of Ram, the firstborn of Jerahmeel: Maaz, Jamin, and Eker. 28The sons of Onam: Shammai and Jada. The sons of Shammai: Nadab and Abishur. 29The name of Abishur's wife was Abihail, and she bore him Ahban and Molid. 30The sons of Nadab: Seled and Appaim; and Seled died childless. 31The son[3] of Appaim: Ishi. The son of Ishi: Sheshan. The son of Sheshan: Ahlai. 32The sons of Jada, Shammai's brother: Jether and Jonathan; and Jether died childless. 33The sons of Jonathan: Peleth and Zaza. These were the descendants of Jerahmeel. 34‡Now Sheshan had no sons, only daughters, but Sheshan had an Egyptian slave whose name was Jarha. 35So Sheshan gave his daughter in marriage to Jarha his slave, and she bore him Attai. 36Attai fathered Nathan, and Nathan fathered Zabad. 37Zabad fathered Ephlal, and Ephlal fathered Obed. 38Obed fathered Jehu, and Jehu fathered Azariah.
39Azariah fathered Helez, and Helez fathered Eleasah. 40Eleasah fathered Sismai, and Sismai fathered Shallum. 41Shallum fathered Jekamiah, and Jekamiah fathered Elishama.

42 ‡The sons of Caleb the brother of Jerahmeel: Mareshah[4] his firstborn, who fathered Ziph. The son[5] of Mareshah: Hebron.[6] 43The sons of Hebron: Korah, Tappuah, Rekem and Shema. 44Shema fathered Raham, the father of Jorkeam; and Rekem fathered Shammai. 45The son of Shammai: Maon; and Maon fathered Beth-zur. 46 †Ephah also, Caleb's concubine, bore Haran, Moza, and Gazez; and Haran fathered Gazez. 47The sons of Jahdai: Regem, Jotham, Geshan, Pelet, Ephah, and Shaaph. 48Maacah, Caleb's concubine, bore Sheber and Tirhanah. 49She also bore Shaaph the father of Madmannah, Sheva the father of Machbenah and the father of Gibea; and the daughter of Caleb was Achsah. 50‡These were the descendants of Caleb.

The sons[7] of Hur the firstborn of Ephrathah: Shobal the father of Kiriath-jearim, 51Salma, the father of Bethlehem, and Hareph the father of Beth-gader. 52†Shobal the father of Kiriath-jearim had other sons: Haroeh, half of the Menuhoth. 53†And the clans of Kiriath-jearim: the Ithrites, the Puthites, the Shumathites, and the Mishraites; from these came the Zorathites and the Eshtaolites. 54The sons of Salma: Bethlehem, the Netophathites, Atroth-beth-joab and half of the Manahathites, the Zorites.

55 † The clans also of the scribes who lived at Jabez: the Tirathites, the Shimeathites and the Sucathites. These are the Kenites who came from Hammath, the father of the house of Rechab.

Descendants of David

3 [1]‡†These are the sons of David who were born to him in Hebron:
the firstborn, Amnon, by Ahinoam the Jezreelite; the second, Daniel, by Abigail the Carmelite, [2]the third, Absalom, whose mother was Maacah, the daughter of Talmai, king of Geshur; the fourth, Adonijah, whose mother was Haggith; [3]‡the fifth, Shephatiah, by Abital; the sixth, Ithream, by his wife Eglah; [4]†six were born to him in Hebron, where he reigned for seven years and six months. And he reigned thirty-three years in Jerusalem.
[5]† These were born to him in Jerusalem: Shimea, Shobab, Nathan and Solomon, four by Bath-shua, the daughter of Ammiel; [6]then Ibhar, Elishama, Eliphelet, [7]Nogah, Nepheg, Japhia, [8]† Elishama, Eliada, and Eliphelet, nine. [9]All these were David's sons, besides the sons of the concubines, and Tamar was their sister.

[10]‡The son of Solomon was Rehoboam, Abijah his son, Asa his son, Jehoshaphat his son, [11]Joram his son, Ahaziah his son, Joash his son, [12]Amaziah his son, Azariah his son, Jotham his son, [13]Ahaz his son, Hezekiah his son, Manasseh his son, [14]Amon his son, Josiah his son. [15]†The sons of Josiah: Johanan the firstborn, the second Jehoiakim, the third Zedekiah, the fourth Shallum. [16]‡†The descendants of Jehoiakim: Jeconiah his son, Zedekiah his son; [17]†and the sons of Jeconiah, the captive: Shealtiel his son, [18]Malchiram, Pedaiah, Shenazzar, Jekamiah, Hoshama and Nedabiah; [19]†and the sons of Pedaiah: Zerubbabel and Shimei; and the sons of Zerubbabel: Meshullam and Hananiah, and Shelomith was their sister; [20]and Hashubah, Ohel, Berechiah, Hasadiah, and Jushab-hesed, five. [21]The sons of Hananiah: Pelatiah and Jeshaiah, his son[1] Rephaiah, his son Arnan, his son Obadiah, his son Shecaniah. [22]The son[2] of Shecaniah: Shemaiah.
And the sons of Shemaiah: Hattush, Igal, Bariah, Neariah, and Shaphat, six.
[23]The sons of Neariah: Elioenai, Hizkiah, and Azrikam, three. [24]†The sons of Elioenai: Hodaviah, Eliashib, Pelaiah, Akkub, Johanan, Delaiah, and Anani, seven.

Descendants of Judah

4 [1]The sons of Judah: Perez, Hezron, Carmi, Hur, and Shobal.
[2]Reaiah the son of Shobal fathered Jahath, and Jahath fathered Ahumai and Lahad. These were the clans of the Zorathites. [3]These were the sons[1] of Etam: Jezreel, Ishma, and Idbash; and the name of their sister was Hazzelelponi, [4]and Penuel fathered Gedor, and Ezer fathered Hushah. These were the sons of Hur, the firstborn of Ephrathah, the father of Bethlehem.
[5]Ashhur, the father of Tekoa, had two wives, Helah and Naarah; [6]Naarah bore him Ahuzzam, Hepher, Temeni, and Haahashtari. These were the sons of Naarah. [7]The sons of Helah: Zereth, Izhar, and Ethnan. [8]Koz fathered Anub, Zobebah, and the clans of Aharhel, the son of Harum. [9]Jabez was more honorable than his brothers; and his mother called his name Jabez, saying, "Because I bore him in pain."[2] [10]Jabez called upon the God of Israel, saying, "Oh that you would bless me and enlarge my border, and that your hand might be with me, and that you would keep me from harm[3] so that it might not bring me pain!" And God granted what he asked.
[11]Chelub, the brother of Shuhah, fathered Mehir, who fathered Eshton.
[12]Eshton fathered Beth-rapha, Paseah, and Tehinnah, the father of Ir-nahash.
These are the men of Recah. [13]The sons of Kenaz: Othniel and Seraiah;
and the sons of Othniel: Hathath and Meonothai.[4] [14]Meonothai fathered Ophrah; and Seraiah fathered Joab, the father of Ge-harashim,[5] so-called because they were craftsmen. [15]The sons of Caleb the son of Jephunneh: Iru, Elah, and Naam; and the son[6] of Elah: Kenaz. [16]The sons of Jehallelel:
Ziph, Ziphah, Tiria, and Asarel. [17]The sons of Ezrah: Jether, Mered, Epher, and Jalon. These are the sons of Bithiah, the daughter of Pharaoh, whom Mered married;[7] and she conceived and bore[8] Miriam, Shammai, and Ishbah, the father of Eshtemoa. [18]And his Judahite wife bore Jered the father of Gedor, Heber the father of Soco, and Jekuthiel the father of Zanoah.
[19]The sons of the wife of Hodiah, the sister of Naham, were the fathers of Keilah the Garmite and Eshtemoa the Maacathite. [20]The sons of Shimon: Amnon, Rinnah, Ben-hanan, and Tilon. The sons of Ishi: Zoheth and Benzoheth. [21]The sons of Shelah the son of Judah: Er the father of Lecah, Laadah the father of Mareshah, and the clans of the house of linen workers at Beth-ashbea; 22 † and Jokim, and the men of Cozeba, and Joash, and Saraph, who ruled in Moab and returned to Lehem[9] (now the records[10] are ancient). 23 † These were the potters who were inhabitants of Netaim and Gederah. They lived there in the king's service.

Descendants of Simeon

24 ‡‡The sons of Simeon: Nemuel, Jamin, Jarib, Zerah, Shaul; 25 Shallum was his son, Mibsam his son, Mishma his son. 26 The sons of Mishma: Hammuel his son, Zaccur his son, Shimei his son. 27 Shimei had sixteen sons and six daughters; but his brothers did not have many children, nor did all their clan multiply like the men of Judah. 28 ‡They lived in Beersheba, Moladah, Hazar-shual, 29 Bilhah, Ezem, Tolad, 30 Bethuel, Hormah, Ziklag, 31 Beth-marcaboth, Hazar-susim, Beth-biri, and Shaaraim. These were their cities until David reigned. 32 †And their villages were Etam, Ain, Rimmon, Tochen, and Ashan, five cities, 33 along with all their villages that were around these cities as far as Baal. These were their settlements, and they kept a genealogical record.

34 Meshobab, Jamlech, Joshah the son of Amaziah, 35 Joel, Jehu the son of Joshibiah, son of Seraiah, son of Asiel, 36 Elioenai, Jaakobah, Jeshohaiah, Asaiah, Adiel, Jesimiel, Benaiah, 37 Ziza the son of Shiphi, son of Allon, son of Jedaiah, son of Shimri, son of Shemaiah— 38 these mentioned by name were princes in their clans, and their fathers' houses increased greatly.
39 ‡They journeyed to the entrance of Gedor, to the east side of the valley, to seek pasture for their flocks, 40 †where they found rich, good pasture, and the land was very broad, quiet, and peaceful, for the former inhabitants there belonged to Ham. 41 †These, registered by name, came in the days of Hezekiah, king of Judah, and destroyed their tents and the Meunites who were found there, and marked them for destruction to this day, and settled in their place, because there was pasture there for their flocks. 42 †And some of them, five hundred men of the Simeonites, went to Mount Seir, having as their leaders Pelatiah, Neariah, Rephaiah, and Uzziel, the sons of Ishi.
43 †And they defeated the remnant of the Amalekites who had escaped, and they have lived there to this day.

Descendants of Reuben

5 [1] ‡ ‡ The sons of Reuben the firstborn of Israel (for he was the firstborn, but because he defiled his father's couch, his birthright was given to the sons of Joseph the son of Israel, so that he could not be enrolled as the oldest son; [2]though Judah became strong among his brothers and a chief came from him, yet the birthright belonged to Joseph), [3]the sons of Reuben, the firstborn of Israel: Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi. [4] ‡ The sons of Joel: Shemaiah his son, Gog his son, Shimei his son, [5]Micah his son, Reaiah his son, Baal his son, [6] † Beerah his son, whom Tiglath-pileser[1] king of Assyria carried away into exile; he was a chief of the Reubenites. [7]And his kinsmen by their clans, when the genealogy of their generations was recorded: the chief, Jeiel, and Zechariah, [8] † and Bela the son of Azaz, son of Shema, son of Joel, who lived in Aroer, as far as Nebo and Baal-meon. [9] † He also lived to the east as far as the entrance of the desert this side of the Euphrates, because their livestock had multiplied in the land of Gilead.
[10] † And in the days of Saul they waged war against the Hagrites, who fell into their hand. And they lived in their tents throughout all the region east of Gilead.

Descendants of Gad

11 ‡‡‡‡The sons of Gad lived over against them in the land of Bashan as far as Salecah: 12 Joel the chief, Shapham the second, Janai, and Shaphat in Bashan. 13 And their kinsmen according to their fathers' houses: Michael, Meshullam, Sheba, Jorai, Jacan, Zia and Eber, seven. 14 These were the sons of Abihail the son of Huri, son of Jaroah, son of Gilead, son of Michael, son of Jeshishai, son of Jahdo, son of Buz. 15 Ahi the son of Abdiel, son of Guni, was chief in their fathers' houses, 16 †and they lived in Gilead, in Bashan and in its towns, and in all the pasturelands of Sharon to their limits. 17 All of these were recorded in genealogies in the days of Jotham king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam king of Israel.

18 ‡† The Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh had valiant men who carried shield and sword, and drew the bow, expert in war, 44,760, able to go to war. 19 †They waged war against the Hagrites, Jetur, Naphish, and Nodab. 20 And when they prevailed over them, the Hagrites and all who were with them were given into their hands, for they cried out to God in the battle, and he granted their urgent plea because they trusted in him. 21 †They carried off their livestock: 50,000 of their camels, 250,000 sheep, 2,000 donkeys, and 100,000 men alive. 22 For many fell, because the war was of God. And they lived in their place until the exile.

The Half-Tribe of Manasseh

23 ‡‡The members of the half-tribe of Manasseh lived in the land. They were very numerous from Bashan to Baal-hermon, Senir, and Mount Hermon. 24These were the heads of their fathers' houses: Epher,[1] Ishi, Eliel, Azriel, Jeremiah, Hodaviah, and Jahdiel, mighty warriors, famous men, heads of their fathers' houses. 25†But they broke faith with the God of their fathers, and whored after the gods of the peoples of the land, whom God had destroyed before them. 26†So the God of Israel stirred up the spirit of Pul king of Assyria, the spirit of Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, and he took them into exile, namely, the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, and brought them to Halah, Habor, Hara, and the river Gozan, to this day.

Descendants of Levi

6 [1]†[1] The sons of Levi: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. [2]†The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel. [3]The children of Amram:
Aaron, Moses, and Miriam. The sons of Aaron: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. [4]Eleazar fathered Phinehas, Phinehas fathered Abishua, [5]Abishua fathered Bukki, Bukki fathered Uzzi, [6]Uzzi fathered Zerahiah, Zerahiah fathered Meraioth, [7]Meraioth fathered Amariah, Amariah fathered Ahitub, [8]Ahitub fathered Zadok, Zadok fathered Ahimaaz, [9]Ahimaaz fathered Azariah, Azariah fathered Johanan, [10]†and Johanan fathered Azariah (it was he who served as priest in the house that Solomon built in Jerusalem).
[11]Azariah fathered Amariah, Amariah fathered Ahitub, [12]Ahitub fathered Zadok, Zadok fathered Shallum, [13]Shallum fathered Hilkiah, Hilkiah fathered Azariah, [14]Azariah fathered Seraiah, Seraiah fathered Jehozadak; [15]†and Jehozadak went into exile when the Lord sent Judah and Jerusalem into exile by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar.

[16]†[2] The sons of Levi: Gershom, Kohath, and Merari. [17]And these are the names of the sons of Gershom: Libni and Shimei. [18]The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron and Uzziel. [19]The sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi.
These are the clans of the Levites according to their fathers. [20]Of Gershom:
Libni his son, Jahath his son, Zimmah his son, [21]Joah his son, Iddo his son, Zerah his son, Jeatherai his son. [22]The sons of Kohath: Amminadab his son, Korah his son, Assir his son, [23]Elkanah his son, Ebiasaph his son, Assir his son, [24]Tahath his son, Uriel his son, Uzziah his son, and Shaul his son. [25]The sons of Elkanah: Amasai and Ahimoth, [26]Elkanah his son, Zophai his son, Nahath his son, [27]Eliab his son, Jeroham his son, Elkanah his son. [28]†The sons of Samuel: Joel[3] his firstborn, the second Abijah.[4] [29]The sons of Merari: Mahli, Libni his son, Shimei his son, Uzzah his son, [30]Shimea his son, Haggiah his son, and Asaiah his son.

[31]††These are the men whom David put in charge of the service of song in the house of the Lord after the ark rested there. [32]†They ministered with song before the tabernacle of the tent of meeting until Solomon built the house of the LORD in Jerusalem, and they performed their service according to their order. 33 ‡These are the men who served and their sons. Of the sons of the Kohathites: Heman the singer the son of Joel, son of Samuel, 34 son of Elkanah, son of Jeroham, son of Eliel, son of Toah, 35 son of Zuph, son of Elkanah, son of Mahath, son of Amasai, 36 son of Elkanah, son of Joel, son of Azariah, son of Zephaniah, 37 son of Tahath, son of Assir, son of Ebiasaph, son of Korah, 38 son of Izhar, son of Kohath, son of Levi, son of Israel; 39 †and his brother Asaph, who stood on his right hand, namely, Asaph the son of Berechiah, son of Shimea, 40 son of Michael, son of Baaseiah, son of Malchijah, 41 son of Ethni, son of Zerah, son of Adaiah, 42 son of Ethan, son of Zimmah, son of Shimei, 43 son of Jahath, son of Gershom, son of Levi. 44 †On the left hand were their brothers, the sons of Merari: Ethan the son of Kishi, son of Abdi, son of Malluch, 45 son of Hashabiah, son of Amaziah, son of Hilkiah, 46 son of Amzi, son of Bani, son of Shemer, 47 son of Mahli, son of Mushi, son of Merari, son of Levi. 48 †And their brothers the Levites were appointed for all the service of the tabernacle of the house of God.

49 ‡‡But Aaron and his sons made offerings on the altar of burnt offering and on the altar of incense for all the work of the Most Holy Place, and to make atonement for Israel, according to all that Moses the servant of God had commanded. 50 ‡These are the sons of Aaron: Eleazar his son, Phinehas his son, Abishua his son, 51 Bukki his son, Uzzi his son, Zerahiah his son, 52 Meraioth his son, Amariah his son, Ahitub his son, 53 Zadok his son, Ahimaaz his son.

54 ‡These are their dwelling places according to their settlements within their borders: to the sons of Aaron of the clans of Kohathites, for theirs was the first lot, 55 to them they gave Hebron in the land of Judah and its surrounding pasturelands, 56 but the fields of the city and its villages they gave to Caleb the son of Jephunneh. 57 †To the sons of Aaron they gave the cities of refuge: Hebron, Libnah with its pasturelands, Jattir, Eshtemoa with its pasturelands, 58 Hilen with its pasturelands, Debir with its pasturelands, 59 Ashan with its pasturelands, and Beth-shemesh with its pasturelands; 60 and from the tribe of Benjamin, Gibeon,[1] Geba with its pasturelands, Alemeth with its pasturelands, and Anathoth with its pasturelands. All their cities throughout their clans were thirteen.

[61]To the rest of the Kohathites were given by lot out of the clan of the tribe, out of the half-tribe, the half of Manasseh, ten cities. [62]To the Gershomites according to their clans were allotted thirteen cities out of the tribes of Issachar, Asher, Naphtali and Manasseh in Bashan. [63]To the Merarites according to their clans were allotted twelve cities out of the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and Zebulun. [64]So the people of Israel gave the Levites the cities with their pasturelands. [65]They gave by lot out of the tribes of Judah, Simeon, and Benjamin these cities that are mentioned by name.

[71]To the Gershomites were given out of the clan of the half-tribe of Manasseh: Golan in Bashan with its pasturelands and Ashtaroth with its pasturelands; [72]and out of the tribe of Issachar: Kedesh with its pasturelands, Daberath with its pasturelands, [73]Ramoth with its pasturelands, and Anem with its pasturelands; [74]out of the tribe of Asher: Mashal with its pasturelands, Abdon with its pasturelands, [75]Hukok with its pasturelands, and Rehob with its pasturelands; [76]and out of the tribe of Naphtali: Kedesh in Galilee with its pasturelands, Hammon with its pasturelands, and Kiriathaim with its pasturelands. [77]† To the rest of the Merarites were allotted out of the tribe of Zebulun: Rimmono with its pasturelands, Tabor with its pasturelands, [78]and beyond the Jordan at Jericho, on the east side of the Jordan, out of the tribe of Reuben: Bezer in the wilderness with its pasturelands, Jahzah with its pasturelands, [79]Kedemoth with its pasturelands, and Mephaath with its pasturelands; [80]and out of the tribe of Gad: Ramoth in Gilead with its pasturelands, Mahanaim with its pasturelands, [81]Heshbon with its pasturelands, and Jazer with its pasturelands.

Descendants of Issachar

7 [1] ‡ ‡ The sons[1] of Issachar: Tola, Puah, Jashub, and Shimron, four.
[2] † The sons of Tola: Uzzi, Rephaiah, Jeriel, Jahmai, Ibsam, and Shemuel, heads of their fathers' houses, namely of Tola, mighty warriors of their generations, their number in the days of David being 22,600. [3] † The son[2] of Uzzi: Izrahiah. And the sons of Izrahiah: Michael, Obadiah, Joel, and Isshiah, all five of them were chief men. [4] And along with them, by their generations, according to their fathers' houses, were units of the army for war, 36,000, for they had many wives and sons. [5] Their kinsmen belonging to all the clans of Issachar were in all 87,000 mighty warriors, enrolled by genealogy.

Descendants of Benjamin

6 ‡ † The sons of Benjamin: Bela, Becher, and Jediael, three. 7 The sons of Bela: Ezbon, Uzzi, Uzziel, Jerimoth, and Iri, five, heads of fathers' houses, mighty warriors. And their enrollment by genealogies was 22,034. 8 The sons of Becher: Zemirah, Joash, Eliezer, Elioenai, Omri, Jeremoth, Abijah, Anathoth, and Alemeth. All these were the sons of Becher. 9 And their enrollment by genealogies, according to their generations, as heads of their fathers' houses, mighty warriors, was 20,200. 10 The son of Jediael: Bilhan.
And the sons of Bilhan: Jeush, Benjamin, Ehud, Chenaanah, Zethan, Tarshish, and Ahishahar. 11 All these were the sons of Jediael according to the heads of their fathers' houses, mighty warriors, 17,200, able to go to war. 12 † And Shuppim and Huppim were the sons of Ir, Hushim the son of Aher.

Descendants of Naphtali

13 The sons of Naphtali: Jahziel, Guni, Jezer and Shallum, the descendants of Bilhah.

Descendants of Manasseh

14 ‡ † The sons of Manasseh: Asriel, whom his Aramean concubine bore;
she bore Machir the father of Gilead. 15 And Machir took a wife for Huppim and for Shuppim. The name of his sister was Maacah. And the name of the second was Zelophehad, and Zelophehad had daughters. 16 And Maacah the wife of Machir bore a son, and she called his name Peresh; and the name of his brother was Sheresh; and his sons were Ulam and Rakem. 17 The son of Ulam: Bedan. These were the sons of Gilead the son of Machir, son of Manasseh. 18 And his sister Hammolecheth bore Ishhod, Abiezer and Mahlah. 19 The sons of Shemida were Ahian, Shechem, Likhi, and Aniam.

Descendants of Ephraim

20 ‡‡‡The sons of Ephraim: Shuthelah, and Bered his son, Tahath his son, Eleadah his son, Tahath his son, 21 ‡Zabad his son, Shuthelah his son, and Ezer and Elead, whom the men of Gath who were born in the land killed, because they came down to raid their livestock. 22 And Ephraim their father mourned many days, and his brothers came to comfort him. 23 And Ephraim went in to his wife, and she conceived and bore a son. And he called his name Beriah, because disaster had befallen his house.[1] 24 ‡His daughter was Sheerah, who built both Lower and Upper Beth-horon, and Uzzen-sheerah.
25 Rephah was his son, Resheph his son, Telah his son, Tahan his son, 26 Ladan his son, Ammihud his son, Elishama his son, 27 Nun[2] his son, Joshua his son. 28 Their possessions and settlements were Bethel and its towns, and to the east Naaran, and to the west Gezer and its towns, Shechem and its towns, and Ayyah and its towns; 29 also in possession of the Manassites, Beth-shean and its towns, Taanach and its towns, Megiddo and its towns, Dor and its towns. In these lived the sons of Joseph the son of Israel.

Descendants of Asher

30 ‡ ‡ The sons of Asher: Imnah, Ishvah, Ishvi, Beriah, and their sister
Serah. 31 The sons of Beriah: Heber, and Malchiel, who fathered Birzaith.
32 Heber fathered Japhlet, Shomer, Hotham, and their sister Shua. 33 The sons of Japhlet: Pasach, Bimhal, and Ashvath. These are the sons of Japhlet.
34 The sons of Shemer his brother: Rohgah, Jehubbah, and Aram. 35 The sons

Ara. 39 The sons of Ulla: Arah, Hanniel, and Rizia. 40 † All of these were men of Asher, heads of fathers' houses, approved, mighty warriors, chiefs of the princes. Their number enrolled by genealogies, for service in war, was 26,000 men.

A Genealogy of Saul

8 [1]†Benjamin fathered Bela his firstborn, Ashbel the second, Aharah the third, [2]Nohah the fourth, and Rapha the fifth. [3]And Bela had sons:
Addar, Gera, Abihud, [4]Abishua, Naaman, Ahoah, [5]Gera, Shephuphan, and Huram. [6]†These are the sons of Ehud (they were heads of fathers' houses of the inhabitants of Geba, and they were carried into exile to Manahath):
[7]Naaman,[3] Ahijah, and Gera, that is, Heglam,[4] who fathered Uzza and Ahihud. [8]‡‡And Shaharaim fathered sons in the country of Moab after he had sent away Hushim and Baara his wives. [9]He fathered sons by Hodesh his wife: Jobab, Zibia, Mesha, Malcam, [10]Jeuz, Sachia, and Mirmah. These were his sons, heads of fathers' houses. [11]He also fathered sons by Hushim: Abitub and Elpaal. [12]The sons of Elpaal: Eber, Misham, and Shemed, who built Ono and Lod with its towns, [13]‡†and Beriah and Shema (they were heads of fathers' houses of the inhabitants of Aijalon, who caused the inhabitants of Gath to flee); [14]and Ahio, Shashak, and Jeremoth. [15]Zebadiah, Arad, Eder, [16]Michael, Ishpah, and Joha were sons of Beriah. [17]Zebadiah, Meshullam, Hizki, Heber, [18]Ishmerai, Izliah, and Jobab were the sons of Elpaal. [19]Jakim, Zichri, Zabdi, [20]Elienai, Zillethai, Eliel, [21]Adaiah, Beraiah, and Shimrath were the sons of Shimei. [22]Ishpan, Eber, Eliel, [23]Abdon, Zichri, Hanan, [24]Hananiah, Elam, Anthothijah, [25]Iphdeiah, and Penuel were the sons of Shashak. [26]Shamsherai, Shehariah, Athaliah, [27]Jaareshiah, Elijah, and Zichri were the sons of Jeroham. [28]†These were the heads of fathers' houses, according to their generations, chief men. These lived in Jerusalem.

[29]‡†Jeiel[1] the father of Gibeon lived in Gibeon, and the name of his wife was Maacah. [30]His firstborn son: Abdon, then Zur, Kish, Baal, Nadab, [31]Gedor, Ahio, Zecher, [32]and Mikloth (he fathered Shimeah). Now these also lived opposite their kinsmen in Jerusalem, with their kinsmen. [33]†Ner was the father of Kish, Kish of Saul, Saul of Jonathan, Malchi-shua, Abinadab and Eshbaal; [34]and the son of Jonathan was Merib-baal; and Merib-baal was the father of Micah. [35]The sons of Micah: Pithon, Melech, Tarea, and Ahaz.
[36]Ahaz fathered Jehoaddah, and Jehoaddah fathered Alemeth, Azmaveth, and Zimri. Zimri fathered Moza. [37]Moza fathered Binea; Raphah was his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son. [38]Azel had six sons, and these are their names: Azrikam, Bocheru, Ishmael, Shearіah, Obadiah, and Hanan. All these were the sons of Azel. [39]The sons of Eshek his brother: Ulam his firstborn, Jeush the second, and Eliphelet the third. [40]† The sons of Ulam were men who were mighty warriors, bowmen, having many sons and grandsons, 150. All these were Benjaminites.

A Genealogy of the Returned Exiles

9 [1]So all Israel was recorded in genealogies, and these are written in the Book of the Kings of Israel. And Judah was taken into exile in Babylon because of their breach of faith. [2]Now the first to dwell again in their possessions in their cities were Israel, the priests, the Levites, and the temple servants. [3]And some of the people of Judah, Benjamin, Ephraim, and Manasseh lived in Jerusalem: [4]Uthai the son of Ammihud, son of Omri, son of Imri, son of Bani, from the sons of Perez the son of Judah.
[5]And of the Shilonites: Asaiah the firstborn, and his sons. [6]Of the sons of Zerah: Jeuel and their kinsmen, 690. [7]Of the Benjaminites: Sallu the son of Meshullam, son of Hodaviah, son of Hassenuah, [8]Ibneiah the son of Jeroham, Elah the son of Uzzi, son of Michri, and Meshullam the son of Shephatiah, son of Reuel, son of Ibnijah; [9]and their kinsmen according to their generations, 956. All these were heads of fathers' houses according to their fathers' houses.

[10]Of the priests: Jedaiah, Jehoiarib, Jachin, [11]and Azariah the son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, the chief officer of the house of God; [12]and Adaiah the son of Jeroham, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah, and Maasai the son of Adiel, son of Jahzerah, son of Meshullam, son of Meshillemith, son of Immer; [13]besides their kinsmen, heads of their fathers' houses, 1,760, mighty men for the work of the service of the house of God.

[14]Of the Levites: Shemaiah the son of Hasshub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, of the sons of Merari; [15]and Bakbakkar, Heresh, Galal and Mattaniah the son of Mica, son of Zichri, son of Asaph; [16]and Obadiah the son of Shemaiah, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun, and Berechiah the son of Asa, son of Elkanah, who lived in the villages of the Netophathites.

[17]The gatekeepers were Shallum, Akkub, Talmon, Ahiman, and their kinsmen (Shallum was the chief); [18]until then they were in the king's gate on the east side as the gatekeepers of the camps of the Levites. [19]Shallum the son of Kore, son of Ebiasaph, son of Korah, and his kinsmen of his fathers' house, the Korahites, were in charge of the work of the service, keepers of the thresholds of the tent, as their fathers had been in charge of the camp of the Lord, keepers of the entrance. [20]†And Phinehas the son of Eleazar was the chief officer over them in time past; the Lord was with him. [21]Zechariah the son of Meshelemiah was gatekeeper at the entrance of the tent of meeting. [22]All these, who were chosen as gatekeepers at the thresholds, were 212. They were enrolled by genealogies in their villages. David and Samuel the seer established them in their office of trust. [23]So they and their sons were in charge of the gates of the house of the Lord, that is, the house of the tent, as guards. [24]The gatekeepers were on the four sides, east, west, north, and south. [25]†And their kinsmen who were in their villages were obligated to come in every seven days, in turn, to be with these, [26]for the four chief gatekeepers, who were Levites, were entrusted to be over the chambers and the treasures of the house of God. [27]And they lodged around the house of God, for on them lay the duty of watching, and they had charge of opening it every morning.

[28]Some of them had charge of the utensils of service, for they were required to count them when they were brought in and taken out. [29]Others of them were appointed over the furniture and over all the holy utensils, also over the fine flour, the wine, the oil, the incense, and the spices. [30]Others, of the sons of the priests, prepared the mixing of the spices, [31]†and Mattithiah, one of the Levites, the firstborn of Shallum the Korahite, was entrusted with making the flat cakes. [32]Also some of their kinsmen of the Kohathites had charge of the showbread, to prepare it every Sabbath.

[33]†Now these, the singers, the heads of fathers' houses of the Levites, were in the chambers of the temple free from other service, for they were on duty day and night. [34]†These were heads of fathers' houses of the Levites, according to their generations, leaders. These lived in Jerusalem.

Saul’s Genealogy Repeated

35 In Gibeon lived the father of Gibeon, Jeiel, and the name of his wife was Maacah, 36 and his firstborn son Abdon, then Zur, Kish, Baal, Ner, Nadab, 37 Gedor, Ahio, Zechariah, and Mikloth; 38 and Mikloth was the father of Shimeam; and these also lived opposite their kinsmen in Jerusalem, with their kinsmen. 39 Ner fathered Kish, Kish fathered Saul, Saul fathered Jonathan, Malchi-shua, Abinadab, and Eshbaal. 40 And the son of Jonathan was Merib-baal, and Merib-baal fathered Micah. 41 The sons of Micah: Pithon, Melech, Tahrea, and Ahaz.[1] 42 And Ahaz fathered Jarah, and Jarah fathered Alemeth, Azmaveth, and Zimri. And Zimri fathered Moza. 43 Moza fathered Binea, and Rephaiah was his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son.
44 Azel had six sons and these are their names: Azrikam, Bocheru, Ishmael, Shearіah, Obadiah, and Hanan; these were the sons of Azel.

The Death of Saul and His Sons

10 [1]†Now the Philistines fought against Israel, and the men of Israel fled before the Philistines and fell slain on Mount Gilboa. [2]And the Philistines overtook Saul and his sons, and the Philistines struck down Jonathan and Abinadab and Malchi-shua, the sons of Saul. [3]The battle pressed hard against Saul, and the archers found him, and he was wounded by the archers. [4]Then Saul said to his armor-bearer, "Draw your sword and thrust me through with it, lest these uncircumcised come and mistreat me."
But his armor-bearer would not, for he feared greatly. Therefore Saul took his own sword and fell upon it. [5]And when his armor-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he also fell upon his sword and died. [6]†Thus Saul died; he and his three sons and all his house died together. [7]And when all the men of Israel who were in the valley saw that the army[2] had fled and that Saul and his sons were dead, they abandoned their cities and fled, and the Philistines came and lived in them.

[8]††The next day, when the Philistines came to strip the slain, they found Saul and his sons fallen on Mount Gilboa. [9]†And they stripped him and took his head and his armor, and sent messengers throughout the land of the Philistines to carry the good news to their idols and to the people. [10]†And they put his armor in the temple of their gods and fastened his head in the temple of Dagon. [11]†But when all Jabesh-gilead heard all that the Philistines had done to Saul, [12]all the valiant men arose and took away the body of Saul and the bodies of his sons, and brought them to Jabesh. And they buried their bones under the oak in Jabesh and fasted seven days.

[13]†So Saul died for his breach of faith. He broke faith with the Lord in that he did not keep the command of the Lord, and also consulted a medium, seeking guidance. [14]†He did not seek guidance from the Lord.
Therefore the Lord put him to death and turned the kingdom over to David the son of Jesse.

David Anointed King

11 [1]†† Then all Israel gathered together to David at Hebron and said, "Behold, we are your bone and flesh. [2]† In times past, even when Saul was king, it was you who led out and brought in Israel. And the Lord your God said to you, 'You shall be shepherd of my people Israel, and you shall be prince over my people Israel.'" [3]† So all the elders of Israel came to the king at Hebron, and David made a covenant with them at Hebron before the Lord. And they anointed David king over Israel, according to the word of the Lord by Samuel.

David Takes Jerusalem

4 ‡‡‡And David and all Israel went to Jerusalem, that is, Jebus, where the Jebusites were, the inhabitants of the land. 5 †The inhabitants of Jebus said to David, “You will not come in here.” Nevertheless, David took the stronghold of Zion, that is, the city of David. 6 † David said, “Whoever strikes the Jebusites first shall be chief and commander.” And Joab the son of Zeruiah went up first, so he became chief. 7 And David lived in the stronghold; therefore it was called the city of David. 8 †And he built the city all around from the Millo in complete circuit, and Joab repaired the rest of the city. 9 †And David became greater and greater, for the Lord of hosts was with him.

David’s Mighty Men

10 ‡ ‡ †Now these are the chiefs of David’s mighty men, who gave him strong support in his kingdom, together with all Israel, to make him king, according to the word of the Lord concerning Israel. 11 †This is an account of David’s mighty men: Jashobeam, a Hachmonite, was chief of the three.[1]
He wielded his spear against 300 whom he killed at one time.
12 And next to him among the three mighty men was Eleazar the son of Dodo, the Ahohite. 13 † He was with David at Pas-dammim when the Philistines were gathered there for battle. There was a plot of ground full of barley, and the men fled from the Philistines. 14 †But he took his[1] stand in the midst of the plot and defended it and killed the Philistines. And the Lord saved them by a great victory.
15 ‡ ‡Three of the thirty chief men went down to the rock to David at the cave of Adullam, when the army of Philistines was encamped in the Valley of Rephaim. 16 David was then in the stronghold, and the garrison of the Philistines was then at Bethlehem. 17 And David said longingly, “Oh that someone would give me water to drink from the well of Bethlehem that is by the gate!” 18 †Then the three mighty men broke through the camp of the Philistines and drew water out of the well of Bethlehem that was by the gate and took it and brought it to David. But David would not drink it. He poured it out to the Lord 19 †and said, “Far be it from me before my God that I should do this. Shall I drink the lifeblood of these men? For at the risk of their lives they brought it.” Therefore he would not drink it. These things did the three mighty men.
20 †Now Abishai, the brother of Joab, was chief of the thirty.[2] And he wielded his spear against 300 men and killed them and won a name beside the three. 21 He was the most renowned[3] of the thirty[4] and became their commander, but he did not attain to the three.
22 And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada was a valiant man[5] of Kabzeel, a doer of great deeds. He struck down two heroes of Moab. He also went down and struck down a lion in a pit on a day when snow had fallen. 23 And he struck down an Egyptian, a man of great stature, five cubits[6] tall. The Egyptian had in his hand a spear like a weaver’s beam, but Benaiah went down to him with a staff and snatched the spear out of the Egyptian's hand and killed him with his own spear. [24]These things did Benaiah the son of Jehoiada and won a name beside the three mighty men. [25]He was renowned among the thirty, but he did not attain to the three. And David set him over his bodyguard.

[26]†The mighty men were Asahel the brother of Joab, Elhanan the son of Dodo of Bethlehem, [27]Shammoth of Harod,[7] Helez the Pelonite, [28]Ira the son of Ikkesh of Tekoa, Abiezer of Anathoth, [29]Sibbecai the Hushathite, Ilai the Ahohite, [30]Maharai of Netophah, Heled the son of Baanah of Netophah, [31]Ithai the son of Ribai of Gibeah of the people of Benjamin, Benaiah of Pirathon, [32]Hurai of the brooks of Gaash, Abiel the Arbathite, [33]Azmaveth of Baharum, Eliahba the Shaalbonite, [34]Hashem[8] the Gizonite, Jonathan the son of Shagee the Hararite, [35]Ahiam the son of Sachar the Hararite, Eliphal the son of Ur, [36]Hepher the Mecherathite, Ahijah the Pelonite, [37]Hezro of Carmel, Naarai the son of Ezbai, [38]Joel the brother of Nathan, Mibhar the son of Hagri, [39]Zelek the Ammonite, Naharai of Beeroth, the armor-bearer of Joab the son of Zeruiah, [40]Ira the Ithrite, Gareb the Ithrite, [41]Uriah the Hittite, Zabad the son of Ahlai, [42]Adina the son of Shiza the Reubenite, a leader of the Reubenites, and thirty with him, [43]Hanan the son of Maacah, and Joshaphat the Mithnite, [44]Uzzia the Ashterathite, Shama and Jeiel the sons of Hotham the Aroerite, [45]Jediael the son of Shimri, and Joha his brother, the Tizite, [46]Eliel the Mahavite, and Jeribai, and Joshaviah, the sons of Elnaam, and Ithmah the Moabite, [47]Eliel, and Obed, and Jaasiel the Mezobaite.

The Mighty Men Join David

12 [1]†††Now these are the men who came to David at Ziklag, while he could not move about freely because of Saul the son of Kish. And they were among the mighty men who helped him in war. [2]†They were bowmen and could shoot arrows and sling stones with either the right or the left hand; they were Benjaminites, Saul's kinsmen. [3]†The chief was Ahiezer, then Joash, both sons of Shemaah of Gibeah; also Jeziel and Pelet, the sons of Azmaveth; Beracah, Jehu of Anathoth, [4]Ishmaiah of Gibeon, a mighty man among the thirty and a leader over the thirty; Jeremiah,[1] Jahaziel, Johanan, Jozabad of Gederah, [5]Eluzai,[2] Jerimoth, Bealiah, Shemariah, Shephatiah the Haruphite; [6]Elkanah, Isshiah, Azarel, Joezer, and Jashobeam, the Korahites; [7]And Joelah and Zebadiah, the sons of Jeroham of Gedor.

[8]†From the Gadites there went over to David at the stronghold in the wilderness mighty and experienced warriors, expert with shield and spear, whose faces were like the faces of lions and who were swift as gazelles upon the mountains: [9]Ezer the chief, Obadiah second, Eliab third, [10]Mishmannah fourth, Jeremiah fifth, [11]Attai sixth, Eliel seventh, [12]Johanan eighth, Elzabad ninth, [13]Jeremiah tenth, Machbannai eleventh. [14]These Gadites were officers of the army; the least was a match for a hundred men and the greatest for a thousand. [15]†These are the men who crossed the Jordan in the first month, when it was overflowing all its banks, and put to flight all those in the valleys, to the east and to the west.

[16]†And some of the men of Benjamin and Judah came to the stronghold to David. [17]†David went out to meet them and said to them, "If you have come to me in friendship to help me, my heart will be joined to you; but if to betray me to my adversaries, although there is no wrong in my hands, then may the God of our fathers see and rebuke you." [18]†Then the Spirit clothed Amasai, chief of the thirty, and he said,

"We are yours, O David,
and with you, O son of Jesse!
Peace, peace to you,

and peace to your helpers!
For your God helps you.”

Then David received them and made them officers of his troops.

19 †Some of the men of Manasseh deserted to David when he came with the Philistines for the battle against Saul. (Yet he did not help them, for the rulers of the Philistines took counsel and sent him away, saying, “At peril to our heads he will desert to his master Saul.”) 20 †As he went to Ziklag, these men of Manasseh deserted to him: Adnah, Jozabad, Jediael, Michael, Jozabad, Elihu, and Zillethai, chiefs of thousands in Manasseh. 21 † They helped David against the band of raiders, for they were all mighty men of valor and were commanders in the army. 22 †For from day to day men came to David to help him, until there was a great army, like an army of God.

23 †These are the numbers of the divisions of the armed troops who came to David in Hebron to turn the kingdom of Saul over to him, according to the word of the Lord. 24 The men of Judah bearing shield and spear were 6,800 armed troops. 25 Of the Simeonites, mighty men of valor for war, 7,100. 26 † Of the Levites 4,600. 27 The prince Jehoiada, of the house of Aaron, and with him 3,700. 28 †Zadok, a young man mighty in valor, and twenty-two commanders from his own fathers’ house. 29 Of the Benjaminites, the kinsmen of Saul, 3,000, of whom the majority had to that point kept their allegiance to the house of Saul. 30 Of the Ephraimites 20,800, mighty men of valor, famous men in their fathers’ houses. 31 †Of the half-tribe of Manasseh 18,000, who were expressly named to come and make David king. 32 Of Issachar, men who had understanding of the times, to know what Israel ought to do, 200 chiefs, and all their kinsmen under their command. 33 †Of Zebulun 50,000 seasoned troops, equipped for battle with all the weapons of war, to help David[1] with singleness of purpose.
34 Of Naphtali 1,000 commanders with whom were 37,000 men armed with shield and spear. 35 Of the Danites 28,600 men equipped for battle. 36 Of Asher 40,000 seasoned troops ready for battle. 37 Of the Reubenites and Gadites and the half-tribe of Manasseh from beyond the Jordan, 120,000 men armed with all the weapons of war.

38 † †All these, men of war, arrayed in battle order, came to Hebron with full intent to make David king over all Israel. Likewise, all the rest of Israel were of a single mind to make David king. [39] † And they were there with David for three days, eating and drinking, for their brothers had made preparation for them. [40] † And also their relatives, from as far as Issachar and Zebulun and Naphtali, came bringing food on donkeys and on camels and on mules and on oxen, abundant provisions of flour, cakes of figs, clusters of raisins, and wine and oil, oxen and sheep, for there was joy in Israel.

The Ark Brought from Kiriath-Jearim

13 [1]‡‡†David consulted with the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, with every leader. [2]And David said to all the assembly of Israel, “If it seems good to you and from the Lord our God, let us send abroad to our brothers who remain in all the lands of Israel, as well as to the priests and Levites in the cities that have pasturelands, that they may be gathered to us. [3]†Then let us bring again the ark of our God to us, for we did not seek it[2] in the days of Saul.” [4]†All the assembly agreed to do so, for the thing was right in the eyes of all the people.

Uzzah and the Ark

5 ‡ † So David assembled all Israel from the Nile[3] of Egypt to Lebo-hamath, to bring the ark of God from Kiriath-jearim. 6 † And David and all Israel went up to Baalah, that is, to Kiriath-jearim that belongs to Judah, to bring up from there the ark of God, which is called by the name of the Lord who sits enthroned above the cherubim. 7 † And they carried the ark of God on a new cart, from the house of Abinadab, and Uzzah and Ahio[4] were driving the cart. 8 And David and all Israel were rejoicing before God with all their might, with song and lyres and harps and tambourines and cymbals and trumpets.

9 ‡ † And when they came to the threshing floor of Chidon, Uzzah put out his hand to take hold of the ark, for the oxen stumbled. 10 And the anger of the Lord was kindled against Uzzah, and he struck him down because he put out his hand to the ark, and he died there before God. 11 † And David was angry because the Lord had broken out against Uzzah. And that place is called Perez-uzza[1] to this day. 12 And David was afraid of God that day, and he said, “How can I bring the ark of God home to me?” 13 ‡ So David did not take the ark home into the city of David, but took it aside to the house of Obed-edom the Gittite. 14 And the ark of God remained with the household of Obed-edom in his house three months. And the Lord blessed the household of Obed-edom and all that he had.

David's Wives and Children

14 [1]†† And Hiram king of Tyre sent messengers to David, and cedar trees, also masons and carpenters to build a house for him. [2]† And David knew that the Lord had established him as king over Israel, and that his kingdom was highly exalted for the sake of his people Israel.

[3]† And David took more wives in Jerusalem, and David fathered more sons and daughters. [4]† These are the names of the children born to him in Jerusalem: Shammua, Shobab, Nathan, Solomon, [5]Ibhar, Elishua, Elpelet, [6]Nogah, Nepheg, Japhia, [7]Elishama, Beeliada and Eliphelet.

Philistines Defeated

8 ‡ ‡ † When the Philistines heard that David had been anointed king over all Israel, all the Philistines went up to search for David. But David heard of it and went out against them. 9 † Now the Philistines had come and made a raid in the Valley of Rephaim. 10 ‡ † And David inquired of God, “Shall I go up against the Philistines? Will you give them into my hand?” And the Lord said to him, “Go up, and I will give them into your hand.” 11 † And he went up to Baal-perazim, and David struck them down there. And David said, “God has broken through[2] my enemies by my hand, like a bursting flood.”
Therefore the name of that place is called Baal-perazim. 12 † And they left their gods there, and David gave command, and they were burned.

13 † And the Philistines yet again made a raid in the valley. 14 And when David again inquired of God, God said to him, “You shall not go up after them; go around and come against them opposite the balsam trees. 15 † And when you hear the sound of marching in the tops of the balsam trees, then go out to battle, for God has gone out before you to strike down the army of the Philistines.” 16 † And David did as God commanded him, and they struck down the Philistine army from Gibeon to Gezer. 17 † And the fame of David went out into all lands, and the Lord brought the fear of him upon all nations.

The Ark Brought to Jerusalem

15 [1]‡†David[3] built houses for himself in the city of David. And he prepared a place for the ark of God and pitched a tent for it. [2]†Then David said that no one but the Levites may carry the ark of God, for the Lord had chosen them to carry the ark of the Lord and to minister to him forever.
[3]And David assembled all Israel at Jerusalem to bring up the ark of the Lord to its place, which he had prepared for it. [4]‡And David gathered together the sons of Aaron and the Levites: [5]of the sons of Kohath, Uriel the chief, with 120 of his brothers; [6]of the sons of Merari, Asaiah the chief, with 220 of his brothers; [7]of the sons of Gershom, Joel the chief, with 130 of his brothers; [8]of the sons of Elizaphan, Shemaiah the chief, with 200 of his brothers; [9]of the sons of Hebron, Eliel the chief, with 80 of his brothers; [10]of the sons of Uzziel, Amminadab the chief, with 112 of his brothers. [11]†Then David summoned the priests Zadok and Abiathar, and the Levites Uriel, Asaiah, Joel, Shemaiah, Eliel, and Amminadab, [12]†and said to them, “You are the heads of the fathers’ houses of the Levites. Consecrate yourselves, you and your brothers, so that you may bring up the ark of the Lord, the God of Israel, to the place that I have prepared for it. [13]†Because you did not carry it the first time, the Lord our God broke out against us, because we did not seek him according to the rule.” [14]So the priests and the Levites consecrated themselves to bring up the ark of the Lord, the God of Israel. [15]†And the Levites carried the ark of God on their shoulders with the poles, as Moses had commanded according to the word of the Lord.

[16]‡David also commanded the chiefs of the Levites to appoint their brothers as the singers who should play loudly on musical instruments, on harps and lyres and cymbals, to raise sounds of joy. [17]So the Levites appointed Heman the son of Joel; and of his brothers Asaph the son of Berechiah; and of the sons of Merari, their brothers, Ethan the son of Kushaiah; [18]†and with them their brothers of the second order, Zechariah, Jaaziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Benaiah, Maaseiah, Mattithiah, Eliphelehu, and Mikneiah, and the gatekeepers Obed-edom and Jeiel.
[19]†The singers, Heman, Asaph, and Ethan, were to sound bronze cymbals;

[20] † Zechariah, Aziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Maaseiah, and Benaiah were to play harps according to Alamoth; [21] † but Mattithiah, Eliphelehu, Mikneiah, Obed-edom, Jeiel, and Azaziah were to lead with lyres according to the Sheminith. [22]Chenaniah, leader of the Levites in music, should direct the music, for he understood it. [23]Berechiah and Elkanah were to be gatekeepers for the ark. [24]Shebaniah, Joshaphat, Nethanel, Amasai, Zechariah, Benaiah, and Eliezer, the priests, should blow the trumpets before the ark of God. Obed-edom and Jehiah were to be gatekeepers for the ark.

[25] † So David and the elders of Israel and the commanders of thousands went to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD from the house of Obed-edom with rejoicing. [26] † And because God helped the Levites who were carrying the ark of the covenant of the LORD, they sacrificed seven bulls and seven rams. [27] †David was clothed with a robe of fine linen, as also were all the Levites who were carrying the ark, and the singers and Chenaniah the leader of the music of the singers. And David wore a linen ephod. [28]So all Israel brought up the ark of the covenant of the LORD with shouting, to the sound of the horn, trumpets, and cymbals, and made loud music on harps and lyres.

[29] † And as the ark of the covenant of the LORD came to the city of David, Michal the daughter of Saul looked out of the window and saw King David dancing and rejoicing, and she despised him in her heart.

The Ark Placed in a Tent

16 [1]‡†And they brought in the ark of God and set it inside the tent that David had pitched for it, and they offered burnt offerings and peace offerings before God. [2]‡†And when David had finished offering the burnt offerings and the peace offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the Lord [3]and distributed to all Israel, both men and women, to each a loaf of bread, a portion of meat,[1] and a cake of raisins.

[4]Then he appointed some of the Levites as ministers before the ark of the Lord, to invoke, to thank, and to praise the Lord, the God of Israel. [5]‡Asaph was the chief, and second to him were Zechariah, Jeiel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Mattithiah, Eliab, Benaiah, Obed-edom, and Jeiel, who were to play harps and lyres; Asaph was to sound the cymbals, [6]and Benaiah and Jahaziel the priests were to blow trumpets regularly before the ark of the covenant of God. [7]Then on that day David first appointed that thanksgiving be sung to the Lord by Asaph and his brothers.

David's Song of Thanks

8 Oh give thanks to the Lord; call upon his
name;
make known his deeds among the peoples!
9 Sing to him; sing praises to him;
tell of all his wondrous works!
10 Glory in his holy name;
let the hearts of those who seek the Lord
rejoice!
11 Seek the Lord and his strength;
seek his presence continually!
12 Remember the wondrous works that he has
done,
his miracles and the judgments he uttered,
13 O offspring of Israel his servant,
sons of Jacob, his chosen ones!

14 He is the Lord our God;
his judgments are in all the earth.
15 Remember his covenant forever,
the word that he commanded, for a
thousand generations,
16 the covenant that he made with Abraham,
his sworn promise to Isaac,
17 which he confirmed as a statute to Jacob,
as an everlasting covenant to Israel, 18 saying, "To you I will give the land of Canaan,
as your portion for an inheritance."

19 When you were few in number,
and of little account, and sojourners in it, 20 wandering from nation to nation,

from one kingdom to another people,
21 he allowed no one to oppress them;
he rebuked kings on their account,
22 saying, “Touch not my anointed ones,
do my prophets no harm!”

23 Sing to the Lord, all the earth!
Tell of his salvation from day to day.
24 Declare his glory among the nations,
his marvelous works among all the peoples!
25 For great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised,
and he is to be held in awe above all gods.
26 For all the gods of the peoples are idols,
but the Lord made the heavens.
27 Splendor and majesty are before him;
strength and joy are in his place.

28 Ascribe to the Lord, O clans of the peoples,
ascribe to the Lord glory and strength!
29 Ascribe to the Lord the glory due his name;
bring an offering and come before him!
Worship the Lord in the splendor of holiness;[1]
30 tremble before him, all the earth;
yes, the world is established; it shall never
be moved.
31 Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth
rejoice,
and let them say among the nations,
“The Lord reigns!”
32 Let the sea roar, and all that fills it;
let the field exult, and everything in it!
33 Then shall the trees of the forest sing for joy before the Lord, for he comes to judge the
earth.

[34]†† Oh give thanks to the LORD, for he is good;
for his steadfast love endures forever!

[35]Say also:

"Save us, O God of our salvation,
and gather and deliver us from among the nations,
that we may give thanks to your holy name,
and glory in your praise.
[36]† Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel,
from everlasting to everlasting!"

Then all the people said, "Amen!" and praised the LORD.

Worship Before the Ark

37 ‡ ‡ ‡ So David left Asaph and his brothers there before the ark of the covenant of the Lord to minister regularly before the ark as each day required, 38 and also Obed-edom and his[2] sixty-eight brothers, while Obed-edom, the son of Jeduthun, and Hosah were to be gatekeepers. 39 † And he left Zadok the priest and his brothers the priests before the tabernacle of the Lord in the high place that was at Gibeon 40 to offer burnt offerings to the Lord on the altar of burnt offering regularly morning and evening, to do all that is written in the Law of the Lord that he commanded Israel. 41 † With them were Heman and Jeduthun and the rest of those chosen and expressly named to give thanks to the Lord, for his steadfast love endures forever.
42 Heman and Jeduthun had trumpets and cymbals for the music and instruments for sacred song. The sons of Jeduthun were appointed to the gate.

43 † Then all the people departed each to his house, and David went home to bless his household.

The Lord's Covenant with David

17 [1]‡‡†Now when David lived in his house, David said to Nathan the prophet, "Behold, I dwell in a house of cedar, but the ark of the covenant of the Lord is under a tent." [2]And Nathan said to David, "Do all that is in your heart, for God is with you."

[3]‡But that same night the word of the Lord came to Nathan, [4]"Go and tell my servant David, 'Thus says the Lord: It is not you who will build me a house to dwell in. [5]†For I have not lived in a house since the day I brought up Israel to this day, but I have gone from tent to tent and from dwelling to dwelling. [6]†In all places where I have moved with all Israel, did I speak a word with any of the judges of Israel, whom I commanded to shepherd my people, saying, "Why have you not built me a house of cedar?"' [7]Now, therefore, thus shall you say to my servant David, 'Thus says the Lord of hosts, I took you from the pasture, from following the sheep, to be prince over my people Israel, [8]†and I have been with you wherever you have gone and have cut off all your enemies from before you. And I will make for you a name, like the name of the great ones of the earth. [9]And I will appoint a place for my people Israel and will plant them, that they may dwell in their own place and be disturbed no more. And violent men shall waste them no more, as formerly, [10]†from the time that I appointed judges over my people Israel. And I will subdue all your enemies. Moreover, I declare to you that the Lord will build you a house. [11]When your days are fulfilled to walk with your fathers, I will raise up your offspring after you, one of your own sons, and I will establish his kingdom. [12]†He shall build a house for me, and I will establish his throne forever. [13]†I will be to him a father, and he shall be to me a son. I will not take my steadfast love from him, as I took it from him who was before you, [14]†but I will confirm him in my house and in my kingdom forever, and his throne shall be established forever.'" [15]In accordance with all these words, and in accordance with all this vision, Nathan spoke to David.

David's Prayer

16 ‡ ‡ ‡ Then King David went in and sat before the Lord and said, "Who am I, O Lord God, and what is my house, that you have brought me thus far? 17 † And this was a small thing in your eyes, O God. You have also spoken of your servant's house for a great while to come, and have shown me future generations,[1] O Lord God! 18 And what more can David say to you for honoring your servant? For you know your servant. 19 For your servant's sake, O Lord, and according to your own heart, you have done all this greatness, in making known all these great things. 20 † There is none like you, O Lord, and there is no God besides you, according to all that we have heard with our ears. 21 † And who is like your people Israel, the one[2] nation on earth whom God went to redeem to be his people, making for yourself a name for great and awesome things, in driving out nations before your people whom you redeemed from Egypt? 22 And you made your people Israel to be your people forever, and you, O Lord, became their God. 23 And now, O Lord, let the word that you have spoken concerning your servant and concerning his house be established forever, and do as you have spoken, 24 † and your name will be established and magnified forever, saying,
'The Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, is Israel's God,' and the house of your servant David will be established before you. 25 For you, my God, have revealed to your servant that you will build a house for him. Therefore your servant has found courage to pray before you. 26 And now, O Lord, you are God, and you have promised this good thing to your servant. 27 Now you have been pleased to bless the house of your servant, that it may continue forever before you, for it is you, O Lord, who have blessed, and it is blessed
forever."

David Defeats His Enemies

18 [1]After this David defeated the Philistines and subdued them, and he took Gath and its villages out of the hand of the Philistines.
[2]And he defeated Moab, and the Moabites became servants to David and brought tribute.
[3]David also defeated Hadadezer king of Zobah-Hamath, as he went to set up his monument[1] at the river Euphrates. [4]And David took from him 1,000 chariots, 7,000 horsemen, and 20,000 foot soldiers. And David hamstrung all the chariot horses, but left enough for 100 chariots. [5]And when the Syrians of Damascus came to help Hadadezer king of Zobah, David struck down 22,000 men of the Syrians. [6]Then David put garrisons[2] in Syria of Damascus, and the Syrians became servants to David and brought tribute. And the Lord gave victory to David[3] wherever he went.
[7]And David took the shields of gold that were carried by the servants of Hadadezer and brought them to Jerusalem. [8]And from Tibhath and from Cun, cities of Hadadezer, David took a large amount of bronze. With it Solomon made the bronze sea and the pillars and the vessels of bronze.
[9]When Tou king of Hamath heard that David had defeated the whole army of Hadadezer, king of Zobah, [10]he sent his son Hadoram to King David, to ask about his health and to bless him because he had fought against Hadadezer and defeated him; for Hadadezer had often been at war with Tou. And he sent all sorts of articles of gold, of silver, and of bronze.
[11]These also King David dedicated to the Lord, together with the silver and gold that he had carried off from all the nations, from Edom, Moab, the Ammonites, the Philistines, and Amalek.
[12]And Abishai, the son of Zeruiah, killed 18,000 Edomites in the Valley of Salt. [13]Then he put garrisons in Edom, and all the Edomites became David's servants. And the Lord gave victory to David wherever he went.

David’s Administration

14 ‡ ‡ ‡ So David reigned over all Israel, and he administered justice and equity to all his people. 15 † And Joab the son of Zeruiah was over the army; and Jehoshaphat the son of Ahilud was recorder; 16 † and Zadok the son of Ahitub and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar were priests; and Shavsha was secretary; 17 † and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada was over the Cherethites and the Pelethites; and David’s sons were the chief officials in the service of the king.

The Ammonites Disgrace David's Men

19 [1]‡‡Now after this Nahash the king of the Ammonites died, and his son reigned in his place. [2]And David said, "I will deal kindly with Hanun the son of Nahash, for his father dealt kindly with me." So David sent messengers to console him concerning his father. And David's servants came to the land of the Ammonites to Hanun to console him. [3]But the princes of the Ammonites said to Hanun, "Do you think, because David has sent comforters to you, that he is honoring your father? Have not his servants come to you to search and to overthrow and to spy out the land?" [4]‡ So Hanun took David's servants and shaved them and cut off their garments in the middle, at their hips, and sent them away; [5]and they departed. When David was told concerning the men, he sent messengers to meet them, for the men were greatly ashamed. And the king said, "Remain at Jericho until your beards have grown and then return."

[6]† When the Ammonites saw that they had become a stench to David, Hanun and the Ammonites sent 1,000 talents[1] of silver to hire chariots and horsemen from Mesopotamia, from Aram-maacah, and from Zobah. [7]†They hired 32,000 chariots and the king of Maacah with his army, who came and encamped before Medeba. And the Ammonites were mustered from their cities and came to battle. [8]When David heard of it, he sent Joab and all the army of the mighty men. [9]† And the Ammonites came out and drew up in battle array at the entrance of the city, and the kings who had come were by themselves in the open country.

Ammonites and Syrians Defeated

10 ‡ † When Joab saw that the battle was set against him both in front and in the rear, he chose some of the best men of Israel and arrayed them against the Syrians. 11 The rest of his men he put in the charge of Abishai his brother, and they were arrayed against the Ammonites. 12 And he said, “If the Syrians are too strong for me, then you shall help me, but if the Ammonites are too strong for you, then I will help you. 13 Be strong, and let us use our strength for our people and for the cities of our God, and may the Lord do what seems good to him.” 14 So Joab and the people who were with him drew near before the Syrians for battle, and they fled before him.
15 † And when the Ammonites saw that the Syrians fled, they likewise fled before Abishai, Joab’s brother, and entered the city. Then Joab came to Jerusalem.

16 But when the Syrians saw that they had been defeated by Israel, they sent messengers and brought out the Syrians who were beyond the Euphrates, with Shophach the commander of the army of Hadadezer at their head. 17 † And when it was told to David, he gathered all Israel together and crossed the Jordan and came to them and drew up his forces against them.
And when David set the battle in array against the Syrians, they fought with him. 18 And the Syrians fled before Israel, and David killed of the Syrians the men of 7,000 chariots and 40,000 foot soldiers, and put to death also Shophach the commander of their army. 19 † And when the servants of Hadadezer saw that they had been defeated by Israel, they made peace with David and became subject to him. So the Syrians were not willing to save the Ammonites anymore.

The Capture of Rabbah

20 [1]‡†In the spring of the year, the time when kings go out to battle, Joab led out the army and ravaged the country of the Ammonites and came and besieged Rabbah. But David remained at Jerusalem. And Joab struck down Rabbah and overthrew it. [2]And David took the crown of their king from his head. He found that it weighed a talent[2] of gold, and in it was a precious stone. And it was placed on David's head. And he brought out the spoil of the city, a very great amount. [3]And he brought out the people who were in it and set them to labor[3] with saws and iron picks and axes.[4] And thus David did to all the cities of the Ammonites. Then David and all the people returned to Jerusalem.

Philistine Giants Killed

4 ‡ † And after this there arose war with the Philistines at Gezer. Then Sibbecai the Hushathite struck down Sippai, who was one of the descendants of the giants, and the Philistines were subdued. 5 † And there was again war with the Philistines, and Elhanan the son of Jair struck down Lahmi the brother of Goliath the Gittite, the shaft of whose spear was like a weaver's beam. 6 † And there was again war at Gath, where there was a man of great stature, who had six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot, twenty-four in number, and he also was descended from the giants. 7 And when he taunted Israel, Jonathan the son of Shimea, David's brother, struck him down. 8 These were descended from the giants in Gath, and they fell by the hand of David and by the hand of his servants.

David's Census Brings Pestilence

21 [1]‡‡†Then Satan stood against Israel and incited David to number Israel. [2]So David said to Joab and the commanders of the army, "Go, number Israel, from Beersheba to Dan, and bring me a report, that I may know their number." [3]‡But Joab said, "May the Lord add to his people a hundred times as many as they are! Are they not, my lord the king, all of them my lord's servants? Why then should my lord require this? Why should it be a cause of guilt for Israel?" [4]But the king's word prevailed against Joab. So Joab departed and went throughout all Israel and came back to Jerusalem. [5]†And Joab gave the sum of the numbering of the people to David. In all Israel there were 1,100,000 men who drew the sword, and in Judah 470,000 who drew the sword. [6]†But he did not include Levi and Benjamin in the numbering, for the king's command was abhorrent to Joab.
[7]† But God was displeased with this thing, and he struck Israel. [8]And David said to God, "I have sinned greatly in that I have done this thing. But now, please take away the iniquity of your servant, for I have acted very foolishly." [9]†And the Lord spoke to Gad, David's seer, saying, [10]‡"Go and say to David, 'Thus says the Lord, Three things I offer you; choose one of them, that I may do it to you.'" [11]So Gad came to David and said to him,
"Thus says the Lord, 'Choose what you will: [12]†either three years of famine, or three months of devastation by your foes while the sword of your enemies overtakes you, or else three days of the sword of the Lord, pestilence on the land, with the angel of the Lord destroying throughout all the territory of Israel.' Now decide what answer I shall return to him who sent me." [13]†Then David said to Gad, "I am in great distress. Let me fall into the hand of the Lord, for his mercy is very great, but do not let me fall into the hand of man."
[14]So the Lord sent a pestilence on Israel, and 70,000 men of Israel fell.
[15]‡†And God sent the angel to Jerusalem to destroy it, but as he was about to destroy it, the Lord saw, and he relented from the calamity. And he said to the angel who was working destruction, "It is enough; now stay your hand."
And the angel of the Lord was standing by the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite. [16]† And David lifted his eyes and saw the angel of the Lord standing between earth and heaven, and in his hand a drawn sword stretched out over Jerusalem. Then David and the elders, clothed in sackcloth, fell upon their faces. [17] † And David said to God, “Was it not I who gave command to number the people? It is I who have sinned and done great evil. But these sheep, what have they done? Please let your hand, O Lord my God, be against me and against my father’s house. But do not let the plague be on your people.”

David Builds an Altar

18 ††Now the angel of the Lord had commanded Gad to say to David that David should go up and raise an altar to the Lord on the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite. 19So David went up at Gad's word, which he had spoken in the name of the Lord. 20†Now Ornan was threshing wheat. He turned and saw the angel, and his four sons who were with him hid themselves. 21As David came to Ornan, Ornan looked and saw David and went out from the threshing floor and paid homage to David with his face to the ground. 22And David said to Ornan, "Give me the site of the threshing floor that I may build on it an altar to the Lord—give it to me at its full price—that the plague may be averted from the people." 23 †Then Ornan said to David,
"Take it, and let my lord the king do what seems good to him. See, I give the oxen for burnt offerings and the threshing sledges for the wood and the wheat for a grain offering; I give it all." 24But King David said to Ornan, "No, but I will buy them for the full price. I will not take for the Lord what is yours, nor offer burnt offerings that cost me nothing." 25†So David paid Ornan 600 shekels[1] of gold by weight for the site. 26†And David built there an altar to the Lord and presented burnt offerings and peace offerings and called on the Lord, and the Lord [2] answered him with fire from heaven upon the altar of burnt offering. 27†Then the Lord commanded the angel, and he put his sword back into its sheath.

28At that time, when David saw that the Lord had answered him at the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite, he sacrificed there. 29 †For the tabernacle of the Lord, which Moses had made in the wilderness, and the altar of burnt offering were at that time in the high place at Gibeon, 30but David could not go before it to inquire of God, for he was afraid of the sword of the angel of the Lord.

22 1Then David said, "Here shall be the house of the Lord God and here the altar of burnt offering for Israel."

David Prepares for Temple Building

2 †††† David commanded to gather together the resident aliens who were in the land of Israel, and he set stonecutters to prepare dressed stones for building the house of God. 3 David also provided great quantities of iron for nails for the doors of the gates and for clamps, as well as bronze in quantities beyond weighing, 4 and cedar timbers without number, for the Sidonians and Tyrians brought great quantities of cedar to David. 5 † For David said, “Solomon my son is young and inexperienced, and the house that is to be built for the Lord must be exceedingly magnificent, of fame and glory throughout all lands. I will therefore make preparation for it.” So David provided materials in great quantity before his death.

Solomon Charged to Build the Temple

6 †‡†Then he called for Solomon his son and charged him to build a house for the Lord, the God of Israel. 7David said to Solomon, “My son, I had it in my heart to build a house to the name of the Lord my God. 8†But the word of the Lord came to me, saying, ‘You have shed much blood and have waged great wars. You shall not build a house to my name, because you have shed so much blood before me on the earth. 9†Behold, a son shall be born to you who shall be a man of rest. I will give him rest from all his surrounding enemies. For his name shall be Solomon, and I will give peace and quiet to Israel in his days. 10†He shall build a house for my name. He shall be my son, and I will be his father, and I will establish his royal throne in Israel forever.’

11“Now, my son, the Lord be with you, so that you may succeed in building the house of the Lord your God, as he has spoken concerning you.
12Only, may the Lord grant you discretion and understanding, that when he gives you charge over Israel you may keep the law of the Lord your God.
13†Then you will prosper if you are careful to observe the statutes and the rules that the Lord commanded Moses for Israel. Be strong and courageous.
Fear not; do not be dismayed. 14†With great pains I have provided for the house of the Lord 100,000 talents[1] of gold, a million talents of silver, and bronze and iron beyond weighing, for there is so much of it; timber and stone, too, I have provided. To these you must add. 15You have an abundance of workmen: stonecutters, masons, carpenters, and all kinds of craftsmen without number, skilled in working 16gold, silver, bronze, and iron. Arise and work! The Lord be with you!”

17†‡David also commanded all the leaders of Israel to help Solomon his son, saying, 18“Is not the Lord your God with you? And has he not given you peace on every side? For he has delivered the inhabitants of the land into my hand, and the land is subdued before the Lord and his people.
19†Now set your mind and heart to seek the Lord your God. Arise and build the sanctuary of the Lord God, so that the ark of the covenant of the Lord and the holy vessels of God may be brought into a house built for the name of the Lord.”

David Organizes the Levites

23 [1]†When David was old and full of days, he made Solomon his son king over Israel.
[2]† David[1] assembled all the leaders of Israel and the priests and the Levites. [3]† The Levites, thirty years old and upward, were numbered, and the total was 38,000 men. [4]"Twenty-four thousand of these," David said,[2]
"shall have charge of the work in the house of the Lord, 6,000 shall be officers and judges, [5]4,000 gatekeepers, and 4,000 shall offer praises to the Lord with the instruments that I have made for praise." [6]† And David organized them in divisions corresponding to the sons of Levi: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.
[7]† The sons of Gershon[3] were Ladan and Shimei. [8]The sons of Ladan:
Jehiel the chief, and Zetham, and Joel, three. [9]The sons of Shimei: Shelomoth, Haziel, and Haran, three. These were the heads of the fathers' houses of Ladan. [10]And the sons of Shimei: Jahath, Zina, and Jeush and Beriah. These four were the sons of Shimei. [11]Jahath was the chief, and Zizah the second; but Jeush and Beriah did not have many sons, therefore they became counted as a single father's house.
[12]The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel, four. [13]The sons of Amram: Aaron and Moses. Aaron was set apart to dedicate the most holy things, that he and his sons forever should make offerings before the Lord and minister to him and pronounce blessings in his name forever. [14]But the sons of Moses the man of God were named among the tribe of Levi.
[15]The sons of Moses: Gershom and Eliezer. [16]The sons of Gershom: Shebuel the chief. [17]The sons of Eliezer: Rehabiah the chief. Eliezer had no other sons, but the sons of Rehabiah were very many. [18]The sons of Izhar: Shelomith the chief. [19]The sons of Hebron: Jeriah the chief, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth. [20]The sons of Uzziel:
Micah the chief and Isshiah the second.
[21]The sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. The sons of Mahli: Eleazar and Kish. [22]Eleazar died having no sons, but only daughters; their kinsmen, the sons of Kish, married them. [23]The sons of Mushi: Mahli, Eder, and Jeremoth, three.

[24]† These were the sons of Levi by their fathers' houses, the heads of fathers' houses as they were listed according to the number of the names of the individuals from twenty years old and upward who were to do the work for the service of the house of the Lord. [25]For David said, "The Lord, the God of Israel, has given rest to his people, and he dwells in Jerusalem forever. [26]And so the Levites no longer need to carry the tabernacle or any of the things for its service." [27]† For by the last words of David the sons of Levi were numbered from twenty years old and upward. [28]† For their duty was to assist the sons of Aaron for the service of the house of the Lord, having the care of the courts and the chambers, the cleansing of all that is holy, and any work for the service of the house of God. [29]Their duty was also to assist with the showbread, the flour for the grain offering, the wafers of unleavened bread, the baked offering, the offering mixed with oil, and all measures of quantity or size. [30]† And they were to stand every morning, thanking and praising the Lord, and likewise at evening, [31]and whenever burnt offerings were offered to the Lord on Sabbaths, new moons, and feast days, according to the number required of them, regularly before the Lord. [32]† Thus they were to keep charge of the tent of meeting and the sanctuary, and to attend the sons of Aaron, their brothers, for the service of the house of the Lord.

David Organizes the Priests

24 [1]‡‡The divisions of the sons of Aaron were these. The sons of Aaron: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. [2]But Nadab and Abihu died before their father and had no children, so Eleazar and Ithamar became the priests. [3]†With the help of Zadok of the sons of Eleazar, and Ahimelech of the sons of Ithamar, David organized them according to the appointed duties in their service. [4]Since more chief men were found among the sons of Eleazar than among the sons of Ithamar, they organized them under sixteen heads of fathers' houses of the sons of Eleazar, and eight of the sons of Ithamar. [5]†They divided them by lot, all alike, for there were sacred officers and officers of God among both the sons of Eleazar and the sons of Ithamar. [6]‡‡And the scribe Shemaiah, the son of Nethanel, a Levite, recorded them in the presence of the king and the princes and Zadok the priest and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar and the heads of the fathers' houses of the priests and of the Levites, one father's house being chosen for Eleazar and one chosen for Ithamar.

[7]The first lot fell to Jehoiarib, the second to Jedaiah, [8]the third to Harim, the fourth to Seorim, [9]the fifth to Malchijah, the sixth to Mijamin, [10]†the seventh to Hakkoz, the eighth to Abijah, [11]the ninth to Jeshua, the tenth to Shecaniah, [12]the eleventh to Eliashib, the twelfth to Jakim, [13]the thirteenth to Huppah, the fourteenth to Jeshebeab, [14]the fifteenth to Bilgah, the sixteenth to Immer, [15]the seventeenth to Hezir, the eighteenth to Happizzez, [16]the nineteenth to Pethahiah, the twentieth to Jehezkel, [17]the twenty-first to Jachin, the twenty-second to Gamul, [18]the twenty-third to Delaiah, the twenty-fourth to Maaziah. [19]†These had as their appointed duty in their service to come into the house of the Lord according to the procedure established for them by Aaron their father, as the Lord God of Israel had commanded him.

[20]‡‡And of the rest of the sons of Levi: of the sons of Amram, Shubael; of the sons of Shubael, Jehdeiah. [21]Of Rehabiah: of the sons of Rehabiah, Isshiah the chief. [22]Of the Izharites, Shelomoth; of the sons of Shelomoth, Jahath. [23]The sons of Hebron:[1] Jeriah the chief,[2] Amariah the second,

Jahaziel the third, Jekameam the fourth. [24]The sons of Uzziel, Micah; of the sons of Micah, Shamir. [25]The brother of Micah, Isshiah; of the sons of Isshiah, Zechariah. [26]The sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. The sons of Jaaziah: Beno.[3][27]The sons of Merari: of Jaaziah, Beno, Shoham, Zaccur, and Ibri. [28]Of Mahli: Eleazar, who had no sons. [29]Of Kish, the sons of Kish: Jerahmeel. [30]The sons of Mushi: Mahli, Eder, and Jerimoth. These were the sons of the Levites according to their fathers' houses. [31]† These also, the head of each father's house and his younger brother alike, cast lots, just as their brothers the sons of Aaron, in the presence of King David, Zadok, Ahimelech, and the heads of fathers' houses of the priests and of the Levites.

David Organizes the Musicians

25 [1]†David and the chiefs of the service also set apart for the service the sons of Asaph, and of Heman, and of Jeduthun, who prophesied with lyres, with harps, and with cymbals. The list of those who did the work and of their duties was: [2]†Of the sons of Asaph: Zaccur, Joseph, Nethaniah, and Asharelah, sons of Asaph, under the direction of Asaph, who prophesied under the direction of the king. [3]Of Jeduthun, the sons of Jeduthun: Gedaliah, Zeri, Jeshaiah, Shimei,[1] Hashabiah, and Mattithiah, six, under the direction of their father Jeduthun, who prophesied with the lyre in thanksgiving and praise to the Lord. [4]† Of Heman, the sons of Heman:
Bukkiah, Mattaniah, Uzziel, Shebuel and Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, and Romamti-ezer, Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, Mahazioth. [5]†All these were the sons of Heman the king's seer, according to the promise of God to exalt him, for God had given Heman fourteen sons and three daughters. [6]They were all under the direction of their father in the music in the house of the Lord with cymbals, harps, and lyres for the service of the house of God. Asaph, Jeduthun, and Heman were under the order of the king. [7]The number of them along with their brothers, who were trained in singing to the Lord, all who were skillful, was 288. [8]†And they cast lots for their duties, small and great, teacher and pupil alike.

[9]†† The first lot fell for Asaph to Joseph; the second to Gedaliah, to him and his brothers and his sons, twelve; [10]the third to Zaccur, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [11]the fourth to Izri, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [12]the fifth to Nethaniah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [13]the sixth to Bukkiah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [14]the seventh to Jesharelah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [15]the eighth to Jeshaiah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [16]the ninth to Mattaniah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [17]the tenth to Shimei, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [18]the eleventh to Azarel, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [19]the twelfth to Hashabiah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [20]to the thirteenth, Shubael, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [21]to the fourteenth, Mattithiah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [22]to the fifteenth, to Jeremoth, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [23]to the sixteenth, to Hananiah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [24]to the seventeenth, to Joshbekashah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [25]to the eighteenth, to Hanani, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [26]to the nineteenth, to Mallothi, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [27]to the twentieth, to Eliathah, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [28]to the twenty-first, to Hothir, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [29]to the twenty-second, to Giddalti, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [30]to the twenty-third, to Mahazioth, his sons and his brothers, twelve; [31]to the twenty-fourth, to Romamti-ezer, his sons and his brothers, twelve.

Divisions of the Gatekeepers

26 [1]‡‡†As for the divisions of the gatekeepers: of the Korahites, Meshelemiah the son of Kore, of the sons of Asaph. [2]And Meshelemiah had sons: Zechariah the firstborn, Jediael the second, Zebadiah the third, Jathniel the fourth, [3]Elam the fifth, Jehohanan the sixth, Eliehoenai the seventh. [4]†And Obed-edom had sons: Shemaiah the firstborn, Jehozabad the second, Joah the third, Sachar the fourth, Nethanel the fifth, [5]†Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Peullethai the eighth, for God blessed him. [6]Also to his son Shemaiah were sons born who were rulers in their fathers' houses, for they were men of great ability. [7]The sons of Shemaiah: Othni, Rephael, Obed and Elzabad, whose brothers were able men, Elihu and Semachiah. [8]All these were of the sons of Obed-edom with their sons and brothers, able men qualified for the service; sixty-two of Obed-edom. [9]And Meshelemiah had sons and brothers, able men, eighteen. [10]†And Hosah, of the sons of Merari, had sons: Shimri the chief (for though he was not the firstborn, his father made him chief), [11]Hilkiah the second, Tebaliah the third, Zechariah the fourth: all the sons and brothers of Hosah were thirteen.

[12]‡†These divisions of the gatekeepers, corresponding to their chief men, had duties, just as their brothers did, ministering in the house of the Lord. [13]And they cast lots by fathers' houses, small and great alike, for their gates. [14]The lot for the east fell to Shelemiah. They cast lots also for his son Zechariah, a shrewd counselor, and his lot came out for the north. [15]Obed-edom's came out for the south, and to his sons was allotted the gatehouse. [16]† For Shuppim and Hosah it came out for the west, at the gate of Shallecheth on the road that goes up. Watch corresponded to watch. [17]On the east there were six each day,[1] on the north four each day, on the south four each day, as well as two and two at the gatehouse. [18]And for the colonnade[2] on the west there were four at the road and two at the colonnade. [19]These were the divisions of the gatekeepers among the Korahites and the sons of Merari.

Treasurers and Other Officials

20 ‡ ‡ ‡ And of the Levites, Ahijah had charge of the treasuries of the house of God and the treasuries of the dedicated gifts. 21 The sons of Ladan, the sons of the Gershonites belonging to Ladan, the heads of the fathers' houses belonging to Ladan the Gershonite: Jehieli.[3] 22 The sons of Jehieli, Zetham, and Joel his brother, were in charge of the treasuries of the house of the Lord. 23 Of the Amramites, the Izharites, the Hebronites, and the Uzzielites— 24 † and Shebuel the son of Gershom, son of Moses, was chief officer in charge of the treasuries. 25 His brothers: from Eliezer were his son Rehabiah, and his son Jeshaiah, and his son Joram, and his son Zichri, and his son Shelomoth. 26 † This Shelomoth and his brothers were in charge of all the treasuries of the dedicated gifts that David the king and the heads of the fathers' houses and the officers of the thousands and the hundreds and the commanders of the army had dedicated. 27 From spoil won in battles they dedicated gifts for the maintenance of the house of the Lord. 28 † Also all that Samuel the seer and Saul the son of Kish and Abner the son of Ner and Joab the son of Zeruiah had dedicated—all dedicated gifts were in the care of Shelomoth[4] and his brothers.
29 ‡ † Of the Izharites, Chenaniah and his sons were appointed to external duties for Israel, as officers and judges. 30 † Of the Hebronites, Hashabiah and his brothers, 1,700 men of ability, had the oversight of Israel westward of the Jordan for all the work of the Lord and for the service of the king.
31 † Of the Hebronites, Jerijah was chief of the Hebronites of whatever genealogy or fathers' houses. (In the fortieth year of David's reign search was made and men of great ability among them were found at Jazer in Gilead.) 32 King David appointed him and his brothers, 2,700 men of ability, heads of fathers' houses, to have the oversight of the Reubenites, the Gadites and the half-tribe of the Manassites for everything pertaining to God and for the affairs of the king.

Military Divisions

27 [1] ‡‡† This is the number of the people of Israel, the heads of fathers' houses, the commanders of thousands and hundreds, and their officers who served the king in all matters concerning the divisions that came and went, month after month throughout the year, each division numbering 24,000:

[2] Jashobeam the son of Zabdiel was in charge of the first division in the first month; in his division were 24,000. [3] He was a descendant of Perez and was chief of all the commanders. He served for the first month. [4] Dodai the Ahohite[1] was in charge of the division of the second month; in his division were 24,000. [5] The third commander, for the third month, was Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada the chief priest; in his division were 24,000. [6] This is the Benaiah who was a mighty man of the thirty and in command of the thirty; Ammizabad his son was in charge of his division.[2] [7] † Asahel the brother of Joab was fourth, for the fourth month, and his son Zebadiah after him; in his division were 24,000. [8] The fifth commander, for the fifth month, was Shamhuth the Izrahite; in his division were 24,000. [9] Sixth, for the sixth month, was Ira, the son of Ikkesh the Tekoite; in his division were 24,000. [10] Seventh, for the seventh month, was Helez the Pelonite, of the sons of Ephraim; in his division were 24,000. [11] Eighth, for the eighth month, was Sibbecai the Hushathite, of the Zerahites; in his division were 24,000. [12] Ninth, for the ninth month, was Abiezer of Anathoth, a Benjaminite; in his division were 24,000. [13] Tenth, for the tenth month, was Maharai of Netophah, of the Zerahites; in his division were 24,000. [14] Eleventh, for the eleventh month, was Benaiah of Pirathon, of the sons of Ephraim; in his division were 24,000. [15] Twelfth, for the twelfth month, was Heldai the Netophathite, of Othniel; in his division were 24,000.

Leaders of Tribes

16 ‡‡Over the tribes of Israel, for the Reubenites, Eliezer the son of Zichri was chief officer; for the Simeonites, Shephatiah the son of Maacah; 17 †for Levi, Hashabiah the son of Kemuel; for Aaron, Zadok; 18 for Judah, Elihu, one of David's brothers; for Issachar, Omri the son of Michael; 19 for Zebulun, Ishmaiah the son of Obadiah; for Naphtali, Jeremoth the son of Azriel; 20 for the Ephraimites, Hoshea the son of Azaziah; for the half-tribe of Manasseh, Joel the son of Pedaiah; 21 for the half-tribe of Manasseh in Gilead, Iddo the son of Zechariah; for Benjamin, Jaasiel the son of Abner;
22 †for Dan, Azarel the son of Jeroham. These were the leaders of the tribes of Israel. 23 ‡‡David did not count those below twenty years of age, for the LORD had promised to make Israel as many as the stars of heaven. 24 †Joab the son of Zeruiah began to count, but did not finish. Yet wrath came upon Israel for this, and the number was not entered in the chronicles of King David.

25 ‡‡Over the king's treasuries was Azmaveth the son of Adiel; and over the treasuries in the country, in the cities, in the villages, and in the towers, was Jonathan the son of Uzziah; 26 and over those who did the work of the field for tilling the soil was Ezri the son of Chelub; 27 and over the vineyards was Shimei the Ramathite; and over the produce of the vineyards for the wine cellars was Zabdi the Shiphmite. 28 †Over the olive and sycamore trees in the Shephelah was Baal-hanan the Gederite; and over the stores of oil was Joash. 29 † Over the herds that pastured in Sharon was Shitrai the Sharonite; over the herds in the valleys was Shaphat the son of Adlai.
30 Over the camels was Obil the Ishmaelite; and over the donkeys was Jehdeiah the Meronothite. Over the flocks was Jaziz the Hagrite. 31 All these were stewards of King David's property.

32 ‡ † Jonathan, David's uncle, was a counselor, being a man of understanding and a scribe. He and Jehiel the son of Hachmoni attended the king's sons. 33 †Ahithophel was the king's counselor, and Hushai the Archite was the king's friend. 34 Ahithophel was succeeded by Jehoiada the son of Benaiah, and Abiathar. Joab was commander of the king's army.

David's Charge to Israel

28 [1]‡†David assembled at Jerusalem all the officials of Israel, the officials of the tribes, the officers of the divisions that served the king, the commanders of thousands, the commanders of hundreds, the stewards of all the property and livestock of the king and his sons, together with the palace officials, the mighty men and all the seasoned warriors. [2]‡Then King David rose to his feet and said: "Hear me, my brothers and my people. I had it in my heart to build a house of rest for the ark of the covenant of the Lord and for the footstool of our God, and I made preparations for building. [3]But God said to me, 'You may not build a house for my name, for you are a man of war and have shed blood.' [4]Yet the Lord God of Israel chose me from all my father's house to be king over Israel forever. For he chose Judah as leader, and in the house of Judah my father's house, and among my father's sons he took pleasure in me to make me king over all Israel. [5]And of all my sons (for the Lord has given me many sons) he has chosen Solomon my son to sit on the throne of the kingdom of the Lord over Israel. [6]†He said to me, 'It is Solomon your son who shall build my house and my courts, for I have chosen him to be my son, and I will be his father. [7]†I will establish his kingdom forever if he continues strong in keeping my commandments and my rules, as he is today.' [8]Now therefore in the sight of all Israel, the assembly of the Lord, and in the hearing of our God, observe and seek out all the commandments of the Lord your God, that you may possess this good land and leave it for an inheritance to your children after you forever.

David's Charge to Solomon

9 ‡‡†"And you, Solomon my son, know the God of your father and serve him with a whole heart and with a willing mind, for the Lord searches all hearts and understands every plan and thought. If you seek him, he will be found by you, but if you forsake him, he will cast you off forever. 10 Be careful now, for the Lord has chosen you to build a house for the sanctuary;
be strong and do it."

11 ‡ Then David gave Solomon his son the plan of the vestibule of the temple,[1] and of its houses, its treasuries, its upper rooms, and its inner chambers, and of the room for the mercy seat; 12 †and the plan of all that he had in mind for the courts of the house of the Lord, all the surrounding chambers, the treasuries of the house of God, and the treasuries for dedicated gifts; 13 for the divisions of the priests and of the Levites, and all the work of the service in the house of the Lord; for all the vessels for the service in the house of the Lord, 14 the weight of gold for all golden vessels for each service, the weight of silver vessels for each service, 15 †the weight of the golden lampstands and their lamps, the weight of gold for each lampstand and its lamps, the weight of silver for a lampstand and its lamps, according to the use of each lampstand in the service, 16 the weight of gold for each table for the showbread, the silver for the silver tables, 17 and pure gold for the forks, the basins and the cups; for the golden bowls and the weight of each; for the silver bowls and the weight of each; 18 †for the altar of incense made of refined gold, and its weight; also his plan for the golden chariot of the cherubim that spread their wings and covered the ark of the covenant of the Lord. 19 †"All this he made clear to me in writing from the hand of the Lord, all the work to be done according to the plan."

20 ‡†Then David said to Solomon his son, "Be strong and courageous and do it. Do not be afraid and do not be dismayed, for the Lord God, even my God, is with you. He will not leave you or forsake you, until all the work for the service of the house of the Lord is finished. 21 † And behold the divisions of the priests and the Levites for all the service of the house of God; and with you in all the work will be every willing man who has skill for any kind of service; also the officers and all the people will be wholly at your command.”

Offerings for the Temple

29 [1]‡‡‡†And David the king said to all the assembly, “Solomon my son, whom alone God has chosen, is young and inexperienced, and the work is great, for the palace will not be for man but for the Lord God. [2]†So I have provided for the house of my God, so far as I was able, the gold for the things of gold, the silver for the things of silver, and the bronze for the things of bronze, the iron for the things of iron, and wood for the things of wood, besides great quantities of onyx and stones for setting, antimony, colored stones, all sorts of precious stones and marble. [3]Moreover, in addition to all that I have provided for the holy house, I have a treasure of my own of gold and silver, and because of my devotion to the house of my God I give it to the house of my God: [4]†3,000 talents[1] of gold, of the gold of Ophir, and 7,000 talents of refined silver, for overlaying the walls of the house,[2] [5]and for all the work to be done by craftsmen, gold for the things of gold and silver for the things of silver. Who then will offer willingly, consecrating himself[3] today to the Lord?”

[6]‡†Then the leaders of fathers’ houses made their freewill offerings, as did also the leaders of the tribes, the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, and the officers over the king’s work. [7]†They gave for the service of the house of God 5,000 talents and 10,000 darics[4] of gold, 10,000 talents of silver, 18,000 talents of bronze and 100,000 talents of iron. [8]And whoever had precious stones gave them to the treasury of the house of the Lord, in the care of Jehiel the Gershonite. [9]† Then the people rejoiced because they had given willingly, for with a whole heart they had offered freely to the Lord. David the king also rejoiced greatly.

David Prays in the Assembly

10 ‡ ‡ † Therefore David blessed the Lord in the presence of all the assembly. And David said: “Blessed are you, O Lord, the God of Israel our father, forever and ever. 11 Yours, O Lord, is the greatness and the power and the glory and the victory and the majesty, for all that is in the heavens and in the earth is yours. Yours is the kingdom, O Lord, and you are exalted as head above all. 12 Both riches and honor come from you, and you rule over all. In your hand are power and might, and in your hand it is to make great and to give strength to all. 13 And now we thank you, our God, and praise your glorious name.

14 †“But who am I, and what is my people, that we should be able thus to offer willingly? For all things come from you, and of your own have we given you. 15 †For we are strangers before you and sojourners, as all our fathers were. Our days on the earth are like a shadow, and there is no abiding.[5] 16 O Lord our God, all this abundance that we have provided for building you a house for your holy name comes from your hand and is all your own. 17 †I know, my God, that you test the heart and have pleasure in uprightness. In the uprightness of my heart I have freely offered all these things, and now I have seen your people, who are present here, offering freely and joyously to you. 18 † O Lord, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, our fathers, keep forever such purposes and thoughts in the hearts of your people, and direct their hearts toward you. 19 †Grant to Solomon my son a whole heart that he may keep your commandments, your testimonies, and your statutes, performing all, and that he may build the palace for which I have made provision.”

20 †Then David said to all the assembly, “Bless the Lord your God.” And all the assembly blessed the Lord, the God of their fathers, and bowed their heads and paid homage to the Lord and to the king. 21 ‡ And they offered sacrifices to the Lord, and on the next day offered burnt offerings to the Lord, 1,000 bulls, 1,000 rams, and 1,000 lambs, with their drink offerings, and sacrifices in abundance for all Israel. 22 ‡† And they ate and drank before the Lord on that day with great gladness.

Solomon Anointed King

And they made Solomon the son of David king the second time, and they anointed him as prince for the Lord, and Zadok as priest.

[23]Then Solomon sat on the throne of the Lord as king in place of David his father. And he prospered, and all Israel obeyed him. [24]All the leaders and the mighty men, and also all the sons of King David, pledged their allegiance to King Solomon. [25]And the Lord made Solomon very great in the sight of all Israel and bestowed on him such royal majesty as had not been on any king before him in Israel.

The Death of David

[26]‡‡Thus David the son of Jesse reigned over all Israel. [27]†The time that he reigned over Israel was forty years. He reigned seven years in Hebron and thirty-three years in Jerusalem. [28]Then he died at a good age, full of days, riches, and honor. And Solomon his son reigned in his place. [29]†Now the acts of King David, from first to last, are written in the Chronicles of Samuel the seer, and in the Chronicles of Nathan the prophet, and in the Chronicles of Gad the seer, [30]with accounts of all his rule and his might and of the circumstances that came upon him and upon Israel and upon all the kingdoms of the countries.

Introduction to 1 and 2 Chronicles

Reading 1 and 2 Chronicles

Pressing into the leather, he draws the wooden stylus across the column, incising a straight line. Row upon row is now ready to receive his text. He moistens the reed pen in a bowl of black ink and brushes out an even series of letters, copying them from the wax-covered tablets he scribed earlier. He also pulls close older scrolls, the records of kings and prophets long dead, yet well remembered by their descendants. He carefully lists each name and generation. Kinship is so important, establishing one's place in the tribe, clan, family, and household. The record describes one's inheritance and allegiance. The past ensures the future.

Readers of 1 Chronicles are often baffled by the first nine chapters of genealogy. Likewise, they wonder why the Chronicles repeat so much information from earlier books of Scripture. As you read Chronicles, carefully note the unique passages and emphases that the Chronicler brings to his readers. Like one telling a familiar story to encourage, the Chronicler helps his readers find their place in the history of God's plan of salvation.

Luther on 1 and 2 Chronicles

Luther specifically commented on the value of Chronicles for teaching the faith. See “History and God’s People,” p 336.

When I speak of the title [of Isaiah; 1:1], I do not mean only that you should read or understand the words “Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah, kings of Judah,” etc., but that you should take in hand the last book of Kings and the last book of Chronicles and grasp them well, especially the events, the speeches, and the incidents that occurred under the kings named in the title [of Isaiah], clear to the end of those books. For if one would understand the prophecies, it is necessary that one know how things were in the land, how matters lay, what was in the mind of the people—what plans they had with respect to their neighbors, friends, and enemies—and especially what attitude they took in their country toward God and toward the prophet, whether they held to his word and worship or to idolatry. (AE 35:274)

Challenges for Readers

Authorship and the Author's Interests. The name and history of the Chronicler is not known. However, he expresses clear and constant interest in two things: (1) God's rule through David's house, and (2) the appointment of the Levites to serve at the Lord's house, the tabernacle and temple. As a result, scholars commonly agree that the writer was a Levite who had returned with the exiles. The Chronicler reviews history from Adam to Cyrus's decree in 538 BC.

Parallels with the Books of Samuel and Kings. The Chronicler draws extensively on numerous biblical books, especially the Books of Samuel and Kings, which contain earlier, parallel historical accounts. He frequently used these biblical books or the chronicles the previous authors had used (1Ch 29:29). The center column provides extensive references for discovering parallel accounts in these books. (For example, at the beginning of 1Ch 10, one finds in the center column, "For vv 1–12, see 1Sm 31:1–13." For each new heading in the ESV text, check also for a parallel reference in the center column.) For the genealogies, the Chronicler often refers to Genesis, Exodus, Numbers, Joshua, and Ruth. He also had access to other resources that are now lost, for example, the record of Moabite kings (1Ch 4:22). See also pp 335–37.

Omissions. The Chronicler frequently assumes that readers are familiar with earlier events. In particular, he often leaves out well-known disgraceful events in the lives of David and Solomon. For example, he omits the stories of David and Bathsheba (2Sm 11:2–27); Nathan's rebuke (2Sm 12:1–15); fallout from David's sin with Bathsheba: Amnon and Tamar (2Sm 13:1–22); Absalom's revenge (2Sm 13:23–39); Joab's scheme regarding Absalom (2Sm 14:1–33); Absalom's rebellion and death (2Sm 15:1–19:8b); David's return to Jerusalem (2Sm 19:8c–43); the rebellion of Sheba (2Sm 20:1–22); the avenging of the Gibeonites (2Sm 21:1–14); and Abishai's rescue of David (2Sm 21:15–17). It may be that the author sought to present a more positive account in order to encourage the exhausted and challenged Judeans who had returned to rebuild Jerusalem.

Also excluded are Solomon's struggles to gain the throne (1Ki 1:5–27; 2:13–46) and his apostasy and adversaries at the end of his reign (1Ki 11:1–40). Material not directly related to the temple is also omitted: Solomon's wise judgments (1Ki 3:16–28), officials (1Ki 4:1–19), and other building projects (1Ki 7:1–12). In Kings, the division of the kingdom after the death of Solomon is blamed firmly on Solomon's apostasy (1Ki 11). In Chronicles, the blame is focused upon his son Rehoboam (2Ch 13:6–7).

Additions. The Chronicler also adds numerous accounts that were not included in Samuel and Kings. He had access to written records of Israel's history that probably were not available to the writers for Samuel and Kings. In the outline that follows, the passages unique to 1 and 2 Chronicles are in italic. Likely sources for these passages are (1) the Chronicles/History of Nathan the Prophet (1Ch 29:29; 2Ch 9:29), (2) the Chronicles of Gad the Seer (1Ch 29:29), (3) the Prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite (2Ch 9:29), and (4) the Visions of Iddo the Seer (2Ch 9:29). For more extensive comment on Chronicles, check the parallel accounts in Samuel and Kings. The study notes in Chronicles focus on what is unique to Chronicles and do not seek to repeat the extensive comment already available in Samuel and Kings.

Form and Use of Genealogies. Genealogies connect the people of God with the past and with God's gracious actions in the past. Because of their connection with the past, the people of the present can be assured of the legitimacy of their own community. Israelite genealogies appear in different forms: (1) lineal genealogy depicts a line from father to son without reference to siblings; (2) collateral or segmented genealogy is like lineal genealogy, but includes siblings; (3) ascending genealogy traces later generations to prior generations; (4) descending genealogy traces from prior generations to later generations. Through such genealogies, the Chronicler connects the Judeans after the exile with their ancestors and history. By tracing genealogies to Adam and Noah, he also connects all readers of every nation to the story of God's actions through the kings, priests, and prophets of ancient Israel, and through the great and final King, Priest, and Prophet: Jesus the Christ. For more on biblical genealogies, see notes, 1Ch 1–9; 2:15–3:24; 3:17. See also "Genealogies and Ages," p 9.

Blessings for Readers

As you read Chronicles, consider the focus the author places on the ministry of the Word, atonement through God's house, and God's care for His people through Israel's greatest leaders: David and Solomon. Especially note that the musicians at the tabernacle and temple, who handled God's Word in song, were regarded as prophets.

Throughout, the Chronicler shows regard for God's blessings through the Word, which calls God's people to faith and keeps them in the faith. The greatest Word of all in Chronicles is the sustained promise of an everlasting kingdom from David's household, fulfilled in our Lord Jesus Christ, the Savior of all.

OUTLINE

The Books of Chronicles show us how Israel, Judah, and the house of David stand at the center of God's plan of salvation, fulfilled in the reign of the Messiah. Passages that occur in 1 and 2 Chronicles but not in 1 and 2 Samuel or 1 and 2 Kings are in italic.

Chapter 9 is important to understanding the character and composition of 1Ch. Israel's ancestry, traced back to Adam (1Ch 1–8), on the one hand, and the return from the Babylonian captivity, on the other, constitute the framework within which the historical survey of Chronicles runs its course. Repatriated "people of Judah, Benjamin, Ephraim, and Manasseh" had the assurance that they were still a part of all Israel whose genealogies are on record (1Ch 9:3). Jerusalem, David's capital and site of Solomon's temple, was again at the center of things (1Ch 9:1–9). Furthermore, authorized officiants, priests, and their Levitical assistants resumed the worship rites, as "David and Samuel the seer established them" (1Ch 9:22). The last verses introduce David's reign through the repetition of ancestors and descendants of Saul, his only predecessor (1Ch 9:35–44; cf 8:29–40). Although human sin brings consequences, the divine purposes of Israel's God cannot be thwarted—a fact to which 1Ch 9:2–34 points.

CYCLES IN CHRONICLES

A cyclical theme emerges in the Chronicles history:
Cycle 1
A. Creation of the World and Israel (1Ch 1–8)
B. Retribution by Exile for Unfaithfulness (1Ch 9:1)
C. Restoration of Israel in Jerusalem (1Ch 9:2–34)
Cycle 2
A. Rise of Saul (1Ch 9:35–44)
B. Retribution for Unfaithfulness (1Ch 10:1–14a)
C. Restoration in David (1Ch 10:14b)
Cycle 3
A. The Ideal Kingdom (1Ch 11–2Ch 9)
B1. Retribution by Division of the Kingdom for Unfaithfulness (2Ch 10:1–36:13)
B2. Retribution by Exile for Unfaithfulness (2Ch 36:14–21)
C. Restoration by Cyrus (2Ch 36:22–23)

Study Notes

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Chs 1–9 Ch 1 outlines nations from Adam through Jacob/Israel, envisioning all people within God's plan of salvation. Chs 2–8 focus on tribes of Israel, with particular attention to Judah (2:3–4:23), Levi (ch 6), and Benjamin (7:6–12; ch 8; 9:35–44). Genealogical lists are like five concentric circles: (1) the outermost circle is all humanity; (2) the next circle in is the nations related to Israel; (3) next are the tribes of Israel; (4) the tribes of Judah, Benjamin, and Levi are the second-last circle (tribes represent Jerusalem [Benjamin], the Davidic kingship [Judah], and the priesthood [Levi] at the heart of the world's salvation); and (5) the innermost circle includes the people of postexilic Jerusalem (9:1–34), establishing the legitimacy of the postexilic nation as the continuation of ancient Israel into the present and the future.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:1–4 Cf Gn 5. Israel's descent traces from Adam, the one from whom God "made … every nation of mankind to live on all the face of the earth" (Ac 17:26). Adam's sons Cain and Abel are not mentioned in v 1 because the line of descent proceeded through his son Seth. After the great flood, three ethnic groups developed out of the one family of Noah. His son Shem was the ancestor of Abraham, who was the father of believers (vv 24–27). Abraham's son Isaac was chosen as the bearer of the promise. Of Isaac's twin sons, it was Jacob who became the progenitor of the 12 tribes of Israel, God's "treasured possession among all peoples" (Ex 19:5; cf 1Ch 1:28–2:2).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:4 Line of the chosen people preceding the 12 tribes of Israel consists of two ancestral chains, each having 10 links: from Adam to Noah (vv 1–4); from Shem to Abraham (vv 24–27). Symmetry, rather than completeness, is often the basis for Hebrew genealogies. Through his three sons (Shem, Ham, Japheth), Noah became the progenitor of 70 ethnic groups (vv 5–23). Chosen from the resulting mass of peoples, Abraham (the patriarch of Israel) likewise sired three branches of descendants. Through his son Isaac, his other son Ishmael, and his concubine Keturah, his offspring likewise totals 70 names (vv 28–42). Abraham's line of descent through Isaac and Jacob is listed separately in ch 2. See the three groupings of 14 names in Mt 1:2–17.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:8–16 sons of Ham. See note, Gn 10:6–20. Many of these names represent nations.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:10 a mighty man. See note, Ru 2:1.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:11 Egypt. Country or area that various groups occupy is often noted rather than their racial relationship. See note, Gn 10:1.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:17–28 See note, Gn 11:10–26.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:19 the earth was divided. See ESV note; see also note, Gn 10:25.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:1–27 Through the families of the earth, the Lord unfolds His plan of salvation, focusing on Abraham, the father of all who believe (Rm 4:16). Just as sin divided and corrupted Adam's family, it attacks and tears apart families today. Yet, these genealogies show how the Lord continues to work through families as the faith is preserved and spread from one generation to the next. The Godhead itself shows this, with the Father sending forth His Son for the sake of our salvation (Jn 3:16). • Merciful Father, rescue my family from the wedge of sins that would separate us. Draw us together with cords of love through Your Son. Amen.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:28 Abraham. Chronicles does not report the history of the patriarchs, assuming that the reader knows Gn 12–50.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:29 genealogies. Hbr toledoth, "generations," first use of a common term in Chronicles. See "Genealogies and Ages," p 9.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:32 concubine. See pp 54–55. In Gn 25:1, Keturah is Abraham's "wife" taken after Sarah's death.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:34 sons of Isaac. Cf Gn 25:19–26. Israel. Used instead of "Jacob." See p 7.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:35–37 sons of Esau. Father of the Edomites. Cf Gn 36:1–5, 10–19.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:35 Gn 36:14 lists Jeush, Jalam, and Korah as the sons of Esau through Oholibamah, a name also found in the list of Edomite chiefs (v 52; Gn 36:41).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:39 Timna. Name is used for a man or a woman (vv 36, 51).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:43–51a Extensive coverage of Edom may be due to the importance of their descendants in the postexilic time when Chronicles was written. See pp 1473–74.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:43 Edom. See color map 2.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:46 Moab. See color map 2.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:48 Rehoboth on the Euphrates. Northeast of Israel. Specific location unknown.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:50 Pai. Location unknown.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:51b–54 chiefs of Edom. Cf Gn 36:40–43.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:28–54 As He promised, the Lord made Abraham the father of many nations. Sadly, Abraham's physical (not spiritual) descendants are still in conflict nearly 4,000 years later as the nations of the Near East continually battle one another and draw others into the conflict. Such conflicts can end only through the forgiveness of sins, offered through Abraham's offspring, our Lord Jesus Christ. • O Lord, You multiplied the families of the earth from father Abraham. Bless our families as well, and grant them lasting peace through Your only begotten Son, Jesus. Amen.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Chs 2–7 Ch 1 draws the line of descent from Adam through an array of families and nations to Jacob (1:34), the immediate ancestor of the people through whom God determined to bless "all the families of the earth" (Gn 12:3). Chs 2–7 trace the genealogy of Jacob's 12 sons, from whom derived the tribes of Israel.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:1–2 Order is similar to Gn 35:22–26, which arranges Israel's collateral genealogy according to the mothers, but here Dan is after Zebulun rather than after Benjamin. Other variations are found in 12:23–37; 27:16–24; Gn 29:31–30:24, which lists Israel's sons in order of birth; and Gn 46:8–27, which extends the genealogy out one or two generations and arranges the order of maternity by grouping each servant with her mistress. The function here is to introduce the balance of the genealogies, which now focus on the sons of Israel (chs 2–9).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:3–4:23 Focused account of the tribe of Judah, from whom David would descend. The records follow an intentional pattern: (1) records of Judah (2:3–55); (2) focuses within Judah —the Davidic line (ch 3); and (3) further records of Judah (4:1–23). David, the central figure here, is also the theological center of the Chronicler's history because the Lord worked through David's family.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:3 Judah. Recorded first because his line leads to David, to his dynastic successors, and to leaders in the postexilic community such as Zerubbabel (3:19). Bath-shua the Canaanite. The Chronicler pointedly mentions the non-Israelite branch in Judah's family tree. He likewise does not cover up Judah's incestuous relations with his daughter-in-law Tamar (v 4; Gn 38). Jesus, Savior of Jew and Gentile, of harlots and sinners, has in His human ancestry not only the Canaanites Tamar and Rahab, but also Ruth the Moabitess and Bathsheba, the wife of Uriah the Hittite (Mt 1:3–6). If there is mercy and hope for Judah's family, there is surely mercy and hope for ours too!

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:4 daughter-in-law Tamar. The Davidic line was drawn through Perez from the illegal union of Judah and Tamar. Therefore, the messianic line is not one that shuns humanity in its weakness and sin, but one that embraces the flesh of fallen people.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:7 Achan, the troubler. Hbr wordplay: "Achan the 'oker (troubler)." See note, Jsh 7:25. broke faith. Hbr ma'al, "unfaithful." Regularly used to condemn evil kings, esp in texts not paralleled elsewhere in the OT (5:25; 2Ch 12:2; 26:16; 28:19, 22; 29:6; 30:7). Also used of Judah to explain the Babylonian exile (2Ch 36:14).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:9 Chelubai. Hbr occurs in two other forms: "Caleb" (vv 18, 24, 42, 49; 4:15) and "Chelub" (4:11). Unlikely that all refer to the same person, even though "Caleb the son of Hezron" and "Caleb the son of Jephunneh" are said to have a daughter named Achsah (vv 18, 49; Jsh 15:13, 17). Caleb was Joshua's associate in spying out the land of Canaan (Nu 13).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:10–17 Line of Judah through Ram (Aram). Family rose to prominence as the line that produced the Davidic kings (ch 3). Cf 1Sm 16:1–13.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:10 prince. Lit, "one lifted up." A tribal leader. See p 228.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:13–15 Only seven of Jesse's eight sons are named here (cf 1Sm 16:10; 17:12). One was likely omitted from this genealogical list because he left no descendants. Eliab, mentioned here, and Elihu in 27:18 may be variant forms of the same name.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:15–3:24 Telescoping centuries and eons, the line of descent from Adam quickly comes to David, whose significance in Israel's covenant relationship to God is the underlying theme of Chronicles. To show David's importance, not only is his ancestry listed but also his descendants down into the postexilic period (ch 3). On David's ancestry, cf Ru 4:18–22.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:16 sisters. Mentioned here because their sons played important roles in David's reign, the most influential of whom was Joab (2Sm 2:18–32; 3:26–30; 11:1; 18:9–17).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:17 Ishmaelite. Jether or Ithra is also called an Israelite. See ESV note, 2Sm 17:25.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:18–55 David's lineage from Judah through the second son of Hezron (v 9) is followed by the genealogy of Hezron's other two sons, Caleb and Jerahmeel. The clans that sprang from these two ancestors were not associated with the 12 tribes until Judah adopted them. The Kenites (v 55) were a branch of Caleb's family (cf Jgs 1:16; 1Sm 27:10).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:18–24 Line of Judah: collateral genealogies of Caleb (part 1).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:20 Bezalel. Significant, as he was the skilled designer and builder of the tabernacle (Ex 31:1–5). He also made the bronze altar before which Solomon asked for the gift of wisdom some 400 years later (2Ch 1:5). Throughout Chronicles, the kings and the temple are constantly intertwined.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:21 sixty years old. Exceptional age for this era. See note, Zec 8:4.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:22 land of Gilead. See color map 2.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:23 Havvoth-jair, Kenath. Locations unknown.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:25–42 Line of Judah: collateral genealogies of Jerahmeel. No other genealogical material is found in the Scriptures regarding these Judeans. They were granted territory in the Negeb (1Sm 27:10; 30:27–29).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:34–41 Line of Sheshan (cf v 31). Informs us that his line was mixed with that of his Egyptian servant Jarha.

Thus the nations of the world (ch 1) are still intimately connected with Israel, and their Creator has not forgotten them.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:42–55 Line of Judah: collateral genealogies of Caleb (part 2).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:46 concubine. See pp 54–55.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:50–55 Resumes the genealogy of sons of Hur, left off in v 20. It will be taken up again in 4:1–4.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:52 Haroeh. Named as Reaiah in 4:2 and should be understood by that name.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:53 clans. See pp 54–55.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:55 clans also of the scribes. Trades were held in families (cf 4:21) as skills were passed from parent to child. See note, Pr 1:8. Kenites. Descendants of Moses' father-in-law; apparently they settled among the people of Judah (Jgs 1:16; 4:11).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 2 Although Judah was not the firstborn or the most noble of Jacob's sons, his descendants took the first place among the tribes of Israel and fathered the greatest kings and builders. Today, though you have stumbled in life, set your heart on serving the Lord and supporting your family. The Lord will hear your prayers of repentance and of blessing for your family. His great desire is to bless all through Jesus, His Son. • O Lord, may my sins not weigh down my family, but may Your forgiveness of my sins become an example of Your surpassing mercy. Build up my family into a holy house, devoted to Your service. Amen.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:1–9 Just as names today have long and short versions, different pronunciations, and different spellings, so did Hbr names. Daniel is Chileab in 2Sm 3:3. Shimea is Shammua in 1Ch 14:4 and 2Sm 5:14. Ammiel is Eliam in 2Sm 11:3. Elishama is Elishua in 1Ch 14:5 and 2Sm 5:15. Bath-shua is a variant of Bathsheba.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:1 Abigail the Carmelite. Wife of Nabal the Carmelite (2Sm 3:3). The Chronicler assumes that the readers know the disgraceful history of 1Sm 25 and does not reflect on it so as not to detract from David's image. In this way, David is idealized even in the genealogies. See pp 628–31.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:3–9 Cf 14:4–7; 2Sm 5:14–16.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:4 See note, chs 11–12.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:5 Bath-shua. Variant spelling of Bathsheba. See note, vv 1–9.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:8 Eliada. Cf 2Sm 5:16. Known as "Beeliada" in 14:7, but here reflects removal of the name Baal from the first part of the name. See note, Nu 25:3.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:10–16 Davidic kings, from Solomon to the exile. Vv 10–14 are a lineal genealogy, tracing David's line through each successor. Vv 15–16 are collateral genealogies. See p 629. Each king will be discussed in 2Ch.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:15 Johanan. Josiah's firstborn is not found in any list of his successors. Shallum. Cf Jer 22:11. Also known as Jehoahaz. Pharaoh Neco ended Jehoahaz's reign after three months (2Ch 36:3–4).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:16–24 Davidic kings during exilic and postexilic generations. The line of Jeconiah is important for dating the Chronicler's work. Jeconiah's son Pedaiah was born c 595 BC. The following generations would extend to 440 BC (at c 20 years per generation) or 415 BC (at c 25 years per generation), providing an approximate date for the Chronicler's work. See pp 628–31.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:16 Jeconiah. Shorter form "Coniah" (Jer 22:24), also referred to as "Jehoiachin" (2Ki 24:6; 2Ch 36:9).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:17 the captive. Reference to Babylonian exile. Shealtiel. One leader in the postexilic period of reconstruction was Zerubbabel, called "the son of Shealtiel" (cf Ezr 3:2; 5:2; Hg 1:1). Vv 18–19 indicate that the word "son" is used in the broader sense of grandson or successor, as it is in other instances (cf Gn 31:55). See "Forms and Use of Genealogies," p 629.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:19 sons of Zerubbabel. Two grandsons are mentioned. Vv 22–24 trace his line of descent into the fourth generation. Shelomith. Archaeologists discovered her name on a scarab-shaped, black-stone seal associated with the governor of Judah.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:24 Anani. Mentioned in a letter by the Jews of Elephantine, Egypt, whose temple had been threatened by troops. The letter complains that the leadership in Jerusalem never responded to them during their crisis.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 3 David's dynasty ruled all Israel for 80 years and the Southern Kingdom of Judah for over 400 years; his descendants continued to lead after the return from the Babylonian exile. From a small beginning with a shepherd boy, the Lord wrought great things. Today, through prayer and godly leadership, humbly commend your family to God's service. Jesus, David's greatest descendant, will lead you into a blessed future. • O great David's greater Son, build my family up in lasting devotion through Your Holy Word. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:1 Judah. Some names of Judah's lineage listed in ch 2 are repeated here in different contexts. It is unclear why certain groups are singled out for special mention.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:2–4 The Chronicler picks up where he left off in 2:55, when he took up the important Judean family of David (ch 3).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:9–20 Line of Judah: fragmentary genealogies. Little connects these names beyond one or two generations.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:9–10 Lit, "Jabez was more honored than his brothers." Jabez … pain. Because his mother was in great pain (Hbr 'ozeb) when Jabez was born, she gave him a name that, by transposing the last two consonants, means "he gives pain." In answer to his prayer, blessing rather than pain came into his life. His piety is recorded rather than his family ties. Effective prayer ultimately depends on God's assurance that He will hear and answer prayer. This brief story in the midst of a genealogy shows the Chronicler's postexilic audience that the God of their fathers is the God who answers prayer. It is not given as a model prayer or as a guarantee of prosperity.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:11 Chelub. See note, 2:9.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:13 Othniel. Israel's first judge (cf Jgs 3:7–11).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:17 daughter of Pharaoh. Phrase may simply mean that she was an Egyptian woman, to distinguish her from "his Judahite wife" (v 18).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:21–23 Line of Judah through Shelah. The Chronicler completes Judah's genealogies by returning to its beginning in 2:3.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:21 Shelah. His descendants followed occupations in permanent settlements (linen workers, potters) in contrast to the seminomadic way of the clans mentioned in vv 11–20. Shelah, son of Judah, should have married his brother Er's widow Tamar to fulfill the levirate law. Shelah does not do so but does name his own son Er, thus preserving his brother's memory.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:22 the records are ancient. The Chronicler, in passing, notes the great age of his special source for the names of these Moabite rulers.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:23 the king's service. Royal pottery business. Archaeologists have found numerous jars marked with various royal seals.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:1–23 Other members of David's family, who increased the family's territory and served with David, are listed. In any group or family, some will lead, but most will follow. No matter what your calling, bring honor to your family, congregation, employer, and nation by prayer and devoted service. For Christ, born of Bethlehem Ephrathah (cf v 4), has called you by His grace. • Lord, grant me a servant's heart, that Your rule may extend to those who have not yet heard or believed. Amen.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:24–43 Descendants of Simeon. Tribe of Simeon was long associated with Judah, beginning with the prophecy of Jacob to his second son (Gn 49:5–7): Simeon, together with Levi, would be scattered in Israel. Levitical cities in Jsh 21:9–16 are taken from Judah and Simeon together. Simeon's inheritance is "in the midst of the inheritance of the people of Judah" (Jsh 19:1), and their early association included a military alliance after Joshua's death (Jgs 1:3). The territory of Simeon was later absorbed into that of Judah, though clearly the Simeonites retained their tribal identity. See map, p 365. Structure: vv 24–27 are a proper genealogy for tracing Simeon's family; vv 28–33 list their towns and villages; vv 34–43 list the leaders and conquests of Simeon. Cf Ex 6:15; Nu 26:12–14.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:28–31 During David's reign, a census was taken from which the names of these cities may have been derived (2Sm 24:1–9).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:32 Cf Jsh 19:7.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:39–43 Military exploits of the Simeonites are unknown except from this text. Clearly, they were a warlike tribe that, at the time of Hezekiah (v 41), expanded both to the west (vv 39–41) and to the east (vv 42–43). These victories, coordinated with the temple worship reformer Hezekiah, may be more important for illustrating the glory of Hezekiah's reign than they are for illustrating Simeon's power.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:40 Ham. A Canaanite people.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:41 Meunites. Defeated also by King Uzziah (2Ch 26:7), these victims of a later Simeonite attack probably were so called because of their association with Ma'an, an Edomite city southeast of Petra. to this day. Designates the time the Chronicler's source was written; cf v 43.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:42 Mount Seir. Region of Edom. See color map 2.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:43 Amalekites. In another movement of expansion (vv 42–43) the Simeonites destroyed the Amalekites who had escaped to Mount Seir, i.e., Edom, perhaps at the same time when Saul made war on them (1Sm 15:4–7; see note, Ex 17:8).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:24–43 Simeon's descendants and some of their noteworthy successes are listed. They lived peaceably and supportively among Judah's descendants, showing the mutual support brothers may supply. God's people today live in and depend on such brotherhood, upon which the Church is based. Christ, our Brother, unites us in the service of our heavenly Father. • Dearest Father, make my service dear to my brothers and sisters in Christ, that we may unite in praising You. Amen.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 5 Ancestral history of the 2½ tribes located east of the Jordan. It begins with Reuben, whose territory lay mostly along the Salt Sea down to the Arnon River (vv 1–10). Instead of the usual introductory formula "the sons of," the tribes of Gad (v 11) and East Manasseh (v 23) are introduced in geographical relation to Reuben. Gad's patrimony was above Reuben's territory (vv 11–22); half the tribe of Manasseh occupied an area extending northward from Gad (vv 23–26). (See note, Jsh 12:6, for more on East and West Manasseh.) The Israelite possessions in the Transjordan frequently are said to consist of Gilead (vv 9–10, 16) and Bashan (vv 16, 23), the latter designating the northern section. Gilead is at times applied to the entire East Jordan area (Dt 34:1). See color map 2. A theological interpretation is given both at the beginning of the chapter (vv 1–2) and at the end (vv 25–26).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:1–2 Explains why Reuben, the firstborn of Israel, did not inherit his birthright as leader of Israel. He violated his father when he had sexual relations with Bilhah, Israel's concubine (Gn 35:22), and lost his father's blessing (Gn 49:3–4). The birthright went to Joseph, who gained a double portion (cf Dt 21:17) by having two sons (Ephraim and Manasseh) who receive an inheritance (cf Gn 48:5). Judah prevailed and from him a "chief," or ruler, came: David (and ultimately through David came the Messiah).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:4–8 Joel. We know nothing of him except the genealogy provided here.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:6 Tiglath-pileser. See ESV note. An Assyrian king (744–727 BC) whose name is found in several variants; also known by his throne name, Pul (v 26; 2Ki 15:19). He invaded Israel c 733–732 BC and took the Reubenite leader Beerah captive. Pul also forced Ahaz of Judah to pay tribute.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:8 Aroer Nebo. See map, p 250.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:9 entrance. Bordering the Desert of Arabia. See color map 2. livestock. Transjordan was famous as a grazing region. Gilead. See color map 2.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:10 in the days of Saul. In stark contrast to their fate some 300 years later at the hands of the Assyrians (v 6), Reuben had been militarily strong. The Reubenites enjoyed success as long as they were united to Judah. The Chronicler appeals to their fifth-century descendants to reunite themselves to Judah. Hagrites. See note, v 19.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:1–10 The Chronicler recounts Reuben's weakness and relationship to Judah, which illustrates why Judah came to lead Israel. Leadership and inheritance are not blessings one can simply take for granted, because they come with responsibility. God has given you responsibility in His kingdom, no matter what your standing in life. He has also equipped and blessed you with gifts, including the blessings of life and salvation through Christ, our Head. • Lead on, dearest Jesus, and grant me the will and strength to follow Your way. Amen.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:11–22 List of Gad's descendants (vv 11–17) and the war of the Transjordan tribes with their neighbors to the east (vv 18–22) are reported only here.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:11–17 Names here came from an otherwise unknown census that was taken after the kingdom was divided. See chronology, p 529. An earlier genealogical tabulation of Gad is given in Nu 26:15–18.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:11 over … in the land of Bashan. Close relationship of Gad to Reuben arises from where they lived (cf vv 9, 16, 23). See map, p 365.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:16 Sharon. See color map 2.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:18–22 Warfare narrative relates several themes important to how the Chronicler will treat the warfare of God's people. Large numbers of warriors (v 18) and booty (v 21) show God's favor. As in ancient war texts, valiant men "cried out to God" because they "trusted in Him" and He "granted their urgent plea" (v 20). Significantly, it is noted that "the war was of God," and through His help these tribes dwelt in the conquered lands "until the exile" under the Assyrians (v 22). The success of the OT nation of Israel (and correspondingly, the NT Church) depended on God, who called them to trust only in His help, a lesson for the Chronicler's own time and God's people of every age.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:18 valiant men. Lit, "from sons of army."
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:19 Hagrites. Eastern tribes, who were descendants of Hagar, Ishmael's mother. Their confederates Jetur and Naphish are listed among Ishmael's sons (1:31).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:21 men alive. Likely used as slaves.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:11–22 Only a little information is recorded about the "sons of Gad" in Scripture, who lived and fought beside the sons of Reuben. When brothers support one another in godly service, how great is the blessing! But offense and envy too often divide brothers and neighbors. Through God's blessings, forgiveness, and mercy requested in prayer, He can and does restore us to one another. • Merciful Lord, grant us peace with our brethren and neighbors, that all may call on Your name and serve one another in joy. Amen.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:23–24 Half-tribe of Manasseh, which lived east of the Jordan (Nu 32:33–42), is listed here according to territory rather than genealogy. Additional genealogical data is given in 7:14–19.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:25 broke faith. They strayed from the covenant. See note, 2:7. whored. See note, Hos 1:2.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:26 exile. Three tribes enjoyed tremendous military victories through God's help early in their history (vv 18–22), but later met crushing defeat. Earlier wars were "of God" (v 22), and so is this war. The difference now is that "the God of Israel stirred up the spirit of Pul king of Assyria" against His own people (defeat twice referred to explicitly [vv 6, 22] and once implicitly [v 17]) because they broke faith with Him. The Chronicler deals directly with the fate of these tribes. Two phases of exile are noted: in 2Ki 15:29 (under Tiglath-pileser III) and in 2Ki 17:6; 18:11 (under Shalmaneser V and concluded by Sargon II's siege of Samaria). The Chronicler telescopes the two into one. stirred up the spirit of Pul. God brings about the war (cf 2Ch 21:16; 36:22), due to the sin of the North (cf 2Ki 17; 25). The same grim assessment is offered of Judah when they go into captivity (2Ch 36:14). The Chronicler will, however, also provide an answer for both North and South. In Hezekiah's proclamation, the North is urged to return to Yahweh, and their exile will be ended (2Ch 30:6–9). Pul. See note, 2Ki 15:19. Halah, Habor, Hara … Gozan. See map, p 609.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:23–26 The early successes of East Manasseh did not spare them from defeat after they abandoned God's covenant. God punished them specifically through sending the Assyrians. He still manages affairs between nations today. Remarkably, the people of Assyria came to faith centuries later when the Gospel spread to the east (cf Is 19:25). The Lord's Word is powerful to stir hearts not only to war but also to faith and peace in Christ. • Stir our hearts, O Lord, to keep Your Word faithfully by believing in Jesus and proclaiming His name among the nations. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 6 Tribe of Levi. Combines a genealogy (vv 1–53; cf Nu 3:17–18; 26:57–62) and a list of Levitical cities (vv 54–81). Forms of the genealogies differ from section to section. E.g., vv 1–15 use the formula "X fathered Y"; vv 16–30, 50–53 use "sons of X: Y, Z"; and vv 33–47 use "X, son of Y, son of Z." These differences indicate that the Chronicler faithfully transmitted the records before him. Compared with tribes in ch 5, almost three times the space is devoted to the Levites because their appointed ministry was essential to God's people. Continuity of the priesthood validates the legitimacy of the temple and the faithful practice of the divinely established beliefs and rituals in the Chronicler's own time. Its placement at the center of the genealogical section (chs 1–9) underscores that all of the human race, from Adam (1:1) through the postexilic people of Jerusalem (9:1–34), have life and salvation through the ministry of God's Word in Israel's divinely established beliefs and rituals.

The Chronicler's interest in the proper worship and ministry of ancient Israel is not merely one of order and regulation. It reflects desire for God's grace found in the means that God has chosen. That same desire was formative in the sixteenth-century Lutheran confessors as they maintained the necessity of the ministry and described who God called to fulfill its duties (AC V; AC XIV).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:1–30 Vv 1–15 trace the high priestly line of the Levite Aaron to the time of the exile. Supplementing this highly select group of Levi's descendants, vv 16–30 resume the genealogy of his three sons: Gershom, Kohath, Merari. The lists are not exhaustive. All descendants of the third son of Jacob through Leah are called Levites, but not all of them performed the same functions.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:2 sons of Kohath. The priestly line through Aaron. Assumes familiarity with the older texts and thus makes no mention of the death of Aaron's sons Nadab and Abihu (Lv 10:1–2; Nu 3:4). Other lists of priests are found in vv 50–53, 9:11; Ezr 7:1–5; Ne 11:10–11.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:10 the house. The temple.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:15 into exile. 587 BC.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:16–30 Three branches of Levites. Short genealogies are provided for Gershom (vv 17, 20–21) and Merari (vv 19, 29–30). Kohath is far more complex (vv 18, 22–28).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:28 Samuel. A Levite who lived in the territory of Ephraim (see note, 1Sm 1:1). The Chronicler does not deal with his history, but by including Samuel in the genealogies, he acknowledges his significance. Textual variations exist in the names of the Samuel genealogy (cf 1Ch 6:33–38).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:31–48 These Levites served vitally as musicians in the tabernacle during David's reign and in the temple during and after Solomon's reign (vv 31–33a). This shows an intimate connection between David and the faithful service of the divinely established beliefs and rituals, which will be important in later accounts of David's organization of temple personnel (chs 16; 23–27). Three lines of Levites are listed: (1) Hemanites from Kohath (vv 33b–38; cf Ps 88 title) through Izhar; (2) Asaphites from Gershom through Jahath (vv 39–43; cf Ps 50 title); (3) Ethanites (Jeduthun) from Merari through Mushi (vv 44–47; cf Ps 89; 62 titles).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:31 service of song. Musical accompaniment was an essential element of worship (cf ch 25). See p 993. house. The tabernacle.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:32 the tabernacle of the tent of meeting. See note, Ex 27:21.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:33–38 Priority of the Hemanites is indicated by their appearing first, the tracing of their decent to Levi himself, the length of the account, and the title "Heman the singer."
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:39 stood on his right hand. Position for processions or during the service.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:44 On the left hand. See note, v 39.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:48 Summary statement.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:49–53 Functions of the high priests that Moses commanded in Nu 3:5–15; 18:1–7. Only sons of Aaron could enter the sanctuary. Chronicles affirms the proper function for personnel who carried out the divinely established beliefs and rituals (cf 2Ch 13:10–11).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:49 the work of the Most Holy Place. This special assignment to those sons of Levi who were sons of Aaron (vv 49–53) is distinguished from the "service of the tabernacle," which the other Levites performed (v 48). See pp 170–71. atonement. See p 5.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:50–53 High priests to the time of David.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:54–81 Because "no portion was given to the Levites in the land," the Lord ordered that they be given "cities to dwell in, with their pasturelands" (Jsh 14:4) within the inheritance of the other tribes (Nu 35:1–8; Jsh 21:3). The 13 cities allotted to the Kohathite priests are named first (vv 54–60). All the tribes contributed territory to the non-Aaronite descendants of Kohath and to the other two branches of the Levitical family—35 cities in all (vv 61–65), some of which are listed (vv 66–81). Cf Jsh 21:1–42; the differences in the lists are likely because vv 54–81 describe the location of the Levites in David's time. The giving of cities and pasturelands is ascribed to the decisions of each tribe, thus connecting the priestly line with all Israel. This was vital because, according to Nu 3:11–13, the Levites served as a substitute for the firstborn of every Israelite woman. Their sustenance came from each tribe's offering. This happened properly in Joshua's time, in David's time, and in the Chronicler's time.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:57 cities of refuge. See note, Nu 35:11; cf Jsh 20. Author is focused on pasturelands. Only city of refuge mentioned here is Hebron (v 55). See map, p 365.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:77 the rest. Anticipates conclusion of the list.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 6 An overview of the priestly tribe, down to the time of David. The service of the priests helps us understand the service of Christ in the NT. Heb 5:10 declares Christ to be the High Priest after the order of Melchizedek, superior to all those of Levi because He Himself is the sacrifice for our sins. He lives forever (Heb 7) and serves in the greater, heavenly temple (Heb 8–10). • Lord, through Your atoning blood, I am forgiven and united with all the faithful. Be our refuge in all adversity, and prepare us for service in Your kingdom. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 7 Tribes of Issachar, Benjamin, Naphtali, Manasseh, Ephraim, and Asher rebelled against Rehoboam, David's grandson (2Ch 10). The Chronicler preserves their genealogical records because they were of the house of Israel. Not one branch of Israel would be forgotten.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:1 sons of Issachar. Combines genealogical data from Gn 46:13 and Nu 26:23–24, though with spelling differences.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:2 days of David. Very likely, data was taken from the census David made (2Sm 24:1–9).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:3 five. Four sons of Izrahiah are named, though the Chronicler counts five sons. It may be that the "five" refers to the sons of Uzzi, the father of Izrahiah and grandfather of the other four, which then would total five sons of Uzzi.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:1–5 Although little information about Issachar is presented, the Chronicler records the tribe's great numbers. How sad that this prosperous tribe did not also prosper in serving God's Word. Today, focusing on numerical strength remains deceptive. The Lord counts us as His people and grants us strength by grace alone. • Lord, make me a good steward of those in my charge, and teach me to rely on Your strength alone. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:6 Represents one of several variant listings, which may reflect a military census (cf vv 7, 9, and 11) taken at a particular time, perhaps under David, as in the Issachar material (vv 1–5).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:12 of Aher. Or, "of another." May refer to Dan, who would otherwise receive no notice in the genealogy of Jacob's 12 sons. The Hushim were his sons (Gn 46:23). Dan may not have been mentioned to express contempt for the tribe, which in its earlier years was guilty of brazen idolatry (Jgs 17–18).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:6–12 Benjamin, Jacob's youngest son and the father of one of the smallest tribes, is given the honor of a genealogy, unlike Dan, who receives almost no notice. The Lord cares for all the faithful, no matter how small or unimportant they appear to the world. • O Lord, thank You for counting me precious through the merits of Your precious Son. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:13 sons of Naphtali. Unlike vv 1–12, there are no military census records for Naphtali. Instead, genealogies of Gn 46:24–25a and Nu 26:48–50 are reproduced with minor spelling variants. Bilhah. Rachel's servant who bore Naphtali.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:14–19 sons of Manasseh. Genealogy is of West Manasseh (see note, 5:23–24, for East Manasseh). Tabulation includes residents on both sides of the river. Women are given a prominent place because they introduced a non-Israelite strain into the tribe.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:14 concubine. See pp 54–55.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:13–19 Summaries of Naphtali and West Manasseh specially note the place of mothers. How great is a mother's influence on her children, whether for good or for evil! Faithful mothers are God's gifts to His children, an exceptional blessing. • Lord, grant faithful mothers in the service of Your Church, devoted and humble like Your own dear mother. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:20–29 sons of Ephraim. Genealogy of Ephraim, brother of Manasseh and son of Joseph and Asenath, daughter of the high priest of On (Gn 41:50–52; 46:20), is naturally linked to that of Manasseh. Genealogy falls into four parts: (1) genealogy through Shuthelah (vv 20–21a); (2) history of Beriah, ancestor of Joshua (vv 21b–24); (3) genealogy of Joshua (vv 25–27); and (4) territorial lists (vv 28–29).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:20 Ephraim. Second tribe of Joseph; occupied territory south of Manasseh and north of Benjamin. See map, p 365. His most illustrious descendant was Joshua (v 27).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:21–24 Gath. Philistine city. Nothing more is known of a raid on the Ephraimites by Canaanites associated with it. Ephraim … mourned. Provides insight into the life of the tribal forefather. This history, set in Egypt where Ephraim was born as the son of Joseph, resembles the story of Job: both Job and Ephraim suffered evil, lost children, were comforted by others, and received new children. Through Beriah, Ephraim's great descendant Joshua was born (vv 25–27).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:24 built. Unusual for a woman to be engaged in building activities.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:20–29 The touching story of Ephraim's recovery from disaster illustrates brotherly care and personal endurance, as Ephraim became a most powerful tribe in Israel's history. Though we suffer much in this life, our Brother Jesus Christ is full of comfort and supports us through our brothers and sisters in the faith. • Dearest Jesus, comfort us in all our sorrows, that we might comfort others. Amen.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:30–40 sons of Asher. Only vv 30–31, 40 are paralleled elsewhere in the OT (Gn 46:17; Nu 26:44–47). Inheritance of Asher was west and north of Zebulun (Jsh 19:10–16, 24–31). See map, p 365.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:40 mighty warriors, chiefs of the princes. Only these are mentioned by name (vv 30–39). 26,000. Fewer Asherite troops than the 40,000 in 12:36; 41,500 in Nu 1:41; 2:28; or the 53,400 in Nu 26:47. The differences probably reflect censuses at different times.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:30–40 Account of Asher concludes the genealogy of the 12 tribes. Leaders of this far-flung tribe receive special emphasis, though their warrior's strength did not sustain them. Our strength and sustenance come from the Lord alone. • Merciful Lord, You make the first last and the last first. Turn our lives around by Your grace. Amen.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 8 Here begins a transition to the story of David and the everlasting house promised to him (chs 10–29). The genealogy of Benjamin includes Israel's first king and David's predecessor,

Saul, with his ancestors and descendants. Though Saul died in disgrace (ch 10), his son Jonathan continued a line that prospered and raised up men of valor. Some of these Benjaminites joined forces with David's tribe, Judah, to restore the kingdom for David's grandson Rehoboam (1Ki 12:21). Before the exile, many Benjaminites lived in Jerusalem, "David's city," which was home to kings and the temple (Jgs 1:21). After the exile, Benjamin remained important in God's rule in Jerusalem (Ezr 1:5). This text is a more difficult genealogical record than ch 7; in some cases, it provides otherwise unknown details, and in others, it provides histories that vary from other Benjaminite genealogies. These are "snapshots" of the Benjaminite family at particular times rather than a continuous historical account.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:1–7 Sons of Benjamin and Bela. Listed also in 7:6; Gn 46:21; Nu 26:38–40, though the names vary greatly (some can be reconciled as spelling variations).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:6 Ehud. A judge by that name was the son of Gera (Jgs 3:15). Incidents mentioned here and in the next verses are otherwise unknown. Geba. See map, p 615. exile to Manahath. See map, p 717.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:8–27 These names are not recorded anywhere else. None of them are mentioned in the lists of those who returned from Babylon (9:1–9; Ne 11:1–9).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:8–12 Sons of Shaharaim. Genealogical fragment, unconnected with vv 1–7 except as different branches of the same tribe. Moab … Ono … Lod. Indicates widespread settlements of the Benjaminites—from Moab on the east to an area southeast of Joppa. See color map 2.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:13–28 Sons of Beriah, Shema/Shimei, Shashak, and Jeremoth/Jehoram. While their extensive genealogy is largely fragmented, two discernible groups are found: one centered on Aijalon, including the brothers Beriah and Shema/Shimei (vv 13–18), the other centered on Jerusalem, including the brothers Jeremoth/Jehoram (vv 19–28). Nothing else is known of these families.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:13 Aijalon … Gath. See color map 1.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:28 chief men. See note, 7:40. lived in Jerusalem. Before the exile.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:29–40 More specific genealogy of Saul. Text parallels Saulite genealogy in 9:35–44; it varies slightly from that of 1Sm 9:1–2a. The names of Saul's sons appear in v 33b and 9:39 as "Jonathan, Malchi-shua, Abinadab, and Eshbaal," but in 1Sm 14:49 as "Jonathan, Ishvi, and Malchi-shua." ("Ishvi" is a variant of "Eshbaal," modified to remove the Baalistic ending. The same son is called Ish-bosheth, "Son of Shame" in 2Sm 2–4.) Of Saul's remaining descendants (8:35–38; 9:40–41), only Merib-baal and Micah are known elswhere. Merib-baal (or Meri-baal, "Hero of Baal") and his son Micah appear in 2Sm 9:6, 12, where Merib-baal is known as "Mephibosheth." The genealogy of Eshek is found only in vv 39–40.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:29 Gibeon. C 6 mi NW of Jerusalem, where "the tabernacle of the Lord" was (21:29) and where Solomon worshiped before he built the temple (2Ch 1:3). See color map 1.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:33 Ner ... Kish. According to 1Sm 14:50–51, Ner and Kish were brothers.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:40 bowmen. For their skill in archery, cf 12:2; Jgs 20:15–16.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 8 A Benjaminite genealogy designed specifically for Saul's family shows that though Saul's tribe was smaller than others, it received special attention because God called them to service as leaders of Israel. For God's people, honor and nobility are not products of our strength, but of God's calling and the character He develops in us. • Consecrate my life and my family, dear Lord, to faithfully fulfill my calling to the honor of Your name. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:1–34 Inhabitants of Jerusalem after the Babylonian exile. Israel was restored from various tribes (v 3). After so many years elsewhere, many Israelites would not or could not return.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:1 Book of the Kings of Israel. See pp 335–37. breach of faith. See note, 2:7. Main focus of Chronicles. Beginning in retrospect, Chronicles proved that Israel could be the instrument of God's plan of universal salvation only as it continued in covenant loyalty, expressed above all in worship of the true God according to His Word. See pp 628–29.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:2–3 Introduction to Judah after the exile in Babylon. The list shows the restored Jerusalem could become the home to all God's people, South and North.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:2 temple servants. Non-Israelites who were pressed into service. See note, Jsh 9:27. They were people "whom David and his officials had set apart to attend the Levites" (Ezr 8:20). Associated with the Levites, they also had quarters in Jerusalem and lived in Levitical cities (Ezr 2:70; Ne 3:26, 31; 11:21).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:3 lived in Jerusalem. Repeated in v 34.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:4–9 Judean and Benjaminite lists. Judahite list (vv 4–6) is similar to Ne 11:4–5, and Benjaminite list (vv 7–8) to Ne 11:7–9, though with numerous variants in each case.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:10–13 priests. Listings correspond closely with Ne 11:10–14, differing primarily in spelling and details of generations. Some names appear elsewhere in Chronicles. The continuity of the postexilic priesthood with the ancient priesthood is of vital importance because it represents the only valid ministry of the divinely established beliefs, rites, and rituals. See note, ch 6.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:13 1,760. Total figure in Ne 11:10–14 is 1,192. Difference may be due to a different basis of calculation. mighty men. See note, Ru 2:1.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:14–16 Levites. Listings correspond closely with Ne 11:15–17, differing in spelling and details. With the priests, the Levites form the essential personnel once present in the tabernacle and later in Solomon's temple. The unbroken chain of legitimate clergy has continued into the Chronicler's own time and legitimates the function of the rebuilt temple. Cf ch 23.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:17–33 Gatekeepers and temple functionaries. Gatekeepers are named and their functions described in vv 17–27. Four are affirmed as chief gatekeepers in vv 17 and 26. The intervening verses describe the prominence of the gatekeepers (vv 18–19a), the legitimacy of their office in history (vv 19b–21), and a reaffirmation of their prominence (vv 22–25). Four chief gatekeepers were responsible for security (v 27; cf 26:20); others had charge of the utensils (v 28; cf 23:28); some mixed the spices (v 30; cf Ex 30:22–38); some were bakers (vv 31–32); and others were temple musicians (v 33; cf 15:16–24). Levites were in constant service. Cf 23:24–32 for David's establishment of these duties.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:19 Korahites. Luth: "In Moses we read (Num. 26:11) that the sons of Korah received extraordinary grace in that they were preserved when their father was swallowed up by the earth with his companions. … They would not depart from the tabernacle, but had admonished their father and his followers to desist from error. For that reason they are highly praised in Chronicles. The psalms they composed are very joyous and most delightful and are plainly wedding lyrics. Therefore I believe the descendants of Korah were especially chosen for God's worship that there might also be poets of sacred things among God's people, to sing together and compose hymns for the honor and glory of God. Thus Ethan and Jeduthun are praised among many others (1 Chron. 15:19; 9:16, 19). More than the others, however, the sons of Korah sang especially of Christ; but they sang in a different way from David—under the allegory of marriage. It is apparent that they were good and pious sons, who believed God in the face of their father's madness. For that reason they were preserved for the praise of God. They were not priests, but Levites. They remained in that station and did not aspire to the priesthood as their father did" (AE 12:201).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:20 the LORD was with him. See "be with," p 5.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:25 every seven days. The guard changed for the Sabbath.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:31–32 flat cakes … showbread. The latter is lit, "bread of ordering." Set in two rows, six loaves (cakes) to a row. Called "the bread of the Presence" (Ex 25:30; 1Ki 7:48). See note, Ex 25:30.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:33 singers. Chronicles stresses the importance of music and song in the temple worship (see note, 6:31). chambers. See diagram, p 541. free from other service. Their singing was so important for the daily services that they did nothing else.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:34 Conclusion to vv 1–33.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:35–44 Bridge between genealogical section (1:1–9:34) and the narrative section (1Ch 10–2Ch 36), leading the reader to Saul, the first king of Israel. See note, 8:29–40. This slightly different list of Saul's ancestors and descendants leads to the story of the death of the first king, which in turn is an introduction to the main theme of Chronicles: the reign of David.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:1–44 The separated people of Israel return to a new unity at Jerusalem. The Lord renews their service and their hope based on restored faith in His mercy. Though we break faith with the Lord daily, He restores us daily through repentance and faith in Christ, whose mercy is new every morning. • Renew us, Lord. Recall us to Zion, and sanctify our service by Your Word. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 10:1–13 Only incident of Saul's life from 1Sm 8–31 that is recorded here. Chronicles only considers Saul as David's unfaithful predecessor (cf v 14). Mount Gilboa. See color map 2.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 10:6 all his house died together. General statement; the Chronicler also notes in the genealogies that the line of Saul's son Jonathan continued (8:34–40; 9:40–44). house. Here refers to a political force or dynasty. Expression refers to "all his men" (1Sm 31:6) who constituted Saul's immediate entourage or bodyguard.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 10:8–12 The Chronicler omits details such as Saul's decapitation, the name of the goddess Ashtaroth, the fastening of the body to the wall of Beth-shan, the all-night journey of the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead, and the cremation of Saul's body. Included is the account of Saul's head being taken to the temple of Dagon (v 10), a pagan temple in Philistia. When the ark of the covenant was taken there (1Sm 4–7), the idol Dagon's head and arms were broken off.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 10:8 strip the slain. Articles of value, even clothing, were taken as part of a winning soldier's compensation.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 10:9 good news to their idols. Gods were not regarded as all-knowing, as Scripture describes the Lord.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 10:10 fastened his head. Picture of the exile yet to come, typified in the head of Saul hung before a pagan god in a foreign land.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 10:11 Jabesh-gilead. See color map 1.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 10:13 Theological analysis of Saul's death. Saul died because he was unfaithful and failed to keep God's command that Samuel the prophet had given him (1Sm 13). He refused to exterminate the Amalekites (1Sm 15; 28:18), and he visited a medium in Endor (1Sm 28:8–14). Failure to heed the prophets is given as the ultimate reason for the Babylonian exile (2Ch 36:15–16). breach of faith. See note, 2:7.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 10:14 Saul's demise was according to God's decision, so that He might put David on the throne. This is a type of the exile to come under Babylon. Like Saul, Judah was unfaithful, did not seek the Lord, and rejected His prophets. Therefore, God raised up Babylon to destroy Judah. Yet, just as after Saul's death God gave the throne to the great king David, so He also would restore the exiles. Readers are thus warned about their own faithfulness, their own seeking of the Lord, and their own reception of the prophetic word. Saul took his own life. However, the cause of death is ascribed directly to God, even though it happened through human agents (see notes, Dt 2:34; Nu 31:2). seek guidance. See p 843.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 10 See application note, 1Sm 31.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Chs 11–12 Initial stages of David's reign. At the end of the 7½-year struggle for the throne (which is telescoped in 1Ch), elders from the whole nation came to Hebron and "anointed David king over Israel." The battle of Gilboa (1 Sm 31; 2Sm 1), is not mentioned in 1Ch. The Chronicler has David immediately proclaimed king by all Israel. Absent is any detrimental information about David's character. (See "Omissions," p 629.) The prophetic promise to David was fulfilled "according to the word of the LORD by Samuel" (11:3; cf vv 9–10; 12:18, 23). Throughout his rise, the people support him until, at the end, every tribe is united as one nation under one king. At the stronghold, David was supported by the northern tribe of Gad (12:8–15) and by the southern tribes of Benjamin and Judah (12:16–18). At Ziklag, he was supported by the southern tribe of Benjamin (12:1–7) and the northern tribe of Manasseh (12:19–21). At Hebron, his support broadened to include both Israelites and non-Israelites (11:10–47) and, from among the Israelites, contingents from every tribe (12:22–37). David's reign at Hebron for 7½ years is reported in 2Sm 5:4–5.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:1 Hebron. See color map 1. your bone and flesh. Members of his family are thereby inseparable.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:2 led … shepherd. People long recognized Saul's lack of leadership and that the Lord had chosen David, though they do not explicitly use the title "king" here.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:3 elders. See note, Ex 3:16. See also p 228. covenant. See p 6. before the LORD. With His approval. anointed. See note, 1Sm 10:1.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:1–3 The Chronicler announces and celebrates David's enthronement, overlooking David's struggles. Critics may fault the Chronicler's omission of the graphic details about David's ascent. Yet all of us, like the Chronicler, tend to look back on the past with nostalgia and celebrate the good rather than the bad. In fact, the record of God's blessings to David was what the Chronicler's readers needed to remember most. When failures and trials would overwhelm us, the Lord focuses us on His mercy, which can carry us through. • Lord, I repent of my failures, though I cannot number them all or bear to dwell on them. Focus my heart, dear Lord, on Your great mercy. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:4–8 Account of all Israel's acceptance of David (vv 1–3) is followed by the story of the capture of Jerusalem.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:4 Jebus. Cf 2Sm 5:6–10. Gr Naz: "[O] grand and renowned temple, our new inheritance, whose greatness is now due to the Word, which once was a Jebus, and has now been made by us a Jerusalem" (NPNF 2 7:394).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:5 stronghold of Zion. See p 844. Archaeologists have found a substantial stone wall at Zion.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:6 Account is structured with several omissions from and additions to the 2Sm account. The Jebusites' taunt that the blind and the lame could ward off David's entrance to the city (2Sm 5:6) and then David's subsequent order to attack "the lame and the blind" (2Sm 5:8) are left out. Joab … went up first. This detail prepares the reader for Joab's later role as David's commander and his role in rebuilding the city after the capture (v 8).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:8 Millo. See note, 2Sm 5:9.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:9 the LORD of hosts. See p 1291. with him. See "be with," p 5.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:4–9 See application note, 2Sm 5:1–16.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:10–47 Honor roll of David's military men follows immediately upon the telling of his accession to the throne and acquisition of his capital, whereas in Samuel this roster appears as an appendix to the account of his reign (2Sm 23:8–39). This topical, rather than chronological, sequence determines the order in which events are reported. The muster rolls in ch 12 are also not found in 2Sm.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:10 mighty men. See note, Ru 2:1. These men distinguished themselves in David's service not only at the time when all Israel made him king, but also before he was king and later in his reign. See note, 12:1.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:11 Hachmonite. A clan or family name. 300. Or, 800 (2Sm 23:8); difference may have arisen through scribal inaccuracy. killed at one time. Not necessarily a singular effort of Jashobeam, but the result of his leadership (cf 1Sm 18:7).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:13 barley. Or, "lentils" (2Sm 23:11). A copyist could easily confuse the Hbr words because of their similar spelling.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:14 he … his. Shammah (2Sm 23:11–12) is the subject of the verbs here and the main hero of the exploit.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:15–19 David's noble character shows he is devoted to the Lord and to his people, thus the ideal king.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:15–16 Adullam … Valley of Rephaim … Bethlehem. Cf 2Sm 23:13–17; see maps, pp 500, 534.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:18 poured it out to the LORD. Greg: "[David] poured it out as a libation to the Lord" (NPNF 2 13:66). See pp 170–71.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:19 drink the lifeblood. See note, Gn 9:4. Greg: "He, who to his guilt previously feared not that the blood of dying soldiers should be shed, afterwards considered that, were he to drink the water, he should have shed the blood of living soldiers" (NPNF 2 13:66).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:20 Abishai. His feat and that of Benaiah (vv 22–25) are reported in 2Sm 23:18–23.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:26–47 Roster of mighty men is more complete than the list in 2Sm 23:24–39, where 16 entries following Uriah's name (v 41) do not appear. mighty men. See note, Ru 2:1.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:10–47 See application note, 2Sm 23:8–39.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:1–22 Several contingents of "mighty men" threw in their lot with David while he was still a fugitive of Saul's fury (cf ch 11; 1Sm 19–30). Four groups of defectors from Saul are mentioned here. They came from Benjamin (vv 1–7), Gad (vv 8–15), Benjamin and Judah (vv 16–18), and Manasseh (vv 19–22). This is only a partial list of men who supported David before Saul's death. There is no record of these accretions to David's army in 1 and 2Sm.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:1–7 Benjaminites (Saul's tribe) join David at Ziklag.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:1 came to David. An act of faith in the word of the prophet. Not until David gathered his kingdom and established his rule was their faith visibly rewarded. Ziklag. See map, p 468. could not move. Saul kept pursuing David and finally forced him to dwell among the Philistines (1Sm 27).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:2 Saul's kinsmen. Though not the first, they joined David when he was at Ziklag, not long before Saul's death (cf 1Sm 27:2–6). Because these Benjaminites were Saul's kinsmen, their defection to David was particularly noteworthy. Because of their common bloodline, they could be expected to remain faithful to the mad King Saul, yet they found his rule so intolerable that they joined the resistance movement against him.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:3–4 Gibeah … Gibeon. See color maps 1, 3. thirty. Apparently a select group, different from the chain of command in ch 11. Cf v 18.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:8 Gadites. From east of the Jordan (see note, ch 5), where Saul's son Ish-bosheth maintained himself for 7½ years after his father's death. The desertion of Saul by his own tribesmen, followed by their immediate neighbors, reveals the extent of the dissatisfaction with his rule. stronghold. Probably a reference to the cave of Adullam, where David fled soon after Saul ordered his arrest (cf 1Sm 22:1).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:15 Dissident Gadites had great obstacles to overcome. For some reason, they had to cross the Jordan when it was at flood stage during the month of Nisan (our Mar/Apr). Additionally, they had to "put to flight" loyalist Benjaminites who tried to prevent their defection to David.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:16 stronghold. See note, v 8.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:17 friendship. David tested the trustworthiness of this mixed contingent because he had learned during his flight from Saul to be careful whom he trusted. Cf 1Sm 23:19–29; 26.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:18 Spirit clothed. The Spirit moved Amasai to give an assurance of their loyalty in lofty poetry. See notes, Jgs 3:10; 6:34. thirty. See note, vv 3–4. Peace, peace to you. Hbr greeting. Cf Jgs 19:20. helps. See note, Gn 2:18.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:19 sent him away. David "did not help … the Philistines" in the battle of Gilboa because their rulers did not trust him (1Sm 29).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:20 thousands. See p 217.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:21 raiders. Amalekites who destroyed Ziklag when David left it unprotected (1Sm 30). men of valor. See note, Jsh 1:14.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:22 an army of God. Like God's host of angels (cf Gn 32:1–2; Mt 26:53). At Hebron, troops from every tribe join David (vv 2–37). A total of 340,647 warriors gathered to support David (vv 24–37).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:23 Before Saul's death and during his son's ill-fated regime (cf 2Sm 2:10), David received growing support from various volunteer groups. David became commander of Israel's national army, composed of divisions furnished from the various tribes (vv 23–40).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:26–27 Priests and Levites could also serve as soldiers.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:28 Zadok. Possibly the man who became high priest after Abiathar.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:31 half-tribe. See note, Nu 32:33.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:33 seasoned troops. Experienced warriors, fully trained, having unit cohesion. weapons of war. Spears, shields, swords, bows and arrows, slings, and short swords.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:38–40 Coronation feast. Length and abundant provisions underscore the magnificence of this feast. David's son Solomon also celebrated his coronation with a tremendous feast (29:20–22).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:38 All these. See note, v 22. battle order. Formally organized for the march as professionals, not a meandering militia.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:39 their brothers. People of Judah, in which Hebron lay, assumed the main burden of providing for the visitors from other tribes. See map, p 615.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:40 joy in Israel. Spontaneous generosity and goodwill followed the news about David's coronation.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 12 David wins support from throughout Israel, and his coronation is a great celebration. The feasts shared at David's coronation at Hebron and Solomon's coronation in Jerusalem, for all their joy, pale when compared to the feast that awaits all believers (cf Is 25:6–8; Jer 3:18). The feast that will be celebrated at the end of time will bring together all God's scattered children, not only those of Israel but those of the separated children of Adam as well (cf 1Ch 1:1). That eternal feast even now sustains the Church on earth. In every celebration of the Lord's Supper, the gathered people of God look beyond the circumstances of life to an eternal day of joy for all nations (cf Mt 26:29; Mk 14:25; Lk 22:15–18; 1Co 11:23–26; Rv 19:6–9). • "Gather us together, we pray, from the ends of the earth to celebrate with all the faithful the marriage feast of the Lamb in His kingdom, which has no end." Amen. (LSB, p 178)

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 13–14 Events of 2Sm 5:17–6:11 are in reverse order here.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:1–4 Written to stress the importance of true worship, the Chronicler disregards the chronological sequence to highlight David's concern for the ark, the symbolic throne of the transcendent God (v 6; see p 495). Chs 10–12 set the stage, explaining how David was able to undertake moving the ark. Wearing the crown of all Israel (10:1–11:3) in the former Jebusite city of Jerusalem (11:4–9) and commanding a national army (11:10–12:40), David was in a position to promote the spiritual life of his people. Cf 2Sm 6:1–11. David acts as ideal leader, consulting with the commanders. Note David's concern for all Israel and his desire to have priests and Levites join him. He would correct Saul's error of not seeking the Lord at the ark of the covenant (see notes, 10:13, 14).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:1 thousands … hundreds. See p 217.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:3 seek. See p 843.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:4 All the assembly. All the people had a voice in the matter through their representatives. Israel acted by consensus rather than by vote.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:1–4 David strengthens the unity of Israel by consulting the leaders and receiving affirmation. Consensus is often difficult to attain, especially in a large group. Yet the Lord blesses the people's sincere desire for restoring godly practices. Likewise, He will bless our desire for godly consensus and peace, which He provides in the Gospel. • Grant our congregations unity, dear Lord, as they call upon You and listen to one another. Amen.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:5 Nile … to Lebo-hamath. From the southern to the northern border of the land, more commonly expressed as "from Dan to Beersheba" (Jgs 20:1).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:6 enthroned above the cherubim. See note, Ezk 10:1.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:7 a new cart. Means by which the ark was last moved. Rather than consulting God's Word, the movers simply followed precedent. See note, vv 9–12. Uzzah and Ahio. Sons of Abinadab (2Sm 6:3). Unclear whether this family was Levitical and thus qualified to participate in the movement of the ark.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:9–12 Cf 2Sm 6:6–9. The issue here was obedience to the Mosaic Law concerning the ark. It was to be carried with poles (Ex 25:12–15). It was also a capital offense to touch the ark (Nu 4:15). Uzzah's instinctive reaction to steady the ark was contrary to the divinely established statutes regarding the ark. The lesson would bear fruit when David conformed to divine requirements and later successfully brought the ark to Jerusalem (15:25–16:6).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:9 Chidon. Also called "Nacon" (2Sm 6:6).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:11 angry. The object of David's anger, whether God or Uzzah and Ahio, is never clarified.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:13–14 Obed-edom. Possibly a Levite from Gath-rimmon, thus a proper caretaker for the ark.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:5–14 See application note, 2Sm 6:5–15.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 14 Three factors demonstrating that "the LORD had established [David] as king over Israel": (1) building activity with the help of a foreign king, Hiram of Tyre (vv 1–2); (2) conditions permitting domestic tranquility and growth of his family (vv 3– 7); (3) double defeat inflicted on the Philistines, who threatened the independence of the land (vv 8–17).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:1 Glory of David's kingdom is immediately apparent in the goodwill gesture of Hiram, king of Tyre. With this assurance, David knew that the Lord had established him as king. Tyre. See color map 1.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:2 for the sake of His people Israel. David viewed government as God's blessing for His people.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:3–7 David's family. Cf 2Sm 5:13–16. David's prosperity resulted in his enlarged family. This collateral genealogy is almost identical to 3:5–8.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:4 children. Some are mentioned only here. The names of a few have variant forms in other lists.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:1–7 God establishes David's house and his household in Jerusalem. Our station in life, whether humble or exalted in the eyes of the world, is established for the sake of God's good purposes. In mercy, He has established our heavenly home through Christ. • O Lord, welcome me as Your child for the sake of Your only-begotten Son. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:8–17 Cf 2Sm 5:17–25.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:8 all the Philistines. Hyperbole.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:9 Valley of Rephaim. See map, p 500.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:10–16 David seeks consultation with Yahweh (vv 10, 14; 2Sm 5:19a, 23); God announces the giving of the enemy into David's hands (v 10b; 2Sm 5:19b); the Lord goes out before the enemy (v 15; 2Sm 5:24). The enemy's gods are burned (v 12; 2Sm 5:21), and their army is obliterated (v 16; 2Sm 5:25).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:10 inquired of God. See "call," p 842.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:11 Baal-perazim. Specific location unknown.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:13 valley. Valley of Rephaim. See map, p 500.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:15 marching in the tops of the balsam trees. A reference to the angelic hosts God sent to do battle for David with the Philistines.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:16 Gibeon to Gezer. See color map 1.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:17 David's victory, brought by the Lord, resolved the issue that precipitated the war. He passed the test brought by the Philistines.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:8–17 See application note, 2Sm 5:17–25.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:1–24 Due to the prominence of the ark in Israel's worship, 1Ch gives a unique, extended report of its transfer to Jerusalem and the provisions made for it at its new location. See "Authorship and the Author's Interests," p 628.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:1 pitched a tent. David not only built houses for himself in Jerusalem (cf 14:1–2) but also prepared a place for the ark with a tent (cf Ex 33:7–11).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:2 Only Levites should carry the ark under Mosaic Law (Nu 1:47–54). No longer "afraid of God," as he was at the time of Uzzah's death, David realized that God did not object in principle to the moving of the ark. In its temporary quarters, it brought blessings to the house of Obed-edom (13:13–14). Cf Ex 25:14; Nu 1:50; 4:5–16; Dt 10:8 for the prescribed procedure.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:4–10 Listing represents all three branches of Levi: Kohath, Merari, and Gershom. In addition to priestly representatives, of whom only Zadok and Abiathar are mentioned (v 11), more than 800 Levites were to take part in the procession.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:11 David summoned. He acts as a leader for the priests here and throughout 1Ch, guiding, organizing, and even participating in their services wearing a priestly garment (v 27).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:12 Consecrate yourselves. Purification rites were required of those who engage in holy ceremonies (Ex 19:10, 14; 29:1–37; 30:19–21; 40:31–32; Lv 8:5–35; 11:44).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:13 seek Him. See p 843. according to the rule. In 13:7, they had not considered Moses' words about how to move the ark (cf v 15).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:15 carried the ark. To stress that this time the ark was moved "according to the word of the LORD," the carrying is described as already accomplished.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:16–24 Processional music, vocal and instrumental, was to be offered under the direction of three Levites: Heman, Asaph, and Ethan, (v 17; see note, 6:31). Assisting them were "their brothers of the second order" (v 18), i.e., in a subsidiary position to the three leaders. Luth: "[David] himself establishes, arranges, and prepares the entire worship service with all diligence. He himself composes psalms as a model of how they should teach and praise God, and he stimulates and appoints many others for the same work of composing psalms. 'No,' dear David says, 'I will not tolerate liars, hangmen of souls, bloody dogs, and murderers in my kingdom. They shall not mislead my people this way; they shall not murder or persecute the faithful priests and teachers this way. I will not tolerate them. They must go! Then the true teachers will be able to praise my God securely, freely, and joyfully, and to preach to the people in a profitable and salutary manner.' Oh, what a fine and lovely kingdom it was in which the Word of God for once received a pious and faithful king! There everything had to be in very fine fettle, flourishing and prospering amid all wisdom and virtue; for God's Word cannot fail to produce virtue. Therefore it was also during this period that this noble book, the Psalter, was produced, the like of which had not existed or been produced among the people. In fact, there were more people properly trained in the Scriptures at that time than before or after. No school will ever match this high school of David, be it high or low" (AE 13:188–89).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:18 gatekeepers. See note, 9:17–33. Obed-edom. See note, 13:13–14.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:19 cymbals. Hbr term used only in books written during and after the exile (1Ch; 2Ch; Ezr; Ne).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:20 Alamoth. Lit, "virgins." See superscription of Ps 46.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:21 the Sheminith. Lit, "the eighth." See note, Ps 6.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:25–29 Ark is brought to Jerusalem. The Levites would continue to care for the ark once it was in its proper place (cf 16:4–6; Nu 10:1–10).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:26 God helped. God's Word guided them to move the ark properly. seven bulls and seven rams. Sacrificed when the procession reached its destination. As it started out, "an ox and a fattened animal" were offered (2Sm 6:13). seven. See p 217.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:27 linen ephod. David is said to have joined with the Levites, even wearing the linen ephod, a priestly vestment (cf 1Sm 2:18). David is a unique king in that he embodies the promise of the future priest and king, the Messiah (see notes, 21:26; Zec 6:12, 13).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:29 Michal … despised him. Cf 2Sm 6:20–23.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 15 See application note, 2Sm 6:16–23.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 16 David's establishment of the ongoing care of the ark (vv 4–7) presents him as the ideal king in court and temple. The Psalms record the giving of the covenant to Abraham and his faithful keeping of that covenant, resulting in praise from the people of God (vv 8–36). Psalms are a constant in the worshiping community.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:1 tent. Temporary shelter made of goats' hair (Ex 26:7) that David had pitched to provide a covering for the ark. The tent, or "tabernacle of the Lord," at Gibeon retained its religious significance (2Ch 1:3–6).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:2–3 Eating and drinking as part of worship has deep roots in the OT.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:2 blessed. See pp 170–71, 842.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:5–6 Most of the men chosen to provide the ministry of music "before the ark" (v 4) in its new location had been appointed "to raise sounds of joy" during the procession (15:16).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:1–7 David, the new king, acts as a priest by blessing and ministering to the congregation of Israel. Christ has consecrated you as a priest in His kingdom to bless, thank, and praise God before the nations. He sustains you in this precious service with His very body and blood for the forgiveness of all your sins. • "Save us, O God of our salvation, and gather and deliver us from among the nations, that we may give thanks to Your holy name, and glory in Your praise" (v 35). Amen.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:8–22 See notes, Ps 105:1–15.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:23–33 See notes, Ps 96:1–13.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:34–36 See notes, Ps 106:1, 48.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:34 From God's confession of Himself. See notes, Ex 34:6, 7.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:36 people … praised the LORD. The people participated in the liturgy and likely joined in singing.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:8–36 Three psalms are arranged specifically to emphasize Israel's thanks for the Lord's merciful deeds. Recite this psalm to express your thanks to God, including specific examples of His mercy in your life. For His steadfast love, which He professes to you through His beloved Son, truly endures forever. • "Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel, from everlasting to everlasting!" (v 36). Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:37–43 Unique to 1Ch. David maintained separate places for the tabernacle and the ark. These dual sanctuaries were united when Solomon built the temple (2Ch 1:13; 5:5). Until that time, there were two high priests, one at Jerusalem and one at Gibeon.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:37 each day required. Services before the ark in Jerusalem followed established procedures, just as the "burnt offerings" at Gibeon were made (v 40).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:39 Zadok. His associate Abiathar (15:11; 2Sm 8:17) remained in Jerusalem. high place. See p 526. Gibeon. See color map 1.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:41 Jeduthun. Also known as Ethan (6:44). His name appears in the prescripts of Ps 39; 62; 77.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:43 bless his household. See p 842.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:37–43 David establishes two sites for worship and provides for proper services at each. The time, place, and character of our services need good planning in view of God's Word (cf 1Co 14:40). God's Word and prayer sanctify such services so that we may receive His gracious blessings in Christ Jesus. • Fill our hearts and mouths, O Lord, with the word of Your steadfast love, which endures forever. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:1–15 Though Nathan the prophet gives David advice to "do all that is in your heart" (vv 1–2), the Lord will reverse this counsel (vv 3–15).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:1 under a tent. Lit, "under the curtains." David did not want to continue to leave the ark, the symbolic throne of the God of Israel, under a makeshift shelter (16:1) while he occupied regal quarters built of cedar. Cf Hg 1:4 for a similar situation.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:3–15 The Lord's Word encompasses several points. David is not the one who will build the temple (v 4). The Lord had never required a "house of cedar" in the past (vv 5–6). David must remember that he is ruler of Israel only because the Lord has established him who once was but a shepherd boy (vv 7–10). The real issue is whether David recognizes that the Lord has built his house (or dynasty; v

10). Finally, David's son will build a house for the Lord (vv 11–15). The removal of the Lord's steadfast love would not happen to Solomon as it happened to Saul (10:13–14).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:5 tent to tent. The ark, which represented God's presence to the people, had been in the tabernacle, the temple of Dagon, at the threshing floors of Kiriath-jearim and Obed-edom, and finally in Jerusalem, where it dwelt in a tent (16:1–7).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:6 judges. See pp 380–81. house of cedar? What David built for himself.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:8 name. A reputation.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:10 house. A dynasty.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:12 I will establish his throne forever. Ter: "[This] is more suitable to Christ, God's Son, than to Solomon, —a temporal king. … For at the present day nations are invoking Christ which used not to know Him" (ANF 3:173).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:13 father … son. See note, 28:6.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:14 My house … kingdom. David would participate in God's kingdom, Israel (cf Ex 19:6). forever. Anticipation of the eternal kingdom and life that the Lord bestows in the new creation.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:1–15 See application note, 2Sm 7:1–17.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:16–27 Cf 2Sm 7:18–29.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:16 went in. David entered the tent of the ark. sat before the LORD. Only reference to sitting as a position of prayer found in the OT. See p 1277. Who am I. David understands that he has received kingship and an eternal promise not through his own merit but solely because God is gracious. Cf 29:10–19.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:17 shown me future generations. Described by Nathan's prophecy (vv 11–14), perhaps accompanied by a vision.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:20 all that we have heard. The reading of the Law and the testimony of God's deeds. Cf Ps 145:10–12.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:21 redeem. See p 843.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:24 David seems to recite a liturgical text that has a creedal character. LORD of hosts. See p 1291.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:16–27 See application note, 2Sm 7:18–29.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:1–13 Wars with Moab (v 2), Zobah-Hamath (vv 3–4), Syria (vv 5–6), and Edom (vv 12–13). The Chronicler follows 2Sm 8:1–14 with several significant changes. Not mentioned is David's cruel treatment of the Moabites (2Sm 8:2), perhaps because such actions would reflect poorly on his noble character. Though not permitted to engage directly in the construction of the temple, David did much to make the deferred project an eventual success. His first contribution to the cause was of a political nature. Through David's conquests, God ensured that neighboring nations that had previously harassed Israel, particularly during the period of the judges, would not interfere during Solomon's building of the temple. David also contributed directly to the building program. He supplied the site for the temple and stockpiled material for it (21:1–22:5).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:1 Gath. See color map 1.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:2 servants … tribute. Not slaves, but a vassal state to Israel.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:3 Zobah-Hamath … Euphrates. Northernmost extent of David's influence, later controlled by Solomon.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:4 hamstrung. See note, Jsh 11:6.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:5 Damascus … Zobah. See map, p 534.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:8 Tibhath … Cun. Cities near the mountains of Lebanon under the rule of Hadadezer, king of Zobah. bronze. Spoil of David's victory, used by Solomon in the temple appointments, once again connecting David to the temple. sea … pillars … vessels. See diagram, p 672.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:9 Hamath. See color map 3.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:11 dedicated to the LORD. See note, 2Sm 8:11. silver and gold. Temple vessels could be made from these precious metals, or they were added to the temple treasuries and used to support the priests and festivals.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:12 Abishai, the son of Zeruiah. He acted for David, who is said to have done this in 2Sm 8:13. Valley of Salt. See map, p 500.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:13 Edom. See color map 2.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:1–13 See application note, 2Sm 8:1–14.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:14–17 David's officers and their duties are named: military leader, recorder, priests, secretaries, and chief officials. Cf 2Sm 8:15–18.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:14 David … administered justice. He served as the high court (cf 1Ki 3:16–28). equity. Fairness, equal treatment before the law. See "righteous," p 843.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:15 Joab. First soldier to attack Jebus. recorder. See note, 2Sm 8:16.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:16 Two priests are named: Zadok the son of Ahitub and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar. See note, 16:37–43, on dual sanctuaries. secretary. See note, 2Sm 8:17.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:17 Cherethites … Pelethites. See note, 2Sm 15:18. chief officials. Cf 2Sm 8:18, where David's sons are referred to as "priests," using the Hbr term for "priest" in an older, broader sense, while 1Ch uses "heads" to describe their role as leaders (e.g., 27:1).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:14–17 See application note, 2Sm 8:15–18.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 19 Shows David as a victorious warrior against the Ammonites and Syrians. His sins and personal defects are omitted in 1Ch, as they do not contribute to the development of the central theme: the temple and its services.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:1 Nahash the king of the Ammonites. An enemy of Saul (1Sm 11:1). Ammonites. Related to Israel through Lot (Gn 19:38; Dt 2:19) and located east of Gad. They had a long tradition of enmity with Israel (Jgs 3:13; 11:4–33), which continued into postexilic days (Ne 2:19; 13:1–9). See notes on the parallel account of the subjugation of the Ammonites in 2Sm 10.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:4–5 shaved … cut. To humiliate not only the men but also David, who had sent them.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:6 Mesopotamia … Aram-maacah … Zobah. Nations north/northeast of Israel. See map, pp 60, 534.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:7 chariots. The difference in figures here and in v 18 from those given in 2Sm 10:6, 18 is likely caused by scribal errors in copying the manuscripts. Details of the enemy force are not found in 2Sm 10. Medeba. In the grazing region of Moab.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:9 battle array. Set up in lines along the battlefront. the city. Rabbah. Joab will later lead his army against this city and destroy it (20:1–3).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:1–9 The respect David showed the Ammonite ruler is repaid with humiliation. As a servant of Christ's kingdom, you, too, will suffer ridicule and humiliation (Mt 5:10–12). Fight this spiritual warfare with prayer, as is fitting for a soldier of the cross. The Lord, your King, bore your humiliation on the cross and covers your shame with the robe of His righteousness. • Lord, grant me all humility, yet boldness, as Your ambassador. I leave the punishment of my persecutors to the servants of justice You have appointed, trusting in Your judgments. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:10 Joab. See note, 18:15.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:15 the city. Rabbah. See note, v 9.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:17 David gets involved personally.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:19 they made peace with David. Different wording from 2Sm 10:19, indicating that the enemy's war was not against Israel alone but against the Lord's anointed king, and thus against the Lord Himself. Abijah used the same theme in his prebattle speech to the rebellious Northern Kingdom and to Jeroboam, their usurper king (2Ch 13).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:10–19 See application note, 2Sm 10.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:1 spring … when kings go out to battle. April, when the harvest is not taking place and the weather is more conducive to fighting. See calendar, p 262. besieged Rabbah. Though David had mercy on the Syrians, he did not let up on the rebellious Ammonites. The conclusion of the Ammonite war (vv 1–3) is recorded also in 2Sm 11:1; 12:26–31.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:1–3 David's conquest of the Ammonites. When people persist in rebellion and sin, the Lord would have you persist in applying God's Law. Do not grow faint in discipline. The Lord disciplines you as a result of His surpassing mercy, loving you as a dear father loves his children. • O Father, turn me from my rebellion to acknowledge Your abundant goodness. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:4 Philistines. Though driven from Israel's borders in two battles (14:8–17), they still challenged David's supremacy. Gezer. See color map 1. giants. From Hbr raphah, known as people of large stature (see "Rephaim" in Gn 15:20; Dt 2:1–11, 20–21).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:5 Goliath the Gittite. The giant David killed with a slingshot (1Sm 17:41–49). weaver's beam. See note, 1Sm 17:5–7.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:6 Gath. See color map 1. six fingers … toes. Genetic defect, which may have been related to these Philistines' great size.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:4–8 David's army defeats even the most formidable warriors. Fear of such giants had kept Israel from entering the Promised Land, but the Lord strengthened His people for victory. No matter what colossal challenges face you, the Lord will grant you strength and faithful companions with whom to overcome such challenges. • Lord, equip me with all things needful to fulfill Your calling. Grant me the support of dear brothers and sisters who take confidence in Your promises, through Christ, our Lord. Amen.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:1–22:1 Though much of the detrimental material about David in 2Sm was not included in 1Ch (see "Omissions," p 629), the account of David's sinful census is included, along with additional information found only in 21:27–22:1. These accounts connect David with the choice of the temple site.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:1 Satan. Hbr for "adversary." Found also in Jb 1–2 and Zec 3:1 but with the definite article ("the adversary"). Here it is a proper name. Though 2Sm 24:1 implies that it was the Lord who incited David to take the census, the Chronicler chooses to emphasize the instrument used, i.e., Satan. Chem: "How David fell into such calamitous thinking that he was not willing to follow the counsel of those who gave him good advice is given … 'Satan moved him' to do this" (LTh 1:175). number Israel. David wished to leave a politically strong nation to Solomon (ch 28).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:3–4 Cf 2Sm 24:3–4. Joab, David's faithful general, objected to the census. The census itself was not evil, but the motivation for it was wrong. The number of troops does not matter, as later warfare narratives will demonstrate. Only trust in the Lord wins battles. David here demonstrates faith and trust in the size of Israel's army.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:5 Description of the process of census taking (2Sm 24:5–8) is not recorded, only the total—1,100,000 troops. See note, 2Sm 24:9.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:6 Unique to 1Ch. David's army would have been even larger had Joab counted Levi and Benjamin.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:7 Famine, enemy destruction, and the sword of the Lord were precisely the punishments decreed for covenant failure in Dt 28:15–68.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:9 seer. See note, 1Sm 9:9.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:10–12 Choices emphasize the seriousness of the offense and challenge David as if to say, "If you're so clever, choose your own punishment."

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:12 three years. Or, seven years; see ESV note, 2Sm 24:13. pestilence. See note, Ps 91:3. angel of the LORD. See p 1227.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:13 True to his motive for the census, David expresses fear about his earthly enemies. See note, vv 3–4.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:15–26 Cf 2Sm 24:16b–25. Selection of the temple site. The angel was stopped over a particular spot, the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite (Araunah in 2Sm 24:16). This spot was then dedicated for the altar of the Lord.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:15 the LORD saw. Text does not specify what the Lord saw. Perhaps the sight of all the people at Jerusalem moved Him to compassion. relented. Hbr nacham, "regret." In other usage, this term means "to comfort" (cf Is 40:1–2). threshing floor. See note, Ru 3:2.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:16 clothed in sackcloth. See note, Jb 16:15.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:17 I … sinned. Confession of sins affirms David's sincerity. hand … against me. See p 842. against my father's house. David's request may have fulfillment in the foolish judgments of his grandson Rehoboam, who caused division in Israel.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:1–17 See application note, 2Sm 24.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:18 an altar. Platform of uncut stones.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:20 saw the angel … hid. Appearance of an angel is often fearsome. Cf v 30.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:23 sledges. See notes, Jb 41:30; Am 1:3.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:25 In 2Sm 24:24, David buys the threshing floor and oxen for 50 shekels of silver. The 1Ch price may be for the entire temple site, while the 2Sm price is only for the threshing floor section and animals.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:26 presented … offerings. David's role as the one who sacrifices demonstrates again his priestly king identity (see note, 15:27; cf 16:1–7). answered him with fire. Visible demonstration of divine approval is not mentioned in the parallel account (2Sm 24), but it is in other instances, cf Lv 9:24 (Aaron's consecration); 1Ki 18:38 (Elijah on Carmel); 2Ch 7:1 (dedication of the temple). fire. Lightning.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:27–22:1 Unique to 1Ch. The Chronicler notes that though David was not the builder of the temple, he is, in fact, responsible for everything about the temple, even its site.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:29 Gibeon. See color map 1.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:18–22:1 See application note, 2Sm 24.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:2–29:30 David organizes the temple (chs 23–26) and governmental personnel (ch 27). His actions are encased in two speeches regarding his son's succession to the throne and role as builder of the temple: a private speech to Solomon and the leaders of Israel (ch 22), and a public charge to Solomon preceding David's death (chs 28–29). In this way, the legitimacy of both the temple and the Davidic line is maintained.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:2–5 David is the one who gathered the laborers and materials that would be used in building the temple (cf vv 14–16). Stone, iron, bronze, and cedar were gathered in immense quantities. Some of the bronze had been taken as war booty in David's victory over Zobah (cf 18:7–8).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:2 resident aliens. For David's stockpiling program, he recruited non-Israelites, who were forced to work in labor gangs (2Ch 8:7–8). See p 101.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:5 young and inexperienced. Solomon does not let youth or naivete keep him from being a model king. In 2Ch 13:7, Rehoboam's youth and inexperience split the kingdom. must be exceedingly magnificent. David wanted God's house to attract the interest of the nations.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:2–5 Though the Lord does not let David build the temple, He allows him to make preparations so that Solomon can accomplish the goal. The heavenly Father calls on earthly fathers to care for and support their children. This is especially important in matters of faith (cf Dt 6:7–9), of which the building of the temple is an excellent example. As the Lord calls fathers to this work, He strengthens and sustains them through the work of His Son and His Spirit, working and building together as a family. • Lord, grant peaceful labor and cooperation within our families so that we may accomplish Your purposes. Amen.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:6–16 David's private charge to Solomon.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:6 charged him. David matched the liberality of his financial contributions to the temple (21:1–22:5) with the sincerity of moral support, even though he was not permitted to undertake the project. He laid the unfinished business on Solomon's heart (vv 6–16) and urged "all the leaders of Israel to help Solomon his son" (v 17).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:8 David was a bloodied warrior, which explains the Lord's word through Nathan the prophet (17:1–15). Solomon also states David was too preoccupied with war to build the temple (1Ki 5:3). Although the Lord ordered the conquest, had granted David numerous victories in war, and is even described as a warrior and avenger in Scripture, here He desires a man of peace to build His temple on earth. When considering the Lord's character and actions, we must always keep in mind His two ways with humankind: the Law (by which He punishes and condemns) and the Gospel (by which He forgives and comforts). The Lord shows that peace and comfort are His proper work. See note, Is 28:21. shed so much blood. Jerome: "The reference is not, as some think, to his wars, but to the murder [of Uriah]" (NPNF 2 6:363).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:9 man of rest. Or, "a calm man." The peace necessary for building the temple resulted from David's victories over the neighboring peoples (chs 18–20). Solomon. Hbr shelomoh, similar to shalom, "peace." Solomon will be a man of peace who, unlike David, will not engage in warfare. Unlike David, he will exact no vengeance (cf 1Ki 2:5–9).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:10 his father. See note, 28:6. establish … forever. Chem: "To David was given a particularly clear repetition of the promise [regarding Christ]" (LTh 2:458).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:13 Fear not; do not be dismayed. See note, 28:20.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:14 100,000 talents of gold. At the height of his glory, Solomon had an annual income of 666 talents of gold. David may be speaking here in figures that are meant to indicate large sums rather than totals based on actual calculations.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:17–18 David reminds the Israelite leaders that it is through the Lord that the land has been subdued.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:19 seek. See p 843. holy vessels. Utensils and furnishings dedicated for use in the temple. See note, 1Ki 7:48.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:6–19 David tells Solomon to build the temple, affirming that the Lord will be with him in this task. We also commend our children to the Lord's care, praying for them daily and wisely entrusting them with service to the Lord, their family, and their nation. Our success and our future is with the Lord. He entrusted the work of our salvation to His beloved Son, who in turn commended the temple of His body and His spirit into the Father's hands (Lk 23:46), that we might be cleansed by His blood and reign with Him in the resurrection. • O Jesus, grant such trust and sharing in our families! Be with us, and keep us by Your grace. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Chs 23–26 Having made Solomon his co-regent, David convened a national assembly at which he organized the temple officiants to assure orderly and regular worship services. The descendants of Levi who were not of the priestly line of Aaron were divided into four groups of varying size, each to function in a different capacity (23:2–6).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:1 David was old. At the end of his life, David had done everything to advance the building of the temple, short of its actual construction. He supported the project financially (21:1– 22:5) and morally (22:6–19). made Solomon his son king. All the assembly will confirm him as king in 29:22b.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:2–32 Unique to 1Ch, with three major sections: vv 2–5, categories of positions and numbers for each; vv 6–27, divisions according to the sons of Levi; and vv 28–32, a catalog of Levitical duties. Solomon would implement the duties that David had established. See the listing of postexilic Levitical duties in 9:10–33. See also Levi's genealogy, ch 6.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:3 thirty years old and upward. Conforms to the standard of the initial Mosaic census (Nu 4:1–3), but which Moses later lowered to age 25 (Nu 8:23–24). David lowers the age even further, to 20 years old (1Ch 23:24–27). the total. When "David assembled all Israel … to bring up the ark," the number of participating Levites was 862 (15:1–10; cf Nu 3:39).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:6 Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. See genealogy, 6:16–20. The Levites receive special attention here because of their integral role at the temple alongside the priests. Ezra gave the Levites special attention because they were so few in number among those who returned from the exile. See note, Ezr 2:40.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:7–23 Members of the three branches of Levi's descendants (6:1) received assignments: Gershon (vv 7–11), Kohath (vv 12–20), Merari (vv 21–23). Their list is supplemented in 24:20–31.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:24 twenty years. Levites began to minister at age 30 (v 3; see note, Nu 4:3). "By the last words of David" (v 27), they were to be registered for service at age 20.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:27 last words. Statement of David's will.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:28 cleansing. See p 6.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:30 morning … evening. Under Mosaic Law, the sons of Aaron offered daily sacrifices both in the morning and at twilight (Ex 29:38–41; Nu 28:3–8). David modeled the order of the temple upon the Law given through Moses.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:32 Though both the priests and the serving Levites were descendants of Levi and thus brothers, one familial grouping served as priests, and the others served as assistants to the priests. In the household of faith, God has established differing roles according to

His design, yet all are one as sons and daughters of God. Service in one role or another does not and cannot imply superiority or inferiority.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 23 David organizes the Levites for service at Jerusalem because they have earlier been spread throughout the tribes. Throughout Scripture, we see the importance of organized worship services, which God still expects of us today. Although congregations are imperfect because they are composed of sinners, the Lord has still entrusted to them His precious Word and Sacraments for the sake of our forgiveness through the Gospel. Treasure your congregation as the site from which the Lord has promised to bless you. • O Lord, bless my congregation with unity and peace, so that the Gospel may be taught in its purity and the Sacraments administered according to Christ's institution. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:1–19 David organizes the priests before continuing with the ordinances for the other three groups of Levites (described in chs 25–26). David divided the descendants of Aaron's sons Eleazar and Ithamar into 24 courses, or work shifts, in order to provide for uninterrupted performance of the prescribed rituals. Each group would be on duty for about two weeks each year.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:1–5 Lists Aaron's sons and explains why the priestly divisions are based on only Eleazar and Ithamar. Familiarity with the unseemly history of the other sons, Nadab and Abihu, and their early death (Lv 10:1–3) is assumed. Of the 24 divisions established, 8 were from the smaller family of Ithamar and 16 from the large clan of Eleazar. This established the two-week-long annual periods of service for each division.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:3 Zadok … Ahimelech. See notes, 16:39; 18:16.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:5 lot. See note, Jsh 14:2. sacred officers. High priest and leading priestly families (cf "officers" and "princes" in 2Ch 36:14; Is 43:28). officers of God. Perhaps synonym or term specific to high priests. See also p 228.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:6–18 Lots having been drawn (v 5), the 24 divisions of priests are named and numbered.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:6 scribe … recorded. The Chronicler reveals one of his sources.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:10 Abijah. From this division would come the priest Zechariah, father of John the Baptist (Lk 1:5).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:19 The families served in rotation. A vital fact is asserted here: these divisions ministered according to the pattern Aaron established, as the Lord had commanded him. The ministry of the OT, like that of the NT, had its origins not in human decision or organization skill but in divine decree. Temple personnel held offices from God.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:20–31 List of additional Levites, an extension or supplement of those listed in 23:6–24. Through the casting of lots, each was placed into the various offices, just as the Aaronites had been (v 5) and the musicians (25:1–8) and gatekeepers (26:12–13) would be.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:20 the rest. Entries not fully included in the previous catalog (23:7–23). Some names are repeated from there in altered form.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:31 cast lots. See note, Jsh 14:2.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 24 David organizes the Levites according to God's Law. Though the Lord may specially and directly call an individual, in most cases, He establishes the offices of His kingdom through the commands and promises of the Word, as affirmed by the congregations. Today, regard faithful pastors with the full respect due their calling, and also show respect to those who assist and serve with them. God has established the ministry for your faithful instruction and blessing. • Dear Jesus, call faithful servants into the work of Your Church that I may receive the blessings You have ordained in the communion of saints. Amen.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 25 David organizes the musicians of the temple from among the Levitical families of Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun. Cf 6:31–48; 15:16–24; 16:4–7, 37–42; 23:5. The use of music in the temple was vital for the praise and prayer of God's people. After supplying the priests with assistants (23:7–32; 24:20–31), David ordered staffs of musicians and singers to be regularly on hand for service in the temple. These were set apart into 24 choruses or ensembles. Each of these was made up of 12 individuals, for a total of 288 persons (vv 1–8). Every unit, constituted by lot, had members from the three musical families. The order in which they were chosen determined also the sequence in which they were to perform their duty in the temple (vv 9–31). Bach: "This chapter is the true foundation of all God-pleasing church music" (JSBS, p 93).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:1 chiefs of the service. David consulted with the commanders of the army before setting apart the musicians. The use of musicians in warfare plays a major role not only in Israel (cf Jgs 7:19–25; 2Ch 20:20–22) but also in the broader ancient Near East. set apart. See p 7. prophesied. Singing "thanksgiving and praise to the LORD" with musical accompaniment had much in common with proclamation of the prophetic word (v 3). Zechariah, the son of Jehoiada the priest, prophesied (2Ch 24:20); the Levite Jahaziel functioned as a battle prophet (2Ch 20:14–17); and Heman (v 5), Asaph (2Ch 29:30), and Jeduthun (2Ch 35:15) are referred to as seers. In 1Ch, it is David who establishes temple musicians with duties involving prophecy. The institution of prophecy is thus closely connected not only with David but also with the the faithful practice of the divinely established worship practices. lyres … harps … cymbals. See p 993.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:2 prophesied under the direction of the king. David's concern for music, while certainly connected to his own interests and role as a musician, is reflective of the intimate connection not only between kingship and priesthood but also the prophetic office. The OT offices of prophet, priest, and king shaped the threefold office of David's Seed, Jesus the Messiah.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:4 Hananiah … Mahazioth. When rearranged and slightly altered in form, these nine names constitute the words of a short hymn. Hananiah, e.g., means "Lord, have mercy." The sons of Heman are also in the longer list in vv 9–31.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:5 seer. Synonym for "prophet."

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:8 teacher and pupil. Implies a formal education or apprenticeship in music. See note, Pr 1:8.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:9–31 The Chronicler records the divisions of the Levitical musicians in a manner parallel to the divisions of priests in 24:1–18.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:9 first lot. Cf 24:7, 31; see note, Jsh 14:2.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 25 David organizes the musicians of the temple as prophets. The Lord calls church musicians to know and handle His Word rightly for the benefit of the hearers. The Lord speaks through them for our admonition and encouragement. How great a blessing is God's life-giving Word in melody and chant! • Bless our ears, O Lord, that our eyes may see, that our mouths may say, and that our hands may do what is worthy of Your Gospel. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:1–19 Unique to 1Ch. Provides a genealogical list (vv 1–11) and a listing of the duties of the gatekeepers (vv 12–19).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:1 gatekeepers. A total of 93 men, recruited from two branches of the Levitical families (vv 1–11; cf 16:38, where as many as 68 guards/watchmen were put on duty after the transfer of the ark to Jerusalem). Kore … Asaph. On the basis of 6:23 and 9:19, the name Asaph, son of Kore, is a variant of the name Ebiasaph and distinguished from Asaph the musician.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:4 Obed-edom. Caretaker of the ark of the covenant (13:13–14).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:5 blessed. See p 842.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:10 made him chief. Lit, "made him head." The firstborn typically, though not necessarily, became head of the family. See p 228.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:12–13 Like the priests (24:1–18) and the musicians (25:9–31), the gatekeepers are chosen by lots. See note, Jsh 14:2.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:12 divisions. Based on the gates and posts to which each of the working units was assigned (east, north, the gatehouse, west [gate of Shallecheth], and the colonnade; vv 12–19).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:16 Shallecheth. Unknown other than here. May refer to Hbr word for "chamber room."

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:1–19 David provides for the protection of the sanctuary and for those who go in and out of its gates. Today, congregations appoint ushers for greeting and guiding people at churches. This is important service, ensuring good order at worship and guiding people into the hearing of God's life-giving Word. • O Lord, provide all manner of faithful servants for the work of Your kingdom. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:20–28 Postexilic account (9:26–28) had already noted the continuing use of Levites in custody of the temple treasury. Treasure included material David dedicated through the plunder of war (cf 18:7; 20:1–3) as well as the material Samuel, Saul, Abner, and Joab gathered. The temple treasury likely also served as an archive (cf 2Ki 22:8–10; 1Macc 14:48–49), though royal archives were also kept in later years (cf Jer 36:12, 20). The king of Israel and other citizens might have copies of books of Scripture (Dt 17:18; 1Macc 1:54–57). The Copper Scroll from Qumran (3Q15) lists manuscripts along with other treasures that the Qumran community hid during a time of persecution, which illustrates how precious manuscripts were.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:20 treasuries. Cf Ex 30:11–16; Lv 27; Nu 18:15–16; 2Ki 12:4, 18 for more about the contributions that flowed into these treasuries.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:24 Moses' family received the powerful responsibility of handling the vast temple finances.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:26 thousands … hundreds. See p 217.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:29–32 Other Levitical officers. 6,000 Levites were deployed to serve as "officers and judges" throughout Israel. Jehoshaphat undertook a similar procedure in his judicial reforms when he sent, among others, priests and Levites to serve as judges (2Ch 19:4–11). See note about the Levites' burden as judges, Jsh 20:7–8.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:28 seer. See note, 1Sm 9:9.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:29 external duties. While not directly connected with the temple, these were necessary for its internal order and stability.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:30 Hebronites. See color map 3.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:31 Gilead. See color map 2.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:20–32 David entrusted many aspects of his rule to the Levites, who could teach and apply the Word in their services. God's Word applies to every aspect of life, every day of the week (see pp 775–78). No matter what your calling in life is, the Lord sanctifies that calling by His Word and prayer, making your work a sacred service. As a carpenter serving His earthly father, Joseph, Jesus sanctified the work of human hands. His labor on the cross sanctifies us wholly. • Merciful Jesus, grant me all diligence in my calling, no matter where You send me. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 27 David left Solomon a kingdom with other administrative features designed to let building and maintenance operations proceed smoothly: (1) he created a well-organized army, capable of warding off invasions from neighboring enemies (chs 18–20), should they renew their attacks (27:1–15); (2) he appointed local government officials, responsible to the crown (vv 16–24); (3) he made 12 stewards responsible for supervising the income from royal estates and livestock (vv 25–31); and (4) he created a small advisory council to assist the king in directing the administrative program (vv 32–34).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:1–15 There are 288,000 troops counted in this muster. They served one month per year per division of 24,000 men. The first commanders (Jashobeam, Dodai, Benaiah) were listed as David's mighty men in 11:10–25, and the rest were among the mighty men in 11:26–47; 2Sm 23:8–39.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:1 heads of fathers' houses. See note, Jsh 14:1. month after month. David's military system provided for a monthly rotation of duty for 12 divisions. Each of the 24 staffs of commanders of thousands and hundreds came on duty and went off duty month after month throughout the year; i.e., they reported for a month's tour of active duty.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:7 Asahel's successor is mentioned because Abner had slain Asahel during David's early reign in Hebron (2Sm 2:18–23).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:1–15 David establishes a comprehensive military program, by which the king could call up troops for service. Soldiers play an important role in any organized society, a role blessed by God when service is carried out according to His Word. God Himself has organized the angels as the armies of heaven to fight on your behalf and to deliver you according to the purposes of His saving mercy in Jesus. • Send forth Your hosts, O Lord, to defend Your Holy Church and so aid the proclamation of the Gospel. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:16–24 Chiefs of the 12 tribes of Israel. In the tribe of Levi, there was a special officer for the descendants of Aaron (v 17). Manasseh, divided by the Jordan, had an officer on the west and on the east sides of the river (vv 20–21). Asher and Gad are replaced here by the half-tribes of Manasseh and Ephraim (cf 2:1–2 and note).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:17 Aaron. See note, vv 16–24.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:22 leaders. Not the tribal elders, but military leaders.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:23–24 Reference to David's census (ch 21).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:23 twenty years. Age when Israelite young men were considered "able to go to war" (Nu 1:3). Lord had promised. Cf Gn 12:2; 15:5; 22:17.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:24 wrath came upon Israel. Reference to the uncompleted census with which "God was displeased" (21:6–7).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:25–34 Overseers of various kinds of property (vv 25–31) and David's personal advisers (vv 32–34).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:25 treasuries. Distinct from "the treasuries of the house of God" (26:20), these were the source of David's personal wealth, which was mainly plunder taken from defeated enemies (1Sm 30:20: 2Sm 8:6–8).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:28 sycamore trees. Trees bearing a figlike fruit, which the prophet Amos cultivated (Am 7:14).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:29 Sharon. See color map 2.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:32–34 counselor. List includes men such as Ahithophel and Hushai, who were members of David's inner circle of advisers already at the time of Absalom's rebellion (2Sm 17). Their names do not occur in a similar catalog of royal dignitaries preserved in 18:14–17 and 2Sm 20:23–26. See pp 775–78.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:32 attended the king's sons. Provided for their care and perhaps their education.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:33 friend. See note, 1Ki 4:5.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:16–34 David welcomes the service of tribal leaders and appoints the treasurers, farmers, herders, counselors, and military commanders of his reign. He wisely adapts the older tribal system for the purposes of forming a united nation under the king's central authority. As the Lord granted David wisdom to pursue his calling, He will grant you wisdom for your calling. Like David, listen to the wisdom of your family and counselors, but consider all things in view of God's Word. Through the Word, the Lord saves you from sin and from foolish error in your service. • O Lord, my calling is too great for me to manage by my own reason and strength. Grant me Your wisdom and counsel. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Chs 28–29 David's final speech, when Solomon is publicly anointed as king (29:22–25). With the temple construction secure and the transfer of power complete, David dies (29:26–30).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:1 assembled … the officials. The Chronicler inserted a digest of chs 23–27 to explain who these officials were, what their duties were, and how they were organized into working units. thousands … hundreds. See p 217.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:2–8 David's address to the officials of Israel is a public confirmation of his private words to Solomon in ch 22. David desired to build the temple but was forbidden to do so because he was a warrior (vv 2–3; cf 22:7–8). From Judah, God chose David; from David, God has chosen Solomon (vv 4–7; cf 17:7–15; 22:9–10).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:6 his father. The title "father" is rare for God in the OT. See note, Mt 6:9.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:7 kingdom forever. See note, 2Sm 7:13.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:1–8 David announces that the Lord chose Solomon as the future king. When the Lord chooses and calls someone, He likewise equips them for that calling. You, too, are called, chosen, and equipped by God for service in His kingdom. Honor His calling with fruitful works of service. He called and chose you in the merciful, loving service of Jesus, who paid for your sins and declared you a child of the eternal Father through Baptism in His name. • Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name, Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven; give us this day our daily bread; and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us; and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the kingdom and the power and the glory forever and ever. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:9–10 David's words to Solomon (part 1). Solomon is now publicly charged with the duty to serve the Lord (cf 22:11–13).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:9 know. See p 7. seek. See p 843. forsake. Key concept in theological vocabulary of 1 and 2Ch, the term is used elsewhere for irregular worship (2Ch 12:5; 13:10–11; 21:10–11; 28:6; 29:6) or the worship of foreign gods (2Ch 7:19, 22; 24:18; 34:25).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:11–19 Divinely inspired temple plans. David states that he received these "in writing," thereby equating the origin of these plans with the Mosaic Law that God had written (Ex 34:1). Because David had required both the assembly and Solomon to pledge to follow every command of God (vv 8–9), these temple plans were commands from God Himself. For the description of the temple as Solomon built and furnished it, see notes, 1Ki 6–7.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:12 had in mind. Refers to all that the Spirit had given David.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:15 each lampstand. There were 10 such lampstands (1Ki 7:49).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:18 golden chariot of the cherubim. Lit, "golden the chariot, the cherubim." The second noun (cherubim) explains that God is pictured as moving about on these angels as on a chariot (see note, Ps 18:10). See p 495.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:19 All this. The works of this pattern. clear to me. Ironically, the pronoun ("me") is unclear, perhaps due to scribal omission of a letter, but it seems to refer to Solomon.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:20–21 David's words to Solomon (part 2). David's last recorded words to his son and heir.
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:20 Be strong. After handing the plan to Solomon, David encouraged him to execute it. Cf Jsh 1:6. Do not be afraid. Common in the OT, esp in the patriarchal days: Gn 15:1 (Abram); 21:17 (Hagar); 26:24 (Isaac); 46:3 (Jacob). David also uses this phrase with Solomon in 22:13. It also appears in later warfare accounts (2Ch 20:15–17; 32:7).
1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:21 Bach: "Splendid proof that, besides other arrangements of the service of worship, music too was instituted by the Spirit of God through David" (JSBS, p 95). Calov: "Now it is clear from this divine example and all the prophetic institutions of David that he did nothing on his own initiative in connection with the building of the temple and arranging the service but that he in all things acted according to the plan which the Lord through His Spirit communicated to him and according to those institutions and offices, exactly as the Lord God had instructed his heart. For we serve God in vain when we insist on our will and on services we dream up ourselves, Matt. 15:9. God prescribes, outlines, encircles, and shows us all things and therefore reveals His will,

how He wishes to be honored by us. Therefore in matters of religion we should not plan and do anything without His revealed Word. Use this as a warning against human deception, self-chosen worship, and man-made rules. Similarly, it is contrary to the arrogance and haughtiness of the papists who raise themselves above Scripture" (JSBS, p 95).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:9–21 David receives the plans for the temple from God and carefully passes them on to Solomon, his heir. God still calls parents to hear Him through Holy Scripture and to pass these words and duties along to their heirs. How rich is our inheritance through the Word, which consecrates us as co-heirs with Christ and as the temple of the living God. • Hallowed Father, make me holy by the blood of Your Son, that I may inherit the riches of Your grace and the gift of Your Spirit. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:1–20 David's words before the assembly. These words conclude the final speech of David begun in 28:1 (see note, chs 28–29). Three parts comprise this section: David's words to the assembly (vv 1–5); the assembly's response (vv 6–9); David's prayer before the assembly (vv 10–20).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:1–5 David returns to the themes of his private speech to Solomon in ch 22. In conclusion, he appeals for contributions, perhaps in order that the temple not be seen as David's personal monument, but as the temple of all Israel.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:1 palace. The temple.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:2–5 Still in the presence of "all the assembly," David gave additional financial aid to the building of the temple. He supplemented the contributions from other sources (22:3–5) with a huge personal gift and encouraged others to do likewise.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:4 Ophir. Location unknown.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:6–9 Gifts of the assembly. In response to David's speech, people give generously. Gifts of gold equaled c 188 tons; silver, c 375 tons; bronze, c 675 tons; and iron, c 3,750 tons.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:6 freewill offerings. See note, Ex 35:29.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:7 darics. Persian gold coins. Part of the sum the leaders supplied is computed in coinage that was current when Chronicles was composed.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:9 Note the joy of the people at giving willingly and freely. Stewardship of God's gifts is not a matter of coercion, but rather of a willing spirit in response to the Lord's goodness.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:1–9 David leads Israel in giving by setting an example of generosity for the Lord's work. Everything you have comes from God's bountiful goodness; therefore, give generously to the work of His Church and set a good example for those under your care. The Lord gives Himself to you with a whole heart and would not withhold His only-begotten Son. • Bless me, O Lord, that I may bless and freely give all honor to Your saving name. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:10–20 David's prayer before the assembly. Note the consistent use of the first-person plural (we, us, our). This is not a private prayer from David, but the prayer of the assembled community. Themes of David's other prayers come forward in these final words of the anointed king (cf 16:7–36; 17:16–27). David praises God's "glorious name" (vv 10–13) in words of adoration resembling the closing doxology of the prayer we call the "Our Father." At the close of a remarkable life, David gives all the glory to the Lord of Israel alone and commits his people to the Lord's care.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:10 blessed the LORD. See p 842. Wholehearted response of the assembly to David's proposals moved him to turn to God in prayer (vv 10–19), then to ask those present to join him in grateful worship (vv 20–21a). Israel our father, forever and ever. Or, "Israel, our Father forever and ever," referring to God as Father.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:14 A foundational principle of God's generosity, which inspires our generosity and our trust that the Lord will continue to supply our needs even as we give up what we have.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:15 strangers … sojourners. Harking back to the tents of the patriarchs. no abiding. Humanly speaking, there is no escaping death.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:17 test. See note, Gn 22:1. uprightness. See note, Jb 1:1.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:18 keep forever. David's plea would be answered by the Lord's patience with Israel and Judah, but the everlasting kingdom could be established only through Christ.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:19 a whole heart. Wordplay; "whole" (Hbr shalem) sounds like "Solomon." Both stem from the term for "peace" or "completeness." commandments … testimonies … statutes. See p 971. palace. The temple.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:20 Bless the Lord your God. See p 842. bowed their heads. See p 1276.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:22–25 Coronation of Solomon. In 23:1, David declared Solomon king, but now Solomon becomes king through the acclamation of all Israel (cf 11:1–3, David's coronation). There is a seamless transition between David and Solomon. In this account, Solomon ascends to the throne without the resistance he faced in the account of his accession in 1Ki 1–2. He continues and raises to new heights the golden age begun through his father. In very real ways, the son is to be understood as being greater than the father. In other words, the second (i.e., Solomon) fulfills all that was present though hidden in the first (i.e., David). All future kings until the exile would be compared to the standards of David and Solomon. All would fall short. Certain kings brought periods of faithfulness and prosperity. Others brought a symbolic unity of all Israel through their reforms, though the kingdom was never politically reunited after Rehoboam's reign. Even the best kings of Judah, however, exhibited personal failures. Further, they engaged in warfare like David, albeit victorious warfare. None exhibited the peaceful prosperity achieved by Solomon.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:21–22 Coronation feast. See note, 12:38–40. Close connection between king and temple is again brought forward through the joint anointing of Solomon as king and Zadok as high priest. The great and final son of David (Jesus Christ) is both King and High Priest. His coronation on the Last Day will be a celebration, not only of all Israel, but of all creation.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:22 before the Lord. See "presence," p 843. the second time. Solomon's ultimate coronation (vv 22b–24) is recorded without relating the struggle for the throne (1Ki 1–2).

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:10–25 David, the king, acts like a priest by leading the assembly of Israel's leaders in prayer. God calls all leaders to be examples in faith for those they lead. As you conclude the Lord's Prayer each day (cf vv 10–11), keep David's example in mind and humble yourself before the King of heaven. He reigns on your behalf to bless and strengthen you by the grace of His Son, Jesus. • O Jesus, beloved Son, wiser than Solomon, make me a faithful leader and example to all who serve in Your eternal kingdom. Amen.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:26–28 David's long life, riches, and honor are all marks of divine favor, as David often acknowledged.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:27 Hebron. See color map 1.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:29 Chronicles of Samuel … of Nathan … of Gad. The Chronicler is careful to assert that his accounts are not his creative fiction but come from historical annals. Though the Chronicler records only selections about David's life, he provides his sources by which further details may be known. He does not cover up the weaknesses in David's history, but composes theological descriptions focused on the Lord's blessings to and through David. The description of sources here could indicate that Nathan and Gad completed the Books of Samuel. See pp 431–32.

1 AND 2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:26–30 See application note, 1Ki 2:10–12.

Solomon Worships at Gibeon

1 [1]‡‡†Solomon the son of David established himself in his kingdom, and the Lord his God was with him and made him exceedingly great.
[2]†Solomon spoke to all Israel, to the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, to the judges, and to all the leaders in all Israel, the heads of fathers' houses. [3]†And Solomon, and all the assembly with him, went to the high place that was at Gibeon, for the tent of meeting of God, which Moses the servant of the Lord had made in the wilderness, was there. [4](But David had brought up the ark of God from Kiriath-jearim to the place that David had prepared for it, for he had pitched a tent for it in Jerusalem.) [5]†Moreover, the bronze altar that Bezalel the son of Uri, son of Hur, had made, was there before the tabernacle of the Lord. And Solomon and the assembly sought it[1] out. [6]†And Solomon went up there to the bronze altar before the Lord, which was at the tent of meeting, and offered a thousand burnt offerings on it.

Solomon Prays for Wisdom

7 ‡‡‡In that night God appeared to Solomon, and said to him, “Ask what I shall give you.” 8 †And Solomon said to God, “You have shown great and steadfast love to David my father, and have made me king in his place. 9 †O Lord God, let your word to David my father be now fulfilled, for you have made me king over a people as numerous as the dust of the earth. 10 †Give me now wisdom and knowledge to go out and come in before this people, for who can govern this people of yours, which is so great?” 11 ‡ God answered Solomon, “Because this was in your heart, and you have not asked possessions, wealth, honor, or the life of those who hate you, and have not even asked long life, but have asked wisdom and knowledge for yourself that you may govern my people over whom I have made you king, 12 wisdom and knowledge are granted to you. I will also give you riches, possessions, and honor, such as none of the kings had who were before you, and none after you shall have the like.” 13 †So Solomon came from[1] the high place at Gibeon, from before the tent of meeting, to Jerusalem. And he reigned over Israel.

Solomon Given Wealth

14 ‡ ‡ Solomon gathered together chariots and horsemen. He had 1,400 chariots and 12,000 horsemen, whom he stationed in the chariot cities and with the king in Jerusalem. 15 And the king made silver and gold as common in Jerusalem as stone, and he made cedar as plentiful as the sycamore of the Shephelah. 16 And Solomon's import of horses was from Egypt and Kue, and the king's traders would buy them from Kue for a price. 17 They imported a chariot from Egypt for 600 shekels[2] of silver, and a horse for 150.
Likewise through them these were exported to all the kings of the Hittites and the kings of Syria.

Preparing to Build the Temple

2 [1]† [3] Now Solomon purposed to build a temple for the name of the Lord, and a royal palace for himself. [2]† [4] And Solomon assigned 70,000 men to bear burdens and 80,000 to quarry in the hill country, and 3,600 to oversee them. [3]‡ † And Solomon sent word to Hiram the king of Tyre: "As you dealt with David my father and sent him cedar to build himself a house to dwell in, so deal with me. [4]† Behold, I am about to build a house for the name of the Lord my God and dedicate it to him for the burning of incense of sweet spices before him, and for the regular arrangement of the showbread, and for burnt offerings morning and evening, on the Sabbaths and the new moons and the appointed feasts of the Lord our God, as ordained forever for Israel. [5]The house that I am to build will be great, for our God is greater than all gods. [6]But who is able to build him a house, since heaven, even highest heaven, cannot contain him? Who am I to build a house for him, except as a place to make offerings before him? [7]So now send me a man skilled to work in gold, silver, bronze, and iron, and in purple, crimson, and blue fabrics, trained also in engraving, to be with the skilled workers who are with me in Judah and Jerusalem, whom David my father provided. [8]† Send me also cedar, cypress, and algum timber from Lebanon, for I know that your servants know how to cut timber in Lebanon. And my servants will be with your servants, [9]to prepare timber for me in abundance, for the house I am to build will be great and wonderful. [10]I will give for your servants, the woodsmen who cut timber, 20,000 cors[5] of crushed wheat, 20,000 cors of barley, 20,000 baths[6] of wine, and 20,000 baths of oil."

[11]‡ ‡ Then Hiram the king of Tyre answered in a letter that he sent to Solomon, "Because the Lord loves his people, he has made you king over them." [12]Hiram also said, "Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, who made heaven and earth, who has given King David a wise son, who has discretion and understanding, who will build a temple for the Lord and a royal palace for himself.

[13]† “Now I have sent a skilled man, who has understanding, Huram-abi, [14]† the son of a woman of the daughters of Dan, and his father was a man of Tyre. He is trained to work in gold, silver, bronze, iron, stone, and wood, and in purple, blue, and crimson fabrics and fine linen, and to do all sorts of engraving and execute any design that may be assigned him, with your craftsmen, the craftsmen of my lord, David your father. [15]Now therefore the wheat and barley, oil and wine, of which my lord has spoken, let him send to his servants. [16]And we will cut whatever timber you need from Lebanon and bring it to you in rafts by sea to Joppa, so that you may take it up to Jerusalem.”

[17]†† Then Solomon counted all the resident aliens who were in the land of Israel, after the census of them that David his father had taken, and there were found 153,600. [18]Seventy thousand of them he assigned to bear burdens, 80,000 to quarry in the hill country, and 3,600 as overseers to make the people work.

Solomon Builds the Temple

3 [1] ‡ ‡ † Then Solomon began to build the house of the Lord in Jerusalem on Mount Moriah, where the Lord [1] had appeared to David his father, at the place that David had appointed, on the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite. [2] † He began to build in the second month of the fourth year of his reign. [3] † These are Solomon's measurements[2] for building the house of God: the length, in cubits[3] of the old standard, was sixty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits. [4] † The vestibule in front of the nave of the house was twenty cubits long, equal to the width of the house,[4] and its height was 120 cubits. He overlaid it on the inside with pure gold. [5] ‡ † The nave he lined with cypress and covered it with fine gold and made palms and chains on it. [6] † He adorned the house with settings of precious stones. The gold was gold of Parvaim. [7] † So he lined the house with gold—its beams, its thresholds, its walls, and its doors—and he carved cherubim on the walls.

[8] And he made the Most Holy Place. Its length, corresponding to the breadth of the house, was twenty cubits, and its breadth was twenty cubits. He overlaid it with 600 talents[5] of fine gold. [9] † The weight of gold for the nails was fifty shekels.[6] And he overlaid the upper chambers with gold.

[10] ‡ In the Most Holy Place he made two cherubim of wood[7] and overlaid[8] them with gold. [11] The wings of the cherubim together extended twenty cubits: one wing of the one, of five cubits, touched the wall of the house, and its other wing, of five cubits, touched the wing of the other cherub; [12] and of this cherub, one wing, of five cubits, touched the wall of the house, and the other wing, also of five cubits, was joined to the wing of the first cherub. [13] The wings of these cherubim extended twenty cubits. The cherubim[9] stood on their feet, facing the nave. [14] † And he made the veil of blue and purple and crimson fabrics and fine linen, and he worked cherubim on it.

[15] ‡ † In front of the house he made two pillars thirty-five cubits high, with a capital of five cubits on the top of each. [16] He made chains like a necklace[10] and put them on the tops of the pillars, and he made a hundred pomegranates and put them on the chains. [17]†He set up the pillars in front of the temple, one on the south, the other on the north; that on the south he called Jachin, and that on the north Boaz.

The Temple's Furnishings

4 [1]‡†He made an altar of bronze, twenty cubits[1] long and twenty cubits wide and ten cubits high. [2]Then he made the sea of cast metal. It was round, ten cubits from brim to brim, and five cubits high, and a line of thirty cubits measured its circumference. [3]†Under it were figures of gourds,[2] for ten cubits, compassing the sea all around. The gourds were in two rows, cast with it when it was cast. [4]†It stood on twelve oxen, three facing north, three facing west, three facing south, and three facing east. The sea was set on them, and all their rear parts were inward. [5]† Its thickness was a handbreadth.[3] And its brim was made like the brim of a cup, like the flower of a lily. It held 3,000 baths.[4] [6]†He also made ten basins in which to wash, and set five on the south side, and five on the north side. In these they were to rinse off what was used for the burnt offering, and the sea was for the priests to wash in.

[7]‡†And he made ten golden lampstands as prescribed, and set them in the temple, five on the south side and five on the north. [8]†He also made ten tables and placed them in the temple, five on the south side and five on the north. And he made a hundred basins of gold. [9]†He made the court of the priests and the great court and doors for the court and overlaid their doors with bronze. [10]And he set the sea at the southeast corner of the house.

[11]‡†Hiram also made the pots, the shovels, and the basins. So Hiram finished the work that he did for King Solomon on the house of God: [12]the two pillars, the bowls, and the two capitals on the top of the pillars; and the two latticeworks to cover the two bowls of the capitals that were on the top of the pillars; [13]and the 400 pomegranates for the two latticeworks, two rows of pomegranates for each latticework, to cover the two bowls of the capitals that were on the pillars. [14]He made the stands also, and the basins on the stands, [15]and the one sea, and the twelve oxen underneath it. [16]†The pots, the shovels, the forks, and all the equipment for these Huram-abi made of burnished bronze for King Solomon for the house of the Lord. [17]‡†In the plain of the Jordan the king cast them, in the clay ground between Succoth and Zeredah.[5] 18 Solomon made all these things in great quantities, for the weight of the bronze was not sought.

19 † So Solomon made all the vessels that were in the house of God: the golden altar, the tables for the bread of the Presence, 20 † the lampstands and their lamps of pure gold to burn before the inner sanctuary, as prescribed; 21 † the flowers, the lamps, and the tongs, of purest gold; 22 the snuffers, basins, dishes for incense, and fire pans, of pure gold, and the sockets[6] of the temple, for the inner doors to the Most Holy Place and for the doors of the nave of the temple were of gold.

5 1 † Thus all the work that Solomon did for the house of the LORD was finished. And Solomon brought in the things that David his father had dedicated, and stored the silver, the gold, and all the vessels in the treasuries of the house of God.

The Ark Brought to the Temple

2 ‡ † Then Solomon assembled the elders of Israel and all the heads of the tribes, the leaders of the fathers' houses of the people of Israel, in Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of the Lord out of the city of David, which is Zion. 3 † And all the men of Israel assembled before the king at the feast that is in the seventh month. 4 ‡ And all the elders of Israel came, and the Levites took up the ark. 5 † And they brought up the ark, the tent of meeting, and all the holy vessels that were in the tent; the Levitical priests brought them up. 6 And King Solomon and all the congregation of Israel, who had assembled before him, were before the ark, sacrificing so many sheep and oxen that they could not be counted or numbered. 7 † Then the priests brought the ark of the covenant of the Lord to its place, in the inner sanctuary of the house, in the Most Holy Place, underneath the wings of the cherubim. 8 † The cherubim spread out their wings over the place of the ark, so that the cherubim made a covering above the ark and its poles. 9 † And the poles were so long that the ends of the poles were seen from the Holy Place before the inner sanctuary, but they could not be seen from outside. And they are[1] there to this day. 10 † There was nothing in the ark except the two tablets that Moses put there at Horeb, where the Lord made a covenant with the people of Israel, when they came out of Egypt. 11 ‡ † And when the priests came out of the Holy Place (for all the priests who were present had consecrated themselves, without regard to their divisions, 12 † and all the Levitical singers, Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, their sons and kinsmen, arrayed in fine linen, with cymbals, harps, and lyres, stood east of the altar with 120 priests who were trumpeters; 13 † and it was the duty of the trumpeters and singers to make themselves heard in unison in praise and thanksgiving to the Lord), and when the song was raised, with trumpets and cymbals and other musical instruments, in praise to the Lord,

> "For he is good,
> for his steadfast love endures forever,"

the house, the house of the Lord, was filled with a cloud, 14 † so that the priests could not stand to minister because of the cloud, for the glory of the LORD filled the house of God.

Solomon Blesses the People

6 [1]Then Solomon said, “The Lord has said that he would dwell in thick darkness. [2]But I have built you an exalted house, a place for you to dwell in forever.” [3]Then the king turned around and blessed all the assembly of Israel, while all the assembly of Israel stood. [4]And he said, “Blessed be the Lord, the God of Israel, who with his hand has fulfilled what he promised with his mouth to David my father, saying, [5]‘Since the day that I brought my people out of the land of Egypt, I chose no city out of all the tribes of Israel in which to build a house, that my name might be there, and I chose no man as prince over my people Israel; [6]but I have chosen Jerusalem that my name may be there, and I have chosen David to be over my people Israel.’ [7]Now it was in the heart of David my father to build a house for the name of the Lord, the God of Israel. [8]But the Lord said to David my father, ‘Whereas it was in your heart to build a house for my name, you did well that it was in your heart. [9]Nevertheless, it is not you who shall build the house, but your son who shall be born to you shall build the house for my name.’ [10]Now the Lord has fulfilled his promise that he made. For I have risen in the place of David my father and sit on the throne of Israel, as the Lord promised, and I have built the house for the name of the Lord, the God of Israel. [11]And there I have set the ark, in which is the covenant of the Lord that he made with the people of Israel.”

Solomon’s Prayer of Dedication

12 ‡† Then Solomon stood before the altar of the Lord in the presence of all the assembly of Israel and spread out his hands. 13 † Solomon had made a bronze platform five cubits[1] long, five cubits wide, and three cubits high, and had set it in the court, and he stood on it. Then he knelt on his knees in the presence of all the assembly of Israel, and spread out his hands toward heaven, 14 † and said, “O Lord, God of Israel, there is no God like you, in heaven or on earth, keeping covenant and showing steadfast love to your servants who walk before you with all their heart, 15 † who have kept with your servant David my father what you declared to him. You spoke with your mouth, and with your hand have fulfilled it this day. 16 † Now therefore, O Lord, God of Israel, keep for your servant David my father what you have promised him, saying, ‘You shall not lack a man to sit before me on the throne of Israel, if only your sons pay close attention to their way, to walk in my law as you have walked before me.’ 17 † Now therefore, O Lord, God of Israel, let your word be confirmed, which you have spoken to your servant David.

18 † “But will God indeed dwell with man on the earth? Behold, heaven and the highest heaven cannot contain you, how much less this house that I have built! 19 Yet have regard to the prayer of your servant and to his plea, O Lord my God, listening to the cry and to the prayer that your servant prays before you, 20 † that your eyes may be open day and night toward this house, the place where you have promised to set your name, that you may listen to the prayer that your servant offers toward this place. 21 † And listen to the pleas of your servant and of your people Israel, when they pray toward this place. And listen from heaven your dwelling place, and when you hear, forgive.

22 † “If a man sins against his neighbor and is made to take an oath and comes and swears his oath before your altar in this house, 23 then hear from heaven and act and judge your servants, repaying the guilty by bringing his conduct on his own head, and vindicating the righteous by rewarding him according to his righteousness.

24 ‡ “If your people Israel are defeated before the enemy because they have sinned against you, and they turn again and acknowledge your name and pray and plead with you in this house, 25 then hear from heaven and forgive the sin of your people Israel and bring them again to the land that you gave to them and to their fathers.
26 ‡ † “When heaven is shut up and there is no rain because they have sinned against you, if they pray toward this place and acknowledge your name and turn from their sin, when you afflict[1] them, 27 † then hear in heaven and forgive the sin of your servants, your people Israel, when you teach them the good way[2] in which they should walk, and grant rain upon your land, which you have given to your people as an inheritance.
28 “If there is famine in the land, if there is pestilence or blight or mildew or locust or caterpillar, if their enemies besiege them in the land at their gates, whatever plague, whatever sickness there is, 29 † whatever prayer, whatever plea is made by any man or by all your people Israel, each knowing his own affliction and his own sorrow and stretching out his hands toward this house, 30 † then hear from heaven your dwelling place and forgive and render to each whose heart you know, according to all his ways, for you, you only, know the hearts of the children of mankind, 31 † that they may fear you and walk in your ways all the days that they live in the land that you gave to our fathers.
32 ‡ † “Likewise, when a foreigner, who is not of your people Israel, comes from a far country for the sake of your great name and your mighty hand and your outstretched arm, when he comes and prays toward this house, 33 † hear from heaven your dwelling place and do according to all for which the foreigner calls to you, in order that all the peoples of the earth may know your name and fear you, as do your people Israel, and that they may know that this house that I have built is called by your name.
34 ‡ † “If your people go out to battle against their enemies, by whatever way you shall send them, and they pray to you toward this city that you have chosen and the house that I have built for your name, 35 then hear from heaven their prayer and their plea, and maintain their cause.
36 † “If they sin against you—for there is no one who does not sin—and you are angry with them and give them to an enemy, so that they are carried away captive to a land far or near, 37 † yet if they turn their heart in the land to which they have been carried captive, and repent and plead with you in the land of their captivity, saying, ‘We have sinned and have acted perversely and wickedly,’ [38]† if they repent with all their mind and with all their heart in the land of their captivity to which they were carried captive, and pray toward their land, which you gave to their fathers, the city that you have chosen and the house that I have built for your name, [39]† then hear from heaven your dwelling place their prayer and their pleas, and maintain their cause and forgive your people who have sinned against you. [40]Now, O my God, let your eyes be open and your ears attentive to the prayer of this place.

[41]†† “And now arise, O Lord God, and go to your resting place,
you and the ark of your might.
Let your priests, O Lord God, be clothed with salvation,
and let your saints rejoice in your goodness.
[42]† O Lord God, do not turn away the face of your anointed one!
Remember your steadfast love for David your servant.”

Fire from Heaven

7 [1]‡‡†As soon as Solomon finished his prayer, fire came down from heaven and consumed the burnt offering and the sacrifices, and the glory of the Lord filled the temple. [2]‡†And the priests could not enter the house of the Lord, because the glory of the Lord filled the Lord's house. [3]†When all the people of Israel saw the fire come down and the glory of the Lord on the temple, they bowed down with their faces to the ground on the pavement and worshiped and gave thanks to the Lord, saying, "For he is good, for his steadfast love endures forever."

The Dedication of the Temple

4 ‡ † Then the king and all the people offered sacrifice before the Lord.
5 King Solomon offered as a sacrifice 22,000 oxen and 120,000 sheep. So the king and all the people dedicated the house of God. 6 † The priests stood at their posts; the Levites also, with the instruments for music to the Lord that King David had made for giving thanks to the Lord—for his steadfast love endures forever—whenever David offered praises by their ministry;[1] opposite them the priests sounded trumpets, and all Israel stood.

7 † And Solomon consecrated the middle of the court that was before the house of the Lord, for there he offered the burnt offering and the fat of the peace offerings, because the bronze altar Solomon had made could not hold the burnt offering and the grain offering and the fat.

8 † At that time Solomon held the feast for seven days, and all Israel with him, a very great assembly, from Lebo-hamath to the Brook of Egypt.
9 † And on the eighth day they held a solemn assembly, for they had kept the dedication of the altar seven days and the feast seven days. 10 † On the twenty-third day of the seventh month he sent the people away to their homes, joyful and glad of heart for the prosperity that the Lord had granted to David and to Solomon and to Israel his people.

If My People Pray

11 ‡ Thus Solomon finished the house of the Lord and the king's house. All that Solomon had planned to do in the house of the Lord and in his own house he successfully accomplished. 12 ‡ † Then the Lord appeared to Solomon in the night and said to him: "I have heard your prayer and have chosen this place for myself as a house of sacrifice. 13 ‡ When I shut up the heavens so that there is no rain, or command the locust to devour the land, or send pestilence among my people, 14 † if my people who are called by my name humble themselves, and pray and seek my face and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven and will forgive their sin and heal their land. 15 † Now my eyes will be open and my ears attentive to the prayer that is made in this place. 16 † For now I have chosen and consecrated this house that my name may be there forever. My eyes and my heart will be there for all time. 17 ‡ ‡ And as for you, if you will walk before me as David your father walked, doing according to all that I have commanded you and keeping my statutes and my rules, 18 then I will establish your royal throne, as I covenanted with David your father, saying, 'You shall not lack a man to rule Israel.'

19 ‡ "But if you[1] turn aside and forsake my statutes and my commandments that I have set before you, and go and serve other gods and worship them, 20 then I will pluck you[2] up from my land that I have given you, and this house that I have consecrated for my name, I will cast out of my sight, and I will make it a proverb and a byword among all peoples.
21 And at this house, which was exalted, everyone passing by will be astonished and say, 'Why has the Lord done thus to this land and to this house?' 22 Then they will say, 'Because they abandoned the Lord, the God of their fathers who brought them out of the land of Egypt and laid hold on other gods and worshiped them and served them. Therefore he has brought all this disaster on them.'"

Solomon's Accomplishments

8 [1]At the end of twenty years, in which Solomon had built the house of the Lord and his own house, [2]†Solomon rebuilt the cities that Hiram had given to him, and settled the people of Israel in them.
[3]†And Solomon went to Hamath-zobah and took it. [4]†He built Tadmor in the wilderness and all the store cities that he built in Hamath. [5]‡He also built Upper Beth-horon and Lower Beth-horon, fortified cities with walls, gates, and bars, [6]and Baalath, and all the store cities that Solomon had and all the cities for his chariots and the cities for his horsemen, and whatever Solomon desired to build in Jerusalem, in Lebanon, and in all the land of his dominion. [7]‡All the people who were left of the Hittites, the Amorites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites, who were not of Israel, [8]from their descendants who were left after them in the land, whom the people of Israel had not destroyed—these Solomon drafted as forced labor, and so they are to this day. [9]†But of the people of Israel Solomon made no slaves for his work; they were soldiers, and his officers, the commanders of his chariots, and his horsemen. [10]†And these were the chief officers of King Solomon, 250, who exercised authority over the people.
[11]†Solomon brought Pharaoh's daughter up from the city of David to the house that he had built for her, for he said, "My wife shall not live in the house of David king of Israel, for the places to which the ark of the Lord has come are holy."
[12]†Then Solomon offered up burnt offerings to the Lord on the altar of the Lord that he had built before the vestibule, [13]‡† as the duty of each day required, offering according to the commandment of Moses for the Sabbaths, the new moons, and the three annual feasts—the Feast of Unleavened Bread, the Feast of Weeks, and the Feast of Booths.
[14]According to the ruling of David his father, he appointed the divisions of the priests for their service, and the Levites for their offices of praise and ministry before the priests as the duty of each day required, and the gatekeepers in their divisions at each gate, for so David the man of God had commanded. [15]And they did not turn aside from what the king had commanded the priests and Levites concerning any matter and concerning the treasuries.

16 Thus was accomplished all the work of Solomon from[1] the day the foundation of the house of the Lord was laid until it was finished. So the house of the Lord was completed.

17 ‡†Then Solomon went to Ezion-geber and Eloth on the shore of the sea, in the land of Edom. 18 †And Hiram sent to him by the hand of his servants ships and servants familiar with the sea, and they went to Ophir together with the servants of Solomon and brought from there 450 talents[2] of gold and brought it to King Solomon.

The Queen of Sheba

9 [1]‡‡†Now when the queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon, she came to Jerusalem to test him with hard questions, having a very great retinue and camels bearing spices and very much gold and precious stones.
And when she came to Solomon, she told him all that was on her mind.
[2]And Solomon answered all her questions. There was nothing hidden from Solomon that he could not explain to her. [3]†And when the queen of Sheba had seen the wisdom of Solomon, the house that he had built, [4]the food of his table, the seating of his officials, and the attendance of his servants, and their clothing, his cupbearers, and their clothing, and his burnt offerings that he offered at the house of the Lord, there was no more breath in her.

[5]And she said to the king, "The report was true that I heard in my own land of your words and of your wisdom, [6]but I did not believe the[3] reports until I came and my own eyes had seen it. And behold, half the greatness of your wisdom was not told me; you surpass the report that I heard. [7]Happy are your wives![4] Happy are these your servants, who continually stand before you and hear your wisdom! [8]†Blessed be the Lord your God, who has delighted in you and set you on his throne as king for the Lord your God! Because your God loved Israel and would establish them forever, he has made you king over them, that you may execute justice and righteousness." [9]†Then she gave the king 120 talents[5] of gold, and a very great quantity of spices, and precious stones. There were no spices such as those that the queen of Sheba gave to King Solomon.

[10]†Moreover, the servants of Hiram and the servants of Solomon, who brought gold from Ophir, brought algum wood and precious stones. [11]†And the king made from the algum wood supports for the house of the Lord and for the king's house, lyres also and harps for the singers. There never was seen the like of them before in the land of Judah.

[12]†And King Solomon gave to the queen of Sheba all that she desired, whatever she asked besides what she had brought to the king. So she turned and went back to her own land with her servants.

Solomon’s Wealth

13 ‡‡‡Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was 666 talents of gold, 14 †besides that which the explorers and merchants brought.
And all the kings of Arabia and the governors of the land brought gold and silver to Solomon. 15 King Solomon made 200 large shields of beaten gold; 600 shekels[1] of beaten gold went into each shield. 16 †And he made 300 shields of beaten gold; 300 shekels of gold went into each shield; and the king put them in the House of the Forest of Lebanon. 17 The king also made a great ivory throne and overlaid it with pure gold. 18 †The throne had six steps and a footstool of gold, which were attached to the throne, and on each side of the seat were armrests and two lions standing beside the armrests, 19 while twelve lions stood there, one on each end of a step on the six steps. Nothing like it was ever made for any kingdom. 20 All King Solomon’s drinking vessels were of gold, and all the vessels of the House of the Forest of Lebanon were of pure gold. Silver was not considered as anything in the days of Solomon. 21 †For the king’s ships went to Tarshish with the servants of Hiram. Once every three years the ships of Tarshish used to come bringing gold, silver, ivory, apes, and peacocks.[2]

22 †Thus King Solomon excelled all the kings of the earth in riches and in wisdom. 23 And all the kings of the earth sought the presence of Solomon to hear his wisdom, which God had put into his mind. 24 Every one of them brought his present, articles of silver and of gold, garments, myrrh, spices, horses, and mules, so much year by year. 25 And Solomon had 4,000 stalls for horses and chariots, and 12,000 horsemen, whom he stationed in the chariot cities and with the king in Jerusalem. 26 †And he ruled over all the kings from the Euphrates to the land of the Philistines and to the border of Egypt. 27 And the king made silver as common in Jerusalem as stone, and he made cedar as plentiful as the sycamore of the Shephelah. 28 And horses were imported for Solomon from Egypt and from all lands.

Solomon’s Death

[29]†††Now the rest of the acts of Solomon, from first to last, are they not written in the history of Nathan the prophet, and in the prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the visions of Iddo the seer concerning Jeroboam the son of Nebat? [30]Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel forty years. [31]†And Solomon slept with his fathers and was buried in the city of David his father, and Rehoboam his son reigned in his place.

The Revolt Against Rehoboam

10 [1] † Rehoboam went to Shechem, for all Israel had come to Shechem to make him king. [2]And as soon as Jeroboam the son of Nebat heard of it (for he was in Egypt, where he had fled from King Solomon), then Jeroboam returned from Egypt. [3]And they sent and called him. And Jeroboam and all Israel came and said to Rehoboam, [4]† "Your father made our yoke heavy. Now therefore lighten the hard service of your father and his heavy yoke on us, and we will serve you." [5]He said to them, "Come to me again in three days." So the people went away.

[6]†Then King Rehoboam took counsel with the old men,[1] who had stood before Solomon his father while he was yet alive, saying, "How do you advise me to answer this people?" [7]And they said to him, "If you will be good to this people and please them and speak good words to them, then they will be your servants forever." [8]But he abandoned the counsel that the old men gave him, and took counsel with the young men who had grown up with him and stood before him. [9]And he said to them, "What do you advise that we answer this people who have said to me, 'Lighten the yoke that your father put on us'?" [10]And the young men who had grown up with him said to him, "Thus shall you speak to the people who said to you, 'Your father made our yoke heavy, but you lighten it for us'; thus shall you say to them,
'My little finger is thicker than my father's thighs. [11]†And now, whereas my father laid on you a heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke. My father disciplined you with whips, but I will discipline you with scorpions.'"

[12]So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the third day, as the king said, "Come to me again the third day." [13]And the king answered them harshly; and forsaking the counsel of the old men, [14]King Rehoboam spoke to them according to the counsel of the young men, saying, "My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add to it. My father disciplined you with whips, but I will discipline you with scorpions." [15]So the king did not listen to the people, for it was a turn of affairs brought about by God that the Lord might fulfill his word, which he spoke by Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam
the son of Nebat.

16 †And when all Israel saw that the king did not listen to them, the people answered the king, “What portion have we in David? We have no inheritance in the son of Jesse. Each of you to your tents, O Israel! Look now to your own house, David.” So all Israel went to their tents. 17But Rehoboam reigned over the people of Israel who lived in the cities of Judah. 18 †Then King Rehoboam sent Hadoram,[2] who was taskmaster over the forced labor, and the people of Israel stoned him to death with stones.
And King Rehoboam quickly mounted his chariot to flee to Jerusalem.
19 †So Israel has been in rebellion against the house of David to this day.

Rehoboam Secures His Kingdom

11 [1]When Rehoboam came to Jerusalem, he assembled the house of Judah and Benjamin, 180,000 chosen warriors, to fight against Israel, to restore the kingdom to Rehoboam. [2]But the word of the Lord came to Shemaiah the man of God: [3]"Say to Rehoboam the son of Solomon, king of Judah, and to all Israel in Judah and Benjamin, [4]'Thus says the Lord, You shall not go up or fight against your relatives. Return every man to his home, for this thing is from me.'" So they listened to the word of the Lord and returned and did not go against Jeroboam.

[5]Rehoboam lived in Jerusalem, and he built cities for defense in Judah. [6]He built Bethlehem, Etam, Tekoa, [7]Beth-zur, Soco, Adullam, [8]Gath, Mareshah, Ziph, [9]Adoraim, Lachish, Azekah, [10]Zorah, Aijalon, and Hebron, fortified cities that are in Judah and in Benjamin. [11]He made the fortresses strong, and put commanders in them, and stores of food, oil, and wine. [12]And he put shields and spears in all the cities and made them very strong. So he held Judah and Benjamin.

Priests and Levites Come to Jerusalem

13 ‡ ‡ † And the priests and the Levites who were in all Israel presented themselves to him from all places where they lived. 14 † For the Levites left their common lands and their holdings and came to Judah and Jerusalem, because Jeroboam and his sons cast them out from serving as priests of the Lord, 15 † and he appointed his own priests for the high places and for the goat idols and for the calves that he had made. 16 † And those who had set their hearts to seek the Lord God of Israel came after them from all the tribes of Israel to Jerusalem to sacrifice to the Lord, the God of their fathers.
17 † They strengthened the kingdom of Judah, and for three years they made Rehoboam the son of Solomon secure, for they walked for three years in the way of David and Solomon.

Rehoboam’s Family

18 ‡‡‡Rehoboam took as wife Mahalath the daughter of Jerimoth the son of David, and of Abihail the daughter of Eliab the son of Jesse, 19 and she bore him sons, Jeush, Shemariah, and Zaham. 20 †After her he took Maacah
the daughter of Absalom, who bore him Abijah, Attai, Ziza, and Shelomith.
21 †Rehoboam loved Maacah the daughter of Absalom above all his wives and concubines (he took eighteen wives and sixty concubines, and fathered twenty-eight sons and sixty daughters). 22 †And Rehoboam appointed Abijah the son of Maacah as chief prince among his brothers, for he intended to make him king. 23 And he dealt wisely and distributed some of his sons through all the districts of Judah and Benjamin, in all the fortified cities, and he gave them abundant provisions and procured wives for them.[1]

Egypt Plunders Jerusalem

12 [1] ‡ † When the rule of Rehoboam was established and he was strong, he abandoned the law of the Lord, and all Israel with him. [2] † In the fifth year of King Rehoboam, because they had been unfaithful to the Lord, Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem [3] † with 1,200 chariots and 60,000 horsemen. And the people were without number who came with him from Egypt—Libyans, Sukkiim, and Ethiopians. [4] And he took the fortified cities of Judah and came as far as Jerusalem. [5] † Then Shemaiah the prophet came to Rehoboam and to the princes of Judah, who had gathered at Jerusalem because of Shishak, and said to them, "Thus says the Lord, 'You abandoned me, so I have abandoned you to the hand of Shishak.'" [6] † Then the princes of Israel and the king humbled themselves and said, "The Lord is righteous." [7] † When the Lord saw that they humbled themselves, the word of the Lord came to Shemaiah: "They have humbled themselves. I will not destroy them, but I will grant them some deliverance, and my wrath shall not be poured out on Jerusalem by the hand of Shishak. [8] † Nevertheless, they shall be servants to him, that they may know my service and the service of the kingdoms of the countries."

[9] † So Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem. He took away the treasures of the house of the Lord and the treasures of the king's house. He took away everything. He also took away the shields of gold that Solomon had made, [10] and King Rehoboam made in their place shields of bronze and committed them to the hands of the officers of the guard, who kept the door of the king's house. [11] And as often as the king went into the house of the Lord, the guard came and carried them and brought them back to the guardroom. [12] † And when he humbled himself the wrath of the Lord turned from him, so as not to make a complete destruction. Moreover, conditions were good[1] in Judah.

[13] ‡ † So King Rehoboam grew strong in Jerusalem and reigned. Rehoboam was forty-one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city that the Lord had chosen out of all the tribes of Israel to put his name there. His mother's name was Naamah the Ammonite.

14 † And he did evil, for he did not set his heart to seek the LORD.

15 † Now the acts of Rehoboam, from first to last, are they not written in the chronicles of Shemaiah the prophet and of Iddo the seer?[2] There were continual wars between Rehoboam and Jeroboam. 16 And Rehoboam slept with his fathers and was buried in the city of David, and Abijah[3] his son reigned in his place.

Abijah Reigns in Judah

13 [1]†In the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam, Abijah began to reign over Judah. [2]†He reigned for three years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Micaiah[1] the daughter of Uriel of Gibeah.

Now there was war between Abijah and Jeroboam. [3]†Abijah went out to battle, having an army of valiant men of war, 400,000 chosen men. And Jeroboam drew up his line of battle against him with 800,000 chosen mighty warriors. [4]‡†Then Abijah stood up on Mount Zemaraim that is in the hill country of Ephraim and said, "Hear me, O Jeroboam and all Israel!
[5]†Ought you not to know that the Lord God of Israel gave the kingship over Israel forever to David and his sons by a covenant of salt? [6]Yet Jeroboam the son of Nebat, a servant of Solomon the son of David, rose up and rebelled against his lord, [7]†and certain worthless scoundrels gathered about him and defied Rehoboam the son of Solomon, when Rehoboam was young and irresolute[2] and could not withstand them.

[8]†"And now you think to withstand the kingdom of the Lord in the hand of the sons of David, because you are a great multitude and have with you the golden calves that Jeroboam made you for gods. [9]†Have you not driven out the priests of the Lord, the sons of Aaron, and the Levites, and made priests for yourselves like the peoples of other lands? Whoever comes for ordination[3] with a young bull or seven rams becomes a priest of what are no gods. [10]†But as for us, the Lord is our God, and we have not forsaken him. We have priests ministering to the Lord who are sons of Aaron, and Levites for their service. [11]†They offer to the Lord every morning and every evening burnt offerings and incense of sweet spices, set out the showbread on the table of pure gold, and care for the golden lampstand that its lamps may burn every evening. For we keep the charge of the Lord our God, but you have forsaken him. [12]†Behold, God is with us at our head, and his priests with their battle trumpets to sound the call to battle against you. O sons of Israel, do not fight against the Lord, the God of your fathers, for you cannot succeed."

13 ‡ † Jeroboam had sent an ambush around to come upon them from behind. Thus his troops[4] were in front of Judah, and the ambush was behind them. 14 † And when Judah looked, behold, the battle was in front of and behind them. And they cried to the Lord, and the priests blew the trumpets. 15 † Then the men of Judah raised the battle shout. And when the men of Judah shouted, God defeated Jeroboam and all Israel before Abijah and Judah. 16 ‡ The men of Israel fled before Judah, and God gave them into their hand. 17 Abijah and his people struck them with great force, so there fell slain of Israel 500,000 chosen men. 18 † Thus the men of Israel were subdued at that time, and the men of Judah prevailed, because they relied on the Lord, the God of their fathers. 19 † And Abijah pursued Jeroboam and took cities from him, Bethel with its villages and Jeshanah with its villages and Ephron[1] with its villages. 20 ‡ Jeroboam did not recover his power in the days of Abijah. And the Lord struck him down, and he died. 21 But Abijah grew mighty. And he took fourteen wives and had twenty-two sons and sixteen daughters. 22 † The rest of the acts of Abijah, his ways and his sayings, are written in the story of the prophet Iddo.

Asa Reigns in Judah

14 [1]†[2] Abijah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David. And Asa his son reigned in his place. In his days the land had rest for ten years. [2]‡[3] And Asa did what was good and right in the eyes of the Lord his God. [3]†He took away the foreign altars and the high places and broke down the pillars and cut down the Asherim [4]‡and commanded Judah to seek the Lord, the God of their fathers, and to keep the law and the commandment. [5]†He also took out of all the cities of Judah the high places and the incense altars. And the kingdom had rest under him. [6]‡†He built fortified cities in Judah, for the land had rest. He had no war in those years, for the Lord gave him peace. [7]†And he said to Judah, "Let us build these cities and surround them with walls and towers, gates and bars. The land is still ours, because we have sought the Lord our God. We have sought him, and he has given us peace on every side." So they built and prospered. [8]†And Asa had an army of 300,000 from Judah, armed with large shields and spears, and 280,000 men from Benjamin that carried shields and drew bows. All these were mighty men of valor.

[9]‡†Zerah the Ethiopian came out against them with an army of a million men and 300 chariots, and came as far as Mareshah. [10]†And Asa went out to meet him, and they drew up their lines of battle in the Valley of Zephathah at Mareshah. [11]†And Asa cried to the Lord his God, "O Lord, there is none like you to help, between the mighty and the weak. Help us, O Lord our God, for we rely on you, and in your name we have come against this multitude. O Lord, you are our God; let not man prevail against you." [12]†So the Lord defeated the Ethiopians before Asa and before Judah, and the Ethiopians fled. [13]‡†Asa and the people who were with him pursued them as far as Gerar, and the Ethiopians fell until none remained alive, for they were broken before the Lord and his army. The men of Judah[1] carried away very much spoil. [14]†And they attacked all the cities around Gerar, for the fear of the Lord was upon them. They plundered all the cities, for there was much plunder in them. [15]And they struck down the tents of those who had livestock and carried away sheep in abundance and camels. Then they returned to Jerusalem.

Asa's Religious Reforms

15 [1]The Spirit of God came upon Azariah the son of Oded, [2]and he went out to meet Asa and said to him, "Hear me, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin: The Lord is with you while you are with him. If you seek him, he will be found by you, but if you forsake him, he will forsake you. [3]For a long time Israel was without the true God, and without a teaching priest and without law, [4]but when in their distress they turned to the Lord, the God of Israel, and sought him, he was found by them. [5]In those times there was no peace to him who went out or to him who came in, for great disturbances afflicted all the inhabitants of the lands. [6]They were broken in pieces.
Nation was crushed by nation and city by city, for God troubled them with every sort of distress. [7]But you, take courage! Do not let your hands be weak, for your work shall be rewarded."

[8]As soon as Asa heard these words, the prophecy of Azariah the son of Oded, he took courage and put away the detestable idols from all the land of Judah and Benjamin and from the cities that he had taken in the hill country of Ephraim, and he repaired the altar of the Lord that was in front of the vestibule of the house of the Lord.[1] [9]And he gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and those from Ephraim, Manasseh, and Simeon who were residing with them, for great numbers had deserted to him from Israel when they saw that the Lord his God was with him. [10]They were gathered at Jerusalem in the third month of the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa. [11]They sacrificed to the Lord on that day from the spoil that they had brought 700 oxen and 7,000 sheep. [12]And they entered into a covenant to seek the Lord, the God of their fathers, with all their heart and with all their soul, [13]but that whoever would not seek the Lord, the God of Israel, should be put to death, whether young or old, man or woman. [14]They swore an oath to the Lord with a loud voice and with shouting and with trumpets and with horns.
[15]And all Judah rejoiced over the oath, for they had sworn with all their heart and had sought him with their whole desire, and he was found by them, and the Lord gave them rest all around.

[16] † Even Maacah, his mother, King Asa removed from being queen mother because she had made a detestable image for Asherah. Asa cut down her image, crushed it, and burned it at the brook Kidron. [17] † But the high places were not taken out of Israel. Nevertheless, the heart of Asa was wholly true all his days. [18] And he brought into the house of God the sacred gifts of his father and his own sacred gifts, silver, and gold, and vessels. [19] † And there was no more war until the thirty-fifth year of the reign of Asa.

Asa's Last Years

16 [1]‡†In the thirty-sixth year of the reign of Asa, Baasha king of Israel went up against Judah and built Ramah, that he might permit no one to go out or come in to Asa king of Judah. [2]‡†Then Asa took silver and gold from the treasures of the house of the Lord and the king's house and sent them to Ben-hadad king of Syria, who lived in Damascus, saying, [3]†"There is a covenant[2] between me and you, as there was between my father and your father. Behold, I am sending to you silver and gold. Go, break your covenant with Baasha king of Israel, that he may withdraw from me." [4]And Ben-hadad listened to King Asa and sent the commanders of his armies against the cities of Israel, and they conquered Ijon, Dan, Abel-maim, and all the store cities of Naphtali. [5]And when Baasha heard of it, he stopped building Ramah and let his work cease. [6]Then King Asa took all Judah, and they carried away the stones of Ramah and its timber, with which Baasha had been building, and with them he built Geba and Mizpah.

[7]‡†At that time Hanani the seer came to Asa king of Judah and said to him, "Because you relied on the king of Syria, and did not rely on the Lord your God, the army of the king of Syria has escaped you. [8]†Were not the Ethiopians and the Libyans a huge army with very many chariots and horsemen? Yet because you relied on the Lord, he gave them into your hand. [9]†For the eyes of the Lord run to and fro throughout the whole earth, to give strong support to those whose heart is blameless toward him. You have done foolishly in this, for from now on you will have wars." [10]†Then Asa was angry with the seer and put him in the stocks in prison, for he was in a rage with him because of this. And Asa inflicted cruelties upon some of the people at the same time.

[11]The acts of Asa, from first to last, are written in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. [12]†In the thirty-ninth year of his reign Asa was diseased in his feet, and his disease became severe. Yet even in his disease he did not seek the Lord, but sought help from physicians. [13]†And Asa slept with his fathers, dying in the forty-first year of his reign. [14]†They buried him in the tomb that he had cut for himself in the city of David. They laid him on a bier that had been filled with various kinds of spices prepared by the perfumer’s art, and they made a very great fire in his honor.

Jehoshaphat Reigns in Judah

17 [1]Jehoshaphat his son reigned in his place and strengthened himself against Israel. [2]†He placed forces in all the fortified cities of Judah and set garrisons in the land of Judah, and in the cities of Ephraim that Asa his father had captured. [3]‡†The Lord was with Jehoshaphat, because he walked in the earlier ways of his father David. He did not seek the Baals, [4]†but sought the God of his father and walked in his commandments, and not according to the practices of Israel. [5]†Therefore the Lord established the kingdom in his hand. And all Judah brought tribute to Jehoshaphat, and he had great riches and honor. [6]†His heart was courageous in the ways of the Lord. And furthermore, he took the high places and the Asherim out of Judah.

[7]†In the third year of his reign he sent his officials, Ben-hail, Obadiah, Zechariah, Nethanel, and Micaiah, to teach in the cities of Judah; [8]and with them the Levites, Shemaiah, Nethaniah, Zebadiah, Asahel, Shemiramoth, Jehonathan, Adonijah, Tobijah, and Tobadonijah; and with these Levites, the priests Elishama and Jehoram. [9]†And they taught in Judah, having the Book of the Law of the Lord with them. They went about through all the cities of Judah and taught among the people.

[10]‡†And the fear of the Lord fell upon all the kingdoms of the lands that were around Judah, and they made no war against Jehoshaphat. [11]†Some of the Philistines brought Jehoshaphat presents and silver for tribute, and the Arabians also brought him 7,700 rams and 7,700 goats. [12]And Jehoshaphat grew steadily greater. He built in Judah fortresses and store cities, [13]†and he had large supplies in the cities of Judah. He had soldiers, mighty men of valor, in Jerusalem. [14]This was the muster of them by fathers' houses: Of Judah, the commanders of thousands: Adnah the commander, with 300,000 mighty men of valor; [15]and next to him Jehohanan the commander, with 280,000; [16]†and next to him Amasiah the son of Zichri, a volunteer for the service of the Lord, with 200,000 mighty men of valor. [17]Of Benjamin: Eliada, a mighty man of valor, with 200,000 men armed with bow and shield; [18]and next to him Jehozabad with 180,000 armed for war. [19]These were in the service of the king, besides those whom the king had placed in the fortified cities throughout all Judah.

Jehoshaphat Allies with Ahab

18 [1]Now Jehoshaphat had great riches and honor, and he made a marriage alliance with Ahab. [2]After some years he went down to Ahab in Samaria. And Ahab killed an abundance of sheep and oxen for him and for the people who were with him, and induced him to go up against Ramoth-gilead. [3]Ahab king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat king of Judah, "Will you go with me to Ramoth-gilead?" He answered him, "I am as you are, my people as your people. We will be with you in the war."

[4]And Jehoshaphat said to the king of Israel, "Inquire first for the word of the Lord." [5]Then the king of Israel gathered the prophets together, four hundred men, and said to them, "Shall we go to battle against Ramoth-gilead, or shall I refrain?" And they said, "Go up, for God will give it into the hand of the king." [6]But Jehoshaphat said, "Is there not here another prophet of the Lord of whom we may inquire?" [7]And the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, "There is yet one man by whom we may inquire of the Lord, Micaiah the son of Imlah; but I hate him, for he never prophesies good concerning me, but always evil." And Jehoshaphat said, "Let not the king say so." [8]Then the king of Israel summoned an officer and said, "Bring quickly Micaiah the son of Imlah." [9]Now the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah were sitting on their thrones, arrayed in their robes. And they were sitting at the threshing floor at the entrance of the gate of Samaria, and all the prophets were prophesying before them. [10]And Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah made for himself horns of iron and said, "Thus says the Lord, 'With these you shall push the Syrians until they are destroyed.'" [11]And all the prophets prophesied so and said, "Go up to Ramoth-gilead and triumph. The Lord will give it into the hand of the king."

[12]And the messenger who went to summon Micaiah said to him, "Behold, the words of the prophets with one accord are favorable to the king. Let your word be like the word of one of them, and speak favorably." [13]But Micaiah said, "As the Lord lives, what my God says, that I will speak." [14]And when he had come to the king, the king said to him, "Micaiah, shall we go to Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I refrain?" And he answered, "Go up and triumph; they will be given into your hand.” 15But the king said to him, “How many times shall I make you swear that you speak to me nothing but the truth in the name of the Lord?” 16†And he said, “I saw all Israel scattered on the mountains, as sheep that have no shepherd. And the Lord said, ‘These have no master; let each return to his home in peace.’” 17And the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, “Did I not tell you that he would not prophesy good concerning me, but evil?” 18†And Micaiah said, “Therefore hear the word of the Lord: I saw the Lord sitting on his throne, and all the host of heaven standing on his right hand and on his left. 19And

the Lord said, ‘Who will entice Ahab the king of Israel, that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead?’ And one said one thing, and another said another. 20†Then a spirit came forward and stood before the Lord, saying, ‘I will entice him.’ And the Lord said to him, ‘By what means?’ 21And he said, ‘I will go out, and will be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets.’
And he said, ‘You are to entice him, and you shall succeed; go out and do so.’ 22Now therefore behold, the Lord has put a lying spirit in the mouth of these your prophets. The Lord has declared disaster concerning you.”

23††Then Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah came near and struck Micaiah on the cheek and said, “Which way did the Spirit of the Lord go from me to speak to you?” 24†And Micaiah said, “Behold, you shall see on that day when you go into an inner chamber to hide yourself.” 25And the king of Israel said, “Seize Micaiah and take him back to Amon the governor of the city and to Joash the king’s son, 26†and say, ‘Thus says the king, Put this fellow in prison and feed him with meager rations of bread and water until I return in peace.’” 27And Micaiah said, “If you return in peace, the Lord has not spoken by me.” And he said, “Hear, all you peoples!”

The Defeat and Death of Ahab

28 So the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat the king of Judah went up to Ramoth-gilead. 29 And the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, “I will disguise myself and go into battle, but you wear your robes.” And the king of Israel disguised himself, and they went into battle. 30 Now the king of Syria had commanded the captains of his chariots, “Fight with neither small nor great, but only with the king of Israel.” 31 As soon as the captains of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, they said, “It is the king of Israel.” So they turned to fight against him. And Jehoshaphat cried out, and the Lord helped him; God drew them away from him. 32 For as soon as the captains of the chariots saw that it was not the king of Israel, they turned back from pursuing him.
33 But a certain man drew his bow at random[1] and struck the king of Israel between the scale armor and the breastplate. Therefore he said to the driver of his chariot, “Turn around and carry me out of the battle, for I am wounded.” 34 And the battle continued that day, and the king of Israel was propped up in his chariot facing the Syrians until evening. Then at sunset he died.

Jehoshaphat's Reforms

19 [1]†Jehoshaphat the king of Judah returned in safety to his house in Jerusalem. [2]‡†But Jehu the son of Hanani the seer went out to meet him and said to King Jehoshaphat, "Should you help the wicked and love those who hate the Lord? Because of this, wrath has gone out against you from the Lord. [3]†Nevertheless, some good is found in you, for you destroyed the Asherahs out of the land, and have set your heart to seek God."

[4]‡†Jehoshaphat lived at Jerusalem. And he went out again among the people, from Beersheba to the hill country of Ephraim, and brought them back to the Lord, the God of their fathers. [5]†He appointed judges in the land in all the fortified cities of Judah, city by city, [6]†and said to the judges, "Consider what you do, for you judge not for man but for the Lord. He is with you in giving judgment. [7]†Now then, let the fear of the Lord be upon you. Be careful what you do, for there is no injustice with the Lord our God, or partiality or taking bribes."

[8]‡†Moreover, in Jerusalem Jehoshaphat appointed certain Levites and priests and heads of families of Israel, to give judgment for the Lord and to decide disputed cases. They had their seat at Jerusalem. [9]And he charged them: "Thus you shall do in the fear of the Lord, in faithfulness, and with your whole heart: [10]†whenever a case comes to you from your brothers who live in their cities, concerning bloodshed, law or commandment, statutes or rules, then you shall warn them, that they may not incur guilt before the Lord and wrath may not come upon you and your brothers. Thus you shall do, and you will not incur guilt. [11]†And behold, Amariah the chief priest is over you in all matters of the Lord; and Zebadiah the son of Ishmael, the governor of the house of Judah, in all the king's matters, and the Levites will serve you as officers. Deal courageously, and may the Lord be with the upright!"[1]

Jehoshaphat's Prayer

20 [1]‡†After this the Moabites and Ammonites, and with them some of the Meunites,[2] came against Jehoshaphat for battle. [2]†Some men came and told Jehoshaphat, "A great multitude is coming against you from Edom, [3] from beyond the sea; and, behold, they are in Hazazon-tamar" (that is, Engedi). [3]†Then Jehoshaphat was afraid and set his face to seek the Lord, and proclaimed a fast throughout all Judah. [4]And Judah assembled to seek help from the Lord; from all the cities of Judah they came to seek the Lord.

[5]†And Jehoshaphat stood in the assembly of Judah and Jerusalem, in the house of the Lord, before the new court, [6]†and said, "O Lord, God of our fathers, are you not God in heaven? You rule over all the kingdoms of the nations. In your hand are power and might, so that none is able to withstand you. [7]‡†Did you not, our God, drive out the inhabitants of this land before your people Israel, and give it forever to the descendants of Abraham your friend? [8]And they have lived in it and have built for you in it a sanctuary for your name, saying, [9]†'If disaster comes upon us, the sword, judgment,[4] or pestilence, or famine, we will stand before this house and before you—for your name is in this house—and cry out to you in our affliction, and you will hear and save.' [10]†And now behold, the men of Ammon and Moab and Mount Seir, whom you would not let Israel invade when they came from the land of Egypt, and whom they avoided and did not destroy— [11]†behold, they reward us by coming to drive us out of your possession, which you have given us to inherit. [12]†O our God, will you not execute judgment on them? For we are powerless against this great horde that is coming against us. We do not know what to do, but our eyes are on you."

[13]‡†Meanwhile all Judah stood before the Lord, with their little ones, their wives, and their children. [14]†And the Spirit of the Lord came upon Jahaziel the son of Zechariah, son of Benaiah, son of Jeiel, son of Mattaniah, a Levite of the sons of Asaph, in the midst of the assembly. [15]And he said, "Listen, all Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem and King Jehoshaphat: Thus says the Lord to you, 'Do not be afraid and do not be dismayed at this great horde, for the battle is not yours but God's.

16 † Tomorrow go down against them. Behold, they will come up by the ascent of Ziz. You will find them at the end of the valley, east of the wilderness of Jeruel. 17 You will not need to fight in this battle. Stand firm, hold your position, and see the salvation of the Lord on your behalf, O Judah and Jerusalem.' Do not be afraid and do not be dismayed. Tomorrow go out against them, and the Lord will be with you."

18 Then Jehoshaphat bowed his head with his face to the ground, and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem fell down before the Lord, worshiping the Lord. 19 † And the Levites, of the Kohathites and the Korahites, stood up to praise the Lord, the God of Israel, with a very loud voice.

20 † And they rose early in the morning and went out into the wilderness of Tekoa. And when they went out, Jehoshaphat stood and said, "Hear me, Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem! Believe in the Lord your God, and you will be established; believe his prophets, and you will succeed." 21 † And when he had taken counsel with the people, he appointed those who were to sing to the Lord and praise him in holy attire, as they went before the army, and say,

"Give thanks to the Lord,
for his steadfast love endures forever."

22 †† And when they began to sing and praise, the Lord set an ambush against the men of Ammon, Moab, and Mount Seir, who had come against Judah, so that they were routed. 23 † For the men of Ammon and Moab rose against the inhabitants of Mount Seir, devoting them to destruction, and when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir, they all helped to destroy one another.

The Lord Delivers Judah

24 ‡ † When Judah came to the watchtower of the wilderness, they looked toward the horde, and behold, there[1] were dead bodies lying on the ground;
none had escaped. 25 When Jehoshaphat and his people came to take their spoil, they found among them, in great numbers, goods, clothing, and precious things, which they took for themselves until they could carry no more. They were three days in taking the spoil, it was so much. 26 ‡ † On the fourth day they assembled in the Valley of Beracah,[2] for there they blessed the Lord. Therefore the name of that place has been called the Valley of Beracah to this day. 27 † Then they returned, every man of Judah and Jerusalem, and Jehoshaphat at their head, returning to Jerusalem with joy, for the Lord had made them rejoice over their enemies. 28 They came to Jerusalem with harps and lyres and trumpets, to the house of the Lord.
29 ‡ † And the fear of God came on all the kingdoms of the countries when they heard that the Lord had fought against the enemies of Israel. 30 So the realm of Jehoshaphat was quiet, for his God gave him rest all around.

31 Thus Jehoshaphat reigned over Judah. He was thirty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty-five years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi. 32 He walked in the way of Asa his father and did not turn aside from it, doing what was right in the sight of the Lord. 33 † The high places, however, were not taken away; the people had not yet set their hearts upon the God of their fathers.

34 † Now the rest of the acts of Jehoshaphat, from first to last, are written in the chronicles of Jehu the son of Hanani, which are recorded in the Book of the Kings of Israel.

The End of Jehoshaphat's Reign

35 ‡‡‡After this Jehoshaphat king of Judah joined with Ahaziah king of Israel, who acted wickedly. 36 †He joined him in building ships to go to Tarshish, and they built the ships in Ezion-geber. 37 †Then Eliezer the son of Dodavahu of Mareshah prophesied against Jehoshaphat, saying, "Because you have joined with Ahaziah, the Lord will destroy what you have made."
And the ships were wrecked and were not able to go to Tarshish.

Jehoram Reigns in Judah

21 [1]† Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers and was buried with his fathers in the city of David, and Jehoram his son reigned in his place. [2]‡† He had brothers, the sons of Jehoshaphat: Azariah, Jehiel, Zechariah, Azariah, Michael, and Shephatiah; all these were the sons of Jehoshaphat king of Israel.[1] [3]Their father gave them great gifts of silver, gold, and valuable possessions, together with fortified cities in Judah, but he gave the kingdom to Jehoram, because he was the firstborn. [4]When Jehoram had ascended the throne of his father and was established, he killed all his brothers with the sword, and also some of the princes of Israel. [5]Jehoram was thirty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem. [6]† And he walked in the way of the kings of Israel, as the house of Ahab had done, for the daughter of Ahab was his wife. And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord. [7]† Yet the Lord was not willing to destroy the house of David, because of the covenant that he had made with David, and since he had promised to give a lamp to him and to his sons forever.

[8]‡ In his days Edom revolted from the rule of Judah and set up a king of their own. [9]† Then Jehoram passed over with his commanders and all his chariots, and he rose by night and struck the Edomites who had surrounded him and his chariot commanders. [10]† So Edom revolted from the rule of Judah to this day. At that time Libnah also revolted from his rule, because he had forsaken the Lord, the God of his fathers.

[11]‡† Moreover, he made high places in the hill country of Judah and led the inhabitants of Jerusalem into whoredom and made Judah go astray. [12]‡† And a letter came to him from Elijah the prophet, saying, “Thus says the Lord, the God of David your father, ‘Because you have not walked in the ways of Jehoshaphat your father, or in the ways of Asa king of Judah, [13]but have walked in the way of the kings of Israel and have enticed Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem into whoredom, as the house of Ahab led Israel into whoredom, and also you have killed your brothers, of your father’s house, who were better than yourself, [14]† behold, the Lord will bring a great plague on your people, your children, your wives, and all your possessions, [15]and you yourself will have a severe sickness with a disease of your bowels, until your bowels come out because of the disease, day by day.’”

[16]‡† And the Lord stirred up against Jehoram the anger[1] of the Philistines and of the Arabians who are near the Ethiopians. [17]† And they came up against Judah and invaded it and carried away all the possessions they found that belonged to the king’s house, and also his sons and his wives, so that no son was left to him except Jehoahaz, his youngest son.

[18]And after all this the Lord struck him in his bowels with an incurable disease. [19]† In the course of time, at the end of two years, his bowels came out because of the disease, and he died in great agony. His people made no fire in his honor, like the fires made for his fathers. [20]He was thirty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem. And he departed with no one’s regret. They buried him in the city of David, but not in the tombs of the kings.

Ahaziah Reigns in Judah

22 [1]‡‡‡And the inhabitants of Jerusalem made Ahaziah, his youngest son, king in his place, for the band of men that came with the Arabians to the camp had killed all the older sons. So Ahaziah the son of Jehoram king of Judah reigned. [2]‡Ahaziah was twenty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Athaliah, the granddaughter of Omri. [3]He also walked in the ways of the house of Ahab, for his mother was his counselor in doing wickedly. [4]He did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, as the house of Ahab had done. For after the death of his father they were his counselors, to his undoing. [5]‡He even followed their counsel and went with Jehoram the son of Ahab king of Israel to make war against Hazael king of Syria at Ramoth-gilead. And the Syrians wounded Joram, [6]and he returned to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds that he had received at Ramah, when he fought against Hazael king of Syria. And Ahaziah the son of Jehoram king of Judah went down to see Joram the son of Ahab in Jezreel, because he was wounded.

[7]‡‡But it was ordained by God that the downfall of Ahaziah should come about through his going to visit Joram. For when he came there, he went out with Jehoram to meet Jehu the son of Nimshi, whom the Lord had anointed to destroy the house of Ahab. [8]And when Jehu was executing judgment on the house of Ahab, he met the princes of Judah and the sons of Ahaziah's brothers, who attended Ahaziah, and he killed them. [9]He searched for Ahaziah, and he was captured while hiding in Samaria, and he was brought to Jehu and put to death. They buried him, for they said, "He is the grandson of Jehoshaphat, who sought the Lord with all his heart." And the house of Ahaziah had no one able to rule the kingdom.

Athaliah Reigns in Judah

10 ‡ ‡ ‡Now when Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah saw that her son was dead, she arose and destroyed all the royal family of the house of Judah.
11 † But Jehoshabeath,[1] the daughter of the king, took Joash the son of Ahaziah and stole him away from among the king's sons who were about to be put to death, and she put him and his nurse in a bedroom. Thus Jehoshabeath, the daughter of King Jehoram and wife of Jehoiada the priest, because she was a sister of Ahaziah, hid him[2] from Athaliah, so that she did not put him to death. 12 And he remained with them six years, hidden in the house of God, while Athaliah reigned over the land.

Joash Made King

23 [1]‡‡But in the seventh year Jehoiada took courage and entered into a covenant with the commanders of hundreds, Azariah the son of Jeroham, Ishmael the son of Jehohanan, Azariah the son of Obed, Maaseiah the son of Adaiah, and Elishaphat the son of Zichri. [2]‡And they went about through Judah and gathered the Levites from all the cities of Judah, and the heads of fathers' houses of Israel, and they came to Jerusalem. [3] † And all the assembly made a covenant with the king in the house of God. And Jehoiada[3] said to them, "Behold, the king's son! Let him reign, as the Lord spoke concerning the sons of David. [4]‡‡This is the thing that you shall do:
of you priests and Levites who come off duty on the Sabbath, one third shall be gatekeepers, [5]†and one third shall be at the king's house and one third at the Gate of the Foundation. And all the people shall be in the courts of the house of the Lord. [6]†Let no one enter the house of the Lord except the priests and ministering Levites. They may enter, for they are holy, but all the people shall keep the charge of the Lord. [7]†The Levites shall surround the king, each with his weapons in his hand. And whoever enters the house shall be put to death. Be with the king when he comes in and when he goes out."

[8]†The Levites and all Judah did according to all that Jehoiada the priest commanded, and they each brought his men, who were to go off duty on the Sabbath, with those who were to come on duty on the Sabbath, for Jehoiada the priest did not dismiss the divisions. [9]†And Jehoiada the priest gave to the captains the spears and the large and small shields that had been King David's, which were in the house of God. [10]And he set all the people as a guard for the king, every man with his weapon in his hand, from the south side of the house to the north side of the house, around the altar and the house. [11]†Then they brought out the king's son and put the crown on him and gave him the testimony. And they proclaimed him king, and Jehoiada and his sons anointed him, and they said, "Long live the king."

Athaliah Executed

12 When Athaliah heard the noise of the people running and praising the king, she went into the house of the Lord to the people. 13 And when she looked, there was the king standing by his pillar at the entrance, and the captains and the trumpeters beside the king, and all the people of the land rejoicing and blowing trumpets, and the singers with their musical instruments leading in the celebration. And Athaliah tore her clothes and cried, “Treason! Treason!” 14 Then Jehoiada the priest brought out the captains who were set over the army, saying to them, “Bring her out between the ranks, and anyone who follows her is to be put to death with the sword.” For the priest said, “Do not put her to death in the house of the Lord.” 15 So they laid hands on her,[1] and she went into the entrance of the horse gate of the king’s house, and they put her to death there.

Jehoiada's Reforms

16 ✝✝✝And Jehoiada made a covenant between himself and all the people and the king that they should be the Lord's people. 17 ✝Then all the people went to the house of Baal and tore it down; his altars and his images they broke in pieces, and they killed Mattan the priest of Baal before the altars.
18 ✝And Jehoiada posted watchmen for the house of the Lord under the direction of the Levitical priests and the Levites whom David had organized to be in charge of the house of the Lord, to offer burnt offerings to the Lord, as it is written in the Law of Moses, with rejoicing and with singing, according to the order of David. 19 He stationed the gatekeepers at the gates of the house of the Lord so that no one should enter who was in any way unclean. 20 ✝And he took the captains, the nobles, the governors of the people, and all the people of the land, and they brought the king down from the house of the Lord, marching through the upper gate to the king's house.
And they set the king on the royal throne. 21 So all the people of the land rejoiced, and the city was quiet after Athaliah had been put to death with the sword.

Joash Repairs the Temple

24 [1]†††Joash[2] was seven years old when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Zibiah of Beersheba. [2]And Joash did what was right in the eyes of the Lord all the days of Jehoiada the priest. [3]Jehoiada got for him two wives, and he had sons and daughters.

[4]†After this Joash decided to restore the house of the Lord. [5]††And he gathered the priests and the Levites and said to them, "Go out to the cities of Judah and gather from all Israel money to repair the house of your God from year to year, and see that you act quickly." But the Levites did not act quickly. [6]So the king summoned Jehoiada the chief and said to him, "Why have you not required the Levites to bring in from Judah and Jerusalem the tax levied by Moses, the servant of the Lord, and the congregation of Israel for the tent of testimony?" [7]†For the sons of Athaliah, that wicked woman, had broken into the house of God, and had also used all the dedicated things of the house of the Lord for the Baals.

[8]†So the king commanded, and they made a chest and set it outside the gate of the house of the Lord. [9]And proclamation was made throughout Judah and Jerusalem to bring in for the Lord the tax that Moses the servant of God laid on Israel in the wilderness. [10]†And all the princes and all the people rejoiced and brought their tax and dropped it into the chest until they had finished.[1] [11]†And whenever the chest was brought to the king's officers by the Levites, when they saw that there was much money in it, the king's secretary and the officer of the chief priest would come and empty the chest and take it and return it to its place. Thus they did day after day, and collected money in abundance. [12]†And the king and Jehoiada gave it to those who had charge of the work of the house of the Lord, and they hired masons and carpenters to restore the house of the Lord, and also workers in iron and bronze to repair the house of the Lord. [13]So those who were engaged in the work labored, and the repairing went forward in their hands, and they restored the house of God to its proper condition and strengthened
it. [14]†And when they had finished, they brought the rest of the money before the king and Jehoiada, and with it were made utensils for the house of the Lord, both for the service and for the burnt offerings, and dishes for incense and vessels of gold and silver. And they offered burnt offerings in the house of the Lord regularly all the days of Jehoiada.

15 ‡† But Jehoiada grew old and full of days, and died. He was 130 years old at his death. 16 † And they buried him in the city of David among the kings, because he had done good in Israel, and toward God and his house.

17 Now after the death of Jehoiada the princes of Judah came and paid homage to the king. Then the king listened to them. 18 † And they abandoned the house of the Lord, the God of their fathers, and served the Asherim and the idols. And wrath came upon Judah and Jerusalem for this guilt of theirs. 19 † Yet he sent prophets among them to bring them back to the Lord. These testified against them, but they would not pay attention.

Joash’s Treachery

20 † Then the Spirit of God clothed Zechariah the son of Jehoiada the priest, and he stood above the people, and said to them, “Thus says God, ‘Why do you break the commandments of the Lord, so that you cannot prosper? Because you have forsaken the Lord, he has forsaken you.’” 21 †But they conspired against him, and by command of the king they stoned him with stones in the court of the house of the Lord. 22 †Thus Joash the king did not remember the kindness that Jehoiada, Zechariah’s father, had shown him, but killed his son. And when he was dying, he said, “May the Lord see and avenge!”[1]

Joash Assassinated

23 ‡ ‡ † At the end of the year the army of the Syrians came up against Joash. They came to Judah and Jerusalem and destroyed all the princes of the people from among the people and sent all their spoil to the king of Damascus. 24 † Though the army of the Syrians had come with few men, the LORD delivered into their hand a very great army, because Judah[2] had forsaken the LORD, the God of their fathers. Thus they executed judgment on Joash.
25 † When they had departed from him, leaving him severely wounded, his servants conspired against him because of the blood of the son[3] of Jehoiada the priest, and killed him on his bed. So he died, and they buried him in the city of David, but they did not bury him in the tombs of the kings. 26 Those who conspired against him were Zabad the son of Shimeath the Ammonite, and Jehozabad the son of Shimrith the Moabite. 27 † Accounts of his sons and of the many oracles against him and of the rebuilding[4] of the house of God are written in the Story of the Book of the Kings. And Amaziah his son reigned in his place.

Amaziah Reigns in Judah

25 [1]‡†Amaziah was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem. [2]†And he did what was right in the eyes of the Lord, yet not with a whole heart. [3]And as soon as the royal power was firmly his, he killed his servants who had struck down the king his father.
[4]†But he did not put their children to death, according to what is written in the Law, in the Book of Moses, where the Lord commanded, "Fathers shall not die because of their children, nor children die because of their fathers, but each one shall die for his own sin."

Amaziah’s Victories

5 ‡†Then Amaziah assembled the men of Judah and set them by fathers’ houses under commanders of thousands and of hundreds for all Judah and Benjamin. He mustered those twenty years old and upward, and found that they were 300,000 choice men, fit for war, able to handle spear and shield.
6 †He hired also 100,000 mighty men of valor from Israel for 100 talents[5] of silver. 7 †But a man of God came to him and said, “O king, do not let the army of Israel go with you, for the Lord is not with Israel, with all these Ephraimites. 8 But go, act, be strong for the battle. Why should you suppose that God will cast you down before the enemy? For God has power to help or to cast down.” 9 †And Amaziah said to the man of God, “But what shall we do about the hundred talents that I have given to the army of Israel?”
The man of God answered, “The Lord is able to give you much more than this.” 10 †Then Amaziah discharged the army that had come to him from Ephraim to go home again. And they became very angry with Judah and returned home in fierce anger. 11 †But Amaziah took courage and led out his people and went to the Valley of Salt and struck down 10,000 men of Seir.
12 †The men of Judah captured another 10,000 alive and took them to the top of a rock and threw them down from the top of the rock, and they were all dashed to pieces. 13 †But the men of the army whom Amaziah sent back, not letting them go with him to battle, raided the cities of Judah, from Samaria to Beth-horon, and struck down 3,000 people in them and took much spoil.

Amaziah's Idolatry

14 †After Amaziah came from striking down the Edomites, he brought the gods of the men of Seir and set them up as his gods and worshiped them, making offerings to them. 15 ††Therefore the Lord was angry with Amaziah and sent to him a prophet, who said to him, "Why have you sought the gods of a people who did not deliver their own people from your hand?" 16 †But as he was speaking, the king said to him, "Have we made you a royal counselor? Stop! Why should you be struck down?" So the prophet stopped, but said, "I know that God has determined to destroy you, because you have done this and have not listened to my counsel."

Israel Defeats Amaziah

17 ‡ † Then Amaziah king of Judah took counsel and sent to Joash the son of Jehoahaz, son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying, “Come, let us look one another in the face.” 18 † And Joash the king of Israel sent word to Amaziah king of Judah, “A thistle on Lebanon sent to a cedar on Lebanon, saying, ‘Give your daughter to my son for a wife,’ and a wild beast of Lebanon passed by and trampled down the thistle. 19 You say, ‘See, I[1] have struck down Edom,’ and your heart has lifted you up in boastfulness. But now stay at home. Why should you provoke trouble so that you fall, you and Judah with you?”

20 † But Amaziah would not listen, for it was of God, in order that he might give them into the hand of their enemies, because they had sought the gods of Edom. 21 † So Joash king of Israel went up, and he and Amaziah king of Judah faced one another in battle at Beth-shemesh, which belongs to Judah.
22 † And Judah was defeated by Israel, and every man fled to his home.
23 † And Joash king of Israel captured Amaziah king of Judah, the son of Joash, son of Ahaziah, at Beth-shemesh, and brought him to Jerusalem and broke down the wall of Jerusalem for 400 cubits,[2] from the Ephraim Gate to the Corner Gate. 24 † And he seized all the gold and silver, and all the vessels that were found in the house of God, in the care of Obed-edom. He seized also the treasuries of the king’s house, also hostages, and he returned to Samaria.

25 Amaziah the son of Joash, king of Judah, lived fifteen years after the death of Joash the son of Jehoahaz, king of Israel. 26 † Now the rest of the deeds of Amaziah, from first to last, are they not written in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel? 27 † From the time when he turned away from the Lord they made a conspiracy against him in Jerusalem, and he fled to Lachish. But they sent after him to Lachish and put him to death there.
28 † And they brought him upon horses, and he was buried with his fathers in the city of David.[1]

Uzziah Reigns in Judah

26 [1]†And all the people of Judah took Uzziah, who was sixteen years old, and made him king instead of his father Amaziah. [2]†He built Eloth and restored it to Judah, after the king slept with his fathers. [3]‡Uzziah was sixteen years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty-two years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jecoliah of Jerusalem. [4]And he did what was right in the eyes of the Lord, according to all that his father Amaziah had done. [5]‡†He set himself to seek God in the days of Zechariah, who instructed him in the fear of God, and as long as he sought the Lord, God made him prosper.

[6]†He went out and made war against the Philistines and broke through the wall of Gath and the wall of Jabneh and the wall of Ashdod, and he built cities in the territory of Ashdod and elsewhere among the Philistines. [7]†God helped him against the Philistines and against the Arabians who lived in Gurbaal and against the Meunites. [8]‡The Ammonites paid tribute to Uzziah, and his fame spread even to the border of Egypt, for he became very strong.
[9]†Moreover, Uzziah built towers in Jerusalem at the Corner Gate and at the Valley Gate and at the Angle, and fortified them. [10]†And he built towers in the wilderness and cut out many cisterns, for he had large herds, both in the Shephelah and in the plain, and he had farmers and vinedressers in the hills and in the fertile lands, for he loved the soil. [11]‡Moreover, Uzziah had an army of soldiers, fit for war, in divisions according to the numbers in the muster made by Jeiel the secretary and Maaseiah the officer, under the direction of Hananiah, one of the king's commanders. [12]The whole number of the heads of fathers' houses of mighty men of valor was 2,600. [13]†Under their command was an army of 307,500, who could make war with mighty power, to help the king against the enemy. [14]†And Uzziah prepared for all the army shields, spears, helmets, coats of mail, bows, and stones for slinging. [15]†In Jerusalem he made engines, invented by skillful men, to be on the towers and the corners, to shoot arrows and great stones. And his fame spread far, for he was marvelously helped, till he was strong.

Uzziah's Pride and Punishment

16 †But when he was strong, he grew proud, to his destruction. For he was unfaithful to the Lord his God and entered the temple of the Lord to burn incense on the altar of incense. 17But Azariah the priest went in after him, with eighty priests of the Lord who were men of valor, 18and they withstood King Uzziah and said to him, "It is not for you, Uzziah, to burn incense to the Lord, but for the priests, the sons of Aaron, who are consecrated to burn incense. Go out of the sanctuary, for you have done wrong, and it will bring you no honor from the Lord God." 19†Then Uzziah was angry. Now he had a censer in his hand to burn incense, and when he became angry with the priests, leprosy[1] broke out on his forehead in the presence of the priests in the house of the Lord, by the altar of incense. 20And Azariah the chief priest and all the priests looked at him, and behold, he was leprous in his forehead! And they rushed him out quickly, and he himself hurried to go out, because the Lord had struck him. 21†And King Uzziah was a leper to the day of his death, and being a leper lived in a separate house, for he was excluded from the house of the Lord. And Jotham his son was over the king's household, governing the people of the land.

22†Now the rest of the acts of Uzziah, from first to last, Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz wrote. 23†And Uzziah slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the burial field that belonged to the kings, for they said, "He is a leper." And Jotham his son reigned in his place.

Jotham Reigns in Judah

27 [1]Jotham was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jerushah the daughter of Zadok. [2]And he did what was right in the eyes of the Lord according to all that his father Uzziah had done, except he did not enter the temple of the Lord. But the people still followed corrupt practices. [3]‡† He built the upper gate of the house of the Lord and did much building on the wall of Ophel. [4]† Moreover, he built cities in the hill country of Judah, and forts and towers on the wooded hills. [5]‡† He fought with the king of the Ammonites and prevailed against them. And the Ammonites gave him that year 100 talents[2] of silver, and 10,000 cors[3] of wheat and 10,000 of barley.
The Ammonites paid him the same amount in the second and the third years. [6]So Jotham became mighty, because he ordered his ways before the Lord his God. [7]† Now the rest of the acts of Jotham, and all his wars and his ways, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah.
[8]He was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. [9]† And Jotham slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David, and Ahaz his son reigned in his place.

Ahaz Reigns in Judah

28 [1] ‡ † Ahaz was twenty years old when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. And he did not do what was right in the eyes of the Lord, as his father David had done, [2] † but he walked in the ways of the kings of Israel. He even made metal images for the Baals, [3] † and he made offerings in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom and burned his sons as an offering,[1] according to the abominations of the nations whom the Lord drove out before the people of Israel. [4] † And he sacrificed and made offerings on the high places and on the hills and under every green tree.

Judah Defeated

5 ‡ † Therefore the Lord his God gave him into the hand of the king of Syria, who defeated him and took captive a great number of his people and brought them to Damascus. He was also given into the hand of the king of Israel, who struck him with great force. 6 † For Pekah the son of Remaliah killed 120,000 from Judah in one day, all of them men of valor, because they had forsaken the Lord, the God of their fathers. 7 And Zichri, a mighty man of Ephraim, killed Maaseiah the king's son and Azrikam the commander of the palace and Elkanah the next in authority to the king.

8 † The men of Israel took captive 200,000 of their relatives, women, sons, and daughters. They also took much spoil from them and brought the spoil to Samaria. 9 ‡ † But a prophet of the Lord was there, whose name was Oded, and he went out to meet the army that came to Samaria and said to them,
"Behold, because the Lord, the God of your fathers, was angry with Judah, he gave them into your hand, but you have killed them in a rage that has reached up to heaven. 10 † And now you intend to subjugate the people of Judah and Jerusalem, male and female, as your slaves. Have you not sins of your own against the Lord your God? 11 Now hear me, and send back the captives from your relatives whom you have taken, for the fierce wrath of the Lord is upon you."

12 Certain chiefs also of the men of Ephraim, Azariah the son of Johanan, Berechiah the son of Meshillemoth, Jehizkiah the son of Shallum, and Amasa the son of Hadlai, stood up against those who were coming from the war 13 † and said to them, "You shall not bring the captives in here, for you propose to bring upon us guilt against the Lord in addition to our present sins and guilt. For our guilt is already great, and there is fierce wrath against Israel." 14 So the armed men left the captives and the spoil before the princes and all the assembly. 15 † And the men who have been mentioned by name rose and took the captives, and with the spoil they clothed all who were naked among them. They clothed them, gave them sandals, provided them with food and drink, and anointed them, and carrying all the feeble among them on donkeys, they brought them to their kinsfolk at Jericho, the city of palm trees. Then they returned to Samaria.

16 †At that time King Ahaz sent to the king[2] of Assyria for help. 17 ††For the Edomites had again invaded and defeated Judah and carried away captives. 18 † And the Philistines had made raids on the cities in the Shephelah and the Negeb of Judah, and had taken Beth-shemesh, Aijalon, Gederoth, Soco with its villages, Timnah with its villages, and Gimzo with its villages. And they settled there. 19 †For the Lord humbled Judah because of Ahaz king of Israel, for he had made Judah act sinfully[1] and had been very unfaithful to the Lord. 20 ††So Tiglath-pileser[2] king of Assyria came against him and afflicted him instead of strengthening him. 21 For Ahaz took a portion from the house of the Lord and the house of the king and of the princes, and gave tribute to the king of Assyria, but it did not help him.

Ahaz's Idolatry

22 ‡‡In the time of his distress he became yet more faithless to the Lord—this same King Ahaz. 23 †For he sacrificed to the gods of Damascus that had defeated him and said, "Because the gods of the kings of Syria helped them, I will sacrifice to them that they may help me." But they were the ruin of him and of all Israel. 24 † And Ahaz gathered together the vessels of the house of God and cut in pieces the vessels of the house of God, and he shut up the doors of the house of the Lord, and he made himself altars in every corner of Jerusalem. 25 †In every city of Judah he made high places to make offerings to other gods, provoking to anger the Lord, the God of his fathers.
26 †Now the rest of his acts and all his ways, from first to last, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. 27 †And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city, in Jerusalem, for they did not bring him into the tombs of the kings of Israel. And Hezekiah his son reigned in his place.

Hezekiah Reigns in Judah

29 [1]‡†Hezekiah began to reign when he was twenty-five years old, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Abijah[3] the daughter of Zechariah. [2]And he did what was right in the eyes of the LORD, according to all that David his father had done.

Hezekiah Cleanses the Temple

3 ‡In the first year of his reign, in the first month, he opened the doors of the house of the Lord and repaired them. 4 †He brought in the priests and the Levites and assembled them in the square on the east 5 ‡†and said to them, “Hear me, Levites! Now consecrate yourselves, and consecrate the house of the Lord, the God of your fathers, and carry out the filth from the Holy Place. 6 For our fathers have been unfaithful and have done what was evil in the sight of the Lord our God. They have forsaken him and have turned away their faces from the habitation of the Lord and turned their backs.
7 †They also shut the doors of the vestibule and put out the lamps and have not burned incense or offered burnt offerings in the Holy Place to the God of Israel. 8 †Therefore the wrath of the Lord came on Judah and Jerusalem, and he has made them an object of horror, of astonishment, and of hissing, as you see with your own eyes. 9 For behold, our fathers have fallen by the sword, and our sons and our daughters and our wives are in captivity for this. 10 †Now it is in my heart to make a covenant with the Lord, the God of Israel, in order that his fierce anger may turn away from us. 11 †My sons, do not now be negligent, for the Lord has chosen you to stand in his presence, to minister to him and to be his ministers and make offerings to him.”
12 ‡†Then the Levites arose, Mahath the son of Amasai, and Joel the son of Azariah, of the sons of the Kohathites; and of the sons of Merari, Kish
the son of Abdi, and Azariah the son of Jehallelel; and of the Gershonites, Joah the son of Zimmah, and Eden the son of Joah; 13 and of the sons of Elizaphan, Shimri and Jeuel; and of the sons of Asaph, Zechariah and Mattaniah; 14 and of the sons of Heman, Jehuel and Shimei; and of the sons of Jeduthun, Shemaiah and Uzziel. 15 ‡†They gathered their brothers and consecrated themselves and went in as the king had commanded, by the words of the Lord, to cleanse the house of the Lord. 16 †The priests went into the inner part of the house of the Lord to cleanse it, and they brought out all the uncleanness that they found in the temple of the Lord into the court of the house of the Lord. And the Levites took it and carried it out to the brook Kidron. 17 †They began to consecrate on the first day of the first month, and on the eighth day of the month they came to the vestibule of the Lord. Then for eight days they consecrated the house of the Lord, and on the sixteenth day of the first month they finished. [18]Then they went in to Hezekiah the king and said, “We have cleansed all the house of the Lord, the altar of burnt offering and all its utensils, and the table for the showbread and all its utensils. [19]All the utensils that King Ahaz discarded in his reign when he was faithless, we have made ready and consecrated, and behold, they are before the altar of the Lord.”

Hezekiah Restores Temple Worship

20 ‡ † Then Hezekiah the king rose early and gathered the officials of the city and went up to the house of the Lord. 21 † And they brought seven bulls, seven rams, seven lambs, and seven male goats for a sin offering for the kingdom and for the sanctuary and for Judah. And he commanded the priests, the sons of Aaron, to offer them on the altar of the Lord. 22 † So they slaughtered the bulls, and the priests received the blood and threw it against the altar. And they slaughtered the rams, and their blood was thrown against the altar. And they slaughtered the lambs, and their blood was thrown against the altar. 23 † Then the goats for the sin offering were brought to the king and the assembly, and they laid their hands on them, 24 † and the priests slaughtered them and made a sin offering with their blood on the altar, to make atonement for all Israel. For the king commanded that the burnt offering and the sin offering should be made for all Israel.

25 And he stationed the Levites in the house of the Lord with cymbals, harps, and lyres, according to the commandment of David and of Gad the king's seer and of Nathan the prophet, for the commandment was from the Lord through his prophets. 26 † The Levites stood with the instruments of David, and the priests with the trumpets. 27 Then Hezekiah commanded that the burnt offering be offered on the altar. And when the burnt offering began, the song to the Lord began also, and the trumpets, accompanied by the instruments of David king of Israel. 28 The whole assembly worshiped, and the singers sang, and the trumpeters sounded. All this continued until the burnt offering was finished. 29 † When the offering was finished, the king and all who were present with him bowed themselves and worshiped.
30 † And Hezekiah the king and the officials commanded the Levites to sing praises to the Lord with the words of David and of Asaph the seer. And they sang praises with gladness, and they bowed down and worshiped.

31 ‡ † Then Hezekiah said, "You have now consecrated yourselves to[1] the Lord. Come near; bring sacrifices and thank offerings to the house of the Lord." And the assembly brought sacrifices and thank offerings, and all who were of a willing heart brought burnt offerings. 32 The number of the burnt offerings that the assembly brought was 70 bulls, 100 rams, and 200 lambs;

all these were for a burnt offering to the LORD. 33And the consecrated offerings were 600 bulls and 3,000 sheep. 34†But the priests were too few and could not flay all the burnt offerings, so until other priests had consecrated themselves, their brothers the Levites helped them, until the work was finished—for the Levites were more upright in heart than the priests in consecrating themselves. 35†Besides the great number of burnt offerings, there was the fat of the peace offerings, and there were the drink offerings for the burnt offerings. Thus the service of the house of the LORD was restored. 36And Hezekiah and all the people rejoiced because God had prepared for the people, for the thing came about suddenly.

Passover Celebrated

30 [1]†Hezekiah sent to all Israel and Judah, and wrote letters also to Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come to the house of the Lord at Jerusalem to keep the Passover to the Lord, the God of Israel. [2]†For the king and his princes and all the assembly in Jerusalem had taken counsel to keep the Passover in the second month— [3]†for they could not keep it at that time because the priests had not consecrated themselves in sufficient number, nor had the people assembled in Jerusalem— [4]and the plan seemed right to the king and all the assembly. [5]† So they decreed to make a proclamation throughout all Israel, from Beersheba to Dan, that the people should come and keep the Passover to the Lord, the God of Israel, at Jerusalem, for they had not kept it as often as prescribed. [6]†So couriers went throughout all Israel and Judah with letters from the king and his princes, as the king had commanded, saying, "O people of Israel, return to the Lord, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, that he may turn again to the remnant of you who have escaped from the hand of the kings of Assyria. [7]Do not be like your fathers and your brothers, who were faithless to the Lord God of their fathers, so that he made them a desolation, as you see. [8]†Do not now be stiff-necked as your fathers were, but yield yourselves to the Lord and come to his sanctuary, which he has consecrated forever, and serve the Lord your God, that his fierce anger may turn away from you. [9]†For if you return to the Lord, your brothers and your children will find compassion with their captors and return to this land. For the Lord your God is gracious and merciful and will not turn away his face from you, if you return to him."

[10]†So the couriers went from city to city through the country of Ephraim and Manasseh, and as far as Zebulun, but they laughed them to scorn and mocked them. [11]† However, some men of Asher, of Manasseh, and of Zebulun humbled themselves and came to Jerusalem. [12]The hand of God was also on Judah to give them one heart to do what the king and the princes commanded by the word of the Lord.

[13]†And many people came together in Jerusalem to keep the Feast of Unleavened Bread in the second month, a very great assembly. [14]†They set to work and removed the altars that were in Jerusalem, and all the altars for burning incense they took away and threw into the Kidron Valley. 15 ‡ † And they slaughtered the Passover lamb on the fourteenth day of the second month. And the priests and the Levites were ashamed, so that they consecrated themselves and brought burnt offerings into the house of the Lord. 16 † They took their accustomed posts according to the Law of Moses the man of God. The priests threw the blood that they received from the hand of the Levites. 17 For there were many in the assembly who had not consecrated themselves. Therefore the Levites had to slaughter the Passover lamb for everyone who was not clean, to consecrate it to the Lord. 18 † For a majority of the people, many of them from Ephraim, Manasseh, Issachar, and Zebulun, had not cleansed themselves, yet they ate the Passover otherwise than as prescribed. For Hezekiah had prayed for them, saying, "May the good Lord pardon everyone 19 † who sets his heart to seek God, the Lord, the God of his fathers, even though not according to the sanctuary's rules of cleanness."[1] 20 † And the Lord heard Hezekiah and healed the people. 21 † And the people of Israel who were present at Jerusalem kept the Feast of Unleavened Bread seven days with great gladness, and the Levites and the priests praised the Lord day by day, singing with all their might[2] to the Lord. 22 † And Hezekiah spoke encouragingly to all the Levites who showed good skill in the service of the Lord. So they ate the food of the festival for seven days, sacrificing peace offerings and giving thanks to the Lord, the God of their fathers.

23 ‡ † Then the whole assembly agreed together to keep the feast for another seven days. So they kept it for another seven days with gladness. 24 † For Hezekiah king of Judah gave the assembly 1,000 bulls and 7,000 sheep for offerings, and the princes gave the assembly 1,000 bulls and 10,000 sheep. And the priests consecrated themselves in great numbers. 25 † The whole assembly of Judah, and the priests and the Levites, and the whole assembly that came out of Israel, and the sojourners who came out of the land of Israel, and the sojourners who lived in Judah, rejoiced. 26 So there was great joy in Jerusalem, for since the time of Solomon the son of David king of Israel there had been nothing like this in Jerusalem. 27 † Then the priests and the Levites arose and blessed the people, and their voice was heard, and their prayer came to his holy habitation in heaven.

Hezekiah Organizes the Priests

31 [1]†Now when all this was finished, all Israel who were present went out to the cities of Judah and broke in pieces the pillars and cut down the Asherim and broke down the high places and the altars throughout all Judah and Benjamin, and in Ephraim and Manasseh, until they had destroyed them all. Then all the people of Israel returned to their cities, every man to his possession.

[2]†And Hezekiah appointed the divisions of the priests and of the Levites, division by division, each according to his service, the priests and the Levites, for burnt offerings and peace offerings, to minister in the gates of the camp of the LORD and to give thanks and praise. [3]†The contribution of the king from his own possessions was for the burnt offerings: the burnt offerings of morning and evening, and the burnt offerings for the Sabbaths, the new moons, and the appointed feasts, as it is written in the Law of the LORD. [4]‡†And he commanded the people who lived in Jerusalem to give the portion due to the priests and the Levites, that they might give themselves to the Law of the LORD. [5]†As soon as the command was spread abroad, the people of Israel gave in abundance the firstfruits of grain, wine, oil, honey, and of all the produce of the field. And they brought in abundantly the tithe of everything. [6]†And the people of Israel and Judah who lived in the cities of Judah also brought in the tithe of cattle and sheep, and the tithe of the dedicated things that had been dedicated to the LORD their God, and laid them in heaps. [7]†In the third month they began to pile up the heaps, and finished them in the seventh month. [8]†When Hezekiah and the princes came and saw the heaps, they blessed the LORD and his people Israel. [9]And Hezekiah questioned the priests and the Levites about the heaps. [10]†Azariah the chief priest, who was of the house of Zadok, answered him, “Since they began to bring the contributions into the house of the LORD, we have eaten and had enough and have plenty left, for the LORD has blessed his people, so that we have this large amount left.”

[11]†Then Hezekiah commanded them to prepare chambers in the house of the LORD, and they prepared them. [12]And they faithfully brought in the contributions, the tithes, and the dedicated things. The chief officer in charge of them was Conaniah the Levite, with Shimei his brother as second, 13 † while Jehiel, Azaziah, Nahath, Asahel, Jerimoth, Jozabad, Eliel, Ismachiah, Mahath, and Benaiah were overseers assisting Conaniah and Shimei his brother, by the appointment of Hezekiah the king and Azariah the chief officer of the house of God. 14 † And Kore the son of Imnah the Levite, keeper of the east gate, was over the freewill offerings to God, to apportion the contribution reserved for the Lord and the most holy offerings. 15 † Eden, Miniamin, Jeshua, Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shecaniah were faithfully assisting him in the cities of the priests, to distribute the portions to their brothers, old and young alike, by divisions, 16 † except those enrolled by genealogy, males from three years old and upward—all who entered the house of the Lord as the duty of each day required—for their service according to their offices, by their divisions. 17 The enrollment of the priests was according to their fathers' houses; that of the Levites from twenty years old and upward was according to their offices, by their divisions. 18 They were enrolled with all their little children, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, the whole assembly, for they were faithful in keeping themselves holy. 19 And for the sons of Aaron, the priests, who were in the fields of common land belonging to their cities, there were men in the several cities who were designated by name to distribute portions to every male among the priests and to everyone among the Levites who was enrolled.

20 † Thus Hezekiah did throughout all Judah, and he did what was good and right and faithful before the Lord his God. 21 † And every work that he undertook in the service of the house of God and in accordance with the law and the commandments, seeking his God, he did with all his heart, and prospered.

Sennacherib Invades Judah

32 [1]‡†After these things and these acts of faithfulness, Sennacherib king of Assyria came and invaded Judah and encamped against the fortified cities, thinking to win them for himself. [2]‡And when Hezekiah saw that Sennacherib had come and intended to fight against Jerusalem, [3]† he planned with his officers and his mighty men to stop the water of the springs that were outside the city; and they helped him. [4]†A great many people were gathered, and they stopped all the springs and the brook that flowed through the land, saying, "Why should the kings of Assyria come and find much water?" [5]†He set to work resolutely and built up all the wall that was broken down and raised towers upon it,[1] and outside it he built another wall, and he strengthened the Millo in the city of David. He also made weapons and shields in abundance. [6]†And he set combat commanders over the people and gathered them together to him in the square at the gate of the city and spoke encouragingly to them, saying, [7]† "Be strong and courageous. Do not be afraid or dismayed before the king of Assyria and all the horde that is with him, for there are more with us than with him. [8]†With him is an arm of flesh, but with us is the Lord our God, to help us and to fight our battles." And the people took confidence from the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

Sennacherib Blasphemes

9 ‡† After this, Sennacherib king of Assyria, who was besieging Lachish with all his forces, sent his servants to Jerusalem to Hezekiah king of Judah and to all the people of Judah who were in Jerusalem, saying, 10 "Thus says Sennacherib king of Assyria, 'On what are you trusting, that you endure the siege in Jerusalem? 11 Is not Hezekiah misleading you, that he may give you over to die by famine and by thirst, when he tells you, "The Lord our God will deliver us from the hand of the king of Assyria"? 12 Has not this same Hezekiah taken away his high places and his altars and commanded Judah and Jerusalem, "Before one altar you shall worship, and on it you shall burn your sacrifices"? 13 Do you not know what I and my fathers have done to all the peoples of other lands? Were the gods of the nations of those lands at all able to deliver their lands out of my hand? 14 Who among all the gods of those nations that my fathers devoted to destruction was able to deliver his people from my hand, that your God should be able to deliver you from my hand? 15 ‡ Now, therefore, do not let Hezekiah deceive you or mislead you in this fashion, and do not believe him, for no god of any nation or kingdom has been able to deliver his people from my hand or from the hand of my fathers. How much less will your God deliver you out of my hand!'"

16 And his servants said still more against the Lord God and against his servant Hezekiah. 17 † And he wrote letters to cast contempt on the Lord, the God of Israel, and to speak against him, saying, "Like the gods of the nations of the lands who have not delivered their people from my hands, so the God of Hezekiah will not deliver his people from my hand." 18 † And they shouted it with a loud voice in the language of Judah to the people of Jerusalem who were on the wall, to frighten and terrify them, in order that they might take the city. 19 And they spoke of the God of Jerusalem as they spoke of the gods of the peoples of the earth, which are the work of men's hands.

The Lord Delivers Jerusalem

20 ‡ † Then Hezekiah the king and Isaiah the prophet, the son of Amoz, prayed because of this and cried to heaven. 21 † And the Lord sent an angel, who cut off all the mighty warriors and commanders and officers in the camp of the king of Assyria. So he returned with shame of face to his own land. And when he came into the house of his god, some of his own sons struck him down there with the sword. 22 ‡ † So the Lord saved Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the hand of Sennacherib king of Assyria and from the hand of all his enemies, and he provided for them on every side. 23 And many brought gifts to the Lord to Jerusalem and precious things to Hezekiah king of Judah, so that he was exalted in the sight of all nations from that time onward.

Hezekiah's Pride and Achievements

24 ‡‡‡In those days Hezekiah became sick and was at the point of death, and he prayed to the Lord, and he answered him and gave him a sign. 25But Hezekiah did not make return according to the benefit done to him, for his heart was proud. Therefore wrath came upon him and Judah and Jerusalem.
26†But Hezekiah humbled himself for the pride of his heart, both he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that the wrath of the Lord did not come upon them in the days of Hezekiah.

27 ‡ And Hezekiah had very great riches and honor, and he made for himself treasuries for silver, for gold, for precious stones, for spices, for shields, and for all kinds of costly vessels; 28storehouses also for the yield of grain, wine, and oil; and stalls for all kinds of cattle, and sheepfolds. 29He likewise provided cities for himself, and flocks and herds in abundance, for God had given him very great possessions. 30†This same Hezekiah closed the upper outlet of the waters of Gihon and directed them down to the west side of the city of David. And Hezekiah prospered in all his works. 31And so in the matter of the envoys of the princes of Babylon, who had been sent to him to inquire about the sign that had been done in the land, God left him to himself, in order to test him and to know all that was in his heart.

32†Now the rest of the acts of Hezekiah and his good deeds, behold, they are written in the vision of Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz, in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. 33†And Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the upper part of the tombs of the sons of David, and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did him honor at his death. And Manasseh his son reigned in his place.

Manasseh Reigns in Judah

33 [1]†††Manasseh was twelve years old when he began to reign, and he reigned fifty-five years in Jerusalem. [2]†And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, according to the abominations of the nations whom the Lord drove out before the people of Israel. [3]†For he rebuilt the high places that his father Hezekiah had broken down, and he erected altars to the Baals, and made Asherahs, and worshiped all the host of heaven and served them. [4]And he built altars in the house of the Lord, of which the Lord had said, "In Jerusalem shall my name be forever." [5]†And he built altars for all the host of heaven in the two courts of the house of the Lord. [6]†And he burned his sons as an offering in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, and used fortune-telling and omens and sorcery, and dealt with mediums and with necromancers. He did much evil in the sight of the Lord, provoking him to anger. [7]And the carved image of the idol that he had made he set in the house of God, of which God said to David and to Solomon his son, "In this house, and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, I will put my name forever, [8]and I will no more remove the foot of Israel from the land that I appointed for your fathers, if only they will be careful to do all that I have commanded them, all the law, the statutes, and the rules given through Moses." [9]† Manasseh led Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem astray, to do more evil than the nations whom the Lord destroyed before the people of Israel.

Manasseh’s Repentance

10 ‡ † The Lord spoke to Manasseh and to his people, but they paid no attention. 11 † Therefore the Lord brought upon them the commanders of the army of the king of Assyria, who captured Manasseh with hooks and bound him with chains of bronze and brought him to Babylon. 12 ‡ † And when he was in distress, he entreated the favor of the Lord his God and humbled himself greatly before the God of his fathers. 13 He prayed to him, and God was moved by his entreaty and heard his plea and brought him again to Jerusalem into his kingdom. Then Manasseh knew that the Lord was God.
14 † Afterward he built an outer wall for the city of David west of Gihon, in the valley, and for the entrance into the Fish Gate, and carried it around Ophel, and raised it to a very great height. He also put commanders of the army in all the fortified cities in Judah. 15 † And he took away the foreign gods and the idol from the house of the Lord, and all the altars that he had built on the mountain of the house of the Lord and in Jerusalem, and he threw them outside of the city. 16 † He also restored the altar of the Lord and offered on it sacrifices of peace offerings and of thanksgiving, and he commanded Judah to serve the Lord, the God of Israel. 17 † Nevertheless, the people still sacrificed at the high places, but only to the Lord their God.
18 † Now the rest of the acts of Manasseh, and his prayer to his God, and the words of the seers who spoke to him in the name of the Lord, the God of Israel, behold, they are in the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel. 19 † And his prayer, and how God was moved by his entreaty, and all his sin and his faithlessness, and the sites on which he built high places and set up the Asherim and the images, before he humbled himself, behold, they are written in the Chronicles of the Seers.[1] 20 † So Manasseh slept with his fathers, and they buried him in his house, and Amon his son reigned in his place.

Amon’s Reign and Death

21 ‡ ‡ Amon was twenty-two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned two years in Jerusalem. 22 And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, as Manasseh his father had done. Amon sacrificed to all the images that Manasseh his father had made, and served them. 23 And he did not humble himself before the Lord, as Manasseh his father had humbled himself, but this Amon incurred guilt more and more. 24 And his servants conspired against him and put him to death in his house. 25 But the people of the land struck down all those who had conspired against King Amon. And the people of the land made Josiah his son king in his place.

Josiah Reigns in Judah

34 [1]‡‡Josiah was eight years old when he began to reign, and he reigned thirty-one years in Jerusalem. [2]†And he did what was right in the eyes of the Lord, and walked in the ways of David his father; and he did not turn aside to the right hand or to the left. [3]†For in the eighth year of his reign, while he was yet a boy, he began to seek the God of David his father, and in the twelfth year he began to purge Judah and Jerusalem of the high places, the Asherim, and the carved and the metal images. [4]† And they chopped down the altars of the Baals in his presence, and he cut down the incense altars that stood above them. And he broke in pieces the Asherim and the carved and the metal images, and he made dust of them and scattered it over the graves of those who had sacrificed to them. [5]†He also burned the bones of the priests on their altars and cleansed Judah and Jerusalem. [6]‡‡And in the cities of Manasseh, Ephraim, and Simeon, and as far as Naphtali, in their ruins[2] all around, [7]he broke down the altars and beat the Asherim and the images into powder and cut down all the incense altars throughout all the land of Israel. Then he returned to Jerusalem.

The Book of the Law Found

8 †‡†Now in the eighteenth year of his reign, when he had cleansed the land and the house, he sent Shaphan the son of Azaliah, and Maaseiah the governor of the city, and Joah the son of Joahaz, the recorder, to repair the house of the Lord his God. 9†They came to Hilkiah the high priest and gave him the money that had been brought into the house of God, which the Levites, the keepers of the threshold, had collected from Manasseh and Ephraim and from all the remnant of Israel and from all Judah and Benjamin and from the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 10And they gave it to the workmen who were working in the house of the Lord. And the workmen who were working in the house of the Lord gave it for repairing and restoring the house. 11†They gave it to the carpenters and the builders to buy quarried stone, and timber for binders and beams for the buildings that the kings of Judah had let go to ruin. 12†And the men did the work faithfully.
Over them were set Jahath and Obadiah the Levites, of the sons of Merari, and Zechariah and Meshullam, of the sons of the Kohathites, to have oversight. The Levites, all who were skillful with instruments of music, 13†were over the burden-bearers and directed all who did work in every kind of service, and some of the Levites were scribes and officials and gatekeepers.

14†While they were bringing out the money that had been brought into the house of the Lord, Hilkiah the priest found the Book of the Law of the Lord given through Moses. 15Then Hilkiah answered and said to Shaphan the secretary, “I have found the Book of the Law in the house of the Lord.” And Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan. 16Shaphan brought the book to the king, and further reported to the king, “All that was committed to your servants they are doing. 17They have emptied out the money that was found in the house of the Lord and have given it into the hand of the overseers and the workmen.” 18Then Shaphan the secretary told the king, “Hilkiah the priest has given me a book.” And Shaphan read from it before the king.

19†And when the king heard the words of the Law, he tore his clothes.
20†And the king commanded Hilkiah, Ahikam the son of Shaphan, Abdon
the son of Micah, Shaphan the secretary, and Asaiah the king’s servant, saying, [21] † "Go, inquire of the Lord for me and for those who are left in Israel and in Judah, concerning the words of the book that has been found. For great is the wrath of the Lord that is poured out on us, because our fathers have not kept the word of the Lord, to do according to all that is written in this book."

Huldah Prophesies Disaster

22 ‡ † So Hilkiah and those whom the king had sent[1] went to Huldah the prophetess, the wife of Shallum the son of Tokhath, son of Hasrah, keeper of the wardrobe (now she lived in Jerusalem in the Second Quarter) and spoke to her to that effect. 23 And she said to them, “Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel: ‘Tell the man who sent you to me, 24 † Thus says the Lord, Behold, I will bring disaster upon this place and upon its inhabitants, all the curses that are written in the book that was read before the king of Judah.
25 † Because they have forsaken me and have made offerings to other gods, that they might provoke me to anger with all the works of their hands, therefore my wrath will be poured out on this place and will not be quenched. 26 † But to the king of Judah, who sent you to inquire of the Lord, thus shall you say to him, Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel: Regarding the words that you have heard, 27 † because your heart was tender and you humbled yourself before God when you heard his words against this place and its inhabitants, and you have humbled yourself before me and have torn your clothes and wept before me, I also have heard you, declares the Lord.
28 † Behold, I will gather you to your fathers, and you shall be gathered to your grave in peace, and your eyes shall not see all the disaster that I will bring upon this place and its inhabitants.’” And they brought back word to the king.

29 ‡ Then the king sent and gathered together all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem. 30 † And the king went up to the house of the Lord, with all the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem and the priests and the Levites, all the people both great and small. And he read in their hearing all the words of the Book of the Covenant that had been found in the house of the Lord. 31 And the king stood in his place and made a covenant before the Lord, to walk after the Lord and to keep his commandments and his testimonies and his statutes, with all his heart and all his soul, to perform the words of the covenant that were written in this book. 32 ‡ Then he made all who were present in Jerusalem and in Benjamin join in it. And the inhabitants of Jerusalem did according to the covenant of God, the God of their fathers. 33 † And Josiah took away all the abominations from all the territory that belonged to the people of Israel and made all who were present in Israel serve the LORD their God. All his days they did not turn away from following the LORD, the God of their fathers.

Josiah Keeps the Passover

35 [1]‡†Josiah kept a Passover to the Lord in Jerusalem. And they slaughtered the Passover lamb on the fourteenth day of the first month. [2]‡He appointed the priests to their offices and encouraged them in the service of the house of the Lord. [3]†And he said to the Levites who taught all Israel and who were holy to the Lord, “Put the holy ark in the house that Solomon the son of David, king of Israel, built. You need not carry it on your shoulders. Now serve the Lord your God and his people Israel. [4]‡†Prepare yourselves according to your fathers’ houses by your divisions, as prescribed in the writing of David king of Israel and the document of Solomon his son. [5]And stand in the Holy Place according to the groupings of the fathers’ houses of your brothers the lay people, and according to the division of the Levites by fathers’ household. [6]†And slaughter the Passover lamb, and consecrate yourselves, and prepare for your brothers, to do according to the word of the Lord by Moses.”

[7]†Then Josiah contributed to the lay people, as Passover offerings for all who were present, lambs and young goats from the flock to the number of 30,000, and 3,000 bulls; these were from the king’s possessions. [8]And his officials contributed willingly to the people, to the priests, and to the Levites. Hilkiah, Zechariah, and Jehiel, the chief officers of the house of God, gave to the priests for the Passover offerings 2,600 Passover lambs and 300 bulls. [9]Conaniah also, and Shemaiah and Nethanel his brothers, and Hashabiah and Jeiel and Jozabad, the chiefs of the Levites, gave to the Levites for the Passover offerings 5,000 lambs and young goats and 500 bulls.

[10]When the service had been prepared for, the priests stood in their place, and the Levites in their divisions according to the king’s command. [11]†And they slaughtered the Passover lamb, and the priests threw the blood that they received from them while the Levites flayed the sacrifices. [12]†And they set aside the burnt offerings that they might distribute them according to the groupings of the fathers’ houses of the lay people, to offer to the Lord, as it is written in the Book of Moses. And so they did with the bulls. [13]†And they roasted the Passover lamb with fire according to the rule; and they boiled

the holy offerings in pots, in cauldrons, and in pans, and carried them quickly to all the lay people. [14]†And afterward they prepared for themselves and for the priests, because the priests, the sons of Aaron, were offering the burnt offerings and the fat parts until night; so the Levites prepared for themselves and for the priests, the sons of Aaron. [15]†The singers, the sons of Asaph, were in their place according to the command of David, and Asaph, and Heman, and Jeduthun the king's seer; and the gatekeepers were at each gate. They did not need to depart from their service, for their brothers the Levites prepared for them.

[16]So all the service of the Lord was prepared that day, to keep the Passover and to offer burnt offerings on the altar of the Lord, according to the command of King Josiah. [17]And the people of Israel who were present kept the Passover at that time, and the Feast of Unleavened Bread seven days. [18]No Passover like it had been kept in Israel since the days of Samuel the prophet. None of the kings of Israel had kept such a Passover as was kept by Josiah, and the priests and the Levites, and all Judah and Israel who were present, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. [19]In the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah this Passover was kept.

Josiah Killed in Battle

20 ‡ † After all this, when Josiah had prepared the temple, Neco king of Egypt went up to fight at Carchemish on the Euphrates, and Josiah went out to meet him. 21 ‡ † But he sent envoys to him, saying, “What have we to do with each other, king of Judah? I am not coming against you this day, but against the house with which I am at war. And God has commanded me to hurry. Cease opposing God, who is with me, lest he destroy you.” 22 † Nevertheless, Josiah did not turn away from him, but disguised himself in order to fight with him. He did not listen to the words of Neco from the mouth of God, but came to fight in the plain of Megiddo. 23 And the archers shot King Josiah. And the king said to his servants, “Take me away, for I am badly wounded.” 24 † So his servants took him out of the chariot and carried him in his second chariot and brought him to Jerusalem. And he died and was buried in the tombs of his fathers. All Judah and Jerusalem mourned for Josiah. 25 † Jeremiah also uttered a lament for Josiah; and all the singing men and singing women have spoken of Josiah in their laments to this day. They made these a rule in Israel; behold, they are written in the Laments. 26 ‡ Now the rest of the acts of Josiah, and his good deeds according to what is written in the Law of the Lord, 27 † and his acts, first and last, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah.

Judah's Decline

36 [1]‡‡The people of the land took Jehoahaz the son of Josiah and made him king in his father's place in Jerusalem. [2]Jehoahaz was twenty-three years old when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem. [3]†Then the king of Egypt deposed him in Jerusalem and laid on the land a tribute of a hundred talents of silver and a talent[1] of gold. [4]†And the king of Egypt made Eliakim his brother king over Judah and Jerusalem, and changed his name to Jehoiakim. But Neco took Jehoahaz his brother and carried him to Egypt.

[5]‡Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. He did what was evil in the sight of the Lord his God. [6]†Against him came up Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and bound him in chains to take him to Babylon. [7]†Nebuchadnezzar also carried part of the vessels of the house of the Lord to Babylon and put them in his palace in Babylon. [8]Now the rest of the acts of Jehoiakim, and the abominations that he did, and what was found against him, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah. And Jehoiachin his son reigned in his place.

[9]†Jehoiachin was eighteen[2] years old when he became king, and he reigned three months and ten days in Jerusalem. He did what was evil in the sight of the Lord. [10]†In the spring of the year King Nebuchadnezzar sent and brought him to Babylon, with the precious vessels of the house of the Lord, and made his brother Zedekiah king over Judah and Jerusalem.

[11]‡Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. [12]†He did what was evil in the sight of the Lord his God. He did not humble himself before Jeremiah the prophet, who spoke from the mouth of the Lord. [13]‡†He also rebelled against King Nebuchadnezzar, who had made him swear by God. He stiffened his neck and hardened his heart against turning to the Lord, the God of Israel. [14]†All the officers of the priests and the people likewise were exceedingly unfaithful, following all the abominations of the nations. And they polluted the house of the Lord that he had made holy in Jerusalem.

15 † The Lord, the God of their fathers, sent persistently to them by his messengers, because he had compassion on his people and on his dwelling place. 16 † But they kept mocking the messengers of God, despising his words and scoffing at his prophets, until the wrath of the Lord rose against his people, until there was no remedy.

Jerusalem Captured and Burned

17 ‡ ‡ ‡ Therefore he brought up against them the king of the Chaldeans, who killed their young men with the sword in the house of their sanctuary and had no compassion on young man or virgin, old man or aged. He gave them all into his hand. 18 And all the vessels of the house of God, great and small, and the treasures of the house of the Lord, and the treasures of the king and of his princes, all these he brought to Babylon. 19 † And they burned the house of God and broke down the wall of Jerusalem and burned all its palaces with fire and destroyed all its precious vessels. 20 † He took into exile in Babylon those who had escaped from the sword, and they became servants to him and to his sons until the establishment of the kingdom of Persia, 21 † to fulfill the word of the Lord by the mouth of Jeremiah, until the land had enjoyed its Sabbaths. All the days that it lay desolate it kept Sabbath, to fulfill seventy years.

The Proclamation of Cyrus

22 ‡‡Now in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, that the word of the Lord by the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled, the Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, so that he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom and also put it in writing: 23 ‡“Thus says Cyrus king of Persia, ‘The Lord, the God of heaven, has given me all the kingdoms of the earth, and he has charged me to build him a house at Jerusalem, which is in Judah. Whoever is among you of all his people, may the Lord his God be with him. Let him go up.’”

2 Chronicles

The Book named as 2 Chronicles in English Bibles was not called that in the early Hebrew tradition. Both 1 Chronicles and 2 Chronicles were one long document, as the flow of the story itself shows (see outline, pp 630–31). Hebrew scribes titled the work "The Words of the Days" or, less literally, "The Events of the Days Past." The document was divided into two books at a later date. For an introduction to the entire document, see pp 628–31.

Study Notes

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Chs 1–9 The reign of Solomon. The Chronicler presents Solomon's reign in a different light than does the author of 1Ki. See "Omissions," p 629. Here the image of Solomon is that of the ideal ruler of an ideal kingdom. Two epochs are closely identified with each other—the reigns of David and Solomon. Everything that is present in David is fully realized in Solomon. David planned the temple; Solomon built it. David came to the throne by acclamation of all Israel; Solomon was acclaimed by all Israel. David was a victorious warrior; Solomon reigned in perfect peace. David established Israel as a world power; Solomon received the bounty of other nations. These chapters provide a glimpse of the fully realized messianic kingdom. If Saul is seen as an example, or type, of rebellion and divine retribution (1Ch 10), then David is the example of restoration. If David is the example of restoration, then Solomon brings the full manifestation of the ultimate kingdom. The reigns of the succeeding kings of Judah would continue the pattern of rebellion, retribution, and restoration, following the types set by Saul and David. At the time the Chronicler writes, the Judeans are awaiting the rise of a new David and the final establishment of the everlasting Kingdom promised to David. So the Church on earth sees in David's Son, the Lord Christ, both the new Davidic age and the coming of the everlasting Solomonic age.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:1–13 Similar to 1Ki 2:12–14; 3:1–15; and 4:1, but with significant differences.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:1 God was with him. See "be with," p 5. exceedingly great. Cf vv 7–13.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:2 thousands. See p 217. judges. See note, Jgs 2:16.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:3 high place. See p 526. Gibeon. Chosen because the Tent of Meeting was there, in conformity with Lv 17:8–9. See p 495.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:5 bronze altar. Made by Bezalel of acacia wood and overlaid with bronze. The king and divinely instituted worship of the Lord are intimately connected.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:6 Solomon … offered. Though Solomon at times acted in a priestly manner (cf 6:3), the priests likely offered all these sacrifices on Solomon's behalf.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:1–6 The Lord greatly blesses Solomon, who worships at the Tent of Meeting set up at Gibeon. Today, the Lord meets with us and blesses us at the services of His Word and Sacraments. Do not neglect His appointed means of grace. Through these humble means, the Lord grants us the blessings of Jesus' sacrifice. In this way, He meets with us as He did with Solomon. • Greet us, dearest Savior, at the tabernacle of Your Word, by which we may confidently call upon Your name. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:7–10 Solomon's dream in 1Ki 3:5 is described here as a prophetic encounter such as David's. Solomon is the king who sacrifices properly and receives the prophetic word: he becomes a messianic figure as the king, priest, and prophet. See note, 1Ch 25:2.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:7 God appeared. See note, 1Ki 3:5.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:8 steadfast love. See p 843.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:9 word to David. See notes, 2Sm 7:12–14. numerous as the dust of the earth. See note, 1Ch 27:23–24.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:10 wisdom. See pp 775–78. go out and come in. Expression for carrying out his public duties. See note, 2Ki 11:8.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:11–12 The Lord's reply. The Chronicler's version of Solomon's prayer is abbreviated, as here he asks only for "wisdom and knowledge" (v 10; cf 1Ki 3:9). The Lord not only grants Solomon's request for wisdom but also promises him riches, possessions, and honor greater than any king before or after him. The reign of Solomon is thus established as the ultimate kingdom, never to be equaled by his successors in Judah. Aug: "In the beginning of his reign he was inflamed with a desire for wisdom, but after he had attained it through spiritual love, he lost it through carnal lust" (NPNF 1 2:565).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:13 The Chronicler does not mention how Solomon displayed his wisdom in the lawsuit of the two women, recorded in 1Ki 3:16–28.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:7–13 See application note, 1Ki 3:1–15.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:14–17 Catalogs the tremendous wealth Solomon gained in fulfillment of the Lord's promise (v 12). The list is repeated at the end of Solomon's reign (9:25–28). chariots and horsemen. See notes, 1Ki 10:26–29. Shephelah. See color map 2. Egypt and Kue. Buying up Egyptian and Hittite military goods. See color map 3.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 1:14–17 Chronicles emphasizes how Solomon used the Lord's wisdom in the kingly activities of administration and trade, which strengthened his kingdom. As the Lord blesses your service, use your gifts to bless those who work with you and for you. Remember how the Lord works on your behalf in all things, and how He administers the greatest blessings of all: the treasures of His mercy in Christ. • O Lord, I yield my treasure, my life, and all things in wise service to Your kingdom and care for my neighbor. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:1 purposed to build. Solomon's first concern was to secure the necessary labor and materials. His appeal to the king of Tyre for aid met with a favorable reply (vv 11–16). See notes, 1Ki 5. temple. Hbr "house." royal palace. Cf 7:11; 8:1; 9:11. The Chronicler omits the description of the building of the palace given in 1Ki 7:1–12, focusing entirely on Solomon and the temple.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:2 Massive workforce is assembled, totaling 150,000 workers plus 3,600 supervisors.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:3–10 While related to 1Ki 5:2–11, the material is reorganized. In the Chronicler's account, Solomon initiated the correspondence with Hiram (v 3; cf 1Ki 5:1). The divinely instituted worship rites of the temple and the uniqueness of Israel's God are emphasized in vv 4–6 (but not in 1Ki). Further, the Chronicler connects Solomon's planning to David's by asking for an artisan to join those "whom David my father provided" (v 7). This artisan is skilled in more specialties than 1Ki 7:13–14 reports.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:3 Solomon sent. Delegation from Hiram assured him that friendly relations between the two nations were to continue (1Ki 5:1). Exchange between Solomon and Hiram (Hbr "Huram") is expanded from 1Ki 5:1–12. Tyre. See color map 1.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:4 house for the name of the LORD. See note, 1Ki 8:18; see also "name," p 843.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:8 algum timber. See note, 1Ki 10:11.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:11–16 Hiram's reply to Solomon. Cf 1Ki 5:7–9.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:11–12 The Chronicler notes that Hiram blessed the Lord (see note, 1Ki 5:7) and includes his additional words "God of Israel, who made heaven and earth." The glory of Solomon caused even a pagan king to acknowledge the omnipotence of the Lord.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:13 Huram-abi. See note, v 3. Abi means "my father" or "master of "; thus, the king's craftsman. The mother of this master craftsman, "a woman of the daughters of Dan" (v 14), apparently also had been a resident of Naphtali (1Ki 7:14).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:14 engraving. See note, Ex 20:4. See also p 141.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:17–18 Cf 1Ki 5:12–18. The Chronicler notes that these were "resident aliens" who were pressed into labor (cf 1Ki 9:20–22).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 2:17 aliens. On their identity and number, see notes, 1Ki 5:15–16. In addition to them, "Solomon drafted forced labor out of all Israel" (1Ki 5:13).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 2 See application note, 1Ki 5.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:1–5:1 Loosely based on 1Ki 6:1–7:51 but with numerous differences in selected material. Compare the texts by consulting the center column references. These chapters provide the transition from Solomon's ascension to the throne and preparation for building (1Ch 29:21–2Ch 2:18) to the ark's arrival (5:2–6:11) and the dedication of the temple (6:12–7:22). Cf Heb 9.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:1–14 Cf 1Ki 6. The Chronicler omits 1Ki 6:4–18, 21–22, 29–38.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:1 Mount Moriah. Specific location on Mount Zion (see p 844). Only Chronicles mentions this location for the temple, a term that occurs nowhere else in the OT except in the story of Abraham's sacrifice of his son Isaac (see note, Gn 22:2). The Chronicler connects the temple to Abraham's sacrifice of faith and to the Lord's appearance to David. Moriah is not an ordinary site but one marked twice by God's miraculous intervention. The multitude of animal sacrifices to be offered over the centuries in the temple would ultimately end when God provided the final sacrifice, the descendant of Abraham and Isaac, of David and Solomon: Jesus.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:2 See "Sequence and Length of Events," p 339.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:3 old standard. Different standard for the cubit seems to have been in use at the time the writer composed Chronicles. cubits. See p cx.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:4 See diagram, p 541.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:5–7 Some details are unique to 2Ch.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:5 palms and chains. Decorative designs.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:6 Parvaim. More commonly called Ophir (1Ch 29:4; 2Ch 8:18).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:7 cherubim. See note, Ezk 10:1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:9 gold … nails. Likely refers to gold plating on the nail heads, because gold is too soft to be used for nails and the amount of gold is relatively small (just over 1 lb).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:10–13 See p 141.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:14 Veil. The curtain in the Most Holy Place (cf Ex 26:31–35; Heb 9). In Herod's temple, it would be torn at the moment of Jesus' death (Mt 27:51; Heb 10:19–25).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:15–4:22 Hiram's work in the temple. Cf 1Ki 7:15–50; see note, 2Ch 4:11–16.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:15 two pillars. Cf 1Ki 7:15–22.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 3:17 Jachin … Boaz. See note, 1Ki 7:21; see also diagram, p 672.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 3 Through sacrifices offered by Abraham, David, and now Solomon, the Lord affirms the site for Solomon's temple on Moriah. This third affirmation, in the raising and blessing of Solomon's temple, demonstrates the Lord's patient planning for our salvation in Christ, who gave His life for our sins in view of this hill of sacrifice. • Grant me patience, gracious Lord, for the unfolding of Your plan for Your Church. Amen.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:1 altar. Cf 1Ki 9:25.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:3 figures of gourds. Ornamental knobs on the molten sea. Here their shape is said to resemble oxen. In Hbr, the words for "oxen" and "gourds" are similar; a copyist could easily confuse them. Decorative symbols were strung around the 30-cubit circumference of the great basin in a symmetric pattern so that there were 10 in every cubit.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:4 oxen. See note, 1Ki 7:29–36; see also p 141.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:5 3,000 baths. See ESV note; see also note, 1Ki 7:26.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:6 sea was for the priests. Used for ceremonial washing of priests. Other basins were built for washing objects (vv 14–16). In the NT, the priests of God (i.e., believers) are washed not in a temple basin but in the water of Holy Baptism. Through that Sacrament, as with the priests of ancient Israel, one is made clean to enter God's presence.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:7–9 Some of these details are unique to 2Ch. Solomon, as charged by David, precisely followed the plan for the temple.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:7 lampstands. Divinely mandated plans were given to David (1Ch 28:15), who measured out the gold for the work. The statement "as prescribed" probably applies to the tables and golden basins of v 8 as well (cf 1Ch 28:16–17).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:8 ten tables. Not mentioned in 1Ki, they seemingly had some connection with the lampstands (v 7). basins. See note, v 11.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:9 court of the priests. Restricted to use by priests, it was smaller than "the great court," where the people assembled and where Solomon erected his bronze platform (6:13).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:11–16 While Hiram, the master craftsman, did the work (cf 2:13–14), he did so as a "subcontractor" for King Solomon (vv 11, 16), who remained the primary builder.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:11 pots … shovels … basins. For handling food, ashes, blood, and whatever else was involved with offering sacrifices. Cf 1Sm 2:12–17; Ezk 46:19–24 for insights into the handling of the sacrifices.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:16 burnished bronze. Utensils were often wrought from sheets of copper.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:17–22 Cf 1Ki 7:46–50. Summary crediting Solomon with the making of all the contents of the temple.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:17 plain of the Jordan … Zeredah. See note, 1Ki 7:46.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:19 tables. Only one table is mentioned in 13:11; 29:18; 1Ki 7:48. The 10 tables (cf 1Ch 28:16) for exhibiting the bread of the Presence are not explained.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:20 as prescribed. See note, v 7.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:21 flowers. Design element. Cf v 11.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:1 was finished. Before dedicating the finished temple, Solomon deposited in it "the things that David … had dedicated" to the Lord (cf 1Ch 18:7–11; 22:3–4, 14; 26:26–28; 29:2–5), giving closure to the story of the building (3:1–5:1). treasuries. See note, 1Ki 7:51.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 4:1–5:1 See application note, 1Ki 7:13–51.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:2 Cf 7:9. The Chronicler specifically notes that Israel's leaders came to King Solomon. assembled the elders. Elders of Israel were gathered in Jerusalem for the Feast of Booths (v 3). See notes, 1Ki 8:1–9:9 for an explanation of the dedicatory rites. Zion. See p 844.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:3 feast … in the seventh month. Feast of Booths. See note, 1Ki 8:2.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:4–10 The Chronicler specifies "Levites" rather than "priests" (as in 1Ki) to show precise accord with Mosaic Law. See note, 1Ch 13:9–12.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:5 tent of meeting. See note, Ex 27:21.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:7 cherubim. See note, Ezk 10:1.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:8 poles. Used by the Levites for carrying the ark.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:9 to this day. See note, 1Ki 8:8.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:10 except the two tablets. Original contents were the tablets, manna, and Aaron's staff (Ex 16:32–34; 31:18; 32:15–16; Nu 17:10–11; Dt 10:1–5). Some have speculated that the Philistines or the men of Beth-shemesh removed these things when they held the ark (1Sm 4:11; 6:19). covenant. See p 127.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:11–14 Cf 1Ki 8:10–11. The Chronicler includes further details about the priests and Levites in his characteristic emphasis on their role in Israel's divinely instituted worship of the Lord (see "Authorship and the Author's Interests," p 628). He notes the presence of the cloud, i.e., the glory of the Lord (cf Ex 40:34–38).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:11 all the priests. In 11b–13a, the writer of Chronicles reports two facts not found in Kings: (1) all the priests and "all the Levitical singers" participated at this occasion, not only those on duty in Jerusalem at the time; (2) the theme song of the singers, accompanied by instrumental music, was a liturgical refrain (v 13b) that David had used (1Ch 16:34; cf Ps 118:1–4, 29). consecrated. See p 6. divisions. See notes, 1Ch 24:1–19; 24:1–5, 19.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:12 cymbals, harps, and lyres. See p 993.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:13 Cf 1Ch 16:5–43, esp vv 34–36, 42, and notes. in unison. Lit, "one voice." He is good. The Chronicler uses an excerpt from the very psalms used by Solomon's father, David. Cf 7:1–3. steadfast love. See p 843.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:14 cloud … glory. See notes, Ex 40:34–38.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 5:2–14 See application note, 1Ki 8:1–11.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:1–7:10 Cf 1Ki 8:12–66. The Chronicler adds material from Ps 132; 136 (6:41–42; 7:3b), as well as material characteristic of the Chronicler's theological interests (6:13; 7:1–3, 6; see also "Authorship and the Author's Interests," p 628).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:1–2 Solomon's initial address to the Lord. dwell in thick darkness. See note, Ex 20:21.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:3 turned around. Solomon apparently faced the altar and temple when directing his praise and worship toward the Lord. He faced the people to speak God's blessing over them. blessed. Compare to David's blessing of the people in 1Ch 16:2 (cf 1Ch 15:25–29; 21:26). Like his father, David, Solomon acted as a priestly king. Israel stood. See p 1277.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:4–11 The Chronicler utilizes material found in God's message to David in 1Ch 17 and David's words in 1Ch 28:2–7. By using this material, he directly links Solomon and the temple's dedication to the Lord's promises to David.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:5 My name … there. See note, 1Ki 8:18; see also "name," p 843. prince. Word choice implies that the Lord is the king. See note, 1Sm 8:7.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:11 covenant. Ten Commandments. See note, Ex 20:1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:1–11 See application note, 1Ki 8:12–21.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:12 stood … spread out his hands. See p 1277. For more on Solomon's prayer, see notes, 1Ki 8:22, 27, 38; 8:31–53.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:13 platform. Rim of Solomon's dais may have curved upward to resemble a basin. knelt. See p 1276.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:14 steadfast love. See p 843.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:15 kept … what you declared. Cf 2Sm 7:12–16.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:16 walk. See p 6. My law. See p 971.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:17 The Chronicler will conclude the prayer with the same theme of remembrance of David (v 42), though 1Ki 8 does not.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:18 Miraculously, the transcendent Lord did dwell amid His people in the temple. Cf 7:2; see notes, Lk 1:31–35. Cyr Jer: "His coming down from heaven was not known by men. … For [by comparison] rain, coming down into a fleece, comes down noiselessly: so that the Magi, not knowing the mystery of the Nativity, say, 'Where is He that is born King of the Jews?' " (NPNF 2 7:74).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:20 set Your name. See note, 1Ki 8:18.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:21 pray toward this place. See "bow," p 1276. hear, forgive. God would hear the confession of their sins. See note, 1Ki 8:30.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:22 made to take an oath. See "oath," p 7.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:24–25 Important concept in the Chronicler's unique warfare narratives throughout the history of the divided kingdom is set forth here. Defeat comes as retribution for sin, and repentance will reverse or lessen the consequences of such defeat.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:26–31 The temple will be a place of prayer and repentance when natural disasters strike the nation.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:26 acknowledge Your name. Calling on the Lord in faith.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:27 inheritance. See note, Jsh 1:6; see also "portion," p 7.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:29 stretching out his hands. See p 1277.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:30 according to all his ways … hearts. Our ways manifest our hearts and faith.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:31 fear. See p 1001.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:32–33 The temple will be a place of prayer for all people, including Gentiles. Cf Is 56:6–8; Zec 8:20–23; 14:16–21; Ps 87. Israel was to be a light to the world, that all might know the true God.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:32 for the sake of … name. See p 842.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:33 all … may know Your name. Faith in Yahweh would spread from Jerusalem as Israel faithfully confessed its Lord. fear. See p 1001.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:34–39 Solomon prophetically anticipated the captivity of the northern tribes in 722 BC under the Assyrians and the southern tribes in 587 BC under the Babylonians. Again the themes of rebellion, retribution, repentance, and restoration are outlines and serve as a paradigm for all of the history of Judah and Israel, esp the final days before and after Babylon (cf ch 36).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:34 city … chosen. See note, 3:1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:36 no one who does not sin. See note, Rm 3:23. Luth: "He alone has righteousness whom God mercifully regards as righteous because of his confession of his own unrighteousness and because of his prayer for the righteousness of God and whom God wills to be considered righteous before Him. Therefore we are all born in iniquity, that is, in unrighteousness, and we die in it, and we are righteous only by the imputation of a merciful God through faith in His Word" (AE 25:274).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:37 turn … repent. See p 1080.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:38 all … all. See note, Dt 6:5.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:39 Your dwelling place. See note, 1Ki 8:30.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:41–42 The Chronicler focuses on the theme of David by citing Ps 132:8–10 in vv 41–42a and Ps 132:1 in v 42b. The psalm itself is connected with the temple and the ark, so Solomon's reciting of it is appropriate. His final clause (v 42b) also reflects Is 55:3b and closes out this portion of the prayer by bringing it full circle to its opening words (vv 14–15).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:41 arise. While the final words of Solomon's prayer in 1Ki 8:52–53 are not included here, the Chronicler supplies an ending in poetic form, also given in Ps 132:8–10 with minor changes. resting place. See note, v 18. clothed with salvation. See note, Is 61:10; see also "salvation," p 843.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:42 turn away. In rejection. Your anointed one! Solomon, the anointed king, entreated the Lord to fulfill the promise of a kingdom forever, made to his father, David (1Ch 17:1–15; Ps 89:49). See notes, 2Sm 7:12–14. steadfast love. See p 843.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 6:12–42 See application note, 1Ki 8:22–53.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:1–11 The Chronicler makes a significant omission of 1Ki 8:54b–61, Solomon's blessing of the people (see note, 6:3).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:1 fire came down. Probably lightning. See note, Jb 1:16. God approved the dedicatory "burnt offering and the sacrifices" with fire from heaven, an event also associated with Aaron, Elijah, and David (see note, 1Ch 21:26). Cf Jgs 6:21. glory of the LORD. See pp 6–7.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:2–3 Recalls 5:11–14 and esp Ps 136:1. See note, 2Ch 5:13. This is positive proof that the Lord accepted this temple as His dwelling place.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:2 priests could not enter. Cf 5:14.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:3 bowed. See p 1276. good … steadfast love. Cf Ps 136.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:1–3 The Lord shows His approval of the temple by igniting the sacrifices and filling the temple with His glory. Today, many people crave such miracles and affirmation for their work and decisions. Remember that in all things the Lord guides us through His Word, which ignites our hearts and fills our minds with His affirmation. His goodness and steadfast love are surely ours in Christ. • Move my heart to trust You, Lord, whether or not I witness miracles. Ever lead me by Your affirming Word. Amen.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:4 offered sacrifice. Dedicatory offerings continued for seven days (cf v 8).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:6 Uniquely, the Chronicler includes this note as evidence of the fulfillment of David's plans concerning the temple musicians (1Ch 23:5; 25). steadfast love. See p 843. trumpets … stood. See pp 993, 1277.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:7 consecrated. See p 6.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:8 Lebo-hamath to the Brook of Egypt. The kingdom's northern and southern boundaries ("Lebo" refers to Lebanon). See color map 1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:9 the eighth day. Of the Festival of Booths. See notes, 5:2, 3. solemn assembly. Work would stop for the festival. dedication of the altar. The Chronicler emphasizes the temple as a place of sacrifice as well as prayer.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:10 Differs slightly from 1Ki 8:66. Note the emphasis on David and Solomon as a continuous headship of Israel.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:4–10 See application note, 1Ki 8:62–66.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:12–22 The Lord visited Solomon a second time. The first visit was at Gibeon (1:3–13).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:12 appeared to Solomon. Cf 1:7.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:13–16 Unique to 2Ch; the Lord's response to specific petitions of Solomon's prayer (6:26–31; 1Ki 8:35–40). Its inclusion serves the larger purpose of validating the temple as the place not only of sacrifice but also of prayer, and it brings forward the theme of repentance and restoration following rebellion and retribution.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:14 called by My name. In the blessing of the priests, the Lord's name was placed on the people. See note, Nu 6:27. humble … pray … seek … turn. The Lord uses a string of verbs to emphasize the actions of sincere repentance. hear … forgive … heal. Second string of verbs emphasizes the Lord's response to His people's repentance. See p 127.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:15 Cf 1Ki 8:52.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:16 My name … forever. Because the people repeatedly rebelled, the special role of the temple did not last. See "name," p 843.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:17–22 Cf 1Ki 9:4–9.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:17–18 A definite messianic reference is found in the "man to rule Israel" (cf Mi 5:2), a stronger statement than in 1Ki 9:5. The everlasting nature of David's kingship would not be fulfilled by just any descendant, including Solomon. It would be fulfilled in the great and final Son of David, who lived and died but also rose again and lives forever.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:19–22 The Lord anticipated the people's rebellion and the exile, recorded at the end of 2Ch. "From the beginning He has utterly uprooted all idolatry. Because of idolatry, He has uprooted both heathen people and Jewish people. To this day He overthrows all false worship, so that all who remain therein must finally perish" (LC I 35).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 7:11–22 See application note, 1Ki 9:1–9.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Chs 8–9 The building of the temple is the focal point in the account of Solomon's reign. Ch 1 is a prologue, explaining why it was possible for him to undertake the project. The rather detailed report of construction and dedication of the temple is followed by this epilogue. There is a series of more or less unrelated episodes, which make the point that under the temple builder's reign, it was possible for all

Israel to worship in the dedicated sanctuary "according to the ruling of David" (8:14).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:2 Emphasizes Solomon's control over all Israelite territory and the protection of its borders against possible invaders (vv 2–10). Apparently as the result of negotiations, Hiram returned to him the 20 cities ceded to the king of Tyre to finance the building program in Jerusalem (vv 1–2; cf 1Ki 9:10–13).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:3 Hamath-zobah. On the northern frontier, Solomon had to reassert his sway over a territory that had come under David's control (1Ch 18:3–10).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:4 Tadmor in the wilderness … Hamath. Along the desert road through Palmyra. See note, 1Ki 9:18.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:5–6 Cities of Beth-horon lay on a strategic route from the plains of Philistia up to Jerusalem. See map, p 534.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:7–10 Solomon's labor force. Cf 1Ki 9:20–23; 1Ch 22:2; 2Ch 2:17.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:9 no slaves. See note, 1Ki 9:22.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:10 chief officers. For their number, see note, 1Ki 5:16.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:11 Pharaoh's daughter. The Chronicler had omitted the earlier reference to Solomon's marriage to the daughter of Pharaoh (1Ki 3:1) but acknowledges it here with his source. He presents his account with different emphases. E.g., it is not Pharaoh's daughter who "went up" as in 1Ki 9:24, but Solomon who "brought Pharaoh's daughter up," emphasizing his royal authority. My wife. Or, "one of my wives." ark of the LORD. Located in Zion; perhaps had even been held on David's property. Since she was a Gentile, and perhaps because she was a female (cf Lv 15:19–30), she was not to come near the ark. Such concern was also demonstrated in Herod's temple with the separate court for women. See diagram, p 1838.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:12 vestibule. Pillared entryway. See diagram, p 541; cf 1Ki 9:25. The Chronicler retains information depicting Solomon acting as a priestly king.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:13–16 Unique to 2Ch. While 1Ki 9:25 speaks only of three sacrifices a year, the Chronicler completes the picture of Solomon's faithful offering of sacrifices throughout the year "according to the commandment of Moses," including Sabbaths and new moons (Lv 23; Nu 28–29). He oversaw the divisions of priests and Levites for temple service "according to the ruling of David his father" (cf 1Ch 23–27).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:13 duty. Lit, "the word." commandment of Moses. Dedicatory sacrifices initiated the observance of all ritual prescriptions for offerings.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:17–18 Solomon's maritime venture with Hiram. At the time, open trade routes went to the south of Arabia and the Red Sea. This is important in the queen of Sheba's visit (9:1–12) and the report of Solomon's wealth (9:13–28).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:17 Ezion-geber … Eloth … Edom. See color map 3.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 8:18 ships and servants. Solomon's fleet of ships, built and manned by Hiram's servants. See note, 1Ki 9:26–27. Ophir. See note, Jb 22:24; see also map, p 780.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 8 See application note, 1Ki 9:10–28.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:1–12 Highlights Solomon's wealth and wisdom. Expansion of Israel's interests toward the southern part of Arabia may have prompted the queen's visit (see note, 8:17–18).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:1 queen. Her visit to the temple builder was evidence that, in addition to providing safety and peace at home, Solomon had friendly and profitable relations with a country as distant and rich in resources as Sheba (vv 1–12). See notes on the parallel account in 1Ki 10:1–13. Sheba. See note, Jb 1:15; see also Sabea on map, p 780. test. Reports of Solomon's wisdom seemed too good to be true.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:3 wisdom. See pp 775–78.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:8 A major difference between Chronicles and Kings regarding the queen of Sheba's visit is noted here. The Chronicler reports her stating that God has "set you on His throne as king for the LORD your God," whereas Kings reports her words as "set you on the throne of Israel" (1Ki 10:9). This reflects the Chronicler's emphasis on the Davidic throne as the divine throne (1Ch 17:14; 28:5; 2Ch 13:8). Blessed be the LORD. See note, 2:11–12. justice … righteousness. See pp 842, 843.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:9 See note, 1Ki 10:10.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:10 Ophir. See note, Jb 22:24; see also map, p 780.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:11 algum wood. See note, 1Ki 10:11.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:12 all that she desired. See note, 1Ki 10:13.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:1–12 See application note, 1Ki 10:1–13.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:13–28 Both Solomon's wealth (vv 13–21, 24–28) and wisdom (vv 22–23) were beyond the degree of any king before or after him. He was the ideal king.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:13 weight of gold. The gold and silver lavished by Solomon on the temple did not exhaust his supply. He had enough of the precious metal for ornaments and drinking vessels in his palace (vv 13–21). See notes, 1Ki 10:14–25.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:14 Arabia. See map, p 33. brought gold. As trade or tribute.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:16 House of the Forest of Lebanon. See note, 1Ki 7:2.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:18 lions. Symbols of regal strength. Chem: "Solomon made two lions for his ivory throne and 12 small lions for the steps. This example established the civil use of images" (LTh 2:374). See p 141.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:21 Tarshish. Indicates that he had ships capable of going a long distance. See note, 1Ki 10:22. The Chronicler emphasizes Solomon's glory by accenting not Hiram's ships but the sailors sent as crews for the ships given to Solomon (8:18).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:22 For the parallel of this final reference to Solomon's illustrious reign, cf 1Ki 10:23–29.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:26 ruled over all the kings. They were his vassals.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:13–28 See application note, 1Ki 10:14–29.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:29–31 The Chronicler doesn't raise the issues of Solomon's apostasy (1Ki 11:1–10) and adversaries (1Ki 11:11–40). Significantly, this excludes the dramatic prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite and his condemnation of Solomon for the splitting of the kingdom after his death (1Ki 11:28–40). The Chronicler will emphasize the blame of Solomon's son Rehoboam.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:29 acts of Solomon. The writer of Chronicles refers his readers to records kept by three prophetic writers (cf 1Ki 11:41). From these sources, no longer in existence today, he selected accounts that served his immediate purpose: to teach the people after the exile that they cannot be God's people without honoring Him in worship acceptable to Him. See pp 335–37. history … prophecy … visions. See "Additions," p 629.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 9:29–31 Solomon begins and finishes his reign under the watchful eyes of the Lord's prophets (cf 1Ki 1:45), who reviewed his accomplishments and likely also reviewed his failures. Today, treasure the faithful spiritual leaders the Lord provides for your wisdom and counsel. Both their rebuke and their blessing stem from the Lord's good purposes for you: to call you to repentance and to make you wise unto salvation in Christ. • Grant me ready ears and a sincere heart, O Lord, to welcome the counsel You provide. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Chs 10–12 The Chronicler has minimal interest in the events of the Northern Kingdom and omits information focused on Jeroboam I of Israel (1Ki 12:25–14:20). The issue of fault in the rebellion is taken up more fully by the Chronicler in the unique material of 2Ch 13. The remaining chapters of 2Ch describe the kings of Judah, the Davidic successors of Solomon. Rulers of the Northern Kingdom receive mention only when relations with the schismatic tribes affect the kings in Jerusalem.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 10:1 all Israel. Worship in the temple by a united nation came to an end after Solomon's death. Shechem. See color map 3.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 10:4 yoke. The 10 northern tribes (Israel) objected particularly to Solomon's conscription of forced labor. See notes, 1Ki 5:13, 15; 11:26. Luth: "There is nothing they forget more rapidly than kindnesses. Solomon reigned wisely, in peace and with great wealth; but as soon as Solomon had died, they immediately began to complain about 'the yoke of Solomon' (2 Chron. 10:4), and there was no remembrance of his deeds of kindness. Regardless of what the state of the world has been, it has always seemed intolerable to the world. … When the Gospel began, everyone ran to it eagerly; but once the Gospel has prevailed, we are bored and forget the great blessings. … Therefore if anyone wants to serve the world with wisdom, justice, or any other good things, let him expect nothing from it except the worst. Thus David and Solomon, the best of kings, loved good men and hated evil men. But the people did not acknowledge their love and forgot all their kindnesses and good deeds" (AE 15:144–45).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 10:6 King Rehoboam. Though possibly not yet anointed king for all Israel, he would be the leader of his tribe, Judah, by default.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 10:11 whips … scorpions. See note, 1Ki 12:11.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 10:16 Foreshadows the battle of ch 13. Contrast with 2Sm 20:1; 1Ch 12:19.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 10:18 Hadoram. Also called Adoniram.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 10:19 to this day. See note, 1Ch 4:41.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 10 See application note, 1Ki 12:1–15.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:1–4 Battle between Rehoboam and Jeroboam was averted by Rehoboam's obedience to the word of Yahweh spoken by Shemaiah the prophet. This same prophet makes a second appearance during the reign of Rehoboam in the Chronicler's expansion of the war with Shishak (12:5–8) and in the citation of sources (12:15).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:1 180,000. Rehoboam's force is small compared with the 1,100,000 men of military age in David's census (1Ch 21:5), the 580,000 under Asa (2Ch 14:8), the 307,500 under Uzziah (2Ch 26:13), the 300,000 under Amaziah (2Ch 25:5), or the 1,160,000 troops under Jehoshaphat (2Ch 17:14–18).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:2 word of the LORD came. See p 1080.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:3 all Israel. See note, 10:1. Seceding tribes may be called Israel to distinguish them politically from the people "in Judah and Benjamin" (cf 10:3, 16). The kingdom of Judah would become the people of the promise (cf 2Sm 7).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:4 your relatives. The Lord sought to avert the massive blood feud by reminding the people that, beyond the politics, they are family. Luth: "When Rehoboam wanted to bring back the Ten Tribes, he was forbidden to do it. … God also at times allows the Turk and the pope to go on a rampage, and again, when it is His will, He represses both. For He who has set a limit for the sea has also appointed definite boundaries for the ragings of the devil and the world, just as Christ says in the garden (Luke 22:51): 'Let them have their way for now.' But God permits all these things to be done that He may teach us to pray, cry out, and groan" (AE 6:223).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:5–23 The Chronicler develops three themes in this section: Rehoboam's building program (vv 5–12), his religious policy (vv 13–17), and his large family (vv 18–23). All three themes are marks of divine favor. By heeding the Lord's word through His prophet Shemaiah, Rehoboam brought prosperity to himself and Judah.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:5–12 Rehoboam's building program. Such building marked periods of prosperity and blessing from God because of obedience to Him (1Ch 11:8–9; 2Ch 8:1–6; 11:5–12; 14:6; 17:12; 26:9–10; 27:3–4; 32:5–6a; 33:14). Each period of building in Chronicles is accompanied by a note that the reigning king either did what was right in the eyes of the Lord or, having sinned, repented, and was restored.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:5 cities for defense. King fortified the approaches to Jerusalem from the south and southwest, the direction from which an Egyptian invasion came (12:1–12). Circumstances suggest that these events are not set down in chronological order. Rehoboam may have strengthened these existing border defenses in order to prevent another attack from the same enemy.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:6–10 Defended territory incorporated only the Shephelah and the Judean hills, but the sites chosen for fortification were strategic because they were located along major roads. The list of fortified cities formed lines of protection on the eastern flank from north to south (Bethlehem, Etam, Tekoa, Beth-zur), on the southern flank from west to east (Lachish, Adoraim, Ziph, Hebron), and on the western flank from north to south (Aijalon, Zorah, Gath, Azekah, Soco, Adullam, Mareshah). The northern flank lacked a line of defense, perhaps because Rehoboam wished to keep open the possibility of reunion with the north, or he may not have felt threatened from that direction.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:9 Lachish. Archaeological remains show a hilltop location, an outer wall, an inner wall, a six-chambered gate, and an inner fortress that also may have served as a palace. Some of these mighty fortifications may date from Rehoboam's work.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:1–12 See application note, 1Ki 12:16–24.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:13–17 The Chronicler introduces for the first time the theme of religious infidelity in the north and describes how the faithful there came to worship at Jerusalem. Periods of prosperity inevitably involve religious reform and revival.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:13 presented themselves. Border between the two kingdoms remained open (see note, vv 6–10). Priests, Levites, and others in all Israel who refused to take part in the false worship at Bethel and Dan (1Ki 12:28–30) crossed over "to Jerusalem to sacrifice to the LORD" (v 16). him. Rehoboam.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:14 cast them out. The northern apostasy is demonstrated by their rejection of the priests and Levites. Jeroboam appointed his own priests in their place (1Ki 12:32; 13:33 report that he appointed priests from among the people who were not of the Levites).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:15 The north was committed to idolatry; the south, to the true worship of Yahweh. The Chronicler reinforces this by reporting more about Jeroboam's idolatry, also recorded in 1Ki 12:25–33. goat idols. Demons were thought to be in the form of male goats. See note, Lv 17:7.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:16 seek the LORD. See p 843.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:17 walked. See p 7. three years. Rehoboam later "abandoned the law of the LORD" (12:1).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:13–17 Priests, Levites, and citizens of Israel seek the Lord at His temple in Jerusalem, despite the personal and professional hardships it brings. When faithfulness to the Lord comes with challenges, still choose to follow the way of faithfulness, seeking the fellowship of the faithful in the Church. Your Lord, who is always faithful, will strengthen and sustain you in the fellowship of His Word and Sacraments. • Deliver us from evil, O Lord, and grant us faithful leaders and fellow believers who can help us in our time of need. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:18–23 Rehoboam's large family (18 wives, 60 concubines, 28 sons, and 60 daughters) indicates divine favor in the Chronicler's writings (cf 1Ch 3:1–9; 14:2–7; 25:4–5; 26:4–5; 2Ch 13:21; 21:1–3).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:18 Jerimoth. Not mentioned in the list of David's sons (1Ch 3:1–8). May have been the son of a concubine.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:20 Maacah. According to 2Sm 14:27, Absalom had only one daughter, Tamar. Hbr words for son and daughter may also refer to grandchildren.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:21 eighteen wives. Rehoboam's polygamous marriage relations no doubt accounted for the fact that "he abandoned the law of the LORD" (12:1; cf 1Ki 11:4). See note, Gn 16:2. concubines. See pp 54–55.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:22 chief prince. If the order of birth is that of the order in the text, Rehoboam bypassed his older sons born of Abihail (vv 18–19). The law of Dt 21:15–17 sought to protect the rights of the firstborn and specifically prohibited the transferal of rights to a younger son born of a woman more loved by the husband. Normally, the right of a firstborn son of a king included the crown (cf 21:3). However, the firstborn had been set aside before (Gn 17:19–21; 48:13–20; 2Sm 3:2–4; 1Ki 1:32–37; 1Ch 26:10).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 11:18–23 Rehoboam cleverly exploits family relationships to strengthen his hold on Judah. Yet his purposes conflict with the Lord's purposes for families. A family is not a political tool but a gift from our gracious heavenly Father, whereby we may nurture one another in His love. Thanks be to God, He works within our families to strengthen faith and extend His peace through mutual care in His Word. • Make me a blessing to my family, O Lord, by word and by deed. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:1–12 War of Rehoboam and Shishak, greatly expanded from 1Ki 14:21–31. While 1Ki is content to note that Shishak "came up against Jerusalem" (1Ki 14:25), the Chronicler adds a battle report, complete with the appearance of the prophet Shemaiah (vv 3–8).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:1 The Chronicler introduces the war with Shishak with a theological observation on the reign of Rehoboam. rule … established. Cf 11:16–17, 23. Rehoboam acted shrewdly by emphasizing worship at the Jerusalem temple, which ensured the loyalty of many people living in Israel. abandoned. Key concept in the Chronicler's theological vocabulary. The same Hbr word, also translated "forsaken," is used elsewhere for irregular worship (13:10–11; 21:10–11; 28:6; 29:6) or the worship of foreign gods (7:19, 22; 24:18; 34:25).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:2 Shishak. Ruler 945–924 BC, founder of the Twenty-second Egyptian Dynasty. His invasion of Judah and Israel is documented by a well-known inscription on the temple wall in Karnak. More than 150 conquered cities are mentioned in this inscription, though Jerusalem is not among them.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:3 without number. See note, 11:1. Sukkiim. Known to have had a part in other Egyptian military operations, but mentioned only here in the OT.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:5 Shemaiah. Cf v 15. abandoned. See note, v 1. This kind of wordplay occurs three times in Chronicles, here and in 15:2; 24:20. In each case, it is spoken by an inspired prophet, part of the material unique to Chronicles, and within the context of warfare.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:6 humbled themselves. The word of Shemaiah was received with a confession of guilt. The LORD is righteous. Used also in the more extensive confessions of Ex 9:27; Ezr 9:15; Ne 9:33; Ps 119:137; 129:4; Dn 9:14. See "righteous," p 843. Humility brings mercy from the Lord (cf 7:14).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:7 In response to Judah's humility, the Lord grants three things, listed in v 7b. word of the LORD came. See p 1080. some deliverance. Or, "deliverance within a short time." God tempered the severity of the punishment, as He did when Moses interceded for the people (see note, Ex 32:14).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:8 know My service. Invasion was to teach that the alternative to serving the Lord was servitude to "the kingdoms of the countries," the rod of His anger for apostasy (Is 10:5). Implied here is the opportunity to learn the difference between serving the Lord and other kings and the promise that they may have future opportunities to serve the Lord.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:9 took away everything. Tribute, to make peace. Cf v 8; see note, 1Ki 14:26.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:12 good. Prosperity prevailed again after the enemy left.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:13–16 Customary formula for summarizing a king's reign.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:13 put His name there. See note, 1Ki 8:18. Naamah the Ammonite. One of Solomon's foreign wives. See note, Nu 21:24.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:14 did evil. Cf 1Ki 14:22–24.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 12:15 While 1Ki 14:29 cites "the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah," here the Chronicler cites two prophetic works. See ESV note; see "Additions," p 629.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 12 The Lord proves Himself righteous toward Rehoboam and Judah by punishing their abandonment of His Law and by hearing their confession of sin. The Lord is always ready to hear our confession and to forgive us. In applying His Law, He always has in mind our good, our repentance, and our salvation. • Hear my cry, O righteous Lord, and answer me according to Your mercy in Christ. Amen.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 13 Cf 1Ki 15:1–8. The son of Rehoboam undergoes rehabilitation in the Chronicler's history; here he receives no condemnation but leads a just war against the north and becomes a model king. The Chronicler does not follow his source in condemning Abijah (1Ki 15:3–4), and he adds a lengthy account of warfare (vv 3–18).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:1 Abijah. A significant modification is the change in name from Abijam ("my father is Yam," a Canaanite god), the consistent name in Kings, to Abijah ("my father is the LORD"). This may be merely a spelling variant, or it could be the difference between a given name and a throne name.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:2 Micaiah. Also appears in the form Maacah (11:20–22). Abijah's mother was the granddaughter of Absalom. Gibeah. Town in Benjamin associated with Israel's first king, Saul.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:3 400,000. Hbr word for "thousand" here is also a special military term. See note, 1Ki 20:29; see also p 217.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:4–12 Abijah's speech. The Chronicler includes the kingdom of Israel as the kingdom of Yahweh (cf 1Ch 17:14; 28:5; 29:11, 23; 2Ch 9:8). Note the vocabulary of the Chronicler's retribution theology ("forsaken," vv 10–11; "succeed," v 12). Abijah declared the legitimacy of two things: the Davidic dynasty (vv 4b–7) and the divinely instituted worship of the Lord at Jerusalem (vv 8–11). The speech of Abijah and the battle that follows (vv 13–18) are not included in Kings.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:4 Zemaraim. C 9 mi N of Jerusalem; cf Jsh 18:22. Ephraim. See color map 2. Hear me. Addressees are apparent later in the speech, but Jeroboam is not among them. In vv 6–8, Jeroboam is spoken of in the third person. The appeal in v 12 is to the "sons of Israel." Jeroboam is not addressed at all.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:5 covenant of salt? Probably refers to a perpetual covenant (salt is a preservative). In Lv 2:13, salt was necessary for the covenant to be effective. A meal, which probably included salt, was sometimes part of the ratification of a covenant (cf Gn 26:30; 31:54; Ex 24:11; 2Sm 3:20). It may also be an allusion to the "covenant of salt" in Nu 18:19, linking the Mosaic covenant to the Davidic covenant. See p 127.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:7 Crucial to understanding the speech of Abijah. worthless scoundrels. See note, Jgs 19:22. him. The immediate antecedent is "lord" in v 6. This then references the failings of Rehoboam in ch 10. young. Inexperienced. Statement likely describes Rehoboam's upbringing, although Solomon had called himself "a little child" (1Ki 3:7) because he lacked administrative discretion.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:8 kingdom of the LORD. By warring against Rehoboam, Jeroboam was in effect trying to dethrone God, who would rule in Israel through the sons of David (1Ch 28:5). The Chronicler equates the Davidic throne with that of the Lord (cf 1Ch 29:23). See pp 1565–66. have with you. They may have brought the idols to the battle. Cf 1Sm 4:3. golden calves. Cf 11:15. Rebellion of the north is defined not only as rebellion against the divinely appointed king but also as a religious rebellion exemplified in false worship practices never established or instituted by the Lord.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:9 like the peoples. When Jeroboam "made priests" in defiance of God's Law, the worship the priests conducted at Bethel and Dan was just as offensive as the idolatrous rites of the Gentiles surrounding Israel. Whoever comes for ordination. See ESV note. Common technical term for "ordain" or "consecrate." See note, Ex 29:9. young bull or seven rams. Emphasizes the offerings rather than the consecration, as in Ex 29:1. Jeroboam put the office of priest up for sale. no gods. A climactic denunciation of Israel's gods.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:10 Counters the conclusion of v 9. the LORD is our God. Just as Israel's false king is countered by Judah's true king, so also the false deities are countered by the true God. We have priests … for their service. Northern priests lack correct lineage, whereas true priests (as the boast continues in v 11) maintain the Lord's divinely instituted worship requirements.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:11 Such lists of divinely instituted worship practices and duties are common to the Chronicler's work, in which the temple and priesthood play a major role.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:12 sound the call. See notes, Nu 10:2, 8–9. Main point of the speech: Israel cannot win the battle. More than a confrontation of two armies, it is a confrontation of theologies. The Chronicler's claim of victory for the south is a claim of orthodoxy represented in the Davidic kingship and the divinely instituted worship of the Lord (1Ch 17:16; 2Ch 2:5–6; 14:11; 20:6, 12; 32:7–8).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:13–21 Battle of Abijah.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:13 ambush. Common strategy in both ancient and modern warfare (cf Jsh 8:2; Jgs 20:29). The larger, northern army, deployed in a clever manner, would have routed Judah if God had not "defeated Jeroboam and all Israel" (v 15). For other instances where God fights for those who rely on Him, giving the enemy into their hand, cf Jsh 10:14, 42; 23:3; 1Ch 16:12.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:14 cried to the LORD. Their prayer became their battle cry. The ambush caught Judah's army by surprise, but their reaction was one engendered by trust in Yahweh (v 18). trumpets. Hbr term is used c 30 times in the OT. See p 993.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:15 shout. Also see Gideon's defeat of Midian with the cry "A sword for the LORD and for Gideon!" (Jgs 7:20) and Saul's battle with the Philistines (1Sm 17:20, 52). Simultaneous with the trumpet blast and battle shout, the Lord acts to defeat Jeroboam and all Israel.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:16–17 Of 800,000 Israelite soldiers, only 300,000 survived.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:18 The north chose to fight against Yahweh, the God of their fathers (v 12). In contrast, the south "relied on the LORD, the God of their fathers" (cf v 14). This concludes not only the battle but also the statement of its theological significance.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:19 took cities. Bethel, where Jeroboam erected a golden calf (1Ki 12:28–29), was north of Jerusalem but south of Jeshanah and Ephron. These border towns soon reverted to Israel. Baasha, the next northern king, fortified Ramah, only 5 mi N of Jerusalem (16:1). See border region map on p 558.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:20–21 Personal fates of the two kings, Jeroboam and Abijah, serve respectively as a final notice of the Lord's disfavor and favor.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 13:22 Concluding formula for a king's reign. The Chronicler's source is "the story of the prophet Iddo," which helps explain the different material he presents. See "Additions," p 629.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 13 The Lord fights against Jeroboam for the sake of Abijah and Judah. Today, when trouble assails and surrounds you, call out confidently to the Lord. He fights mightily on your behalf and in ways beyond your comprehension, as demonstrated in His victory over Satan at the cross. • Hear my cry, O Mighty Ruler, and overthrow the enemies of Your kingdom. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Chs 14–16 The Chronicler's account is a major expansion of the rather brief treatment in 1Ki 15:8b–24a. However, 1Ki provides the framework.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:1 See note, 1Ki 2:10. The Chronicler drives home the lesson his readers were to learn from history: the blessing of covenant faithfulness and the dire results of apostasy. Asa's prosperous reign is related directly to his purging the land of idolatry (vv 1–8). He was spared a foreign invasion because "the LORD defeated the Ethiopians" (v 12), who attacked his southern and western borders (vv 9–15). rest. A theme developed in two ways. First, it is associated with the temple, where Yahweh takes up His rest among the people (1Ch 28:2; 2Ch 6:41; Ps 132:8). Second, it is associated with the reign of Solomon (1Ch 22:9) and later Judean kings when they are faithful to the Lord, esp in the cases of Asa and Jehoshaphat.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:2–5 Asa's first reformation. Cf 1Ki 15:12. The temple worship reforms of 1Ki are radically different here. The Chronicler makes no mention of "the male cult prostitutes," nor does he refer to "all the idols that his [Asa's] fathers had made." The Chronicler's favorable accounts of the reigns of Solomon, Rehoboam, and esp Abijah would preclude the mention of these idols.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:3 high places. See p 526; see also note, 15:17. Demonstrates resilience of false religions. Similar problem occurred in the reign of Jehoshaphat (see note, 17:6). pillars … Asherim. See notes, Gn 28:18; Ex 34:13.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:4–5 Asa's first reform is specifically tied to the cities of Judah and was broader than his unilateral removal of idolatrous cult objects from Judah's cities. The entire nation was involved in the reform. seek the LORD. Pious king leads the nation toward proper worship. See p 843.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:5 rest. See note, v 1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:6–7 Asa's building program is unique to 2Ch. Asa's reforms brought peace and rest and an opportunity to build. Building programs were undertaken, not only by Rehoboam and Asa, but also by Jehoshaphat (17:12), Uzziah (26:9–10), Jotham (27:3), Hezekiah (32:5), and Manasseh after his repentance (33:14). The opposite situation came about in the latter phase of Asa's reign (2Ch 16:9).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:6 fortified cities. See note, 1Ki 15:22; cf 2Ch 11:5–12. no war. V 1 gives the round figure of 10 years for the period when "the land had rest." Then hostilities broke out with the northern king Baasha (16:1–6), who began his 24-year reign in the third year of Asa's reign (1Ki 15:33).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:7 sought the LORD. See p 843.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:8 Tally of Asa's army. Theme of peace and prosperity now shifts dramatically to war and its instruments. Asa commands an army of 580,000 composed of Judean infantry and Benjaminite "artillery," i.e., archers. large shields. See note, Ps 35:2. men of valor. See note, Jsh 1:14.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:9–12 Battle with Ethiopia. Tremendous Judean army is met by an enemy army of even greater dimensions, a million men and 300 chariots led by Zerah the Ethiopian (Hbr, Cushite), an otherwise unknown individual, who likely served as a general for one of the pharaohs.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:9 Zerah. Name may be Nubian in origin. Mareshah. City c 25 mi SW of Jerusalem; fortified by Asa's grandfather Rehoboam (11:8). See map, p 615.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:10 Valley of Zephathah. Exact location unknown.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:11 Asa's prayer functions as an application and paradigm of Solomon's dedicatory prayer (6:34), which prescribed prayer in time of war. help … Help. See note, Ps 70:5.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:12 The Lord responded to the prayer of pious Asa. Similar wording is used in 13:15b–16a. Cf Ex 14:14; Dt 20:4; 1Sm 17:47. In Abijah's battle with Jeroboam (ch 13), the people participated in a limited way by blowing the trumpets and raising the battle shout. In Asa's battle, even such minimal participation is omitted. The Lord acts alone in response to the prayer of Asa.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:13–15 Aftermath of the battle. The taking of booty by a victorious Judean army is described both here and in Jehoshaphat's war in 20:25. Conversely, the plundering of Judah also occurred when Judah met defeat (e.g., at the hands of Shishak in 12:9–11). Some of Asa's booty is sacrificed to the Lord (15:11; cf Dt 2:34–35).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:13 Gerar. Located in the Philistine plain 25 mi SW of Mareshah. His army. Asa's troops served the Lord (cf 1Ch 12:22–23).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 14:14 Gerar. See color map 1. fear of the LORD. Cf 1Sm 11:7, where the same phrase is translated "the dread of the LORD." See also p 1001.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 14 See application note, 1Ki 15:9–24.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 15 Here the Chronicler records the message of Azariah, the second reformation, and the covenant celebration it brought.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:1–7 Message of Azariah the son of Oded. Three elements are common in prophetic speeches in Chronicles. First, a call for attention: "Hear me" (v 2; cf 1Ch 28:2; 2Ch 13:4; 20:20; 29:15). Second, a statement of truth: "The LORD is with you while you are with Him" (v 2; cf 1Ch 28:9; 2Ch 10:10–11, 14; 20:20; see "be with," p 5). Third, a promise of assistance: "He will be found by you" (v 2; cf 1Ch 14:15; 17:2; 28:20; 2Ch 13:12; 19:11; 20:15, 17; 32:8; 36:23).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:1 Azariah. Otherwise unknown prophet.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:2 See note, vv 1–7.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:3 For a long time. See note, v 5. teaching priest. Instruction in the Law was a priestly duty (Lv 10:11). Cf 17:9; Dt 33:10; Jer 18:18; Hos 4:6–7; Mal 2:7 for examples of its performance. teaching … law. From same Hbr root. See "Law," p 971.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:5 those times. Though the era is not explicit, his hearers would realize that he was describing the period of the judges, one of the worst eras in Israel's history. See pp 380–81. out … in. See note, 1:10.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:7 Do not let your hands be weak. Expression about becoming discouraged or demoralized (cf Is 13:7; Jer 6:24; 50:43; Ezk 7:17; Zep 3:16). rewarded. Luth: "What is the meaning of the word ‘reward’ which occurs so frequently in the Scriptures? ‘Your work,’ it says, ‘shall be rewarded’ [II Chron. 15:7]; ‘I am your exceeding great reward’ [Gen. 15:1]; also, ‘Who renders to every man according to his works’ [Rom. 2:6 f.]; and Paul in Romans 2[:7] says: ‘To those who seek it by patience in good works, [he will give] eternal life’; and there are many similar passages. The answer is that by all these passages nothing is proved but a consequence of reward, and by no means a worthiness of merit. For it is clear that those who do good things do them in no servile and mercenary spirit for the sake of gaining eternal life, yet they are seeking eternal life in the sense that they are on the road by which they will arrive at and find eternal life. Hence ‘to seek’ means to strive earnestly and endeavor with prompt diligence toward that which is the regular result of a good life” (AE 33:153).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:8–19 Asa’s response to Azariah: the second reformation (cf 1Ki 15:13–15). The reforms are linked to Azariah’s sermon by the repetition that Asa “took courage” in v 8 (cf v 7).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:8 The account of the first reforms by Asa (14:2–5) specifically took place in the cities of Judah. This reform is broader in that it took place in all the land of Judah and Benjamin as well as the cities of the hill country of Ephraim.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:9–15 Covenant celebration.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:9 As happened during the reign of Rehoboam (11:16–17), members of the tribes of Ephraim, Manasseh, and Simeon deserted to Asa. Simeon. It is unclear why this tribe, which was south of Judah and to a great extent absorbed by it, should be mentioned together with the sojourners from the northern tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh (see note, 1Ki 11:32). Perhaps the Simeonites declared their full solidarity with the Southern Kingdom at this time.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:10 gathered … in the third month. For Pentecost. See pp 200–201. Tying this festival to the war with Zerah, they sacrificed from the spoils of war.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:12 covenant. See p 127. King and people solemnly reconsecrate themselves “to seek the LORD,” who at Mount Sinai had pledged Himself to make the Israelites “a kingdom of priests and a holy nation” (Ex 19:6) without any merit or worthiness on their part (see note, Ex 19:6). seek. See p 843. all … all. See note, Dt 6:5.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:13 put to death. Cf Dt 13:6–10; 17:2–7.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:14 oath. See p 7. trumpets and with horns. See p 993.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:16 queen mother. See notes, 1Ki 15:10, 13. Asherah. See note, Ex 34:13. Kidron. See note, 1Ki 15:13; see also color map 1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:17 high places … not taken out. See p 526. In his intentions, Asa was blameless. But evidently the people found ways of circumventing his orders so that he did not succeed in eradicating an entrenched custom. His successors fared no better (17:6; 20:33). Israel. Not a reference to the Northern Kingdom. Under the Davidic kings of Judah, Israel in the religious sense continued to exist, despite much unfaithfulness (see note, 11:3).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 15:19 thirty-fifth year. See note, 16:1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 15 When Azariah speaks God's Word to Asa, the king courageously brings reform to Judah and to members of the tribes of Israel. Today, the Lord likewise calls you to courageous action on behalf of others who need to hear His Word. Take courage! The Lord's Word accomplishes His purposes for the sake of His people, especially His purpose of salvation. • O Lord, we seek Your blessing in accord with Your Word. Grant us courage to call others to repentance and faith in Your name. Amen.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 16 The Chronicler makes a major addition at vv 7–10. He divides Asa's reign into good (14:1–15:19) and evil (ch 16). Both periods brought their appropriate rewards or punishments. See note, 14:1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:1–6 To prevent Baasha from building at Ramah and blockading Judah at that point (v 1), Asa bought an alliance with Ben-hadad of Syria (vv 2–4). The alliance accomplished its goal: Baasha stopped building Ramah (v 5), and Asa removed the timbers to build Geba and Mizpah (v 6).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:1 According to 1Ki 15:33, Baasha ruled 24 years, beginning in the third year of Asa. Hence, in Asa's 36th regnal year, the northern king had been dead for nearly 10 years. Apparently a copyist's error has distorted the text. A proposed transposition of two letters (which the Hbr could use to represent numbers) yields a reading of 16 years, which accords with 1Ki 15:33. built Ramah. See notes on the parallel account in 1Ki 15:16–22.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:2–6 See map, p 558.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:2 Asa took … from the treasures. Temple treasury seems to have served the kings of Judah; a number of them used it to pay tribute (cf 2Ki 12:18; 16:8; 18:15). Although the treasury supported the work of the priests, it may have doubled as a royal bank. See note, 1Ch 26:20–28.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:3 covenant … covenant. See p 127.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:7–10 Prophecy of Hanani, unique to 2Ch, explains both the continuous wars of Asa and ultimately his death. Is 7 and its condemnation of Ahaz is a likely parallel: Both kings respond to a threat from the north (2Ch 16:1; Is 7:1–2). Both obtain alliances with a third power (2Ch 16:2–4; 2Ki 16:7–9). Both fail to rely on the Lord (2Ch 16:7; Is 7:9b). Both face worse disasters in the future (2Ch 16:9b; Is 7:17–25).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:7 Hanani. Known only through association with Jehu, the son of Hanani, who prophesied against Baasha (1Ki 16:1) and Jehoshaphat (19:2). Jehu is cited by the Chronicler as a source for the account of Jehoshaphat's reign (20:34). relied … rely. Cf Is 10:20.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:8 Ethiopians … Libyans. Asa's failure to trust in the Lord is compared to his battle with Zerah in ch 14. Difference is that in the earlier battle, Asa relied on the Lord. In this second war, he relied instead on the king of Syria.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:9 blameless. See note, Jb 1:1. foolishly. No distinction is made between the secular and the religious. For Judah, and for its king in particular, the religious and secular arenas are inseparable (unlike the situation in the NT; see pp 1565–66). Thus the secular consequence of the religious problem is spelled out by the prophet. See p 1016.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:10 prison. Incredible that a man so zealous for the Lord (ch 15) should be the first king of Judah to persecute God's messenger (cf 1Co 10:12). The cruelty is similar to Ahab's treatment of Micaiah (18:26; 1Ki 22:26–27) and Jeremiah's treatment at the hands of Pashhur the priest (Jer 20:2).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:12 diseased in his feet. Exact nature of disease cannot be determined with certainty, but the fact that it affected the feet may be related to his putting Hanani in stocks and thus directly correlated to Hanani's suffering. Cf 26:19–21. physicians. Term used of netherworld deities, it may refer to mediums, as in the case of the medium at En-dor (1Sm 28). If these physicians actually were such deities, the unfaithfulness of Asa is even more pronounced.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:13 See note, 1Ki 2:10.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 16:14 fire. Lit, "a great burning," not of the corpse but of the spices (cf Jer 34:5). His grandson Jehoram was not given such an honorable burial (21:19). See note, 1Sm 31:11–12.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 16 Asa stumbles in his faith, but rather than repent, he foolishly lashes out at the Lord's prophet. You, too, will stumble. In every challenge, daily rely on the Lord by calling on Him in prayer and by requesting His forgiveness. Because of His righteousness, He will declare you blameless for the sake of His Son. • O Lord, give me Your strong support, for I rely on You alone. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Chs 17–20 Theological points of chs 14–16 continue in the expanded story of Jehoshaphat. The Chronicler's account of Jehoshaphat's reign is based on the pattern established by the account of Asa's reign. Both kings are for the most part pious. Both interact with different prophets (Asa, with Azariah and Hanani; Jehoshaphat, with Jehu, Jahaziel, and Eliezer) and are rebuked for foreign entanglements (16:7–9; 19:1–3; 20:35–37).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 17 The Lord established Jehoshaphat as king because he was faithful to God and His commands (vv 1–6). Jehoshaphat not only abolished idolatry but also introduced a program of mass education in God's Law (vv 7–9). God's blessings were evident as Jehoshaphat grew strong and prosperous at home and abroad (vv 10–19). Cf 1Ki 15:24.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:2 fortified cities of Judah. Built by Rehoboam; cf 11:5–12. See note, 1Ki 15:22. cities of Ephraim. Cf 13:19; 15:8. Jehoshaphat's military maneuvering is developed in vv 12–19.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:3–4, 6 Despite his alliance with the north (ch 18), Jehoshaphat remained loyal to the Lord.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:3 The LORD was with Jehoshaphat. No one has the right to demand God's gracious presence. But God blessed Jehoshaphat with "riches and honor" (v 5). See "be with," p 5.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:4 sought … God. See p 843.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:5 tribute. Jehoshaphat is the recipient of wealth and honor from Judah, a theme expanded in vv 10–12a. Similar notes are made of David (1Ch 29:2–5, 28), Solomon (2Ch 9:13–28), Uzziah (2Ch 26:8, 15), and Hezekiah (2Ch 32:27).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:6 courageous in the ways of the LORD. Zealous in applying God's teachings by enforcing His Law and encouraging faith in His promised blessings through the covenant, Jehoshaphat showed himself to be the ideal king of Dt 17:18–20. See "ways," p 844. high places. See p 526. Asherim. See note, Ex 34:13.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:7 officials. Jehoshaphat delegated teaching authority to five princes or officials, nine Levites, and two priests. (Obadiah and Zechariah were common names. The prophets so named are from a later era. See pp 1077–83.) Though the teaching duty of temple personnel is often mentioned in the OT (Lv 10:11; Dt 33:10; 2Ch 15:3; Jer 18:18; Hos 4:6; Mal 2:7), it is unusual for laity to be listed with Levites and priests as teachers. See note, 15:3.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:9 Book of the Law of the LORD. Cf 34:14. The Books of Moses. After the return from the Babylonian exile, it was read at assemblies of the people (Ne 8:2–8; 9:3). The teaching priests (cf 15:3) were assisted by Levites.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:10–12a The riches and honor given to Jehoshaphat were far greater than those from Judah alone (cf v 5). His strength was that of an international power.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:10 fear of the LORD. See notes, 14:14; 1Ch 14:17. Here it explains why the surrounding nations "made no war against Jehoshaphat." However, see p 1001.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:11 The Lord let Jehoshaphat's might grow to such proportions that the Philistines and the Arabians feared even to initiate the kind of invasion that Jehoshaphat's father, Asa, had repulsed (14:9–15). Peace among nations depends on God.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:12b–19 Two types of military appear to be described here: a standing, or professional, army and a militia. Their units and numbers, totaling 1,160,000, are listed in vv 14–18.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:13 mighty men of valor. See note, Jsh 1:14.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 17:16 volunteer for the service of the LORD. How he served is not explained.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 17 The Lord strengthens faithful Jehoshaphat so that the fear of the Lord falls upon the nations. As the Lord strengthens you, use that strength to honor His name. The Lord still has the nations in mind as He works in our lives. He desires salvation and peace for all people, as taught in His Word. • Lord, provide us with strength in all realms of our lives, that we may in every way give testimony to Your generosity. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:1 great riches and honor. Reprise of the words of 17:5 and the themes of ch 17. marriage alliance. See note, 1Ki 3:1–2. Such an alliance was common in the ancient world for political or financial reasons, but Jehoshaphat needed neither. The marriage of his son Jehoram to Ahab's daughter Athaliah (21:6) would bring disaster (22:10–12).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:2 went down … Samaria. Samaria is lower in elevation. See color map 1. abundance. Impressive feast, perhaps to mark a political covenant. induced. The same Hbr word is used for seduction into apostasy in Dt 13:6. In Chronicles, it is used for prompting toward evil actions (cf 1Ch 21:1; 2Ch 32:11, 15). Greg: "When we are unwarily joined in friendship with the wicked, we are bound in their sins. Whence Jehoshaphat, who is extolled by so many praises of his previous life, is rebuked for his friendship with King Ahab as though nigh unto destruction" (NPNF 2 12:49). Ramoth-gilead. See color map 3.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:3–34 In the account of Jehoshaphat's alliance with Ahab and their subsequent battle with Ramoth-gilead, the Chronicler deals primarily with the role of prophets. War oracles are often given through the prophets as mouthpieces of the divine warrior (cf 1Ki 12:21–24; 1Ki 20:13, 28; 2Ki 3:11–19; 6:12–22; 7:1–7; 13:14–20; 2Ch 20:14–19; Is 7:3–25; Jer 21).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:5 prophets. Of Baal. See note, 1Ki 22:7.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:8 Micaiah the son of Imlah. Minority voice of truth. Cf 2Ki 17:13–15; 2Ch 36:16; Ne 9:26; Jer 25:4; 26:4–5; 28; 29:24–32.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:9–17 Battle of prophets ensues between Zedekiah the son of Chenaanah, leader of the 400, and Micaiah.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:9 thrones. See note, 1Ki 1:46. robes. Ceremonial attire. entrance of the gate of Samaria. See p 792.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:10 horns of iron. See note, 1Ki 22:11.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:14 Go up and triumph. Likely sarcastic.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:16 return … in peace. Breaking the war alliance.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:18 I saw the LORD. See note, Ex 24:10. sitting on His throne. Ironic contrast with v 9. host of heaven. See note, Dt 4:19; cf Jb 15:8; Ps 82:1; Jer 23:18; Dn 7:10. The divine council ordinarily gathers the heavenly army to fight for Israel (Is 13:1–13; Jl 3:9–12; 2Ki 6:15–19; 7:6), but in this case the divine council plots against Israel and Ahab. See p 1291.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:20–21 spirit … lying spirit. Demon. See notes, 1Ki 22:20–22; Jb 1:12.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:23–27 After he again encounters Zedekiah, Micaiah is imprisoned by Ahab, an act similar to Asa's imprisonment of Hanani (16:10).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:23 Which way. See note, 1Ki 22:24.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:24 inner chamber. Things would turn out so badly that even the king's chief prophet would need to hide. See note, Am 6:10.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:26 We are never told whether Micaiah was released from prison. Ahaziah, Israel's next king, notoriously followed his father's evil ways (1Ki 22:51–53). Micaiah would have stood under Ahaziah's judgment.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:1–27 See application note, 1Ki 22:13–28.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:29 See notes, 1Ki 22:30, 32.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:31 cried out. To the Lord (cf 6:34–35; 1Ch 5:20; 2Ch 13:14–15; 14:11–12; 20:9; 32:20–21; 33:13). helped. See note, Gn 2:18; cf 1Ch 5:20; 2Ch 14:11; 25:8; 26:7, 15; 32:8.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:33 scale armor … breastplate. Because solid armor would restrict movement too much, ancient armor had gaps at relatively less vulnerable points (e.g., around the armpits and neck). See the list of armaments in 26:14.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 18:28–34 See application note, 1Ki 22:29–40.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 19 Prophecy of Jehu and the second reform (cf 17:6). This reform (vv 4–11) is the crucial link between the defeat of ch 18 and the victory of ch 20. Jehoshaphat reforms his kingdom's judicial structure and affirms the centrality of Jerusalem and the temple's worship personnel. One of those Levites, Jahaziel, will serve as battle prophet (20:14–17); other Levitical personnel will serve as musicians (20:19, 21).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:1 in safety. God spared Jehoshaphat's life (cf 18:16). But the prophet Jehu would make it clear that by his disobedience, Jehoshaphat had incurred "wrath … from the LORD" (v 2).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:2–3 Prophecy of Jehu. Righteous kings must avoid foreign entanglements and trust solely in the Lord (cf 16:1–9; 20:35–37; 25:6–8; 28:16–23).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:2 Jehu. Asa, father of Jehoshaphat, had imprisoned Hanani, Jehu's father (16:10). Now the sons—Jehoshaphat and Jehu—meet shortly after Ahab imprisoned another prophet, Micaiah (18:25–26; 1Ki 22:26–27). One prophet may be imprisoned, but the Lord raises another to announce His judgment. love those who hate the LORD? Genuine love for one's neighbors means helping them to believe and to do what is right. Jehoshaphat is rebuked for supporting Ahab while he remained unrepentant and unjust.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:3 Asherahs. See note, Ex 34:13. seek God. See p 843.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:4–11 Jehu's prophetic warning after the warfare account of ch 18 is linked by way of a judicial reform to Jehoshaphat's dramatic victory in the warfare account of ch 20. This judicial reform included the appointment of judges in the fortified cities of Judah (vv 5–7) and the appointment of Levites and priests and heads of clans in Jerusalem (vv 8–11). Luth: "A prince should trust his officials and allow them to act, but only in such a way that he will still keep the reins of government in his own hands. He must not be overconfident but keep his eyes open and attend to things, and (like Jehoshaphat did [II Chron. 19:4–7]) ride through the land and observe everywhere how the government and the law are being administered. In this way he will learn for himself that one cannot place complete trust in any man. You have no right to assume that somebody else will take as deep an interest in you and your land as you do yourself, unless he be a good Christian filled with the Spirit. The natural man will not. And since you cannot know whether he is a Christian or how long he will remain one, you cannot safely depend upon him" (AE 45:121–22).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:4 at Jerusalem. Jehu had reproved the king for going abroad to join Ahab. Jehoshaphat restricted himself to activities he could accomplish in Judah, with headquarters in Jerusalem. Beersheba … Ephraim. Rather than persecute the Lord's messenger, as his father had (16:10), Jehoshaphat renewed his efforts to bring "back to the LORD" all the people under his jurisdiction. See color map 2.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:5 judges. Not identified by name or by group. Centralization of control had already begun under David and Solomon (1Ch 26:29; 2Ch 1:2); Jehoshaphat builds on that foundation. fortified cities. Cf 17:2. See note, 11:6–10.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:6 judge … for the LORD. Luth: "You see, therefore, what attitude he must have whose duty it is to discharge the office of judge and sword, namely, to subdue all feelings of fear, love, favor, sympathy, greed, ambition, reputation, life, or death, and to be a simple lover of simple truth and just judgment. … A judge must bear the hatred of many; he must be in peril because of hostility and be tempted by sympathy and gain. He will not be able to overcome these shocks and stand firm unless he looks to God alone" (AE 9:163). He is with you. Judicial authority derived from the Lord through the king. See note, Gn 9:6. See also Moses' admonition to the judges in Dt 1:17. Cf Ps 82:1. Luth: "God Himself appoints and preserves all authority, and if He no longer held it up, it would all fall down, even though all the world held it fast—therefore it is rightly called a divine thing, a divine ordinance. And such persons are rightly called divine, godlike, or gods [Ps 82:6; Jn 10:34–35]; especially is this so when, beside the institution itself, we have a word or command of God for it, as among the people of Israel, where the priests, princes, and kings were appointed by the oral command and word of God" (AE 13:44).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:7 fear of the LORD. Reform was not a political maneuver or innovation but a restoration of God's rule over His chosen people. See note, 17:10. The judges were God's representatives, appointed to administer legislation that expressed His will. Cf Dt 1:17; 16:18–20; 17:8–13. taking bribes. Cf Ex 23:6–8; Dt 1:17; 16:18–20; 1Sm 8:3; Pr 17:23; Is 1:21–23; 5:22–23; Mi 3:11; 7:3.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:8–11 Second arena of the judicial reform, centered in Jerusalem, is rooted in religious devotion (v 9). The expressions "fear of the LORD," "faithfulness," and "whole heart" are characteristic of Chronicles. Religious renewal begins with the king and is mediated through his appointees. Wholehearted devotion to Yahweh is the standard. The Jerusalem court serves as a court for disputed cases (v 8) as well as more serious cases (v 10; cf Dt 17:8–13).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:8 disputed cases. These were to be brought before a superior court in Jerusalem, presided over by the governor of Judah (v 11).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:10 law … commandment … statutes … rules. See p 971.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 19:11 matters of the LORD … the king's matters. Jehoshaphat divides the administration within his kingdom into religious and civil matters. Yet he allows the Levites (servants of the temple) to have an official role in civil affairs. Luth: "There are two kingdoms, one the kingdom of God, the other the kingdom of the world. … Anyone who knows how to distinguish rightly between these two kingdoms … will also properly understand the passages about mercy. God's kingdom is a kingdom of grace and mercy, not of wrath and punishment. In it there is only forgiveness, consideration for one another, love, service, the doing of good, peace, joy, etc. But the kingdom of the world is a kingdom of wrath and severity. In it there is only punishment, repression, judgment, and condemnation to restrain the wicked and protect the good. For this reason it has the sword, and Scripture calls a prince or lord 'God's wrath,' or 'God's rod' (Isaiah 14 [:5–6]). The Scripture passages which speak of mercy apply to the kingdom of God and to Christians, not to the kingdom of the world, for it is a Christian's duty not only to be merciful, but also to endure every kind of suffering—robbery, arson, murder, devil, and hell. It goes without saying that he is not to strike, kill, or take revenge on anyone. But the kingdom of the world, which is nothing else than the servant of God's wrath upon the wicked and is a real precursor of hell and everlasting death, should not be merciful, but strict, severe, and wrathful in fulfilling its work and duty. Its tool is not a wreath of roses or a flower of love, but a naked sword; and a sword is a symbol of wrath, severity, and punishment. It is turned only against the wicked, to hold them in check and keep them at peace, and to protect and save the righteous [Rom. 13:3–4]. … This shows that in the exercise of their office, worldly rulers cannot and ought not be merciful—though out of grace, they may take a day off from their office" (AE 46:69–70).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 19 The Lord calls Jehoshaphat to serve Him with His whole heart—halfhearted commitment simply will not do. This is no less true for us. The Lord desires our wholehearted commitment, for He committed Himself wholly to us in the person of His beloved Son. • Dearest Lord, I yield my whole heart to Your service, that reform may begin with me. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:1 Moabites. See note, Gn 19:37. Ammonites. See note, Jgs 3:13. Meunites. Inhabitants of Mount Seir (vv 10, 22) in the region of Edom. See color map 2. Perhaps encouraged by the Syrians' victory, several tribes east and south of the Salt Sea joined forces in an attack on Judah.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:2 Edom. Sometimes confused with Aram (Syria). See ESV note; see also note, 1Ki 11:14.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:3 afraid. Jehoshaphat had a strong army (17:14–18), but he knew that all its efforts would be in vain if the enemy was God's rod of wrath against him (19:2; cf Is 10:5–6). seek. See p 843. fast. See note, Lv 16:29. The effect of the invading army on Judah resulted in a national seeking after Yahweh, first for Jehoshaphat himself and then for the people. Such a fast was common in times of war or natural calamities (Jgs 20:26; 1Sm 7:6; 31:13; Jl 2:12–16; Jnh 3:6–9). The piety established by the prophetic rebuke and resulting reforms of ch 19 now bears fruit.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:5 assembly … before the new court. Reference to the large court (4:9) or to an area of the second temple, giving the postexilic readers a specific point to which they can relate.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:6 God in heaven? Reminiscent of Solomon's prayer at the dedication of the temple, summarized in part in v 9 (cf 1Ki 8:22–53).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:7–9 Review of history (cf 1Ch 17:5, 7–8; 2Ch 15:3–6). The point that Abraham was the friend of God is a comfort. The significance of the land and the promises to Abraham and his descendants finds fulfillment in the building of the temple and, by implication, temple-centered worship.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:7 Your friend? So called because he trusted God.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:9 Your name is in this house. See note, 1Ki 8:18.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:10 Ammon and Moab and Mount Seir. See color map 2. invade … destroy. Jehoshaphat's complaint to the Lord draws on the themes of the historical review (vv 7–9) and applies them to the situation. Israel had not destroyed these peoples when they came from Egypt because the Lord forbade them to do so (Dt 2:4–5, 9, 19).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:11 Your possession. Jehoshaphat boldly shifts the responsibility for the safety of the land to God, pointing out that it belongs to Him. This is a good example of how to wrestle with God in prayer and prevail (cf Gn 32:28).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:12 Jehoshaphat's petition. Like Asa his father, Jehoshaphat addresses the Lord with the relational expression "our God," admits powerlessness, and confesses trust in the Lord (cf 14:11).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:13–17 Message of Jahaziel. Jehoshaphat had spoken of the exodus of the people from Egypt (v 10). Here vv 15–17 parallel the wording and ideas of the Red Sea epic (cf Ex 14:13–14).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:13 little ones … children. See note, Dt 1:39.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:14 Spirit of the Lord. Jahaziel's words had divine authority (cf v 20). Jahaziel. A Levite not mentioned otherwise.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:16 Ziz. Near the west coast of the Dead Sea.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:19 Kohathites and the Korahites. Descendants of Levi who were temple musicians (1Ch 6:1, 22, 31). The Levites and their ministry play a central role in this warfare account, from the national lament in the temple (vv 5–13) to the prophetic activity of the Asaphite Jahaziel (vv 14–17) to the praise of the Kohathites and Korahites and the music of the singers (v 21). Cf 1Ch 25.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:20 Tekoa. Town c 6 mi S of Bethlehem; home of Amos and a certain wise woman (Am 1:1; 2 Sm 14:2). Believe … be established. In Hbr, these verbs are different forms of the same root, meaning "to be firm, stable." Standing unwaveringly on God's Word is faith. Such trust in God gives a firm foundation for life, regardless of outward circumstances. believe His prophets, and you will succeed. The prophet's Word is the Lord's Word. To hear the prophet is to hear the Lord.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:21 Normally, a battle begins with the war cry of the entire army. Here it begins with music from the worship leaders. holy attire. Cf Ex 28.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:22–23 The victory here is clearly the Lord's. Because the Judeans were told to stand still and watch (v 17), the heavenly army is the agent of victory (cf 2Sm 5:24; 2Ki 7:5–7; 19:35; Is 13:4). The complete lack of participation by Judah's army in ch 20 differs from their minimal participation in chs 13–14.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:22 ambush. Lit, "liers in wait." We are not told who they were, only that their attack was so unexpected and mysterious that the enemy was completely confused. God similarly routed the Midianites before Gideon's army (Jgs 7:22) and the Philistines when Saul was king (1Sm 14:20).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:23 devoting them to destruction. See p 6.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:1–23 By promise, prayer, and praise, the Lord accomplishes Judah's deliverance. The people are saved by faith (v 20c). Faith in God's promises is still how we relate to and rely on our gracious Lord. Above all blessings, He gives us saving faith in the cross of His beloved Son. • We praise You, O Lord, for delivering us from evil and most of all for delivering us from our sins. Amen.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:24 watchtower of the wilderness. In Tekoa, looking southeast toward the Dead Sea. See map, p 558.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:26–28 As before the battle (vv 18–19), the people worship God after the battle. The first ritual on the battlefield describes the army gathering for a worship celebration after taking the spoils. The postbattle ritual at the temple immediately follows. Having begun at the house of the Lord (v 5), the warfare account now ends at the house of the Lord (v 28). The prayer Jehoshaphat offered there (vv 6–12) has been answered.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:26 Valley of Beracah. Slope begins near Tekoa and runs to the middle of the west shore of the Salt Sea, near Engedi. See map, p 558.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:27 made them rejoice. Praising God for His salvation involves commemoration of His enemies' defeat.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:29–30 Answers rhetorical question of v 6. Yes, Yahweh is God in heaven. He alone rules over all the kingdoms of the nations. A righteous king and his realm enjoy peace and rest from enemies. They are held in awe and respect by other nations. These blessings are given to Judah under Jehoshaphat.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:29 fear of God. See note, 14:14.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:33 high places. Royal decree for their removal (17:6) did not have popular support. See note, 15:17; see also p 526. 1Ki 22:43–44 places the blame for the continuing existence of the high places on Jehoshaphat. The Chronicler notes the blame of the people (33b).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:34 Book of the Kings. 1 and 2Ki.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:24–34 The Lord makes Judah rejoice over their enemies, the Moabites, Ammonites, and Meunites. Though gloating over the troubles of others is sinful, God's people cannot fail to praise the Lord for the victory and the good they receive from Him. Daily offer praise to God for His merciful kindness toward you and your loved ones. Daily rejoice in His greatest victory: the cross and resurrection of Jesus. • Grant us quiet and rest all around, dear Lord, except when we praise You loudly for Your good gifts. Amen.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:35–37 Reign of this pious king ends on a disappointing note. Jehoshaphat again enters into an alliance with Israel, as he did in ch 18. And just as he was rebuked for the first alliance by the prophet Jehu (19:1–3), here he is rebuked by another prophet, Eliezer. In both cases, Jehoshaphat receives little more than the words of rebuke, though in this case his ships are also destroyed. This warning signals the danger that will develop in the next chapters.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:35 Ahaziah. After Ahab's death (18:34), his son Jehoram reigned in Israel for 12 years (2Ki 3:1) and was succeeded by Ahaziah.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:36 to go to Tarshish. Indicates what kind of ships they were. See note, 9:21.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:37 joined. According to 1Ki 22:49, Jehoshaphat refused to cooperate with Ahaziah in another similar expedition.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 20:35–37 See application note, 1Ki 22:41–50.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 21 Reign of Jehoram. By comparison, the parallel account in 2Ki 8:16–24 is exceedingly brief. Jehoram is the first king of Judah whose reign can be characterized from beginning to end as evil. This account of his reign serves as a sermon for the Chronicler's contemporaries. The Jerusalem temple was to be the sole sanctuary of the Lord, the God of Abraham. Any infidelity to that temple would result in the wrath of the Lord, with disastrous warfare following. The result is the polar opposite of the military and political blessings bestowed on the kingdom during times of fidelity in temple worship, illustrated by the reigns of Abijah, Asa, and Jehoshaphat.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:1 See note, 1Ki 2:10.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:2–4 Unique to 2Ch. Jehoram, the eldest brother, is given the kingdom, but Jehoshaphat follows the pattern established by Rehoboam in dispersing sons throughout the fortified cities (11:23). Immediately after the accession of Jehoram, the theme of danger to David's house is brought forward, a theme that recurs in 21:17; 22:8–11. Ironically, by these murders Jehoram sets in motion events that culminate in the near obliteration of his own line (21:17).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:2 Azariah. Unclear why the first and fourth sons have the same name.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:6 The marriage alliance Jehoshaphat made with Ahab (18:1) had more serious consequences than unsuccessful military and maritime ventures undertaken jointly by the two kingdoms (18:2–34; 20:35–37). For some time, Judah came directly under the evil influence of the house of Ahab. See the parallel account in 2Ki 8:16–19.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:7 not willing to destroy. The Lord withholds destruction of the house of David for the sake of David. Jehoram was the only "lamp" left to the Davidic dynasty; his life would be preserved. Hope must be directed to future generations, both at the time of Jehoram and at the time of the Chronicler. See notes, 2Sm 7:12–14.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:8–10 Jehoram's initial battle is a victory of sorts but sets the stage for later defeat by the Philistines and Arabians (vv 16–17) following Jehoram's apostasy (v 11), a war not reported in 2Ki 8:16–24.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:9 by night … struck. Uncommon tactic.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:10 to this day. See note, 1Ch 4:41. Libnah. See map, p 615.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:11–19 Unique to Chronicles.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:11 high places. See p 526. whoredom. Jehoram's sin differs from that of his predecessors. They failed to remove the high places; he built the high places. Jehoram's wickedness will be punished (vv 12–15). Judah was invaded (vv 16–17), and the king died of a horrible disease (vv 18–19).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:12–15 Letter of rebuke from Elijah, announcing two punishments. Vv 16–19 describe their fulfillment.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:12 letter. See pp 1081–83, 1900. Elijah. He had little contact with the kings of Judah, but sudden, unannounced appearances were characteristic of his ministry. The arrival of a letter from him seems unusual; he likely wrote it before he was taken to heaven (2Ki 2:1).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:14 plague. Hbr means a severe "blow," which may take the form of a disease or epidemic. In 1Sm 4:17, it is translated "slaughter."

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:16–19 First of the prophesied punishments is fulfilled by the invasion of the Philistines and the Arabians. The Lord intervenes against Judah, and the endangerment of the Davidic line is clear. Second, like his grandfather Asa, Jehoram suffers before his death. Whatever his illness, it exceeded the grotesqueness of Asa's disease (16:12). Jehoram's bowels prolapsed before his death. Cf 16:11–14; 26:19–21.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:16 Ethiopians. Similar group of raiders was repulsed by Jehoram's grandfather Asa (14:9–13).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:17 Jehoahaz. Commonly called Ahaziah (22:1). Both names mean "the LORD took" (Hbr verb 'achaz may appear at the beginning or end of the name). Jehoahaz becomes the lamp of the house of David (v 7; 2Ki 8:19), the sole bearer of the Davidic line and promise.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 21:19 no fire. People did not burn spices in his honor as they had at his grandfather's funeral (16:14).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 21 Through a letter from Elijah the prophet, the Lord warns Jehoram that he must face God's punishment. A harsh letter is difficult to write and harder still to receive. Yet as sinners, we all need the rebuke of God's Law against our sins. Above all, we need the call to repentance, forgiveness, and new life that the Lord is always ready to offer. • Lord, lead me to receive Your Word as a letter for my instruction and restoration. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:1–9 Reign of Ahaziah of Judah. The Chronicler's concern here, as elsewhere, is the kingdom of Judah, not Israel.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:1 youngest son. Ahaziah was the sole survivor of the raid on "the camp" of Judah. See note, 21:17.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:2–4 Athaliah. Daughter of Ahab and granddaughter of Omri was Ahaziah's counselor for evil. Therefore, his downfall at the hands of Jehu (vv 7–9; 2Ki 9:27–28) was from God. The Chronicler esp notes Athaliah's influence and her northern retinue of advisers as the cause of Ahaziah's undoing.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:5–6 followed their counsel. The Chronicler's concern for Judah prompts him to introduce the war account with the explanation that Ahaziah allied himself with Joram because of the advice of wicked counselors. Syria … Ramoth-gilead … Jezreel … Ramah. See map, p 558.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:7–9 Cf 2Ki 9:14–29. Alliance with Joram explains Ahaziah's death. His death was "ordained by God," as was Saul's (1Ch 10:13–14). All of Ahaziah's family is killed either here by Jehu or later by Athaliah, except for one son, Joash (vv 10–11), who continued the Davidic and messianic line. The Chronicler assumes the reader knows this history and presents this matter to illustrate his theology of retribution.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:7 anointed. See note, 1Sm 10:1.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:1–9 The Lord wills and brings about the downfall of Ahaziah and the house of Ahab. No family is perfect; all are within reach of God's punishment. Pray for your household, that God's Word and peace may prevail among you and rule your hearts. Our heavenly Father greatly desires to show mercy to all people. • Pour out, O Lord, Your Spirit of peace upon us, and grant all our family Your abiding grace. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:10–12 Athaliah rules over Judah. Unique period in Judah, when a non-Davidic ruler sits on the throne, a queen who destroys her own descendants in order to secure her rule (her husband, Jehoram, acts similarly in 21:4). As with the end of Saul's reign in 1Ch 10, God ordained the death of one king (Ahaziah) in order to raise up another (Joash).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:10 destroyed all the royal family. Despotic, cruel, and iron-willed, Athaliah did not shrink from killing her own grandsons, fearing they could challenge her usurpation of power.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:11 Jehoshabeath. Heroine preserves the life of her nephew Joash, the last remaining descendant of the Davidic line. The Lord's kingdom can be threatened and attacked, but it is truly the Lord's; He will act in history to preserve it (1Ch 17:14; 2Ch 13:8).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 22:10–12 See application note, 2Ki 11:1–3.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Chs 23–24 Joash, the sole surviving son of Ahaziah, ascended to the throne at age 7. Ch 23 follows 2Ki 11:4–20 with only a few differences. In both accounts, Joash is initially a good king under the tutelage of Jehoiada the priest. Whereas 2Ki simply reports the events, the Chronicler attempts to explain them. Joash's reign is marked by three periods: (1) reign of Athaliah is brought to an end, and Joash's claim is secured (23:1–21); (2) Joash reigns righteously (24:1–16); (3) Joash's reign becomes wicked, an account largely unique to the Chronicler (24:17–27).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 23 The Chronicler highlights similarities to Saul and David. As the wicked king Saul had died at the Lord's command (1Ch 10:13–14), so had Ahaziah (22:7). As David had been declared king by all Israel (1Ch 11:1–3), so Joash is declared king by all Judah (23:2–3) because of the Lord's promise to David.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:1 covenant. See note, v 11. commanders of hundreds. Cf 1Sm 22:7.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:2–3 Unique to 2Ch. The Chronicler tells of the national support for Joash, including Levites from every city and the heads of families throughout Israel. This reflects the level of support received by David at the beginning of his reign (1Ch 11–12).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:3 the LORD spoke. God's promise to David (2Sm 7:12, 16; 2Ch 6:16).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:4–7 The Chronicler uniquely specifies that the Levites and priests are to perform all duties in the house of the Lord. Even in emergency situations, God's people must not act contrary to their divinely instituted office.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:4 gatekeepers. Cf 1Ch 26:1–19.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:5 courts of the house. See note, 2Ch 4:9.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:6 charge of the LORD. Areas of the temple complex were restricted by degrees of holiness.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:7 weapons. See note, v 9.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:8 divisions. Levites who acted as temple guards.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:9 Temple storage rooms, or the treasuries, served as an armory for the temple guards. See note, 1Ch 26:20–28.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:11 testimony. Elsewhere translated "covenant" (here understood to be the same covenant referred to in vv 1, 3). Likely refers to the document required to be given to a king (Dt 17:18–20), to which David alluded at the succession of Solomon (1Ch 29:19). anointed. See note, 1Sm 10:1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:12–15 See notes, 2Ki 11:13–16.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:12 people running. The Chronicler adds this detail about the people's excited support.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:1–15 See application note, 2Ki 11:4–20.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:16–21 See notes, 2Ki 11:17–20. The Chronicler adds that gatekeepers were stationed at the gates (v 19). As with the coronations of David (1Ch 12:38–40) and Solomon (1Ch 29:21–22), Joash's coronation is met with rejoicing (v 21).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:16 covenant. See note, v 11; see also p 127.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:17 house of Baal. Pagan temple had been furnished with sacred objects from the Lord's temple (24:7).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:18 posted watchmen … Levites. Or, "placed the offices of the house into the hands of the priests and the Levites." According to Mosaic prescriptions, the priests were "to offer burnt offerings," and the Levites were gatekeepers.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:20 upper gate to the king's house. The palace was apparently near the temple. See note, 2 Ki 11:16.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 23:16–21 On behalf of the boy king Joash, the priest Jehoiada makes a covenant with the people of Judah based on the Law of Moses. Through sound leadership, the Lord renews the mercies of temple service and the good administration of the kingdom. Just as Joash needed the faithful guidance of Jehoiada, children today need faithful guides in life (pastors, teachers, coaches, etc.). Seek such faithful guides and pray for them. Our faithful Lord will raise up godly men and women who know and duly apply His Holy Word for our instruction in righteousness. • Dearest Lord, hear our prayer on behalf of our families and our communities, that we may prosper before You. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:1–14 First phase of Joash's reign; a time of righteousness under the tutelage of Jehoiada (vv 2, 14). This ends when Jehoiada dies (vv 17–18).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:1 seven years. Jehoiada acted as regent. Beersheba. See color map 1.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:4 house of the Lord. Temple.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:5–11 The Chronicler adds details not found in 2Ki 12:4–10: (1) the reason for the repair of the temple (v 7); (2) the explanation that the tax to be collected was levied by Moses (vv 6, 9);

and (3) the note that the people dropped the tax into the chest under the supervision of the priests (vv 10–11). On temple treasuries, see notes, 1Ch 26:20–28; 26:20.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:5 Levites. Supplementing the account in Kings, the writer of Chronicles makes repeated reference to the Levites (vv 6, 11). Joash directs both priests and Levites to gather money for temple renovations (cf 2Ki 12:5).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:7 See note, 23:17.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:8 chest. Temple offerings were gathered this way (cf Lk 21:1). Offering plates are a modern development.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:10 rejoiced. Restoration of worship and its proper practice brings joy to God's people.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:11 king's secretary … officer of the chief priest. Both branches of the administration were represented in order to avoid misuse of funds.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:12–14 The Chronicler reports not only the restoration of the building but also the furnishings made after the restoration was completed.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:14 offerings … regularly. See pp 170–71.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:15–22 Unique to 2Ch. After the death of Jehoiada, the king listened to new counselors (v 17), causing Judah to abandon the Lord's house (v 18). These verses form the context for the Chronicler's account of the shift in both the character and fortunes of Joash.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:15 130 years old. Jehoiada was likely born while Solomon was building the temple, and he would have witnessed many changes under seven kings.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:16 among the kings. While Joash would be denied burial "in the tombs of the kings" (v 25), this honor is accorded to Jehoiada, the priest who was regent while Joash was a minor and whose wife was a royal princess (22:11).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:18 Joash is swayed by fawning courtiers (v 17) to serve idols despite repeated warnings by God's spokesmen (v 19). Joash sinks so low that he has Zechariah executed, the first prophet in Judah to suffer martyrdom (vv 20–22). Asherim. See note, Ex 34:13.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:19 would not pay attention. The Lord sent prophets, but the people hardened their hearts by not listening to the Lord's Word. This attitude toward the Lord's prophets would ultimately cause Judah's downfall under Babylon (36:15–21).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:20 clothed. See notes, 1Ch 12:18; Jgs 6:34.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:21 stoned. Cf Ex 19:13. Cypr: "The camp of Christ, unconquered and firm with the Lord's protection, [does not] yield to threats. The priest of God holding fast the Gospel and keeping Christ's precepts may be slain; he cannot be conquered" (ANF 5:345).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:22 avenge! Or, "require," i.e., the penalty for shedding the blood of a fellow human being (see notes, Gn 9:5, 6). In contrast, Christ on the cross asked that the Father would forgive His executioners (Lk 23:34; cf Ac 7:60).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:1–22 The Lord guides Joash through the priest Jehoiada and his son Zechariah, but Joash finally rejects the Lord's ways. Each of us needs good counsel, especially God's Law and Gospel, which reveal the Lord's ways to us. When others point out your weaknesses, do not harden your heart toward them or toward the Lord. The Lord's great desire is to bring you back, restoring you through confession and forgiveness. • Call me back to You, O Lord, through the faithful words of Your prophets. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:23–24 Unlike the divine intervention on behalf of Judah in the earlier wars of Abijah, Asa, and Jehoshaphat, the Lord gives victory to the enemy in this war.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:23 At the end of the year. Soon after the death of Zechariah comes God's punishment through the Syrians. destroyed all the princes. Cf v 17. Damascus. See color map 2.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:24 they. Syrians.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:25–26 When Joash is wounded, and in a weakened state, he is murdered by conspirators. Joash meets this end because of his unfaithfulness to the Lord. Ammonite … Moabite. Not reported in 2Ki. Detail is ironic because these are the very people defeated by Jehoshaphat in ch 20. The mothers of the conspirators had married into important Judean families. See note, 1Ki 3:1–2.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:27 oracles. See p 1079. Book of the Kings. 1 and 2Ki.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 24:23–27 See application note, 2Ki 12:19–21.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 25 Amaziah was co-regent with Uzziah. See p 529. Though the Chronicler usually divides the reigns of kings into periods of good and evil, here he describes Amaziah as uncommitted (vv 1–4), giving a detailed report of Amaziah's first battle (vv 5–13), apostasy (v 14), and prophetic rebuke (vv 15–16).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:1 Amaziah. Tenth king in Davidic monarchy.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:2 whole heart. See note, Dt 6:5.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:4 each one shall die for his own sin. See note, Dt 24:16.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:1–4 See application note, 2Ki 14:1–22.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:5–16 The Chronicler uses the warfare account to explain the theological reasons for the victory over Edom and the rejection of Israel.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:5 assembled. A military census was taken to determine the forces available (cf 1Ch 21; 27:23–24; 2Ch 13:3; 14:8; 17:14–19). Though 300,000 troops could be mustered, the number was far fewer than Asa's 580,000 or Jehoshaphat's 1,160,000.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:6 mighty men of valor. See notes, Jsh 1:14; Ru 2:1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:7 man of God. Unidentified prophet. all these Ephraimites. Such alliances imply a lack of trust in Yahweh. An important theme in the Chronicler's theology is the necessity of trusting in the Lord and rejecting all foreign alliances (cf 16:2–9; 19:1–3; 20:15–17, 35–37; 32:7–8), emphasizing the idea of the Lord fighting for the few against the many (cf Jgs 7; 1Sm 14:6; 1Ki 20:27; 2Ch 13:3–18; 14:8–15).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:9 much more. Cf Pr 16:8.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:10 Unique to 2Ch. Amaziah's response to the prophet's words was to discharge the mercenaries, only to have them ransack and murder throughout Judah (v 13).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:11 Valley of Salt. See map, p 500. Seir. Another name for Edom (cf 20:22). See notes, 20:1–2.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:12 threw them down. No reason is given for this massacre of prisoners—perhaps it is in retaliation for the Edomites' earlier attacks. See notes, 20:1–2.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:13 Beth-horon. C 10–12 mi NW of Jerusalem.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:14 Unique to 2Ch. Amaziah makes a bizarre choice, previously unparalleled by a Judean king (Ahaz would later worship the gods of the victorious enemy in 28:22–23). His idolatry explains his defeat by Jehu of Israel (vv 17–24; cf 1Ch 10:13–14; 2Ch 22:7–9). Seir. See map, p 60.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:15–16 Unique to 2Ch. Yahweh foretells Amaziah's subsequent defeat through another unnamed prophet.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:15 did not deliver. Worshiping gods who could not protect their devotees was as absurd as it was sinful.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:16 royal counselor? Some prophets did serve as counselors. See pp 1077–81. Stop! Though Amaziah had begun well (v 2), had listened to another one of God's prophets (vv 7–10a), and had won a victory on this account, he hardened his heart to God's Word. Chem: "Satan is the efficacious cause in the sons of disobedience when they put the Word of the Lord out of their sight" (LTh 1:196). struck down? Amaziah accuses the prophet of treason.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:5–16 Though the Lord grants him victories, Amaziah continues in rebellion. Today, we likewise feel the constant pressure to compromise the truth and follow the Lord halfheartedly. By His faithful and gracious Word, the Lord, who has power to help, will unstop our ears and turn our hearts to hear Him. • Speak, O Lord, that I may know Your ways and walk in them by faith. Amen.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:17–24 Amaziah, after gaining victory over the Edomites, challenges Joash of Israel (v 17) and is defeated. Challenge was prompted by the actions of the Israelite mercenaries (v 13).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:17 look one another in the face. Have a conference to negotiate relations.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:18 thistle … cedar. Parable. See note, 2Ki 14:9.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:20 they had sought the gods of Edom. The Chronicler blames the people as well as the king.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:21 Beth-shemesh. See map, p 558.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:22 every man fled to his home. Expression for a complete rout (cf 1Sm 4:10).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:23 Ephraim Gate. On the road to Ephraim (the Northern Kingdom); called the Damascus Gate today. Corner Gate. At the extreme west end of the wall, where it formed an "Angle" (26:9) with the wall from the south.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:24 Samaria. See color map 1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:26 Book of the Kings. 1 and 2Ki.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:27 they. Likely refers to Judah's leading families. Lachish. See color map 1. One of the cities fortified by Rehoboam, Solomon's son (11:5–12).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:28 upon horses. Lit, "upon the horses." Perhaps the assassins' animals were used to transport the body back c 30 mi over the Judean hills.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 25:17–28 See application note, 2Ki 14:1–22.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 26 Uzziah (Azariah in Kings) is initially a good king who does what is right in the eyes of the Lord (v 4), but then he comes to a sad end. The Chronicler's account serves to explain the transition from a good beginning to Uzziah's leprous death.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:1 all the people. The nation still favored Davidic succession, even though a conspiracy swept away the previous occupant of the throne. Uzziah. The Chronicler may have chosen this variation of the name to avoid confusion with Azariah the priest in vv 17–20. sixteen years old. Uzziah was made king before Amaziah died (he fled to Lachish and ruled there, 25:27). There was a period of co-regency between father and son.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:2 Eloth. Also spelled Elath. For its location and significance, cf 1Ki 9:26; 2Ch 8:17.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:3–4 The Chronicler does not report that the high places remained in Judah under Uzziah (2Ki 15:4).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:5–21 The Chronicler's account gives the reason for Uzziah's initial successes (vv 5–15) as well as his unfaithfulness (vv 16–19a) and resulting leprosy (vv 19b–21).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:5 Zechariah. Perhaps the same person who attested Isaiah's message (Is 8:2). Like Joash (24:2), Uzziah prospered under the tutelage of a godly adviser in the early part of his reign. fear of God. Lit, "vision of God." Cf 1Ch 13:12; 2Ch 6:31, 33; 19:9. sought the LORD. See p 843.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:6 Gath … Jabneh … Ashdod. See color map 1. Uzziah recaptured and fortified cities on the western and southwestern borders. Gath had fallen into David's hands (1Ch 18:1).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:7 Meunites. See note, 20:1. While Uzziah was faithful, he enjoyed military victory, exactly as his forefathers Rehoboam, Joash, and Amaziah had. But all of them met disaster when they turned away from the Lord.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:8–15 Uzziah's faithfulness is marked by other indicators of divine favor. He was held in respect and received tribute from other nations (v 8), engaged in building programs (vv 9–10), and maintained a well-equipped army of 307,500 men (vv 11–15).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:9 Corner Gate. See note, 25:23. Valley Gate. Opened into the Valley of Hinnom, west and south of the city. the Angle. Lit, "at the turning," i.e., where the wall turned in another direction. See note, 25:23.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:10 Shephelah … plain. See color map 2. loved the soil. Uzziah made the land productive and safe. He promoted agriculture in various parts of the country: in the wilderness, the grazing lands south and southeast of Jerusalem; in the Shephelah, or lowlands, where the hills of Judah fall away toward the Great Sea; in the plain, the tableland east of the Jordan and the Salt Sea; and in the hill country as well as in the more fertile lands.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:11–12 Uzziah put his army under the command of 2,600 "mighty men of valor," i.e., professional soldiers. See notes, Jsh 1:14; Ru 2:1. Their forces could be augmented by calling up a militia for service in divisions.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:13 307,500. See note, 25:5.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:14 Army was completely outfitted with current armor and weapons.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:15 engines. Devices such as catapults. marvelously helped. By the Lord.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:16–19a Downfall of Uzziah. Just as Rehoboam abandoned the Law of the Lord when he had grown strong (12:1), Uzziah did the same. The writer supplies the reason why the Lord makes Uzziah a leper (v 20): pride. Not even the king was permitted to assume worship functions reserved by divine Law for "the priests, the sons of Aaron" (v 18). David and Solomon had acted as priestly kings by pronouncing God's blessing over the people (1Ch 16:1–3; 2Ch 1:2–10), but unfaithful Uzziah could not do so, though he was a son of David. Pride, humankind's undoing from the beginning, has not lost its appeal for the children of Adam (cf Gn 3:6; Pr 16:18; 29:23).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:19 leprosy. Refers to a broad range of afflictions, not necessarily to the disease we call leprosy today. Cf Lv 13 and the diseases of Asa (16:12–14) and Jehoram (21:18–19).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:21 governing. Uzziah's son Jotham exercised the functions of government while Uzziah was still alive.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:22 Isaiah. Called to prophetic office "in the year that King Uzziah died" (Is 6:1). The Chronicler drew on Isaiah's writings for details about Uzziah's prosperity and his fall, which the writer of Kings did not incorporate (cf 2Ki 15:6).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 26:23 See note, 1Ki 2:10. field. Due to his leprosy, Uzziah was buried in a graveyard rather than the tomb of the kings (cf 2Ki 15:7).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 26 See application note, 2Ki 15:1–7.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 27 Parallel account is found in 2Ki 15:32–38. The Chronicler does not report a war in which the Lord sent Rezin of Syria and Pekah of Israel against Judah (2Ki 15:37); conversely, Jotham's victory over the Ammonites (vv 5–6) is not recorded in 2Ki.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:3–4 Building projects are characteristic of faithful kings. See note, 11:5–12.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:3 upper gate. Gave access to the king's house from the temple (cf 23:20). Ophel. Southern part of the temple hill.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:4 cities … forts … towers. Defensive garrisons to guard the boundaries. Messengers and signal fires were used to communicate between garrisons. wooded hills. See note, Jgs 9:48.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:5–6 Unique to 2Ch.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:5 Ammonites. Jotham completely subjugated the Ammonites, who had already been defeated and made a tributary by his father (26:7–8). cors. See p cx. second … third years. Tribute was likely cut off by an Ammonite rebellion.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:7 all his wars. No serious invasion from the north seems to have occurred during Jotham's lifetime.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 27:9 See note, 1Ki 2:10.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 27 Jotham orders his ways before the Lord and grows mighty as a result. He learns from both the good example and the bad example of his father, Uzziah. Learn to respect and emulate all that is good in your parents, for they are God's gift to you. Also seek to grow in the ways of your heavenly Father, who gives life everlasting in the might of His Son. • Order my ways, dear Father, that I may emulate Your goodness. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 28 The Chronicler presents the life of Ahaz with no positive comments. Ahaz's reign is shown as a mirror image of Abijah's in ch 13, with idolatry and defeat now belonging to Judah instead of Israel. The Chronicler supplements the account of Ahaz's reign given in 2Ki 16 and Is 7 by adding details to the characterization of Ahaz (vv 1–4; see notes, 2Ki 16:3, 4) and giving a fuller description of the losses inflicted on Judah by Rezin of Syria and Pekah of Israel (vv 5–7). Ahaz was in dire straits, pressed from the north by Israel and Syria, from the south by the Edomites, and from the southwest by the Philistines. In desperation, he appealed to the Assyrians for help. However, the heavy tribute Ahaz had to pay Tiglath-pileser only added to Judah's distress (vv 16–21).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:1 Ahaz. One of the worst of the Davidic kings.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:2 metal images. Indicates a special measure of devotion and recalls the golden calves made by Jeroboam I of Israel (11:15; 13:8). Baal was often depicted on upright stones.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:3 Hinnom. See note, 2Ki 23:10. burned his sons. Pagan practice condemned in Lv 20:1–5 (cf Jer 7:31–32 and Manasseh's renewal of the practice in 2Ch 33:6). Luth: "This is why it is often stated in the histories of this people that the Children of Israel cried out to the Lord and yet were not heard and liberated. For they wanted to appease God with sacrifices and the slaying of victims, yes, even of their children and their own bodies, which they cut up with knives and lancets until they were covered with blood. Or they lived a very hard life in some other way. But they were idolaters and served God with false acts of worship. Therefore they were not heard. … But by all this God is irritated rather than appeased or prevailed upon to give help" (AE 8:275).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:4 high places. See p 526.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:1–4 See application note, 2Ki 16.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:5 God gave him into the hand. Cf 24:23–24. Syria. See color map 2. defeated him. As a result of his religious corruption, war came upon Ahaz from Rezin of Syria and Pekah of Israel. The outcome is the reverse of the victory the Lord had given to faithful Abijah (13:16–17). Damascus. See color map 2.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:6 forsaken the LORD. Key concept in Chronicles that brings condemnation and defeat (see note, 12:1; cf 7:19, 22; 12:5; 15:2; 21:8–10; 24:17–22; 29:6; 34:25). Precisely the sin of the north that Abijah speaks of in 13:9–11.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:8 Samaria. See color map 1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:9–15 Prophecy of Oded. The Chronicler, living in the postexilic period, may have included this history as an appeal for reunification with his contemporaries of the northern tribes. Note the conciliatory tone of Oded's speech ("the LORD, the God of your fathers"; "your relatives") and the north's repentance.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:9 Oded. An otherwise unknown prophet, although a man by that name is mentioned in 15:1, 8. Elisha also urged the release of prisoners of war (2Ki 6:20–23). killed them in a rage. Specific Judeans are mentioned in v 7.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:10 slaves. See p 101.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:13 guilt. Because of the enslavement of the Judeans.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:15 clothed … provided … anointed. The Ephraimites show exceptional kindness to the prisoners and return them to Judean territory. Jericho. See color map 1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:16 Assyria. See map, p 717. help. Ahaz sought a foreign alliance, which the Chronicler views as sinful. See note, 25:7.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:17–19 Judah's defeat at the hands of the Edomites and Philistines precipitates the attempt to gain Assyria's help (v 16).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:17 Edomites. They were in a position to even the score with their former Judean overlords because Rezin had retaken Elath, where the Edomites lived (2Ki 16:6).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:18 Philistines. Ahaz lost control of the cities that his grandfather had taken from the Philistines (26:6–7), who proceeded to invade the Shephelah (cf 26:10) and the Negeb, the southland of Judah. Shephelah … Beth-shemesh, Aijalon, Gederoth, Soco … Timnah … Gimzo. Western Judah.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:19 unfaithful to the LORD. Judah's alliance with Assyria brought corruption and decline. See note, 1Ch 10:13.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:20–21 Ahaz had called on Assyria for help (v 16), but foreign alliances are treacherous. Judah is thus reduced to a vassal of a foreign oppressor because they allied themselves with the kingdoms of the world rather than with the Lord, the God of their fathers.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:20 Tiglath-pileser. See notes, 1Ch 5:6, 26.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:5–21 When Syria and Israel overrun Judah and lead away numerous prisoners, the Lord shames the Israelites for mistreating their southern prisoners. Mistreating one's relatives, as the Israelites did, is doubly shameful. God calls us to treat our extended family with respect and care to lead them to repentance and life. Thankfully, the Lord treats us mercifully by forgiving our sins and reconciling us to the family of God. • Grant our families peace and unity, O Lord, that we may extend Your kindness to all. Amen.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:22–25 Unlike prior kings, Ahaz does not come to repentance but grows more apostate. The gods of Damascus become the object of his worship, a story more fully told in 2Ki 16:10–18. The temple desecration under Ahaz is more fully described in the context of Hezekiah's reformation (29:7, 18–19).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:23 gods of Damascus. Such as the chief Syrian god, Hadad, or Nibhaz and Tartak (2Ki 17:31).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:24 vessels. Ahaz mutilated some of them; others he discarded (29:19). shut up the doors. Official service to the Lord was ended.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:25 high places. Ahaz favored the sites that had rivaled the temple. See p 526.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:26 Book of the Kings. 1 and 2Ki.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:27 See note, 1Ki 2:10. they buried him in the city. Leaders of Judah showed their disrespect for Ahaz by excluding him from the tombs of the kings (cf 21:20; 24:25; 26:23; 33:20). kings of Israel. Tombs dated from the era of the united monarchy.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 28:22–27 See application note, 2Ki 16.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Chs 29–32 Reign of Hezekiah, who becomes like a new David. From the ashes of faithlessness and defeat (i.e., Ahaz, who parallels Saul) arises one who leads God's people to renewed fidelity and glory (i.e., Hezekiah, who parallels David). Still, Hezekiah does not rise to the level of Solomon, of whom the Chronicler records no sin or war. Hezekiah, like David, was a warrior who became proud but repented (32:25–26). The Chronicler's account of Hezekiah's reign tells a more complete story of the restoration of true worship than Kings does. Hezekiah (1) cleanses the temple and rededicates it to the Lord's service (ch 29); (2) restores the observance of the annual festival days by keeping the Passover (ch 30); and (3) reinstitutes the other services in the temple, also providing for the livelihood of the priests and Levites (ch 31).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:1 Zechariah. Common name; may be the priest who instructed Uzziah (26:5).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:3–4 The temple, desecrated by Ahaz (28:24), was reopened and repaired. Hezekiah's first acts, like those of David, pertain to the proper worship of the Lord in Jerusalem (1Ch 13; 15–16).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:4 square on the east. In front of the temple. See note, 4:9.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:5–11 Hezekiah addresses the priests and Levites by rehearsing the recent history under Ahaz (vv 6–9), noting that they had been unfaithful and had abandoned the Lord (see note, 12:1). That apostasy, which had focused on the temple (vv 6b–7), and its devastating consequences (vv 8–9), can be reversed only by the restoration of the temple and the proper functioning of the priesthood (vv 5, 10–11). Like David, Hezekiah insists on the divinely mandated and consecrated ministry (cf 1Ch 15:11–15).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:5 consecrate yourselves. Remove all ceremonial defilement (see note, 1Ch 15:12; see p 6). filth. After years of neglect, the temple needed a thorough housecleaning. Hezekiah assigned the task to the authorized personnel: the priests and the Levites. First, however, both groups had to make themselves ceremonially clean. It took 16 days to make the entire temple complex ready for the dedication ceremonies (v 17).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:7 vestibule. See note, 8:12. burnt offerings. See pp 170–71.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:8 wrath … came. Cf 28:16–21. The destruction of Jerusalem was the climax of disgrace. hissing. Derision by heathen nations.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:10 covenant. Cf 15:12; 23:16; 34:31; Ne 9:38 for other renewals of the covenant relationship. See p 127.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:11 My sons. King emphasizes his closeness to the ministers of the temple. He may have been related to them. See note, v 1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:12–14 List of Levitical families follows the pattern established by David (cf 1Ch 6; 15:4–10; 23:6; 25).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:12 Levites. Levi's sons through Gershon, Kohath, and Merari had special assignments in the transport of the tabernacle (Nu 3:14–37).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:15–36 Three stages of the restoration of the temple: (1) desecrated house is cleansed (vv 15–19); (2) cleansed temple is rededicated (vv 20–30); (3) people present their offerings (vv 31–36).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:15 words of the LORD. A king's command had divine authority because it was based on God's command laid down in the Law of Moses or because it was directly communicated by a prophet. The Lord and the king made sure these actions were fulfilled (cf 30:12).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:16 Events of v 16 may have followed those of v 17. inner part. The Holy Place. uncleanness. Ahaz may have introduced articles of false religion. Kidron. Immediately outside the city walls (cf 15:16; 30:14).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:17 came to the vestibule. Describes the progress of the cleansing, which began in the courts of the temple.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:1–19 Hezekiah leads the priests and Levites in cleansing the temple and restoring the sacrifices. Renewal is always more than outward cleansing. Through the Word, the Lord cleanses and changes hearts. In Jesus' sacrifice, He atones for all our sins. • Wipe away the filth of my sins, O Savior, and cleanse me by Your precious blood. Amen.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:20–30 The cleansed temple is rededicated.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:20 rose early. Possibly to attend the morning sacrifice at dawn.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:21 sin offering. According to Mosaic Law (Lv 4:1–5:13; Nu 18:17) and the examples of David and Solomon (1Ch 15:25–16:3; 21:25–26; 2Ch 1:2–6; 7:7–11). See pp 170–71. commanded. The king exercised considerable authority over the priests.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:22 received the blood and threw it. Caught in basins and thrown against the altar, as prescribed in Lv 1:3–5.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:23 laid their hands. Symbolically transferring their guilt to the sacrificial animal (cf Lv 4:13–15; 8:14–15; Nu 8:12).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:24 atonement. See p 5.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:26 instruments of David. The Levites played "cymbals, harps, and lyres" (v 25; cf 1Ch 23:5). trumpets. At the dedication of the temple, 120 priests sounded the trumpets (5:12). See p 993.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:29 bowed. See p 1276.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:30 Asaph. A psalmist. See note, Ps 50.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:31–36 The people present their offerings. With the sin offering complete, burnt offerings, peace offerings, and drink offerings in abundance were brought (cf Ex 29:40; 7:11–12; Nu 15:1–10). These offerings reestablished the proper temple service (v 35b), causing both king and people to rejoice (v 36; cf 1Ch 12:38–40; 29:21–22; 2Ch 20:26–28).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:31 consecrated. See p 6. assembly. The dedicatory service, conducted by the priests and Levites, resulted in a surge of popular enthusiasm for worship. For the large numbers of animals offered (3,970), see note, 1Ki 8:62–64; see also pp 170–71.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:34 flay. Sacrifices were butchered; tough, physical work. Levites were more upright. They had not come under the influence of the renegade high priest Uriah (2Ki 16:10–16). See note, Jb 1:1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:35 offerings. See pp 170–71.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 29:20–36 Hezekiah fully restores the temple services according to God's Word and the examples of David and Solomon. The bloody sacrifices cleanse God's repentant people from their sins, anticipating Christ's perfect sacrifice on the cross. Today, the Lord cleanses and consecrates us through Holy Baptism, for in Baptism we are joined to Christ's atoning death and resurrection. • O Lord, consecrate Your servants, that we may offer sincere worship in Your name. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 30 Like Josiah (35:1–19), Hezekiah begins a restoration of the Passover celebration (Ex 12; Dt 16:1–8 describe the Mosaic regulations).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:1 all Israel and Judah. Israel had fallen to the Assyrians in 722 BC just before Hezekiah's reign. Hezekiah reaches out to the people of Israel who had not been deported by the Assyrians. He envisions a nation united as it had been when it crowned David at Hebron and celebrated Solomon's coronation. The Chronicler intends this as an invitation to the descendants of Israel in his own day to reunite as one people around the festivals and the temple.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:2 Passover. As soon as possible after the rededication of the temple, Hezekiah restored the observance of Israel's great festivals. The first on the calendar was Passover, also called the Feast of Unleavened Bread (vv 13, 21; cf Lv 23:4–7; Nu 28:16–17; Dt 16:1–8; see calendar, p 262). Its observance under Hezekiah reestablished Israel's covenant relationship, reconstituting the nation as God's chosen people (cf 29:10).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:3 at that time. The 14th day of Abib, the first month (Ex 34:18; Lv 23:5; see calendar, p 262). In Ex 12:2, 6; Dt 16:1–8, the Passover was commanded to be celebrated on the 14th day of the first month of the sacred year. However, the Law provided for a later celebration if it was impossible to be ready by the regular date (Nu 9:10–11). Sixteen days of the month had been taken up with cleansing the temple (29:17). Hezekiah, the leaders, and the assembly agreed to celebrate it in the second month. This apparently was due to a lack of consecrated priests and to travel time for the people.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:5 Beersheba to Dan. See note, Jgs 20:1.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:6 Israel. Hezekiah reminded the northern tribes (called Israel to distinguish them from Judah) that they, too, were descendants and heirs of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel. But they needed to repent. Because of their apostasy, God had punished them in "His fierce anger" (v 8). Many had been taken into exile by kings of Assyria such as Tiglath-pileser (2Ki 15:29; 16:9). remnant. See p 1080. Assyria. See map, p 717.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:8 stiff-necked. See note, Ex 32:9.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:9 gracious and merciful. See note, Ex 34:6–7. return. See p 1080.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:10 Ephraim and Manasseh. See map, p 365. Zebulun. Northernmost of the tribes mentioned. Apparently, the couriers did not get beyond its borders, but cf vv 11, 18.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:11 humbled themselves. The proud would continue in the religions and politics of the Northern Kingdom (v 10), but these men sought a return to the previous faith and life that had existed under the leadership of Davidic kings.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:13 second month. Cf v 2; see note, v 3.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:14 altars. Ones Ahaz had made (28:24). People followed the king's example, extending the cleanup of the temple to the entire city and making it a fit place to celebrate the Passover. Kidron Valley. See note, 29:16; see also map, p 548.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:15–22 The Passover celebration (cf Ex 12:6; Dt 16:6). Because some participants were not ritually clean, the Levites slaughtered the lambs for them (v 17). Further, they participated in the eating of the Passover meal even if they were not ritually clean (v 18a; cf Jn 11:55). Hezekiah interceded for them (vv 18b–19), and the Lord healed them (v 20; cf 7:14). God received His people, welcoming those with repentant hearts to His table.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:15 ashamed. The laity, by their greater readiness to worship, shamed the clergy into action.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:16 threw the blood. See note, Ex 29:16.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:18 Ephraim, Manasseh, Issachar, and Zebulun. See map, p 365.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:19 seek God. See p 843. cleanness. Worshipers did not "die in their uncleanness" (Lv 15:31) because they did not willfully disregard the ritual prescriptions. As "the Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath" (Mk 2:27), all other ceremonial laws were not an end in themselves.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:20 healed. See note, Dt 32:39.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:21 Feast of Unleavened Bread. See note, v 2. singing with all their might. See note, Dt 6:5.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:22 peace offerings. See pp 170–71.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:23–27 The Passover observance is extended for a second week.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:23 For a similar extension of festivities when Solomon dedicated the temple, cf 1Ki 8:65–66; 2Ch 7:8–10. This feast was greater than any since Solomon's feast (v 26), and at its conclusion the people received the blessings of the priests and Levites.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:24 bulls … sheep. Total of 19,000 sacrificial animals. The generous offerings would help feed the visitors. See note, 1Ki 8:62–64.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:25 sojourners. Hbr word is translated "stranger" in Ex 12:48, which stipulates that such a non-Israelite could eat the Passover if he was circumcised.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 30:27 blessed. See p 842. holy habitation in heaven. See note, Heb 9:24.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 30 Hezekiah renews the Passover celebration to call the people back to the Lord. Today, we regularly celebrate the new Passover—the Holy Supper of Christ, who offered Himself in compassion for our salvation. • Grant that I return to You, blessed Lamb of God, and have one heart with my brothers and sisters. Amen.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 31 Intimate relationship between faithful Hezekiah and the priesthood prompts the Chronicler to include this information about the king's provisions for the priesthood.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:1 cities. Eradication of idolatry spread from the temple (29:3–19) to the city (30:14) and from Jerusalem to the outlying districts, even to cities of the Northern Kingdom, of which Ephraim and Manasseh were the representative tribes. Asherim. See note, Ex 34:13. high places. See p 526.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:2 After Hezekiah rededicated the temple (29:20–30), he restored regular worship services, which had been suspended by his father (29:7). divisions. Like David and Solomon, Hezekiah brought order to the priests and Levites by structuring them into divisions at the altar, as musicians and as gatekeepers (cf 1Ch 23–26; 2Ch 8:14). gates of the camp. The temple courts were likely filled with tents or booths during the festivals of ch 30. The returning exiles of the Chronicler's day likewise would have camped when they first returned to the destroyed city of Jerusalem.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:3 Law. Legislation regarding sacrifices for various occasions is written in Nu 28–29. See also p 971. As David gave of his own possessions to endow the temple (1Ch 29:3–5), so does Hezekiah. Judah again attains regularity in divinely established worship practices (cf 13:11).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:4–7 People of Judah, both in Jerusalem (v 4) and throughout the land (v 6), respond by bringing in their tithes (cf Dt 12:5–19; 14:22–27).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:4 portion due to the priests. Cf Nu 18. give themselves to the Law. By restoring the offerings, the priests would be able to return to full-time service at the temple.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:5 honey. Though this could not be used in burnt offerings (Lv 2:11), it might have been used in grain offerings. tithe. Cf Lv 27:30.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:6 Mosaic Law prescribes no tithe of cattle, sheep, and dedicated things. Nu 18:8–20 provides the firstfruits for the priests; Nu 18:21–32 provides the tithe for the Levites.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:7 third … seventh month. Contributions of various kinds of produce came in during the harvesting season, which began in the third month. The Feast of Booths, also called the Feast of Ingathering, in the seventh month marked its end. See calendar, p 262.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:8 heaps. People gave enthusiastically. blessed the LORD. See p 842.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:10 Azariah. Person by the same name was "the chief officer of the house of God" (v 13). Another Azariah was high priest during the reign of a king who himself bore that name (26:17; 2Ki 15:1). house of Zadok. See note, 1Sm 22:20. See also pp 1557–58.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:11 chambers. Solomon built side chambers into the walls of the temple. See diagram, p 541.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:13 chief officer. See note, v 10.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:14 freewill offerings. See note, Ex 35:29.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:15–19 To make sure no one was overlooked, an enrollment of the priests and the Levites was made in the Levitical cities as well as outside the cities. Vv 17–18 tell how the two groups were registered.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:16 from three years old. Weaned and able to partake of the sacrifices (cf 1Sm 1:23).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:20–21 Cf 2Ki 18:5–7a.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 31:21 law … commandments. See p 971. seeking his God. See p 843.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 31 The Lord blesses Judah under Hezekiah's rule, and Hezekiah reestablishes the support of the priests and Levites. Today, the Lord's people must take account of the need to support their pastors, teachers, and all who are dedicated to the Lord's work. Pray for wisdom in managing the offerings presented at God's house. Bless the Lord for the ministry of the Word, which brings comfort, peace, and hope through Christ, our great High Priest. • Bless all servants of the Word, O Lord, and make me a blessing to them. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON Ch 32 The Chronicler's emphasis on Hezekiah's religious activity cannot be separated from his presentation of the warfare in this chapter. Overall, the Chronicler focuses on Hezekiah as a great reformer, not as a warrior. As with David and Solomon, the Chronicler omits material that casts Hezekiah in a negative light.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:1 Sennacherib. See note, 2Ki 18:13. Assyria … Judah … fortified cities. See note, 11:6–10.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:2–8 Hezekiah prepares for war. Rather than portraying the king as looking to Egypt for help (2Ki 18:20–25), the Chronicler speaks of Hezekiah's trust in the Lord.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:3 planned. Before the siege began, Hezekiah cut off the supply of water outside the city (vv 3–4); strengthened the city's fortifications and stepped up the production of weaponry (v 5); converted the city into a military camp, setting "combat commanders over the people" (v 6); bolstered the morale of the defenders, reminding them that the enemy, "an arm of flesh" (v 8), was no match for the Lord, who would fight their battles (vv 7–8).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:4 brook. The Gihon. Cf v 30; see note, 2Ki 20:20. Archaeologists have discovered foundations of huge defensive towers around these water supplies. Water formerly flowed down to the Kidron Valley, irrigating gardens.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:5 Millo. Part of the city's fortification, it needed periodic repair (cf 1Ki 9:15; 11:27).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:6 square at the gate. See note, 1Ki 22:10.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:7 Do not be afraid. See note, 1Ch 28:20. more with us. See note, 2Ki 6:16.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:8 with us is the LORD. See "be with," p 5. fight our battles. See note, Ex 15:3.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:9–19 Message of Sennacherib's servants and the challenge they present to Judah on behalf of the king of Assyria (cf 2Ki 18:17–35; Is 36:2–20).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:9 Lachish. See color map 1. servants. Sennacherib's attempt to cajole and frighten Hezekiah and the people into surrender (v 18) is described in greater detail in 2Ki 18:14–37; 19:8–14.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:15–18 Each verse directly reflects or paraphrases a portion of the accounts found in 2Ki 18–19; Is 36–37, the bulk of which are omitted by the Chronicler: v 15 (2Ki 18:29; Is 36:14); vv 16–17 (2Ki 19:14; Is 37:14); v 18 (2Ki 18:28; Is 36:13).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:17 letters to cast contempt. Curse letters were used in ancient times.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:18 language of Judah. Hebrew.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:1–19 See application note, 2Ki 18:13–37.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:20 prayed … cried. Cf 2Ki 19:15–34 for Hezekiah's prayer and God's answer through Isaiah. There, however, the prophet's intercession is not mentioned.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:21 Battle occurs quickly and decisively. In all three accounts (cf 2Ki 19:35–36; Is 37:36–37), an angel of the Lord accomplishes the victory; the army of Judah does not fight at all. The victory of Hezekiah is, for the Chronicler, the victory of a righteous king.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:22–23 Summary of Hezekiah's reign. Like David and Solomon (1Ch 14:17; 2Ch 9:23–24), Hezekiah was honored by the nations.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:22 He provided for them. Lit, "He led them."
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:20–23 See application note, 2Ki 19:20–37.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:24–26 Hezekiah becomes prideful, just as David had when he took a census (1Ch 21:1–4).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:24 sick. Cf 2Ki 20:1–11 for a more complete report of Hezekiah's recovery from illness.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:26 See note, 2Ki 20:3.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:27–29 Unique to 2Ch. Hezekiah, like David and Solomon, was the recipient of great honor and wealth. Archaeologists have found large storage rooms at Hazor, Samaria, Jerusalem, and Lachish.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:30 waters of Gihon. See diagram, p 1627; see also note, v 4.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:32 vision of Isaiah. Cf Is 1:1. Book of the Kings. 1 and 2Ki.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:33 See note, 1Ki 2:10. upper part. A rise in the terrain led to the royal sepulchers. did him honor. For rites to honor the dead, see note, 16:14.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 32:24–33 Hezekiah, blessed with great wealth and power, struggles with pride. This threatens to destroy him, his kingdom, and his descendants. Even if you are able to fend off all other threats, pride will still assault and defeat you if the Lord does not come to your aid. Like Hezekiah, humble yourself before the Lord and ask for His forgiveness. Recognize your successes as signs of His kindness, which He extends through the blessings of creation and the mercy of Jesus Christ. • Grant me sincere humility, O Lord, like that of Jesus, who became obedient until death, even death on a cross, for my salvation. Amen.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:1–9 The Chronicler includes the list of evils characterizing Manasseh's reign. Sinful patterns of Ahaz became the model for his grandson Manasseh, who reversed Hezekiah's reforms by rebuilding pagan sanctuaries and erecting false altars in the temple (cf 28:24–25; 29:15–19; 31:1). He effectively swayed the people's religious devotion over his long reign.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:1 Manasseh's 55-year reign, longer than that of any other king, also set a record for apostasy. For decades the detestable practices of the Canaanites held sway. Like Ahaz, he sacrificed his sons; like Saul, he engaged in demonic practices. twelve. Probably guided by a regent.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:2 abominations. See note, Pr 6:16.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:3 high places. See p 526. Baals. See note, Nu 25:3. Asherahs. See note, Ex 34:13. host of heaven. See note, 2Ki 17:16.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:5 two courts. See note, 4:9.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:6 See notes, 2Ki 23:10; Dt 18:10.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:9 nations. The Canaanites. See p 345.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:1–9 See application note, 2Ki 21:1–9.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:10 spoke. The Chronicler notes the sending of prophets, also noting that they were not listened to (cf 2Ki 21:10). This was also an issue in the death of Saul and the final destruction of Judah by Babylon (cf 1Ch 10:13–14; 2Ch 36:15).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:11 captured Manasseh. Assyrian ruler Esarhaddon (681–669 BC) records the tribute of 22 kings west of the Euphrates, and Manasseh is listed among them. hooks. See note, Am 4:2.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:12–16 Unique to 2Ch. Manasseh's repentance reflects the prayer of Solomon at the temple dedication (7:14). Gr Naz: "I know of a Fifth [baptism] also, which is that of tears, and is much more laborious, received by him who washes his bed every night and his couch with tears; … who goeth mourning and of a sad countenance; who imitates the repentance of Manasseh and the humiliation of the Ninevites upon which God had mercy" (NPNF 2 7:358). Luth: "Why shall we have any doubt that God in His heart considers and counts the afflictions of His children and that He measures our tears and records them on unbreakable tablets which the enemies of the church are completely unable to destroy except by repentance? Manasseh was a very great tyrant and a most terrible persecutor of the godly. Therefore his exile and captivity would not have been sufficient to atone for those sins; but when he recognizes his sin and is truly repentant, the Lord shows him mercy" (AE 1:289).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:12 favor. See p 6.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:14 built. See note, 11:5–12. Gihon. See note, 32:30. Fish Gate. See note, Zep 1:10. fortified cities. See note, 11:6–10.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:16 restored. By consecration or even by physically bringing it back to its rightful place. offerings. See pp 170–71.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:17 high places. See p 526. Manasseh's reformation, which came at the end of his life, failed to eradicate worship at the high places. But by every act of sacrifice contrary to God's ordinance, the people heaped up wrath for themselves (cf Jer 15:4). Even the king's son remained unregenerate (vv 21–25).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:18 Cf 2Ki 21:17. Chronicles. See pp 335–37.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:19 prayer. Such a prayer is found in the apocryphal writings. See p 1526–64. Asherim. See note, Ex 34:13.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:20 See note, 1Ki 2:10.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:10–20 Through distress and the admonitions of the prophets, the Lord leads Manasseh to repentance. Like a patient father, the Lord disciplines us and even allows us to learn our lessons the hard way, through error and pain. Yet He is always ready to hear us, just as He heard and had compassion on the wicked king Manasseh. • O Lord, instruct me through the words of Your prophets, and grant me sincere repentance day by day, that I may know You alone as my God. Amen.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:21–25 Like Manasseh, Amon's reign began in idolatry. Unlike Manasseh, Amon did not humble himself but increased his guilt (v 23; unique to 2Ch). For this, Amon is assassinated (v 24).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 33:21–25 See application note, 2Ki 21:19–26.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:1–7 At the beginning of Josiah's reign, idolatry was as entrenched in Judah as it had been at his grandfather Hezekiah's time, if not more so. Following in Hezekiah's footsteps, the young king and his regent began a campaign to destroy the images and altars of heathen worship.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:2 walked. See p 7. right … left. Not referring to political mainstream, as we might use this expression today, but to singular faithfulness to the covenant laws and promises.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:3 eighth year. At age 16, Josiah began to seek the Lord. seek. See p 843. high places. See p 526. Asherim. See note, Ex 34:13.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:4 Baals. See note, Nu 25:3. over the graves. See note, 2Ki 23:6.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:5 burned the bones. See note, 2Ki 23:20. Josiah's aggressive destruction of idolatrous institutions and priests has inspired similar destructive outbursts by religious groups (e.g., early Christian mobs at times destroyed pagan temples; iconoclastic mobs in the medieval and Reformation eras destroyed things they regarded as idolatrous). It should be noted that as king, Josiah had jurisdiction in these matters, in contrast to angry, destructive mobs. The Lord would not have us fulfill His Word by destroying our neighbor's property. He calls us as individual believers to share the Word peaceably and so change people's hearts.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:6–7 Josiah's reform began in Judah and Jerusalem (v 3) but extended to Manasseh, Ephraim, and even Naphtali, the northern part of the now-fallen kingdom of Israel. His concern for all Israel reflects that of Hezekiah (30:1). After the failure of Amon (33:21–25), a new son of David is given to Israel, one who cleanses "all the land of Israel" (v 7).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:6 Manasseh, Ephraim, and Simeon … Naphtali. See map, p 365.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:1–7 Josiah seeks the Lord and destroys the idolatrous shrines in Judah and all Israel. Sincere faith is expressed not only by service to the Lord but also by leaving behind and removing those things that tempt us and would divide our devotion. The Holy Spirit will lead you not only to confess your sin but also to put away and avoid temptation. The Lord alone is your God; He is the only Savior. • O one true God, grant me an undivided heart, that I may serve You truly. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:8–21 The Chronicler provides more detail than the account in Kings. The involvement of all Israel is noted esp in v 9 with the Chronicler's reference to a collection from both north and south, which expresses the unity of the people under a Davidic king faithful in the worship of the Lord.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:8 repair the house. See notes, 2Ki 22:3, 6.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:9 remnant. See p 1080.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:11 buildings. Lit, "houses" (cf 1Ch 28:11; 29:4). go to ruin. Cf v 8.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:12 Levites … Merari … Kohathites. See note, 1Ch 6:1–15. The Levites are a focus of the Chronicler. See pp 628–29.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:13 burden-bearers. See note, 2:17–18. scribes … officials … gatekeepers. See notes, 1Ch 2:55; 9:17–33; 18:17; 26:1–19; 28:1.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:14 found. Possibly with the money. Book of the Law. See pp 335–37.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:19 tore. See note, Jb 1:20.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:20 Abdon. Identified as "Achbor the son of Micaiah" (2Ki 22:12).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:21 Hbr word for "inquire" is the same as "seek" in v 3. See p 843. not kept … this book. Priests had apparently continued their service based on traditions passed down from one generation to the next but had failed to return to the source of the traditions: Scripture itself. This would explain how, over time in a largely oral society, true and false worship practices could become mixed.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:22–28 After the reading of the Book of the Law (v 18), the curses are now applied (cf Dt 27:9–26; 28:15–68; 29:20).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:22 See note, 2Ki 22:14. prophetess. See p 389. Huldah's husband is called "the son of Tikvah, son of Harhas." Second Quarter. See note, 2Ki 22:14.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:24 I will bring disaster. Cf Dt 32:23.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:25 See note, Dt 32:39.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:26 inquire. See "seek," p 843.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:27 tender. Or, "fearful." See note, 19:8–11. torn. See note, Jb 1:20.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:28 gather you to your fathers. See note, 1Ki 2:10. peace. Josiah would be fatally wounded in battle (35:23), but Huldah's point is that he would not witness the destruction of the kingdom, which God threatens in vv 24–25.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:29–33 Response of Josiah and the people. This ceremony of covenant renewal is in a worship context; a procession goes to the temple, and a solemn oath is taken by the king to pledge fidelity to it.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:30 Levites. 2Ki 23:2 reads "prophets." Levites could also serve as prophets. See note, 1Ch 25:1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:32–33 All Israel pledged faithfulness to the Book of the Covenant. Further removal of abominations from "all the territory" takes place. Josiah's reformation spread through the whole land. Cf 2Ki 23:3. covenant. See p 127.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:33 abominations. See note, Pr 6:16. all the territory … Israel. Josiah extended his influence and rule into the area of Israel recently conquered by the Assyrians. See map, p 558.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 34:8–33 See application note, 2Ki 22:8–20.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:1 Passover. One of the highlights of Hezekiah's reformation was a memorable observance of the Passover, described at length in 30:1–27. Josiah did more than merely issue the order to celebrate; he provided sacrificial animals in great numbers (vv 7–9). The Chronicler notes that the Passover was kept at the proper time. This is in accord with Lv 23:5, not according to Hezekiah's exception (ch 30; see notes, 30:2, 3).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:2–3 Like Hezekiah, Josiah is concerned that the proper ministry be in place for the Passover (cf 29:34; 30:3). On the role of Levites as teachers of Israel, see note, 17:9.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:3 holy to the LORD. See note, Ex 28:36. ark. See note, Ex 25:10. need not carry it. Apparently the ark would be moved (perhaps from storage) for ceremonial observances, since it had lost its place in the temple. See p 495.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:4–17 Josiah reinstitutes the Davidic organization and divisions of the Levites (1Ch 23, 25–26). The Chronicler emphasizes the command of the king (vv 10, 16), the roles of David and Solomon (vv 4, 15), and the authority of Moses (vv 6, 12).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:4 divisions. Cf 8:14; 1Ch 23; 25–26. writing … document. May refer to an official document that is now lost. See pp 335–37.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:6 consecrate. See p 6.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:7 lay people. Lit, "sons of the people." bulls. Not a typical part of the Passover celebration (cf Ex 12). Such sacrifices were given not only to honor God but also to feed the people who had traveled to the ceremony. The oxen were "holy offerings" (v 13), or peace offerings, that were partly burned on the altar and partly eaten by the worshipers (cf Lv 3). See "peace offerings," pp 170–71.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:11 slaughtered the Passover lamb. See note, 30:15–22. threw the blood. See note, 29:22. flayed. See note, 29:34.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:12 Book of Moses. See note, 17:9.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:13 roasted. After its wool was removed by boiling the animal. See notes, Lv 6:26; Ex 12:8–9.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:14 prepared for themselves. Priests and Levites had focused on the needs of the people to their own neglect. They now enacted better management.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:15 Service rendered in various ways by the Levites receives special mention, a characteristic touch of Chronicles. singers. Cf 1Ch 25 for the three divisions of singers. gate. See p 792.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:1–19 Josiah leads the people in an exceptional celebration of the Lord's Passover. At times, the Church's observances may seem routine, even dull, to our hardened hearts. Bring praise to your Lord by commemorating His love through renewed observance of the sacred festivals. Through the word of His mercy, He will consecrate you anew. • We praise Your name this day, O Lord, commemorating the works of Your love and receiving anew the testimonies of Your gracious deliverance. Amen.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:20 Neco. See note, 2Ki 23:29. Carchemish … Euphrates. See color map 3.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:21–23 Unique to 2Ch. Account in 2Ki 23:29–30a raises a serious theological question: how could a good king such as Josiah die in defeat? Here the Chronicler provides material not found in Kings, to answer that question. 2Ki and 2Ch give different perspectives on Josiah's defeat and death. According to Kings, the death of Josiah is attributable to the Lord's wrath against Manasseh (2Ki 23:26–27). According to the Chronicler, it is attributable to Josiah's failure to heed the Word of the Lord (35:21–22).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:21 the house. Emerging Babylonian world power.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:22 words of Neco. Neco claimed divine sanction for his campaign, no doubt referring to an oracle that he ascribed to his own god. However, in this instance the oracle also expressed the will of the true God concerning Judah. In effect, Josiah was "opposing God" (v 21) in his attempt to deflect the threatened judgment on the apostate nation (34:24). It is common in the Chronicler's history for speeches to announce divine blessing or warning (11:1–4; 13:4–12; 16:7–9; 18:16–22; 25:17–19). In this case, it is spoken by the foreign king Neco. Despite Josiah's auspicious beginning, he did not always heed God's Word. This passage illustrates how difficult it can be to recognize God's will in earthly matters. The Lord has given us the Word to guide us in matters of faith. He has given us counsel for discerning true prophets from false prophets (Dt 18:22). However, He has not promised to reveal His will in all matters. (The kings and priests of Israel could consult the Lord using the Urim and Thummim. See note, Ex 28:30.) The Lord calls us to live freely before Him according to the wisdom He provides. (See pp 775–78.) Luth: "All of them, even the greatest kings from the beginning of the world, have not governed their realms without great errors and injustices. This is intended to make you realize that it is impossible to govern an earthly commonwealth without sin—something that is unknown to certain raving preachers and to the mob, who are quick to pick up the errors of princes and kings. It is also a special fraud of Satan that we so quickly notice and pay attention to the errors of princes. Some peasant who has lived like a pig for twenty years or more and has never paid any attention to any of his sins is most eloquent regarding some slight sin of his prince, and meanwhile he swallows whole seas and forests of his own private sins" (AE 12:240).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:24 second chariot. Lit, "the chariot of the second," which may mean the second in command or "next in authority" (28:7). Josiah died on the way to Jerusalem (2Ki 23:30). Luth: "We see God at work as Judge in the outcome of almost all wars, so that those who first stir up war and forsake the peace are always defeated. So also king Josiah fell when he despised the peace which had been offered and started the war against the king of Egypt" (AE 9:203). tombs of his fathers. To accord with Huldah's prophecy (34:28; 2Ki 22:22). Cf Zec 14:1.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:25 Jeremiah. See pp 1202–6. to this day. Likely the time of the Chronicler. See note, 1Ch 4:41. Laments. Not the Book of Lamentations. Solemn chanting was a typical funeral custom (cf Jer 9:17–18).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:26–27 Both Joash and Josiah came to the throne as children (24:1; 34:1); both led Judah in renovations of the temple, funded by collections (24:9–14; 34:8–14); both were involved in a national renewal of the covenant (23:16–17; 34:29–32). Josiah would remain faithful to the end (34:2, 33), but Joash remained faithful only during the days of Jehoiada (24:2, 15–18).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:27 Book of the Kings. 1 and 2Ki.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 35:20–27 See application note, 2Ki 23:28–30.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:1–4 Reign of Jehoahaz. The son of Josiah is placed on the throne by the people, the last king to be enthroned by them. Each succeeding king will be appointed by a foreign power.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:3 Egypt deposed him. Judah came under the rule of Neco of Egypt, a nation once an ally (cf 2Ki 18:21), and was required to pay tribute of 100 talents of silver (c 3¾ tons) and a talent of gold (c 75 lb).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:4 Not only did Neco take Jehoahaz to Egypt as his prisoner, but he also changed the new king's name from Eliakim to Jehoiakim. his brother. Jehoiakim was Jehoahaz's older brother.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:5–8 Jeremiah provides additional information, not found in 2Ki or 2Ch, about Jehoiakim's reign (Jer 22:18–23; 25:1–26:24; 36).
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:6 Babylon. See map, p 717. bound him. Jehoiakim was bound, but apparently the plan to take him in fetters to Babylon was not carried out. In 605 BC, the critical battle of Carchemish took place, establishing Babylonian ascendancy and Jehoiakim's submission to the victor. In 601 BC, another battle was fought between Egypt and Babylon. This likely caused Jehoiakim to withhold tribute from Babylon.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:7 vessels. Nebuchadnezzar took sacred objects from the Jerusalem temple to his temple in Babylon.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:9 Reign of Jehoiachin. evil in the sight of the LORD. The Babylonian Chronicle dates these events in the seventh year of Nebuchadnezzar's reign on the second day of Adar.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:10 brother. A wider range of meanings than a biological brother; may also refer to a relative. Zedekiah was his brother in the broader sense. Strictly speaking, he was Jehoiachin's father's brother, thus an uncle. Jehoiachin disappears from the Chronicler's history at this point, but he appears at the end of Kings as the recipient of kindness by King Evil-merodach of Babylon (2Ki 25:27–30). Jehoiachin is the legitimate Davidic king; thus it is he, not Zedekiah, through whom the Chronicler traces the royal lineage in the genealogy of 1Ch 3:16–24. Zedekiah. Also known as Mattaniah. King of Babylon changed his name to Zedekiah.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:11–16 Rather than dwell on the events of Jerusalem's last days, as given in 2Ki 24:18–25:21, the writer of Chronicles takes pains to make clear why the city was doomed. God was long-suffering, but finally there came a point when His wrath "rose against His people, until there was no remedy" (v 16). Let no one mistakenly believe that mocking God's messengers, despising His Word, and scoffing at the threat of punishment is a less offensive crime today than it was when Jerusalem received the wages of sin (Gal 6:7).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:12 Jeremiah. Cf Jer 34:8–22; 37:1–2 for rejection of his message by Zedekiah and the people.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:13–16 Unique to 2Ch.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:13 swear. See p 7. stiffened his neck. See note, Ex 32:9. hardened his heart. See notes, Ex 4:21; 9:12.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:14 abominations. See note, Pr 6:16. polluted. See p 300.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:15 His messengers. Prophets. compassion. Hbr chamal, "to feel pity" or "to spare." dwelling place. Temple.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:16 mocking … despising … scoffing. Emphasize the disdain the people expressed toward the Word and the prophets. See SC, Third Commandment, p xxxv.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:1–16 The Chronicler quickly describes the last kings of Judah (Jehoahaz, Jehoiakim, Jehoiachin, and Zedekiah), who were dominated by Babylon. He likewise records how stubbornness dominates the people of Judah (vv 15–16). Though persistence can be a helpful trait, stubbornness leads to self-destruction. Always check your will against God's will, recorded in Scripture, so that He may teach you persistence in faith and break your sinful stubbornness. Thanks be to God, He has a remedy for all your faults through His gift of forgiveness, His Spirit, and instruction in righteousness. • Remedy my faults, Great Physician, and grant me a willing heart to believe Your Word. Amen.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:17–21 The Chronicler noted that Saul died because the Lord killed him (1Ch 10:13–14). Here he notes that the Lord brings the Chaldeans (Babylonians) to punish Judah.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:17 no compassion. See note, v 15.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:19 Babylonians razed the city to make it indefensible and prevent future rebellions.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:20 servants. Slaves. See p 101. until … Persia. See note, Ezr 1:1.
2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:21 Unique to 2Ch. the word of the LORD by the mouth of Jeremiah. Cf 29:10; 37:2. Sabbaths. Cf Lv 26:34, 40–45 for the description of the exile as a Sabbath. This was a purifying time of rest and repentance and, despite its pain and horror, a time of hope for the future (cf Jer 29:10–14). Seventy years is a round or symbolic figure for the length of the exile. Some captives were carried off 20 years before the city fell in 587 BC (Dn 1:1–6). In 538 BC, the first exiles were permitted to return. Cf Ezr 1:1.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:17–21 See application note, 2Ki 25:1–21.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:22–23 The Chronicler includes the return prophesied by Jeremiah and Isaiah, assuring the reader that the chosen people would not remain in the Babylonian captivity. See the same intimation of hope at the end of Kings (2Ki 25:27). mouth of Jeremiah. See note, v 21.

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:23 Lord, the God of heaven. Cyrus's declaration implies he knew Yahweh, the true God (see notes, 1Ki 5:7; 10:9). However, he may express himself this way for the sake of the Judeans he ruled (i.e., "Your God told me to do this, so listen"; and "may the Lord his [a Judean's] God" [v 23b]).

2 CHRONICLES—NOTE ON 36:22–23 The Lord stirs the Persian king Cyrus to declare that the Judeans could return home from exile. Ironically, the people who would not hear God's Word from the prophets now hear His decree from the mouth of a foreign ruler who may have been a pagan. The Lord goes to great lengths to reach His people. How great is His patience and mercy toward us! • Fulfill Your Word for me, O Lord, according to Your mercy in Christ, who set me free. Amen.

The Proclamation of Cyrus

1 [1]†In the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, that the word of the Lord by the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled, the Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, so that he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom and also put it in writing:

[2]† "Thus says Cyrus king of Persia: The Lord, the God of heaven, has given me all the kingdoms of the earth, and he has charged me to build him a house at Jerusalem, which is in Judah. [3]†Whoever is among you of all his people, may his God be with him, and let him go up to Jerusalem, which is in Judah, and rebuild the house of the Lord, the God of Israel—he is the God who is in Jerusalem. [4]† And let each survivor, in whatever place he sojourns, be assisted by the men of his place with silver and gold, with goods and with beasts, besides freewill offerings for the house of God that is in Jerusalem."

[5]†Then rose up the heads of the fathers' houses of Judah and Benjamin, and the priests and the Levites, everyone whose spirit God had stirred to go up to rebuild the house of the Lord that is in Jerusalem. [6]And all who were about them aided them with vessels of silver, with gold, with goods, with beasts, and with costly wares, besides all that was freely offered. [7]†Cyrus the king also brought out the vessels of the house of the Lord that Nebuchadnezzar had carried away from Jerusalem and placed in the house of his gods. [8]† Cyrus king of Persia brought these out in the charge of Mithredath the treasurer, who counted them out to Sheshbazzar the prince of Judah. [9]†And this was the number of them: 30 basins of gold, 1,000 basins of silver, 29 censers, [10]30 bowls of gold, 410 bowls of silver, and 1,000 other vessels; [11]†all the vessels of gold and of silver were 5,400. All these did Sheshbazzar bring up, when the exiles were brought up from Babylonia to Jerusalem.

The Exiles Return

2 [1]†Now these were the people of the province who came up out of the captivity of those exiles whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon had carried captive to Babylonia. They returned to Jerusalem and Judah, each to his own town. [2]‡‡They came with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Seraiah, Reelaiah, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispar, Bigvai, Rehum, and Baanah.

The number of the men of the people of Israel: [3]the sons of Parosh, 2,172.
[4]The sons of Shephatiah, 372. [5]The sons of Arah, 775. [6]The sons of Pahath-moab, namely the sons of Jeshua and Joab, 2,812. [7]The sons of Elam, 1,254.
[8]The sons of Zattu, 945. [9]The sons of Zaccai, 760. [10]The sons of Bani, 642.
[11]The sons of Bebai, 623. [12]The sons of Azgad, 1,222. [13]The sons of Adonikam, 666. [14]The sons of Bigvai, 2,056. [15]The sons of Adin, 454. [16]The sons of Ater, namely of Hezekiah, 98. [17]The sons of Bezai, 323. [18]The sons of Jorah, 112. [19]The sons of Hashum, 223. [20]The sons of Gibbar, 95. [21]‡‡The sons of Bethlehem, 123. [22]The men of Netophah, 56. [23]The men of Anathoth, 128. [24]The sons of Azmaveth, 42. [25]The sons of Kiriath-arim, Chephirah, and Beeroth, 743. [26]The sons of Ramah and Geba, 621. [27]The men of Michmas, 122. [28]The men of Bethel and Ai, 223. [29]The sons of Nebo, 52. [30]The sons of Magbish, 156. [31]The sons of the other Elam, 1,254.
[32]The sons of Harim, 320. [33]The sons of Lod, Hadid, and Ono, 725. [34]The sons of Jericho, 345. [35]The sons of Senaah, 3,630.

[36]The priests: the sons of Jedaiah, of the house of Jeshua, 973. [37]The sons of Immer, 1,052. [38]The sons of Pashhur, 1,247. [39]The sons of Harim, 1,017.

[40]†The Levites: the sons of Jeshua and Kadmiel, of the sons of Hodaviah, 74. [41]The singers: the sons of Asaph, 128. [42]The sons of the gatekeepers: the sons of Shallum, the sons of Ater, the sons of Talmon, the sons of Akkub, the sons of Hatita, and the sons of Shobai, in all 139.

[43]†The temple servants: the sons of Ziha, the sons of Hasupha, the sons of Tabbaoth, [44]the sons of Keros, the sons of Siaha, the sons of Padon, [45]the sons of Lebanah, the sons of Hagabah, the sons of Akkub, [46]the sons of Hagab, the sons of Shamlai, the sons of Hanan, [47]the sons of Giddel, the sons of Gahar, the sons of Reaiah, [48]the sons of Rezin, the sons of Nekoda, the sons of Gazzam, [49]the sons of Uzza, the sons of Paseah, the sons of Besai, [50]the sons of Asnah, the sons of Meunim, the sons of Nephisim, [51]the sons of Bakbuk, the sons of Hakupha, the sons of Harhur, [52]the sons of Bazluth, the sons of Mehida, the sons of Harsha, [53]the sons of Barkos, the sons of Sisera, the sons of Temah, [54]the sons of Neziah, and the sons of Hatipha.

[55] † The sons of Solomon's servants: the sons of Sotai, the sons of Hassophereth, the sons of Peruda, [56]the sons of Jaalah, the sons of Darkon, the sons of Giddel, [57]the sons of Shephatiah, the sons of Hattil, the sons of Pochereth-hazzebaim, and the sons of Ami.

[59] † The following were those who came up from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addan, and Immer, though they could not prove their fathers' houses or their descent, whether they belonged to Israel: [60]the sons of Delaiah, the sons of Tobiah, and the sons of Nekoda, 652. [61]Also, of the sons of the priests: the sons of Habaiah, the sons of Hakkoz, and the sons of Barzillai (who had taken a wife from the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite, and was called by their name). [62] † These sought their registration among those enrolled in the genealogies, but they were not found there, and so they were excluded from the priesthood as unclean. [63] † The governor told them that they were not to partake of the most holy food, until there should be a priest to consult Urim and Thummim.

[64] † The whole assembly together was 42,360, [65] † besides their male and female servants, of whom there were 7,337, and they had 200 male and female singers. [66]Their horses were 736, their mules were 245, [67]their camels were 435, and their donkeys were 6,720.

[68] † Some of the heads of families, when they came to the house of the Lord that is in Jerusalem, made freewill offerings for the house of God, to erect it on its site. [69] † According to their ability they gave to the treasury of the work 61,000 darics[1] of gold, 5,000 minas[2] of silver, and 100 priests' garments.

[70] † Now the priests, the Levites, some of the people, the singers, the gatekeepers, and the temple servants lived in their towns, and all the rest of Israel[3] in their towns.

Rebuilding the Altar

3 [1]†† When the seventh month came, and the children of Israel were in the towns, the people gathered as one man to Jerusalem. [2] † Then arose Jeshua the son of Jozadak, with his fellow priests, and Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel with his kinsmen, and they built the altar of the God of Israel, to offer burnt offerings on it, as it is written in the Law of Moses the man of God. [3] † They set the altar in its place, for fear was on them because of the peoples of the lands, and they offered burnt offerings on it to the Lord, burnt offerings morning and evening. [4] † And they kept the Feast of Booths, as it is written, and offered the daily burnt offerings by number according to the rule, as each day required, [5] † and after that the regular burnt offerings, the offerings at the new moon and at all the appointed feasts of the Lord, and the offerings of everyone who made a freewill offering to the Lord. [6] † From the first day of the seventh month they began to offer burnt offerings to the Lord. But the foundation of the temple of the Lord was not yet laid. [7] † So they gave money to the masons and the carpenters, and food, drink, and oil to the Sidonians and the Tyrians to bring cedar trees from Lebanon to the sea, to Joppa, according to the grant that they had from Cyrus king of Persia.

Rebuilding the Temple

8 ‡ † Now in the second year after their coming to the house of God at Jerusalem, in the second month, Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel and Jeshua the son of Jozadak made a beginning, together with the rest of their kinsmen, the priests and the Levites and all who had come to Jerusalem from the captivity. They appointed the Levites, from twenty years old and upward, to supervise the work of the house of the Lord. 9 And Jeshua with his sons and his brothers, and Kadmiel and his sons, the sons of Judah, together supervised the workmen in the house of God, along with the sons of Henadad and the Levites, their sons and brothers.
10 † And when the builders laid the foundation of the temple of the Lord, the priests in their vestments came forward with trumpets, and the Levites, the sons of Asaph, with cymbals, to praise the Lord, according to the directions of David king of Israel. 11 † And they sang responsively, praising and giving thanks to the Lord,

> "For he is good,
> for his steadfast love endures forever toward > Israel."

And all the people shouted with a great shout when they praised the Lord, because the foundation of the house of the Lord was laid. 12 † But many of the priests and Levites and heads of fathers' houses, old men who had seen the first house, wept with a loud voice when they saw the foundation of this house being laid, though many shouted aloud for joy, 13 so that the people could not distinguish the sound of the joyful shout from the sound of the people's weeping, for the people shouted with a great shout, and the sound was heard far away.

Adversaries Oppose the Rebuilding

4 [1]‡†Now when the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin heard that the returned exiles were building a temple to the Lord, the God of Israel, [2]†they approached Zerubbabel and the heads of fathers' houses and said to them, "Let us build with you, for we worship your God as you do, and we have been sacrificing to him ever since the days of Esarhaddon king of Assyria who brought us here." [3]†But Zerubbabel, Jeshua, and the rest of the heads of fathers' houses in Israel said to them, "You have nothing to do with us in building a house to our God; but we alone will build to the Lord, the God of Israel, as King Cyrus the king of Persia has commanded us."

[4]†Then the people of the land discouraged the people of Judah and made them afraid to build [5]†and bribed counselors against them to frustrate their purpose, all the days of Cyrus king of Persia, even until the reign of Darius king of Persia.

[6]‡†And in the reign of Ahasuerus, in the beginning of his reign, they wrote an accusation against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem.

The Letter to King Artaxerxes

7 ‡† In the days of Artaxerxes, Bishlam and Mithredath and Tabeel and the rest of their associates wrote to Artaxerxes king of Persia. The letter was written in Aramaic and translated.[1] 8 † Rehum the commander and Shimshai the scribe wrote a letter against Jerusalem to Artaxerxes the king as follows:
9 † Rehum the commander, Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their associates, the judges, the governors, the officials, the Persians, the men of Erech, the Babylonians, the men of Susa, that is, the Elamites, 10 † and the rest of the nations whom the great and noble Osnappar deported and settled in the cities of Samaria and in the rest of the province Beyond the River.
11 ‡ (This is a copy of the letter that they sent.) “To Artaxerxes the king: Your servants, the men of the province Beyond the River, send greeting. And now 12 † be it known to the king that the Jews who came up from you to us have gone to Jerusalem. They are rebuilding that rebellious and wicked city.
They are finishing the walls and repairing the foundations. 13 † Now be it known to the king that if this city is rebuilt and the walls finished, they will not pay tribute, custom, or toll, and the royal revenue will be impaired.
14 † Now because we eat the salt of the palace and it is not fitting for us to witness the king’s dishonor, therefore we send and inform the king, 15 † in order that search may be made in the book of the records of your fathers.
You will find in the book of the records and learn that this city is a rebellious city, hurtful to kings and provinces, and that sedition was stirred up in it from of old. That was why this city was laid waste. 16 † We make known to the king that if this city is rebuilt and its walls finished, you will then have no possession in the province Beyond the River.”

The King Orders the Work to Cease

17 ‡‡‡The king sent an answer: “To Rehum the commander and Shimshai the scribe and the rest of their associates who live in Samaria and in the rest of the province Beyond the River, greeting. And now 18 the letter that you sent to us has been plainly read before me. 19 †And I made a decree, and search has been made, and it has been found that this city from of old has risen against kings, and that rebellion and sedition have been made in it.
20 †And mighty kings have been over Jerusalem, who ruled over the whole province Beyond the River, to whom tribute, custom, and toll were paid.
21 †Therefore make a decree that these men be made to cease, and that this city be not rebuilt, until a decree is made by me. 22 †And take care not to be slack in this matter. Why should damage grow to the hurt of the king?”

23 †Then, when the copy of King Artaxerxes’ letter was read before Rehum and Shimshai the scribe and their associates, they went in haste to the Jews at Jerusalem and by force and power made them cease. 24 †Then the work on the house of God that is in Jerusalem stopped, and it ceased until the second year of the reign of Darius king of Persia.

Rebuilding Begins Anew

5 [1] ‡ † Now the prophets, Haggai and Zechariah the son of Iddo, prophesied to the Jews who were in Judah and Jerusalem, in the name of the God of Israel who was over them. [2] † Then Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel and Jeshua the son of Jozadak arose and began to rebuild the house of God that is in Jerusalem, and the prophets of God were with them, supporting
them.

[3] † At the same time Tattenai the governor of the province Beyond the River and Shethar-bozenai and their associates came to them and spoke to them thus: “Who gave you a decree to build this house and to finish this structure?” [4] † They[1] also asked them this: “What are the names of the men who are building this building?” [5] † But the eye of their God was on the elders of the Jews, and they did not stop them until the report should reach Darius and then an answer be returned by letter concerning it.

Tattenai's Letter to King Darius

6 This is a copy of the letter that Tattenai the governor of the province
Beyond the River and Shethar-bozenai and his associates, the governors who were in the province Beyond the River, sent to Darius the king. 7 They sent him a report, in which was written as follows: "To Darius the king, all peace. 8 Be it known to the king that we went to the province of Judah, to the house of the great God. It is being built with huge stones, and timber is laid in the walls. This work goes on diligently and prospers in their hands.
9 Then we asked those elders and spoke to them thus: 'Who gave you a decree to build this house and to finish this structure?' 10 We also asked them their names, for your information, that we might write down the names of their leaders.[2] 11 And this was their reply to us: 'We are the servants of the God of heaven and earth, and we are rebuilding the house that was built many years ago, which a great king of Israel built and finished. 12 But because our fathers had angered the God of heaven, he gave them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, the Chaldean, who destroyed this house and carried away the people to Babylonia. 13 However, in the first year of Cyrus king of Babylon, Cyrus the king made a decree that this house of God should be rebuilt. 14 And the gold and silver vessels of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar had taken out of the temple that was in Jerusalem and brought into the temple of Babylon, these Cyrus the king took out of the temple of Babylon, and they were delivered to one whose name was Sheshbazzar, whom he had made governor; 15 and he said to him,
"Take these vessels, go and put them in the temple that is in Jerusalem, and let the house of God be rebuilt on its site." 16 Then this Sheshbazzar came and laid the foundations of the house of God that is in Jerusalem, and from that time until now it has been in building, and it is not yet finished.' 17 Therefore, if it seems good to the king, let search be made in the royal archives there in Babylon, to see whether a decree was issued by Cyrus the king for the rebuilding of this house of God in Jerusalem. And let the king send us his pleasure in this matter."

The Decree of Darius

6 [1]†† Then Darius the king made a decree, and search was made in Babylonia, in the house of the archives where the documents were stored.
[2]† And in Ecbatana, the capital that is in the province of Media, a scroll was found on which this was written: "A record. [3]† In the first year of Cyrus the king, Cyrus the king issued a decree: Concerning the house of God at Jerusalem, let the house be rebuilt, the place where sacrifices were offered, and let its foundations be retained. Its height shall be sixty cubits[1] and its breadth sixty cubits, [4]† with three layers of great stones and one layer of timber. Let the cost be paid from the royal treasury. [5]† And also let the gold and silver vessels of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took out of the temple that is in Jerusalem and brought to Babylon, be restored and brought back to the temple that is in Jerusalem, each to its place. You shall put them in the house of God."

[6]† "Now therefore, Tattenai, governor of the province Beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and your associates the governors who are in the province
Beyond the River, keep away. [7]† Let the work on this house of God alone.
Let the governor of the Jews and the elders of the Jews rebuild this house of God on its site. [8]† Moreover, I make a decree regarding what you shall do for these elders of the Jews for the rebuilding of this house of God. The cost is to be paid to these men in full and without delay from the royal revenue, the tribute of the province from Beyond the River. [9]† And whatever is needed—bulls, rams, or sheep for burnt offerings to the God of heaven, wheat, salt, wine, or oil, as the priests at Jerusalem require—let that be given to them day by day without fail, [10]† that they may offer pleasing sacrifices to the God of heaven and pray for the life of the king and his sons. [11]† Also I make a decree that if anyone alters this edict, a beam shall be pulled out of his house, and he shall be impaled on it, and his house shall be made a dunghill. [12]† May the God who has caused his name to dwell there overthrow any king or people who shall put out a hand to alter this, or to destroy this house of God that is in Jerusalem. I Darius make a decree; let it be done with all diligence."

The Temple Finished and Dedicated

13 ‡ † Then, according to the word sent by Darius the king, Tattenai, the governor of the province Beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and their associates did with all diligence what Darius the king had ordered. 14 † And the elders of the Jews built and prospered through the prophesying of Haggai the prophet and Zechariah the son of Iddo. They finished their building by decree of the God of Israel and by decree of Cyrus and Darius and Artaxerxes king of Persia; 15 † and this house was finished on the third day of the month of Adar, in the sixth year of the reign of Darius the king.

16 † And the people of Israel, the priests and the Levites, and the rest of the returned exiles, celebrated the dedication of this house of God with joy.
17 † They offered at the dedication of this house of God 100 bulls, 200 rams, 400 lambs, and as a sin offering for all Israel 12 male goats, according to the number of the tribes of Israel. 18 † And they set the priests in their divisions and the Levites in their divisions, for the service of God at Jerusalem, as it is written in the Book of Moses.

Passover Celebrated

19 ‡ †On the fourteenth day of the first month, the returned exiles kept the Passover. 20 † For the priests and the Levites had purified themselves together; all of them were clean. So they slaughtered the Passover lamb for all the returned exiles, for their fellow priests, and for themselves. 21 †It was eaten by the people of Israel who had returned from exile, and also by every one who had joined them and separated himself from the uncleanness of the peoples of the land to worship the Lord, the God of Israel. 22 †And they kept the Feast of Unleavened Bread seven days with joy, for the Lord had made them joyful and had turned the heart of the king of Assyria to them, so that he aided them in the work of the house of God, the God of Israel.

Ezra Sent to Teach the People

7 [1]‡†Now after this, in the reign of Artaxerxes king of Persia, Ezra the son of Seraiah, son of Azariah, son of Hilkiah, [2]son of Shallum, son of Zadok, son of Ahitub, [3]son of Amariah, son of Azariah, son of Meraioth, [4]son of Zerahiah, son of Uzzi, son of Bukki, [5]son of Abishua, son of Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the chief priest— [6]†this Ezra went up from Babylonia. He was a scribe skilled in the Law of Moses that the Lord, the God of Israel, had given, and the king granted him all that he asked, for the hand of the Lord his God was on him.

[7]†And there went up also to Jerusalem, in the seventh year of Artaxerxes
the king, some of the people of Israel, and some of the priests and Levites, the singers and gatekeepers, and the temple servants. [8]And Ezra[1] came to Jerusalem in the fifth month, which was in the seventh year of the king.
[9]†For on the first day of the first month he began to go up from Babylonia, and on the first day of the fifth month he came to Jerusalem, for the good hand of his God was on him. [10]†For Ezra had set his heart to study the Law of the Lord, and to do it and to teach his statutes and rules in Israel.

[11]‡† This is a copy of the letter that King Artaxerxes gave to Ezra the priest, the scribe, a man learned in matters of the commandments of the Lord and his statutes for Israel: [12]†"Artaxerxes, king of kings, to Ezra the priest, the scribe of the Law of the God of heaven. Peace.[2] And now [13]I make a decree that anyone of the people of Israel or their priests or Levites in my kingdom, who freely offers to go to Jerusalem, may go with you.
[14]†For you are sent by the king and his seven counselors to make inquiries about Judah and Jerusalem according to the Law of your God, which is in your hand, [15]and also to carry the silver and gold that the king and his counselors have freely offered to the God of Israel, whose dwelling is in Jerusalem, [16]†with all the silver and gold that you shall find in the whole province of Babylonia, and with the freewill offerings of the people and the priests, vowed willingly for the house of their God that is in Jerusalem.
[17]†With this money, then, you shall with all diligence buy bulls, rams, and lambs, with their grain offerings and their drink offerings, and you shall offer them on the altar of the house of your God that is in Jerusalem. 18 †Whatever seems good to you and your brothers to do with the rest of the silver and gold, you may do, according to the will of your God. 19 †The vessels that have been given you for the service of the house of your God, you shall deliver before the God of Jerusalem. 20 †And whatever else is required for the house of your God, which it falls to you to provide, you may provide it out of the king's treasury.

21 ‡†"And I, Artaxerxes the king, make a decree to all the treasurers in the province Beyond the River: Whatever Ezra the priest, the scribe of the Law of the God of heaven, requires of you, let it be done with all diligence, 22 †up to 100 talents[1] of silver, 100 cors[2] of wheat, 100 baths[3] of wine, 100 baths of oil, and salt without prescribing how much. 23 †Whatever is decreed by the God of heaven, let it be done in full for the house of the God of heaven, lest his wrath be against the realm of the king and his sons. 24 †We also notify you that it shall not be lawful to impose tribute, custom, or toll on anyone of the priests, the Levites, the singers, the doorkeepers, the temple servants, or other servants of this house of God.

25 †"And you, Ezra, according to the wisdom of your God that is in your hand, appoint magistrates and judges who may judge all the people in the province Beyond the River, all such as know the laws of your God. And those who do not know them, you shall teach. 26 †Whoever will not obey the law of your God and the law of the king, let judgment be strictly executed on him, whether for death or for banishment or for confiscation of his goods or for imprisonment."

27 ‡†Blessed be the Lord, the God of our fathers, who put such a thing as this into the heart of the king, to beautify the house of the Lord that is in Jerusalem, 28 †and who extended to me his steadfast love before the king and his counselors, and before all the king's mighty officers. I took courage, for the hand of the Lord my God was on me, and I gathered leading men from Israel to go up with me.

Genealogy of Those Who Returned with Ezra

8 [1] ‡ ‡These are the heads of their fathers’ houses, and this is the genealogy of those who went up with me from Babylonia, in the reign of Artaxerxes the king: [2] †Of the sons of Phinehas, Gershom. Of the sons of Ithamar, Daniel. Of the sons of David, Hattush. [3]Of the sons of Shecaniah, who was of the sons of Parosh, Zechariah, with whom were registered 150 men. [4]Of the sons of Pahath-moab, Eliehoenai the son of Zerahiah, and with him 200 men. [5]Of the sons of Zattu,[4] Shecaniah the son of Jahaziel, and with him 300 men. [6]Of the sons of Adin, Ebed the son of Jonathan, and with him 50 men. [7]Of the sons of Elam, Jeshaiah the son of Athaliah, and with him 70 men. [8]Of the sons of Shephatiah, Zebadiah the son of Michael, and with him 80 men. [9]Of the sons of Joab, Obadiah the son of Jehiel, and with him 218 men. [10]Of the sons of Bani,[5] Shelomith the son of Josiphiah, and with him 160 men. [11]Of the sons of Bebai, Zechariah, the son of Bebai, and with him 28 men. [12]Of the sons of Azgad, Johanan the son of Hakkatan, and with him 110 men. [13]Of the sons of Adonikam, those who came later, their names being Eliphelet, Jeuel, and Shemaiah, and with them 60 men. [14]Of the sons of Bigvai, Uthai and Zaccur, and with them 70 men.

Ezra Sends for Levites

15 ‡†I gathered them to the river that runs to Ahava, and there we camped three days. As I reviewed the people and the priests, I found there none of the sons of Levi. 16 † Then I sent for Eliezer, Ariel, Shemaiah, Elnathan, Jarib, Elnathan, Nathan, Zechariah, and Meshullam, leading men, and for Joiarib and Elnathan, who were men of insight, 17 †and sent them to Iddo, the leading man at the place Casiphia, telling them what to say to Iddo and his brothers and[1] the temple servants at the place Casiphia, namely, to send us ministers for the house of our God. 18 ‡And by the good hand of our God on us, they brought us a man of discretion, of the sons of Mahli the son of Levi, son of Israel, namely Sherebiah with his sons and kinsmen, 18; 19 also Hashabiah, and with him Jeshaiah of the sons of Merari, with his kinsmen and their sons, 20; 20 †besides 220 of the temple servants, whom David and his officials had set apart to attend the Levites. These were all mentioned by name.

Fasting and Prayer for Protection

21 ‡ † Then I proclaimed a fast there, at the river Ahava, that we might humble ourselves before our God, to seek from him a safe journey for ourselves, our children, and all our goods. 22 † For I was ashamed to ask the king for a band of soldiers and horsemen to protect us against the enemy on our way, since we had told the king, “The hand of our God is for good on all who seek him, and the power of his wrath is against all who forsake him.” 23 So we fasted and implored our God for this, and he listened to our entreaty.

Priests to Guard Offerings

24 ‡ † Then I set apart twelve of the leading priests: Sherebiah, Hashabiah, and ten of their kinsmen with them. 25 † And I weighed out to them the silver and the gold and the vessels, the offering for the house of our God that the king and his counselors and his lords and all Israel there present had offered. 26 † I weighed out into their hand 650 talents[2] of silver, and silver vessels worth 200 talents,[3] and 100 talents of gold, 27 † 20 bowls of gold worth 1,000 darics,[4] and two vessels of fine bright bronze as precious as gold. 28 † And I said to them, “You are holy to the Lord, and the vessels are holy, and the silver and the gold are a freewill offering to the Lord, the God of your fathers. 29 † Guard them and keep them until you weigh them before the chief priests and the Levites and the heads of fathers’ houses in Israel at Jerusalem, within the chambers of the house of the Lord.” 30 † So the priests and the Levites took over the weight of the silver and the gold and the vessels, to bring them to Jerusalem, to the house of our God.

31 † Then we departed from the river Ahava on the twelfth day of the first month, to go to Jerusalem. The hand of our God was on us, and he delivered us from the hand of the enemy and from ambushes by the way. 32 † We came to Jerusalem, and there we remained three days. 33 † On the fourth day, within the house of our God, the silver and the gold and the vessels were weighed into the hands of Meremoth the priest, son of Uriah, and with him was Eleazar the son of Phinehas, and with them were the Levites, Jozabad the son of Jeshua and Noadiah the son of Binnui. 34 The whole was counted and weighed, and the weight of everything was recorded.

35 † At that time those who had come from captivity, the returned exiles, offered burnt offerings to the God of Israel, twelve bulls for all Israel, ninety-six rams, seventy-seven lambs, and as a sin offering twelve male goats. All this was a burnt offering to the Lord. 36 † They also delivered the king’s commissions to the king’s satraps[1] and to the governors of the province Beyond the River, and they aided the people and the house of God.

Ezra Prays About Intermarriage

9 [1]†After these things had been done, the officials approached me and said, “The people of Israel and the priests and the Levites have not separated themselves from the peoples of the lands with their abominations, from the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Jebusites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyptians, and the Amorites. [2]†For they have taken some of their daughters to be wives for themselves and for their sons, so that the holy race[2] has mixed itself with the peoples of the lands. And in this faithlessness the hand of the officials and chief men has been foremost.” [3]†As soon as I heard this, I tore my garment and my cloak and pulled hair from my head and beard and sat appalled. [4]† Then all who trembled at the words of the God of Israel, because of the faithlessness of the returned exiles, gathered around me while I sat appalled until the evening sacrifice. [5]†And at the evening sacrifice I rose from my fasting, with my garment and my cloak torn, and fell upon my knees and spread out my hands to the Lord my God, [6]†saying:

“O my God, I am ashamed and blush to lift my face to you, my God, for our iniquities have risen higher than our heads, and our guilt has mounted up to the heavens. [7]†From the days of our fathers to this day we have been in great guilt. And for our iniquities we, our kings, and our priests have been given into the hand of the kings of the lands, to the sword, to captivity, to plundering, and to utter shame, as it is today. [8]† But now for a brief moment favor has been shown by the Lord our God, to leave us a remnant and to give us a secure hold[1] within his holy place, that our God may brighten our eyes and grant us a little reviving in our slavery. [9]†For we are slaves. Yet our God has not forsaken us in our slavery, but has extended to us his steadfast love before the kings of Persia, to grant us some reviving to set up the house of our God, to repair its ruins, and to give us protection[2] in Judea and Jerusalem.

[10]“And now, O our God, what shall we say after this? For we have forsaken your commandments, [11]‡†which you commanded by your servants the prophets, saying, ‘The land that you are entering, to take possession of it, is a land impure with the impurity of the peoples of the lands, with their abominations that have filled it from end to end with their uncleanness. 12 † Therefore do not give your daughters to their sons, neither take their daughters for your sons, and never seek their peace or prosperity, that you may be strong and eat the good of the land and leave it for an inheritance to your children forever.' 13 † And after all that has come upon us for our evil deeds and for our great guilt, seeing that you, our God, have punished us less than our iniquities deserved and have given us such a remnant as this, 14 † shall we break your commandments again and intermarry with the peoples who practice these abominations? Would you not be angry with us until you consumed us, so that there should be no remnant, nor any to escape? 15 † O Lord, the God of Israel, you are just, for we are left a remnant that has escaped, as it is today. Behold, we are before you in our guilt, for none can stand before you because of this."

The People Confess Their Sin

10 [1]‡†While Ezra prayed and made confession, weeping and casting himself down before the house of God, a very great assembly of men, women, and children, gathered to him out of Israel, for the people wept bitterly. [2]†And Shecaniah the son of Jehiel, of the sons of Elam, addressed Ezra: “We have broken faith with our God and have married foreign women from the peoples of the land, but even now there is hope for Israel in spite of this. [3]†Therefore let us make a covenant with our God to put away all these wives and their children, according to the counsel of my lord[3] and of those who tremble at the commandment of our God, and let it be done according to the Law. [4]Arise, for it is your task, and we are with you; be strong and do it.” [5]†Then Ezra arose and made the leading priests and Levites and all Israel take oath that they would do as had been said. So they took the oath.

[6]†Then Ezra withdrew from before the house of God and went to the chamber of Jehohanan the son of Eliashib, where he spent the night,[1] neither eating bread nor drinking water, for he was mourning over the faithlessness of the exiles. [7]†And a proclamation was made throughout Judah and Jerusalem to all the returned exiles that they should assemble at Jerusalem, [8]†and that if anyone did not come within three days, by order of the officials and the elders all his property should be forfeited, and he himself banned from the congregation of the exiles.

[9]†Then all the men of Judah and Benjamin assembled at Jerusalem within the three days. It was the ninth month, on the twentieth day of the month.
And all the people sat in the open square before the house of God, trembling because of this matter and because of the heavy rain. [10]‡†And Ezra the priest stood up and said to them, “You have broken faith and married foreign women, and so increased the guilt of Israel. [11]Now then make confession to the Lord, the God of your fathers and do his will.
Separate yourselves from the peoples of the land and from the foreign wives.” [12]‡Then all the assembly answered with a loud voice, “It is so; we must do as you have said. [13]But the people are many, and it is a time of heavy rain; we cannot stand in the open. Nor is this a task for one day or for two, for we have greatly transgressed in this matter. 14 † Let our officials stand for the whole assembly. Let all in our cities who have taken foreign wives come at appointed times, and with them the elders and judges of every city, until the fierce wrath of our God over this matter is turned away from us.” 15 † Only Jonathan the son of Asahel and Jahzeiah the son of Tikvah opposed this, and Meshullam and Shabbethai the Levite supported them.

16 ‡ † Then the returned exiles did so. Ezra the priest selected men,[2] heads of fathers’ houses, according to their fathers’ houses, each of them designated by name. On the first day of the tenth month they sat down to examine the matter; 17 and by the first day of the first month they had come to the end of all the men who had married foreign women.

Those Guilty of Intermarriage

18 ‡ ‡ Now there were found some of the sons of the priests who had married foreign women: Maaseiah, Eliezer, Jarib, and Gedaliah, some of the sons of Jeshua the son of Jozadak and his brothers. 19 † They pledged themselves to put away their wives, and their guilt offering was a ram of the flock for their guilt.[1] 20Of the sons of Immer: Hanani and Zebadiah. 21Of the sons of Harim: Maaseiah, Elijah, Shemaiah, Jehiel, and Uzziah. 22Of the sons of Pashhur: Elioenai, Maaseiah, Ishmael, Nethanel, Jozabad, and Elasah.

23Of the Levites: Jozabad, Shimei, Kelaiah (that is, Kelita), Pethahiah, Judah, and Eliezer. 24†Of the singers: Eliashib. Of the gatekeepers: Shallum, Telem, and Uri.

25 ‡ And of Israel: of the sons of Parosh: Ramiah, Izziah, Malchijah, Mijamin, Eleazar, Hashabiah,[2] and Benaiah. 26Of the sons of Elam:
Mattaniah, Zechariah, Jehiel, Abdi, Jeremoth, and Elijah. 27Of the sons of Zattu: Elioenai, Eliashib, Mattaniah, Jeremoth, Zabad, and Aziza. 28Of the sons of Bebai were Jehohanan, Hananiah, Zabbai, and Athlai. 29†Of the sons of Bani were Meshullam, Malluch, Adaiah, Jashub, Sheal, and Jeremoth.
30Of the sons of Pahath-moab: Adna, Chelal, Benaiah, Maaseiah, Mattaniah, Bezalel, Binnui, and Manasseh. 31Of the sons of Harim: Eliezer, Isshijah, Malchijah, Shemaiah, Shimeon, 32Benjamin, Malluch, and Shemariah. 33Of
the sons of Hashum: Mattenai, Mattattah, Zabad, Eliphelet, Jeremai, Manasseh, and Shimei. 34Of the sons of Bani: Maadai, Amram, Uel, 35Benaiah, Bedeiah, Cheluhi, 36Vaniah, Meremoth, Eliashib, 37Mattaniah, Mattenai, Jaasu. 38Of the sons of Binnui:[3] Shimei, 39Shelemiah, Nathan,
Adaiah, 40Machnadebai, Shashai, Sharai, 41Azarel, Shelemiah, Shemariah, 42Shallum, Amariah, and Joseph. 43Of the sons of Nebo: Jeiel, Mattithiah, Zabad, Zebina, Jaddai, Joel, and Benaiah. 44†All these had married foreign women, and some of the women had even borne children.[4]

Introduction to Ezra

Reading Ezra

He can nearly recite the text by heart, but, to be certain of the wording, he still seeks out the passage. His hand unrolls the large scroll and stops at the precise column of the text he needs. The letters are copied neatly in his own hand. He reads aloud and explains the text line by line for those who have consulted him.

Ezra is the first priest in Scripture titled "the scribe" (7:11–12). The title literally means a writer, a secretary who prepares scrolls (cf 4:8). But with Ezra, it means a scholar of the Law of Moses, the first recorded member of a special group in Judea. About 200 years before Ezra's time, during the reform of Hezekiah (715–686 BC), there arose a special interest in the proverbs of Solomon and in education (Pr 1:8; 25:1). During the reign of Hezekiah's great-grandson Josiah (640–609 BC), a neglected scroll of the Law of Moses was discovered in the temple, which led to Josiah's reform (623 BC; 2Ki 22:8–20). These events sparked new interest in the study of the Law and of God's Word in general (see pp 1077–83). As a result, a special class of priests arose who devoted themselves especially to studying and teaching. Ezra's calling marks a new era of devotion to God's Word (see "Conclusions about Wisdom," pp 776–77).

Luther on Ezra

> The Word of God has this character that it is made known and comes when man is most desperate over everything, when he thinks that nothing is less likely to happen than what the Word of God says most certainly will happen. You see, it does not come to the lazy or the pleasure-seekers. To them it is a source of laughter. Rather it comes to the weak and the oppressed, to those in need. These also finally receive it in such a way that all human boasting vanishes and nothing is credited to our own strength and energies, but all to God alone….
> You see, here the rebuilding of the temple is ordered against very powerful, very bitter foes. The command is given, I say, to a weak people, few in number, a people against whom stand powerful princes and powerful nations, which lived round about and daily threatened imminent destruction, as one may see in Ezra. For the violence of the neighboring peoples was such that the Jews were forced to build with one hand and to fight with the other to ward off the hostile nations. Yet, against all these fierce and powerful foes this one weak prophet here dares to rise up and prophesy about rebuilding the temple. So he orders this handful of people, who had just recently been snatched from a most burdensome captivity, to stand up against a mad and inflated king who didn't want them to rebuild the temple…. Yet it is the Word of God which commands such things, and to it we must listen even though the whole world resists it as the Jews also did listen.
> You see, when we thus attribute to God the glory of truth, then it happens that everything which first was opposed to us now is compelled to promote and help us in our plans. This is what happened here, where all the very heavy burdens and bitter hindrances were changed into peaceful allies. After all, as the account shows, the king ordered the princes to help the people, whereas before that they had been ordered to resist and oppose them. So, what appeared impossible earlier became very easy because of God's plan. Obviously, this is the way divine mercy, working wonderfully, turns all things into good for those who believe; judgment is turned into salvation for them, sin into righteousness, etc., enemies into friends and subjects. For God, …

(“The Almighty”), holds all things in His hand. The whole world, kings and princes, too, must obey Him. (AE 18:369–70)

Challenges for Readers

Relationship to Chronicles, Nehemiah, and Esther. From the Hebrew Bible, it is clear that Ezra and Nehemiah were combined as one scroll and continuous work, even though they must originally have been separate compositions (cf Ne 1:1). The style of these books is likewise similar to that of Chronicles and Esther, books written during the same era. Similarities in style have prompted some scholars to conclude that one author or one editor (e.g., the Chronicler) wrote or compiled these works. At least a portion of Ezra (chs 7:27–9:15) was clearly written by Ezra himself, reporting in the first person ("I").

End of Ezra. The Book ends abruptly. However, the report of Ezra's career does not end here. He reappears on the scene 12 years later and makes a positive contribution to the spiritual upbuilding of the postexilic community (Ne 7–10). There is no information as to what he did in the meantime. He may have been recalled to the Persian court after his commission in Judah expired.

Imperial Aramaic. The correspondence and account in Ezr 4:7–6:18; 7:12–28 is written entirely in Aramaic, the official language of the Persian Empire. The writer had access to either an official archive or a collection of such documents. Aramaic is a Northwest Semitic language originally spoken in Syria (Aram), a kingdom north of Israel that was annexed by the Assyrians in the eighth century BC (see notes, 2Ki 15:29, 37). Biblical Hebrew is a close cousin to Imperial Aramaic, which was also used by the Assyrian (2Ki 18:26) and Babylonian Empires and subsequently adopted by the Persians. Aramaic largely replaced Hebrew in Judea and Galilee (see p 1835). Jesus and the apostles spoke Aramaic (Mk 5:41; Ac 21:40), and there is a great body of early Christian literature in Syriac, a dialect of Aramaic that has survived to modern times in the liturgy of a small number of Syriac Christians living in Lebanon, Iraq, and other places.

Additions to Ezra. On the apocryphal additions to Ezra, known as the Books of Esdras, see Luther's comments on p 1563. See also "Different Texts of Daniel" (pp 1394–95) for an illustration of the issues.

Blessings for Readers

As you read Ezra, consider how the Lord is at work now in the lives of world leaders in order to bring about good for His people. As Luther notes above, when things seem their worst and everything opposes God's people, there God is at work to dramatically change matters. Therefore, like Ezra and his contemporaries, take confidence in God's promises and their fulfillment for your sake.

Study Notes

EZRA—NOTE ON 1:1 Cyrus. Founder of the Persian Empire, located between the Persian Gulf and Caspian Sea, far east of the Holy Land. (Iran was formerly known as Persia.) See map, p 717. Cyrus triumphed over the Babylonians at Opis on the Tigris River and captured the city of Babylon, Oct 539 BC. In 538 BC, he allowed exiled Judeans to return home. Before anyone knew the name of this conqueror, the Lord had anointed Cyrus to "fulfill all [His] purpose" (see notes, Is 44:27–28; 44:28). word of the LORD by the mouth of Jeremiah. God had foretold the end of the 70-year exile (see note, 2Ch 36:21; cf Jer 29:10–14). Luth: "Here the flesh is greatly offended. It cannot understand the counsel of God about miraculously fulfilling these promises. The Lord had promised an eternal kingdom, a glorious return from captivity. All the Jews, therefore, kept thinking that they would be saved and brought back, that they would be placed in that new and glorious kingdom…. Only very few of the devout were after some years brought back from Babylon, namely, those whose spirit God had touched, as the account in Ezra 1:5 says. Therefore He is separating the faithful from the wicked and says that the latter will remain in an eternal captivity, while the former will be brought back and glorified" (AE 18:241). stirred up the spirit. Our heavenly King moved Cyrus to action (cf Is 41:2, 25). See pp 719–20. proclamation. Put into writing; referred to again in 5:13; 6:3.

EZRA—NOTE ON 1:2 LORD. Cyrus was not likely a believer (see note, 2Ch 36:23). He learned the name of Israel's God from the Judean exiles. Cyrus was tolerant of all religions, letting conquered peoples retain their national gods. God of heaven. Used repeatedly in Ezr, this name is appropriate to the exiles, who formerly may have associated their God with a specific land (Israel) but now knew Him to be God over all. See p 1227. charged me. Perhaps the Lord stirred up Cyrus through a prophet, someone like Daniel, to order the rebuilding of the temple. Cf Dn 6:28. Judah. Name given the Persian province (2:1) in the area where the tribe of Judah had originally settled.

EZRA—NOTE ON 1:3 God who is in Jerusalem. "The God of heaven" (v 2) revealed His earthly presence in Jerusalem's temple (2Ch 7:1–3; Ps 84:1).

EZRA—NOTE ON 1:4 men of his place. Neighbors were to assist the exiles as at the time of the exodus from Egypt (Ex 12:35–36). silver and gold, with goods and with beasts. Items useful for the exiles.
EZRA—NOTE ON 1:5 heads of the fathers' houses. The leading members of each family (usually the oldest, i.e., "elders") exercised civil leadership. See note, Ex 3:16; see also p 228. God had stirred to go up. As the Lord had stirred up Cyrus (v 1), so He moved the hearts of many laypeople of Judah, priests, and Levites to break away from their homes in Babylonia and return to Judah (cf Zec 2:7). Luth: "Such are the wondrous counsels of God. He orders the prophets to declare both destruction and salvation, but the former for the wicked, the latter for the devout. It is very important to note this in all the prophets. In this way those wonderful counsels of divine majesty made fools of the wicked. In fact, even the devout were unable to understand them" (AE 18:237).
EZRA—NOTE ON 1:7 vessels. Precious items used for worship, originally made for Solomon's temple (1Ch 28:13–18; 2Ch 5:1). Nebuchadnezzar. King of Babylon (604–562 BC), a country located between the Tigris and Euphrates rivers (present-day Iraq) to which many Judeans and the temple vessels were carried off in 587 BC (2:1; 2Ch 36:10, 18; Jer 27:19–22).
EZRA—NOTE ON 1:8 Sheshbazzar. Appointed governor of Judah by Cyrus (5:14–16), he apparently died soon after returning to Jerusalem. His successor, Zerubbabel, resumed rebuilding the temple (5:1–2; Hg 1:14). prince. Hbr nasi', usually a royal title, but also given to other leaders (1Ch 2:10). See p 228.
EZRA—NOTE ON 1:9–10 basins ... censers ... bowls. Vessels for use in temple worship (v 7). Cf Ex 25:29.
EZRA—NOTE ON 1:11 all the vessels ... 5,400. Items listed in vv 9–10 add up to 2,499, far short of the reported total, suggesting that not all vessels had been itemized. brought up. The exiles were likely provided with some kind of escort (8:21–23; Ne 2:9).
EZRA—NOTE ON Ch 1 The Lord stirs Cyrus the Persian to send home a remnant of the Judean exiles, as prophesied by Isaiah and Jeremiah. Today, the Lord of heaven and earth continues to govern the nations for the good of His people. Though the news we hear each day is often bad, we can rejoice that the Lord of heaven is at work amid tumultuous events. Consider how He wrought our salvation through the decisions of Roman and Judean rulers who crucified our Savior! • Lord of history, stir my heart to praise You and to serve my neighbor according to Your merciful goodness. Amen.

EZRA—NOTE ON 2:1 province. Judah (1:2). Other known Persian provinces west of the Euphrates include Samaria, Moab, and Ammon. own town. Not only Jerusalem but other towns in the area were also resettled (cf vv 21–35).
EZRA—NOTE ON 2:2–67 This list is a testimony to God's goodness in preserving the identity of His chosen people during their captivity in a foreign country. An important document, it represented a kind of charter of the newly founded province of Judah. New names and numbers may have been added from time to time to keep the record current. Nine groups are distinguished: the leaders (v 2a; Ne 7:7 adds a 12th name); "men of the people of Israel," some listed by family names, others by towns (vv 2b–35); priests (vv 36–39); all Levites (vv 40–42); Levitical singers (v 41); Levitical gatekeepers (v 42); temple servants (vv 43–54); sons of Solomon's servants (vv 55–58); and some people without certified family ties (vv 59–63).
EZRA—NOTE ON 2:2 Zerubbabel. Later governor of Judah and active in rebuilding the temple (3:8; Hg 1:1). Nehemiah. Bore the same name as the governor who arrived in Jerusalem some 90 years later (Ne 1:1).
EZRA—NOTE ON 2:21 Bethlehem. C 5 mi S of Jerusalem.
EZRA—NOTE ON 2:21–35 Towns clustered about Jerusalem within a radius of c 30 mi. If the list is complete, the Persian province was considerably smaller than the territory of preexilic Judah. See map, p 615. The community was hemmed in on all sides by various racial groups (3:3; 4:1, 4; Ne 4:7).
EZRA—NOTE ON 2:40 Levites. Total number of Levites was 341, while that of the priests was 4,289. Normally, these two groups of temple officiants would be in reverse proportion (cf 2Ch 29:34). The prospect of serving as assistants to the priests may have kept the Levites from leaving Babylonia. Later, Ezra found "none of the sons of Levi" in the group that volunteered to return to Jerusalem with him (8:15).
EZRA—NOTE ON 2:43 temple servants. See note, v 58.
EZRA—NOTE ON 2:55 Solomon's servants. See note, v 58.
EZRA—NOTE ON 2:58 temple servants. Descendants of the Gibeonites and other groups. See notes, Jsh 9:21; 1Ch 9:2. Solomon's servants.

Descendants of Canaanite tribes, who became Solomon's house slaves. Cf 1Ki 9:20–21.
EZRA—NOTE ON 2:59 Tel-melah ... Immer. Probably places in Babylonia. prove their fathers' houses. From genealogy records (v 62), demonstrating the importance of lists such as those found in 1Ch 1–9.
EZRA—NOTE ON 2:62 excluded from the priesthood. Only those with proven ancestral credentials could serve as priests. unclean. See p 300.
EZRA—NOTE ON 2:63 governor. Hbr tirshatha; probably a Persian word designating the men appointed by Persian kings to administer affairs in the restored community of Judah (Ne 7:65, 70; 10:1). The governor is not named. most holy food. See pp 700–71. Urim and Thummim. See note, Ex 28:30.
EZRA—NOTE ON 2:64 The total given is far larger than the sum of the individual contingents recorded in the previous verses (29,818). Ne 7:66 gives the same total, but the individual entries there add up to only 31,089. The names of some families or groups were evidently omitted from these lists.
EZRA—NOTE ON 2:65 singers. Likely singers for secular entertainment, not "the sons of Asaph" (v 41). Females did not participate in temple worship, though they sang praises to God after the exodus (Ex 15:20–21) and had some role of service at the entrance to the tabernacle (Ex 38:8).
EZRA—NOTE ON 2:68 heads. Cf 1:5. freewill. Voluntary; not prescribed by law (Lv 22:17–25; Nu 15:1–10; Dt 12:17). See note, Ex 35:29.
EZRA—NOTE ON 2:69 darics ... minas. See ESV notes. Earliest biblical reference to minted coins (which were valued by weight). The Persians allowed the Judeans to mint their own coins, which had Aramaic markings for the province "Judah." priests' garments. Cf Ex 29:21; Ezr 3:10.
EZRA—NOTE ON 2:70 temple servants. See note, v 58. their towns. The clergy and some of the people no doubt settled in Jerusalem and nearby towns, while the rest went to other towns named in vv 20–35. See note, Jsh 14:4.
EZRA—NOTE ON Ch 2 Although 42,360 people respond to Cyrus's invitation to return to Judah, relatively few Levites—key temple workers—appear on the list. As then, the Lord gives each of us a role of service in our congregation. The services of God's house require our faithful support in word and deed. When you are discouraged or overwhelmed by the needs of your congregation, entrust your cares to the Lord of heaven, who oversees all things for your benefit. He will bless you through the service of Word and Sacrament offered in His name. • Dearest Father, grant me joy and contentment in my calling. Help me to see the greater purpose and need of my congregation. Amen.

EZRA—NOTE ON 3:1 seventh month. Tishri (in autumn) of the first year after the children of Israel had settled in their various towns (2:70). See calendar, p 262. They assembled in Jerusalem for a "holy convocation" (Nu 29:1).

EZRA—NOTE ON 3:2 Jeshua. Later high priest (Hg 1:1; Zec 3:1). Also spelled "Joshua"; a popular name (cf 2:2, 36, 40), making individual identifications difficult. Zerubbabel. Cf 2:2. Likely that Cyrus had originally commissioned Sheshbazzar to head up the temple rebuilding project (1:8; 5:14–16), but he soon disappeared from the scene. Zerubbabel and Jeshua became the leaders (5:1–2). built the altar ... Law of Moses. Follows the example of what Moses had commanded when the children of Israel first entered Canaan (Dt 27:6–7).

EZRA—NOTE ON 3:3 in its place. Lit, "upon its base," the site where it formerly stood. See diagram, p 730. fear. Returnees wanted the altar built in order to have a place where they might gather to implore God's help against the surrounding "peoples of the lands." offerings morning and evening. Daily sacrifices (the Tamid) consisted of lambs with flour, oil, and wine. See pp 170–71.

EZRA—NOTE ON 3:4 Feast of Booths. Third of the annual festivals, celebrated from the 15th to the 21st day of the seventh month (Lv 23:33–43). Circumstances may have permitted only a token observance of its elaborate festivities. The first complete celebration came after the temple had been built (Ne 8:17). See pp 200–201.

EZRA—NOTE ON 3:5 offerings. See pp 170–71.

EZRA—NOTE ON 3:6 foundation ... not yet laid. Cf v 10.

EZRA—NOTE ON 3:7 Sidonians … Tyrians. People from the Great Sea coastal cities of Sidon and Tyre. Solomon made a similar agreement with them for building materials. See note, 1Ki 5. grant. Rebuilding costs were taken from the royal treasury (6:4).

EZRA—NOTE ON 3:1–7 Within about a year of Cyrus's decree, the Judeans are settling in their homeland and beginning to work on the altar to restore the sacrifices, showing their sincere desire for true worship and for honoring their emperor's decree. As you offer daily sacrifices of thanks and praise to the Lord, request a deep and lively sincerity for yourself, your family, and your congregation. The Lord sincerely receives your worship and requests; He has promised to answer according to His goodwill and the mercy He demonstrated in His Son, your Redeemer. • Grant me a sincere and thankful heart, dear Lord, that my mind, hands, and feet may carry out Your good and gracious will. Amen.

EZRA—NOTE ON 3:8 The following year in our Apr/May (Ziv 536; see calendar, p 262), Zerubbabel and Jeshua, assisted by clergy and laypeople, began construction on the temple. Priests and Levites served as supervisors (v 9). twenty years. Age when Levites began temple service as specified by King David, corresponding to the age when men of other tribes became warriors. See note, Nu 1:2–18. work. Construction on the temple's foundation.

EZRA—NOTE ON 3:10 Completion of the foundation called for a service of praise, much as we do when a church's cornerstone is laid. vestments. Garments worn by the priests (cf Ex 28; Lv 8). directions of David. The celebration at the dedication of Solomon's temple had similar features (2Ch 5:11–14; 7:3).

EZRA—NOTE ON 3:11 responsively. Two groups (or leader and group) sing alternately, as is still practiced in liturgical worship. See note, Ps 136; see also p 959. For He is good. Common refrain of praise to God, based on Ex 34:6–7 (Ps 136:1). steadfast love. See p 843. shouted. See p 959. the foundation of the house of the LORD was laid. No doubt some of the stones from the ruins of the first temple were used in providing a solid base for the new building. See note, v 3.

EZRA—NOTE ON 3:12 old men … wept. Their memories went back 50 years to the grandeur of "the first house," built with the resources of Solomon's empire. No doubt some of the tears were salted with remorse over the folly that had destroyed temple and nation. The glory had "departed from Israel" (1Sm 4:21) because their great guilt "mounted up to the heavens" (9:6). shouted aloud for joy. Many other voices were raised in thanksgiving for this new beginning. Their shouts were heard "far away" (v 13).

EZRA—NOTE ON 3:8–13 The service dedicating the foundation for the new temple stirs deep emotions for the Judeans because of the memory of their shortcomings and because they are eyewitnesses to God's renewed mercy for them. God's Word of Law and Gospel will likewise move your heart. That Word is your focus for comfort and for hope. By the Word, the Lord lays a foundation for new life and peace in your life. • All I am, good Lord, belongs to You, including my tears and my shouts of joy. May I praise You in thought, word, and deed. Amen.

EZRA—NOTE ON 4:1 adversaries. Also called "people of the land" (see note, v 4). One reason the Judeans set up the altar was out of fear of these people (3:3). Opposition from outsiders to the various building projects is a recurring theme in both Ezr (4:6–23) and Ne (4:1–9). Israel. God's covenant people of the OT. See pp 1905–6.

EZRA—NOTE ON 4:2 heads of fathers' houses. See note, 1:5. build with you ... worship. After Assyria had captured the northern Israelite capital of Samaria in 722 BC, various outsiders were imported into the land of Israel by several Assyrian kings, including Esarhaddon (681–669 BC). These had received some training in how to worship the God of Israel (see notes, 2Ki 17:26, 29), but they likely mingled the worship practices of Moses with pagan religious practices.

EZRA—NOTE ON 4:3 The returned exiles, fearing they would commit themselves to a false worship, refused the offer of these neighbors to jointly build the temple. Cyrus ... commanded us. They justified this refusal by citing Cyrus's order.

EZRA—NOTE ON 4:4 people of the land. Native population, a mixture of racial strains and blend of religious beliefs (6:21; 2Ki 17:24–33). Later, they came to be known as Samaritans. afraid to build. Fear, evident previously (3:3), now grew so great that work on the temple ceased.

EZRA—NOTE ON 4:5 bribed counselors. The "people of the land" (v 4) turned the Persian advisers and governing officials against the Judeans not only with words but also with money. Cf 7:14. frustrate … Darius. Cyrus was evidently persuaded to back off from supporting the temple rebuilding. His successor, Cambyses (528–523 BC), continued the same policy. The returnees had to wait until the second year of the third Persian king, Darius (522–486 BC), before they were permitted to resume the project, a delay of some 15 years and a great loss of momentum.

EZRA—NOTE ON 4:6–23 These letters record later attempts by the adversaries to frustrate the building of the walls of Jerusalem.

EZRA—NOTE ON 4:6 Ahasuerus. Hbr name of the Persian king the Greeks called Xerxes (486–465 BC). Esther became his queen (Est 2:16–17). accusation. Perhaps this accusation, about which there is no further information, was somehow related to the fact that Xerxes, in his first year as king, was occupied with putting down a revolt in Egypt.

EZRA—NOTE ON 4:1–6 To maintain pure worship, the Judeans reject the offer from the people of the land, who insist on taking part in building the temple and in joining the worship services. When God's people today consider the boundaries of pure and faithful worship, and also God's calling to reach out to others, they may feel challenged as they work to fulfill both callings. Clear boundaries in doctrine and practice are necessary because a corrupt gospel is no Gospel at all (cf Gal 1:8). Thanks be to God for maintaining the preaching and teaching of His life-giving Word, which has spanned the centuries to reach us too. What a joy to share that blessed message with those who repent. • Preserve Your mission of grace among us, O Lord, and grant us clear understanding of the boundaries between true and false worship. Amen.

EZRA—NOTE ON 4:7 Artaxerxes. Persian king (464–424 BC), successor to Xerxes. He authorized Ezra's return to Jerusalem (7:6). letter. Like the letter in vv 11–16, this was evidently hostile to the Judeans. Aramaic. See note, 2Ki 18:26; see also "Imperial Aramaic," p 720.

EZRA—NOTE ON 4:8 Rehum ... Shimshai. Two Persian officials who also wrote a letter (preserved in vv 11–16) to Artaxerxes against Jerusalem. commander. High Persian civilian official who gives orders or issues edicts. scribe. Responsible for drafting official correspondence (cf 7:6).

EZRA—NOTE ON 4:9 Rehum and Shimshai added the names of others who signed the accusation. The signatories held various offices and had come to Samaria from several different places in the East. Susa. Ancient capital of Elam and later of Persia; east of Babylonia. See map, p 609.

EZRA—NOTE ON 4:10 Osnappar. Probably refers to the Assyrian king Ashurbanipal (668–c 627 BC). Samaria. Refers both to the former capital of Israel and to the territory around that city, c 40 mi N of Jerusalem. See map, p 615. Beyond the River. For administrative purposes, the Persian Empire was divided into 20 districts, called satrapies. The fifth of these was known as Beyond the River because it was made up of territory beyond, or west of, the Euphrates. See note, 1Ki 5:4. Its satrap was responsible to the emperor for Syria, Samaria, and Cyprus. "The province of Judah" (5:8) constituted a smaller unit of control within his satrapy. See note, 2:1.

EZRA—NOTE ON 4:11–16 Rehum's letter to Artaxerxes.

EZRA—NOTE ON 4:12 Jews. Aram yehudaye', "the Judeans." Not to be confused with modern practitioners of the Jewish religion, which was a later development. See "Judah," p 1079. rebellious and wicked city. Jerusalem's past history justified this description, though it was hardly the only city deserving such characterization. See note, 2Ki 25:8–9. finishing the walls. Work that Nehemiah eventually completed (Ne 6:15). A walled city was defensible and, therefore, more likely to rebel.
EZRA—NOTE ON 4:13 tribute, custom, or toll. Various taxes owed to the king. Jerusalem lay between the major trade routes from Egypt to Mesopotamia (see map, p 717). A Judean rebellion could significantly affect trade relations.
EZRA—NOTE ON 4:14 salt of the palace. Possibly refers to a ceremony in which salt was eaten to ratify an oath or covenant (cf 2Ch 13:5).
EZRA—NOTE ON 4:15 book of the records. Historical records (some of which survive) of ancient kingdoms such as Babylonia and Persia. The most complete book of ancient records is the Bible. See pp 335–37. laid waste. See note, 6:11.
EZRA—NOTE ON 4:16 make known to the king. Bureaucrats sought to avoid future charges of negligence. no possession. Hyperbole. Judah had not firmly controlled the region since the time of Solomon, nearly 500 years earlier.
EZRA—NOTE ON 4:7–16 Ezra illustrates the strong and unreasonable opposition that the Judean settlers faced from regional Persian officials. Today, God's people may face similar bureaucratic opposition when seeking building permits, etc., for churches and schools. Pray for your governing officials who do not seem to recognize the valuable contribution God's people make in civil life. Give thanks for faithful officials who do recognize the benefits of godly service. Through the Gospel, the King of heaven will transform hearts and minds so that all may see His merciful goodness. • O Lord, make me salt and light for my community by faithfully and patiently bearing witness to Your Word and will. Amen.
EZRA—NOTE ON 4:17–21 Artaxerxes responded to Rehum's letter by issuing a decree that Jerusalem not be rebuilt immediately.
EZRA—NOTE ON 4:17 Rehum … Shimshai. See note, v 8. Beyond the River. See note, v 10.
EZRA—NOTE ON 4:19 rebellion and sedition. Cf vv 12, 15.
EZRA—NOTE ON 4:20 mighty kings. E.g., David and Solomon.

EZRA—NOTE ON 4:21 Artaxerxes does not rule out permitting the building of the walls sometime in the future. His letter anticipates further governmental investigation. The walls were finally built under Nehemiah (Ne 2:8; 6:15).
EZRA—NOTE ON 4:22 hurt of the king? Reflects the prediction made in v 16.
EZRA—NOTE ON 4:23 Jews. See note, v 12. by force. Rehum's use of force to stop the rebuilding of the walls is described in Ne 1:3: "The wall of Jerusalem is broken down, and its gates are destroyed by fire."
EZRA—NOTE ON 4:24 Repeats the report in vv 4–5, that work on the temple stopped for the remainder of Cyrus's reign, during the entire rule of Cambyses (528–523 BC), until the second year of Darius's reign (522–486 BC). Though the official letters of ch 4 concern the walls of Jerusalem, they prevent work on the temple as well. second year of the reign of Darius. 520 BC (5:1–2; Hg 1:14–15).
EZRA—NOTE ON 4:17–24 Artaxerxes' response and the violent intervention of local officials stop the civil building projects in Jerusalem, most notably the work on the temple. Underlying the physical struggles of our world are always spiritual struggles. Through Scripture, keep aware of spiritual struggles and make them the focus of your prayers against Satan. Take courage from the Lord's mastery of His creation and the manner in which He works for the good of His people, especially shown in the civil punishment and glorious resurrection of His Son for our redemption. • Hear the cry of Your people, mighty King, and work among us for our blessing. Amen.
EZRA—NOTE ON 5:1 Now. Or, "And," indicating the second year of Darius (4:24), when the prophets Haggai and Zechariah roused the people to renew their efforts to build the temple (Hg 1:8; Zec 8:9). prophesied ... in the name. Spoke the Word of the Lord in His divine name, which had "dwelt" in the temple at Jerusalem. Cf 1Ki 5:5; see "name," p 843. Jews. Judeans. See note, 4:12.
EZRA—NOTE ON 5:2 Zerubbabel ... Jeshua. Directed the rebuilding project (2:2; 3:2, 8). rebuild. Work was resumed on the temple despite opposition described in ch 4.
EZRA—NOTE ON 5:3 Tattenai. Governor of the large satrapy Beyond the River (4:10) investigated the project. Shethar-bozenai. Perhaps the scribe (cf 4:8). decree. Rebuilding a temple required official approval, given under Cyrus (1:3).

EZRA—NOTE ON 5:4 What are the names. Names of Judean elders (vv 5, 9) may have been included with the letter Tattenai sent to Darius (vv 7–17). Adversaries prepare to penalize specific people, a new level of intimidation.
EZRA—NOTE ON 5:5 the eye … was on. Similar to the words of the blessing "the LORD make His face to shine upon you" (Nu 6:25), meaning to look with favor. Jews. Judeans. See note, 4:12. they did not stop. Tattenai did not interfere with the project on his own authority, and the prophets continued their support (v 2). Darius. Persian king (4:24).
EZRA—NOTE ON 5:1–5 God's prophets boldly call His people back to the work of the Jerusalem temple. Today, when your cause is right in the Lord's eyes, do not hesitate to act and to call others to peaceable action. Act confidently, because the Lord will watch over you, bless you, and keep you through Christ. • Stir Your people to bold action, O Lord, in the cause of pure and faithful worship. Help us to stare down all who would oppose Your good purposes. Amen.
EZRA—NOTE ON 5:6 Beyond the River. See note, 4:10.
EZRA—NOTE ON 5:7–17 Tattenai reported the matter to Darius as objectively as possible, requesting confirmation of the claim that Cyrus had some 20 years earlier "made a decree that this house of God should be rebuilt" (v 13).
EZRA—NOTE ON 5:8 we went. It was the governor's duty to find out what was happening in Jerusalem. province. See note, 2:1. great God. Leaders of Judah had told Tattenai that they were "servants of the God of heaven and earth" (v 11), which may have influenced him to describe this God as "great." huge stones … timber is laid in the walls. Cf 6:4; 1Ki 6:10.
EZRA—NOTE ON 5:11 God of heaven. See note, 1:2.
EZRA—NOTE ON 5:12 Chaldean. Region in south Babylonia. See map, p 717. carried away. Exiled in 587 BC (cf 1:7).
EZRA—NOTE ON 5:13 Cyrus king of Babylon. Cyrus of Persia conquered Babylon and so is called its king (6:22).
EZRA—NOTE ON 5:14 Sheshbazzar. See notes, 1:8; 5:16.
EZRA—NOTE ON 5:15 put them in the temple. Cyrus referred to the new temple in Jerusalem as though the building were already completed.
EZRA—NOTE ON 5:16 Sheshbazzar came and laid the foundations. Cyrus had authorized Sheshbazzar to rebuild the temple (v 15), which he likely started, but work on the foundation was completed by Zerubbabel and Jeshua (3:8–10). There is no further mention of Sheshbazzar.

EZRA—NOTE ON 5:17 search ... in the royal archives. Tattenai wants Darius to verify existence of Cyrus's decree.

EZRA—NOTE ON 5:6–17 The Persian governor Tattenai discovers the truth about the rebuilding of the Jerusalem temple to the "great God" of heaven. Thanks be to God for faithful government officials who seek and report the truth! Pray for them. Vote for them. Encourage good people to seek public office. The God of heaven rules among us through faithful leaders in both church and state. The great God of our salvation cares for every aspect of our lives. • O great God of heaven, work for the peace of Your servants on earth. Amen.

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:1 house of the archives. Lit, "house of scrolls." Such libraries or depositories of documents have been uncovered by archaeologists. The search for the decree was begun in Babylonia, from where the exiles had departed.

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:2 Ecbatana. Capital of Media and summer residence of Persian kings, c 300 mi NE of Babylon. See map, p 609. Cyrus is known to have spent some time there during the first year of his reign. scroll. Documents were typically preserved in this form. A record. The oral proclamation of Cyrus's decree, as the exiles heard it from his heralds (1:2–4), differed in some details from this written document found in the archives (vv 3–5).

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:3 sixty cubits. 90 ft (see ESV note). No figures are given for the length of the building. Dimensions of Solomon's temple were 60 cubits long, 20 cubits wide, and 30 cubits high (1Ki 6:2).

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:4 one layer of timber. Solomon's temple was similarly constructed (1Ki 7:12), perhaps to counter the effects of an earthquake.

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:5 You shall put them in the house of God. Concludes the royal decree of Cyrus.

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:6 Tattenai … Shethar-bozenai. See note, 5:3. keep away. King Darius ordered the governor to refrain from interfering with the temple rebuilding.

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:7 Jews. Judeans. See note, 4:12.

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:8 a decree. Darius issued specific orders, implementing the original directive by Cyrus. The cost. For building materials and possibly labor.

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:9 whatever is needed. Persian authorities would have known what the priests would typically require for sacrifices. Sponsorship of the sacrifices by a pagan ruler perhaps did not cause conflict because he attached no stipulations except that prayers be said on his behalf. God of heaven. See notes, 1:2; 5:8.
EZRA—NOTE ON 6:10 pray for the life of the king. Darius expected the priests in Judah to offer prayers and sacrifices for his own welfare and for that of the state.
EZRA—NOTE ON 6:11 a beam. Used like a floor or roof joist. impaled. To pierce a person's body with the beam. This Persian practice was inherited from the Assyrians. dunghill. Aram term is unclear; it is translated "laid in ruins" in Dn 2:5; 3:29. To include a curse on anyone tampering with an official document was routine in the ancient Near East. See "curse," p 6.
EZRA—NOTE ON 6:12 I Darius make a decree. The king's signature, perhaps added personally; typically, scribes wrote official correspondence on the king's behalf. See pp 1899–1901.
EZRA—NOTE ON 6:1–12 The emperor Darius approves the building of the temple, sponsors its sacrifices, and curses those who would interfere. The God of heaven has so radically changed the circumstances that the government that opposed the project becomes its sponsor. Today, do not fail to offer prayers for your officials. Who knows what changes God may bring? Above all, offer thanks to Him for your salvation by Jesus' sacrifice.
• Great God of heaven, bless our officials, and guide their service for the benefit of Your Church. Amen.
EZRA—NOTE ON 6:13 Tatttenai … Shethar-bozenai. See note, 5:3.
EZRA—NOTE ON 6:14 The temple building project went well and was finished. Jews. Judeans. See note, 4:12. Cyrus and Darius and Artaxerxes. Three Persian kings who took actions benefiting the temple. Some 50 years after the temple was completed (early in the reign of Darius), Artaxerxes contributed sorely needed funds for its maintenance when he sent Ezra to Jerusalem (4:7; 7:12–26).
EZRA—NOTE ON 6:15 house was finished … third day … Adar … sixth year. Temple was completed on Feb 21, 516 BC.
EZRA—NOTE ON 6:16 dedication. Ceremonies at the dedication of Solomon's temple were duplicated as much as possible (1Ki 8).

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:17 They offered. One difference between the dedication of "this house" and Solomon's temple was the smaller number of animals sacrificed (cf 1Ki 8:5, 63). sin offering for all Israel. The sin offering (Lv 4:22–26) of 12 male goats represented a declaration of the reconstituted solidarity of the chosen people, again consisting of the 12 tribes of Israel as it did at Solomon's time. See pp 170–71. After the fall of Samaria in 722 BC, some people from the northern tribes had joined the kingdom of Judah. There was also an effort to draw descendants of the northern tribes back to Judah after the Assyrian conquest. Cf 2Ch 30:1–12.

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:18 Concludes this portion of Ezr written in Aram, which began at 4:8. divisions. Priests and Levites were organized in working units as stipulated by David, reflecting the Law of Moses. Book of Moses. Restored community observed the Mosaic regulations governing the eligibility and responsibilities of those who served in the temple (Ex 29; Lv 8; Nu 3).

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:13–18 God's people rejoice in the atonement for all Israel celebrated at the dedication of the Jerusalem temple. This week, praise God for the blessings of forgiveness you hear and receive in your congregation. There is no greater cause of joy than the pardon of our heavenly King. • "I was glad when they said to me, 'Let us go to the house of the LORD!'" (Ps 122:1). Amen.

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:19 fourteenth day of the first month. Day on which Passover was instituted in Egypt. Passover. The first observance of Passover in Egypt marked the birth of Israel as a nation. This celebration after the exile proclaimed its rebirth and fulfilled Ezk 45:21–25.

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:20 purified. Priests and Levites who were contaminated by a physical, ritual, or moral impurity could not minister in the temple. Mosaic Law set down rules concerning purification (e.g., Lv 21–22). See "consecrate," p 6. clean. See p 300. slaughtered the Passover lamb. Priests and Levites killed the lambs that were then roasted and eaten by the people in private dwellings (v 21; Mt 26:17–19). fellow priests. Lit, "their brethren the priests."

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:21 separated. People of the land who had removed themselves from the false worship of their neighbors. They may have been either converts to faith in Yahweh or Israelites whose faith had been corrupted but who were now returning to the Lord.

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:22 Feast of Unleavened Bread. The seven days that followed Passover when only unleavened bread could be eaten (Dt 16:1–8). See pp 200–201. turned. Or, "changed." Not to be confused with the Hbr expression for repentance (see "turn," p 1080). king of Assyria. Persian rulers such as Darius are so described because they replaced the kings of the Assyrian and Babylonian empires (5:13). aided them. People recognized the miraculous change God had wrought in government.

EZRA—NOTE ON 6:19–22 The Judeans rejoice in the cleansing and blessings associated with the celebration of the first Passover at the new temple, including the conversion of some people of the land. What joy stirs God's people to see hearts turned to the Lord. How great is our calling to proclaim God's mercy and cleansing! For the Lord has set us apart, washing away our sins in the consecration of Holy Baptism. • Holy Lord, as You have set apart my life for Your kingdom, set my heart now to share Your Gospel with others. Amen.

EZRA—NOTE ON 7:1 Now after this. Spans an interval of more than five decades from the dedication of the temple in 516 BC to "the seventh year of Artaxerxes" (v 7). Biblical record passes over in silence the years of Darius's successor, Xerxes (486–465 BC; cf 4:6), king at the time of Esther. Events recorded in the rest of Ezr and all of Ne transpired in the reign of Artaxerxes, nicknamed "Long Hand" (464–424 BC; cf 4:7).

EZRA—NOTE ON 7:1–5 Ezra the son of Seraiah … Aaron the chief priest. To certify Ezra as a priest, his genealogy is traced from Seraiah—high priest when Jerusalem was destroyed (2Ki 25:18)—back to Aaron, brother of Moses (Nu 3:1–3). However, not all ancestral links are included in vv 1–5. See "Genealogies and Ages," p 9; see also note, 1Ch 6:1–30.

EZRA—NOTE ON 7:6 A half century after the temple of stone and wood was erected, it was apparent that a rebuilding of Israel's moral integrity was needed if the rehabilitation of the chosen people was not to end in national dissolution. Ezra was the man who cleared away the rubbish of abuses and laid new spiritual foundations. scribe. High-level official in the ancient Near East who functioned as a secretary, but also oversaw the temple treasury (2Ki 12:10–11), was sent on important missions (2Ki 19:2–7), and engaged in negotiations involving a knowledge of foreign languages (2Ki 18:18–27). A long line of scribes down to and beyond NT times claim Ezra as the founder of their guild, devoted to copying, preserving, and interpreting the sacred writings. See pp 719–720. the king. Artaxerxes. the hand of the LORD his God was on him. Expression repeated in Ezr, with variations, to show that success depended on the Lord (vv 9, 28; 8:18, 22, 31).

EZRA—NOTE ON 7:7 seventh year of Artaxerxes. 457 BC. some of the people of Israel. Caravan that went to Jerusalem with Ezra was similar to one described in ch 2. temple servants. See note, 2:58.

EZRA—NOTE ON 7:9 first day of the first month. The month of Nisan (Feb/Mar), in which Passover was celebrated. Children of Israel also left Egypt in this month (6:19). Babylonia … to Jerusalem. C 800 mi. fifth month. Month of Ab, in midsummer. See calendar, p 262. good hand. Cf v 6.

EZRA—NOTE ON 7:10 study the Law ... do it ... teach. Ezra was a model for leaders of God's people. statutes and rules. Pairing of these terms for God's Law is found often in Lv and Dt. See p 971.

EZRA—NOTE ON 7:11–26 letter. The letter of Artaxerxes to Ezra was written in Aramaic (see pp 719–20). The decree authorized Ezra to (1) journey to Jerusalem, accompanied by other volunteers; (2) inquire about conditions there, using God's Law as a guide; (3) deliver various donations, freewill offerings, and temple vessels; (4) draw on the king's treasury for additional money; (5) offer sacrifices; (6) appoint judges and magistrates to teach and enforce God's Law.

EZRA—NOTE ON 7:11 commandments ... statutes. Pairing similar to that in v 10. See p 971.

EZRA—NOTE ON 7:12 king of kings. Commonly used in Persian official documents. Near Eastern empires ruled over smaller, local kingdoms, which paid tribute (tax) and participated in imperial campaigns. Peace. See ESV note. Letter's salutation ends with a word equivalent to our "et cetera," abbreviating amenities of typical greetings.

EZRA—NOTE ON 7:14 seven counselors. Intimate circle of advisers who "sat first in the kingdom" (Est 1:14). inquiries. To ascertain to what extent the laws were being observed.

EZRA—NOTE ON 7:16 province of Babylonia. Many Judeans continued to live in Babylonia and no doubt sent with Ezra gifts of silver and gold (8:24–30).

EZRA—NOTE ON 7:17 with all diligence. Phrase (also in v 21) stresses scrupulous compliance with king's desire that money be used for items specified.

EZRA—NOTE ON 7:18 Whatever was left over was to go into a discretionary fund, presumably to be used for religious purposes.
EZRA—NOTE ON 7:19 vessels. Ezra delivered costly bowls and vessels to the proper authorities in Jerusalem (8:26–27, 33).
EZRA—NOTE ON 7:20 king's treasury. Cf 6:4, 8.
EZRA—NOTE ON 7:21–24 Addressed not to Ezra but to government officials.
EZRA—NOTE ON 7:21 God was obviously at work in the heart of this Persian king, stirring his spirit for Israel's benefit (1:1). with all diligence. See note, v 17.
EZRA—NOTE ON 7:22 Limits up to which Ezra could draw on the provincial treasuries involved huge sums (see ESV notes).
EZRA—NOTE ON 7:23 Persian kings thought it wise to placate the national gods of the peoples incorporated into the empire. The immediate threat to Persia at this time was a revolt in Egypt, helped by an Athenian fleet.
EZRA—NOTE ON 7:24 tribute, custom, or toll. See note, 4:13. All personnel serving the temple were to be exempt from taxation, including the servants (e.g., 2:43–54). temple servants. See note, 2:58.
EZRA—NOTE ON 7:25 wisdom … in your hand. Reference to God's Law (cf v 14). See also pp 775–78. magistrates and judges. Appointment of these officials recalls provisions in the Law of Moses (Dt 1:16–17; 17:8–13). Perhaps Ezra participated in writing the king's decree. teach. Judges were also to be teachers of the Law. See note, 2Ch 17:7.
EZRA—NOTE ON 7:26 Decree ends with a threat of punishment, as had the decree of Darius (6:11–12). judgment. Ezra's commission gave him powers equal to the authority of a governor, even though it is not explicitly said that he held this office. executed on him. Four penalties were listed: death, banishment, confiscation of property, and imprisonment. Not only murder but also such crimes as idolatry and adultery were capital offenses according to the Law of Moses (Ex 22:20; Lv 20:10).
EZRA—NOTE ON 7:27–9:15 Personal memoirs of Ezra.
EZRA—NOTE ON 7:27–28 Ezra's doxology ("word of praise") was written in Hbr and in the first person. Ezra praised God for moving the heart of King Artaxerxes to grant such favors, which would greatly benefit temple worship. The apostle Paul urged believers to give thanks for rulers (1Tm 2:1–2).

EZRA—NOTE ON 7:28 steadfast love. See p 843. I took courage. Evidence of the Lord's steadfast love heartened Ezra as he was about to leave his home in Babylonia and make the long journey to Jerusalem. from Israel. From the people of Israel.

EZRA—NOTE ON Ch 7 Through the decree of the pagan ruler Artaxerxes, the Lord provides for the instruction of His people in His Word, as led by Ezra. Though the emperor provides numerous gifts, God's Word stands out as the greatest gift, by which the Lord converts hearts and extends His gracious rule. • We bless You, O Lord, for Your good Word, delivered for our salvation. Amen.

EZRA—NOTE ON 8:1 heads of their fathers' houses. See note, 1:5; cf 2:59; 4:2. Vv 3–14 list 12 families. genealogy of those who went up with me. Group that returned from Babylonia with Ezra in 458 BC is much smaller than the one that had returned earlier in 538 BC (ch 2).

EZRA—NOTE ON 8:2 sons of Phinehas ... Ithamar. Two surviving branches of priests named after sons of Aaron (Nu 3:2; 25:11). sons of David, Hattush. Fourth-generation descendant of Zerubbabel of the royal family of David (1Ch 3:19–22).

EZRA—NOTE ON 8:1–14 More leaders and members of their families return from the exile in Babylonia. Near the head of the list are members of the royal household, which had nearly been destroyed. The Lord preserved the house of David, thereby preserving for you the promise of a Savior, the Son of David, Jesus. • Praise be to Your name, faithful Lord, for fulfilling Your Word to David and to me. Amen.

EZRA—NOTE ON 8:15 Ahava. Unidentified place on a river of the same name near Babylonia. I reviewed. Likely when Ezra compiled his list of names. I found there none of the sons of Levi. Situation must have disappointed Ezra. For reluctance on the part of Levites to return to Jerusalem, see note, 2:40.

EZRA—NOTE ON 8:16 men of insight. Specially skilled musicians, such as Chenaniah in David's time (1Ch 15:22).

EZRA—NOTE ON 8:17 Casiphia. Site remains unidentified. Ezra was aware that there were Levites here, perhaps at a training school for temple personnel. temple servants. See note, 2:58. ministers. From Hbr sharath; describes temple attendants in distinction from priests, who presided over the services.

EZRA—NOTE ON 8:18–19 good hand of our God. Ezra acknowledged God's blessing in discovering these temple personnel. Mahli. Levi's grandson. Cf Ex 6:19. Sherebiah ... Hashabiah ... Jeshaiah. Three of the 38 Levites who were recruited are named. All three have names ending with the divine syllable "iah" (such as Isaiah, Jeremiah, Hezekiah), derived from the name Yahweh.

EZRA—NOTE ON 8:20 Temple servants (Hbr nethinim) assisted the Levites. See note, 1Ch 9:2. Only priests, descendants of Aaron, could preside at temple worship. The rest of the descendants of the tribe of Levi ("Levites") were given other responsibilities, including serving as musicians (Nu 3:5–10; 1Ch 25). all mentioned by name. Names of the 220 temple servants were known to Ezra, but he did not record them here.

EZRA—NOTE ON 8:15–20 The Lord helps Ezra discover the Levites and temple servants whose roles at the temple were going unfulfilled. Today, each believer has a valuable role of service to fulfill in his or her church, whether leading or attending to other duties. Do not despise anyone's office of service, for any unfulfilled office disrupts the work of all. Along with your office, the Lord will grant you His Spirit and gifts, which will build you up. • Lord, Your Son, Jesus, humbled Himself to serve us. Teach me my role in my congregation, and equip me for every good work of my calling. Amen.

EZRA—NOTE ON 8:21 fast there ... that we might humble ourselves. Refraining from food was meant to heighten the feeling of shame and self-denial and so enhance humble prayer. See notes, Lv 16:29, 31. children. Though Ezra lists only the names of males, women and children were included in the caravans.

EZRA—NOTE ON 8:22 I was ashamed. Ezra, who had committed himself prayerfully to "the hand of our God," believed it would be a humiliating reflection on his faith if he now accepted a military escort from the king. However, Nehemiah demonstrated that taking such a precautionary measure need not be evidence of lack of trust (Ne 2:7, 9). enemy. Gangs of bandits were a threat to ambush caravans at isolated spots along the trail (v 31).

EZRA—NOTE ON 8:21–23 The Lord listens as Ezra's caravan prays for protection. Likewise, the Lord hears our prayers, and He answers according to His loving-kindness in Christ. • Make me wise to pray and fast, O Lord, and to focus on Your kindness. Amen.

EZRA—NOTE ON 8:24 set apart twelve of the leading priests: The colon after "priests" suggests that two of them were named Sherebiah and Hashabiah. However, these two names were also used for Levites in vv 18–19. Ezra likely selected 12 priests and 12 Levites to transport silver, gold, and vessels (cf v 30).
EZRA—NOTE ON 8:25 Israel there present. God's people living in Babylonia. Cf 7:16.
EZRA—NOTE ON 8:26 talents. See ESV note. If the figures for the silver and gold in the text have been correctly understood, the total value of the gifts would be the equivalent of millions of dollars, which explains the urgency of prayer and fasting in vv 21–23.
EZRA—NOTE ON 8:27 darics. See note, 2:69.
EZRA—NOTE ON 8:28 holy to the LORD. Removed from the secular realm and consecrated for divine service. This emphasis was meant to discourage theft. holy. See p 7; see also note, Ex 28:36.
EZRA—NOTE ON 8:29 Guard ... keep ... weigh. Ezra carefully inventoried the treasures entrusted to these 24 men, who were to act as trustees and guardians.
EZRA—NOTE ON 8:30 took over the weight. Based on current calculations of the figures given, the total weight of the silver and gold would be over 35 tons, plus the weight of the vessels.
EZRA—NOTE ON 8:31 Report of the journey to Jerusalem in 7:7–9 was a summary in the third person. Here, Ezra gives his first-person ("we") report. hand of our God ... hand of the enemy. Ezra's confidence in the Lord was not misplaced (vv 21–23).
EZRA—NOTE ON 8:32 remained three days. Three-day pause was a repeat of what Ezra had done at the river Ahava at the beginning of the journey (v 15). Before Joshua and the people of Israel crossed the Jordan River into the Promised Land, they also paused for three days (Jsh 3:1–2).
EZRA—NOTE ON 8:33 After the three-day rest, the priests and Levites appointed by Ezra (v 24) transferred the treasure into the hands of the temple authorities, two priests and two Levites, who carefully recorded everything. Meremoth. Name found written on ostraca (potsherds) near the temple site.
EZRA—NOTE ON 8:35 burnt offerings. Bulls, rams, and goats were sacrificed in multiples of 12, signifying the tribes of Israel. Lambs were sacrificed in multiples of seven. See p 217.

EZRA—NOTE ON 8:36 commissions. The orders issued by the king (7:21–24) to his highest representatives, the satraps, and his minor officials, the governors. For the administration of the Persian Empire, see note, 4:10. aided. Financial support for temple worship.

EZRA—NOTE ON 8:24–36 By the hand of God, Ezra's caravan successfully delivers their offerings to Jerusalem. Like Ezra, commit yourself body and soul to the Lord's service. For the Lord supports the service of His people; He serves them graciously in Christ. • Bless our service, dear Lord, and lead us by Your hand to heaven's promised land. Amen.

EZRA—NOTE ON 9:1 officials. Lay leaders in the province of Judah, which was divided into six districts. Their report to Ezra came about four months after his return to Jerusalem (10:9). priests ... Levites. Even clergy were guilty of intermarrying (v 14), thus not separating themselves from the peoples of the lands. peoples of the lands. See note, 4:4. abominations. Repeated for emphasis in vv 11, 14. Worship of false gods included sexual immorality, incest, and human sacrifice (Dt 18:9; 2Ki 16:3; Mal 2:11). See note, Pr 6:16. Canaanites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Jebusites, ... the Amorites. Listed in Dt 7:1–5 as people whom Israelites were not to marry. Marriage with such people posed the same spiritual threat in Ezra's day as in the days of Moses (Ex 34:10–16). See p 345.

EZRA—NOTE ON 9:2 holy race. Lit, "holy seed" (Is 6:13) or "offspring." From Israel came the Offspring of Abraham, "who is Christ" (Gal 3:16). Intermarriage with Canaanites could work at cross-purposes with God's design. He had separated the Israelites from other peoples that they might be a holy nation, a people set aside to bring to pass His eternal counsel and will (Ex 19:6; Lv 20:26). See note, Ru 4:11–12. hand of the officials. Probably not the same officials as in v 1 but others in positions of leadership. foremost. Common citizens followed the example of prominent leaders.

EZRA—NOTE ON 9:3 tore my garment ... pulled hair. Ezra's actions showed his shock and displeasure. See note, Jb 1:20. These actions drew public attention to Ezra's protest. sat appalled. Distress and disgust again expressing protest (cf v 4).

EZRA—NOTE ON 9:4 all who trembled at the words. Devout followers of Ezra, who were likely hated by their fellow Israelites. returned exiles.

Evidently some who returned with Ezra were among the faithless. evening sacrifice. See pp 170–71.

EZRA—NOTE ON 9:5 fasting. Ezra had also fasted prior to making the journey to Jerusalem (8:21). fell upon my knees. Unusual posture; normally Judeans prayed standing. spread out my hands. See p 1277.

EZRA—NOTE ON 9:6 I am ashamed. Ezra was ashamed to request a military escort from the king (8:22). His shame, as he prayed to God, was greater still. lift my face. See p 1276. Though God is everywhere, humans think of Him as being "up" in heaven. my God ... our guilt. Ezra began his prayer with the singular pronoun but changed to the plural to show that he identified himself with the people for whom he was confessing sin and interceding. iniquities have risen higher. Figure of speech comparing guilt to a flood (perhaps Noah's flood) that overwhelms us and reaches as high as heaven itself.

EZRA—NOTE ON 9:7 days of our fathers to this day. People in Ezra's day had not learned the lesson that God had tried to teach their ancestors by putting them through the destruction of Jerusalem and captivity in Babylonia. See note, Jsh 4:9.

EZRA—NOTE ON 9:8 favor. See p 6. remnant. Refers to small band of survivors who returned to Jerusalem from Babylonia (Zep 2:7; Hg 1:12; Zec 8:6, 11–12). See p 1080. secure hold. See ESV note; indicates that the remnant was immovably anchored within God's holy place (Is 33:20). brighten our eyes. Spiritual enlightenment producing hope and joy. Cf 1Sm 14:27. reviving. Or, "refreshment"; a noun for "life," as though raised from the dead (used again in v 9).

EZRA—NOTE ON 9:9 slaves. Though the Persian government permitted some religious freedom, Israel was still in servitude to a foreign power. not forsaken. Though God had not forsaken His people, they had forsaken His commandments (v 10). steadfast love. See p 843. reviving. See note, v 8.

EZRA—NOTE ON 9:11 servants the prophets. Standard designation for the prophetic succession, beginning with Moses and culminating in Christ (Dt 18:15–18; Jer 7:25–26; Ac 3:13).

EZRA—NOTE ON 9:11–12 Summary of commandments forbidding intermarriage with people of other nations (cf v 1). Israel's prophets often warned against being "yoked with unbelievers" (2Co 6:14), becoming one with them in their abominations.

EZRA—NOTE ON 9:12 do not give your daughters. After the exile, economic advantages made the temptation particularly great to "intermarry with the peoples who practice[d] these abominations" (v 14). peace or prosperity. Economic and social aspects of marriage were much stronger then, surpassing the modern interest in romantic love as the basis for marriage. inheritance … forever. See "portion," p 7.
EZRA—NOTE ON 9:13 remnant. See note, v 8.
EZRA—NOTE ON 9:14 until You consumed us. For Israelites to continue to intermarry with foreigners was dangerous. God would be justified in consuming them "so that there should be no remnant, nor any to escape."
EZRA—NOTE ON 9:15 just. See p 842. remnant. See note, v 8.
EZRA—NOTE ON Ch 9 Ezra expresses remorse and shame when he learns of the unfaithful Judeans' marriages. Today, few topics have grown more sensitive than the issues surrounding marriage. This is ultimately because families fail to believe in or teach what God's Word teaches about the holy blessings of marriage. Like Ezra, express your shame, remorse, and prayers to God when sinful notions of marriage tear at your family. Study and share the teachings of God's Word about marriage (see esp notes, Gn 2:18, 22, 24; Eph 5:22, 25, 28, 31–32, 33). Christ the Bridegroom is also our Redeemer, who removes all our shame and comforts our remorseful hearts. • Jesus, hear my prayers for family and friends, that they would enjoy the blessings of holy wedlock according to Your Word. Amen.
EZRA—NOTE ON Ch 10 Ezra's actions are now described in the third person, unlike "Ezra's memoirs" (7:27–9:15), which were in the first person.
EZRA—NOTE ON 10:1 Ezra, surrounded by weeping people, had fallen to his knees (9:5) in the courtyard of the temple. This would also be the place where all the people later assembled (10:9). casting himself down. See p 1276.
EZRA—NOTE ON 10:2 Shecaniah … of the sons of Elam. Family of Elam was mentioned in 2:7 and 8:7, but not Shecaniah. Six sons of Elam were among those who married foreign wives (10:26). broken faith. See note, 1Ch 2:7. there is hope. The Lord promised to forgive the sins of those who repent (Dt 30:1–10).
EZRA—NOTE ON 10:3 covenant with our God. Marriage itself was regarded as a covenant. See p 127. to put away all these wives. Shecaniah's harsh proposal to stop the problem immediately. In contrast with most divorce situations today, these marriages were illegal from the start. See note, Dt 7:3; cf Ezk 44:22; Hos 2:4. counsel of my lord. This course of action had likely been advised by Ezra. tremble. Action had the support of those who truly wished to follow God's Law (9:4). according to the Law. Before Israel entered Canaan, a land populated by various foreign nations, God told His people: "You shall not intermarry with them, giving your daughters to their sons or taking their daughters for your sons" (Dt 7:3). For an Israelite to enter such a union was illegal in God's sight and needed to be remedied. NT believers are under no such obligation or command to divorce an unbelieving spouse (see note, 1Co 7:12–13).

EZRA—NOTE ON 10:5 Though Ezra was himself a priest, it seems that his main support came from laypeople, making it esp important for him to get the leading clergy to accept the covenant (v 3).

EZRA—NOTE ON 10:6 withdrew. Ezra needed to prepare himself for the solemn assembly that would deal with the marriage problem. Jehohanan. Common name; he is not further identified. mourning. Cf v 1; 9:3–5.

EZRA—NOTE ON 10:7 proclamation. King Artaxerxes had authorized Ezra to make sure that God's Law was enforced in Judah (7:25–26).

EZRA—NOTE ON 10:8 Those who failed to attend the assembly scheduled on the third day in Jerusalem would find themselves ostracized from the community, even losing their property.

EZRA—NOTE ON 10:9 ninth month. Our Dec, four months after Ezra had returned (7:8). See calendar, p 262. heavy rain. Ninth month normally was "a time of heavy rain" (v 13), when the weather was cold and miserable.

EZRA—NOTE ON 10:10–11 Ezra addressed the crowd, identifying the sin and calling for repentance and its fruit.

EZRA—NOTE ON 10:10 broken faith. See note, 1Ch 2:7.

EZRA—NOTE ON 10:12–13 Assembly's suggestion that action be delayed and a commission appointed was reasonable. The large crowd, inclement weather, and seriousness of the problem made immediate action unwise.

EZRA—NOTE ON 10:14 officials. Perhaps the same officials who had originally brought this matter to Ezra's attention (9:1). with them the elders and judges. No doubt to give evidence to the officials based on local information and to protect the rights of the innocent. fierce wrath. Ezra had confessed that a just God had every reason to consume the ungrateful remnant, leaving none to escape (9:14). The assembly wanted to avert such a disaster.

EZRA—NOTE ON 10:15 Unclear whether these four men opposed the proposed procedure or any delay in taking action. Meshullam. Men with the same name are mentioned in 8:16; 10:29.
EZRA—NOTE ON 10:16–17 The commission took three months to examine the situation of intermarriages.
EZRA—NOTE ON 10:16 heads of fathers' houses. See note, 1:5. It is not clear whether these men appointed by Ezra are the "officials" suggested by the assembly (v 14).
EZRA—NOTE ON 10:1–17 To resolve the problem of illegal marriages, some Judeans make a harsh proposal for immediate divorces, but the counsel of the community wisely requests investigation so they can learn the extent of the problem and propose the best solution. Have confidence in the wisdom of God's people, as informed by God's Word. Call for their counsel, and listen patiently. Above all, God's Word must prevail in the congregation's worship and, thereby, its decisions. At all times, we may confess our sins and receive God's Word of absolution, by which He constantly blesses us with mercy. • Have mercy on us, O Lord, and lead us by Your Law and Gospel. Amen.
EZRA—NOTE ON 10:18–43 This list of men who had married foreign women was meant to emphasize the seriousness of their sin. Names are grouped according to the customary classification (ch 2; 8:1–14): 17 priests, 6 Levites, 1 singer, 3 gatekeepers, and 84 sons of Israel or laymen for a total of 111. Compared to the total population, this number may not appear alarming. See note, 2:64. However, the danger of assimilation by the peoples of the land was very real in view of the fact that the clergy, officials, and chief men were "foremost" (9:2). When "the sons of Jeshua," high priest in Zerubbabel's day (5:2; 10:18), set the fashion, the whole populace was tempted to follow their example.
EZRA—NOTE ON 10:19 guilt offering. Prescribed for someone who "commits a breach of faith and sins unintentionally in any of the holy things of the LORD" (Lv 5:15). See pp 170–71.
EZRA—NOTE ON 10:24 singers ... gatekeepers. Cf 1Ch 25:1–26:19.
EZRA—NOTE ON 10:25–43 the sons of. Many of the 11 family names appeared in ch 2 and 8:1–14.
EZRA—NOTE ON 10:29 Bani. Also appears in v 34. There may have been two men with the same name or it may have been a mistake in copying (perhaps should be Bigvai, as in 2:14; 8:14).

EZRA—NOTE ON 10:44 All these had married foreign women. Sentence hearkens back to v 17, illustrating a literary device in which the Hbr forms a unit of thought (inclusio). some of the women had even borne children. See ESV note; the Hbr text lacks clarity. This may have been a reminder that the separation that took place disrupted family ties and must have caused grief and hardships. (Today, convicted criminals who serve time in prison inflict similar disgrace and suffering on their families.) The Judeans likely provided some measure of support so that innocent victims of the reform were not left to fend for themselves. See note, Gn 34:12. God often commanded Israel to care for the needy (e.g., Dt 10:18–19; 24:17–18).

EZRA—NOTE ON 10:18–44 As a result of the earlier investigation, 111 illegal marriages are identified and ended. These circumstances teach us about the gravity of God's Law, of marriage, and of vows. Enter into such matters thoughtfully and informed by God's Word. The Lord Himself has vowed to guide and care for your family and to save you through the life of His Son, Jesus. • Lord, lead me to understand and keep my vows and to bring honor to my family and to Your name. Amen.

Report from Jerusalem

1 [1] ††The words of Nehemiah the son of Hacaliah.

Now it happened in the month of Chislev, in the twentieth year, as I was in Susa the capital,[1] [2] †that Hanani, one of my brothers, came with certain men from Judah. And I asked them concerning the Jews who escaped, who had survived the exile, and concerning Jerusalem. [3] †And they said to me, “The remnant there in the province who had survived the exile is in great trouble and shame. The wall of Jerusalem is broken down, and its gates are destroyed by fire.”

Nehemiah’s Prayer

4 ‡ † As soon as I heard these words I sat down and wept and mourned for days, and I continued fasting and praying before the God of heaven. 5 † And I said, “O Lord God of heaven, the great and awesome God who keeps covenant and steadfast love with those who love him and keep his commandments, 6 † let your ear be attentive and your eyes open, to hear the prayer of your servant that I now pray before you day and night for the people of Israel your servants, confessing the sins of the people of Israel, which we have sinned against you. Even I and my father’s house have sinned. 7 † We have acted very corruptly against you and have not kept the commandments, the statutes, and the rules that you commanded your servant Moses. 8 ‡ Remember the word that you commanded your servant
Moses, saying, ‘If you are unfaithful, I will scatter you among the peoples, 9 † but if you return to me and keep my commandments and do them, though your outcasts are in the uttermost parts of heaven, from there I will gather them and bring them to the place that I have chosen, to make my name dwell there.’ 10 † They are your servants and your people, whom you have redeemed by your great power and by your strong hand. 11 † O Lord, let your ear be attentive to the prayer of your servant, and to the prayer of your servants who delight to fear your name, and give success to your servant today, and grant him mercy in the sight of this man.”

Now I was cupbearer to the king.

Nehemiah Sent to Judah

2 [1]†† In the month of Nisan, in the twentieth year of King Artaxerxes, when wine was before him, I took up the wine and gave it to the king. Now
I had not been sad in his presence. [2]† And the king said to me, “Why is your face sad, seeing you are not sick? This is nothing but sadness of the heart.”
Then I was very much afraid. [3]† I said to the king, “Let the king live forever!
Why should not my face be sad, when the city, the place of my fathers’ graves, lies in ruins, and its gates have been destroyed by fire?” [4]† Then the king said to me, “What are you requesting?” So I prayed to the God of heaven. [5]† And I said to the king, “If it pleases the king, and if your servant has found favor in your sight, that you send me to Judah, to the city of my fathers’ graves, that I may rebuild it.” [6]† And the king said to me (the queen sitting beside him), “How long will you be gone, and when will you return?” So it pleased the king to send me when I had given him a time.
[7]† And I said to the king, “If it pleases the king, let letters be given me to the governors of the province Beyond the River, that they may let me pass through until I come to Judah, [8]† and a letter to Asaph, the keeper of the king’s forest, that he may give me timber to make beams for the gates of the fortress of the temple, and for the wall of the city, and for the house that I shall occupy.” And the king granted me what I asked, for the good hand of my God was upon me.

Nehemiah Inspects Jerusalem's Walls

9 ‡† Then I came to the governors of the province Beyond the River and gave them the king's letters. Now the king had sent with me officers of the army and horsemen. 10 † But when Sanballat the Horonite and Tobiah the Ammonite servant heard this, it displeased them greatly that someone had come to seek the welfare of the people of Israel.
11 † So I went to Jerusalem and was there three days. 12 † Then I arose in the night, I and a few men with me. And I told no one what my God had put into my heart to do for Jerusalem. There was no animal with me but the one on which I rode. 13 ‡ I went out by night by the Valley Gate to the Dragon Spring and to the Dung Gate, and I inspected the walls of Jerusalem that were broken down and its gates that had been destroyed by fire. 14 Then I went on to the Fountain Gate and to the King's Pool, but there was no room for the animal that was under me to pass. 15 Then I went up in the night by the valley and inspected the wall, and I turned back and entered by the Valley Gate, and so returned. 16 † And the officials did not know where I had gone or what I was doing, and I had not yet told the Jews, the priests, the nobles, the officials, and the rest who were to do the work.
17 † Then I said to them, "You see the trouble we are in, how Jerusalem lies in ruins with its gates burned. Come, let us build the wall of Jerusalem, that we may no longer suffer derision." 18 † And I told them of the hand of my God that had been upon me for good, and also of the words that the king had spoken to me. And they said, "Let us rise up and build." So they strengthened their hands for the good work. 19 † But when Sanballat the Horonite and Tobiah the Ammonite servant and Geshem the Arab heard of it, they jeered at us and despised us and said, "What is this thing that you are doing? Are you rebelling against the king?" 20 † Then I replied to them,
"The God of heaven will make us prosper, and we his servants will arise and build, but you have no portion or right or claim[1] in Jerusalem."

Rebuilding the Wall

3 [1]†Then Eliashib the high priest rose up with his brothers the priests, and they built the Sheep Gate. They consecrated it and set its doors. They consecrated it as far as the Tower of the Hundred, as far as the Tower of Hananel. [2]†And next to him the men of Jericho built. And next to them[2] Zaccur the son of Imri built.

[3]†The sons of Hassenaah built the Fish Gate. They laid its beams and set its doors, its bolts, and its bars. [4]And next to them Meremoth the son of Uriah, son of Hakkoz repaired. And next to them Meshullam the son of Berechiah, son of Meshezabel repaired. And next to them Zadok the son of Baana repaired. [5]†And next to them the Tekoites repaired, but their nobles would not stoop to serve their Lord.[3]

[6]†Joiada the son of Paseah and Meshullam the son of Besodeiah repaired the Gate of Yeshanah.[4] They laid its beams and set its doors, its bolts, and its bars. [7]†And next to them repaired Melatiah the Gibeonite and Jadon the Meronothite, the men of Gibeon and of Mizpah, the seat of the governor of the province Beyond the River. [8]†Next to them Uzziel the son of Harhaiah, goldsmiths, repaired. Next to him Hananiah, one of the perfumers, repaired, and they restored Jerusalem as far as the Broad Wall. [9]†Next to them Rephaiah the son of Hur, ruler of half the district of[1] Jerusalem, repaired.
[10]Next to them Jedaiah the son of Harumaph repaired opposite his house.
And next to him Hattush the son of Hashabneiah repaired. [11]†Malchijah the son of Harim and Hasshub the son of Pahath-moab repaired another section and the Tower of the Ovens. [12]Next to him Shallum the son of Hallohesh, ruler of half the district of Jerusalem, repaired, he and his daughters.

[13]†Hanun and the inhabitants of Zanoah repaired the Valley Gate. They rebuilt it and set its doors, its bolts, and its bars, and repaired a thousand cubits[2] of the wall, as far as the Dung Gate.

[14]Malchijah the son of Rechab, ruler of the district of Beth-haccherem, repaired the Dung Gate. He rebuilt it and set its doors, its bolts, and its bars.

[15]†And Shallum the son of Col-hozeh, ruler of the district of Mizpah, repaired the Fountain Gate. He rebuilt it and covered it and set its doors, its bolts, and its bars. And he built the wall of the Pool of Shelah of the king's garden, as far as the stairs that go down from the city of David. [16]†After him Nehemiah the son of Azbuk, ruler of half the district of Beth-zur, repaired to a point opposite the tombs of David, as far as the artificial pool, and as far as the house of the mighty men. [17]†After him the Levites repaired: Rehum the son of Bani. Next to him Hashabiah, ruler of half the district of Keilah, repaired for his district. [18]After him their brothers repaired: Bavvai the son of Henadad, ruler of half the district of Keilah. [19]†Next to him Ezer the son of Jeshua, ruler of Mizpah, repaired another section opposite the ascent to the armory at the buttress.[3] [20]‡After him Baruch the son of Zabbai repaired another section from the buttress to the door of the house of Eliashib the high priest. [21]After him Meremoth the son of Uriah, son of Hakkoz repaired another section from the door of the house of Eliashib to the end of the house of Eliashib. [22]After him the priests, the men of the surrounding area, repaired. [23]† After them Benjamin and Hasshub repaired opposite their house. After them Azariah the son of Maaseiah, son of Ananiah repaired beside his own house. [24]After him Binnui the son of Henadad repaired another section, from the house of Azariah to the buttress [25]† and to the corner. Palal the son of Uzai repaired opposite the buttress and the tower projecting from the upper house of the king at the court of the guard. After him Pedaiah the son of Parosh [26]†and the temple servants living on Ophel repaired to a point opposite the Water Gate on the east and the projecting tower. [27]†After him the Tekoites repaired another section opposite the great projecting tower as far as the wall of Ophel.

[28]†Above the Horse Gate the priests repaired, each one opposite his own house. [29]After them Zadok the son of Immer repaired opposite his own house. After him Shemaiah the son of Shecaniah, the keeper of the East Gate, repaired. [30]†After him Hananiah the son of Shelemiah and Hanun the sixth son of Zalaph repaired another section. After him Meshullam the son of Berechiah repaired opposite his chamber. [31]†After him Malchijah, one of the goldsmiths, repaired as far as the house of the temple servants and of the merchants, opposite the Muster Gate,[4] and to the upper chamber of the corner. [32]†And between the upper chamber of the corner and the Sheep Gate the goldsmiths and the merchants repaired.

Opposition to the Work

4 [1]‡†[1] Now when Sanballat heard that we were building the wall, he was angry and greatly enraged, and he jeered at the Jews. [2]†And he said in the presence of his brothers and of the army of Samaria, “What are these feeble Jews doing? Will they restore it for themselves?[2] Will they sacrifice? Will they finish up in a day? Will they revive the stones out of the heaps of rubbish, and burned ones at that?” [3]†Tobiah the Ammonite was beside him, and he said, “Yes, what they are building—if a fox goes up on it he will break down their stone wall!” [4]‡Hear, O our God, for we are despised. Turn back their taunt on their own heads and give them up to be plundered in a land where they are captives. [5]Do not cover their guilt, and let not their sin be blotted out from your sight, for they have provoked you to anger in the presence of the builders.

[6]†So we built the wall. And all the wall was joined together to half its height, for the people had a mind to work.

[7]†[3] But when Sanballat and Tobiah and the Arabs and the Ammonites and the Ashdodites heard that the repairing of the walls of Jerusalem was going forward and that the breaches were beginning to be closed, they were very angry. [8]†And they all plotted together to come and fight against Jerusalem and to cause confusion in it. [9]†And we prayed to our God and set a guard as a protection against them day and night.

[10]‡†In Judah it was said,[4] “The strength of those who bear the burdens is failing. There is too much rubble. By ourselves we will not be able to rebuild the wall.” [11]And our enemies said, “They will not know or see till we come among them and kill them and stop the work.” [12]†At that time the Jews who lived near them came from all directions and said to us ten times, “You must return to us.”[5] [13]†So in the lowest parts of the space behind the wall, in open places, I stationed the people by their clans, with their swords, their spears, and their bows. [14]†And I looked and arose and said to the nobles and to the officials and to the rest of the people, “Do not be afraid of them. Remember the Lord, who is great and awesome, and fight for your brothers, your sons, your daughters, your wives, and your homes.”

The Work Resumes

15 † When our enemies heard that it was known to us and that God had frustrated their plan, we all returned to the wall, each to his work. 16 † From that day on, half of my servants worked on construction, and half held the spears, shields, bows, and coats of mail. And the leaders stood behind the whole house of Judah, 17 † who were building on the wall. Those who carried burdens were loaded in such a way that each labored on the work with one hand and held his weapon with the other. 18 † And each of the builders had his sword strapped at his side while he built. The man who sounded the trumpet was beside me. 19 And I said to the nobles and to the officials and to the rest of the people, “The work is great and widely spread, and we are separated on the wall, far from one another. 20 In the place where you hear the sound of the trumpet, rally to us there. Our God will fight for us.” 21 † So we labored at the work, and half of them held the spears from the break of dawn until the stars came out. 22 † I also said to the people at that time, “Let every man and his servant pass the night within Jerusalem, that they may be a guard for us by night and may labor by day.” 23 † So neither I nor my brothers nor my servants nor the men of the guard who followed me, none of us took off our clothes; each kept his weapon at his right hand.
[1]

Nehemiah Stops Oppression of the Poor

5 [1]‡†Now there arose a great outcry of the people and of their wives against their Jewish brothers. [2]†For there were those who said, “With our sons and our daughters, we are many. So let us get grain, that we may eat and keep alive.” [3]†There were also those who said, “We are mortgaging our fields, our vineyards, and our houses to get grain because of the famine.”
[4]†And there were those who said, “We have borrowed money for the king’s tax on our fields and our vineyards. [5]†Now our flesh is as the flesh of our brothers, our children are as their children. Yet we are forcing our sons and our daughters to be slaves, and some of our daughters have already been enslaved, but it is not in our power to help it, for other men have our fields and our vineyards.”

[6]†I was very angry when I heard their outcry and these words. [7]†I took counsel with myself, and I brought charges against the nobles and the officials. I said to them, “You are exacting interest, each from his brother.”
And I held a great assembly against them [8]†and said to them, “We, as far as we are able, have bought back our Jewish brothers who have been sold to the nations, but you even sell your brothers that they may be sold to us!”
They were silent and could not find a word to say. [9]†So I said, “The thing that you are doing is not good. Ought you not to walk in the fear of our God to prevent the taunts of the nations our enemies? [10]†Moreover, I and my brothers and my servants are lending them money and grain. Let us abandon this exacting of interest. [11]†Return to them this very day their fields, their vineyards, their olive orchards, and their houses, and the percentage of money, grain, wine, and oil that you have been exacting from them.” [12]†Then they said, “We will restore these and require nothing from them. We will do as you say.” And I called the priests and made them swear to do as they had promised. [13]†I also shook out the fold[2] of my garment and said, “So may God shake out every man from his house and from his labor who does not keep this promise. So may he be shaken out and emptied.” And all the assembly said “Amen” and praised the Lord. And the people did as they had promised.

Nehemiah’s Generosity

14 ††Moreover, from the time that I was appointed to be their governor in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year to the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes the king, twelve years, neither I nor my brothers ate the food allowance of the governor. 15 †The former governors who were before me laid heavy burdens on the people and took from them for their daily ration[1] forty shekels[2] of silver. Even their servants lorded it over the people. But I did not do so, because of the fear of God. 16 †I also persevered in the work on this wall, and we acquired no land, and all my servants were gathered there for the work. 17 †Moreover, there were at my table 150 men, Jews and officials, besides those who came to us from the nations that were around us. 18 †Now what was prepared at my expense[3] for each day was one ox and six choice sheep and birds, and every ten days all kinds of wine in abundance. Yet for all this I did not demand the food allowance of the governor, because the service was too heavy on this people. 19 †Remember for my good, O my God, all that I have done for this people.

Conspiracy Against Nehemiah

6 [1]‡†Now when Sanballat and Tobiah and Geshem the Arab and the rest of our enemies heard that I had built the wall and that there was no breach left in it (although up to that time I had not set up the doors in the gates), [2]†Sanballat and Geshem sent to me, saying, “Come and let us meet together at Hakkephirim in the plain of Ono.” But they intended to do me harm. [3]And I sent messengers to them, saying, “I am doing a great work and I cannot come down. Why should the work stop while I leave it and come down to you?” [4]And they sent to me four times in this way, and I answered them in the same manner. [5]†In the same way Sanballat for the fifth time sent his servant to me with an open letter in his hand. [6]†In it was written, “It is reported among the nations, and Geshem[4] also says it, that you and the Jews intend to rebel; that is why you are building the wall. And according to these reports you wish to become their king. [7]†And you have also set up prophets to proclaim concerning you in Jerusalem, ‘There is a king in Judah.’ And now the king will hear of these reports. So now come and let us take counsel together.” [8]†Then I sent to him, saying, “No such things as you say have been done, for you are inventing them out of your own mind.” [9]†For they all wanted to frighten us, thinking, “Their hands will drop from the work, and it will not be done.” But now, O God,[5] strengthen my hands.

[10]†Now when I went into the house of Shemaiah the son of Delaiah, son of Mehetabel, who was confined to his home, he said, “Let us meet together in the house of God, within the temple. Let us close the doors of the temple, for they are coming to kill you. They are coming to kill you by night.” [11]†But I said, “Should such a man as I run away? And what man such as I could go into the temple and live?[6] I will not go in.” [12]†And I understood and saw that God had not sent him, but he had pronounced the prophecy against me because Tobiah and Sanballat had hired him. [13]†For this purpose he was hired, that I should be afraid and act in this way and sin, and so they could give me a bad name in order to taunt me. [14]†Remember Tobiah and Sanballat, O my God, according to these things that they did, and also the prophetess Noadiah and the rest of the prophets who wanted to make me afraid.

The Wall Is Finished

15 ‡†So the wall was finished on the twenty-fifth day of the month Elul, in fifty-two days. 16 † And when all our enemies heard of it, all the nations around us were afraid and fell greatly in their own esteem, for they perceived that this work had been accomplished with the help of our God.
17 †Moreover, in those days the nobles of Judah sent many letters to Tobiah, and Tobiah's letters came to them. 18 †For many in Judah were bound by oath to him, because he was the son-in-law of Shecaniah the son of Arah:
and his son Jehohanan had taken the daughter of Meshullam the son of Berechiah as his wife. 19 †Also they spoke of his good deeds in my presence and reported my words to him. And Tobiah sent letters to make me afraid.

7 1 †Now when the wall had been built and I had set up the doors, and the gatekeepers, the singers, and the Levites had been appointed, 2 ‡†I gave my brother Hanani and Hananiah the governor of the castle charge over Jerusalem, for he was a more faithful and God-fearing man than many.
3 †And I said to them, "Let not the gates of Jerusalem be opened until the sun is hot. And while they are still standing guard, let them shut and bar the doors. Appoint guards from among the inhabitants of Jerusalem, some at their guard posts and some in front of their own homes." 4 †The city was wide and large, but the people within it were few, and no houses had been rebuilt.

Lists of Returned Exiles

5 ✝ ✝ Then my God put it into my heart to assemble the nobles and the officials and the people to be enrolled by genealogy. And I found the book of the genealogy of those who came up at the first, and I found written in it:
6 ✝ These were the people of the province who came up out of the captivity of those exiles whom Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon had carried into exile. They returned to Jerusalem and Judah, each to his town. 7 ✝ They came with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Azariah, Raamiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispereth, Bigvai, Nehum, Baanah.

The number of the men of the people of Israel: 8 the sons of Parosh, 2,172.
9 The sons of Shephatiah, 372. 10 The sons of Arah, 652. 11 The sons of Pahath-moab, namely the sons of Jeshua and Joab, 2,818. 12 The sons of Elam, 1,254. 13 The sons of Zattu, 845. 14 The sons of Zaccai, 760. 15 The sons of Binnui, 648. 16 The sons of Bebai, 628. 17 The sons of Azgad, 2,322. 18 The sons of Adonikam, 667. 19 The sons of Bigvai, 2,067. 20 The sons of Adin, 655. 21 The sons of Ater, namely of Hezekiah, 98. 22 The sons of Hashum, 328. 23 The sons of Bezai, 324. 24 The sons of Hariph, 112. 25 The sons of Gibeon, 95. 26 The men of Bethlehem and Netophah, 188. 27 The men of Anathoth, 128. 28 The men of Beth-azmaveth, 42. 29 The men of Kiriathjearim, Chephirah, and Beeroth, 743. 30 The men of Ramah and Geba, 621.
31 The men of Michmas, 122. 32 The men of Bethel and Ai, 123. 33 The men of the other Nebo, 52. 34 The sons of the other Elam, 1,254. 35 The sons of Harim, 320. 36 The sons of Jericho, 345. 37 The sons of Lod, Hadid, and Ono, 721. 38 The sons of Senaah, 3,930.

39 The priests: the sons of Jedaiah, namely the house of Jeshua, 973. 40 The sons of Immer, 1,052. 41 The sons of Pashhur, 1,247. 42 The sons of Harim, 1,017.

43 The Levites: the sons of Jeshua, namely of Kadmiel of the sons of Hodevah, 74. 44 The singers: the sons of Asaph, 148. 45 The gatekeepers: the sons of Shallum, the sons of Ater, the sons of Talmon, the sons of Akkub, the sons of Hatita, the sons of Shobai, 138.

[46]The temple servants: the sons of Ziha, the sons of Hasupha, the sons of Tabbaoth, [47]the sons of Keros, the sons of Sia, the sons of Padon, [48]the sons of Lebana, the sons of Hagaba, the sons of Shalmai, [49]the sons of Hanan, the sons of Giddel, the sons of Gahar, [50]the sons of Reaiah, the sons of Rezin, the sons of Nekoda, [51]the sons of Gazzam, the sons of Uzza, the sons of Paseah, [52]the sons of Besai, the sons of Meunim, the sons of Nephushesim, [53]the sons of Bakbuk, the sons of Hakupha, the sons of Harhur, [54]the sons of Bazlith, the sons of Mehida, the sons of Harsha, [55]the sons of Barkos, the sons of Sisera, the sons of Temah, [56]the sons of Neziah, the sons of Hatipha.

[57]The sons of Solomon's servants: the sons of Sotai, the sons of Sophereth, the sons of Perida, [58]the sons of Jaala, the sons of Darkon, the sons of Giddel, [59]the sons of Shephatiah, the sons of Hattil, the sons of Pochereth-hazzebaim, the sons of Amon.

[60]All the temple servants and the sons of Solomon's servants were 392.

[61]The following were those who came up from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addon, and Immer, but they could not prove their fathers' houses nor their descent, whether they belonged to Israel: [62]the sons of Delaiah, the sons of Tobiah, the sons of Nekoda, 642. [63]Also, of the priests: the sons of Hobaiah, the sons of Hakkoz, the sons of Barzillai (who had taken a wife of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite and was called by their name). [64]These sought their registration among those enrolled in the genealogies, but it was not found there, so they were excluded from the priesthood as unclean. [65]The governor told them that they were not to partake of the most holy food until a priest with Urim and Thummim should arise.

Totals of People and Gifts

66 † The whole assembly together was 42,360, 67 besides their male and female servants, of whom there were 7,337. And they had 245 singers, male and female. 68 Their horses were 736, their mules 245,[1] 69 their camels 435, and their donkeys 6,720.

70 † Now some of the heads of fathers' houses gave to the work. The governor gave to the treasury 1,000 darics[2] of gold, 50 basins, 30 priests' garments and 500 minas[3] of silver.[4] 71 And some of the heads of fathers' houses gave into the treasury of the work 20,000 darics of gold and 2,200 minas of silver. 72 And what the rest of the people gave was 20,000 darics of gold, 2,000 minas of silver, and 67 priests' garments.

73 † So the priests, the Levites, the gatekeepers, the singers, some of the people, the temple servants, and all Israel, lived in their towns.

And when the seventh month had come, the people of Israel were in their towns.

Ezra Reads the Law

8 [1]‡†And all the people gathered as one man into the square before the Water Gate. And they told Ezra the scribe to bring the Book of the Law of Moses that the Lord had commanded Israel. [2]†So Ezra the priest brought the Law before the assembly, both men and women and all who could understand what they heard, on the first day of the seventh month. [3]†And he read from it facing the square before the Water Gate from early morning until midday, in the presence of the men and the women and those who could understand. And the ears of all the people were attentive to the Book of the Law. [4]†And Ezra the scribe stood on a wooden platform that they had made for the purpose. And beside him stood Mattithiah, Shema, Anaiah, Uriah, Hilkiah, and Maaseiah on his right hand, and Pedaiah, Mishael, Malchijah, Hashum, Hashbaddanah, Zechariah, and Meshullam on his left hand. [5]†And Ezra opened the book in the sight of all the people, for he was above all the people, and as he opened it all the people stood. [6]†And Ezra blessed the Lord, the great God, and all the people answered, "Amen, Amen," lifting up their hands. And they bowed their heads and worshiped the Lord with their faces to the ground. [7]† Also Jeshua, Bani, Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodiah, Maaseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaiah, the Levites,[1] helped the people to understand the Law, while the people remained in their places. [8]†They read from the book, from the Law of God, clearly,[2] and they gave the sense, so that the people understood the reading.

This Day Is Holy

9 ‡† And Nehemiah, who was the governor, and Ezra the priest and scribe, and the Levites who taught the people said to all the people, “This day is holy to the Lord your God; do not mourn or weep.” For all the people wept as they heard the words of the Law. 10 † Then he said to them, “Go your way.
Eat the fat and drink sweet wine and send portions to anyone who has nothing ready, for this day is holy to our Lord. And do not be grieved, for the joy of the Lord is your strength.” 11 So the Levites calmed all the people, saying, “Be quiet, for this day is holy; do not be grieved.” 12 † And all the people went their way to eat and drink and to send portions and to make great rejoicing, because they had understood the words that were declared to them.

Feast of Booths Celebrated

13 ‡ ‡ † On the second day the heads of fathers' houses of all the people, with the priests and the Levites, came together to Ezra the scribe in order to study the words of the Law. 14 And they found it written in the Law that the Lord had commanded by Moses that the people of Israel should dwell in booths[1] during the feast of the seventh month, 15 † and that they should proclaim it and publish it in all their towns and in Jerusalem, "Go out to the hills and bring branches of olive, wild olive, myrtle, palm, and other leafy trees to make booths, as it is written." 16 † So the people went out and brought them and made booths for themselves, each on his roof, and in their courts and in the courts of the house of God, and in the square at the Water Gate and in the square at the Gate of Ephraim. 17 † And all the assembly of those who had returned from the captivity made booths and lived in the booths, for from the days of Jeshua the son of Nun to that day the people of Israel had not done so. And there was very great rejoicing. 18 † And day by day, from the first day to the last day, he read from the Book of the Law of God. They kept the feast seven days, and on the eighth day there was a solemn assembly, according to the rule.

The People of Israel Confess Their Sin

9 [1]†Now on the twenty-fourth day of this month the people of Israel were assembled with fasting and in sackcloth, and with earth on their heads. [2]†And the Israelites separated themselves from all foreigners and stood and confessed their sins and the iniquities of their fathers. [3]†And they stood up in their place and read from the Book of the Law of the Lord their God for a quarter of the day; for another quarter of it they made confession and worshiped the Lord their God. [4]†On the stairs of the Levites stood Jeshua, Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Chenani; and they cried with a loud voice to the Lord their God. [5]Then the Levites, Jeshua, Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabneiah, Sherebiah, Hodiah, Shebaniah, and Pethahiah, said, "Stand up and bless the Lord your God from everlasting to everlasting. Blessed be your glorious name, which is exalted above all blessing and praise.

[6]†[2] "You are the Lord, you alone. You have made heaven, the heaven of heavens, with all their host, the earth and all that is on it, the seas and all that is in them; and you preserve all of them; and the host of heaven worships you. [7]†You are the Lord, the God who chose Abram and brought him out of Ur of the Chaldeans and gave him the name Abraham. [8]†You found his heart faithful before you, and made with him the covenant to give to his offspring the land of the Canaanite, the Hittite, the Amorite, the Perizzite, the Jebusite, and the Girgashite. And you have kept your promise, for you are righteous.

[9]"And you saw the affliction of our fathers in Egypt and heard their cry at the Red Sea, [10]†and performed signs and wonders against Pharaoh and all his servants and all the people of his land, for you knew that they acted arrogantly against our fathers. And you made a name for yourself, as it is to this day. [11]And you divided the sea before them, so that they went through the midst of the sea on dry land, and you cast their pursuers into the depths, as a stone into mighty waters. [12]By a pillar of cloud you led them in the day, and by a pillar of fire in the night to light for them the way in which they should go. [13]†You came down on Mount Sinai and spoke with them from heaven and gave them right rules and true laws, good statutes and commandments, 14 † and you made known to them your holy Sabbath and commanded them commandments and statutes and a law by Moses your servant. 15 † You gave them bread from heaven for their hunger and brought water for them out of the rock for their thirst, and you told them to go in to possess the land that you had sworn to give them.

16 † "But they and our fathers acted presumptuously and stiffened their neck and did not obey your commandments. 17 † They refused to obey and were not mindful of the wonders that you performed among them, but they stiffened their neck and appointed a leader to return to their slavery in Egypt. But you are a God ready to forgive, gracious and merciful, slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love, and did not forsake them. 18 Even when they had made for themselves a golden[1] calf and said, 'This is your God who brought you up out of Egypt,' and had committed great blasphemies, 19 you in your great mercies did not forsake them in the wilderness. The pillar of cloud to lead them in the way did not depart from them by day, nor the pillar of fire by night to light for them the way by which they should go. 20 † You gave your good Spirit to instruct them and did not withhold your manna from their mouth and gave them water for their thirst. 21 † Forty years you sustained them in the wilderness, and they lacked nothing. Their clothes did not wear out and their feet did not swell.

22 † "And you gave them kingdoms and peoples and allotted to them every corner. So they took possession of the land of Sihon king of Heshbon and the land of Og king of Bashan. 23 You multiplied their children as the stars of heaven, and you brought them into the land that you had told their fathers to enter and possess. 24 † So the descendants went in and possessed the land, and you subdued before them the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, and gave them into their hand, with their kings and the peoples of the land, that they might do with them as they would. 25 † And they captured fortified cities and a rich land, and took possession of houses full of all good things, cisterns already hewn, vineyards, olive orchards and fruit trees in abundance. So they ate and were filled and became fat and delighted themselves in your great goodness.

26 † "Nevertheless, they were disobedient and rebelled against you and cast your law behind their back and killed your prophets, who had warned them in order to turn them back to you, and they committed great blasphemies.

27 †Therefore you gave them into the hand of their enemies, who made them suffer. And in the time of their suffering they cried out to you and you heard them from heaven, and according to your great mercies you gave them saviors who saved them from the hand of their enemies. 28But after they had rest they did evil again before you, and you abandoned them to the hand of their enemies, so that they had dominion over them. Yet when they turned and cried to you, you heard from heaven, and many times you delivered them according to your mercies. 29 †And you warned them in order to turn them back to your law. Yet they acted presumptuously and did not obey your commandments, but sinned against your rules, which if a person does them, he shall live by them, and they turned a stubborn shoulder and stiffened their neck and would not obey. 30 †Many years you bore with them and warned them by your Spirit through your prophets. Yet they would not give ear. Therefore you gave them into the hand of the peoples of the lands.
31 †Nevertheless, in your great mercies you did not make an end of them or forsake them, for you are a gracious and merciful God.

32 † “Now, therefore, our God, the great, the mighty, and the awesome God, who keeps covenant and steadfast love, let not all the hardship seem little to you that has come upon us, upon our kings, our princes, our priests, our prophets, our fathers, and all your people, since the time of the kings of Assyria until this day. 33 †Yet you have been righteous in all that has come upon us, for you have dealt faithfully and we have acted wickedly. 34Our kings, our princes, our priests, and our fathers have not kept your law or paid attention to your commandments and your warnings that you gave them. 35Even in their own kingdom, and amid your great goodness that you gave them, and in the large and rich land that you set before them, they did not serve you or turn from their wicked works. 36 †Behold, we are slaves this day; in the land that you gave to our fathers to enjoy its fruit and its good gifts, behold, we are slaves. 37And its rich yield goes to the kings whom you have set over us because of our sins. They rule over our bodies and over our livestock as they please, and we are in great distress.

38 † [1] “Because of all this we make a firm covenant in writing; on the sealed document are the names of[2] our princes, our Levites, and our priests.

The People Who Sealed the Covenant

10 [1]† [3] “On the seals are the names of [4] Nehemiah the governor, the son of Hacaliah, Zedekiah, [2] † Seraiah, Azariah, Jeremiah, [3]Pashhur, Amariah, Malchijah, [4]Hattush, Shebaniah, Malluch, [5]Harim, Meremoth, Obadiah, [6]Daniel, Ginnethon, Baruch, [7]Meshullam, Abijah, Mijamin, [8]Maaziah, Bilgai, Shemaiah; these are the priests. [9]†And the Levites: Jeshua the son of Azaniah, Binnui of the sons of Henadad, Kadmiel; [10]and their brothers, Shebaniah, Hodiah, Kelita, Pelaiah, Hanan, [11]Mica, Rehob, Hashabiah, [12]Zaccur, Sherebiah, Shebaniah, [13]Hodiah, Bani, Beninu. [14]†The chiefs of the people: Parosh, Pahath-moab, Elam, Zattu, Bani, [15]Bunni, Azgad, Bebai, [16]Adonijah, Bigvai, Adin, [17]Ater, Hezekiah, Azzur, [18]Hodiah, Hashum, Bezai, [19]Hariph, Anathoth, Nebai, [20]Magpiash, Meshullam, Hezir, [21]Meshezabel, Zadok, Jaddua, [22]Pelatiah, Hanan, Anaiah, [23]Hoshea, Hananiah, Hasshub, [24]Hallohesh, Pilha, Shobek, [25]Rehum, Hashabnah, Maaseiah, [26]Ahiah, Hanan, Anan, [27]Malluch, Harim, Baanah.

The Obligations of the Covenant

28 † “The rest of the people, the priests, the Levites, the gatekeepers, the singers, the temple servants, and all who have separated themselves from the peoples of the lands to the Law of God, their wives, their sons, their daughters, all who have knowledge and understanding, 29 † join with their brothers, their nobles, and enter into a curse and an oath to walk in God’s Law that was given by Moses the servant of God, and to observe and do all the commandments of the Lord our Lord and his rules and his statutes.
30 † We will not give our daughters to the peoples of the land or take their daughters for our sons. 31 † And if the peoples of the land bring in goods or any grain on the Sabbath day to sell, we will not buy from them on the Sabbath or on a holy day. And we will forego the crops of the seventh year and the exaction of every debt.

32 † “We also take on ourselves the obligation to give yearly a third part of a shekel[1] for the service of the house of our God: 33 † for the showbread, the regular grain offering, the regular burnt offering, the Sabbaths, the new moons, the appointed feasts, the holy things, and the sin offerings to make atonement for Israel, and for all the work of the house of our God. 34 † We,
the priests, the Levites, and the people, have likewise cast lots for the wood offering, to bring it into the house of our God, according to our fathers’ houses, at times appointed, year by year, to burn on the altar of the Lord our God, as it is written in the Law. 35 † We obligate ourselves to bring the firstfruits of our ground and the firstfruits of all fruit of every tree, year by year, to the house of the Lord; 36 † also to bring to the house of our God, to the priests who minister in the house of our God, the firstborn of our sons and of our cattle, as it is written in the Law, and the firstborn of our herds and of our flocks; 37 † and to bring the first of our dough, and our contributions, the fruit of every tree, the wine and the oil, to the priests, to the chambers of the house of our God; and to bring to the Levites the tithes from our ground, for it is the Levites who collect the tithes in all our towns where we labor. 38 † And the priest, the son of Aaron, shall be with the Levites when the Levites receive the tithes. And the Levites shall bring up the tithe of the tithes to the house of our God, to the chambers of the storehouse. [39]†For the people of Israel and the sons of Levi shall bring the contribution of grain, wine, and oil to the chambers, where the vessels of the sanctuary are, as well as the priests who minister, and the gatekeepers and the singers. We will not neglect the house of our God.”

The Leaders in Jerusalem

11 [1]†Now the leaders of the people lived in Jerusalem. And the rest of the people cast lots to bring one out of ten to live in Jerusalem the holy city, while nine out of ten[2] remained in the other towns. [2]† And the people blessed all the men who willingly offered to live in Jerusalem.

[3]‡†These are the chiefs of the province who lived in Jerusalem; but in the towns of Judah everyone lived on his property in their towns: Israel, the priests, the Levites, the temple servants, and the descendants of Solomon's servants. [4]† And in Jerusalem lived certain of the sons of Judah and of the sons of Benjamin. Of the sons of Judah: Athaiah the son of Uzziah, son of Zechariah, son of Amariah, son of Shephatiah, son of Mahalalel, of the sons of Perez; [5]and Maaseiah the son of Baruch, son of Col-hozeh, son of Hazaiah, son of Adaiah, son of Joiarib, son of Zechariah, son of the Shilonite. [6]† All the sons of Perez who lived in Jerusalem were 468 valiant men.

[7]And these are the sons of Benjamin: Sallu the son of Meshullam, son of Joed, son of Pedaiah, son of Kolaiah, son of Maaseiah, son of Ithiel, son of Jeshaiah, [8]and his brothers, men of valor, 928.[1] [9]† Joel the son of Zichri was their overseer; and Judah the son of Hassenuah was second over the city.

[10]‡Of the priests: Jedaiah the son of Joiarib, Jachin, [11]† Seraiah the son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, ruler of the house of God, [12]and their brothers who did the work of the house, 822; and Adaiah the son of Jeroham, son of Pelaliah, son of Amzi, son of Zechariah, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah, [13]and his brothers, heads of fathers' houses, 242; and Amashsai, the son of Azarel, son of Ahzai, son of Meshillemoth, son of Immer, [14]† and their brothers, mighty men of valor, 128; their overseer was Zabdiel the son of Haggedolim.

[15]And of the Levites: Shemaiah the son of Hasshub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, son of Bunni; [16]† and Shabbethai and Jozabad, of the chiefs of the Levites, who were over the outside work of the house of God; [17]† and Mattaniah the son of Mica, son of Zabdi, son of Asaph, who was the leader of the praise,[2] who gave thanks, and Bakbukiah, the second among his brothers; and Abda the son of Shammua, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun.

18 All the Levites in the holy city were 284.

19 †The gatekeepers, Akkub, Talmon and their brothers, who kept watch at the gates, were 172. 20 † And the rest of Israel, and of the priests and the Levites, were in all the towns of Judah, every one in his inheritance. 21 ††But the temple servants lived on Ophel; and Ziha and Gishpa were over the temple servants.

22 The overseer of the Levites in Jerusalem was Uzzi the son of Bani, son of Hashabiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Mica, of the sons of Asaph, the singers, over the work of the house of God. 23 † For there was a command from the king concerning them, and a fixed provision for the singers, as every day required. 24 †And Pethahiah the son of Meshezabel, of the sons of Zerah the son of Judah, was at the king's side[3] in all matters concerning the people.

Villages Outside Jerusalem

25 And as for the villages, with their fields, some of the people of Judah lived in Kiriath-arba and its villages, and in Dibon and its villages, and in Jekabzeel and its villages, 26 and in Jeshua and in Moladah and Beth-pelet, 27 in Hazar-shual, in Beersheba and its villages, 28 in Ziklag, in Meconah and its villages, 29 in En-rimmon, in Zorah, in Jarmuth, 30 Zanoah, Adullam, and their villages, Lachish and its fields, and Azekah and its villages. So they encamped from Beersheba to the Valley of Hinnom.
31 The people of Benjamin also lived from Geba onward, at Michmash, Aija, Bethel and its villages, 32 Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah, 33 Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim, 34 Hadid, Zeboim, Neballat, 35 Lod, and Ono, the valley of craftsmen. 36 And certain divisions of the Levites in Judah were assigned to Benjamin.

Priests and Levites

12 [1] ‡ These are the priests and the Levites who came up with Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua: Seraiah, Jeremiah, Ezra, [2] Amariah, Malluch, Hattush, [3] Shecaniah, Rehum, Meremoth, [4] Iddo, Ginnethoi, Abijah, [5] Mijamin, Maadiah, Bilgah, [6] Shemaiah, Joiarib, Jedaiah, [7] Sallu, Amok, Hilkiah, Jedaiah. These were the chiefs of the priests and of their brothers in the days of Jeshua.

[8] ‡ And the Levites: Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, and Mattaniah, who with his brothers was in charge of the songs of thanksgiving. [9] † And Bakbukiah and Unni and their brothers stood opposite them in the service. [10] ‡ And Jeshua was the father of Joiakim, Joiakim the father of Eliashib, Eliashib the father of Joiada, [11] Joiada the father of Jonathan, and Jonathan the father of Jaddua.

[12] ‡ † And in the days of Joiakim were priests, heads of fathers' houses: of Seraiah, Meraiah; of Jeremiah, Hananiah; [13] of Ezra, Meshullam; of Amariah, Jehohanan; [14] of Malluchi, Jonathan; of Shebaniah, Joseph; [15] of Harim, Adna; of Meraioth, Helkai; [16] of Iddo, Zechariah; of Ginnethon, Meshullam; [17] of Abijah, Zichri; of Miniamin, of Moadiah, Piltai; [18] of Bilgah, Shammua; of Shemaiah, Jehonathan; [19] of Joiarib, Mattenai; of Jedaiah, Uzzi; [20] of Sallai, Kallai; of Amok, Eber; [21] of Hilkiah, Hashabiah; of Jedaiah, Nethanel.

[22] † In the days of Eliashib, Joiada, Johanan, and Jaddua, the Levites were recorded as heads of fathers' houses; so too were the priests in the reign of Darius the Persian. [23] As for the sons of Levi, their heads of fathers' houses were written in the Book of the Chronicles until the days of Johanan the son of Eliashib. [24] † And the chiefs of the Levites: Hashabiah, Sherebiah, and Jeshua the son of Kadmiel, with their brothers who stood opposite them, to praise and to give thanks, according to the commandment of David the man of God, watch by watch. [25] † Mattaniah, Bakbukiah, Obadiah, Meshullam, Talmon, and Akkub were gatekeepers standing guard at the storehouses of the gates. [26] † These were in the days of Joiakim the son of Jeshua son of Jozadak, and in the days of Nehemiah the governor and of Ezra, the priest and scribe.

Dedication of the Wall

27 †And at the dedication of the wall of Jerusalem they sought the Levites in all their places, to bring them to Jerusalem to celebrate the dedication with gladness, with thanksgivings and with singing, with cymbals, harps, and lyres. 28 †And the sons of the singers gathered together from the district surrounding Jerusalem and from the villages of the Netophathites; 29 †also from Beth-gilgal and from the region of Geba and Azmaveth, for the singers had built for themselves villages around Jerusalem. 30 †And the priests and the Levites purified themselves, and they purified the people and the gates and the wall.

31 †Then I brought the leaders of Judah up onto the wall and appointed two great choirs that gave thanks. One went to the south on the wall to the Dung Gate. 32 And after them went Hoshaiah and half of the leaders of Judah, 33 and Azariah, Ezra, Meshullam, 34 Judah, Benjamin, Shemaiah, and Jeremiah, 35 and certain of the priests' sons with trumpets: Zechariah the son of Jonathan, son of Shemaiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Micaiah, son of Zaccur, son of Asaph; 36 † and his relatives, Shemaiah, Azarel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethanel, Judah, and Hanani, with the musical instruments of David the man of God. And Ezra the scribe went before them. 37 †At the Fountain Gate they went up straight before them by the stairs of the city of David, at the ascent of the wall, above the house of David, to the Water Gate on the east.

38 †The other choir of those who gave thanks went to the north, and I followed them with half of the people, on the wall, above the Tower of the Ovens, to the Broad Wall, 39 †and above the Gate of Ephraim, and by the Gate of Yeshanah,[1] and by the Fish Gate and the Tower of Hananel and the Tower of the Hundred, to the Sheep Gate; and they came to a halt at the Gate of the Guard. 40 †So both choirs of those who gave thanks stood in the house of God, and I and half of the officials with me; 41 and the priests Eliakim, Maaseiah, Miniamin, Micaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, and Hananiah, with trumpets; 42 and Maaseiah, Shemaiah, Eleazar, Uzzi, Jehohanan, Malchijah, Elam, and Ezer. And the singers sang with Jezrahiah as their leader. 43 †And they offered great sacrifices that day and rejoiced, for God had made them rejoice with great joy; the women and children also rejoiced. And the joy of Jerusalem was heard far away.

Service at the Temple

44 ‡ † On that day men were appointed over the storerooms, the contributions, the firstfruits, and the tithes, to gather into them the portions required by the Law for the priests and for the Levites according to the fields of the towns, for Judah rejoiced over the priests and the Levites who ministered. 45 † And they performed the service of their God and the service of purification, as did the singers and the gatekeepers, according to the command of David and his son Solomon. 46 † For long ago in the days of David and Asaph there were directors of the singers, and there were songs[2] of praise and thanksgiving to God. 47 † And all Israel in the days of Zerubbabel and in the days of Nehemiah gave the daily portions for the singers and the gatekeepers; and they set apart that which was for the Levites; and the Levites set apart that which was for the sons of Aaron.

Nehemiah’s Final Reforms

13 [1]On that day they read from the Book of Moses in the hearing of the people. And in it was found written that no Ammonite or Moabite should ever enter the assembly of God, [2]for they did not meet the people of Israel with bread and water, but hired Balaam against them to curse them—yet our God turned the curse into a blessing. [3]As soon as the people heard the law, they separated from Israel all those of foreign descent.

[4] Now before this, Eliashib the priest, who was appointed over the chambers of the house of our God, and who was related to Tobiah, [5]prepared for Tobiah a large chamber where they had previously put the grain offering, the frankincense, the vessels, and the tithes of grain, wine, and oil, which were given by commandment to the Levites, singers, and gatekeepers, and the contributions for the priests. [6]While this was taking place, I was not in Jerusalem, for in the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes king of Babylon I went to the king. And after some time I asked leave of the king [7]and came to Jerusalem, and I then discovered the evil that Eliashib had done for Tobiah, preparing for him a chamber in the courts of the house of God. [8]And I was very angry, and I threw all the household furniture of Tobiah out of the chamber. [9]Then I gave orders, and they cleansed the chambers, and I brought back there the vessels of the house of God, with the grain offering and the frankincense.

[10]I also found out that the portions of the Levites had not been given to them, so that the Levites and the singers, who did the work, had fled each to his field. [11]So I confronted the officials and said, “Why is the house of God forsaken?” And I gathered them together and set them in their stations.
[12]Then all Judah brought the tithe of the grain, wine, and oil into the storehouses. [13] And I appointed as treasurers over the storehouses Shelemiah the priest, Zadok the scribe, and Pedaiah of the Levites, and as their assistant Hanan the son of Zaccur, son of Mattaniah, for they were considered reliable, and their duty was to distribute to their brothers.
[14]Remember me, O my God, concerning this, and do not wipe out my good deeds that I have done for the house of my God and for his service.

15 † In those days I saw in Judah people treading winepresses on the Sabbath, and bringing in heaps of grain and loading them on donkeys, and also wine, grapes, figs, and all kinds of loads, which they brought into Jerusalem on the Sabbath day. And I warned them on the day when they sold food. 16 † Tyrians also, who lived in the city, brought in fish and all kinds of goods and sold them on the Sabbath to the people of Judah, in Jerusalem itself! 17 † Then I confronted the nobles of Judah and said to them,
"What is this evil thing that you are doing, profaning the Sabbath day?
18 † Did not your fathers act in this way, and did not our God bring all this disaster[1] on us and on this city? Now you are bringing more wrath on Israel by profaning the Sabbath."

19 † As soon as it began to grow dark at the gates of Jerusalem before the Sabbath, I commanded that the doors should be shut and gave orders that they should not be opened until after the Sabbath. And I stationed some of my servants at the gates, that no load might be brought in on the Sabbath day. 20 Then the merchants and sellers of all kinds of wares lodged outside Jerusalem once or twice. 21 † But I warned them and said to them, "Why do you lodge outside the wall? If you do so again, I will lay hands on you."
From that time on they did not come on the Sabbath. 22 † Then I commanded the Levites that they should purify themselves and come and guard the gates, to keep the Sabbath day holy. Remember this also in my favor, O my God, and spare me according to the greatness of your steadfast love.

23 † In those days also I saw the Jews who had married women of Ashdod, Ammon, and Moab. 24 † And half of their children spoke the language of Ashdod, and they could not speak the language of Judah, but only the language of each people. 25 † And I confronted them and cursed them and beat some of them and pulled out their hair. And I made them take oath in the name of God, saying, "You shall not give your daughters to their sons, or take their daughters for your sons or for yourselves. 26 Did not Solomon king of Israel sin on account of such women? Among the many nations there was no king like him, and he was beloved by his God, and God made him king over all Israel. Nevertheless, foreign women made even him to sin. 27 Shall we then listen to you and do all this great evil and act treacherously against our God by marrying foreign women?"

28 † And one of the sons of Jehoiada, the son of Eliashib the high priest, was the son-in-law of Sanballat the Horonite. Therefore I chased him from me. 29 † Remember them, O my God, because they have desecrated the priesthood and the covenant of the priesthood and the Levites.
30 † Thus I cleansed them from everything foreign, and I established the duties of the priests and Levites, each in his work; 31 † and I provided for the wood offering at appointed times, and for the firstfruits.
Remember me, O my God, for good.

Introduction to Nehemiah

Reading Nehemiah

Although work had ceased, dust continued to rise, stirred by the evening breeze. The dust caked a workman's sweaty brow. As he surveyed the destruction of the walls and the amount of work left to complete them, tears welled in his eyes and rolled down his dusty cheeks, creating glistening streams of sorrow. He faced the setting sun imagining that Jerusalem would never be rebuilt, wondering whether this was the sunset for his people or the darkness before dawn.

Around the dark hilltop of Jerusalem walked Nehemiah, a Judean who had risen to authority in the Persian Empire. His energy, sincerity, and leadership were literally a Godsend to the Judeans trying to recover and restore their once great capital, Jerusalem. Nehemiah illustrates the need for godly leadership and how the Lord constantly hears and answers the cries of His people. Nehemiah's story will inspire you to pray, organize, and overcome.

Luther on Nehemiah

The word of God—that Jerusalem should be restored and built—went forth in the second year of Darius, about the time that Nehemiah came from Cambyses and began to rebuild Jerusalem, etc. For this was a great event, begun by many—and even promoted by angels, as Zechariah 1[:7–17] declares—yet not by everybody at once on the same day or at the same hour [Ezra 1–6]. (AE 35:304)

The church is the work of God's hands, and His children are His cultivation. "Therefore [God says] command Me. You cannot bring the matter to a successful issue. I will do it. Believe Me." Ezra and Nehemiah carefully read these words of comfort and consoled the people and the king by means of the Word. Let God handle the matter, He will do it properly. (AE 17:129–30)

I fear the time will come when schoolmasters, pastors, and preachers alike will have to quit, let the word go, and turn to a trade or some other means of stilling the pangs of hunger; just as the Levites had to abandon the worship of God to till the fields, as Nehemiah writes [Neh. 13:10]. Isn't it a crying shame? Up to now, a town with four or five hundred population could turn over to the mendicant monks alone the equivalent of five, six, or seven hundred gulden, besides what bishops, officials, and other bloodsuckers, together with beggars and relic hawkers, have already wrung from them…. But when they are asked to contribute one or two hundred gulden toward good schools and pulpits, they cry, "You would reduce us to rags and make beggars of us! We would have nothing left"; then covetousness and concern for livelihood take over, and the people think they will die of hunger. (AE 45:318–19)

Challenges for Readers

Relationship to Chronicles, Ezra, and Esther. See pp 719–21.

Nehemiah's Zeal. After decades in exile, Nehemiah and other people of Judah returned to their homeland with a new passion against breaches of the Law. The harsh conditions amid the rubble of Jerusalem demanded harsh discipline. Nehemiah pushed the Judeans to complete the walls of Jerusalem under danger of attack (ch 4). When the people of the land continued to intermarry with foreigners—worshipers of other gods—Nehemiah responded forcefully because he feared that the people would fall into idolatry again (ch 13). Nehemiah's violent outburst against lawbreakers (13:25) does not set the best example for us. But his discipline, humility, prayer, and commitment to God's Word are examples of excellent leadership.

Divorces from Foreigners. A confusing situation, found in Ezra and Nehemiah, is the marriage of some Judeans to non-Judeans. Ezra and Nehemiah insist that such marriages end, even counseling divorce from the foreign women. Such passages should not be used to justify divorce today. They involve particular laws of the OT, which forbade certain marriages for Israelites generally and for priests in particular. (See notes, Ezr 9:1–2; 10:3.) The apostle Paul addresses the issues raised by such marriages under the new covenant (see note, 1Co 7:12–13).

Blessings for Readers

Nehemiah, a faithful layman, gives all God's people a remarkable example of courage and leadership. As you study the Book of Nehemiah, consider how the Lord not only preserved His people during the exile but also replanted them in the Holy Land against incredible odds through servants like Nehemiah. He did these things out of love for them and for you—to keep His promise to send a Savior for all people.

- Passion for the Prophets

I confronted them and cursed them," wrote Nehemiah, "and beat some of them and pulled out their hair" (Ne 13:25). After decades in exile, Nehemiah and the other people of Judah returned to their homeland with a new passion against breaches of the Law. This new passion represented a dramatic change in their religion.

Before the exile in Babylon, the prophets seemed to preach to deaf ears. For the most part, the people did not heed their impassioned message of repentance. But through suffering and disappointments, through the persistent word of the prophets, the people of Judah (from which we get the word Judaism) returned to their homeland zealous for purity amidst the lawlessness of the nations. In the hope that they would never again suffer exile, the Judean people passionately followed the teachings of the Law and the Prophets.

Scribes and Scrolls

Before the exile in Babylon, the Israelite Bible consisted of "the book," the Law of God ("Torah")—the five books recorded by the prophet Moses (8:8). After the exile, scribes such as Ezra collected the writings of the prophets, preserving them for public reading and study (8:13; this work would include the books of the "Former Prophets" and the "Latter Prophets"; see pp 1077–83). They laid the foundation for the Judaic synagogue gatherings in Jesus' day.

The scribes preserved the passionate preaching of the prophets. The harsh conditions amid the rubble of Jerusalem demanded harsh discipline. For example, as Nehemiah and the people labored to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem, false prophets opposed them and prophesied against them (6:10–14). When the people of the land continued to marry foreigners—worshipers of other gods—Nehemiah and Ezra responded forcefully (Ezr 10; Ne 13:23–29). They feared that the people would fall into idolatry again.

Foreign Tongues

An important feature of Nehemiah's zeal had to do with languages. He noted that when Judean people married foreigners, many of their children grew up speaking a foreign language (13:23–24). The children would not grow up hearing and reading the message of the prophets in the Hebrew language. He saw in these marriages the destruction of God's people. Even a son of the high priest had married the daughter of Sanballat, a Babylonian governor in Samaria (13:28).

In an effort to remain faithful to the message of the prophets, Nehemiah drove the high priest's son out of Jerusalem. He cursed the people who married foreigners and demanded that they take an oath not to let their sons and daughters marry outsiders. His zeal for the Law and concern for cultural boundaries became a characteristic of later Judaism. His concern about foreign languages was the beginning of a long debate in Judaism about which language was appropriate for prayer. Many rabbis came to regard Hebrew as the language of the temple and the only language appropriate for prayer. Like Nehemiah, they wanted to preserve the original language of the prophets.

A Message for All Nations

Harsh times demand harsh measures. Who can fault Nehemiah's zeal or concern for purity in the wake of a national tragedy such as the destruction of Jerusalem? However, the message of the prophets was about more than purity. The prophets foresaw the repentance of all nations (Is 2:1–5). Instead of fearing the inclusion of outsiders, the prophets anticipated a day when God would gather people of all nations and all languages to Himself (Ps 102:12–22). They preached a message of repentance and forgiveness for all people.

Thanks be to God, this message has circled the globe to reach your ears and call you to faith in Jesus Christ. Today, the Gospel of Jesus has reached almost every nation. The message of the prophets has been translated into thousands of languages.

Don't settle for simply reading and studying the Prophets. Look for opportunities to share that message of freedom and forgiveness with those who have not yet heard or believed. Support the preaching of the Gospel in your area and among the nations.

Whereas Nehemiah rebuked his countrymen and called down curses on them for marrying foreigners, we praise God and bless Him for delivering His forgiveness to foreigners. Each time you gather with God's people, call down His blessing upon them and your community. Rejoice in the forgiveness and new life available to you and all people through Christ, the Savior.

Study Notes

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 1:1 Nehemiah. Means "the Lord has comforted." Prominent man exiled from Judah; served as cupbearer (v 11) to Persia's King Artaxerxes I (464–424 BC) and was later appointed governor of Judah (5:14). Chislev. Nov/Dec. See calendar, p 262. twentieth year. Of the reign of Artaxerxes I (2:1); 444 BC. Some 12 years intervene between the end of the Book of Ezra and this chapter. Artaxerxes I was the son of Ahasuerus, the ruler noted in Ezr 4:6 and Est. I was. Parts of the Book of Nehemiah are written in the first person; these are sometimes referred to as "Nehemiah's Memoirs." Susa. Located in what is now southern Iran; capital of ancient Elam, c 200 mi E of Babylon. Cf Dn 8:2; see map, p 609. Persian kings used Susa as a winter residence.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 1:2 Hanani. Nehemiah's brother; one of a group that brought a firsthand report of conditions in Judah. Judah. A province of the Persian Empire (v 3; see note, Ezr 2:1). Jews. Judeans. See note, Ezr 4:12. escaped ... survived the exile. Exiles from Judah who had left Babylon and successfully returned to Judah.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 1:3 trouble and shame. Despite the previous work of Ezra (Ezr 7–10), conditions in Judah were still far from ideal. The remnant living there was mocked by enemies and hindered in their rebuilding efforts (Ezr 4:7–23). destroyed. Walls and gates of Jerusalem had not been repaired since their destruction 140 years earlier by the Babylonians.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 1:1–3 Nehemiah recalls the report about Jerusalem that prompted his decision to travel there and assist God's people. Today, as you hear of other people's needs, take them to heart as a matter of prayer and concern. Your gracious Savior, who knows and bears all your cares, will likewise care for you as you support your brothers and sisters in Christ. • O Lord, hear my plea for those in need, and grant me a heart ready to serve them. Amen.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 1:4 sat down. Usual posture when a person "wept and mourned" (cf Jb 2:13; Ps 137:1). See p 1277. wept. Because of the remnant's "great trouble and shame" (v 3). fasting. Refraining from food was meant to heighten feelings of shame and self-denial and so enhance humble prayer. See note, Lv 16:29. praying. In abject humility, Nehemiah implored God in a prayer similar to Ezra's (Ezr 9:6–15). Though a layperson and not a scribe or priest, he couched his prayer in phrases and sentences from Scripture, particularly from Dt.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 1:5 God of heaven. Address to the Ruler of nations was appropriate, because Nehemiah's prayer dealt with an international situation, as did Abraham's prayer many centuries earlier (Gn 24:7). steadfast love. See note, Dt 7:9; see also p 843.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 1:6 we. Nehemiah, a high-ranking political figure, identified himself with his downtrodden people in confessing his sins and theirs (cf Ezr 9:7).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 1:7 very corruptly. List of curses in Dt 27:15–26 suggests ways in which the people had acted corruptly. commandments ... statutes ... rules. See p 971.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 1:8–9 Quotation here is not a specific verse in the Book of Moses but is a summary of Mosaic teaching in such passages as Lv 26:33–45; Dt 4:27–31; 30:1–4.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 1:9 place that I have chosen. The Lord selected Jerusalem as the place where His name would dwell (1Ki 14:21; Is 8:18).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 1:10 redeemed. Refers to the exodus from Egypt (Ex 6:6). See p 843. hand. See p 842.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 1:11 fear. See note, Dt 4:10; see also p 1001. Your name. See note, Ex 6:3. man. King Artaxerxes I, whose permission Nehemiah needed to journey to Jerusalem. cupbearer. Nehemiah was more than a wine steward at the royal table; he was an important official. The king relied on him for protection against assassination by poisoning (cf Gn 40:21; 1Ki 10:5).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 1:4–11 On behalf of those struggling in Jerusalem, Nehemiah fasts and prays with great empathy as guided by God's Word. God's Word grants confidence in prayer. As you call on the Lord to confess your sins and to plead for others, use God's promises as your guide, for all His promises to you are "Yes" and "Amen" in Christ the Savior. • Holy Spirit, increase in me the desire to know the Word and to pray according to it in all things. Amen.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:1 Nisan. Mar/Apr. See calendar, p 262. twentieth year. See note, 1:1. More than three months passed before Nehemiah had a good opportunity to request permission from King Artaxerxes to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem. The king had previously issued a decree that the city not be rebuilt (Ezr 4:21). This decree would have to be reversed. Nehemiah also had to observe the rule of the Persian court that no one was to speak unless first spoken to by the king. Nehemiah wanted to do nothing that might jeopardize the cause he was about to champion. wine was before him. Probably a banquet was taking place, where a large container of wine was present. Nehemiah would draw the wine for the king.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:2 sad. Court personnel were usually cheery in the king's presence (v 1). nothing. King could have suspected Nehemiah was hiding an evil plot against him, but such a concern is quickly dismissed (cf v 3). afraid. Nehemiah likely feared that the king suspected him of harboring thoughts of a rebellion and that he might be put to death if he presented his request. Cf Gn 40:1–2.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:3 fathers' graves. Nehemiah did not mention Jerusalem by name because its enemies branded the city a hotbed of "rebellion and sedition" (Ezr 4:19). Rather, he diplomatically referred to it as an ancestral burial place that needed to be preserved from desecration (v 5; 3:16).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:4 requesting? Nehemiah was given permission to state his concern. prayed. He had time to send heavenward a quick sigh for help. Throughout his career, Nehemiah remained a man of prayer (1:4–11; 4:4; 5:19; 6:9, 14; 13:14).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:5 rebuild. Nehemiah dared to ask Artaxerxes to reverse his previous decree (Ezr 4:21). The request was risky because the king could be convinced that rebuilding Jerusalem's walls was the first step in a conspiracy to end Persian control.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:6 queen. Mention of her suggests that perhaps she was to some extent responsible for the king's favorable reply. Cf Est, which describes the reign of Artaxerxes' father, and the influence wielded by women at the Persian court.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:7 letters. Served as passports. Example from Nehemiah's era was discovered in a leather postbag, providing for travel from Babylon to Damascus. Beyond the River. See note, Ezr 4:10.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:8 forest. Possibly the forest of Lebanon that supplied lumber for Solomon's buildings as well as for structures at the Persian court. fortress of the temple. May have included the Tower of Hananel and the Tower of the Hundred (3:1). Perhaps occupied the same site, north of the temple, as the Hasmonean citadel (1Macc 13:52). good hand of my God. See note, Ezr 7:6. Luth: "Where the king himself, where Ezra and Nehemiah, proclaimed clouds and consolations, there the earth was opened, and many Israelites arose as from sleep and saw that a state of safety had returned and the earth was sprouting righteousness. No one can understand this result of prayer unless he has been so deeply afflicted by trials that he sighs with unutterable groaning. Let everyone apply this text to his own trials" (AE 17:126–27).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:1–8 Nehemiah asks for an opportunity to help rebuild his homeland, and the king answers favorably, because God is guiding the matter. God's hand is constantly at work in history, though we rarely can foresee and determine what He will do. Pray that the Lord will work for the good of His people even now. His hand is on His children to guide them with the love He has for them in Christ. • Take my hand, O Lord, and lead me in the way of life. Amen.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:9 Beyond the River. See note, Ezr 4:10. letters. See note, v 7.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:10 Sanballat. Probably governor of Samaria, one of the governors who received the king's letters (v 9). Mentioned by Judeans in Elephantine Egypt as one who petitioned the governor of Judah regarding the rebuilding of the temple of "Yaho" (i.e., Yahweh). He had a Babylonian name and is called a Horonite, perhaps because he was a descendant of the foreigners settled by the Assyrians in Beth-horon, c 12 mi NW of Jerusalem. See map, p 534. Tobiah. Means "the Lord is good." Ammonite servant. May have been Sanballat's assistant or the king's servant as governor of Ammon, a land east of the Jordan. See color map 3. displeased. Sanballat and Tobiah saw their power and prestige threatened if Jerusalem were again fortified and became the center of a separate province, headed by a governor.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:11 Jerusalem. Excavations have discovered settlements, but only within the city of David (south end of Jerusalem). See color map 1.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:12 night ... few men. Nehemiah wanted to inspect the walls as inconspicuously as possible because opposition was already developing. what my God had put into my heart. Nehemiah attributed to God his burning desire to serve his countrymen. See the report

(1:3) and the promise (1:9) by which God moved him. no animal. Nehemiah did all he could to avoid detection.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:13–15 Impossible to locate with certainty the gates, spring, and pool. Nehemiah left by the Valley Gate, which was in the west wall and opened into the Tyropeon Valley (see note, 2Ch 26:9). Proceeding southward, he passed the Dragon Spring (location unknown) and the Dung Gate at the extreme south end of the wall. Turning north, he came to the Fountain Gate, perhaps located near a spring named En-rogel (see note, 1Ki 1:9). Next, he came to the King's Pool, apparently another name for the Pool of Siloam (or Shelah; 3:15). The path close to the ruins grew so impassable that he was forced to continue through the Kidron Valley before turning back and entering again at the Valley Gate. These extensive ruins, likewise noted by archaeologists, show the great destruction brought by the Babylonian conquest. See map, p 548.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:16 Jews. Judeans. See note, Ezr 4:12. who were to do the work. Those whose help Nehemiah planned to enlist were not yet aware of his rebuilding project.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:17 suffer derision. From people such as Sanballat, Tobiah, and other outsiders living in the area (4:4; 5:9).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:18 strengthened their hands. With an emotional determination to rebuild the walls.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:19 Geshem. Chieftain of desert tribes in northern Arabia who aligned himself with Sanballat and Tobiah. jeered. Cf v 10. rebelling against the king? Obviously a false charge.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:20 God of heaven. See note, Ezr 1:2. you have no portion or right or claim in Jerusalem. Declaration of independence on behalf of Judah. Nehemiah rejected outside intervention in any form, just as Zerubbabel had rejected the Samaritan offer to help build the temple (Ezr 4:1–3).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 2:9–20 The Word moves Nehemiah's heart to begin plans for rebuilding Jerusalem's walls. As you read God's Word, recognize that He will move you as well to serve Him and His people. Studying the Word is never an end in itself, because the purpose of the Word is to console you in Christ and equip you by the Holy Spirit. • Console and equip me this day, dear Savior, to overcome all obstacles to Your good and gracious will. Amen.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 3 This account of the repair and rebuilding of the walls of Jerusalem lists the names of many individuals and the specific places where they worked. The 41 work details represent various social and professional classes: the high priest and other priests, goldsmiths and perfumers, rulers of districts, Levites, temple servants, merchants. This is an important source of information for the political and social life of Judah in fifth century BC. From it, we have a better understanding of the geography of Jerusalem, though the exact location of the 9 gates and 18 other features mentioned cannot be identified with absolute certainty. However, enough of the topography is known to establish that the walls on the four sides of the city are described in the following order: north wall (vv 1–5), west wall (vv 6–12), south wall (vv 13–14), east wall (vv 15–32). The original line of the east wall had to be abandoned and a new wall built on the ridge overlooking the Kidron Valley. See map, p 548. The systematic manner of the project reflects Nehemiah's stature and character. Also deserving recognition is the way the people shouted enthusiastically, "Let us … build" (2:18), which showed they actually "had a mind to work" (4:6).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:1 Sheep Gate. Near the temple at the northeast corner of the city. Sheep to be sacrificed were driven through this gate. The survey of other sections of the wall begins here and proceeds in a counterclockwise direction around the city, ending where it began (v 32). consecrated. Gate received a priestly blessing because of its significant use. See p 6. Tower of the Hundred … Tower of Hananel. Probably guarded the north wall, direction from which attacks would most likely come.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:2 Jericho. 15 mi NE of Jerusalem in the Jordan Valley. See color map 1.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:3 Fish Gate. In the north wall, perhaps where a fish market was located. See note, Zep 1:10.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:5 Tekoites. From Tekoa, 10 mi S of Jerusalem, home of Amos (Am 1:1). Cf v 27. would not stoop. Possibly Geshem the Arab (2:19) had influenced them not to help. Lord. Refers either to the Lord God or to an earthly lord such as Nehemiah (see ESV note).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:6 Gate of Yeshanah. Northwest corner; sometimes translated "Old Gate" (see ESV note).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:7 Gibeon. C 6 mi NW of Jerusalem. See color map 1. Mizpah. Near Gibeon; Babylonian administrative center of Judah following the destruction of Jerusalem in 587 BC (Jer 40:10, 12).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:8 Broad Wall. Location unknown. May be a separate wall running to the west.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:9 ruler of half the district. Apparently the province was divided into five districts (see ESV note), which were further subdivided.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:11 Tower of the Ovens. Along the west wall; used either for baking or firing pottery.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:13 Valley Gate … Dung Gate. See note, 2:13–15.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:15 Fountain Gate ... Pool of Shelah. See note, 2:13–15. king's garden. Perhaps planned by King Hezekiah (2Ki 20:20). stairs that go down. Steps probably led down from Ophel (see note, v 26) through the Fountain Gate to En-rogel (2:13–15).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:16 tombs of David. Where kings in David's family were buried. house of the mighty men. Meaning uncertain. See note, Ru 2:1.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:17 Levites. Temple workers. See note, Ezr 8:20. district of Keilah. 20 mi SW of Jerusalem.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:19 armory at the buttress. Storage place for weapons, perhaps located at an abutment projecting from the east wall.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:20–22 house of Eliashib. Private dwelling along the east wall (v 1).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:23 Azariah. One with this name is listed among the Levites who helped the people understand the Law (8:7)
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:25 house of the king. Probably refers to area where royal palace once stood.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:26 Ophel. Knoll on hill where original city of David stood, south of the temple area (2Sm 5:9; 2Ch 33:14). Water Gate. Entrance in the east wall that probably led to Gihon Spring.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:27 Tekoites. See note, v 5.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:28 Horse Gate. Entrance for cavalry; overlooked Kidron Valley. his own house. Priests living in this area each worked near his own house.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:30 his chamber. He probably lived in one room. See note, 2Sm 18:33.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:31 Muster Gate. Near north end of the east wall, perhaps the place where the temple or palace guard assembled (2Ch 32:6). upper chamber. May have been a lookout point with a good view to the north.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 3:32 Sheep Gate. See note, v 1.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 3 The Judeans eagerly begin work on the walls and gates of Jerusalem under Nehemiah's able leadership. God's people still today have civic duties to fulfill, sharing in the burdens of their family and neighbors. As the Lord gives you strength, support the good works of others, which creates life and improves its quality. The Lord Jesus, who passed through the gates of Jerusalem, will sanctify your service through the blessings of His Word and in answer to your prayers. • Open to me, O Lord, the gates of heaven, that I may enter there by Your grace alone. Amen.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:1 Sanballat ... angry ... and he jeered. See note, 2:10. Jews. Judeans. See note, Ezr 4:12.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:2 army. Militia that Sanballat probably commanded. Samaria. C 40 mi N of Jerusalem; former capital of Northern Kingdom and now the Persian administrative center. See color map 1. What are these feeble ... burned ones at that? Sanballat inferred that it would take a miracle for the Judeans to achieve their goal of rebuilding the walls.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:3 Tobiah. See note, 2:10. a fox ... will break. Ridicule.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:4–5 Hear, O our God. Nehemiah's prayer put the ridicule of the adversaries into sharp contrast with his trust in God. Opposition to work enjoined by God is defiance of His will and comes under His curse. People of strong faith ask God to break and hinder "every evil plan and purpose of the devil, the world, and our sinful nature, which do not want us to hallow God's name or let His kingdom come" (SC, Third Petition, p xxxviii).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:6 The taunts of the enemies (vv 2–3) did not stop work on the wall as segments were linked together to form an unbroken circuit around the city. half its height. Full height of finished wall is not reported.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:7 Ashdodites. Inhabitants of Philistine city of Ashdod, 35 mi W of Jerusalem. See color map 1.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:8 fight. Likely by guerrilla attacks. They hardly would have risked open warfare in defiance of "the king's letters" (2:9).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:9 prayed … and set. Illustration of Latin proverb ora et labora ("pray and work").
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:10–11 Strength of the workers was spent, and fear of enemy attacks nearly paralyzed them.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:10 In Judah it was said. Or, "people of Judah said."
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:12 Jews. Judeans. See note, Ezr 4:12. lived near them. Builders who came from nearby towns. You must return to us. Because of the danger to their lives.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:13 open places. Cleared of rubble. stationed the people. Nehemiah placed guards in walled areas, but near breaches in the walls (cf v 7), to prevent enemies from entering. clans. Family groups. See pp 54–55.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:14 Remember the Lord. Nehemiah encouraged his work crew to fight hard, knowing that the powerful Lord was with them.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:1–14 The weary and wary Judeans support one another with the counsel of Nehemiah. Today, do not let the taunts of unbelievers or naysayers keep you from fulfilling your calling. The great and powerful Lord—He who stooped to bear our burdens and save us in Christ—is with you in your work. • Great and awesome Lord, I remember and praise Your good works. Work on my behalf, O Lord, that I may fulfill Your purpose for me. Amen.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:16 servants. Probably Nehemiah's personal servants who formed a kind of militia (v 21; 5:15–16).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:17 Those carting away rubble also carried weapons.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:18 sword. Short sword, which we might regard as a long knife, that would not impede the work. trumpet. Bugler stood beside Nehemiah, ready to rally reinforcements to the point of attack (v 20). See p 993.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:21 half of them. Refers to Nehemiah's servants (v 16).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:22 within Jerusalem. Nonresidents (cf v 12) capable of bearing arms were ordered to stay overnight in Jerusalem rather than going to their own homes.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:23 none … took off our clothes. To bathe or rest. weapon at his right hand. Nehemiah and his close companions set an example of vigilance.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 4:15–23 Nehemiah encourages ever more vigilant service by reminding the workers that "our God will fight for us." Whether the struggle is physical, mental, or spiritual, the Lord rallies to our side. Enact every sound plan with confidence in His blessing. Just as He overcame Satan at the cross, He will overcome the obstacles you, too, may face. • Grant me full confidence in Your will, O Lord, that I may take the battle to my enemies with boldness. Amen.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:1 outcry of the people and of their wives. Families of common people were being oppressed by economic practices of nobles and officials (v 7). Jewish brothers. Fellow Judeans. See note, Ezr 4:12.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:2 get grain. Perhaps the time spent working on the walls took farmers away from raising crops, or there may have been several bad harvests resulting in a famine (v 3).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:3 mortgaging our fields. Necessary in order for the poor to buy food.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:4 king's tax. Aram word translated "tribute" in Ezr 4:13; 7:24. Levied by the Persian king on subjugated peoples.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:5 our flesh … our children. Both rich and poor were Judeans. enslaved. Families were forced to sell their children as slaves in order to pay debts or buy food. See note, Mt 18:25.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:6 Social and economic inequities (vv 1–5) deeply troubled Nehemiah and threatened the stability of the community.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:7 took counsel with myself. Mulled over in his mind what to do. interest. For the injunction against taking interest, see note, Lv 25:36. assembly. Mass meeting of all the people (Ezr 10:1).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:8 bought back. Nehemiah and other leaders such as Ezra had brought Judeans back from captivity in Babylon.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:9 prevent the taunts of the nations. Social inequities found in Judah invited ridicule of neighboring nations.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:10 lending. Nehemiah set an example by lending money and grain without charging interest (v 7).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:11 percentage. Interest paid on money that had been loaned was to be returned.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:12 priests. They witnessed oaths sworn by nobles and officials. See p 228.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:13 shook out the fold. Used like a pocket. See note, Ex 28:16. Nehemiah's words interpret the meaning of this symbolic gesture, calling on God to punish anyone who broke his promise. praised the LORD. Spontaneous outpouring of praise because of the favorable outcome of the assembly.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:1–13 Governor Nehemiah addresses the problems caused by excessive interest rates and taxes and sets an example of generosity for the leaders. In politics, words are cheap but goodwill is rare and good deeds are rarer still. When people are unfairly burdened, we can follow Nehemiah's example by relieving them, whether by providing for fairer laws or by helping them directly. At all times, let us give praise to Christ, who sets more than a good example, for He freely bore our debt of sin and guilt. • We praise Your generous ways, O Lord, and thank You for Your mercy. Amen.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:14 appointed. By King Artaxerxes. twentieth year to the thirty-second year. 444–433/2 BC (1:1). food allowance of the governor. This allowance, granted by the Persian government, would have been a drain on the resources of the province (cf 1Ki 2:7). Nehemiah's ability to pay the maintenance of his official household suggests he was a man of considerable personal wealth.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:15 governors. Sheshbazzar (Ezr 5:14), Zerubbabel (Hg 1:1), and unnamed others. the fear of God. Nehemiah several times expressed his reverence and devotion to God (2:8, 18; 4:14; 5:9). See p 1001.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:16 servants. See note, 4:16.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:17 at my table 150 men. Probably included his servants.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:18 did not demand the food allowance. See note, v 14.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:19 Remember. See note, 13:29. King Hezekiah expressed a similar request (see note, 2Ki 20:3). my good. Nehemiah was eager for God's blessing on what he had done.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 5:14–19 Nehemiah sets an excellent example for his countrymen of generosity that honors the Lord, our Maker. As the Lord grants you opportunity, lead others by good example. Call for the Lord's blessing. He who blessed you through Baptism and faith in His name will provide for your every need in Christ. • Grant me a heart for sincere service, O Lord, that I may bless my neighbors and colleagues. Amen.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:1 Sanballat ... Tobiah ... Geshem. See notes, 2:10, 19.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:2 Nehemiah both frustrated the attempts of enemies to sabotage the building project (ch 4) and resolved internal dissension (ch 5). Now opponents resorted to plots against his life. It was obvious to Nehemiah that the meeting was only a ruse to get him to leave the protecting walls of Jerusalem and its armed citizenry. Hakkephirim in the plain of Ono. C 30 mi NW of Jerusalem.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:5 open letter. Not sealed to keep it private. See note, Jer 32:10.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:6 Nehemiah's enemies charged him with secretly planning to lead a rebellion against Persia and set himself up as king of Judah. nations. Such as Ammon, Philistia, and Moab.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:7 prophets. Nathan was among those prophets who proclaimed Solomon king (1Ki 1:34–40). Conspirators do not say which prophets they had in mind. the king. Artaxerxes I. take counsel together. Nehemiah does not record their plan.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:8 Nehemiah dismisses all allegations as fabrication.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:9 O God. Nehemiah's prayer is obviously addressed to God, though His name is lacking in Hbr (see ESV note).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:10 Shemaiah. Known to Nehemiah, though his office is not stated. Common name in Levitical and prophetic circles (1Ch 9:14; Jer 26:20). Nehemiah's adversaries enlisted him in their plot. confined. Presumably for some religious reason (e.g., fulfillment of a vow, some ritual impurity).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:11 go into the temple and live? Laypeople were forbidden to enter the temple under sentence of death (Nu 18:7).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:12 prophecy. Understood in broad sense of delivering a message; in this case, encouraging Nehemiah to enter the temple.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:13 sin. Cf v 11. Nehemiah might have regarded running away to be a sin, showing lack of faith.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:14 prophetess Noadiah. Along with other unnamed prophets, this unknown woman was part of the plot to eliminate Nehemiah in one way or another. See p 389. On prophecy in general, see pp 1077–83.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:1–14 False prophets attempt to deceive Nehemiah and bring about his death. God's people must always test claims of prophetic authority against the sure Word of prophecy: Holy Scripture (Dt 18:20–22; 1Jn 4:1–3). Abide in God's Word, which is able to make you wise for life and for eternal life through Christ. • Now, O God, strengthen my hands according to Your Word. Amen.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:15 Elul. Aug/Sept. See calendar, p 262. fifty-two days. Speedy completion of the project is a tribute both to Nehemiah's resourceful management and to the people's devotion. Yet, in the final analysis, success was possible only with God's help (v 16).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:16 nations ... fell greatly. Awe of God forced them to acknowledge His hand in the Judeans' accomplishments.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:17 Tobiah. See note, 2:10.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:18 son-in-law of Shecaniah. Tobiah, ally of Samaritan governor Sanballat, had married into a prominent Jerusalem family. Shecaniah was the son of Arah, head of a clan (7:10). There were family ties also with Berechiah, supervisor of a contingent of workers on the wall (3:4, 30). These relatives were Tobiah's channels for a campaign of propaganda and intimidation.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:19 his good deeds. Tobiah's relatives spoke well of him to undermine morale and Nehemiah's good name.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 7:1 gatekeepers. Guarded the entrances to the temple, preserved ritual purity, and looked after furniture and supplies (1Ch 26:12–19; 2Ch 8:14).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 7:2–3 With the walls completed and the temple personnel in place, Nehemiah turned his attention to strengthening Jerusalem's security.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 7:2 brother Hanani. See note, 1:2. Hananiah. Men with similar names (some suggest these are spelling variants for the same name) were given charge over Jerusalem. governor of the castle. Commander of the temple fortress.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 7:3 until the sun is hot. Midmorning to midday. guards. Residents were appointed.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 7:4 few. Reference to sparse population serves as a transition to the account of Nehemiah's efforts to move more people into Jerusalem (11:1–2). no houses. Hyperbole to describe general conditions in Jerusalem, since v 3 referred to people standing in front of their homes.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 6:15–7:4 Nehemiah appoints faithful colleagues to ensure good progress on the next phase of the work. Today, take joy in the faithful brothers and sisters who work with you in the Lord by showing your appreciation for them. How great a blessing is a shared burden in service to the One who bore all our burdens at the cross and will share heaven with us too. • I praise You, Lord, for my faithful colleagues. Grant us success in God-pleasing service. Amen.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 7:5 As Nehemiah was about to take a census to determine by genealogy who the real members in Judah were, he came upon the book listing those who had returned to Jerusalem when Cyrus first issued his decree c 90 years earlier (Ezr 1:2–4). This roster of registered families was considered so vital for the welfare of the province that it was made a part of the record, duplicating for the most part the list in Ezr 2. God put it into my heart. See note, 2:12. Nehemiah's insistence that his decision was prompted by God contrasts with David, who was incited by Satan to number Israel (1Ch 21:1).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 7:6–65 the people. List contains essentially same names as in Ezr 2. See note, Ezr 2:2–67.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 7:7 Nehemiah. Not the same man as author/Persian governor.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 7:66 whole assembly. For the totals given in these verses, see note, Ezr 2:64.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 7:70–72 gave. Contributions, summarized in Ezr 2:68–69, are enumerated here according to various donors.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 7:73 seventh month. Tishri, our Sept/Oct, the month after Elul (6:15). See calendar, p 262. Years earlier, the people had gathered in the seventh month to celebrate rebuilding of the altar (Ezr 3:1–3). Now they would gather as one body to hear the reading of the Law (8:1).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 7:5–73 See application note, Ezr 2.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:1 Water Gate. See note, 3:26. told Ezra the scribe. People took initiative in asking Ezra to read from God's Law. Ezra's previous history is recorded in Ezr 7–10. See note, Ezr 7:6. One task Ezra set for himself was to teach God's "statutes and rules in Israel" (Ezr 7:10), a responsibility assigned to him by King Artaxerxes (Ezr 7:25). Law of Moses. Five Books of Moses (Gn–Dt).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:2 women and all who could understand. Women and older children were included in the assembly. on the first day of the seventh month. Tishri (see note, 7:73). The Lord had ordained that this was to be a holy day, the Feast of Trumpets. See pp 200–201. "This is the simple meaning of the [third] commandment: People must have holidays. Therefore, such observances should be devoted to hearing God's Word so that the special function of this day of rest should be the ministry of the Word for the young and the mass of poor people [Nehemiah 8:2–3, 8]. Yet the resting should not be strictly understood to forbid any work that comes up, which cannot be avoided" (LC I 86).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:3 he read from it. Ezra had to limit himself to selected portions of the Law (he probably read mostly from Dt). early morning until midday. C six hours.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:4 wooden platform. Lit, "a tower of wood" that had to accommodate at least 14 people. Mattithiah ... Meshullam. These 13 on Ezra's right and left were probably laypeople demonstrating their support. Anaiah, Maaseiah, Hashum, and Meshullam were "chiefs of the people" who signed the covenant (10:14, 18, 20, 22, 25).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:5 all the people stood. Out of respect for the Law. See p 1277.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:6 Amen, Amen. Chem: "Prayers and invocations are ended with this expression, not only to show that in a general way we approve of the prayer but also that it may be applied to us personally" (LTh 2:492). lifting up their hands. Hands were raised during prayer (Ps 28:2; Lm 2:19). faces to the ground. Sign of humility and repentance (Ezr 9:5; 10:1). See p 1276.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:7 Jeshua ... Pelaiah. These 13 Levites assisted Ezra in helping the people understand the Law. Four of them may have taken part in the service of repentance (9:4–5), and seven may be named among the signers of the covenant (10:9–13).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:8 clearly, and they gave the sense. Levites repeated the words loudly and distinctly for all to hear and perhaps paraphrased in Aram what Ezra read in Hbr for those who no longer understood the original language. Some rabbis regarded this as the beginning of synagogues and the Aram Targums.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:1–8 Nehemiah's efforts result in an opportunity for Ezra and others to teach God's Word to the Judeans. God's Word is our source of peace and blessing. Support the proclamation of the Word not only by your offerings and service but, most important, by hearing and studying it. The clear teachings of Scripture will clear your heart of doubts and grant you abiding faith. • Grant us, O Lord, faithful preachers and teachers that we may receive Your Word with peaceful hearts. Amen, Amen.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:9 Nehemiah. In the report of the religious activities (chs 8–10), Nehemiah's name occurs only here and in 10:1. day is holy. Set aside for "a holy convocation," "proclaimed with blast of trumpets" (Lv 23:24). Completion of the walls made this day particularly joyous for the people of Judah. all the people wept. Evidently, what the people heard Ezra read made them realize that they had cause to grieve in repentance for their sins, as King Josiah did under similar circumstances (2Ki 22:11, 19). Grief over breaking God's Law was in order; the proper time to express this was coming (ch 9).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:10 sweet wine. Good quality wine, not bitter or sour. joy of the LORD is your strength. One pleased and content in the Lord is secure from the attacks of others, just as soldiers within a stronghold are secure from attack. joy. The Hbr word is used only here and in 1Ch 16:27.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:12 make great rejoicing. Their mourning turned to joy as the people recognized what great things the Lord had done for them (Ps 100).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:9–12 God's Word moves the hearts of the Judeans, who sanctify the day of celebration by Word and faith. When sorrow overwhelms you, celebrate the holiness of your Lord, who sanctifies you by the Word. Sing the Word in joyful hymns, for in their words, He will grant you strength. • O Savior, we eat and drink and take joy in Your holy reign, taking all comfort in Your Word. Amen.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:13–14 As the leaders of the community continued to study the Law, they found that another joyous festival was to be observed from the 15th to the 22nd day of the seventh month, the Feast of Booths, or Tabernacles (Ex 23:16; Nu 29:12–38; Dt 16:13–15). See calendar, p 262. The Day of Atonement, which fell on the 10th day of the seventh month, is not mentioned (Lv 23:26–32). See pp 200–201.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:13 second day. Following Ezra's public reading of God's Law (v 2).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:15 proclaim it and publish. Lit, "make the report heard and make it pass." as it is written. Not a verbatim citation of any one passage, but a summary of how to observe the feast.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:16 roof. This was flat. See note, Jsh 2:6. square at the Water Gate. See note, 3:26. Gate of Ephraim. In the north wall close to the temple. See note, 2Ki 14:13.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:17 Jeshua. Variant of "Joshua," who led the people of Israel into the Promised Land. had not done so. Feast of Booths had been observed often since the days of Joshua, but not with the same degree of joy and fervor. Cf 2Ch 35:18. This celebration was particularly meaningful because it marked the reestablishment of Jerusalem as the center of faith and life.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:18 day by day. Moses required that the Law be read in the hearing of all Israel every seven years at the Feast of Booths.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 8:13–18 By studying Scripture, the Judeans learn that they had overlooked celebrating a key feast. How often we may overlook God's teachings because we do not know the Word! Each day, the Lord's people need to partake of God's Word—a feast for the soul. Consume and study the Scriptures daily, for by them the Lord nurtures faith and grants life. • I rejoice, O Savior, in the goodness of Your Word, my daily good news in this sad, sin-broken world. Amen.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:1 In the seventh month (8:2), two days after the Feast of Booths had concluded (8:13–18), the people were again assembled, this time for a day of repentance. Already at the first convocation, "the people wept as they heard the words of the Law" (8:9). Continued reading (8:18) made them even more aware of "their sins and the iniquities of their fathers" (9:2). fasting and in sackcloth, and with earth on their heads. Symbolizing humility and repentance (1:4; Jb 2:12; Jnh 3:5).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:2 separated themselves. Foreigners could not be expected to join with the Judeans in confessing their own and their ancestors' sins. See notes, Ezr 6:21; 9:2. iniquities of their fathers.

Confession recounts history of sinning (vv 6–37), including also wickedness of the present generation (vv 33, 37). Such confession acknowledges enduring effects of original sin and actual sins.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:3 in their place. Wooden platform (8:4). Book of the Law. Cf 8:1, 3. quarter of the day. Reading continued for about three hours, followed by confession of sins and worship.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:4–5 stairs. Ascent to the platform (8:4). cried with a loud voice. Levites needed to speak loudly so all could hear their praise and psalm of repentance. Levites. Two groups of eight Levites are listed, though five of the names are duplicates (Jeshua, Bani, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, and Sherebiah; a Bani is named twice in the first list). Levites led the assembly in prayer and confession (8:7). Stand up and bless. Levites invited people to rise and give worshipful attention to the psalm of repentance they would speak. See p 1277. Blessed be Your glorious name. Introduction to a psalm similar to Ps 106.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:6 LXX attributes these words to Ezra (see ESV note). Hbr text attributes the psalm to the Levites, who may have chanted it. host. Angelic creatures (1Ki 22:19; Ps 103:21). See p 1291. "He is the maker and preserver of all things, visible and invisible" (AC I 2).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:7 Ur. In the valley of the Euphrates River in ancient Babylon. See map, p 780. Chaldeans. Babylonians.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:8 Canaanite ... Girgashite. See p 345. righteous. Abraham "believed the LORD, and He counted it to him as righteousness" (Gn 15:6; cf Rm 4:9). See p 843.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:10 made a name. Nations recognized what great things the Lord had accomplished (6:16; Ex 15:14–18).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:13 rules ... laws ... statutes ... commandments. See p 971. Terms here appear with adjectives, uncommon for such a list.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:14 You made known ... Your holy Sabbath. Only the Third Commandment was mentioned specifically because keeping the Sabbath was a distinguishing mark of a Judean, and breaking it was a capital offense (Ex 31:13; 35:1–3).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:15 bread from heaven. Manna. See notes, Ex 16:14, 15.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:16 and our fathers. Response of Israel's ancestors to God's material and spiritual blessings grew more disappointing as His favors mounted. Were it not for His "great mercies" (v 19), they would have been left to perish in the wilderness. acted presumptuously and stiffened their neck. Arrogant and stubborn attitudes. See note, Ex 32:9.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:17 return. Cf Nu 14:1–4. ready to forgive, gracious and merciful, slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love. See note, Ex 34:6.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:20 Your good Spirit. The Lord bestowed His Spirit on the 70 elders whom Moses chose to be his assistants (Nu 11:16–29). In this survey of the past, all action is attributed directly to God; there is no mention of Israel's great men, not even Moses or David. See p 1815.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:21 clothes ... feet. Cf Dt 8:4.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:22 every corner. Expressed God's abundant blessing of land.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:24 they might do with them as they would. Israel was able to work its will on the nations living in Canaan because God had given this power (Dt 7:1–5).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:25 cisterns. Pits for storing water. See note, Jer 2:13.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:26 killed Your prophets. Cf Jer 26:23.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:27 saviors. Judges (see notes, Jgs 3:9, 15).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:29 shall live. Israel did not earn the right to live because of observing God's laws. Escape from eternal death was solely a gift of God's grace offered and bestowed in the covenant. Obedience to the Commandments showed a grateful acceptance of this unearned mercy (cf Ezk 20:11).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:30 years. More than 600 years elapsed between Israel's entrance into the Promised Land and the fall of Jerusalem. peoples of the lands. Nations such as Assyria and Babylon. Cf 2Ki 17:7–23.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:31 great mercies. "Where sin increased" throughout Israel's history, "grace abounded all the more" (Rm 5:20). In the wilderness (v 17), during the occupation of Canaan (v 27), even in the Babylonian exile, God did not "make an end of them" as they fully deserved. A plea for continued mercy and pledge of covenant faithfulness (vv 32–38) could be made without fear of rejection.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:32 Judah's current situation was described. steadfast love. See p 843. kings … people. Nehemiah ranks the people in five groups, down to household leaders. kings of Assyria. Israel's hardship peaked with Assyria's capture of the Northern Kingdom and Babylon's destruction of Jerusalem and deportation into exile of many inhabitants. In Nehemiah's day, the chosen people were "slaves" to the Persians and were not an independent community.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:33 You have been righteous. Beginning (v 8) and end of this psalm affirm that God is righteous, that He is free of blame for what had happened, and that He has the power to save. See p 843.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:36 slaves. Though the Judeans were not literally slaves, they were subject to the heavy burden of taxation (5:4; Ezr 4:13; 7:24) and other oppressive measures (v 37).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 9:38 covenant. See p 127. People of Ezra's time felt the need to renew their pledge of loyalty to the same covenant after hearing the Book of the Law read repeatedly (8:3, 18). sealed document. The solemn, public commitment to God's Law was put into writing, and the document was sealed. The clerical and lay leadership signed their names on the outside of the document (ch 10).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 9 The people confess the Lord's enduring mercy promised in the covenant. They were saved by God's grace, not by their obedience. You, too, are saved only by God's grace, which He offers faithfully through Christ Jesus. • We confess You alone, O Lord, our Maker, Redeemer, and Sanctifier. Amen.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 10:1 seals. See note, 9:38. Nehemiah. See note, 8:9. List of signatories was headed by the name of the governor (5:14). Ezra did not appear among the priestly signers, though "Azariah" (v 2) is an alternate form of his name. Zedekiah. In the Hbr text, this name is preceded by "and," suggesting he might be Nehemiah's assistant or scribe.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 10:2–8 priests. Some of the names of the 21 priests occur again in 12:1–7. Jeremiah … Obadiah … Daniel. Common biblical names. Prophets by these names were not in Jerusalem at this time.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 10:9–13 Levites. List of 17 Levites includes some named in 9:4–5.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 10:14–27 chiefs of the people. Lists 44 lay leaders in the community, the "heads of fathers' houses of all the people" (8:13). See p 228.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 10:28 rest of the people. Those who did not sign the document (9:38) but agreed with it. gatekeepers, the singers, the temple servants. Temple assistants. Cf 1Ch 25–26; see note, Ezr 2:58. separated themselves. Cf 9:2. all who have knowledge and understanding. Could refer to older children (cf 8:2), but certainly describes those listed here who were instructed and committed to God's Word (9:38).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 10:29 curse and an oath. Whole assembly was willing to "enter into the sworn covenant of the LORD" (Dt 29:12), invoking a curse on themselves should they break their pledge (Dt 28:15–19). See pp 6, 7. commandments ... rules ... statutes. See p 971.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 10:30 not give our daughters. People vowed to refrain from intermarriage with foreigners (13:23–27; Ezr 9:1–2; 10:11).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 10:31 not buy. They pledged not to buy from outsiders who were selling on the Sabbath. crops of the seventh year. Law required that land should lie idle every seventh year. See p 206.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 10:32–39 Final section of the document required contributions for the support of temple worship and its ministers. third part. A half shekel was required by law (Ex 30:13). If computed according to Persian currency, the obligation that the people laid on themselves was perhaps equal in value to the required civil tax.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 10:33 showbread. See note, 1Ch 9:31–32. atonement. See p 5.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 10:34 wood offering ... written in the Law. Law stipulated that "fire shall be kept burning on the altar continually" (Lv 6:12–13). People devised a system of casting lots to determine who would supply the wood.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 10:35 firstfruits. See note, Lv 2:12. First of the crop belonged to the Lord, the giver of all good things.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 10:36 firstborn of our sons. See notes, Ex 13:2; 22:29.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 10:37 chambers. Storage rooms in the temple (13:5, 9). See diagram, p 730. collect the tithes in all our towns. The Levites collected the tithes with which the people supported them (see notes, Nu 18:21, 28).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 10:38 priest ... shall be with the Levites. Levites were supervised by priests.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 10:39 vessels. Used for various purposes in the temple, including storage of grain, wine, and oil (13:9, 12).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 10 People offer thanks to the Lord for the blessings of the covenant and the atonement provided through the sacrifices. As the Lord blesses us, we also respond with offerings of thanks for His gracious gifts in Christ. • We will not neglect Your house, O God, by which You bless us in the hearing of Your Gospel. Amen.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:1 cast lots. To repopulate Jerusalem, as "the people within it were few" (7:4), it was agreed that one person in 10 living outside the city would be selected by lot to become an urban resident. May have also been for purposes of defense (cf vv 6, 8). See note, Jsh 14:2.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:2 willingly offered. Those chosen by lot were praised for being willing to move.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:3–36 Following the report of the additions to Jerusalem's population, a list of those who lived there (vv 3–24) and in the Judean villages (vv 25–36) was attached. This city directory has almost the same names found in 1Ch 9:2–34. It is arranged under five categories: laypeople (vv 3–9); priests (vv 10–14); Levites (vv 15–18); gatekeepers and temple servants (vv 19, 21); officials (vv 22–24).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:3 chiefs. See note, 10:14–27. Israel. Common people, children of Israel. temple servants ... Solomon's servants. See note, Ezr 2:58.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:4 sons of Judah ... sons of Benjamin. Lay leaders from these two tribes.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:6 valiant men. Respectable men, fit for fighting. See note, Ru 2:1.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:9 overseer. Military commander.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:10–14 See note, 1Ch 9:13.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:11 ruler. High priest.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:14 mighty men of valor. See note, v 6.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:16 outside work. Exterior maintenance of the temple.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:17 Asaph. Ps 50; 73–83 are attributed to a man with this name. See p 840. leader of the praise. Singers, sometimes mentioned separately (10:28), are listed with the Levites.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:19 gatekeepers. See note, 7:1.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:20 inheritance. Property outside Jerusalem inherited from one's ancestors.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:21–24 Before listing villages of Judah (vv 25–35), three notes about Jerusalem residents were inserted.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:21 Temple servants lived just south of the temple. Ophel. See note, 3:26.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:23 king. Perhaps King Artaxerxes. provision ... as every day required. Support for the daily needs of the temple singers was provided from the king's treasury.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:24 Pethahiah was the king's adviser.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:25–36 See color map 1. Not all locations are known.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:25 villages. Apparently, many people preferred to live in unwalled towns "with their fields" rather than in the close quarters of fortified Jerusalem. There were 17 villages in the territory of Judah, 15 in Benjamin. Kiriath-arba. Ancient name for Hebron, 19 mi S of Jerusalem. Dibon. Probably Debir, 15 mi E of Beersheba. Jekabzeel. Or Kabzeel (Jsh 15:21), c 6 mi NE of Beersheba.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:26 Jeshua. Probably Shema, 17 mi E of Beersheba. Moladah. C 4 mi NE of Beersheba.Beth-pelet. Location unknown (Jsh 15:27).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:27 Hazar-shual, in Beersheba. Ancient site is c 2 mi E of the modern city, c 45 mi SW of Jerusalem. Southernmost area inhabited by Judeans.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:28 Ziklag. C 14 mi NW of Beersheba. Meconah. Location unknown.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:29 En-rimmon. C 9 mi N of Beersheba. Zorah. C 15 mi W of Jerusalem. Jarmuth. C 17 mi SW of Jerusalem.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:30 Zanoah. C 15 mi SW of Jerusalem. Adullam. C 18 mi SW of Jerusalem. Lachish. 28 mi SW of Jerusalem. fields. Lachish may not have had small, surrounding settlements like some of the towns. Azekah. Near Jarmuth (v 29). encamped. Type of dwelling in which people lived varied; some undoubtedly lived in tents. Valley of Hinnom. Deep valley just south of Jerusalem (2Ki 23:10).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:31 Geba. C 7 mi N of Jerusalem in territory of Benjamin. Michmash. Just north of Geba. Aija. Same as Ai, 10 mi N of Jerusalem. Bethel. Just west of Ai.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:32 Anathoth. C 3 mi N of Jerusalem, home of Jeremiah. Nob. Just east of Jerusalem. Ananiah. May be Bethany, not far to the east.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:33 Hazor. C 5 mi NW of Jerusalem, not to be confused with the large city north of the Sea of Chinnereth. Ramah. C 6 mi N of Jerusalem. Gittaim. Perhaps Gath, 23 mi NW of Jerusalem.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:34 Hadid. North of Gittaim (v 33). Zeboim. Near Lod (v 35). Neballat. Northwest of Lod.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:35 Lod. C 25 mi NW of Jerusalem. Ono, the valley of craftsmen. Ravine running northwest of Lod.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 11:36 assigned to Benjamin. Some Levites lived in Benjamin.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 11 For the sake of security and good order, a number of people willingly agree to occupy Jerusalem, which was only beginning to be restored. Volunteer service has great value and may involve great sacrifice. Prayerfully consider how you may voluntarily serve your Lord, your Church, and your community. As you pray, give thanks for the willing heart of Jesus, who paid the greatest sacrifice to render the greatest service: your salvation. • Grant me a willing heart, good order, and fruitful service, O Savior. Amen.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:1–7 Names of 22 leaders of priestly families who came up with Zerubbabel and Jeshua from Babylon to Jerusalem c 100 years earlier (Ezr 2:2). Many of these names also appeared on the list of recent covenant signers, which means these are likely family names, not those of individuals (10:2–8).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:8–9 List of Levitical leaders and temple singers who came with Zerubbabel.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:9 opposite. For alternate or antiphonal singing. See p 959.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:10–11 Six high priests from the time of Zerubbabel until the writing of Ne. Some names are likely missing, or perhaps the office was vacant at times.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:12–21 Individuals who represented priestly families in the days of the chief priest Joiakim (v 10). Names of some priests appear on Judean coins, which demonstrates the important relationship of the priests to the Persian government. It may also mean that a mint was established in connection with the temple.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:12 fathers' houses. Priestly families.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:22 Darius the Persian. Darius II (423–405 BC), one of three Persian kings who had the same name. Lists found in Ne were likely gathered during the reign of Darius II.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:24 opposite. See note, v 9. man of God. God chose David to arrange temple worship (2Ch 8:14). watch by watch. Hbr expression describes stations in the temple from which the groups sang responsively.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:25 standing guard. The gatekeepers were responsible for guarding the temple's storage areas (7:1).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:26 Joiakim. High priest prior to the coming of Ezra and Nehemiah. days of Nehemiah. 445–c 415 BC.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:27 dedication of the wall. Previously, it had been reported that the wall of Jerusalem was finished (6:15). The dedication ceremony is not dated, so it may also have taken place when the wall was finished but is only described now as the capstone to Nehemiah's achievements. sought. Levites from the countryside around Jerusalem were summoned for the occasion.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:28 sons of the singers. Members of the guild of singers are noted particularly because the festivities called for jubilant vocal and instrumental music. Netophathites. From Netophah, 6 mi S of Jerusalem.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:29 Beth-gilgal. Gilgal, 17 mi NE of Jerusalem. Geba. See note, 11:31. Azmaveth. C 6 mi N of Jerusalem.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:30 purified themselves. Purification rites for Levites are described in Nu 8:5–22. Ceremonial cleanness of priests was demanded in Lv 21:1–9; 22:1–9 (cf Ezr 6:20; Ne 13:22). Removal of uncleanness was required of the people (Nu 19:11–22). When the temple was reconsecrated at the time of Hezekiah, Levites who had sanctified themselves "brought out all the uncleanness" from the sanctuary (2Ch 29:12–16). See "consecrate," p 6.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:31 I brought. Nehemiah's first-person account resumes (see note, 1:1). south. One choir processed south from the point of departure in the west wall, the Valley Gate (see note, 2:13–15). Dung Gate. At the very south end of the wall.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:36 musical instruments of David. Some are listed in v 27. See note, 2Ch 29:26. See also p 993.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:37 Fountain Gate … stairs of the city of David. See note, 3:15. Water Gate. See note, 3:26.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:38 north. Second choir moved north from the Valley Gate (cf v 31). This group included Nehemiah. Tower of the Ovens. See note, 3:11. Broad Wall. See note, 3:8.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:39 Cf 3:1–6. Gate of Ephraim. Not far from the northwest corner. Gate of the Guard. Probably refers to the Muster Gate (see note, 3:31).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:40 stood in the house of God. Two choirs (vv 31, 38) converged at the temple on the northeast side.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:43 sacrifices. As when the altar and temple were dedicated (Ezr 3:3–5; 6:17), so sacrifices of thanksgiving were offered to the Lord to celebrate completion of the walls.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:44–47 As with 13:1–3, a brief supplement loosely connected to the dedication ceremony. Both emphasize that the community was united in observance of the Law.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:44 appointed. Persons were assigned to administer the items brought to the temple for the support of the clergy. contributions. Cf 10:32–34, 39. firstfruits. Cf 10:35–37a. tithes. Cf 10:37b–38.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:45 purification. Duty of the Levites was "to assist the sons of Aaron" in "the cleansing of all that is holy," i.e., set aside for sacred use (1Ch 23:28). David and his son. David's organization of the temple officiants (1Ch 23–26) was put into operation by his son Solomon (2Ch 8:14).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:46 long ago. More than 500 years earlier. Asaph. See note, 11:17; cf 1Ch 15:16–17; 16:5.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 12:47 Zerubbabel. Under his governorship, the temple was built (Ezr 5:2; 6:14–15), and Nehemiah surrounded it with protecting walls. daily portions. The people provided for the daily needs of temple personnel. set apart. Tithe (10:38).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 12 With careful organization, the priests and Levites lead God's people in worship and in dedicating the walls of Jerusalem. Though some today insist that spontaneity is a most important quality of Spirit-led worship, Scripture describes carefully organized services for God's people. The most important feature of genuine worship is focus on the Lord and His blessings of salvation and care. • I dedicate to You, O Lord, all that I am and have. Amen.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:1–3 See note, 12:44–47.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:1 Book of Moses. Based on the action that followed, the reading likely was from Dt. Ammonite or Moabite. Ammon and Moab were countries east of Judah, beyond the Jordan River and Salt Sea. assembly. Worshiping community.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:2 Balaam. Cf Nu 22–24. blessing. God did not allow Balaam to curse Israel but forced him to speak blessings (Nu 24:10–13). See p 842.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:3 separated. Excluded foreigners from the worship assembly (see note, 9:2).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:4 Now before this. Suggests that the separation from those of foreign descent (v 3) was related to the following episode. Eliashib. Identified as a priest, but not likely the same man as the high priest (v 28). appointed over the chambers. Eliashib was put in charge of the storage rooms in the temple. Tobiah. From Ammon (see note, 2:10), from whose people the Judeans separated (v 1). He had mocked the rebuilding of the walls (4:3). Yet his family connections (6:18–19) allowed him to enjoy a room in the temple.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:5 large chamber. For storage of provisions to support temple personnel.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:6 While this was taking place. Nehemiah was back in Persia at this time. thirty-second year of Artaxerxes. 433/2 BC. Nehemiah had come to Jerusalem in 445 BC (5:14). king of Babylon. One of several titles claimed by the Persian kings. after some time. Appears that Nehemiah's stay in Persia was several years. Artaxerxes died in 424 BC.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:7 evil that Eliashib had done for Tobiah. Eliashib had allowed an enemy to live in the room designated for temple contributions.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:8 very angry. Nehemiah's anger and expulsion of Tobiah are understandable. See notes, vv 4, 7.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:9 cleansed the chambers. Room was readied for its proper use.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:10 portions. For their daily maintenance. See p 7. fled each to his field. Levites and singers discontinued their service in the temple and took up farming to support themselves.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:11 Impression of Governor Nehemiah is of a contentious individual; he probably needed to be so in order to get things done. officials. Those in charge while Nehemiah was gone.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:13 appointed ... Shelemiah ... Zadok ... Pedaiah ... Hanan. Treasurers were a priest, scribe, Levite, and singer.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:14 Remember me. See note, v 29. good deeds. Hbr chesed; emphasizes faithfulness and loyalty. Nehemiah's good deeds resulted from his faith in God (2:8, 18). See "steadfast love," p 843.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:15 Sabbath. Another evil that Nehemiah corrected was the desecration of the Sabbath. People were engaged in forbidden activities. See pp 200–201. warned. May have included a reminder of the covenant, which had been signed (10:31).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:16 Tyrians. Phoenician city of Tyre was a center of world trade. Cf Ezk 27:12–36; 28:16 for its commercial fame.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:17 Nehemiah confronted the civic leaders ("nobles"; cf v 11) rather than the priests.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:18 fathers act in this way. Rejection of warnings against profaning the Sabbath had brought God's wrath on the city in the past and was certain to do so again (cf Is 56:4, 6; 58:13; Ezk 20:12, 20; 44:24).
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:19 Nehemiah ordered that the city gates be closed on Friday at sundown and not opened until the Sabbath was over. See pp 200–201. Locking of the gates each night was probably normal practice. servants. See note, 4:16.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:21 I will lay hands on you. Physically drive these sellers away.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:22 purify. Levites needed to be ritually clean before taking on what Nehemiah considered a sacred duty, keeping the Sabbath day holy. Remember. See note, v 29.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:23 Jews. Judeans. See note, Ezr 4:12. married. Nehemiah was infuriated by this relapse into the evil of mixed marriages, which violated one of the promises made previously in the covenant (10:30). See note, Ezr 10:3. Ashdod. Philistine city, c 35 mi W of Jerusalem. Its inhabitants were among those who had tried to prevent the building of the walls (4:7). Ammon, and Moab. Cf v 1.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:24 language of Ashdod. Perhaps a residue of the Philistine language or a mixture of Aram dialects. language of Judah. Hebrew. See p 751.
NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:25 confronted ... cursed ... beat ... pulled out their hair. Nehemiah again displayed an impulsive, even intemperate nature (see notes, v 11; 5:6). You shall not give … for yourselves. Wording of oath is based on Dt 7:3. Decree after Ezra's return to Jerusalem included divorce of foreign wives (Ezr 10:11, 19). See "Divorce from Foreigners," pp 738–39.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:28 Grandson of high priest Eliashib married the daughter of Sanballat, an inveterate enemy of the people (2:10; 4:1; 6:1). Nehemiah expelled him from the community.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:29 Remember. Nehemiah often called on God to watch over himself and the people. See p 843. desecrated the priesthood. High priests such as Eliashib and Jehoiada (v 28) manifested the same spiritual depravity as did Caiaphas at Christ's trial (Mt 26:62–66; 27:1)

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:30 everything foreign. Foreign desecration of the Sabbath and mixed marriages.

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON 13:31 wood offering. See note, 10:34. firstfruits. See note, 10:35. Remember me. Book closes with Nehemiah's oft-repeated prayer (see note, v 29). The curtain falls on his career. He and Ezra drop from sight as suddenly as they first appeared. What they did to promote the kingdom of God is a matter of record, "written down for our instruction" (1Co 10:11). Their full life's story is known only to God. He has inscribed their names in the Book of Life, making them citizens of "the holy city, new Jerusalem," which John saw "coming down out of heaven from God" (Rv 21:2).

NEHEMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 13 Nehemiah confronts ongoing issues of the Law and holiness, even losing his composure when people violated the covenant (v 25). As you serve the Lord, you will also have frustrating experiences. Pray for the Lord to grant you strength as a leader, to control your anger, and to maintain proper focus on the Word. When frustration gets the better of you, count on the Lord to forgive you and strengthen you for continued service. • Remember, O my God, the needs of Your people, and give us grace under pressure. Amen.

The King’s Banquets

1 [1]‡†Now in the days of Ahasuerus, the Ahasuerus who reigned from India to Ethiopia over 127 provinces, [2]†in those days when King Ahasuerus sat on his royal throne in Susa, the capital,[1] [3]†in the third year of his reign he gave a feast for all his officials and servants. The army of Persia and Media and the nobles and governors of the provinces were before him, [4]†while he showed the riches of his royal glory and the splendor and pomp of his greatness for many days, 180 days. [5]† And when these days were completed, the king gave for all the people present in Susa, the citadel, both great and small, a feast lasting for seven days in the court of the garden of the king’s palace. [6]‡There were white cotton curtains and violet hangings fastened with cords of fine linen and purple to silver rods[2] and marble pillars, and also couches of gold and silver on a mosaic pavement of porphyry, marble, mother-of-pearl and precious stones. [7]Drinks were served in golden vessels, vessels of different kinds, and the royal wine was lavished according to the bounty of the king. [8]†And drinking was according to this edict: “There is no compulsion.” For the king had given orders to all the staff of his palace to do as each man desired. [9]†Queen Vashti also gave a feast for the women in the palace that belonged to King Ahasuerus.

Queen Vashti’s Refusal

10 On the seventh day, when the heart of the king was merry with wine, he commanded Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha and Abagtha, Zethar and Carkas, the seven eunuchs who served in the presence of King Ahasuerus, 11 to bring Queen Vashti before the king with her royal crown,[3]
in order to show the peoples and the princes her beauty, for she was lovely to look at. 12 But Queen Vashti refused to come at the king’s command delivered by the eunuchs. At this the king became enraged, and his anger burned within him.

13 Then the king said to the wise men who knew the times (for this was the king’s procedure toward all who were versed in law and judgment, 14 the men next to him being Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena, and Memucan, the seven princes of Persia and Media, who saw the king’s face, and sat first in the kingdom): 15 “According to the law, what is to be done to Queen Vashti, because she has not performed the command of King Ahasuerus delivered by the eunuchs?” 16 Then Memucan said in the presence of the king and the officials, “Not only against the king has Queen Vashti done wrong, but also against all the officials and all the peoples who are in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus. 17 For the queen’s behavior will be made known to all women, causing them to look at their husbands with contempt, since they will say, ‘King Ahasuerus commanded Queen Vashti to be brought before him, and she did not come.’ 18 This very day the noble women of Persia and Media who have heard of the queen’s behavior will say the same to all the king’s officials, and there will be contempt and wrath in plenty. 19 If it please the king, let a royal order go out from him, and let it be written among the laws of the Persians and the Medes so that it may not be repealed, that Vashti is never again to come before King Ahasuerus. And let the king give her royal position to another who is better than she. 20 So when the decree made by the king is proclaimed throughout all his kingdom, for it is vast, all women will give honor to their husbands, high and low alike.” 21 This advice pleased the king and the princes, and the king did as Memucan proposed. 22 He sent letters to all the royal provinces, to every province in its own script and to every people in its own language, that every man be master in his own household and speak according to the language of his people.

Esther Chosen Queen

2 [1] After these things, when the anger of King Ahasuerus had abated, he remembered Vashti and what she had done and what had been decreed against her. [2] Then the king's young men who attended him said, "Let beautiful young virgins be sought out for the king. [3] And let the king appoint officers in all the provinces of his kingdom to gather all the beautiful young virgins to the harem in Susa the capital, under custody of Hegai, the king's eunuch, who is in charge of the women. Let their cosmetics be given them. [4] And let the young woman who pleases the king be queen instead of Vashti." This pleased the king, and he did so.

[5] Now there was a Jew in Susa the citadel whose name was Mordecai, the son of Jair, son of Shimei, son of Kish, a Benjaminite, [6] who had been carried away from Jerusalem among the captives carried away with Jeconiah king of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had carried away. [7] He was bringing up Hadassah, that is Esther, the daughter of his uncle, for she had neither father nor mother. The young woman had a beautiful figure and was lovely to look at, and when her father and her mother died, Mordecai took her as his own daughter. [8] So when the king's order and his edict were proclaimed, and when many young women were gathered in Susa the citadel in custody of Hegai, Esther also was taken into the king's palace and put in custody of Hegai, who had charge of the women. [9] And the young woman pleased him and won his favor. And he quickly provided her with her cosmetics and her portion of food, and with seven chosen young women from the king's palace, and advanced her and her young women to the best place in the harem. [10] Esther had not made known her people or kindred, for Mordecai had commanded her not to make it known. [11] And every day Mordecai walked in front of the court of the harem to learn how Esther was and what was happening to her.

[12] Now when the turn came for each young woman to go in to King Ahasuerus, after being twelve months under the regulations for the women, since this was the regular period of their beautifying, six months with oil of myrrh and six months with spices and ointments for women— [13] when the young woman went in to the king in this way, she was given whatever she desired to take with her from the harem to the king's palace. [14] † In the evening she would go in, and in the morning she would return to the second harem in custody of Shaashgaz, the king's eunuch, who was in charge of the concubines. She would not go in to the king again, unless the king delighted in her and she was summoned by name.

[15] † When the turn came for Esther the daughter of Abihail the uncle of Mordecai, who had taken her as his own daughter, to go in to the king, she asked for nothing except what Hegai the king's eunuch, who had charge of the women, advised. Now Esther was winning favor in the eyes of all who saw her. [16] † And when Esther was taken to King Ahasuerus, into his royal palace, in the tenth month, which is the month of Tebeth, in the seventh year of his reign, [17] † the king loved Esther more than all the women, and she won grace and favor in his sight more than all the virgins, so that he set the royal crown[1] on her head and made her queen instead of Vashti. [18] † Then the king gave a great feast for all his officials and servants; it was Esther's feast. He also granted a remission of taxes to the provinces and gave gifts with royal generosity.

Mordecai Discovers a Plot

19 ‡ † Now when the virgins were gathered together the second time, Mordecai was sitting at the king's gate. 20 † Esther had not made known her kindred or her people, as Mordecai had commanded her, for Esther obeyed Mordecai just as when she was brought up by him. 21 † In those days, as Mordecai was sitting at the king's gate, Bigthan and Teresh, two of the king's eunuchs, who guarded the threshold, became angry and sought to lay hands on King Ahasuerus. 22 † And this came to the knowledge of Mordecai, and he told it to Queen Esther, and Esther told the king in the name of Mordecai. 23 † When the affair was investigated and found to be so, the men were both hanged on the gallows.[1] And it was recorded in the book of the chronicles in the presence of the king.

Haman Plots Against the Jews

3 [1]†After these things King Ahasuerus promoted Haman the Agagite, the son of Hammedatha, and advanced him and set his throne above all the officials who were with him. [2]†And all the king's servants who were at the king's gate bowed down and paid homage to Haman, for the king had so commanded concerning him. But Mordecai did not bow down or pay homage. [3]†Then the king's servants who were at the king's gate said to Mordecai, "Why do you transgress the king's command?" [4]†And when they spoke to him day after day and he would not listen to them, they told Haman, in order to see whether Mordecai's words would stand, for he had told them that he was a Jew. [5]†And when Haman saw that Mordecai did not bow down or pay homage to him, Haman was filled with fury. [6]†But he disdained to lay hands on Mordecai alone. So, as they had made known to him the people of Mordecai, Haman sought to destroy all the Jews, the people of Mordecai, throughout the whole kingdom of Ahasuerus.

[7]†In the first month, which is the month of Nisan, in the twelfth year of King Ahasuerus, they cast Pur (that is, they cast lots) before Haman day after day; and they cast it month after month till the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar. [8]†Then Haman said to King Ahasuerus, "There is a certain people scattered abroad and dispersed among the peoples in all the provinces of your kingdom. Their laws are different from those of every other people, and they do not keep the king's laws, so that it is not to the king's profit to tolerate them. [9]†If it please the king, let it be decreed that they be destroyed, and I will pay 10,000 talents[1] of silver into the hands of those who have charge of the king's business, that they may put it into the king's treasuries." [10]†So the king took his signet ring from his hand and gave it to Haman the Agagite, the son of Hammedatha, the enemy of the Jews. [11]†And the king said to Haman, "The money is given to you, the people also, to do with them as it seems good to you."

[12]†Then the king's scribes were summoned on the thirteenth day of the first month, and an edict, according to all that Haman commanded, was written to the king's satraps and to the governors over all the provinces and to the officials of all the peoples, to every province in its own script and every people in its own language. It was written in the name of King Ahasuerus and sealed with the king's signet ring. [13]† Letters were sent by couriers to all the king's provinces with instruction to destroy, to kill, and to annihilate all Jews, young and old, women and children, in one day, the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar, and to plunder their goods. [14]A copy of the document was to be issued as a decree in every province by proclamation to all the peoples to be ready for that day. [15]† The couriers went out hurriedly by order of the king, and the decree was issued in Susa the citadel. And the king and Haman sat down to drink, but the city of Susa was thrown into confusion.

Esther Agrees to Help the Jews

4 [1]†When Mordecai learned all that had been done, Mordecai tore his clothes and put on sackcloth and ashes, and went out into the midst of the city, and he cried out with a loud and bitter cry. [2]† He went up to the entrance of the king's gate, for no one was allowed to enter the king's gate clothed in sackcloth. [3]† And in every province, wherever the king's command and his decree reached, there was great mourning among the Jews, with fasting and weeping and lamenting, and many of them lay in sackcloth and ashes.

[4]†When Esther's young women and her eunuchs came and told her, the queen was deeply distressed. She sent garments to clothe Mordecai, so that he might take off his sackcloth, but he would not accept them. [5]† Then Esther called for Hathach, one of the king's eunuchs, who had been appointed to attend her, and ordered him to go to Mordecai to learn what this was and why it was. [6]Hathach went out to Mordecai in the open square of the city in front of the king's gate, [7]†and Mordecai told him all that had happened to him, and the exact sum of money that Haman had promised to pay into the king's treasuries for the destruction of the Jews. [8]†Mordecai also gave him a copy of the written decree issued in Susa for their destruction, that he might show it to Esther and explain it to her and command her to go to the king to beg his favor and plead with him on behalf of her people. [9]And Hathach went and told Esther what Mordecai had said. [10]Then Esther spoke to Hathach and commanded him to go to Mordecai and say, [11]†"All the king's servants and the people of the king's provinces know that if any man or woman goes to the king inside the inner court without being called, there is but one law—to be put to death, except the one to whom the king holds out the golden scepter so that he may live. But as for me, I have not been called to come in to the king these thirty days."

[12]And they told Mordecai what Esther had said. [13]†Then Mordecai told them to reply to Esther, "Do not think to yourself that in the king's palace you will escape any more than all the other Jews. [14]†For if you keep silent at this time, relief and deliverance will rise for the Jews from another place, but you and your father's house will perish. And who knows whether you have not come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" [15]Then Esther told them to reply to Mordecai, [16]†"Go, gather all the Jews to be found in Susa, and hold a fast on my behalf, and do not eat or drink for three days, night or day. I and my young women will also fast as you do. Then I will go to the king, though it is against the law, and if I perish, I perish." [17]†Mordecai then went away and did everything as Esther had ordered him.

Esther Prepares a Banquet

5 [1]‡†On the third day Esther put on her royal robes and stood in the inner court of the king's palace, in front of the king's quarters, while the king was sitting on his royal throne inside the throne room opposite the entrance to the palace. [2]†And when the king saw Queen Esther standing in the court, she won favor in his sight, and he held out to Esther the golden scepter that was in his hand. Then Esther approached and touched the tip of the scepter. [3]†And the king said to her, "What is it, Queen Esther? What is your request? It shall be given you, even to the half of my kingdom." [4]†And Esther said, "If it please the king, let the king and Haman come today to a feast that I have prepared for the king." [5]†Then the king said, "Bring Haman quickly, so that we may do as Esther has asked." So the king and Haman came to the feast that Esther had prepared. [6]†And as they were drinking wine after the feast, the king said to Esther, "What is your wish? It shall be granted you. And what is your request? Even to the half of my kingdom, it shall be fulfilled." [7]Then Esther answered, "My wish and my request is: [8]†If I have found favor in the sight of the king, and if it please the king to grant
my wish and fulfill my request, let the king and Haman come to the feast that I will prepare for them, and tomorrow I will do as the king has said."

Haman Plans to Hang Mordecai

9 ‡ † And Haman went out that day joyful and glad of heart. But when Haman saw Mordecai in the king's gate, that he neither rose nor trembled before him, he was filled with wrath against Mordecai. 10 † Nevertheless, Haman restrained himself and went home, and he sent and brought his friends and his wife Zeresh. 11 ‡ And Haman recounted to them the splendor of his riches, the number of his sons, all the promotions with which the king had honored him, and how he had advanced him above the officials and the servants of the king. 12 Then Haman said, "Even Queen Esther let no one but me come with the king to the feast she prepared. And tomorrow also I am invited by her together with the king. 13 † Yet all this is worth nothing to me, so long as I see Mordecai the Jew sitting at the king's gate." 14 † Then his wife Zeresh and all his friends said to him, "Let a gallows[1] fifty cubits[2] high be made, and in the morning tell the king to have Mordecai hanged upon it. Then go joyfully with the king to the feast." This idea pleased Haman, and he had the gallows made.

The King Honors Mordecai

6 [1]‡†On that night the king could not sleep. And he gave orders to bring the book of memorable deeds, the chronicles, and they were read before the king. [2]†And it was found written how Mordecai had told about Bigthana and Teresh, two of the king's eunuchs, who guarded the threshold, and who had sought to lay hands on King Ahasuerus. [3]And the king said,
"What honor or distinction has been bestowed on Mordecai for this?" The king's young men who attended him said, "Nothing has been done for him."
[4]†And the king said, "Who is in the court?" Now Haman had just entered the outer court of the king's palace to speak to the king about having Mordecai hanged on the gallows[1] that he had prepared for him. [5]And the king's young men told him, "Haman is there, standing in the court." And the king said, "Let him come in." [6]†So Haman came in, and the king said to him, "What should be done to the man whom the king delights to honor?"
And Haman said to himself, "Whom would the king delight to honor more than me?" [7]And Haman said to the king, "For the man whom the king delights to honor, [8]†let royal robes be brought, which the king has worn, and the horse that the king has ridden, and on whose head a royal crown[2] is set. [9]And let the robes and the horse be handed over to one of the king's most noble officials. Let them dress the man whom the king delights to honor, and let them lead him on the horse through the square of the city, proclaiming before him: 'Thus shall it be done to the man whom the king delights to honor.'" [10]†Then the king said to Haman, "Hurry; take the robes and the horse, as you have said, and do so to Mordecai the Jew, who sits at the king's gate. Leave out nothing that you have mentioned." [11]†So Haman took the robes and the horse, and he dressed Mordecai and led him through the square of the city, proclaiming before him, "Thus shall it be done to the man whom the king delights to honor."

[12]†Then Mordecai returned to the king's gate. But Haman hurried to his house, mourning and with his head covered. [13]†And Haman told his wife Zeresh and all his friends everything that had happened to him. Then his wise men and his wife Zeresh said to him, "If Mordecai, before whom you have begun to fall, is of the Jewish people, you will not overcome him but will surely fall before him."

Esther Reveals Haman's Plot

14 ‡† While they were yet talking with him, the king's eunuchs arrived and hurried to bring Haman to the feast that Esther had prepared.

7 1 So the king and Haman went in to feast with Queen Esther. 2 † And on the second day, as they were drinking wine after the feast, the king again said to Esther, "What is your wish, Queen Esther? It shall be granted you.
And what is your request? Even to the half of my kingdom, it shall be fulfilled." 3 † Then Queen Esther answered, "If I have found favor in your sight, O king, and if it please the king, let my life be granted me for my wish, and my people for my request. 4 † For we have been sold, I and my people, to be destroyed, to be killed, and to be annihilated. If we had been sold merely as slaves, men and women, I would have been silent, for our affliction is not to be compared with the loss to the king." 5 † Then King Ahasuerus said to Queen Esther, "Who is he, and where is he, who has dared[3] to do this?" 6 † And Esther said, "A foe and enemy! This wicked Haman!" Then Haman was terrified before the king and the queen.

Haman Is Hanged

7 ‡† And the king arose in his wrath from the wine-drinking and went into the palace garden, but Haman stayed to beg for his life from Queen Esther, for he saw that harm was determined against him by the king. 8 † And the king returned from the palace garden to the place where they were drinking wine, as Haman was falling on the couch where Esther was. And the king said, “Will he even assault the queen in my presence, in my own house?”
As the word left the mouth of the king, they covered Haman’s face. 9 † Then Harbona, one of the eunuchs in attendance on the king, said, “Moreover, the gallows[1] that Haman has prepared for Mordecai, whose word saved the king, is standing at Haman’s house, fifty cubits[2] high.” 10 † And the king said, “Hang him on that.” So they hanged Haman on the gallows that he had prepared for Mordecai. Then the wrath of the king abated.

Esther Saves the Jews

8 [1]†On that day King Ahasuerus gave to Queen Esther the house of Haman, the enemy of the Jews. And Mordecai came before the king, for Esther had told what he was to her. [2]†And the king took off his signet ring, which he had taken from Haman, and gave it to Mordecai. And Esther set Mordecai over the house of Haman.

[3]†Then Esther spoke again to the king. She fell at his feet and wept and pleaded with him to avert the evil plan of Haman the Agagite and the plot that he had devised against the Jews. [4]†When the king held out the golden scepter to Esther, [5]†Esther rose and stood before the king. And she said, "If it please the king, and if I have found favor in his sight, and if the thing seems right before the king, and I am pleasing in his eyes, let an order be written to revoke the letters devised by Haman the Agagite, the son of Hammedatha, which he wrote to destroy the Jews who are in all the provinces of the king. [6]†For how can I bear to see the calamity that is coming to my people? Or how can I bear to see the destruction of my kindred?" [7]†Then King Ahasuerus said to Queen Esther and to Mordecai the Jew, "Behold, I have given Esther the house of Haman, and they have hanged him on the gallows,[3] because he intended to lay hands on the Jews. [8]†But you may write as you please with regard to the Jews, in the name of the king, and seal it with the king's ring, for an edict written in the name of the king and sealed with the king's ring cannot be revoked."

[9]†The king's scribes were summoned at that time, in the third month, which is the month of Sivan, on the twenty-third day. And an edict was written, according to all that Mordecai commanded concerning the Jews, to the satraps and the governors and the officials of the provinces from India to Ethiopia, 127 provinces, to each province in its own script and to each people in its own language, and also to the Jews in their script and their language. [10]†And he wrote in the name of King Ahasuerus and sealed it with the king's signet ring. Then he sent the letters by mounted couriers riding on swift horses that were used in the king's service, bred from the royal stud, [11]†saying that the king allowed the Jews who were in every city to gather and defend their lives, to destroy, to kill, and to annihilate any armed force of any people or province that might attack them, children and women included, and to plunder their goods, [12]† on one day throughout all the provinces of King Ahasuerus, on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar. [13]† A copy of what was written was to be issued as a decree in every province, being publicly displayed to all peoples, and the Jews were to be ready on that day to take vengeance on their enemies. [14]So the couriers, mounted on their swift horses that were used in the king's service, rode out hurriedly, urged by the king's command. And the decree was issued in Susa the citadel.

[15]† Then Mordecai went out from the presence of the king in royal robes of blue and white, with a great golden crown[1] and a robe of fine linen and purple, and the city of Susa shouted and rejoiced. [16]† The Jews had light and gladness and joy and honor. [17]† And in every province and in every city, wherever the king's command and his edict reached, there was gladness and joy among the Jews, a feast and a holiday. And many from the peoples of the country declared themselves Jews, for fear of the Jews had fallen on them.

The Jews Destroy Their Enemies

9 [1]‡†Now in the twelfth month, which is the month of Adar, on the thirteenth day of the same, when the king's command and edict were about to be carried out, on the very day when the enemies of the Jews hoped to gain the mastery over them, the reverse occurred: the Jews gained mastery over those who hated them. [2]†The Jews gathered in their cities throughout all the provinces of King Ahasuerus to lay hands on those who sought their harm. And no one could stand against them, for the fear of them had fallen on all peoples. [3]†All the officials of the provinces and the satraps and the governors and the royal agents also helped the Jews, for the fear of Mordecai had fallen on them. [4]†For Mordecai was great in the king's house, and his fame spread throughout all the provinces, for the man Mordecai grew more and more powerful. [5]†The Jews struck all their enemies with the sword, killing and destroying them, and did as they pleased to those who hated them. [6]†In Susa the citadel itself the Jews killed and destroyed 500 men, [7]‡and also killed Parshandatha and Dalphon and Aspatha [8]and Poratha and Adalia and Aridatha [9]and Parmashta and Arisai and Aridai and Vaizatha, [10]the ten sons of Haman the son of Hammedatha, the enemy of the Jews, but they laid no hand on the plunder.

[11]‡That very day the number of those killed in Susa the citadel was reported to the king. [12]And the king said to Queen Esther, "In Susa the citadel the Jews have killed and destroyed 500 men and also the ten sons of Haman. What then have they done in the rest of the king's provinces! Now what is your wish? It shall be granted you. And what further is your request? It shall be fulfilled." [13]†And Esther said, "If it please the king, let the Jews who are in Susa be allowed tomorrow also to do according to this day's edict. And let the ten sons of Haman be hanged on the gallows."[1] [14]†So the king commanded this to be done. A decree was issued in Susa, and the ten sons of Haman were hanged. [15]† The Jews who were in Susa gathered also on the fourteenth day of the month of Adar and they killed 300 men in Susa, but they laid no hands on the plunder.

16 † Now the rest of the Jews who were in the king's provinces also gathered to defend their lives, and got relief from their enemies and killed 75,000 of those who hated them, but they laid no hands on the plunder.
17 † This was on the thirteenth day of the month of Adar, and on the fourteenth day they rested and made that a day of feasting and gladness.
18 †But the Jews who were in Susa gathered on the thirteenth day and on the fourteenth, and rested on the fifteenth day, making that a day of feasting and gladness. 19 †Therefore the Jews of the villages, who live in the rural towns, hold the fourteenth day of the month of Adar as a day for gladness and feasting, as a holiday, and as a day on which they send gifts of food to one another.

The Feast of Purim Inaugurated

20 ‡ † And Mordecai recorded these things and sent letters to all the Jews who were in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus, both near and far, 21 † obliging them to keep the fourteenth day of the month Adar and also the fifteenth day of the same, year by year, 22 † as the days on which the Jews got relief from their enemies, and as the month that had been turned for them from sorrow into gladness and from mourning into a holiday; that they should make them days of feasting and gladness, days for sending gifts of food to one another and gifts to the poor.

23 † So the Jews accepted what they had started to do, and what Mordecai had written to them. 24 ‡ For Haman the Agagite, the son of Hammedatha, the enemy of all the Jews, had plotted against the Jews to destroy them, and had cast Pur (that is, cast lots), to crush and to destroy them. 25 But when it came before the king, he gave orders in writing that his evil plan that he had devised against the Jews should return on his own head, and that he and his sons should be hanged on the gallows.[1] 26 Therefore they called these days Purim, after the term Pur. Therefore, because of all that was written in this letter, and of what they had faced in this matter, and of what had happened to them, 27 the Jews firmly obligated themselves and their offspring and all who joined them, that without fail they would keep these two days according to what was written and at the time appointed every year, 28 that these days should be remembered and kept throughout every generation, in every clan, province, and city, and that these days of Purim should never fall into disuse among the Jews, nor should the commemoration of these days cease among their descendants.

29 † Then Queen Esther, the daughter of Abihail, and Mordecai the Jew gave full written authority, confirming this second letter about Purim.
30 † Letters were sent to all the Jews, to the 127 provinces of the kingdom of Ahasuerus, in words of peace and truth, 31 † that these days of Purim should be observed at their appointed seasons, as Mordecai the Jew and Queen Esther obligated them, and as they had obligated themselves and their offspring, with regard to their fasts and their lamenting. 32 † The command of Queen Esther confirmed these practices of Purim, and it was recorded in writing.

The Greatness of Mordecai

10 [1]†King Ahasuerus imposed tax on the land and on the coastlands of the sea. [2]†And all the acts of his power and might, and the full account of the high honor of Mordecai, to which the king advanced him, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the kings of Media and Persia?
[3]†For Mordecai the Jew was second in rank to King Ahasuerus, and he was great among the Jews and popular with the multitude of his brothers, for he sought the welfare of his people and spoke peace to all his people.

Introduction to Esther

Reading Esther

She had heard and seen them before, but now she lived among them and had to adjust to their speech, their manners, and their food. In her heart, she wanted to stay faithful to her heritage, but in appearance she had pleased a foreign king. She was chosen for him, but not yet by him. Would he have her? Should she desire him?

Life for Esther, a Judean whose culture and faith encouraged purity from foreign ways, was faced with a personal dilemma when chosen for the harem of King Ahasuerus of Persia. After becoming his queen, Esther faced a national dilemma: the complete destruction of the Judean people from whom she had come. The plot of her story describes the tensions under which God's people lived after the destruction of Jerusalem.

Luther on Esther

> The greater part [of a nation] always belongs to the devil and is idolatrous. Thus there is no doubt that … Mordecai and Esther, gained many people. But they were not able to correct the kingdoms in their entirety. (AE 8:93)
>
> Simple garb and adornment is more fitting for a woman than a wagonload of pearls. I do not want to interpret this [1Tm 2:9] too scrupulously—that rich clothing is forbidden to women. Here we must make exceptions for weddings…. a woman adorns herself in honor of her groom but goes about in common fashion otherwise, etc., Scripture commends the adornment for a spouse, etc…. After all, a queen must bedeck herself, as did Esther. If she clothes herself with care and good taste, she is not decorating herself but acting in accord with the custom of and allegiance to the people with whom she lives. If it were the custom, then it would be a matter of choice for her so to adorn herself or not. In allegiance to her groom, in honor of her wedding and husband, she should dress otherwise than one dresses in church, where one ought to wear proper clothing. (AE 28:273–74)
> The church, which is thoroughly sanctified in the cross of Christ, has holiness, because she abstains from all that is of the world and the flesh, and she has majesty in all riches, goods, houses, costs, etc. But this majesty [of the church], which is spiritual, is altogether opposite to what men have known. For it does not do great things according to the world; indeed, in this way the lowest contempt and squalor are in her. But she builds magnificent spiritual houses (cf. Prov. 9:1 ff.) crammed full with costly banquets, very famous for throngs of peoples and nobles, so that the feast of Ahasuerus [Est 1:5–7] is as nothing here, but in the eyes of the spiritual and the angels. (AE 11:264–65)

Challenges for Readers

Relationship to Chronicles, Ezra, and Nehemiah. See pp 719–21.

God's Name Never Used. A confusing feature of the Book of Esther is that God is never directly mentioned or named, even though numerous references to devotional practices are made in chs 4–9 (e.g., fasting and observance of Purim, which would involve prayer). Some have regarded this as a cause for excluding the Book from Scripture (even Luther raised this question; AE 33:110). However, Mordecai clearly alludes to the work of God's hand—what we call providence—in 4:14. The theme of God working "behind the scenes" is also found in Ezra and Nehemiah and must be regarded as a quality of the literature Israel produced in this era of exile, enslavement, and persecution.

Revenge and Self-Defense. See application note, ch 8.

Additions to Esther. On the apocryphal additions to Esther, see Luther's comments on p 1564. See also "Different Texts of Daniel" (pp 1394–95) for an illustration of the issues.

Blessings for Readers

The Book of Esther is a beautiful portrayal of courage in the face of danger and the triumph of good in the face of powerful, sinister forces. Although the name of God is not mentioned, the Book of Esther implies divine providence throughout.

As you study Esther, remember why God worked through Esther and Mordecai to deliver the people of Judah. It was all part of God's plan that the Savior would be born to that people in the land God had designated, and at just the right moment, "when the fullness of time had come" (Gal 4:4).

OUTLINE

A number of commentators note the structure of the Book of Esther (chiasm; see pp 777–78). Banquets and other episodes in the first half (chs 1–5) coincide with parallel incidents in the second half (chs 7–10), pivoting on ch 6. While the parallels do not account for all of the material in the Book of Esther, they do establish the framework of an outline. The Book is clearly divided in two—the first half depicts the threat to the Judeans, and the second relates the deliverance of the Judeans.

I. Threat to Judeans (chs 1–5)
- A. King's Banquets (1:1–9)
- B. Queen Vashti's Refusal (1:10–22)
- C. Esther Chosen Queen (2:1–18)
- D. Mordecai Discovers a Plot (2:19–23)
- E. Haman Plots against Judeans (ch 3)
- F. Esther Agrees to Help Judeans (ch 4)
- G. Esther Prepares a Banquet (5:1–8)
- H. Haman Plans to Hang Mordecai (5:9–14)

II. Deliverance of Judeans (chs 6–10)
- A. King Honors Mordecai (6:1–13)
- B. Esther Reveals Haman's Plot (6:14–7:6)
- C. Haman Is Hanged (7:7–10)
- D. Esther Saves Judeans (ch 8)
- E. Judeans Destroy Enemies (9:1–19)
- F. Feast of Purim Inaugurated (9:20–32)

G. Greatness of Mordecai (ch 10)

Study Notes

ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:1 Ahasuerus. Persian king (486–465 BC), son of Darius I (522–486 BC). Grandson of Cyrus the Great (559–530 BC), who had issued the decree allowing the Judeans in captivity to return to their homeland (Ezr 1:2–4). "Ahasuerus" is Hbr rendering of Persian title "mighty man," a title the king used on monumental inscriptions. He is better known by his Gk name, Xerxes. India to Ethiopia. Persia's territory exceeded that of any previous empire, extending from the Indus River, far to the southeast, to the borders of Greece and the region below Egypt, far to the southwest. 127 provinces. Vast empire was divided into satrapies and provinces. See note, Ezr 2:1.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:2 Susa. Winter residence of Persian kings, 200 mi NE of Babylon, one of four royal cities. See map, p 609. Ahasuerus had made extensive renovations to the acropolis area above the city.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:3 third year. Gk historian Herodotus tells of a gathering of Ahasuerus's mighty men one year before his disastrous military campaign against Greece (482–479 BC). feast. The Hbr can be translated "drinking party" or "banquet." Ancient Gk historians report that the Persians gave lavish banquets. Banquets are the settings for important plot developments in Est.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:4 180 days. For half a year, Ahasuerus displayed the ostentatious grandeur of the royal opulence inherited from his father, Darius. Rarely has such extravagance been exhibited.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:5 At the conclusion of the half-year feast, Ahasuerus lavished his generosity on commoners, who were welcomed into his private quarters for a weeklong celebration. Some scholars suggest that this was a wedding feast because a week was the normal length of marriage celebrations.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:6–7 Detailed description attests to the historical accuracy of this account, underscoring the luxurious indulgence of the Persian court. Numerous rare words portray images of flamboyant beauty and luxury. cotton. Mentioned directly only here in Scripture. First cultivated in India, cotton slowly found a place alongside linen in the West.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:8 There is no compulsion. Rule requiring guests to drink only when the king raised his goblet was set aside. They were permitted to drink as they desired.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:9 Vashti. From Persian word vahista, "best." feast for the women. Vashti hosted her own banquet, just for women, simultaneously with her husband's grand party.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:1–9 Ahasuerus celebrates his accession to the throne with extravagant drinking parties for government officials and common citizens. Some people today find it necessary to build ever bigger houses and to buy more expensive cars. Christians must resist societal influences that encourage extravagant materialism. God graciously cares for us, providing us with the necessities of daily living (1Tm 6:8). His kingdom and His righteousness are the very best of all His gifts (Mt 6:33). • Thank You, Lord, for all the material blessings You daily supply. Increase my appreciation for Your gifts, and move me to share generously with others. Amen.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:10 seventh day. The king's weeklong drinking party was coming to an end (v 5). eunuchs. See note, 2Ki 9:32.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:12 refused to come. Although no reason is stated, Queen Vashti's impertinence may have stemmed from her revulsion at being displayed publicly before the king's drunken and lascivious lackeys merely as an ornamental object. enraged ... anger burned. Vashti's refusal to obey was a public humiliation for the powerful king.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:13 wise men who knew the times. Probably royal astronomers who knew the inner workings of the kingdom, the previous legal precedents, the pulse of the nation, and the most propitious astrological signs to guide the king's decisions.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:14 Persia. Between the Caspian Sea and the Persian Gulf, present-day Iran (cf v 1). Media. Northwest of Persia. Joined with Babylon in overthrowing Assyrian Empire (612 BC). Later conquered by Cyrus the Great and often linked with Persia in Scripture (Dn 5:31). See map, p 609. saw the king's face. Had access to the Persian king, allowing them to converse with him as intimate cabinet advisers.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:16–20 Memucan overreacts and imagines a national crisis. His concern was that wifely contempt for husbands could disrupt the empire by lowering male authority and provoking wrath (v 18).
ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:19 The king took this advice and dismissed his defiant wife from attending him; a divorce was decreed. Vashti was not killed; she reappears in historical documents as a powerful adviser to her son Artaxerxes until her death in 424 BC.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:22 own script. Persian cuneiform script, Egyptian hieroglyphs, and the Hebrew alphabet are very different. Messages, esp laws, had to be communicated in regional languages. E.g., a Persian document from the reign of Artaxerxes III (358–338 BC) was recorded in Imperial Aramaic (see p 720), Greek, and Lycian. Texts emphasize different points, based on interests of local people. every man be master in his own household. Decree actually publicized the king's weakness and humiliation. Because of his own failed marriage, he issued an empire-wide law ordering male rule. His decree of male mastery breathes a spirit far different from St Paul's inspired directives on the God-ordained roles of husbands and wives, which are motivated by Christ's love (Eph 5:22–33). language of his people. Language of the husband was to be spoken in the home of a mixed marriage.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 1:10–22 Ahasuerus and Vashti are not models of moral virtue for believers. God uses the king's dismissal of his wife to prepare the way for Esther to become queen. God will often use evil deeds to work His will. Joseph said to his brothers, "You meant evil against me, but God meant it for good" (Gn 50:20). Nothing demonstrates this truth more clearly than Jesus' death on the cross. Because of His death, we have life. • Heavenly King, I am sometimes disturbed by the way government officials conduct themselves and the laws they enact. Help me remember that You rule over all things and can bring good from evil. Amen.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:1 After these things. For several years, Ahasuerus was engaged in a futile attempt to conquer Greece. His thoughts would not have been on domestic affairs such as his lack of a queen. remembered Vashti. Perhaps the king realized that Vashti had not been such a bad wife after all and that his decision had been rash.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:2 young virgins. Maidens in their teens who were sexually pure.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:3 harem. Lit, "the house of the women," where the king's wives and concubines were kept. No one would have access to them except the king. The number of wives was a mark of wealth and power (cf 1Ki 11:3). cosmetics. Lit, "bodily rubbings." Beauty treatments and massages enhanced the natural beauty of these girls. Oils and perfumes were applied to soften sun-dried skin and to cleanse pores. Eye painting in shades of dark red, black, and green was also common.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:4 who pleases the king. Lit, "who is good in the king's eyes." Implies irresistible attractiveness. Yet, these young virgins had to please the king in other ways (cf v 14), which would have involved compromises for a faithful Judean woman.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:5 Jew. Hbr term refers to citizens of the province of Judah. Judeans attained prominent positions of wealth and authority in many Medo-Persian cities. Mordecai. May be the Persian form of "Marduk," a heathen god. Shimei … Kish. Names found in the family of King Saul more than 500 years earlier (1Sm 9:1–2; 2Sm 16:5). Benjaminite. Of the tribe of Benjamin, like Saul (1Sm 9:1–2). Tribe became part of the kingdom of Judah. See note, 1Ki 11:32.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:6 Mordecai's ancestors had been carried into exile. Jeconiah. Variant spelling of Judah's king Jehoiachin, who was exiled in 597 BC along with the upper classes of Judah (2Ki 24:8–17). Suggests that Mordecai may have had some prestige or nobility.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:7 Hadassah. Hbr, "myrtle." Esther. Persian name that comes from stareh, meaning "star," and is associated with Ishtar, the Babylonian goddess of love, or the Canaanite goddess Ashtoreth. See note, Ex 34:13. Interestingly, "Esther" has a verbal root in Hbr (str), which means "to conceal." Jewish rabbis later associated her name with God's hiddenness: "I will surely hide ('astir) My face" (Dt 31:18). she had neither father nor mother. Her father's name was Abihail (v 15), but nothing is said about how she lost her parents and came under her cousin's protection. beautiful figure and was lovely to look at. Lit, "beautiful of form and good in appearance." Esther excelled in both her noble carriage and irresistible attractiveness.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:8 Esther was not only an exile from her homeland but also was taken captive by the king's men. She faced the prospect of being doubly violated, both as a woman and a Judean. She is forced to make the best of a bad situation.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:9 young woman pleased him. Esther captivated Hegai, the keeper of the royal harem, with her charm. favor. Hbr chesed is often used for God's steadfast love and carries ideas of covenantal loyalty and undeserved affection. Hegai showed some of these characteristics. See "steadfast love," p 843. seven chosen young women. Specially selected companions for Esther's development, serving as royal advisers. best place. Hegai provided Esther with the best apartment, perhaps in close proximity to the king. Archaeological reconstruction of the royal harem indicates that most bedrooms were so small that even a single occupant had little personal space.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:10 commanded her. Mordecai demanded secrecy regarding Esther's nationality lest she jeopardize her chances for advancement. Esther's willingness to hide her Judean heritage likely resulted in some religious and cultural compromises (e.g., diet, Sabbath observance).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:11 Mordecai observed Esther's progress from a distance, probably through the columned courtyards. He may have had some minor government position.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:12 regulations for the women. Process provided opportunities for training in aristocratic etiquette. six months. Regimen of skin-lightening and skin-softening treatments required a significant length of time. myrrh. Often associated with sexual situations (cf Ps 45:8; Pr 7:17; Sg 1:13; 5:1–13).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:13 whatever. Perhaps perfume, jewelry, or a luxurious garment likely to please the king and provoke erotic feelings.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:14 Only one night with the king was common practice, unless the girl pleased him and the king asked her back. (In the tale A Thousand and One Nights, the king took young girls each night until charming Scheherazade captivated him with her stories.) This is a far cry from God's intentions for marriage. concubines. After having slept with the king, these girls acquired a new status as a sexual partner who received protection and provision but had no rights to inheritance as a wife. Unfortunately, most women would never leave this second home. See pp 54–55.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:15 Abihail. Means "my father is mighty." Esther's full family name was given when her turn came to go in to the king. she asked for nothing except what Hegai … advised. No one would be more familiar with the king's most intimate preferences than Hegai.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:16 tenth month … Tebeth. Sometime in Dec/Jan. seventh year. 479/478 BC, four years after Vashti's rejection.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:17 loved. Hbr word signifies a spectrum of emotions from casual affection to overwhelming devotion, including sexual desire. favor. See note, v 9. set the royal crown on her head. Apparently, Ahasuerus stopped his search for a queen with the appearance of Esther.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:18 great feast. Fourth of 10 banquets reported in Est. remission of taxes. Hbr means "caused a rest," understood here as canceling some taxes. In 10:1, Ahasuerus "imposed tax on the land." Some understand the king's action to mean something like "proclaimed a holiday."

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:1–18 After careful preparation, beautiful Esther meets Ahasuerus, gains his favor, and becomes queen of Persia. At this point, her future looks bright. But perilous times were coming for her and for her people. In all that happens, God is silently at work directing affairs. At the critical moment, Esther would be in a position to play a decisive role in delivering Israel. "God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform" (LSB 765:1). We walk by faith and not by sight. • Help me, Lord, to pass through good times and bad, always trusting Your loving guidance. Amen.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:19 virgins were gathered together. We are not told why this second group of virgins was gathered. Perhaps Ahasuerus desired more concubines who could both serve his personal interests and be ladies-in-waiting for the new queen. king's gate. A city's main gate was a place for business as well as for gossip and rumors. See p 792. Mordecai's presence here allowed him contact with many officials of the realm and may indicate his status as a respected citizen. (By way of illustration, the gate area at Persepolis was nearly half the size of a football field.)

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:20 See note, v 10.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:21 guarded the threshold. Guardians of the king's private chamber had easy access to Ahasuerus in his most vulnerable moments. became angry … sought to lay hands on. Intrigue and assassination plots against rulers were common in Persian history. Esther would also have been at risk if this plot had been carried out. In 465 BC, Ahasuerus was in fact assassinated by men who guarded his royal entranceway.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:22 Esther, referred to by her royal title for the first time, reported the conspiracy to her husband, giving credit to Mordecai for providing the information. Persian kings were renowned for rewarding benefactors.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:23 hanged on the gallows. Refers not to strangulation by a rope but probably to impalement on a sharp stake and slow death by starvation, the Persian mode of execution from which the Romans got the idea of crucifixion (see ESV note). chronicles. Official records of the Persian government, where later Ahasuerus read of what Mordecai had done (6:1).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 2:19–23 Mordecai's discovery of a plot against Ahasuerus means that the king owes him a favor. At a crucial time in the future, when the fate of many Judeans will hang in the balance, Mordecai's good deed will have saving consequences. Events that seem unconnected come together in God's plan to save His people. • Lord, at times I feel unrewarded for the good I do. Forgive my discontent, and keep me fervent in my desire to serve You always. Amen.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 3:1 After these things. Nearly five years had elapsed since Mordecai's discovery of the plot against the king's life (cf v 7). Haman the Agagite. Haman is introduced abruptly, and no reason is given for his promotion to high office. Perhaps Haman is meant to be identified as a descendant of the Amalekite king Agag, an enemy of King Saul of Israel (1Sm 15:7–8), with whose family and tribe Mordecai was linked (2:5). God decreed continual enmity between Amalek and Israel (Ex 17:8–16). The trouble extended all the way back to Jacob and Esau! (Amalek was Esau's descendant; Gn 36:12). above all the officials. Haman was like a prime minister, secretary of state, or grand vizier of Ahasuerus.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 3:2 homage. In ancient times, respect was shown to a superior by bowing one's head or falling prostrate to the ground. Mordecai did not bow down or pay homage. No specific reason is given for Mordecai's refusal to bow to Haman (see note, v 1), but his refusal to bow had serious consequences. See p 1276.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 3:3 Ahasuerus's servants were puzzled by Mordecai's stubborn refusal to bow to Haman, which was against the king's command (v 2).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 3:4 spoke to him day after day. Trying to convince him to obey the king by honoring Haman. words would stand. Mordecai may have suggested that Haman would not be able to overcome him because of his nationality (cf 4:14; 6:13). Jew. Judean. See note, Ezr 4:12. For the first time, Mordecai revealed his nationality.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 3:5 fury. Hbr chemah, which sounds similar to Haman's name. His extreme anger seems out of proportion to the slight he received from Mordecai. Haman's animosity for Mordecai and the Judeans may have been building for a long time. Aph: "Mordecai also was persecuted as Jesus was persecuted. Mordecai was persecuted by the wicked Haman; and Jesus was persecuted by the rebellious People. Mordecai by his prayer delivered his people from the hands of Haman; and Jesus by His prayer delivered His people from the hands of Satan. Mordecai was delivered from the hands of his persecutor; and Jesus was rescued from the hands of His persecutors" (NPNF 2 13:400).
ESTHER—NOTE ON 3:6 to lay hands on. To arrest and punish. destroy all the Jews. Haman's hatred for Judeans caused him to seek their extermination, a genocidal hatred. See note, Ezr 4:12.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 3:7 first month ... Nisan. Mar/Apr, month of Passover. See calendar, p 262. According to Babylonian records, human fates were fixed by the gods during the first month of the year. twelfth year. 474 BC. Pur. Borrowed from Old Babylonian puru, meaning "stone" or "lot," which appears to refer to the stones thrown to determine an auspicious day. Colored or numbered pebbles or clay cubes were possibly used as dice. Hbr plural form purim became the name of the festival that commemorated divine providence overruling the fatal lots (9:26). they cast lots. Perhaps appointed priests or wise men cast the lots for Haman. Seeking supernatural guidance for auspicious occasions was common practice in ancient times. twelfth month. Our Feb/Mar. Haman found favorable omens for his "lucky" day, even if it meant waiting almost a year. Adar. The month when the extermination of the Judeans would begin; means "be darkened."
ESTHER—NOTE ON 3:8 certain people. Haman never told Ahasuerus who these people were. Their laws are different. Haman probably thought esp of dietary laws, circumcision, and keeping the Sabbath.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 3:9 destroyed. Hbr 'abad is different from shamad in vv 6, 13. 'Abad sounds like the Hbr word for "enslave," which suggests that Haman might have been trying to deceive Ahasuerus about his true plans. I will pay 10,000 talents. Haman offered an exorbitant bribe to facilitate his request (see ESV note). He was possibly bluffing or may have hoped to realize that amount from plundering the Judeans (v 13).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 3:10 signet ring. Used to impress a distinctive design into the seal of a document; served as the king's signature (cf 1Ki 21:8). By giving Haman his signet ring, Ahasuerus is authorizing him to do whatever he wants. See note, Jer 32:10. enemy of the Jews. Agagites continued to hate the Judeans across generations. See note, v 1.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 3:11 The money is given to you. Based on Mordecai's statement in 4:7, it seems that Ahasuerus accepted the bribe, and with these words meant to say that Haman had the right to use his money however he wished.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 3:12 thirteenth day of the first month. Haman issued the decree to annihilate the Judeans on the day before their annual Passover celebration (14th of Nisan). See calendar, p 262. satraps. Herodotus reports that Darius I had organized the empire into more than 20 satrapies. governors. In charge of the 127 provinces. officials. Local appointees. own script. See note, 1:22.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 3:13 couriers. Cyrus the Great established an empire-wide postal system, similar to the Pony Express. to destroy, to kill, and to annihilate. The piling up of the three verbs conveys the idea of total elimination of the Judeans. The people's situation goes from bad to worse: captivity, enslavement, and now legalized genocide. thirteenth day of the twelfth month. Day determined by lots (v 7). The 11-month delay in carrying out the edict gave Mordecai and Esther an opportunity to come to the aid of their people.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 3:15 Susa. See note, 1:2. drink. Another reference to feasting (see note, 2:18); this one a private affair. thrown into confusion. In contrast to Haman's merriment, common citizens were horrified and perplexed by the change of attitude and lethal machinations of the decree.

ESTHER—NOTE ON Ch 3 Haman's extreme prejudice against the Judeans threatens them with annihilation. Bigotry and intolerance continue in our modern world. The danger is that we criticize these attitudes in others but fail to see the log in our own eye (Lk 6:41). Our prejudices can put barriers in the way of people hearing the Good News of salvation. To become better witnesses, the Holy Spirit must root out the sin of Haman from our hearts. For God "desires all people to be saved and to come to the knowledge of the truth" (1Tm 2:4). • When prejudice limits my vision, open my eyes, dear Savior, to see Your vast forgiving love for me and all people, which resulted in Your sacrifice on the cross. Amen.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 4:1 tore his clothes and put on sackcloth and ashes. Visible demonstration of sorrow (see notes, Jb 1:20; 2:12). went out into the midst of the city ... loud and bitter cry. Mordecai obviously wanted to attract as much attention to himself as possible.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 4:2 Mordecai provoked confrontation by public protest and violation of palace dress code. king's gate. See note, 2:19.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 4:3 Judeans across the empire joined Mordecai's public expression of grief over their impending destruction. Although unmentioned, prayer would accompany these actions (Ezr 8:21–23; Jl 2:12; Jnh 3:8).
ESTHER—NOTE ON 4:4 deeply distressed. Hbr word suggests writhing in anxiety, being physically and emotionally agitated. sent garments to clothe Mordecai. Esther's distress seemed not to have been caused by Haman's decree but by Mordecai's behavior. he would not accept them. Must have suggested to Esther that the situation was serious.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 4:5 go to Mordecai to learn. Confined within the palace harem, Esther heard little outside news. She needed to find out why Mordecai was so upset. She may have experienced a growing sense of danger in her own situation.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 4:7 exact sum ... Haman had promised. For Mordecai to have this information showed that he was well-connected within the palace. He also realized that the king had much to gain financially if this plot was carried out.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 4:8 a copy of the written decree. Mordecai's access to the actual document suggests that he might have been a government scribe. explain it to her. The decree's implications may not have been immediately apparent to Esther. Mordecai wanted her to understand all that was involved, as well as how she should help. on behalf of her people. Previously, Mordecai had told Esther to keep quiet about her Judean heritage (2:10). (Haman seems unaware of her nationality. Cf 5:11–12.) Mordecai now seems determined to call attention to Esther's heritage. Esther perhaps felt she was getting "mixed signals" from him.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 4:11 put to death. Persian law protected the king from assassination as well as from the vexations of citizens' petty concerns. Herodotus noted that anyone approaching the Persian king unsummoned would be killed unless the king gave immediate pardon. Esther may have recalled what happened to Vashti (1:19), and she chided Mordecai for not realizing her perilous situation. golden scepter. Stylized weapon emblematic of royal authority. The whole story hinges on whether the king will hold out the golden scepter to Esther. these thirty days. Esther's marriage to Ahasuerus obviously lacked a close husband-wife relationship.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 4:13–14 Illustrates that royal family members could often turn on one another. Mordecai reminded Esther that the king's palace was not a safe haven for her, that her life was in jeopardy whether or not she approached Ahasuerus.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 4:14 relief and deliverance will rise. See "deliver," p 842. another place. Closest thing in Est to an overt reference to God's presence and power. In any other book of the Bible, we would expect God to be named as the One providing deliverance for His people. But throughout Est, God remains behind the scenes, doing His work in secret. See pp 760–61. your father's house will perish. Not a curse but an emphasis on the personal nature of the danger. And who knows ... time as this? Mordecai's question showed that he was beginning to realize why Esther had become queen of Persia. God was directing affairs so that His people might be saved from destruction.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 4:16 hold a fast … three days. Fasting often occurred from morning until evening, over one day's duration (Jgs 20:26; 2Sm 1:12). Esther's severe fast showed how critical this time was for her and her people. See note, 2Ch 20:3. The fast stands in contrast to the feasts that occur throughout Est. Fasting normally included praying, so Esther's request became an invitation for the Judeans to petition divine deliverance. See p 189. if I perish, I perish. These oft-quoted words show Esther's faith, courage, and humility. She did not assume that she was going to accomplish her mission, and she was ready to sacrifice herself in the attempt. 1 Clem: "Esther also, being perfect [complete] in faith, exposed herself to no less danger, in order to deliver the twelve tribes of Israel from impending destruction. For with fasting and humiliation she entreated the everlasting God, who sees all things; and He, perceiving the humility of her spirit, delivered the people for whose sake she had encountered peril" (ANF 1:20).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 4:17 ordered. Esther had matured and was no longer taking orders from Mordecai. As queen, she gave direction and leadership, and Mordecai quietly and quickly obeyed.

ESTHER—NOTE ON Ch 4 Mordecai is shocked by Haman's edict and goes into public mourning. Esther gradually comes to realize the seriousness of the situation and pledges her life in an attempt to save her people. Like Esther, God may provide us with positions, wealth, and talents that enable us to serve the cause of God's people and the Gospel. Yet, we all have been guilty of exhibiting weak faith by our failure to act. Thanks be to God, in the fullness of time He sent our Deliverer to redeem us from every failure. Unlike Esther, our Deliverer had to die for His people and the whole world. He freed us to serve under His rule as His witnesses. • Dear Jesus, Your kingdom expands through Word and Sacraments. Grant me golden opportunities to be Your witness. Amen.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 5:1 Esther stood, dressed in royal robes, where the king could see her. On the third day. After the three-day fast (4:16).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 5:2 held out to Esther the golden scepter. At this tense moment, the king, by extending his scepter, indicated that he was willing to hear what Esther had to say (4:11). Herodotus characterized Ahasuerus as a man easily swayed by feminine beauty. touched the tip of the scepter. Sign of gratitude and respect.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 5:3 half of my kingdom. Hyperbole. Ahasuerus extravagantly offered Esther virtually anything she wanted. He repeats this offer in v 6 and 7:2. An identical offer was made by Herod Antipas to Salome (Mk 6:23).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 5:4 king and Haman come today to a feast. Esther's modest request shows that she has carefully thought about the best way to accomplish her ultimate purpose. In the ancient Near East, one never made the major request right away but paved the way with minor entreaties.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 5:5 came to the feast. Sixth feast reported in Est.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 5:6 drinking wine. Ahasuerus would have been in a mellow mood after the meal, seemingly a good time for Esther to beg his mercy for the Judeans. Her delay builds tension for the reader and allows other events to take place.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 5:8 come to the feast ... tomorrow. By requesting attendance at yet another banquet, Esther piqued the king's curiosity and aroused Haman's short-lived arrogance (v 12).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 5:1–8 Esther does not make her intentions known immediately, but waits for exactly the right time. Ultimately, it is God who inspires Esther's delay in order to give Haman more rope with which to hang himself. We are often impatient, eager to hurry things along. When God seems to act too slowly on our behalf, we may still trust His wisdom and continue to pray with confidence, "Your good and gracious will be done." • Loving Father, give me patience to wait in hope for Your saving help. Amen.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 5:9 Haman ... joyful and glad of heart. Esther's banquet had its desired effect on this enemy of the Judeans. neither rose nor trembled. Mordecai escalated his civil disobedience by failing to rise before Haman, filling him with greater wrath.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 5:10 Haman restrained himself and went home. Previously, Haman had "disdained to lay hands on Mordecai" (3:6). Perhaps this is a sign of personal cowardice.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 5:11–12 With his wife and friends as the audience, Haman enumerated his many achievements and honors. These included the opportunity to dine twice with the king and queen within 24 hours. Obviously, Haman was totally unaware of Esther's national origin.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 5:13 worth nothing to me. Haman's obsessive hatred of Mordecai had become irrational.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 5:14 fifty cubits high. Gallows are 75 ft, the height of a six-story building. See note, 2:23. The height illustrated Haman's wrath. tell the king to have Mordecai hanged. Irony. Haman's wife and friends suggested that he first erect the gallows and then tell the king what to do. Their plan would misfire badly.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 5:9–14 "Pride goes before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall" (Pr 16:18). These words warn us not to walk in the footsteps of Haman. God humbles those who glorify themselves. Outwardly, Haman has everything going for him, but because of his rage, he cannot enjoy what he has. In striking contrast to Haman is Christ Jesus, who "did not count equality with God a thing to be grasped," but humbled Himself for our salvation (Php 2:6–8). • O Holy Spirit, destroy in me all sinful pride, and lead me to kneel humbly in faith before the cross of Jesus, my Savior. Amen.

ESTHER—NOTE ON Ch 6 A near-comic turning point in the plot.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 6:1 chronicles. See note, 2:23.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 6:2 Ahasuerus heard the report of how Mordecai had uncovered an assassination plot against him.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 6:4 Who is in the court? Ahasuerus wanted to consult with an adviser about how to reward Mordecai. Haman ... having Mordecai hanged. Vicious irony. Haman arrived at the palace early in the morning, eager to tell the king that Mordecai must be executed.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 6:6 Ahasuerus and Haman had totally different agendas. The wording of the king's question is repeated six times in vv 6–11. The repetition becomes more humorous as Haman, swelled by his egotistical fantasies, vainly imagines that he is the one the king wants to honor. Ironically, the king keeps this person's identity secret, just as Haman had done when he requested the king to destroy a "certain people" (3:8).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 6:8 royal robes ... royal crown. Great significance was attached to the king's garments. To wear the king's clothing was to partake of his power, stature, and fame. Haman's suggestion would not only bring great honor to the recipient but also be flattering to the king. A turban, resembling a crown, was even placed on the horse's head.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 6:10 Hurry. Repeated in vv 12, 14. Developments in chs 1–5 move rapidly to their destined conclusion. do so to Mordecai the Jew. The king's command must have floored Haman. That Ahasuerus should so honor a Judean suggests that he was unaware of Haman's written decree to destroy this people (3:12–14).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 6:11 Haman ... dressed Mordecai. Sweetest irony. Haman removed Mordecai's hair shirt and burden at about the same time Haman had planned for Mordecai's execution. The outcome determined by Pur (see note, 3:7) is reversed, revealing the powerlessness of fate and divination.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 6:12 with his head covered. A gesture of mourning (cf Jer 14:3–4) or embarrassment.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 6:13 Reversal of Haman's fortunes was so shocking that his wife and friends concluded that his impending downfall was certain. They recognized the irresistible hidden force working on behalf of the Judeans.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 6:1–13 Ahasuerus, who is unable to sleep, hears of Mordecai's good deed and decides to honor him. Haman happens to arrive at the court just in time to become the king's agent appointed to honor the hated Mordecai. A skeptic might call this "luck," but believers see these events as a display of God's providence. A loving Father, not random chance, governs world affairs and rules all things for the good of His people. The hands that were nailed to the cross are the hands of God, who cares for you and me. • Thank You, Lord, for seeing the big picture in my life and for bringing me to this time and place. Amen.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 6:14 hurried ... to the feast. Haman was engrossed in his own injured pride and might have forgotten the queen's feast had he not been summoned. He must have gone with great misgivings.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 7:2 half of my kingdom. See note, 5:3.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 7:3 If ... if. Esther prefaced her request with two conditional phrases. wish ... request. Ahasuerus had used these words when asking Esther what she wanted (v 2). She repeated them as she begged for her own life and that of her people, whom she did not identify. By patiently honoring her husband, Esther won his sincere care—a subtheme in Est. Consider Ahasuerus's concern for Queen Esther in contrast with his earlier contempt for Queen Vashti.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 7:4 sold. Bribe paid by Haman to Ahasuerus. destroyed ... killed ... annihilated. Esther quoted the wording of Haman's written decree (3:13). slaves. May reflect how Haman deceived the king when making his original request (see note, 3:9). loss to the king. Esther intimated that the king would suffer a great loss if he executed the decree.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 7:5 Ahasuerus was either pretending ignorance of Haman's decree or was oblivious to what he had permitted (3:8–11).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 7:6 A foe and enemy! This wicked Haman! In breathless excitement, Esther labeled Haman as her people's vicious adversary. Haman was terrified. Haman knew there was little hope for him. The fear previously felt by the Judeans (4:3) now filled his heart.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 6:14–7:6 Haman hid from Ahasuerus the full consequences of his murderous plan to wipe out the people of Judah. The king may be deceived, but God is not. God also sees our motives and our inner meanness. God sees our every fault, large and small, open and hidden. But if we confess our sins—also those done in secret—He will forgive and cleanse us from all unrighteousness (1Jn 1:9). • Forgiving Lord, You see my secret sins and forgive them in Christ. By Your Spirit, help me amend my life and conform it more fully to reflect Your love. Amen.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 7:7 king arose in his wrath. Ahasuerus was obviously angry at Haman but may also have realized his own guilt. went into the palace garden. He left the wine to pursue sober reflection on what to do in light of the changing situation. Dismissing a high official, such as Haman, would likely have significant political implications for the king.

That Haman still held his office is perhaps shown by the fact that the king left Haman and Esther together. beg for his life. Irony. Haman now begs a Judean for mercy.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 7:8 falling on the couch. Esther was reclining on a cushion during the feast (see note, Mt 8:11). How ironic that Haman, who wished to slay all Judeans because of Mordecai's refusal to bow to him, now bowed to Esther the Judean. assault the queen. Ahasuerus perceived Haman's action as an attack on the queen, who had revealed his ill will. Such an assault would be high treason. covered Haman's face. In preparation for his coming execution. Once again, the bag goes over Haman's head (see note, 6:12).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 7:9 gallows ... standing at Haman's house. Towering gallows erected by Haman were widely visible. See note, 5:14.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 7:10 hanged Haman. Haman was punished for a crime he did not commit (assaulting the queen), just as he had intended to destroy Mordecai and the people of Judah, though they were innocent of any crime.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 7:7–10 Haman's end fulfills the words of Pr 26:27: "Whoever digs a pit will fall into it, and a stone will come back on him who starts it rolling." St Paul makes the same point: "Whatever one sows, that will he also reap" (Gal 6:7). When we find ourselves entangled in sin and its consequences, our only escape is to turn in repentance to Christ and receive from Him forgiveness and renewal. • Lord, when I fall, lift me up. When I stray, restore me to the paths of righteousness. Amen.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 8:1 house of Haman. Typical that the property of an executed criminal would be confiscated and awarded to someone else. Esther had told what he was to her. Ahasuerus finally learned of the relationship between his queen and Mordecai.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 8:2 signet ring. The king's signet ring authorized Mordecai to sign royal edicts, a power that had previously been granted to Haman (see note, 3:10). over the house of Haman. Further evidence that Mordecai had replaced Haman. Ambr: "That commendable friendship which maintains virtue is to be preferred most certainly to wealth, or honours, or power. It is not wont to be preferred to virtue indeed, but to follow after it" (NPNF 2 10:87).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 8:3 fell at his feet and wept and pleaded. Esther's plea, accompanied by emotional gestures, was intended to move the king to be merciful to the Judeans. pleaded. Same Hbr word was used in 4:8, when Mordecai asked Esther to approach the king on behalf of her people. avert the evil plan of Haman. Haman was dead, but his edict lived on (3:12–15).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 8:4 golden scepter. See notes, 4:11; 5:2.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 8:5 If it please the king. Esther prefaced her previous request to the king with similar conditional phrases (7:3) but here adds two more. revoke the letters devised by Haman. Esther asked Ahasuerus to nullify Haman's decree, which had gone out in the king's name.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 8:6 calamity. Lit, "evil." my people? … my kindred? Esther unabashedly identified herself with the Judeans. destruction. Lit, "perishing."
ESTHER—NOTE ON 8:7 Mordecai the Jew. Mordecai's Judean heritage is emphasized (cf 5:13; see note, 2:5). he intended to lay hands on the Jews. Actually, Ahasuerus had initially ordered Haman's execution because of his perceived attack on the queen (7:8–10).
ESTHER—NOTE ON 8:8 you may write as you please. Previously Haman had held that right (3:11). edict ... cannot be revoked. Though it was impossible for the Persian king to rescind any decree that had gone out in his name, issuing a second decree countered the effects of the first.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 8:9 third month ... twenty-third day. Second decree was issued 70 days after the first (3:12). each ... language. Scribes had to translate the edict in the languages of the 127 provinces of the Persian Empire. also to the Jews ... language. Edict was translated in Hbr, indicating that the Judeans had retained their own language.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 8:10 mounted couriers riding on swift horses. See note, 3:13.
ESTHER—NOTE ON 8:11 Every element in Haman's decree (3:13) had its counterpoint in the edict issued by Mordecai. to gather and defend their lives. Haman's decree had stated that the Persians were to attack the Judeans, who were now permitted to counterattack in defense. destroy ... kill ... annihilate any armed force. Mordecai used Haman's wording with one significant difference: the Judeans would be fighting in self-defense, not as aggressors determined to kill. children and women included. Judean women and children who might be attacked. plunder their goods. Haman had authorized plunder of the condemned people, and Mordecai gave that same permission to his people. However, the Judeans did not plunder the possessions of their enemies.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 8:12 on one day. Time limit was set so that the killing would not go on indefinitely. thirteenth day ... Adar. The original day chosen by lot for the destruction of the Judeans (see notes, 3:7, 13). See calendar, p 262.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 8:13 take vengeance on their enemies. Concept of revenge was deeply rooted in the ancient biblical world and also recognized in Mosaic Law (Dt 19:21: "life for life, eye for eye"; cf 1Ki 2:31). Mordecai permitted the Judeans to retaliate against enemies who would seek to harm them. Remember that Esther and Mordecai's first choice was simply to revoke Haman's edict, which Ahasuerus could not do (see notes, vv 5, 8).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 8:15 royal robes of blue and white. After Haman's edict, Mordecai had "put on sackcloth and ashes" (4:1). Now, he dressed in royal clothing, because the previous situation was completely reversed. great golden crown. Mordecai was second only to the king. city of Susa shouted and rejoiced. Earlier, the inhabitants of Susa were "thrown into confusion" (3:15) by the edict against the Judeans. Now, they were exultant. See map, p 609.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 8:16 Mourning, fasting, weeping, and lamenting (4:3) were replaced by celebration among the Judeans. This verse is still recited in synagogue services to mark the end of the Sabbath.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 8:17 feast. The eighth reference to a banquet or feast. declared themselves Jews. People of the land identified with the Judeans, not by converting to faith in Yahweh, but by siding with the Judeans in an ethnic sense. fear of the Jews had fallen on them. People were afraid to attack the Judeans because they knew the Judeans would fight back and defeat them.

ESTHER—NOTE ON Ch 8 King Ahasuerus gives Mordecai permission to issue a decree that countermands Haman's decree. The Judeans are given the right to defend themselves if attacked and so take vengeance on their enemies. Self-defense is not forbidden in Scripture, but Jesus has overturned the law of revenge for believers (cf Mt 5:38–39). Leave vengeance to the Lord and the governing officials, who are called to administer justice (Rm 12:19; 13:3–4). If God would deal with us as our sins deserve, we would all be destroyed in hell. But the holy God has reversed the decree of eternal death against us because of His Son's sacrifice on the cross. His love for us moves us to love even our enemies (Mt 5:44). • Lord God, You have issued a decree of deliverance for me. Cause the joy and gladness in my heart to shine forth every day in my words and actions as I share this good news with others. Amen.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:1 month of Adar, on the thirteenth day. Nine months have passed since Mordecai's edict was sent out. See calendar, p 262. Both his edict (8:12) and that of Haman (3:13) were to be carried out on the same day. Enemies of Judeans had the legal right to kill them. Judeans had the right to defend themselves and destroy their attackers. the reverse occurred: the Jews gained mastery over those who hated them. The theme of Est is summarized by this single phrase. Hatred of Judeans was obviously widespread, and many people in Persia hoped to annihilate this foreign race. Instead, the attackers found themselves overwhelmed.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:2 in their cities. Some Persian cities no doubt had a greater population of Judeans. fear of them had fallen on all peoples. People were afraid because Mordecai now wielded the power that Haman once had, and Judeans had been given power to defend themselves.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:3 All the officials of the provinces … helped the Jews. It was to their political advantage to get on the good side of those who were now in power. fear of Mordecai had fallen on them. The king's servants had once wondered if Mordecai's "words would stand" (3:4), and Haman was told by his wife that he would "surely fall before" Mordecai (6:13). What once seemed impossible had come to pass.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:4 the man Mordecai. Mordecai was no longer referred to as a Judean (see note, 8:7) but as "the man," suggesting his importance. This expression is also applied to Moses (Nu 12:3).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:5 did as they pleased. Judeans were given a free hand to kill their enemies without interference from government officials.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:6 killed and destroyed 500 men. Likely that at least some of those killed in Susa were members of the royal court.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:7–10 ten sons of Haman. Killing Haman's sons guaranteed that they would not seek to avenge their father's death or regain his office. Esther later requested the king to hang their bodies on the gallows (v 13). laid no hand on the plunder. Judeans had been given permission to plunder the property of their enemies, but they refused to do so (repeated in vv 15, 16). In a culture where such action was expected, their upright behavior would be noticed and remembered.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:11–12 What then have they done. Ahasuerus seemed appalled by what was happening in the land but made no move to stop the bloodshed. Now what is your wish? The king was ready to continue answering the requests of his queen. How completely Ahasuerus has changed since his dealings with Vashti (1:12–22).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:13 Susa … this day's edict. Esther requested another day for the resistance to be wiped out in Susa, where enemies still remained. Condition that Judeans were to fight only in self-defense still applied.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:14 ten sons of Haman were hanged. See note, vv 7–10. The Philistines had hung the dead body of Saul on the wall of Beth-shan to mock Esther and Mordecai's ancestors (1Sm 31:8–10).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:15 fourteenth day … killed 300 men in Susa. Only in Susa was there a second day of killing, which resulted in feasting on the 15th day of Adar (v 18).

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:16 Report of what happened in the 127 Persian provinces is brief. defend their lives. Self-defense is again emphasized. got relief. Hbr word means "quiet" or "rest." killed 75,000. An incredibly large number, but no more than that of people killed in other uprisings in history. Remember, the decree went throughout the vast Persian Empire. We need not assume that all Judeans acted from pure motives of self-defense; they may well have displayed a vengeful spirit.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:17 on the fourteenth day … feasting and gladness. Judeans in the provinces celebrated deliverance from their enemies with feasting and rejoicing on the 14th of Adar.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:18 on the fifteenth day. Festival in Susa was a day later because Judeans there had been fighting on the 13th and 14th. feasting and gladness. Tenth and final reference to feasting in Est.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:19 Holiday was observed annually in outlying areas on the 14th of Adar. gifts of food to one another. Unlike the festivals commanded of God's people in the Law of Moses, this festival did not include bringing sacrifices to the temple. Its emphasis was rather on communal celebrating, feasting, and giving gifts of food.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:1–19 When the 13th of Adar arrives, the Judeans ably defend themselves. They destroy those who hate them but take no plunder from their enemies. In this way, God preserves His OT people because from them would come the Savior of the world. God controls history to preserve His elect and fulfill His promises. That is still true today. The Church has been called to witness to the Gospel in a world that is often contemptuous and hostile. By God's grace, we can be sure that no matter how "the nations rage and the peoples plot" (Ps 2:1), "the gates of hell shall not prevail" against the Church (Mt 16:18). God keeps us close to our Savior so that we might be His throughout all eternity. • Praise be to Your name, Lord God, for calling me to faith in Your Son and promising Your loving protection for me and all believers, now and forever. Amen.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:20 Mordecai's letters reviewed how Judeans were saved from their enemies, an event to be celebrated annually at the Festival of Purim. See pp 200–201. Written documents carried special authority throughout the Persian Empire, and Est frequently mentions them. Cf vv 23, 26, 27, 29, 30, 32.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:21 There had been feasting in the villages on the 14th of Adar and in Susa on the 15th (vv 17–18). Mordecai required Judeans to celebrate on both days.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:22 sorrow into gladness. Future generations of God's people would recall the time when sorrow was turned into joy and mourning into celebration. sending gifts of food … and gifts to the poor. Part of the festivities, emphasizing community and compassion.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:23 The Judeans agreed to celebrate on an annual basis what they had initially done spontaneously.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:24–25 In explaining the reason for the holiday, credit is given to the king for hanging Haman and his sons. No mention is made of the contributions of Esther and Mordecai and the battles fought between the Judeans and their enemies. cast Pur. See note, 3:7. he gave orders in writing. Refers to document Mordecai requested from Ahasuerus to counteract Haman's decree.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:26a Purim. Became a major holiday, along with the festivals commanded in Mosaic Law. Purim is not mentioned in the NT (nor is Est quoted), but shortly after the time of Christ, official Jewish worship regulations included a whole section devoted to its observance. Today, it is usually celebrated on only one day, the 14th of Adar (Feb/Mar). An important aspect is the public reading of the Book of Esther. During this reading, people use noisemakers, cheer at the mention of Mordecai's name, and hiss when Haman's name is mentioned. Children wear costumes and paint their faces for this victory celebration.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:26b–28 all who joined them. Some Gentiles become worshipers of the true God and join the Judeans in observing all the festivals. among their descendants. Judeans obligate themselves (v 21) to observe this festival throughout every generation. Like the other festivals, Purim keeps them separate from other nations and contributes to their survival as a people.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:29 Queen Esther … gave full written authority. She added the weight of her royal authority to Mordecai's letter instituting this new festival.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:30 Letters that went out to the provinces were worded in a friendly manner and stressed the facts of what had transpired. Some Judeans may have questioned celebrating Purim because it was not authorized in Mosaic Law.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:31 obligated … obligated themselves. People had agreed to do what Mordecai and Esther required of them (vv 21, 27). their fasts and their lamenting. Many later kept the 13th of Adar as a day of fasting.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:32 The authority of Esther, a secular ruler, is again cited as the reason to observe Purim.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 9:20–32 The Festival of Purim is established by Mordecai and Esther to celebrate the destruction of Haman and other Persian enemies. God works behind the scenes to bring about this victory. Later, God intervenes in a very public, yet mysterious, way to overcome the spiritual enemies of all people: sin, death, and the devil. We were helpless, but God rescued us by sending His Son, who took our sin, our punishment, and our death upon Himself, paying the price for our redemption. We have gotten relief from our enemies. Our sorrow has been turned to joy and our mourning into feasting because the Holy Spirit has worked faith in our hearts. We celebrate our victory at the festivals of Christmas, Easter, and Pentecost. • Loving Father, You sent Jesus to rescue me from eternal death and the Spirit to create faith in my heart. My celebration of joy and gladness has begun, and I look forward to it continuing with You forever in heaven. Amen.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 10:1 imposed tax. One function of government is to levy and collect taxes. During the chaotic period surrounding the events of the 13th of Adar, it is likely that this activity was disrupted. King Ahasuerus then reasserted his authority and imposed tax on the entire land, including the coastland of Asia Minor, which the Persians controlled. Cf 2:18, where the king "granted a remission of taxes."

ESTHER—NOTE ON 10:2 written in the Book of the Chronicles of the kings of Media and Persia? This statement, patterned after those made about the kings of Israel (1Ki 14:29; 16:14, 20), is meant to authenticate the accuracy of Est. The official history of this period in the Persian archives recounted the acts of Ahasuerus and the high honor of Mordecai (see note, 2:23). The two kingdoms, Media and Persia, are mentioned in chronological order, suggesting that this official history covered several centuries. These particular chronicles have not been preserved by history.

ESTHER—NOTE ON 10:3 second in rank. Mordecai was second only to the king in authority and probably functioned something like a prime minister (note how the Lord raised up Joseph in Gn 41). he sought the welfare of his people. Mordecai was concerned not about increasing his own power in the empire but in promoting the best interests of his fellow Judeans. peace. Hbr shalom has the broad sense of prosperity, health, security, and good of every kind. By securing the welfare of his own people throughout the empire, Mordecai would secure the welfare of others as well. He would be great and popular, not only among Judeans, but also among other nations and tribes.

ESTHER—NOTE ON Ch 10 This postscript to Est praises Ahasuerus and Mordecai for providing the people with good government and for seeking their welfare. Martin Luther included "pious and faithful rulers" and "good government" among the blessings for which we pray in the Fourth Petition of the Lord's Prayer (p xxxviii). Sometimes we fail to appreciate this gift from God but rather murmur and complain about our leaders. St Paul reminds believers that God instituted earthly authority (Rm 13:1), and Christians humbly accept their leaders as evidence of God's providential care for us and others. • Almighty Father, forgive my grumbling about persons in positions of leadership, and move me to give thanks for the blessings You give through them. Amen.

JOB THROUGH SONG OF SOLOMON

The Books of Wisdom and Poetry

> FROM WHERE, THEN, DOES WISDOM come? … God understands the way to it, and He knows its place…. And He said to man, "Behold, the fear of the Lord, that is wisdom, and to turn away from evil is understanding." (Jb 28:20, 23, 28)

With these poetic lines, Job reaches an important conclusion in his debate with three friends. They have come to mourn with him because of his deep suffering and to explain to him why things are the way they are. Job disagrees with them and, in the passage above, concludes that only God understands how things really work in life, death, and suffering. Their debate has to do with wisdom, which, as Job explains, is difficult to find and understand. The issues are described in poetry, which also can be difficult to understand.

This essay will explore unique features of the Books of Wisdom and Poetry, which stand together in the Old Testament because of their forms, themes, and authorship. It will help you understand these unique and challenging passages of God's Word and their important message.

The Ways of the Creator

The biblical term wisdom (Hbr chokmah) occurs most often in Job, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes (c three-fifths of all usages). Whereas numerous psalms recount the history of early Israel and draw wise observations from that history, the main Books of Wisdom and Poetry never talk about the earliest history of Israel (e.g., Abraham, Jacob, and Moses are never mentioned in Job, Proverbs, or Ecclesiastes). These Books of Wisdom and Poetry mention some of Israel's important rulers (e.g., Proverbs mentions David, Solomon, and Hezekiah), but their main focus has to do with God's orderly creation and living in harmony with that order.

Hebrew wisdom was not theoretical or speculative but practical and based on God's ways observed in creation. However, biblical wisdom is not simply a natural knowledge of God and His ways. Nor is it derived from human reason. As Jb 28 shows, wisdom is something God understands (v 23). He has declared it and spoken it (vv 27–28). Wisdom could not be "the fear of the Lord" (v 28) unless the Lord made Himself known. Biblical wisdom is a special revelation from God, as surely as the Ten Commandments or the sermons of the prophets. Ultimately, it is knowledge leading to repentance and faith in the Lord.

Wisdom is the art of life, living the way God intended. As a result, biblical wisdom focuses on ethics and spiritual conduct—the way of righteousness. This wise way of life comes from a personal God who is righteous and holy; wisdom is one of His attributes. (When you read the mundane details about life in Proverbs, see in them the intimacy of the Creator's care for His creation.) Wisdom is distinct from philosophy (as recorded by the Greeks), though these disciplines share a common interest in created order, an interest that ultimately developed into what we call science.

Common Themes in Biblical Wisdom

The Books of Wisdom and Poetry display common themes in the following introductory and concluding passages:

> There was a man … whose name was Job … who feared God and turned away from evil. (Jb 1:1)
>
> The LORD knows the way of the righteous, but the way of the wicked will perish. (Ps 1:6)
>
> The fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge; fools despise wisdom and instruction. (Pr 1:7)
>
> Fear God and keep His commandments, for this is the whole duty of man. For God will bring every deed into judgment, with every secret thing, whether good or evil. (Ec 12:13–14)

The themes of (1) fear toward God, (2) the difference between the righteous and the wicked, and (3) the Lord's role as judge appear repeatedly. Wisdom teaches that people may walk along one of two ways or paths: one leading to destruction, the other leading to life.

An exception among the Books of Wisdom and Poetry is the Song of Solomon, which celebrates the wonder of love that "is strong as death…. Its flashes are flashes of fire, the very flame of the LORD" (8:6). Here is the only reference to the Lord in the Song, connecting the bond of marital love with His power. The Song of Solomon probably stands with the other Wisdom Books because of its poetic form and its authorship by Solomon the Wise.

Wise Men and Counselors

The Books of Wisdom and Poetry likely had their start as wise sayings offered by judges and teachers in Israel. Their poetic form has it root in the oral culture of the ancient Near East (see "Biblical Poetry," pp 777–78). Numerous biblical passages refer to wise men and counselors who guided the decision making for kings and communities (cf Ex 18:13–27; Ru 4:1–2; 1Ki 12:6–8; Jer 18:18; Ezk 7:26). Their wise sayings were collected for instructing the young (1Ki 4:29–34; Pr 25:1). For example, Pr 1–9 presents a series of educational speeches from a father to a son, or from a teacher to his student. Leaders in Israel expected their people to learn wisdom—in fact, the Lord commanded it. Children were expected to learn the texts of the Commandments (Dt 6:4–9), and citizens were expected to learn certain songs (Dt 31:19; 2Sm 1:17–18; Ps 60). Education in wisdom had personal, family, clan, and national importance.

Many teachings in Israelite wisdom overlap with wise sayings from other cultures. For example, Pr 22:17–24:22 is similar to the Egyptian "Wisdom of Amenemope," which dates from before the time of Solomon. In part, such overlaps occurred because the problems of living are much the same everywhere, regardless of religion, culture, and history. Naturally, similar observations would arise. Yet Scripture also tells us that Solomon "collected" wise sayings. He probably did not limit his collecting to the sayings of Israelites (see chart below). Since wisdom was based on God's created order, all true wisdom naturally belonged to God and His people.

Conclusions about Wisdom

The early Christian apologist Justin Martyr (c 100–c 165) reflected on the universal presence of God's wisdom as follows:

> Whatever things were rightly said among all men, are the property of us Christians. For next to God, we worship and love the Word who is from the unbegotten and ineffable God, since also He became man for our sakes, that, becoming a partaker of our sufferings, He might also bring us healing. For all the [ancient] writers were able to see realities darkly through the sowing of the implanted word that was in them. (ANF 1:193)

Justin's attitudes reflect a long-standing approach to wisdom in ancient Israel, in Judaism, and among the first Christians. Since truth comes from God, whatever is true belongs to God's people. Yet biblical wisdom is different from that of other cultures and religions because it emphasizes one God as the source of all knowledge and understanding; it focuses on right and wrong and is fulfilled in Christ, our righteousness.

Over time, biblical wisdom focused more and more on the Scriptures—God's Word—where God's ways are faithfully recorded (Ps 1; 119). Just as God's creation is orderly and harmonious, so God's Word is harmonious and orders our steps in the way of life. Biblical wisdom illustrates the faithful living found in the "legal" sections of the Books of Moses. Ultimately, wisdom embodied two things: Scripture as Wisdom (pursued by Judaism and Christianity) and Christ as Wisdom (pursued by Christianity as described in Colossians and John). The Lutheran hymn writer Erdmann Neumeister (1671–1756) expressed all this most beautifully:

> I know my faith is founded > On Jesus Christ, my God and Lord;
> And this my faith confessing,
> Unmoved I stand on His sure Word.
> Our reason cannot fathom
> The truth of God profound;
> Who trusts in human wisdom

Relies on shifting ground.
God's Word is all-sufficient,
It makes divinely sure,
And trusting in its wisdom,
My faith shall rest secure. (LSB 587:1)

Biblical Poetry

One-quarter to one-third of the Old Testament is poetry. In most ancient literature of the Near East, poetry is the preferred form of expression. The biblical Wisdom Books of Job, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes are almost entirely poetic. Therefore, it was natural for scribes to group together the Wisdom Books with other Poetic Books such as Psalms and the Song of Solomon. However, poetry is also found throughout the Historical Books and is especially common in the Prophetic Books.

The common poetic style for wisdom is based on the mashal (translated "proverb"), which builds on strong contrasts such as good and evil, righteousness and wickedness, life and death. The wise insights are collected into short, pithy sayings. These sayings are often presented in longer speeches (e.g., Jb 3:1–42:6; Pr 1–9).

As stated above, Hebrew poetry is rooted in speech and was probably composed orally. Poetry has its roots in ancient, oral composition, when people told stories or expressed ideas in memorable forms that they would also commit to writing. Today, writing is exactly how we remember things. (Who hasn't said, "Wait, let me get a pen," while on the phone?)

Some prose passages of Scripture may be based on earlier poems. For example, the song of Deborah in Jgs 5 probably predates the prose account in Jgs 4. Moses and the author of Joshua may be quoting earlier poetic works when writing their histories (e.g., note the poetry at Gn 1:27; 2:4, 23; 3:14–19; 4:23–24; 9:6, 25–27; and Jsh 10:12–13).

The Form of Hebrew Poetry

The ESV translators make it easy for you to recognize poetic passages by presenting them in poetic format from short lines (cola) to poetic paragraphs (strophes and refrains) to stanzas (longer passages separated by extra space). In Hebrew, poetry and prose are distinguished by the presence or lack of prose markers—three Hebrew terms commonly found in prose but not often found in poetry. Two of these prose markers are frequently translated as "which" (relative pronoun) and "the" (definite article). The third prose marker is not translated. It stands before a noun to show what the direct object in the sentence is. Because these prose markers appear six to eight times more often in prose, poetic passages feel lean or terse as one reads them in Hebrew.

Attempts to discover and describe a grand system of Hebrew poetry have been challenging. Hebrew poems can have formal meter and structure, but they do not consistently appear in rhyme, cadence, or rhythms of long and short syllables (commonly found in Greek and English poems). Nor do Hebrew poems have a strict number of syllables (like Japanese haiku). In fact, even though a Hebrew poem may evidence clear form in its lines and structure, it is not likely that it shares that same form and structure with other Hebrew poems. Perhaps this is a result of free, oral composition. Masters probably passed on their way of composing a poem to their students, which would explain why many poems show similarity, yet do not conform to specific patterns. Forms are there, guiding the composers but not restricting them. Acrostic poems, which have their outline from the 22 letters of the Hebrew alphabet, have the most obvious structure. Yet even these poems differ significantly from one another, since they may arrange each colon by the alphabet (e.g., Ps 111) or by as many as eight lines for each letter (e.g., Ps 119).

Categories of Hebrew Poems

Specific types of Hebrew poetry are difficult to identify. We have some Hebrew names for poetic compositions (e.g., shir, mizmor, maskil, and qinah). But the writers did not explain for us the specific features of these poems. We are left to wonder whether these terms describe a specific type of poetry or a poem's content.

Theologian Hermann Gunkel (1862–1932) distinguished a variety of categories for Hebrew psalms: (1) hymns, (2) thanksgiving psalms, (3) royal psalms, (4) laments, (5) penitential psalms, and (6) imprecatory psalms. (Some of Gunkel's categories were based on ancient uses for psalms; e.g., the "seven penitential psalms" were used liturgically by the early Christians.) Such categories can be helpful but should not be applied too strictly, since they are modern categories that may not truly reflect how God's people viewed their poems. Goals or functions can also be used to distinguish Hebrew poems. Some have suggested the following: didactic poetry, liturgical poetry, love poetry, and prophetic poetry.

Parallelism

The most important feature of Hebrew poetry is the use of parallel words, thoughts, sounds, and forms of grammar. Poetic lines (usually two, called bicola) may have one or more of these parallels. The parallels may contrast with each other, compare to each other, or build upon each other in a variety of ways. Here are some common examples of parallels:

Parallel Grammar

He judges the world with righteousness;
He judges the peoples with uprightness. (Ps 9:8)

These lines have the same grammatical structure: noun, verb, noun, prepositional phrase.

Parallel Sounds

> Can papyrus grow [hayig'eh] where there is no [belo'] marsh?
> Can reeds flourish [yisgeh] where there is no [beli] water? (Jb 8:11)
> The sounds of the first line are echoed in the second.

Parallel Thought (comparison)

Like a lame man's legs, which hang useless,
Is a proverb in the mouth of fools. (Pr 26:7)

Parallel Thought (contrast)

Weeping may tarry for the night,
But joy comes with the morning. (Ps 30:5b)

Parallel Thoughts in Steps

The LORD is a stronghold for the oppressed,
A stronghold in times of trouble. (Ps 9:9)

The second line builds on the thought about "stronghold" introduced in the first line.

Word pairs provide the basic building blocks for many parallels. They are words people commonly associate with one another. Examples of English word pairs would be cat and mouse, man and woman, night and day. The Hebrews and other ancient composers (such as the Canaanites at Ras Shamra) used word pairs to create and organize their poetic lines. They also paired words with similar meanings or contrasting meanings. Examples of word pairs in the Hebrew poetry above are world and peoples, weeping and joy, night and morning, oppressed and trouble.

Conclusions about Poetry

Recognizing parallels is an important tool for interpreting Hebrew poems. Since one line relates to the next, the lines often clarify or explain one another. As you read and seek to apply God's Word written in poems, be sure to look for these parallels. They will reveal not just the poem's beauty but, most important, its meaning.

Hebrew word pairs also often work hand in hand with the basic teachings of God's Word: Law and Gospel. Many contrasting word pairs are used again and again in Hebrew poetry and help the reader to distinguish Law and Gospel. Here are some classic Law and Gospel word pairs: curse and bless, hate and love, sin and mercy, wicked and righteous.

Job’s Character and Wealth

1 [1]†† There was a man in the land of Uz whose name was Job, and that man was blameless and upright, one who feared God and turned away from evil. [2] † There were born to him seven sons and three daughters. [3]He possessed 7,000 sheep, 3,000 camels, 500 yoke of oxen, and 500 female donkeys, and very many servants, so that this man was the greatest of all the people of the east. [4]†His sons used to go and hold a feast in the house of each one on his day, and they would send and invite their three sisters to eat and drink with them. [5]†And when the days of the feast had run their course, Job would send and consecrate them, and he would rise early in the morning and offer burnt offerings according to the number of them all. For Job said, “It may be that my children have sinned, and cursed[1] God in their hearts.” Thus Job did continually.

Satan Allowed to Test Job

6 ‡ † Now there was a day when the sons of God came to present themselves before the Lord, and Satan[2] also came among them. 7 †The Lord said to Satan, “From where have you come?” Satan answered the Lord and said, “From going to and fro on the earth, and from walking up and down on it.” 8 †And the Lord said to Satan, “Have you considered my servant Job, that there is none like him on the earth, a blameless and upright man, who fears God and turns away from evil?” 9 ‡Then Satan answered the Lord and said, “Does Job fear God for no reason? 10 Have you not put a hedge around him and his house and all that he has, on every side? You have blessed the work of his hands, and his possessions have increased in the land. 11 †But stretch out your hand and touch all that he has, and he will curse you to your face.” 12 †And the Lord said to Satan, “Behold, all that he has is in your hand. Only against him do not stretch out your hand.” So Satan went out from the presence of the Lord.

Satan Takes Job's Property and Children

13 ‡ † Now there was a day when his sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine in their oldest brother's house, 14 † and there came a messenger to Job and said, "The oxen were plowing and the donkeys feeding beside them, 15 † and the Sabeans fell upon them and took them and struck down the servants[1] with the edge of the sword, and I alone have escaped to tell you." 16 † While he was yet speaking, there came another and said, "The fire of God fell from heaven and burned up the sheep and the servants and consumed them, and I alone have escaped to tell you." 17 † While he was yet speaking, there came another and said, "The Chaldeans formed three groups and made a raid on the camels and took them and struck down the servants with the edge of the sword, and I alone have escaped to tell you." 18 ‡ While he was yet speaking, there came another and said, "Your sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine in their oldest brother's house, 19 † and behold, a great wind came across the wilderness and struck the four corners of the house, and it fell upon the young people, and they are dead, and I alone have escaped to tell you."

20 † Then Job arose and tore his robe and shaved his head and fell on the ground and worshiped. 21 † And he said, "Naked I came from my mother's womb, and naked shall I return. The Lord gave, and the Lord has taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord."

22 † In all this Job did not sin or charge God with wrong.

Satan Attacks Job's Health

2 [1]†† Again there was a day when the sons of God came to present themselves before the Lord, and Satan also came among them to present himself before the Lord. [2]And the Lord said to Satan, "From where have you come?" Satan answered the Lord and said, "From going to and fro on the earth, and from walking up and down on it." [3]† And the Lord said to Satan,
"Have you considered my servant Job, that there is none like him on the earth, a blameless and upright man, who fears God and turns away from evil? He still holds fast his integrity, although you incited me against him to destroy him without reason." [4]† Then Satan answered the Lord and said, "Skin for skin! All that a man has he will give for his life. [5]† But stretch out your hand and touch his bone and his flesh, and he will curse you to your face." [6]† And the Lord said to Satan, "Behold, he is in your hand; only spare his life."

[7]† So Satan went out from the presence of the Lord and struck Job with loathsome sores from the sole of his foot to the crown of his head. [8]† And he took a piece of broken pottery with which to scrape himself while he sat in the ashes.

[9]† Then his wife said to him, "Do you still hold fast your integrity? Curse
God and die." [10]But he said to her, "You speak as one of the foolish women would speak. Shall we receive good from God, and shall we not receive evil?"[1] In all this Job did not sin with his lips.

Job’s Three Friends

11 ‡ † Now when Job’s three friends heard of all this evil that had come upon him, they came each from his own place, Eliphaz the Temanite, Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite. They made an appointment together to come to show him sympathy and comfort him. 12 † And when they saw him from a distance, they did not recognize him. And they raised their voices and wept, and they tore their robes and sprinkled dust on their heads toward heaven. 13 † And they sat with him on the ground seven days and seven nights, and no one spoke a word to him, for they saw that his suffering was very great.

Job Laments His Birth

3 [1]†After this Job opened his mouth and cursed the day of his birth.
[2]And Job said:

[3]†"Let the day perish on which I was born,
and the night that said,
'A man is conceived.'
[4]† Let that day be darkness!
May God above not seek it,
nor light shine upon it.
[5]† Let gloom and deep darkness claim it.
Let clouds dwell upon it;
let the blackness of the day terrify it.
[6]† That night—let thick darkness seize it!
Let it not rejoice among the days of the year;
let it not come into the number of the months.
[7]† Behold, let that night be barren;
let no joyful cry enter it.
[8]† Let those curse it who curse the day,
who are ready to rouse up Leviathan.
[9]† Let the stars of its dawn be dark;
let it hope for light, but have none,
nor see the eyelids of the morning, [10]† because it did not shut the doors of my mother's womb,
nor hide trouble from my eyes.

[11]†"Why did I not die at birth,
come out from the womb and expire?
[12]† Why did the knees receive me?
Or why the breasts, that I should nurse?

13 For then I would have lain down and been quiet;
I would have slept; then I would have been
at rest,
14 with kings and counselors of the earth
who rebuilt ruins for themselves, 15 or with princes who had gold,
who filled their houses with silver.
16 Or why was I not as a hidden stillborn child,
as infants who never see the light?
17 There the wicked cease from troubling,
and there the weary are at rest.
18 There the prisoners are at ease together;
they hear not the voice of the taskmaster.
19 The small and the great are there,
and the slave is free from his master.

20 "Why is light given to him who is in misery,
and life to the bitter in soul, 21 who long for death, but it comes not,
and dig for it more than for hidden treasures,
22 who rejoice exceedingly
and are glad when they find the grave?
23 Why is light given to a man whose way is hidden,
whom God has hedged in?
24 For my sighing comes instead of[1] my bread, and my groanings are poured out like
water.
25 For the thing that I fear comes upon me,
and what I dread befalls me.
26 I am not at ease, nor am I quiet;
I have no rest, but trouble comes."

Eliphaz Speaks: The Innocent Prosper

4 [1]†Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:

[2]†"If one ventures a word with you, will you be impatient?
Yet who can keep from speaking?
[3] Behold, you have instructed many,
and you have strengthened the weak hands.
[4] Your words have upheld him who was stumbling,
and you have made firm the feeble knees.
[5]† But now it has come to you, and you are impatient;
it touches you, and you are dismayed.
[6]† Is not your fear of God[2] your confidence,
and the integrity of your ways your hope?

[7]†"Remember: who that was innocent ever perished?
Or where were the upright cut off?
[8] As I have seen, those who plow iniquity and sow trouble reap the same.
[9]† By the breath of God they perish, and by the blast of his anger they are consumed.
[10]† The roar of the lion, the voice of the fierce lion,
the teeth of the young lions are broken.
[11] The strong lion perishes for lack of prey,
and the cubs of the lioness are scattered.

12 ‡ “Now a word was brought to me stealthily;
my ear received the whisper of it.
13 Amid thoughts from visions of the night,
when deep sleep falls on men,
14 dread came upon me, and trembling,
which made all my bones shake.
15 ‡ A spirit glided past my face;
the hair of my flesh stood up.
16 ‡ It stood still,
but I could not discern its appearance.
A form was before my eyes;
there was silence, then I heard a voice:
17 ‡ ‘Can mortal man be in the right before[1] God?
Can a man be pure before his Maker?
18 ‡ Even in his servants he puts no trust,
and his angels he charges with error;
19 ‡ how much more those who dwell in houses
of clay,
whose foundation is in the dust,
who are crushed like the moth.
20 Between morning and evening they are beaten to pieces;
they perish forever without anyone
regarding it.
21 ‡ Is not their tent-cord plucked up within
them,
do they not die, and that without wisdom?’

5 1 ‡ “Call now; is there anyone who will answer you?
To which of the holy ones will you turn?

2 ‡ Surely vexation kills the fool,
and jealousy slays the simple.
3 ‡ I have seen the fool taking root,
but suddenly I cursed his dwelling.

4 His children are far from safety;
they are crushed in the gate,
and there is no one to deliver them.
5† The hungry eat his harvest,
and he takes it even out of thorns,[2]
and the thirsty pant[3] after his[4] wealth.
6† For affliction does not come from the dust,
nor does trouble sprout from the ground,
7† but man is born to trouble
as the sparks fly upward.

8†† "As for me, I would seek God,
and to God would I commit my cause, 9 who does great things and unsearchable,
marvelous things without number:
10 he gives rain on the earth
and sends waters on the fields;
11 he sets on high those who are lowly,
and those who mourn are lifted to safety.
12 He frustrates the devices of the crafty,
so that their hands achieve no success.
13† He catches the wise in their own craftiness, and the schemes of the wily are brought to a quick end.
14† They meet with darkness in the daytime
and grope at noonday as in the night.
15 But he saves the needy from the sword of their mouth
and from the hand of the mighty.
16† So the poor have hope,
and injustice shuts her mouth.

17† "Behold, blessed is the one whom God reproves;
therefore despise not the discipline of the Almighty.

18 For he wounds, but he binds up;
he shatters, but his hands heal.
19 He will deliver you from six troubles;
in seven no evil[1] shall touch you.
20 In famine he will redeem you from death,
and in war from the power of the sword.
21 You shall be hidden from the lash of the tongue,
and shall not fear destruction when it comes.
22 At destruction and famine you shall laugh,
and shall not fear the beasts of the earth.
23 For you shall be in league with the stones of the field,
and the beasts of the field shall be at peace
with you.
24 You shall know that your tent is at peace,
and you shall inspect your fold and miss
nothing.
25 You shall know also that your offspring shall be many,
and your descendants as the grass of the
earth.
26 You shall come to your grave in ripe old age,
like a sheaf gathered up in its season.
27 Behold, this we have searched out; it is true.
Hear, and know it for your good."[2]

Job Replies: My Complaint Is Just

6 [1]Then Job answered and said:

[2]"Oh that my vexation were weighed,
and all my calamity laid in the balances!
[3] For then it would be heavier than the sand of the sea;
therefore my words have been rash.
[4] For the arrows of the Almighty are in me;
my spirit drinks their poison;
the terrors of God are arrayed against me.
[5] Does the wild donkey bray when he has grass,
or the ox low over his fodder?
[6] Can that which is tasteless be eaten without salt,
or is there any taste in the juice of the mallow?[1] [7] My appetite refuses to touch them;
they are as food that is loathsome to me.[2]

[8]"Oh that I might have my request,
and that God would fulfill my hope, [9] that it would please God to crush me,
that he would let loose his hand and cut me off!
[10] This would be my comfort;
I would even exult[3] in pain unsparing,
for I have not denied the words of the Holy One.
[11] What is my strength, that I should wait?
And what is my end, that I should be patient?

12 Is my strength the strength of stones, or is my flesh bronze?
13† Have I any help in me,
when resource is driven from me?

14†“He who withholds[4] kindness from a friend
forsakes the fear of the Almighty.
15† My brothers are treacherous as a torrent-bed,
as torrential streams that pass away, 16 which are dark with ice,
and where the snow hides itself.
17 When they melt, they disappear;
when it is hot, they vanish from their place.
18† The caravans turn aside from their course;
they go up into the waste and perish.
19 The caravans of Tema look,
the travelers of Sheba hope.
20 They are ashamed because they were confident;
they come there and are disappointed.
21† For you have now become nothing;
you see my calamity and are afraid.
22† Have I said, ‘Make me a gift’?
Or, ‘From your wealth offer a bribe for me’?
23 Or, ‘Deliver me from the adversary’s hand’?
Or, ‘Redeem me from the hand of the ruthless’?

24“Teach me, and I will be silent;
make me understand how I have gone astray.
25 How forceful are upright words!
But what does reproof from you reprove?
26† Do you think that you can reprove words,

when the speech of a despairing man
is wind?
27† You would even cast lots over the fatherless,
and bargain over your friend.

28‡“But now, be pleased to look at me,
for I will not lie to your face.
29 Please turn; let no injustice be done.
Turn now; my vindication is at stake.
30† Is there any injustice on my tongue?
Cannot my palate discern the cause of calamity?

Job Continues: My Life Has No Hope

7 [1]“ Has not man a hard service on earth, and are not his days like the days of a hired hand?

[2] Like a slave who longs for the shadow,
and like a hired hand who looks for his wages,
[3] so I am allotted months of emptiness,
and nights of misery are apportioned to me.
[4] When I lie down I say, ‘When shall I arise?’
But the night is long,
and I am full of tossing till the dawn.
[5] My flesh is clothed with worms and dirt;
my skin hardens, then breaks out afresh.
[6] My days are swifter than a weaver’s shuttle and come to their end without hope.

[7]“Remember that my life is a breath;
my eye will never again see good.
[8] The eye of him who sees me will behold me
no more;
while your eyes are on me, I shall be gone.
[9] As the cloud fades and vanishes,
so he who goes down to Sheol does not come up;
[10] he returns no more to his house,
nor does his place know him anymore.

[11]“Therefore I will not restrain my mouth;
I will speak in the anguish of my spirit;
I will complain in the bitterness of my soul.

12† Am I the sea, or a sea monster,
that you set a guard over me?
13 When I say, ‘My bed will comfort me,
my couch will ease my complaint,’ 14† then you scare me with dreams
and terrify me with visions, 15 so that I would choose strangling
and death rather than my bones.
16† I loathe my life; I would not live forever.
Leave me alone, for my days are a breath.
17† What is man, that you make so much of
him,
and that you set your heart on him, 18 visit him every morning
and test him every moment?
19† How long will you not look away from me,
nor leave me alone till I swallow my spit?
20† If I sin, what do I do to you, you watcher of mankind?
Why have you made me your mark?
Why have I become a burden to you?
21† Why do you not pardon my transgression
and take away my iniquity?
For now I shall lie in the earth;
you will seek me, but I shall not be.”

Bildad Speaks: Job Should Repent

8 [1]†Then Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:

[2]†"How long will you say these things, and the words of your mouth be a great
wind?
[3]† Does God pervert justice?
Or does the Almighty pervert the right?
[4]† If your children have sinned against him,
he has delivered them into the hand of their transgression.
[5] If you will seek God
and plead with the Almighty for mercy, [6]† if you are pure and upright,
surely then he will rouse himself for you and restore your rightful habitation.
[7]† And though your beginning was small,
your latter days will be very great.

[8]‡"For inquire, please, of bygone ages, and consider what the fathers have searched out.
[9] For we are but of yesterday and know
nothing,
for our days on earth are a shadow.
[10] Will they not teach you and tell you and utter words out of their understanding?

[11]‡"Can papyrus grow where there is no marsh?
Can reeds flourish where there is no
water?

12 While yet in flower and not cut down,
they wither before any other plant.
13 Such are the paths of all who forget God;
the hope of the godless shall perish.
14† His confidence is severed,
and his trust is a spider's web.[1] 15 He leans against his house, but it does not stand;
he lays hold of it, but it does not endure.
16 He is a lush plant before the sun,
and his shoots spread over his garden.
17 His roots entwine the stone heap;
he looks upon a house of stones.
18† If he is destroyed from his place, then it will deny him, saying, 'I have never seen you.'
19† Behold, this is the joy of his way,
and out of the soil others will spring.

20†"Behold, God will not reject a blameless man,
nor take the hand of evildoers.
21 He will yet fill your mouth with laughter,
and your lips with shouting.
22† Those who hate you will be clothed with
shame,
and the tent of the wicked will be no more."

Job Replies: There Is No Arbiter

9 [1]Then Job answered and said:

[2]† "Truly I know that it is so:
But how can a man be in the right before God?
[3] If one wished to contend with him,
one could not answer him once in a thousand times.
[4]† He is wise in heart and mighty in strength
—who has hardened himself against him, and succeeded?— [5] he who removes mountains, and they know it not,
when he overturns them in his anger, [6]† who shakes the earth out of its place,
and its pillars tremble;
[7]† who commands the sun, and it does not rise;
who seals up the stars;
[8]† who alone stretched out the heavens
and trampled the waves of the sea;
[9]† who made the Bear and Orion,
the Pleiades and the chambers of the south;
[10] who does great things beyond searching out,
and marvelous things beyond number.
[11]† Behold, he passes by me, and I see him not;
he moves on, but I do not perceive him.
[12]† Behold, he snatches away; who can turn him back?
Who will say to him, 'What are you doing?'

13 “God will not turn back his anger;
beneath him bowed the helpers of Rahab.
14 How then can I answer him,
choosing my words with him?
15 Though I am in the right, I cannot answer him;
I must appeal for mercy to my accuser.[1]
16 If I summoned him and he answered me,
I would not believe that he was listening to my voice.
17 For he crushes me with a tempest
and multiplies my wounds without cause; 18 he will not let me get my breath,
but fills me with bitterness.
19 If it is a contest of strength, behold, he is mighty!
If it is a matter of justice, who can summon
him?[2]
20 Though I am in the right, my own mouth
would condemn me;
though I am blameless, he would prove me
perverse.
21 I am blameless; I regard not myself;
I loathe my life.
22 It is all one; therefore I say,
He destroys both the blameless and the wicked.
23 When disaster brings sudden death,
he mocks at the calamity[1] of the innocent.
24 The earth is given into the hand of the wicked;
he covers the faces of its judges—
if it is not he, who then is it?

25 “My days are swifter than a runner;
they flee away; they see no good.

26† They go by like skiffs of reed,
like an eagle swooping on the prey.
27 If I say, ‘I will forget my complaint,
I will put off my sad face, and be of good cheer,’
28 I become afraid of all my suffering,
for I know you will not hold me innocent.
29† I shall be condemned;
why then do I labor in vain?
30† If I wash myself with snow
and cleanse my hands with lye, 31† yet you will plunge me into a pit,
and my own clothes will abhor me.
32 For he is not a man, as I am, that I might
answer him,
that we should come to trial together.
33† There is no[2] arbiter between us,
who might lay his hand on us both.
34 Let him take his rod away from me,
and let not dread of him terrify me.
35 Then I would speak without fear of him,
for I am not so in myself.

Job Continues: A Plea to God

10 [1]"I loathe my life;
I will give free utterance to my complaint;
I will speak in the bitterness of my soul.

[2] I will say to God, Do not condemn me;
let me know why you contend against me.
[3] Does it seem good to you to oppress, to despise the work of your hands
and favor the designs of the wicked?
[4] Have you eyes of flesh?
Do you see as man sees?
[5] Are your days as the days of man,
or your years as a man's years,
[6] that you seek out my iniquity
and search for my sin,
[7] although you know that I am not guilty,
and there is none to deliver out of your hand?
[8] Your hands fashioned and made me,
and now you have destroyed me altogether.
[9] Remember that you have made me like clay;
and will you return me to the dust?
[10] Did you not pour me out like milk
and curdle me like cheese?
[11] You clothed me with skin and flesh,
and knit me together with bones and sinews.
[12] You have granted me life and steadfast love,
and your care has preserved my spirit.
[13] Yet these things you hid in your heart;
I know that this was your purpose.
[14] If I sin, you watch me

and do not acquit me of my iniquity.
15 If I am guilty, woe to me!
If I am in the right, I cannot lift up my head,
for I am filled with disgrace
and look on my affliction.
16† And were my head lifted up,[1] you would hunt me like a lion
and again work wonders against me.
17† You renew your witnesses against me
and increase your vexation toward me;
you bring fresh troops against me.

18“Why did you bring me out from the womb?
Would that I had died before any eye had seen me 19 and were as though I had not been,
carried from the womb to the grave.
20† Are not my days few?
Then cease, and leave me alone, that I may find a little cheer
21† before I go—and I shall not return—to the land of darkness and deep shadow, 22 the land of gloom like thick darkness,
like deep shadow without any order,
where light is as thick darkness.”

Zophar Speaks: You Deserve Worse

11 [1]†Then Zophar the Naamathite answered and said:

[2]†"Should a multitude of words go unanswered,
and a man full of talk be judged right?
[3]† Should your babble silence men,
and when you mock, shall no one shame
you?
[4]† For you say, 'My doctrine is pure,
and I am clean in God's[2] eyes.'
[5]† But oh, that God would speak
and open his lips to you,
[6]† and that he would tell you the secrets of wisdom!
For he is manifold in understanding.[1]
Know then that God exacts of you less than your guilt deserves.

[7]†"Can you find out the deep things of God?
Can you find out the limit of the Almighty?
[8]† It is higher than heaven[2]—what can you do?
Deeper than Sheol—what can you know?
[9]† Its measure is longer than the earth and broader than the sea.
[10]† If he passes through and imprisons and summons the court, who can turn
him back?
[11]† For he knows worthless men;
when he sees iniquity, will he not consider it?

12 But a stupid man will get understanding when a wild donkey's colt is born a man!

13 "If you prepare your heart, you will stretch out your hands toward
him.
14 If iniquity is in your hand, put it far away,
and let not injustice dwell in your tents.
15 Surely then you will lift up your face without blemish;
you will be secure and will not fear.
16 You will forget your misery;
you will remember it as waters that have passed away.
17 And your life will be brighter than the noonday;
its darkness will be like the morning.
18 And you will feel secure, because there is hope;
you will look around and take your rest in security.
19 You will lie down, and none will make you
afraid;
many will court your favor.
20 But the eyes of the wicked will fail;
all way of escape will be lost to them,
and their hope is to breathe their last."

Job Replies: The Lord Has Done This

12 [1]†Then Job answered and said:

[2]†"No doubt you are the people,
and wisdom will die with you.
[3]† But I have understanding as well as you;
I am not inferior to you.
Who does not know such things as these?
[4]† I am a laughingstock to my friends;
I, who called to God and he answered me,
a just and blameless man, am a laughingstock.
[5]† In the thought of one who is at ease there is contempt for misfortune;
it is ready for those whose feet slip.
[6]† The tents of robbers are at peace,
and those who provoke God are secure,
who bring their god in their hand.[1]

[7]†††"But ask the beasts, and they will teach you;
the birds of the heavens, and they will tell you;
[8] or the bushes of the earth,[2] and they will teach you;
and the fish of the sea will declare to you.
[9]† Who among all these does not know that the hand of the Lord has done this?
[10]† In his hand is the life of every living thing
and the breath of all mankind.
[11]† Does not the ear test words
as the palate tastes food?
[12]† Wisdom is with the aged,
and understanding in length of days.

13 “With God[3] are wisdom and might;
he has counsel and understanding.
14 If he tears down, none can rebuild;
if he shuts a man in, none can open.
15 If he withholds the waters, they dry up;
if he sends them out, they overwhelm the land.
16 With him are strength and sound wisdom;
the deceived and the deceiver are his.
17 He leads counselors away stripped,
and judges he makes fools.
18 He looses the bonds of kings and binds a waistcloth on their hips.
19 He leads priests away stripped and overthrows the mighty.
20 He deprives of speech those who are trusted
and takes away the discernment of the elders.
21 He pours contempt on princes
and loosens the belt of the strong.
22 He uncovers the deeps out of darkness and brings deep darkness to light.
23 He makes nations great, and he destroys them;
he enlarges nations, and leads them away.
24 He takes away understanding from the chiefs of the people of the earth and makes them wander in a pathless waste.
25 They grope in the dark without light,
and he makes them stagger like a drunken man.

Job Continues: Still I Will Hope in God

13 [1] “ Behold, my eye has seen all this, my ear has heard and understood it.

[2] What you know, I also know;
I am not inferior to you.
[3] But I would speak to the Almighty,
and I desire to argue my case with God.
[4] As for you, you whitewash with lies;
worthless physicians are you all.
[5] Oh that you would keep silent,
and it would be your wisdom!
[6] Hear now my argument
and listen to the pleadings of my lips.
[7] Will you speak falsely for God
and speak deceitfully for him?
[8] Will you show partiality toward him?
Will you plead the case for God?
[9] Will it be well with you when he searches
you out?
Or can you deceive him, as one deceives a
man?
[10] He will surely rebuke you
if in secret you show partiality.
[11] Will not his majesty terrify you,
and the dread of him fall upon you?
[12] Your maxims are proverbs of ashes;
your defenses are defenses of clay.

[13] “Let me have silence, and I will speak,
and let come on me what may.
[14] Why should I take my flesh in my teeth

and put my life in my hand?
15 † Though he slay me, I will hope in him;[1]
yet I will argue my ways to his face.
16 † This will be my salvation,
that the godless shall not come before him.
17 †† Keep listening to my words,
and let my declaration be in your ears.
18 † Behold, I have prepared my case;
I know that I shall be in the right.
19 † Who is there who will contend with me?
For then I would be silent and die.
20 † Only grant me two things,
then I will not hide myself from your face:
21 † withdraw your hand far from me,
and let not dread of you terrify me.
22 † Then call, and I will answer;
or let me speak, and you reply to me.
23 † How many are my iniquities and my sins?
Make me know my transgression and my
sin.
24 † Why do you hide your face
and count me as your enemy?
25 † Will you frighten a driven leaf
and pursue dry chaff?
26 † For you write bitter things against me
and make me inherit the iniquities of my youth.
27 † You put my feet in the stocks
and watch all my paths;
you set a limit for[2] the soles of my feet.
28 † Man[3] wastes away like a rotten thing,
like a garment that is moth-eaten.

Job Continues: Death Comes Soon to All

14 [1] “ Man who is born of a woman is few of days and full of trouble.

[2] He comes out like a flower and withers;
he flees like a shadow and continues not.
[3] And do you open your eyes on such a one
and bring me into judgment with you?
[4] Who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean?
There is not one.
[5] Since his days are determined,
and the number of his months is with
you,
and you have appointed his limits that he cannot pass,
[6] look away from him and leave him alone,[1]
that he may enjoy, like a hired hand, his day.

[7] “For there is hope for a tree,
if it be cut down, that it will sprout again,
and that its shoots will not cease.
[8] Though its root grow old in the earth,
and its stump die in the soil, [9] yet at the scent of water it will bud
and put out branches like a young plant.
[10] But a man dies and is laid low;
man breathes his last, and where is he?
[11] As waters fail from a lake
and a river wastes away and dries up, [12] so a man lies down and rises not again;

till the heavens are no more he will not awake
or be roused out of his sleep.
13 Oh that you would hide me in Sheol, that you would conceal me until your wrath be past,
that you would appoint me a set time, and remember me!
14 If a man dies, shall he live again?
All the days of my service I would wait,
till my renewal[2] should come.
15 You would call, and I would answer you;
you would long for the work of your
hands.
16 For then you would number my steps;
you would not keep watch over my sin;
17 my transgression would be sealed up in a bag,
and you would cover over my iniquity.

18 "But the mountain falls and crumbles away,
and the rock is removed from its place;
19 the waters wear away the stones;
the torrents wash away the soil of the earth;
so you destroy the hope of man.
20 You prevail forever against him, and he passes;
you change his countenance, and send him
away.
21 His sons come to honor, and he does not know it;
they are brought low, and he perceives it not.
22 He feels only the pain of his own body,
and he mourns only for himself."

Eliphaz Accuses: Job Does Not Fear God

15 [1]†Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:

[2]†"Should a wise man answer with windy
knowledge,
and fill his belly with the east wind?
[3] Should he argue in unprofitable talk,
or in words with which he can do no good?
[4]† But you are doing away with the fear of God[1]
and hindering meditation before God.
[5] For your iniquity teaches your mouth,
and you choose the tongue of the crafty.
[6] Your own mouth condemns you, and not I;
your own lips testify against you.

[7]"Are you the first man who was born?
Or were you brought forth before the hills?
[8]† Have you listened in the council of God?
And do you limit wisdom to yourself?
[9] What do you know that we do not know?
What do you understand that is not clear to us?
[10]† Both the gray-haired and the aged are among us,
older than your father.
[11]† Are the comforts of God too small for you,
or the word that deals gently with you?
[12] Why does your heart carry you away,
and why do your eyes flash,
[13] that you turn your spirit against God
and bring such words out of your mouth?

14 † What is man, that he can be pure?
Or he who is born of a woman, that he can be righteous?
15 † Behold, God[2] puts no trust in his holy ones,
and the heavens are not pure in his sight;
16 † how much less one who is abominable
and corrupt,
a man who drinks injustice like water!

17 "I will show you; hear me,
and what I have seen I will declare 18 † (what wise men have told,
without hiding it from their fathers, 19 to whom alone the land was given,
and no stranger passed among them).
20 The wicked man writhes in pain all his days,
through all the years that are laid up for the ruthless.
21 † Dreadful sounds are in his ears;
in prosperity the destroyer will come upon
him.
22 He does not believe that he will return out of
darkness,
and he is marked for the sword.
23 He wanders abroad for bread, saying, 'Where is it?'
He knows that a day of darkness is ready at his hand;
24 † distress and anguish terrify him;
they prevail against him, like a king ready for battle.
25 Because he has stretched out his hand against God
and defies the Almighty,

26† running stubbornly against him
with a thickly bossed shield;
27† because he has covered his face with his fat
and gathered fat upon his waist 28 and has lived in desolate cities,
in houses that none should inhabit,
which were ready to become heaps of ruins;
29 he will not be rich, and his wealth will not endure,
nor will his possessions spread over the
earth;[1]
30† he will not depart from darkness;
the flame will dry up his shoots,
and by the breath of his mouth he will depart.
31 Let him not trust in emptiness, deceiving
himself,
for emptiness will be his payment.
32† It will be paid in full before his time,
and his branch will not be green.
33† He will shake off his unripe grape like the vine,
and cast off his blossom like the olive tree.
34 For the company of the godless is barren,
and fire consumes the tents of bribery.
35† They conceive trouble and give birth to evil,
and their womb prepares deceit.”

Job Replies: Miserable Comforters Are You

16 [1]Then Job answered and said:

[2]†"I have heard many such things;
miserable comforters are you all.
[3] Shall windy words have an end?
Or what provokes you that you answer?
[4] I also could speak as you do,
if you were in my place;
I could join words together against you
and shake my head at you.
[5]† I could strengthen you with my mouth,
and the solace of my lips would assuage
your pain.

[6]"If I speak, my pain is not assuaged,
and if I forbear, how much of it leaves me?
[7]† Surely now God has worn me out;
he has[1] made desolate all my company.
[8] And he has shriveled me up,
which is a witness against me,
and my leanness has risen up against me;
it testifies to my face.
[9]† He has torn me in his wrath and hated me;
he has gnashed his teeth at me;
my adversary sharpens his eyes against me.
[10] Men have gaped at me with their mouth;
they have struck me insolently on the cheek;
they mass themselves together against me.
[11] God gives me up to the ungodly
and casts me into the hands of the wicked.
[12] I was at ease, and he broke me apart;

he seized me by the neck and dashed me to pieces;
he set me up as his target;
13† his archers surround me.
He slashes open my kidneys and does not spare;
he pours out my gall on the ground.
14† He breaks me with breach upon breach;
he runs upon me like a warrior.
15† I have sewed sackcloth upon my skin
and have laid my strength in the dust.
16 My face is red with weeping,
and on my eyelids is deep darkness, 17† although there is no violence in my hands,
and my prayer is pure.

18†† "O earth, cover not my blood,
and let my cry find no resting place.
19† Even now, behold, my witness is in heaven,
and he who testifies for me is on high.
20 My friends scorn me;
my eye pours out tears to God,
21† that he would argue the case of a man with God,
as[2] a son of man does with his neighbor.
22† For when a few years have come
I shall go the way from which I shall not return.

Job Continues: Where Then Is My Hope?

17 [1]“ My spirit is broken; my days are extinct; the graveyard is ready for me.

[2]† Surely there are mockers about me,
and my eye dwells on their provocation.

[3]†“Lay down a pledge for me with yourself;
who is there who will put up security
for me?
[4]† Since you have closed their hearts to understanding,
therefore you will not let them triumph.
[5]† He who informs against his friends to get a share of their property—
the eyes of his children will fail.

[6]†“He has made me a byword of the peoples,
and I am one before whom men spit.
[7]† My eye has grown dim from vexation,
and all my members are like a shadow.
[8] The upright are appalled at this,
and the innocent stirs himself up against the godless.
[9]† Yet the righteous holds to his way,
and he who has clean hands grows stronger and stronger.
[10]† But you, come on again, all of you,
and I shall not find a wise man among you.
[11] My days are past; my plans are broken off,
the desires of my heart.

12 They make night into day:
‘The light,’ they say, ‘is near to the
darkness.’[1]
13 If I hope for Sheol as my house,
if I make my bed in darkness,
14 if I say to the pit, ‘You are my father,’
and to the worm, ‘My mother,’ or ‘My sister,’
15 where then is my hope?
Who will see my hope?
16 Will it go down to the bars of Sheol?
Shall we descend together into the dust?”

Bildad Speaks: God Punishes the Wicked

18 [1]†Then Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:

[2]"How long will you hunt for words?
Consider, and then we will speak.
[3]† Why are we counted as cattle?
Why are we stupid in your sight?
[4]† You who tear yourself in your anger,
shall the earth be forsaken for you,
or the rock be removed out of its place?

[5]†"Indeed, the light of the wicked is put out,
and the flame of his fire does not shine.
[6] The light is dark in his tent,
and his lamp above him is put out.
[7] His strong steps are shortened,
and his own schemes throw him down.
[8] For he is cast into a net by his own feet,
and he walks on its mesh.
[9] A trap seizes him by the heel;
a snare lays hold of him.
[10] A rope is hidden for him in the ground,
a trap for him in the path.
[11] Terrors frighten him on every side,
and chase him at his heels.
[12] His strength is famished,
and calamity is ready for his stumbling.
[13]† It consumes the parts of his skin;
the firstborn of death consumes his limbs.
[14]† He is torn from the tent in which he trusted
and is brought to the king of terrors.
[15] In his tent dwells that which is none of his;

sulfur is scattered over his habitation.
16 His roots dry up beneath,
and his branches wither above.
17 His memory perishes from the earth,
and he has no name in the street.
18 He is thrust from light into darkness,
and driven out of the world.
19† He has no posterity or progeny among his people,
and no survivor where he used to live.
20 They of the west are appalled at his day,
and horror seizes them of the east.
21† Surely such are the dwellings of the unrighteous,
such is the place of him who knows not God.”

Job Replies: My Redeemer Lives

19 [1]Then Job answered and said:

[2]"How long will you torment me
and break me in pieces with words?
[3]† These ten times you have cast reproach
upon me;
are you not ashamed to wrong me?
[4]† And even if it be true that I have erred,
my error remains with myself.
[5]† If indeed you magnify yourselves
against me
and make my disgrace an argument
against me,
[6]† know then that God has put me in the wrong
and closed his net about me.
[7]† Behold, I cry out, 'Violence!' but I am not answered;
I call for help, but there is no justice.
[8] He has walled up my way, so that I cannot pass,
and he has set darkness upon my paths.
[9] He has stripped from me my glory
and taken the crown from my head.
[10] He breaks me down on every side, and I am gone,
and my hope has he pulled up like a tree.
[11] He has kindled his wrath against me
and counts me as his adversary.
[12] His troops come on together;
they have cast up their siege ramp[1]

against me
and encamp around my tent.

13 “He has put my brothers far from me,
and those who knew me are wholly estranged from me.
14 † My relatives have failed me,
my close friends have forgotten me.
15 The guests in my house and my maidservants
count me as a stranger;
I have become a foreigner in their eyes.
16 † I call to my servant, but he gives me no
answer;
I must plead with him with my mouth for
mercy.
17 † My breath is strange to my wife, and I am a stench to the children of my own mother.
18 Even young children despise me;
when I rise they talk against me.
19 All my intimate friends abhor me,
and those whom I loved have turned
against me.
20 † My bones stick to my skin and to my flesh,
and I have escaped by the skin of my teeth.
21 Have mercy on me, have mercy on me, O you
my friends,
for the hand of God has touched me!
22 Why do you, like God, pursue me?
Why are you not satisfied with my flesh?

23 † “Oh that my words were written!
Oh that they were inscribed in a book!
24 † Oh that with an iron pen and lead

they were engraved in the rock forever!
25 ‡† For I know that my Redeemer lives,
and at the last he will stand upon
the earth.[1]
26 † And after my skin has been thus destroyed,
yet in[2] my flesh I shall see God, 27 whom I shall see for myself,
and my eyes shall behold, and not another.
My heart faints within me!
28 If you say, ‘How we will pursue him!’
and, ‘The root of the matter is found in
him,’ 29 † be afraid of the sword, for wrath brings the punishment of the
sword,
that you may know there is a judgment.”

Zophar Speaks: The Wicked Will Suffer

20 [1]†Then Zophar the Naamathite answered and said:

[2]†“Therefore my thoughts answer me,
because of my haste within me.
[3]† I hear censure that insults me,
and out of my understanding a spirit
answers me.
[4] Do you not know this from of old,
since man was placed on earth,
[5]† that the exulting of the wicked is short,
and the joy of the godless but for a moment?
[6] Though his height mount up to the heavens,
and his head reach to the clouds,
[7] he will perish forever like his own dung;
those who have seen him will say, ‘Where is he?’
[8]† He will fly away like a dream and not be found;
he will be chased away like a vision of the
night.
[9] The eye that saw him will see him no more,
nor will his place any more behold him.
[10] His children will seek the favor of the poor,
and his hands will give back his wealth.
[11] His bones are full of his youthful vigor,
but it will lie down with him in the dust.

[12]“Though evil is sweet in his mouth,
though he hides it under his tongue, [13] though he is loath to let it go

and holds it in his mouth, 14 yet his food is turned in his stomach;
it is the venom of cobras within him.
15 He swallows down riches and vomits them up
again;
God casts them out of his belly.
16† He will suck the poison of cobras;
the tongue of a viper will kill him.
17 He will not look upon the rivers,
the streams flowing with honey
and curds.
18 He will give back the fruit of his toil
and will not swallow it down;
from the profit of his trading
he will get no enjoyment.
19 For he has crushed and abandoned the poor;
he has seized a house that he did not build.

20 "Because he knew no contentment in his belly,
he will not let anything in which he delights
escape him.
21 There was nothing left after he had eaten;
therefore his prosperity will not endure.
22† In the fullness of his sufficiency he will be in distress;
the hand of everyone in misery will come
against him.
23† To fill his belly to the full,
God[1] will send his burning anger against him
and rain it upon him into his body.
24† He will flee from an iron weapon;
a bronze arrow will strike him through.
25† It is drawn forth and comes out of his body;
the glittering point comes out of his gallbladder;

terrors come upon him.
26 † Utter darkness is laid up for his treasures;
a fire not fanned will devour him;
what is left in his tent will be consumed.
27 † The heavens will reveal his iniquity,
and the earth will rise up against him.
28 † The possessions of his house will be carried away, dragged off in the day of God's[2] wrath.
29 This is the wicked man's portion from God,
the heritage decreed for him by God."

Job Replies: The Wicked Do Prosper

21 [1]Then Job answered and said:

[2]†"Keep listening to my words,
and let this be your comfort.
[3] Bear with me, and I will speak,
and after I have spoken, mock on.
[4] As for me, is my complaint against man?
Why should I not be impatient?
[5]† Look at me and be appalled,
and lay your hand over your mouth.
[6] When I remember, I am dismayed,
and shuddering seizes my flesh.
[7] Why do the wicked live,
reach old age, and grow mighty in power?
[8] Their offspring are established in their presence,
and their descendants before their eyes.
[9]† Their houses are safe from fear,
and no rod of God is upon them.
[10] Their bull breeds without fail;
their cow calves and does not miscarry.
[11] They send out their little boys like a flock,
and their children dance.
[12] They sing to the tambourine and the lyre
and rejoice to the sound of the pipe.
[13]† They spend their days in prosperity,
and in peace they go down to Sheol.
[14] They say to God, 'Depart from us!
We do not desire the knowledge of your ways.
[15] What is the Almighty, that we should serve
him?
And what profit do we get if we pray to him?'

16 Behold, is not their prosperity in their hand?
The counsel of the wicked is far from me.

17 “How often is it that the lamp of the wicked is put out?
That their calamity comes upon them?
That God[1] distributes pains in his anger?
18 That they are like straw before the wind,
and like chaff that the storm carries away?
19 You say, ‘God stores up their iniquity for their children.’
Let him pay it out to them, that they may know it.
20 Let their own eyes see their destruction,
and let them drink of the wrath of the Almighty.
21 For what do they care for their houses after
them,
when the number of their months is cut off?
22 Will any teach God knowledge, seeing that he judges those who are on high?
23 One dies in his full vigor,
being wholly at ease and secure, 24 his pails[2] full of milk
and the marrow of his bones moist.
25 Another dies in bitterness of soul,
never having tasted of prosperity.
26 They lie down alike in the dust,
and the worms cover them.

27 “Behold, I know your thoughts and your schemes to wrong me.

28† For you say, ‘Where is the house of the prince?
Where is the tent in which the wicked lived?’
29 Have you not asked those who travel the roads,
and do you not accept their testimony 30† that the evil man is spared in the day of calamity,
that he is rescued in the day of wrath?
31 Who declares his way to his face, and who repays him for what he has
done?
32† When he is carried to the grave,
watch is kept over his tomb.
33† The clods of the valley are sweet to him;
all mankind follows after him,
and those who go before him are innumerable.
34 How then will you comfort me with empty
nothings?
There is nothing left of your answers but falsehood.”

Eliphaz Speaks: Job's Wickedness Is Great

22 [1]†Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:

[2]††"Can a man be profitable to God?
Surely he who is wise is profitable to
himself.
[3]† Is it any pleasure to the Almighty if you are in the right,
or is it gain to him if you make your ways
blameless?
[4]† Is it for your fear of him that he reproves you and enters into judgment with you?
[5]† Is not your evil abundant?
There is no end to your iniquities.
[6]†† For you have exacted pledges of your brothers for nothing
and stripped the naked of their clothing.
[7] You have given no water to the weary to drink,
and you have withheld bread from the hungry.
[8] The man with power possessed the land,
and the favored man lived in it.
[9] You have sent widows away empty,
and the arms of the fatherless were crushed.
[10] Therefore snares are all around you,
and sudden terror overwhelms you, [11] or darkness, so that you cannot see,
and a flood of water covers you.

12 “Is not God high in the heavens?
See the highest stars, how lofty they are!
13 But you say, ‘What does God know?
Can he judge through the deep darkness?
14 Thick clouds veil him, so that he does not see,
and he walks on the vault of heaven.’
15 Will you keep to the old way that wicked men have trod?
16 They were snatched away before their time;
their foundation was washed away.
17 They said to God, ‘Depart from us,’
and ‘What can the Almighty do to us?’[1] 18 Yet he filled their houses with good things—
but the counsel of the wicked is far from me.
19 The righteous see it and are glad;
the innocent one mocks at them,
20 saying, ‘Surely our adversaries are cut off,
and what they left the fire has consumed.’

21 “Agree with God, and be at peace;
thereby good will come to you.
22 Receive instruction from his mouth,
and lay up his words in your heart.
23 If you return to the Almighty you will be built up;
if you remove injustice far from your tents, 24 if you lay gold in the dust,
and gold of Ophir among the stones of the torrent-bed,
25 then the Almighty will be your gold
and your precious silver.
26 For then you will delight yourself in the Almighty
and lift up your face to God.

27† You will make your prayer to him, and he will hear you,
and you will pay your vows.
28† You will decide on a matter, and it will be established for you,
and light will shine on your ways.
29† For when they are humbled you say, ‘It is because of pride’;[2]
but he saves the lowly.
30† He delivers even the one who is not innocent,[3]
who will be delivered through the cleanness of your hands.”

Job Replies: Where Is God?

23 [1]Then Job answered and said:

[2]†“Today also my complaint is bitter;[4]
my hand is heavy on account of my groaning.
[3]† Oh, that I knew where I might find him,
that I might come even to his seat!
[4]† I would lay my case before him
and fill my mouth with arguments.
[5]† I would know what he would answer me
and understand what he would say to me.
[6]† Would he contend with me in the greatness of his power?
No; he would pay attention to me.
[7]† There an upright man could argue with him, and I would be acquitted forever by my judge.

[8]†“Behold, I go forward, but he is not there,
and backward, but I do not perceive him;
[9]† on the left hand when he is working, I do not behold him;
he turns to the right hand, but I do not see
him.
[10]† But he knows the way that I take;
when he has tried me, I shall come out as gold.
[11]† My foot has held fast to his steps;
I have kept his way and have not turned aside.
[12]† I have not departed from the commandment

of his lips;
I have treasured the words of his mouth
more than my portion of food.
13 But he is unchangeable,[1] and who can turn
him back?
What he desires, that he does.
14 For he will complete what he appoints for me,
and many such things are in his mind.
15 Therefore I am terrified at his presence;
when I consider, I am in dread of him.
16 God has made my heart faint;
the Almighty has terrified me;
17 yet I am not silenced because of the
darkness,
nor because thick darkness covers my face.

24 1 "Why are not times of judgment kept by the Almighty, and why do those who know him never see his days?

2 Some move landmarks;
they seize flocks and pasture them.
3 They drive away the donkey of the fatherless;
they take the widow's ox for a pledge.
4 They thrust the poor off the road;
the poor of the earth all hide themselves.
5 Behold, like wild donkeys in the desert
the poor[2] go out to their toil, seeking game;
the wasteland yields food for their children.
6 They gather their[3] fodder in the field,
and they glean the vineyard of the wicked
man.
7 They lie all night naked, without clothing,
and have no covering in the cold.
8 They are wet with the rain of the mountains and cling to the rock for lack of shelter.

9 (There are those who snatch the fatherless
child from the breast,
and they take a pledge against the poor.)
10 They go about naked, without clothing;
hungry, they carry the sheaves;
11 among the olive rows of the wicked[1] they make oil;
they tread the winepresses, but suffer thirst.
12 From out of the city the dying groan, and the soul of the wounded cries for help;
yet God charges no one with wrong.

13 "There are those who rebel against the light,
who are not acquainted with its ways,
and do not stay in its paths.
14 The murderer rises before it is light,
that he may kill the poor and needy,
and in the night he is like a thief.
15 The eye of the adulterer also waits for the twilight,
saying, 'No eye will see me';
and he veils his face.
16 In the dark they dig through houses;
by day they shut themselves up;
they do not know the light.
17 For deep darkness is morning to all of
them;
for they are friends with the terrors of deep
darkness.
18 "You say, 'Swift are they on the face of
the waters;
their portion is cursed in the land;
no treader turns toward their vineyards.

[19]† Drought and heat snatch away the snow
waters;
so does Sheol those who have sinned.
[20]† The womb forgets them;
the worm finds them sweet;
they are no longer remembered,
so wickedness is broken like a tree.’

[21]“They wrong the barren, childless woman,
and do no good to the widow.
[22]† Yet God[2] prolongs the life of the mighty by his power;
they rise up when they despair of life.
[23] He gives them security, and they are supported,
and his eyes are upon their ways.
[24]† They are exalted a little while, and then are
gone;
they are brought low and gathered up like
all others;
they are cut off like the heads of grain.
[25] If it is not so, who will prove me a liar
and show that there is nothing in what I say?”

Bildad Speaks: Man Cannot Be Righteous

25 [1]†Then Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:

[2]†“Dominion and fear are with God;[3]
he makes peace in his high heaven.
[3]† Is there any number to his armies?
Upon whom does his light not arise?
[4]† How then can man be in the right before God?
How can he who is born of woman
be pure?
[5]† Behold, even the moon is not bright,
and the stars are not pure in his eyes;
[6]† how much less man, who is a maggot,
and the son of man, who is a worm!”

Job Replies: God's Majesty Is Unsearchable

26 [1]Then Job answered and said:

[2]"How you have helped him who has no
power!
How you have saved the arm that has no
strength!
[3] How you have counseled him who has no
wisdom,
and plentifully declared sound knowledge!
[4] With whose help have you uttered words,
and whose breath has come out from you?
[5] The dead tremble
under the waters and their inhabitants.
[6] Sheol is naked before God,[1]
and Abaddon has no covering.
[7] He stretches out the north over the void
and hangs the earth on nothing.
[8] He binds up the waters in his thick
clouds,
and the cloud is not split open under them.
[9] He covers the face of the full moon[2]
and spreads over it his cloud.
[10] He has inscribed a circle on the face of the waters
at the boundary between light and
darkness.
[11] The pillars of heaven tremble
and are astounded at his rebuke.
[12] By his power he stilled the sea;
by his understanding he shattered Rahab.
[13] By his wind the heavens were made fair;
his hand pierced the fleeing serpent.

[14] † Behold, these are but the outskirts of his ways,
and how small a whisper do we hear of
him!
But the thunder of his power who can understand?”

Job Continues: I Will Maintain My Integrity

27 [1]And Job again took up his discourse, and said:

[2]"As God lives, who has taken away my right,
and the Almighty, who has made my soul
bitter,
[3] as long as my breath is in me,
and the spirit of God is in my nostrils,
[4] my lips will not speak falsehood,
and my tongue will not utter deceit.
[5] Far be it from me to say that you are right;
till I die I will not put away my integrity
from me.
[6] I hold fast my righteousness and will not let it go;
my heart does not reproach me for any of my days.

[7]"Let my enemy be as the wicked, and let him who rises up against me be as the unrighteous.
[8] For what is the hope of the godless when God cuts him off,
when God takes away his life?
[9] Will God hear his cry
when distress comes upon him?
[10] Will he take delight in the Almighty?
Will he call upon God at all times?
[11] I will teach you concerning the hand of God;
what is with the Almighty I will not conceal.
[12] Behold, all of you have seen it yourselves;
why then have you become altogether vain?

13 “This is the portion of a wicked man with God,
and the heritage that oppressors receive
from the Almighty:
14 If his children are multiplied, it is for the
sword,
and his descendants have not enough bread.
15 Those who survive him the pestilence buries,
and his widows do not weep.
16 Though he heap up silver like dust,
and pile up clothing like clay, 17 he may pile it up, but the righteous will wear it,
and the innocent will divide the silver.
18 He builds his house like a moth’s,
like a booth that a watchman makes.
19 He goes to bed rich, but will do so no more;
he opens his eyes, and his wealth is gone.
20 Terrors overtake him like a flood;
in the night a whirlwind carries him off.
21 The east wind lifts him up and he is gone;
it sweeps him out of his place.
22 It[1] hurls at him without pity;
he flees from its[2] power in headlong flight.
23 It claps its hands at him
and hisses at him from its place.

Job Continues: Where Is Wisdom?

28 [1]“ Surely there is a mine for silver, and a place for gold that they refine.

[2]† Iron is taken out of the earth,
and copper is smelted from the ore.
[3] Man puts an end to darkness and searches out to the farthest limit
the ore in gloom and deep darkness.
[4]† He opens shafts in a valley away from where anyone lives;
they are forgotten by travelers;
they hang in the air, far away from mankind;
they swing to and fro.
[5]† As for the earth, out of it comes bread,
but underneath it is turned up as by fire.
[6] Its stones are the place of sapphires,[1]
and it has dust of gold.

[7]†“That path no bird of prey knows,
and the falcon’s eye has not seen it.
[8]† The proud beasts have not trodden it;
the lion has not passed over it.

[9]‡“Man puts his hand to the flinty rock
and overturns mountains by the roots.
[10]† He cuts out channels in the rocks,
and his eye sees every precious thing.
[11]† He dams up the streams so that they do not trickle,
and the thing that is hidden he brings out to light.

12 †“But where shall wisdom be found?
And where is the place of understanding?
13 Man does not know its worth,
and it is not found in the land of the living.
14 The deep says, ‘It is not in me,’
and the sea says, ‘It is not with me.’
15 It cannot be bought for gold,
and silver cannot be weighed as its price.
16 † It cannot be valued in the gold of Ophir,
in precious onyx or sapphire.
17 † Gold and glass cannot equal it,
nor can it be exchanged for jewels of fine
gold.
18 No mention shall be made of coral or of crystal;
the price of wisdom is above pearls.
19 † The topaz of Ethiopia cannot equal it,
nor can it be valued in pure gold.

20 †“From where, then, does wisdom come?
And where is the place of understanding?
21 † It is hidden from the eyes of all living and concealed from the birds of the air.
22 † Abaddon and Death say,
‘We have heard a rumor of it with our ears.’

23 †“God understands the way to it,
and he knows its place.
24 For he looks to the ends of the earth and sees everything under the heavens.
25 † When he gave to the wind its weight and apportioned the waters by measure, 26 when he made a decree for the rain

and a way for the lightning of the thunder, 27† then he saw it and declared it;
he established it, and searched it out.
28† And he said to man,
'Behold, the fear of the Lord, that is wisdom,
and to turn away from evil is
understanding.'"

Job's Summary Defense

29 [1]And Job again took up his discourse, and said:

[2]"Oh, that I were as in the months of old,
as in the days when God watched over me,
[3] when his lamp shone upon my head,
and by his light I walked through darkness,
[4] as I was in my prime,[1]
when the friendship of God was upon my tent, [5] when the Almighty was yet with me,
when my children were all around me, [6] when my steps were washed with butter,
and the rock poured out for me streams of oil!
[7] When I went out to the gate of the city,
when I prepared my seat in the square, [8] the young men saw me and withdrew,
and the aged rose and stood;
[9] the princes refrained from talking and laid their hand on their mouth;
[10] the voice of the nobles was hushed,
and their tongue stuck to the roof of their mouth.
[11] When the ear heard, it called me blessed,
and when the eye saw, it approved, [12] because I delivered the poor who cried for help,
and the fatherless who had none to help him.
[13] The blessing of him who was about to perish came upon me, and I caused the widow's heart to sing for

joy.
14 † I put on righteousness, and it clothed me;
my justice was like a robe and a turban.
15 † I was eyes to the blind
and feet to the lame.
16 I was a father to the needy,
and I searched out the cause of him whom
I did not know.
17 I broke the fangs of the unrighteous
and made him drop his prey from his teeth.
18 † Then I thought, 'I shall die in my nest,
and I shall multiply my days as the sand, 19 † my roots spread out to the waters,
with the dew all night on my branches, 20 † my glory fresh with me,
and my bow ever new in my hand.'

21 "Men listened to me and waited and kept silence for my counsel.
22 After I spoke they did not speak again,
and my word dropped upon them.
23 † They waited for me as for the rain, and they opened their mouths as for the spring rain.
24 I smiled on them when they had no confidence,
and the light of my face they did not cast down.
25 † I chose their way and sat as chief,
and I lived like a king among his troops,
like one who comforts mourners.

30 1 †"But now they laugh at me,
men who are younger than I,

whose fathers I would have disdained
to set with the dogs of my flock.

2 What could I gain from the strength of their
hands,
men whose vigor is gone?
3† Through want and hard hunger
they gnaw the dry ground by night
in waste and desolation;
4† they pick saltwort and the leaves of bushes,
and the roots of the broom tree for their food.[1] 5†† They are driven out from human company;
they shout after them as after a thief.
6 In the gullies of the torrents they must dwell,
in holes of the earth and of the rocks.
7† Among the bushes they bray;
under the nettles they huddle together.
8 A senseless, a nameless brood,
they have been whipped out of the land.

9†"And now I have become their song;
I am a byword to them.
10 They abhor me; they keep aloof from me;
they do not hesitate to spit at the sight
of me.
11† Because God has loosed my cord and humbled me,
they have cast off restraint[2] in my presence.
12 On my right hand the rabble rise;
they push away my feet;
they cast up against me their ways of destruction.
13 They break up my path;
they promote my calamity;
they need no one to help them.

14 † As through a wide breach they come;
amid the crash they roll on.
15 Terrors are turned upon me;
my honor is pursued as by the wind,
and my prosperity has passed away like a cloud.

16 “And now my soul is poured out within me;
days of affliction have taken hold of me.
17 The night racks my bones,
and the pain that gnaws me takes no rest.
18 † With great force my garment is disfigured;
it binds me about like the collar of my tunic.
19 God[3] has cast me into the mire,
and I have become like dust and ashes.
20 † I cry to you for help and you do not answer me;
I stand, and you only look at me.
21 † You have turned cruel to me;
with the might of your hand you
persecute me.
22 You lift me up on the wind; you make me ride
on it,
and you toss me about in the roar of the storm.
23 † For I know that you will bring me to death
and to the house appointed for all living.

24 † “Yet does not one in a heap of ruins stretch out his hand,
and in his disaster cry for help?[1]
25 Did not I weep for him whose day was hard?
Was not my soul grieved for the needy?
26 But when I hoped for good, evil came,
and when I waited for light, darkness

came.
27† My inward parts are in turmoil and never still;
days of affliction come to meet me.
28† I go about darkened, but not by the sun;
I stand up in the assembly and cry for help.
29† I am a brother of jackals
and a companion of ostriches.
30† My skin turns black and falls from me,
and my bones burn with heat.
31† My lyre is turned to mourning, and my pipe to the voice of those who weep.

Job's Final Appeal

31 [1]† "I have made a covenant with my eyes; how then could I gaze at a virgin?

[2]† What would be my portion from God above and my heritage from the Almighty on
high?
[3] Is not calamity for the unrighteous,
and disaster for the workers of iniquity?
[4] Does not he see my ways
and number all my steps?

[5]"If I have walked with falsehood
and my foot has hastened to deceit;
[6]† (Let me be weighed in a just balance, and let God know my integrity!) [7]† if my step has turned aside from the way and my heart has gone after my eyes,
and if any spot has stuck to my hands,
[8]† then let me sow, and another eat,
and let what grows for me[2] be rooted out.

[9]"If my heart has been enticed toward a woman,
and I have lain in wait at my neighbor's door,
[10]† then let my wife grind for another,
and let others bow down on her.
[11]† For that would be a heinous crime;
that would be an iniquity to be punished
by the judges;

12† for that would be a fire that consumes as far as Abaddon,
and it would burn to the root all my increase.

13“If I have rejected the cause of my manservant
or my maidservant,
when they brought a complaint against me,
14† what then shall I do when God rises up?
When he makes inquiry, what shall I
answer him?
15† Did not he who made me in the womb
make him?
And did not one fashion us in the womb?

16†† “If I have withheld anything that the poor desired,
or have caused the eyes of the widow to fail,
17† or have eaten my morsel alone,
and the fatherless has not eaten of it 18† (for from my youth the fatherless[1] grew up with me as with a father, and from my mother’s womb I guided the widow[2]), 19 if I have seen anyone perish for lack of clothing,
or the needy without covering,
20 if his body has not blessed me,[3]
and if he was not warmed with the fleece of my sheep,
21† if I have raised my hand against the
fatherless,
because I saw my help in the gate,

22 then let my shoulder blade fall from my shoulder,
and let my arm be broken from its socket.
23† For I was in terror of calamity from God,
and I could not have faced his majesty.

24†† "If I have made gold my trust or called fine gold my confidence, 25 if I have rejoiced because my wealth was abundant
or because my hand had found much, 26† if I have looked at the sun[4] when it shone,
or the moon moving in splendor, 27† and my heart has been secretly enticed,
and my mouth has kissed my hand, 28 this also would be an iniquity to be punished by the judges,
for I would have been false to God above.

29 "If I have rejoiced at the ruin of him who hated me,
or exulted when evil overtook him 30† (I have not let my mouth sin
by asking for his life with a curse), 31 if the men of my tent have not said,
'Who is there that has not been filled with his meat?' 32† (the sojourner has not lodged in the street;
I have opened my doors to the traveler), 33† if I have concealed my transgressions as others do[1]

by hiding my iniquity in my bosom, 34 because I stood in great fear of the multitude,
and the contempt of families terrified me,
so that I kept silence, and did not go out of doors—
35† Oh, that I had one to hear me!
(Here is my signature! Let the Almighty answer me!)
Oh, that I had the indictment written by my adversary!
36† Surely I would carry it on my shoulder;
I would bind it on me as a crown;
37† I would give him an account of all my steps;
like a prince I would approach him.

38"If my land has cried out against me
and its furrows have wept together, 39† if I have eaten its yield without payment and made its owners breathe their last, 40 let thorns grow instead of wheat,
and foul weeds instead of barley."

The words of Job are ended.

Elihu Rebukes Job's Three Friends

32 [1] †So these three men ceased to answer Job, because he was righteous in his own eyes. [2] †Then Elihu the son of Barachel the Buzite, of the family of Ram, burned with anger. He burned with anger at Job because he justified himself rather than God. [3] †He burned with anger also at Job's three friends because they had found no answer, although they had declared Job to be in the wrong. [4] †Now Elihu had waited to speak to Job because they were older than he. [5] And when Elihu saw that there was no answer in the mouth of these three men, he burned with anger.

[6] †And Elihu the son of Barachel the Buzite answered and said:

"I am young in years,
and you are aged;
therefore I was timid and afraid
to declare my opinion to you.
[7] I said, 'Let days speak,
and many years teach wisdom.'
[8] † But it is the spirit in man,
the breath of the Almighty, that makes him understand.
[9] It is not the old[1] who are wise,
nor the aged who understand what is right.
[10] Therefore I say, 'Listen to me;
let me also declare my opinion.'

[11] "Behold, I waited for your words,
I listened for your wise sayings,
while you searched out what to say.
[12] I gave you my attention,
and, behold, there was none among you who refuted Job
or who answered his words.

13† Beware lest you say, ‘We have found
wisdom;
God may vanquish him, not a man.’
14 He has not directed his words against me, and I will not answer him with your speeches.

15“They are dismayed; they answer no more;
they have not a word to say.
16 And shall I wait, because they do not speak,
because they stand there, and answer no
more?
17 I also will answer with my share;
I also will declare my opinion.
18† For I am full of words;
the spirit within me constrains me.
19† Behold, my belly is like wine that has no vent;
like new wineskins ready to burst.
20 I must speak, that I may find relief;
I must open my lips and answer.
21 I will not show partiality to any man or use flattery toward any person.
22 For I do not know how to flatter, else my Maker would soon take me
away.

Elihu Rebukes Job

33 [1]†“But now, hear my speech, O Job, and listen to all my words.

[2] Behold, I open my mouth;
the tongue in my mouth speaks.
[3]† My words declare the uprightness of my heart,
and what my lips know they speak sincerely.
[4]† The Spirit of God has made me,
and the breath of the Almighty gives me life.
[5] Answer me, if you can;
set your words in order before me; take your stand.
[6]† Behold, I am toward God as you are;
I too was pinched off from a piece of clay.
[7] Behold, no fear of me need terrify you;
my pressure will not be heavy upon you.

[8]“Surely you have spoken in my ears,
and I have heard the sound of your words.
[9] You say, ‘I am pure, without transgression;
I am clean, and there is no iniquity in me.
[10]† Behold, he finds occasions against me,
he counts me as his enemy, [11]† he puts my feet in the stocks
and watches all my paths.’

[12]“Behold, in this you are not right. I will answer you, for God is greater than man.

13 Why do you contend against him, saying, ‘He will answer none of man’s[1]
words’?[2]
14† For God speaks in one way,
and in two, though man does not perceive it.
15 In a dream, in a vision of the night,
when deep sleep falls on men,
while they slumber on their beds, 16† then he opens the ears of men
and terrifies them with warnings, 17 that he may turn man aside from his deed
and conceal pride from a man; 18 he keeps back his soul from the pit,
his life from perishing by the sword.

19†“Man is also rebuked with pain on his bed
and with continual strife in his bones, 20 so that his life loathes bread,
and his appetite the choicest food.
21 His flesh is so wasted away that it cannot be seen,
and his bones that were not seen stick out.
22† His soul draws near the pit,
and his life to those who bring death.
23†† If there be for him an angel, a mediator, one of the thousand,
to declare to man what is right for him,
24† and he is merciful to him, and says,
‘Deliver him from going down into the pit;
I have found a ransom;
25† let his flesh become fresh with youth;
let him return to the days of his youthful vigor’;

26† then man[3] prays to God, and he accepts him;
he sees his face with a shout of joy,
and he restores to man his righteousness.
27† He sings before men and says:
'I sinned and perverted what was right,
and it was not repaid to me.
28† He has redeemed my soul from going down into the pit,
and my life shall look upon the light.'

29†"Behold, God does all these things,
twice, three times, with a man, 30† to bring back his soul from the pit,
that he may be lighted with the light
of life.
31 Pay attention, O Job, listen to me;
be silent, and I will speak.
32† If you have any words, answer me;
speak, for I desire to justify you.
33 If not, listen to me;
be silent, and I will teach you wisdom."

Elihu Asserts God's Justice

34 [1]Then Elihu answered and said:

[2]"Hear my words, you wise men,
and give ear to me, you who know;
[3] for the ear tests words
as the palate tastes food.
[4] Let us choose what is right;
let us know among ourselves what is good.
[5] For Job has said, 'I am in the right,
and God has taken away my right;
[6] in spite of my right I am counted a liar;
my wound is incurable, though I am without transgression.'
[7] What man is like Job,
who drinks up scoffing like water, [8] who travels in company with evildoers
and walks with wicked men?
[9] For he has said, 'It profits a man nothing that he should take delight in God.'

[10]"Therefore, hear me, you men of
understanding:
far be it from God that he should do
wickedness,
and from the Almighty that he should do
wrong.
[11] For according to the work of a man he will repay him,
and according to his ways he will make it befall him.
[12] Of a truth, God will not do wickedly,

and the Almighty will not pervert
justice.
13 Who gave him charge over the earth,
and who laid on him[1] the whole world?
14 If he should set his heart to it and gather to himself his spirit and his breath,
15 all flesh would perish together,
and man would return to dust.

16 "If you have understanding, hear this;
listen to what I say.
17 Shall one who hates justice govern?
Will you condemn him who is righteous
and mighty,
18 who says to a king, 'Worthless one,'
and to nobles, 'Wicked man,' 19 who shows no partiality to princes,
nor regards the rich more than the poor,
for they are all the work of his hands?
20 In a moment they die;
at midnight the people are shaken and pass
away,
and the mighty are taken away by no
human hand.

21 "For his eyes are on the ways of a man,
and he sees all his steps.
22 There is no gloom or deep darkness
where evildoers may hide themselves.
23 For God[1] has no need to consider a man further,
that he should go before God in judgment.
24 He shatters the mighty without investigation and sets others in their place.

25† Thus, knowing their works,
he overturns them in the night, and they are crushed.
26† He strikes them for their wickedness
in a place for all to see,
27† because they turned aside from following him
and had no regard for any of his ways, 28† so that they caused the cry of the poor to come to him,
and he heard the cry of the afflicted—
29† When he is quiet, who can condemn?
When he hides his face, who can behold him,
whether it be a nation or a man?— 30† that a godless man should not reign,
that he should not ensnare the people.
31†"For has anyone said to God,
' I have borne punishment; I will not offend
any more;
32† teach me what I do not see;
if I have done iniquity, I will do it no
more'?
33† Will he then make repayment to suit you,
because you reject it?
For you must choose, and not I;
therefore declare what you know.[1] 34† Men of understanding will say to me,
and the wise man who hears me will say:
35†'Job speaks without knowledge;
his words are without insight.'
36† Would that Job were tried to the end,
because he answers like wicked men.
37† For he adds rebellion to his sin;
he claps his hands among us and multiplies his words against God."

Elihu Condemns Job

35 [1]†And Elihu answered and said:

[2]†"Do you think this to be just?
Do you say, 'It is my right before God,'
[3]† that you ask, 'What advantage have I?
How am I better off than if I had sinned?'
[4]† I will answer you and your friends with you.
[5]† Look at the heavens, and see;
and behold the clouds, which are higher than you.
[6]† If you have sinned, what do you accomplish
against him?
And if your transgressions are multiplied,
what do you do to him?
[7]† If you are righteous, what do you give to
him?
Or what does he receive from your hand?
[8]† Your wickedness concerns a man like
yourself,
and your righteousness a son of man.

[9]†"Because of the multitude of oppressions people cry out;
they call for help because of the arm of the
mighty.[2]
[10]† But none says, 'Where is God my Maker,
who gives songs in the night, [11]† who teaches us more than the beasts of the
earth
and makes us wiser than the birds of the

heavens?’
12 There they cry out, but he does not answer,
because of the pride of evil men.
13 Surely God does not hear an empty cry,
nor does the Almighty regard it.
14 How much less when you say that you do not see him,
that the case is before him, and you are waiting for him!
15 And now, because his anger does not punish,
and he does not take much note
of transgression,[1] 16 Job opens his mouth in empty talk;
he multiplies words without knowledge.”

Elihu Extols God's Greatness

36 [1]†And Elihu continued, and said:

[2]†"Bear with me a little, and I will show you,
for I have yet something to say on God's behalf.
[3]† I will get my knowledge from afar
and ascribe righteousness to my Maker.
[4]† For truly my words are not false;
one who is perfect in knowledge is with you.

[5]†"Behold, God is mighty, and does not despise any;
he is mighty in strength of understanding.
[6]† He does not keep the wicked alive,
but gives the afflicted their right.
[7]† He does not withdraw his eyes from the
righteous,
but with kings on the throne
he sets them forever, and they are exalted.
[8] And if they are bound in chains
and caught in the cords of affliction, [9] then he declares to them their work and their transgressions, that they are behaving arrogantly.
[10]† He opens their ears to instruction
and commands that they return from iniquity.
[11]† If they listen and serve him,
they complete their days in prosperity,
and their years in pleasantness.
[12]† But if they do not listen, they perish by the

sword
and die without knowledge.

13 “The godless in heart cherish anger;
they do not cry for help when he binds
them.
14 They die in youth,
and their life ends among the cult prostitutes.
15 He delivers the afflicted by their affliction
and opens their ear by adversity.
16 He also allured you out of distress into a broad place where there was no
cramping,
and what was set on your table was full of fatness.

17 “But you are full of the judgment on the
wicked;
judgment and justice seize you.
18 Beware lest wrath entice you into scoffing,
and let not the greatness of the ransom turn
you aside.
19 Will your cry for help avail to keep you from
distress,
or all the force of your strength?
20 Do not long for the night,
when peoples vanish in their place.
21 Take care; do not turn to iniquity,
for this you have chosen rather than affliction.
22 Behold, God is exalted in his power;
who is a teacher like him?

[23] Who has prescribed for him his way,
or who can say, ‘You have done wrong’?

[24] “Remember to extol his work,
of which men have sung.
[25] All mankind has looked on it;
man beholds it from afar.
[26] Behold, God is great, and we know him not;
the number of his years is unsearchable.
[27] For he draws up the drops of water;
they distill his mist in rain, [28] which the skies pour down
and drop on mankind abundantly.
[29] Can anyone understand the spreading of the clouds,
the thunderings of his pavilion?
[30] Behold, he scatters his lightning about him
and covers the roots of the sea.
[31] For by these he judges peoples;
he gives food in abundance.
[32] He covers his hands with the lightning and commands it to strike the mark.
[33] Its crashing declares his presence;[1]
the cattle also declare that he rises.

Elihu Proclaims God's Majesty

37 [1]"At this also my heart trembles and leaps out of its place.

[2]† Keep listening to the thunder of his voice and the rumbling that comes from his mouth.
[3]† Under the whole heaven he lets it go,
and his lightning to the corners of the earth.
[4]† After it his voice roars;
he thunders with his majestic voice,
and he does not restrain the lightnings[2]
when his voice is heard.
[5]† God thunders wondrously with his voice;
he does great things that we cannot comprehend.
[6] For to the snow he says, 'Fall on the earth,' likewise to the downpour, his mighty downpour.
[7]† He seals up the hand of every man,
that all men whom he made may know it.
[8] Then the beasts go into their lairs,
and remain in their dens.
[9]† From its chamber comes the whirlwind,
and cold from the scattering winds.
[10]† By the breath of God ice is given,
and the broad waters are frozen fast.
[11]† He loads the thick cloud with moisture;
the clouds scatter his lightning.
[12]† They turn around and around by his guidance,
to accomplish all that he commands them
on the face of the habitable world.
[13]† Whether for correction or for his land or for love, he causes it to happen.

14 “Hear this, O Job;
stop and consider the wondrous works of God.
15 Do you know how God lays his command
upon them
and causes the lightning of his cloud to shine?
16 Do you know the balancings[1] of the clouds,
the wondrous works of him who is perfect
in knowledge,
17 you whose garments are hot
when the earth is still because of the south
wind?
18 Can you, like him, spread out the skies,
hard as a cast metal mirror?
19 Teach us what we shall say to him;
we cannot draw up our case because of darkness.
20 Shall it be told him that I would speak?
Did a man ever wish that he would be swallowed up?

21 “And now no one looks on the light
when it is bright in the skies,
when the wind has passed and cleared
them.
22 Out of the north comes golden splendor;
God is clothed with awesome majesty.
23 The Almighty—we cannot find him;
he is great in power;
justice and abundant righteousness he will not violate.
24 Therefore men fear him;

he does not regard any who are wise in their own conceit."[2]

The Lord Answers Job

38 [1]†† Then the Lord answered Job out of the whirlwind and said:

[2]† "Who is this that darkens counsel by words without knowledge?
[3]† Dress for action[3] like a man;
I will question you, and you make it known
to me.

[4]† "Where were you when I laid the foundation of the earth?
Tell me, if you have understanding.
[5] Who determined its measurements—surely you know!
Or who stretched the line upon it?
[6] On what were its bases sunk,
or who laid its cornerstone,
[7]† when the morning stars sang together
and all the sons of God shouted for joy?

[8]† "Or who shut in the sea with doors
when it burst out from the womb, [9] when I made clouds its garment
and thick darkness its swaddling band, [10] and prescribed limits for it
and set bars and doors, [11] and said, 'Thus far shall you come, and no farther,
and here shall your proud waves be stayed'?

12 “Have you commanded the morning since your days began,
and caused the dawn to know its place, 13 that it might take hold of the skirts of the
earth,
and the wicked be shaken out of it?
14 It is changed like clay under the seal,
and its features stand out like a garment.
15 From the wicked their light is withheld,
and their uplifted arm is broken.

16 “Have you entered into the springs of the sea,
or walked in the recesses of the deep?
17 Have the gates of death been revealed to
you,
or have you seen the gates of deep
darkness?
18 Have you comprehended the expanse of the
earth?
Declare, if you know all this.

19 “Where is the way to the dwelling of light,
and where is the place of darkness, 20 that you may take it to its territory and that you may discern the paths to its home?
21 You know, for you were born then,
and the number of your days is great!

22 “Have you entered the storehouses of the snow,
or have you seen the storehouses of the hail,

23 which I have reserved for the time of trouble,
for the day of battle and war?
24 What is the way to the place where the light is distributed,
or where the east wind is scattered upon the
earth?

25 “Who has cleft a channel for the torrents of rain
and a way for the thunderbolt, 26 to bring rain on a land where no man is,
on the desert in which there is no man, 27 to satisfy the waste and desolate land,
and to make the ground sprout with grass?

28 † “Has the rain a father,
or who has begotten the drops of dew?
29 † From whose womb did the ice come forth, and who has given birth to the frost of heaven?
30 The waters become hard like stone,
and the face of the deep is frozen.

31 † “Can you bind the chains of the Pleiades or loose the cords of Orion?
32 † Can you lead forth the Mazzaroth[1] in their season,
or can you guide the Bear with its children?
33 † Do you know the ordinances of the heavens?
Can you establish their rule on the earth?

34 “Can you lift up your voice to the clouds,
that a flood of waters may cover you?
35 Can you send forth lightnings, that they may go and say to you, ‘Here we are’?
36 Who has put wisdom in the inward parts[2]
or given understanding to the mind?[3] 37 † Who can number the clouds by wisdom?
Or who can tilt the waterskins of the heavens, 38 when the dust runs into a mass
and the clods stick fast together?

39 † “Can you hunt the prey for the lion,
or satisfy the appetite of the young lions, 40 when they crouch in their dens
or lie in wait in their thicket?
41 † Who provides for the raven its prey,
when its young ones cry to God for help,
and wander about for lack of food?

39 1 † “Do you know when the mountain goats give birth?

Do you observe the calving of the does?
2 Can you number the months that they fulfill,
and do you know the time when they give birth,
3 when they crouch, bring forth their offspring,
and are delivered of their young?
4 Their young ones become strong; they grow up in the open;
they go out and do not return to them.

5 “Who has let the wild donkey go free?
Who has loosed the bonds of the swift donkey,

6 † to whom I have given the arid plain for his home
and the salt land for his dwelling place?
7 He scorns the tumult of the city;
he hears not the shouts of the driver.
8 He ranges the mountains as his pasture,
and he searches after every green thing.

9 †"Is the wild ox willing to serve you?
Will he spend the night at your manger?
10 Can you bind him in the furrow with ropes,
or will he harrow the valleys after you?
11 Will you depend on him because his strength is great,
and will you leave to him your labor?
12 Do you have faith in him that he will return your grain
and gather it to your threshing floor?

13 ††"The wings of the ostrich wave proudly, but are they the pinions and plumage of
love?[1]
14 For she leaves her eggs to the earth and lets them be warmed on the ground, 15 forgetting that a foot may crush them
and that the wild beast may trample them.
16 † She deals cruelly with her young, as if they were not hers;
though her labor be in vain, yet she has no
fear,
17 because God has made her forget wisdom
and given her no share in understanding.
18 When she rouses herself to flee,[2]
she laughs at the horse and his rider.

19 “Do you give the horse his might?
Do you clothe his neck with a mane?
20 Do you make him leap like the locust?
His majestic snorting is terrifying.
21 He paws[3] in the valley and exults in his strength;
he goes out to meet the weapons.
22 He laughs at fear and is not dismayed;
he does not turn back from the sword.
23 Upon him rattle the quiver,
the flashing spear, and the javelin.
24 With fierceness and rage he swallows the ground;
he cannot stand still at the sound of the trumpet.
25 When the trumpet sounds, he says ‘Aha!’
He smells the battle from afar,
the thunder of the captains, and the shouting.

26 “Is it by your understanding that the hawk soars
and spreads his wings toward the south?
27 Is it at your command that the eagle mounts up and makes his nest on high?
28 On the rock he dwells and makes his home,
on the rocky crag and stronghold.
29 From there he spies out the prey;
his eyes behold it from far away.
30 His young ones suck up blood, and where the slain are, there is he.”

40 [1]And the LORD said to Job:

[2]"Shall a faultfinder contend with the Almighty?
He who argues with God, let him
answer it."

Job Promises Silence

3 Then Job answered the Lord and said:

4 “Behold, I am of small account; what shall I answer you?
I lay my hand on my mouth.
5 I have spoken once, and I will not answer;
twice, but I will proceed no further.”

The Lord Challenges Job

6 Then the Lord answered Job out of the whirlwind and said:

7 "Dress for action[1] like a man;
I will question you, and you make it known to me.
8 Will you even put me in the wrong?
Will you condemn me that you may be in the right?
9 Have you an arm like God,
and can you thunder with a voice like his?

10 "Adorn yourself with majesty and dignity;
clothe yourself with glory and splendor.
11 Pour out the overflowings of your anger,
and look on everyone who is proud and abase him.
12 Look on everyone who is proud and bring him low and tread down the wicked where they stand.
13 Hide them all in the dust together;
bind their faces in the world below.[2] 14 Then will I also acknowledge to you that your own right hand can save you.
15 "Behold, Behemoth,[3]
which I made as I made you;
he eats grass like an ox.
16 Behold, his strength in his loins,
and his power in the muscles of his belly.
17 He makes his tail stiff like a cedar;

the sinews of his thighs are knit together.
18 His bones are tubes of bronze,
his limbs like bars of iron.

19 "He is the first of the works[4] of God;
let him who made him bring near his sword!
20 For the mountains yield food for him
where all the wild beasts play.
21 Under the lotus plants he lies,
in the shelter of the reeds and in the marsh.
22 For his shade the lotus trees cover him;
the willows of the brook surround him.
23 Behold, if the river is turbulent he is not frightened;
he is confident though Jordan rushes against
his mouth.
24 Can one take him by his eyes,[5]
or pierce his nose with a snare?

41 1[6] "Can you draw out Leviathan[7] with a fishhook or press down his tongue with a cord?

2 Can you put a rope in his nose
or pierce his jaw with a hook?
3 Will he make many pleas to you?
Will he speak to you soft words?
4 Will he make a covenant with you to take him for your servant forever?
5 Will you play with him as with a bird,
or will you put him on a leash for your girls?
6 Will traders bargain over him?
Will they divide him up among the merchants?
7 Can you fill his skin with harpoons

or his head with fishing spears?
8 Lay your hands on him;
remember the battle—you will not do it
again!
9 [1] Behold, the hope of a man is false;
he is laid low even at the sight of him.
10 No one is so fierce that he dares to stir him up.
Who then is he who can stand before me?
11 Who has first given to me, that I should
repay him?
Whatever is under the whole heaven is mine.

12 "I will not keep silence concerning his limbs,
or his mighty strength, or his goodly frame.
13 Who can strip off his outer garment?
Who would come near him with a bridle?
14 Who can open the doors of his face?
Around his teeth is terror.
15 His back is made of[2] rows of shields,
shut up closely as with a seal.
16 One is so near to another that no air can come between them.
17 They are joined one to another;
they clasp each other and cannot be separated.
18 His sneezings flash forth light,
and his eyes are like the eyelids of the dawn.
19 Out of his mouth go flaming torches;
sparks of fire leap forth.
20 Out of his nostrils comes forth smoke,
as from a boiling pot and burning rushes.
21 His breath kindles coals,
and a flame comes forth from his mouth.
22 In his neck abides strength,

and terror dances before him.
23 The folds of his flesh stick together,
firmly cast on him and immovable.
24† His heart is hard as a stone,
hard as the lower millstone.
25 When he raises himself up the mighty[3] are afraid;
at the crashing they are beside themselves.
26 Though the sword reaches him, it does not avail,
nor the spear, the dart, or the javelin.
27† He counts iron as straw,
and bronze as rotten wood.
28 The arrow cannot make him flee;
for him sling stones are turned to stubble.
29† Clubs are counted as stubble;
he laughs at the rattle of javelins.
30† His underparts are like sharp potsherds;
he spreads himself like a threshing sledge
on the mire.
31† He makes the deep boil like a pot;
he makes the sea like a pot of ointment.
32 Behind him he leaves a shining wake;
one would think the deep to be white-haired.
33 On earth there is not his like,
a creature without fear.
34† He sees everything that is high;
he is king over all the sons of pride.”

Job's Confession and Repentance

42 [1]Then Job answered the LORD and said:

[2]"I know that you can do all things, and that no purpose of yours can be thwarted.
[3]'Who is this that hides counsel without
knowledge?'
Therefore I have uttered what I did not understand,
things too wonderful for me, which I did not know.
[4]'Hear, and I will speak;
I will question you, and you make it known
to me.'
[5] I had heard of you by the hearing of the ear,
but now my eye sees you;
[6] therefore I despise myself,
and repent[1] in dust and ashes."

The Lord Rebukes Job's Friends

7 ‡† After the Lord had spoken these words to Job, the Lord said to Eliphaz the Temanite: "My anger burns against you and against your two friends, for you have not spoken of me what is right, as my servant Job has. 8 † Now therefore take seven bulls and seven rams and go to my servant Job and offer up a burnt offering for yourselves. And my servant Job shall pray for you, for I will accept his prayer not to deal with you according to your folly.
For you have not spoken of me what is right, as my servant Job has." 9 † So Eliphaz the Temanite and Bildad the Shuhite and Zophar the Naamathite went and did what the Lord had told them, and the Lord accepted Job's prayer.

The Lord Restores Job's Fortunes

10 ‡† And the Lord restored the fortunes of Job, when he had prayed for his friends. And the Lord gave Job twice as much as he had before. 11 † Then came to him all his brothers and sisters and all who had known him before, and ate bread with him in his house. And they showed him sympathy and comforted him for all the evil[1] that the Lord had brought upon him. And each of them gave him a piece of money[2] and a ring of gold.

12 † And the Lord blessed the latter days of Job more than his beginning.
And he had 14,000 sheep, 6,000 camels, 1,000 yoke of oxen, and 1,000 female donkeys. 13 † He had also seven sons and three daughters. 14 † And he called the name of the first daughter Jemimah, and the name of the second Keziah, and the name of the third Keren-happuch. 15 † And in all the land there were no women so beautiful as Job's daughters. And their father gave them an inheritance among their brothers. 16 † And after this Job lived 140 years, and saw his sons, and his sons' sons, four generations. 17 † And Job died, an old man, and full of days.

Introduction to Job

Reading Job

Stubs of pillars and walls interrupt the graceful arcs of hills throughout the Near East. At twilight, silhouettes of these ruins meld with the hills like permanent features of the landscape. But in truth, they testify that nothing here is permanent. All things and all people suffer decay in our sin-broken world. The life and work of every person ends in ashes, dust, and ruins.

The prophet Job sat in ashes and dust for seven days (2:13) and considered the ruins of his once-great estate. Neither mourning nor the wisdom of his friends offered comfort. In fact, Job's friends accused him of bringing ruin upon himself and his family.

Central Question and Theme

The accusations of Job's friends seem minor when compared with the accusation of Satan, who asks the central question in the Book of Job and sets the theme: "Does Job fear God for no reason ?" (Hbr hinnam ; 1:9). In other words, why should Job or any other person fear, love, and trust in God? Satan wants to show that a person only serves God because He rewards obedience or punishes disobedience. Job's three friends take up this understanding—our relationship to the Almighty is simply a matter of punishment for disobedience or reward for obedience—and they argue with Job about this issue for most of the Book (cf chs 3–31).

However, Job understands that something greater is at work between God and humanity. Job confesses faith in a Redeemer, that the Lord is his Savior (9:33–35; 13:15–16; 14:13–14; 16:19–21; 19:24–27); he has learned true wisdom from the Lord, which comes from "fear" (i.e., trust; see p 1001) and repentance. Despite Job's insights and legendary patience, he sins by attempting to justify himself in his final appeal (ch 31).

At this point in the story, the young man Elihu interrupts the debate (chs 32–37) to condemn Job's self-justification and the self-righteous condemnations of Job offered by Job's friends. Elihu comes closest to understanding the situation. He defends God's justice and builds on Job's insights about repentance and redemption. He perceives that the Lord "delivers the afflicted by their affliction and opens their ear by adversity" (36:15). He hits upon an important biblical truth: God redeems amid and even through suffering.

After the Lord confronts Job (chs 38–41), Job puts into practice what he had earlier confessed. He repents "in dust and ashes" and receives the Lord's redemption (ch 42). In this way, Satan's initial question is answered —Job does not fear the Lord for the sake of wealth or prosperity. He fears the Lord because He calls people to repentance and redeems them.

Luther on Job

Luther states that the Book of Job "is written for our comfort." It teaches that all people sin and that God's justice is not like human justice:

> The book of Job deals with the question, whether misfortune comes from God even to the righteous. Job stands firm and contends that God torments even the righteous without cause other than that this be to God's praise, as Christ also testifies in John 9[:3] of the man who was born blind.
> Job's friends take the other side. They make a big and lengthy palaver [empty talk] trying to maintain God's justice, saying that he does not punish a righteous man, and if he does punish, then the man who is punished must have sinned. They have a worldly and human idea of God and his righteousness, as though he were just like men and his justice like the justice of the world.
> To be sure, when Job is in danger of death, out of human weakness he talks too much against God, and in his suffering sins. Nevertheless Job insists that he has not deserved this suffering more than others have, which is, of course, true. Finally, however, God decides that Job, by speaking against God in his suffering, has spoken wrongly, but that in contending against his friends about his innocence before the suffering came Job has spoken the truth. So the book > carries this story ultimately to this conclusion: God alone is righteous, and yet one man is more righteous than another, even in the sight of God.
> But this is written for our comfort, that God allows even his great saints to falter, especially in adversity. For before Job comes into fear of death, he praises God at the theft of his goods and the death of his children. But when death is in prospect and God withdraws himself, Job's words show what kind of thoughts a man—however holy he may be—holds toward God: he thinks that God is not God, but only a judge and wrathful tyrant, who storms ahead and cares nothing about the goodness of a person's life. This is the finest part of this book. It is understood only by those who also experience and feel what it is to suffer the wrath and judgment of God, and to have his grace hidden.

The language of this book is more vigorous and splendid than that of any other book in all the Scriptures…. So, for example, when he says something like this, “The thirsty will pant after his wealth” [Job 5:5], that means “robbers shall take it from him”; or when he says, “The children of pride have never trodden it” [Job 28:8], that means “the young lions that stalk proudly”; and many similar cases. Again, by “light” he means good fortune, by “darkness” misfortune [Job 18:8], and so forth. (AE 35:251–52)

Job's Example

In the Book of Ezekiel, Job is given a place of honor beside Noah and Daniel as a righteous man (Ezk 14:14, 20). James reminds his readers of Job's "steadfastness" (Jas 5:11). A better example of a tenacious faith is hard to find.

From the story of Job comes, furthermore, the reassuring reminder that God "will not let you be tempted beyond your ability." Satan cannot "harass" Job beyond endurance. In His own way and at His own time, God provides "the way of escape" (1Co 10:13; 2Co 12:7–10).

New Testament believers have advantages over Job. The Gospel of fulfillment proclaims that humankind's need, demonstrated in the Book of Job, has been met in the perfect obedience and innocent suffering of Jesus Christ. However, we cannot do without a Joblike faith. We, too, are asked to believe that "for those who love God all things work together for good" (Rm 8:28), no matter how bad things look. Our trials may be even more baffling than Job's. We may be tempted to ask whether a God who claims to love us so much that He gave His Son to die for us should not have exempted us from suffering.

Nor are present-day believers more immune to the temptation to serve God for selfish reasons, even though we have received fuller revelation regarding life eternal. Instead of thinking of heaven as a gift of grace, we remain susceptible to the satanic suggestion that God is under obligation to reward our virtues either in this world or in the world to come. Furthermore, the promise of reigning with Christ may fail to satisfy us when we look for relief from distress in the here and now.

Challenges for Readers

Suffering. Some commentators have charged that the Book of Job never answers the questions it raises about suffering. This misunderstanding usually arises from trying to read Job as an explanation of human suffering rather than as a book about fear of God and redemption.

Date of Composition. Various dates have been proposed for the Book of Job. Critics often date the writing of Job to the sixth or fifth century BC or even later, though it describes a setting from the patriarchal period (late third millennium or early second millennium). The money Job describes (42:11), the Sabean and Chaldean raiders (1:15, 17), Job's great age (42:16), and way of sacrifice (1:5) all correspond to a time before the establishment of the Israelite priesthood and tabernacle. The great events of the exodus and conquest are never mentioned. The style of the Hebrew is archaic and very difficult, the most interpretive in the OT (see Luther's comments above about translation). All these features point to an early date. See note, 20:24.

Doctrinal Use. Readers should be cautious about using the dialogues in Jb 3:1–37:24 for supporting doctrine, because Job and his friends do not get everything quite right in their conversation about God's ways (38:1–2; 42:7). The chief value of the dialogues is to show how difficult it is for us to understand the Lord's purposes and to interpret the prosperity or suffering we experience. The Lord commends Job for speaking "what is right" about Him (42:7), since Job ultimately expresses his faith in the Lord's redemption.

The Redeemer. The greatest failure of critics is in not recognizing Job's prophecy about the Redeemer and the resurrection of the body (19:23–29). In this passage, Job beautifully points forward to Jesus of Nazareth, who suffers Satan's accusations, temptation, and finally endures the cross in order to redeem all people from sin. These themes are wonderfully drawn together by the English hymn writer Samuel Medley (1738–99): "I know that my Redeemer lives; What comfort this sweet sentence gives! He lives, He lives, who once was dead; He lives, my ever-living head" (LSB 461:1).

Blessings for Readers

Despite Job's lack of understanding and inability to explain his suffering, he clings to his belief that God is still his Redeemer. The Book of Job teaches that suffering is not simply God's judgment for sin (though it certainly can be that); suffering may be a trial permitted by God for our good or for the good of another. Most important, human suffering is part of God's redemptive plan for the salvation of all (demonstrated by Jesus' suffering). Job trusts that a Mediator-Redeemer will justify him. And in the end, God leads Job to sincere repentance and renewed faith in His mercy.

As you study Job, pray for the patience, wisdom, and faith shown by this saint. No matter what you may suffer, confess your Redeemer and call on Him. He will deliver you!

OUTLINE

Job has an exceptionally clear and well-marked outline. The prologue and epilogue are prose. All of the speeches are poetry and are clearly demarcated by statements identifying the speaker. A simple outline:

1. Prologue in Narrative Prose (chs 1–2)
2. Dialogue of Speeches in Poetry (3:1–42:6)
3. Epilogue in Narrative Prose (42:7–17)

A detailed outline:

I. Prologue in Narrative Prose (chs 1–2)

II. Dialogue of Speeches in Poetry (3:1–42:6)

A. Dialogue between Job and His Three Friends (chs 3–31). These dialogues have three cycles of speeches. After Job's opening lament (ch 3), in each cycle the order of speakers is this: Eliphaz, Job, Bildad, Job, Zophar, Job. In the third cycle, however, Bildad runs short on words and Zophar is at a loss for words. Hence, in the third cycle, Zophar has no speech and Job has no response to Zophar.

1. Job's opening lament (ch 3)
2. First cycle (chs 4–14)
   a. Eliphaz (chs 4–5)
   b. Job (chs 6–7)
   c. Bildad (ch 8)

d. Job (chs 9–10)
e. Zophar (ch 11)
f. Job (chs 12–14)

3. Second cycle (chs 15–21)
a. Eliphaz (ch 15)
b. Job (chs 16–17)
c. Bildad (ch 18)
d. Job (ch 19)
e. Zophar (ch 20)
f. Job (ch 21)

4. Third cycle (chs 22–26)
a. Eliphaz (ch 22)
b. Job (chs 23–24)
c. Bildad (ch 25)
d. Job (ch 26)

B. Job's Monologue (chs 27–31)
C. Elihu's Speeches (chs 32–37)
D. Yahweh's Two Speeches and Job's Two Responses (38:1–42:6)
1. Yahweh's first speech (38:1–40:2)
2. Job's first response (40:3–5)
3. Yahweh's second speech (40:6–41:34)
4. Job's second response (42:1–6)

III. Epilogue in Narrative Prose: God's Verdict and Job's Restoration (42:7–17)

The Meaning of Sheol

This word, occurring 65 times in the Hebrew OT, is still obscure. Since the derivation of the word is uncertain, the context must determine the meaning in each case.

1. Sheol can mean the resting place of mankind's mortal remains (Jb 17:16; Is 38:10).

2. Sheol can also mean "realm of the dead," into which all enter who depart this life, righteous as well as wicked (e.g., Gn 37: 35; Jb 7:9; Ps 16:10; 31:17; 89:48). In this sense, it is a general term used very much like the English phrase "the hereafter" or "the beyond." The phrase "to go down into Sheol" means "to die, to depart from the land of the living." But it should be noted that when the righteous are said to descend into Sheol, their fate beyond is rarely taken into account. The hope of the pious in the OT is expressed differently (e.g., Ps 73: 24).

3. Sheol can mean the place where God's judgment overtakes evildoers. In this sense, Sheol receives those who are taken away in God's anger. Korah's rebel band went down to Sheol because they had provoked the Lord (Nu 16: 30, 33). Harlots go to Sheol (Pr 5:5). The anger of the Lord burns to the depths of Sheol (Dt 32:22). According to Ps 49, all people die physically, the righteous as well as the ungodly (v 10), but there is a difference in their existence in the hereafter. The confidence of the psalmist is expressed in the words "They [i.e., the wicked] are appointed for Sheol; Death shall be their shepherd…. But God will ransom my soul from the power of Sheol, for He will receive me" (v v 14–15). Clearly, there is a sharp contrast between the doom of the ungodly and the glorious hope of the believer, who hopes to rest securely in the hands of God (Ps 73).

Legal Language in Job

In the ancient Near East, the elders of a community would typically hold court in a city gate (Jb 29:7). In the ancient city of Gezer, archaeologists have found stone benches in the gate chambers where the elders sat. The elders likely wore garments that distinguished their service (Jb 29:14). Parties in dispute would approach them at the gate, explain their case, and count on a wise ruling (see pp 775–77). Job served as such an elder, and his friends likely did as well. The Book of Job never mentions that its setting is the city gate, but its dialogues are filled with the legal language of such proceedings (e.g., 10: 2; 23:1–7; 29:7–17, 21–25; 31:11, 13, 21, 35–37).

The separate roles of judge, jury, and lawyer may not have been clear in these proceedings; participants probably discussed and argued their way through the issue, trying to convince one another. In some communities, bribes would change hands (Jb 6: 22). Crowds might gather to watch and participate (cf Jb 12:4; 30:1, 8–15).

Instead of supporting Job's case, his friends have supported the suit against him (6:14–23; 8:1–6). Though Job himself had heard and argued in such cases and he was famous for defending the defenseless (29:15–17), he did not have the skill to argue his case before the ultimate judge: the Lord (9: 3, 14–15, 19–20, 29–35). In ch 9, he begins to see that he needs help, an arbitrator (v 33). This realization becomes the basis for Job's later cry, "I know that my Redeemer lives" (19: 25).

Job's Wisdom and His Knowledge of the Creator

Zophar [Job's friend] had said bombastically that "the wisdom of God reached all the way to heaven, was deeper than hell, longer than the earth, broader than the sea" [11:7–9]. Therefore, Job responds that it is not necessary to seek further documentation of divine wisdom and majesty because those lower things that are visible to the eyes of all bear enough witness and more about that wisdom and majesty. If we were to consider the structure of the limbs in animals or the powers of herbs and things born of the earth, surely they provide clear witnesses of divine wisdom. In Job [38–39] God Himself cites some outstanding, admirable works in the preservation and governance of His created things. Therefore in a figurative way of speaking the holy man commands that they ask the beasts and birds, that they address the earth because the goodness, wisdom, and power of the Creator can be learned from these by careful consideration and meditation….

If we recognize and admire the wisdom of their [human] manufacturers from the marvelous making of clocks and from their sure movements, why should we not recognize the marvelous wisdom of God the Creator from the miraculous and stunning manufacture of the heavens? "Who among all these does not know," asks Job, "that the hand of the Lord has done this?" [12:9]. That is, even the most illiterate person acknowledges that these are the works of God's hands. It would be ridiculously childish if a person were to admire the canvas of a painter and not praise the artist nor his artistry….

Although one can in some way know not only the essence of God but also His providence from the principles born in us and from contemplation of created things, nevertheless the knowledge of divine providence taken from the book of nature was weakened in the minds of the heathen by a consideration of this inequality: the good often appear to experience the worst fortune while the wicked, on the other hand, enjoy good fortune (Job 21:7–8; Ps 73:17; etc.).

We must distinguish between a knowledge of creation and of the Creator Himself, for we cannot go from only the contemplation of created things to an understanding of the creation specifically and literally—that God created all things out of nothing within a definite time (six days). Heb 11: 3: "By faith we understand that the universe was created by the word of God, so that what is seen was not made out of things that are visible." Nevertheless we can arrive at a knowledge of the Creator from looking at creatures, namely, that there is some supreme uncreated being from whom all things have come.

The Countenance of Job

Early in the Reformation, Dr. Martin Luther wrestled with issues of salvation, suffering, and divine punishment similar to those in the Book of Job. He noted that some theologians argued simply that if people obtained grace by doing righteous acts, God would reward them, and if people lived in unrighteousness, God would punish them. This approach to theology left little room for righteous suffering or salvation based on God's righteousness.

Suffering and Righteousness

At the Heidelberg Disputation in April 1518, Luther presented the following points (nos. 16–18). They introduce a biblical perspective on righteousness and suffering.

> The person who believes that he can obtain grace by doing what is in him adds sin to sin so that he becomes doubly guilty.
>
> Nor does speaking in this manner give cause for despair, but for arousing the desire to humble oneself and seek the grace of Christ.
> It is certain that man must utterly despair of his own ability before he is prepared to receive the grace of Christ.

Luther went on to argue that theologians who taught people to seek God's grace through good works and victorious living mislead people about how God works through suffering. They could never truly understand the good and the sufferings that the righteous experience in life (nos. 20–24).

> He deserves to be called a theologian, however, who comprehends the visible and manifest things of God seen through suffering and the cross.
> A theologian of glory calls evil good and good evil. A theologian of the cross calls the thing what it actually is.
>
> That wisdom which sees the invisible things of God in works as perceived by man is completely puffed up, blinded, and hardened.
>
> The law brings the wrath of God, kills, reviles, accuses, judges, and condemns everything that is not in Christ (Rom. 4:15).
> Yet that wisdom is not of itself evil, nor is the law to be evaded; but without the theology of the cross man misuses the best in the worst manner. (AE 31:40–41)

In his explanation of these points, Luther described the righteousness of Christ as "the countenance of Job" (AE 31:64). God called wounded and suffering Job to intercede for his friends and avert God's wrath (Jb 42:8). In a similar way, the wounded and suffering Christ interceded for all sinners, averts God's wrath from us, and grants us His righteousness. The Lord looked upon the diseased and battered countenance of Job and heard Job's plea for his friends. In a similar way, when the Lord looks upon the battered face of His Son, He hears Christ's pleas on our behalf.

The Theology of the Cross

The righteous do suffer! And through their suffering God works His mercy and salvation. Later that same year, in his explanations of the Ninety-five Theses, Luther commented further on the theology of the cross:

> A theologian of the cross (that is, one who speaks of the crucified and hidden God), teaches that punishments, crosses, and death are the most precious treasury of all…. Indeed fortunate and blessed is he who is considered by God to be so worthy that these treasures of the relics of Christ should be given to him; rather, who understands that they are given to him. For to whom are they not offered? As St. James says, "Count it all joy, my brethren, when you meet various trials" (Jas. 1: 2). For not all have this grace and glory to receive these treasures, but only the most elect of the children of God. (AE 31: 225–26)

When Trials Come

In this sin-broken world, you will experience suffering. When trials come, do not automatically conclude that God is punishing you for a sin. Certainly confess and repent of whatever sins you know. But also entrust your body and life to the One who accomplishes His purposes in the midst of suffering. See the world with Job's eyes, and behold the countenance of Jesus, your Redeemer, who bore the price of your salvation.

> Troubles are not always punishments or signs of wrath. Indeed, terrified consciences should be taught that there are more important purposes for afflictions (2 Corinthians 12:9), so that they do not think God is rejecting them when they see nothing but God's punishment and anger in troubles. The other more important purposes are to be considered, that is, that God is doing His strange work so that He may be able to do His own work. (Ap XIIB 61)

Study Notes

JOB—NOTE ON 1:1 a man. Hbr word order ("a man there was") indicates the beginning of a report. Cf 1Sm 25:2; 2Sm 12:1; Est 2:5. This man, as a member of the human race, would demonstrate that all children of Adam had to look beyond themselves for a Savior from Satan and from their own sinful nature. land of Uz. Exact location uncertain. See map, p 780. Job. Mentioned in Ezk 14:14, 20, Job is seen as an ancient hero of faith along with Noah and Daniel (most likely the biblical Daniel, not Danel the Ugaritic hero). If the name Job is derived from Hbr, it means "one exposed to hostility"; from Arabic, possibly "one who returns or repents." Unlike other biblical patriarchs, Job is introduced without genealogy or reference to his tribe or clan and without historical context. Job is a real person, whose life teaches all humanity about their plight. blameless. Hbr tam, "complete," "sound." The term often designates a sacrificial animal as spotless, without blemish. When used of a human, it means personal integrity, not sinless perfection (Jsh 24:14; Jgs 9:16, 19). The blameless person walks closely with God (Gn 17:1) and delights in obeying God's Law (Ps 119:1). This does not mean that Job was sinless, for later he admits he is a sinner (6:24; 7:21; 42:6). Even Job's first recorded act—offering sacrifices for sin (1:5)—indicates his understanding that he is a sinner. upright. Frequent term in Ps and Pr; means "straightness," "faithful adherence to God's statutes." "Blameless" and "upright" are juxtaposed in Ps 25:21 and parallel in Ps 37:37. Together, the words indicate the peak of moral perfection, an honest, compassionate manner in relating to others. Job demonstrated this esp in the way he treated his servants with fairness and justice (31:13–23). feared God. Throughout biblical Wisdom Literature, fear of God is the foundation for true wisdom (28:28; Pr 1:7; 9:10; see p 1001). turned away from evil. Those who fear God avoid the very appearance of evil (Pr 16:6; Jb 31:1–12), and they do not trust in any other god (31:24–28).

JOB—NOTE ON 1:2–3 seven sons and three daughters. Numbers three, seven, and ten may indicate completeness, perfection. Job's life was filled not only with wealth (livestock, servants) but also with a rich lineage (sons and daughters). 3,000 camels. Suggests participation in caravan trade. 500 yoke of oxen. Indicates that Job was not a nomad but a farmer with extensive farmlands (v 14).

JOB—NOTE ON 1:4 his day. Most likely this feast occurred on the son's birthday, since the same Hbr word is also used in 3:1. The happy and healthy family circle of Job's children was strengthened with the observance of annual feasts. These festive gatherings of the family set the stage for the later disaster (vv 18–19).

JOB—NOTE ON 1:5 Job would send and consecrate them. As head of the family, Job was a priest before God for his children (cf Gn 12:7; 15:9–10; 35:1). He was a wonderful example of a parent offering intercessory prayer for his children. burnt offerings. Usually made for unintentional sins (Lv 4:1–5:6); they atoned for human sin in general. cursed. Hbr barak. Normally means "to bless"; here the context indicates the opposite. The sin of cursing is pivotal to the Book of Job. E.g., Job is concerned with his children cursing God; Satan will argue that Job would curse God, esp if Job were to suffer loss. Even Job's wife will urge him to curse God and die (2:9). Cypr: "In the spiritual and heavenly life, the larger the number of children you have, the greater ought to be the outlay of your labors…. Since there cannot daily fail to be sins committed in the sight of God, there [lacked] not daily sacrifices wherewith the sins might be cleansed away…. If, then, you truly love your children, if you show to them the full and paternal sweetness of love, you ought to be the more charitable, that by your righteous works you may commend your children to God" (ANF 5:481).

JOB—NOTE ON 1:1–5 Job is unique in being as faultless as one can be (1:8; 2:3). He has a wonderful—even "perfect"—family and life. Yet Job's devotion to God is not based on self-righteousness. He recognizes the sinful, corrupt nature at work within his family and seeks God's forgiveness (v 5). Even when all seems right in our families, the Lord calls us to daily repentance, because true peace and devotion flow from His mercy. • Lord, give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses through the perfect offering of Your beloved Son. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 1:6 a day. Suggests God had appointed a time for this gathering. the sons of God. Also in 2:1; 38:7 (cf Ps 89:6–7; possible parallel in Gn 6:2, 4). They are God's created attendants called "angels" (Gn 32:1; Ps 103:20); also described as God's agents or supervisors of God's realm (Dn 4:13, 17, 23), occasionally active in human dealings (Zec 1:10–17;

6:4–8). Also called "gods" (Ps 97:7) or spirits (lit, "winds"; Zec 6:5). When gathered together, they constitute "the assembly of the holy ones" (Ps 89:5) or "the council of the holy ones" (Ps 89:7). before the LORD. Hbr expression for God's nearer presence; see "presence," p 843; for divine name "Yahweh," see p 1227. Satan. A title, not yet a proper name. "The accuser," with the definite article (cf Zec 3:1–2). OT uses the term to denote various human antagonists or adversaries (1Sm 29:4; 2Sm 19:22; 1Ki 5:4; 11:14; Ps 109:6) or to designate the archenemy of humanity, an enemy who did not keep his position among the heavenly hosts (Jude 6). The definite article stigmatizes "the Satan" as the greatest enemy of humanity. came among them. Though some see Satan as the prosecutor in the heavenly council, ready to accuse and indict his victim (cf Rv 12:10), others interpret the phrase to refer to an intruder who has no right to be present at this council. (Satan alone is asked his business.) Satan's insolence shows a mind twisted away from God, not a loyal servant. The Lord is finally the one who brings the case against Job (chs 38–41).

JOB—NOTE ON 1:7 From where have you come? The Lord knows the answer but invites Satan to state his business. Greg: "What then is it to say to Satan, 'Where do you come from?' but to condemn his ways, as though unknown. The light of truth then knows nought of the darkness, which it reproves" (ALF 18:71). to and fro. Roaming around looking for trouble or an opportunity to do harm; prowling "around like a roaring lion, seeking someone to devour" (1Pt 5:8). Chrys: "And if he [Satan] should not be able by wealth to cast us out of our portion there [heaven], he comes another way, the way of poverty; as he did with respect to Job. That is, when he saw that wealth did him no harm, he weaves his toils by poverty, expecting on that side to get the better of him" (*NPNF*1 10:84).

JOB—NOTE ON 1:8 considered. The Lord brings Job to Satan's attention. My servant. Term of honor. none like him. The Lord made this comparison to test Satan. We should not judge ourselves by the deeds of others but in view of God's commands. blameless and upright man. The Lord uses the evidence given in vv 1, 5 to support His praise of Job.

JOB—NOTE ON 1:9–10 for no reason. Hbr hinnam. Reveals Satan's cynicism, insinuating that all good deeds spring from selfish motives. It questions, "Why should a person fear, love, and trust in God?" This is the central question of Jb, which may be answered in two ways: (1) a person serves God to gain God's blessings and to avoid punishment, and (2) a person serves God because He is the merciful Redeemer and only hope of humankind. Aug: "This was true light, this the light of the living, that gratis [without reward] Job should worship God. God saw in the heart of His servant his gratuitous worship. For that heart was pleasing in the sight of the Lord" (*NPNF*1 8:224). Aug: "If when He gives earthly goods, you do rejoice, how much more ought you to rejoice when He gives you Himself, who made heaven and earth? So then God must be loved for His own sake" (*NPNF*1 6:398). hedge. Thorny, protective fence (Hos 2:6) against threats to Job's well-being. Luther notes that God gave us His Commandments "to build a hedge round about [us]" (LC I 205). In 3:23, Job complains that God has "hedged" him in with troubles.

JOB—NOTE ON 1:11 to Your face. In open defiance of God.

JOB—NOTE ON 1:12 in your hand. Yahweh grants Satan full power over Job's possessions, but not over his body. Satan will act as God's servant, as an instrument for testing Job. Luth: "God sends no sickness into the world but through the devil. All sadness and sickness are of the devil, not of God. For God permits the devil to harm us because He receives little regard from us (Acts 10:38; Luke 13:11). Whatever, therefore, pertains to death is the handiwork of the devil; and, conversely, whatever pertains to life is the blessed work (beneficium) of God…. The devil must be our Lord God's executioner" (WLS § 1183).

JOB—NOTE ON 1:6–12 Is the Lord sacrificing Job to His own pride? No! The Lord also puts Satan to the test in order to prove something marvelous for you: Satan cannot snatch you out of the Lord's hand (Jn 10:28–29). • Though suffering and doubt grip me, O Lord, You cling to me and will never forsake me. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 1:13 in their oldest brother's house. Stage is set using information from v 4. The order of destruction is the opposite of the blessings given (a chiastic arrangement):

Order of Blessing (vv 2–3): Sons and daughters
Order of Loss (vv 13–19): Herds and donkeys
Order of Blessing (vv 2–3): Flocks and camels
Order of Loss (vv 13–19): Flocks and camels
Order of Blessing (vv 2–3): Herds and donkeys
Order of Loss (vv 13–19): Sons and daughters

JOB—NOTE ON 1:14 messenger. In 4:18; 33:23, this term means an "angel"; here, a servant of Job reports the first disaster ending his peaceful estate. oxen were plowing. Job was a farmer, not just a herder (v 3).

JOB—NOTE ON 1:15 Sabeans. Semitic people probably from southern Arabia (modern Yemen), whose descendants became wealthy traders in spices, gold, and precious stones (see queen of Sheba, 1Ki 10:1–13; cf Ps 72:10, 15; Is 60:6; Jer 6:20; Ezk 27:22; Jl 3:8). Jb 6:19 calls the Sabeans traveling merchants and associates them with Tema (c 350 mi SE of Jerusalem).
JOB—NOTE ON 1:16 The fire of God. Word usually used for lightning (20:26; Ex 9:23; 1Ki 18:38; 2Ki 1:10–14), but volcanic fallout in Gn 19:24.
JOB—NOTE ON 1:17 Chaldeans. Seminomadic marauders, forerunners of the famous Neo-Babylonian Empire, of whom Nebuchadnezzar in the sixth century BC was most notable. formed three groups. Their attack is well organized.
JOB—NOTE ON 1:18–19 Four disasters symbolize totality of destruction.
JOB—NOTE ON 1:19 great wind. Desert wind, sometimes known as a "sirocco"; a wind with sudden and violent gusts (Jer 13:24).
JOB—NOTE ON 1:20 tore his robe. Customary gesture of grief (Gn 37:34; Jsh 7:6; 2Sm 1:11; 3:31; Est 4:1). An outer robe was worn by nobility and men of standing (1Sm 18:4; 24:4, 11; Ezk 26:16). shaved his head. Also a standard gesture of grief (Is 22:12; Jer 7:29; 16:6; 47:5; 48:37; Ezk 7:18; Am 8:10); such a rite was forbidden in the Law of Moses (Lv 19:27–28; Dt 14:1). fell on the ground and worshiped. Job drops to the ground, not to curse God, but to worship Him (Gn 23:7, 12; Ex 18:7; 1Ki 2:19). Chrys: "If he rent his clothes and shaved his head, marvel not. For he was a father and a loving father: and it was [fitting] that both the compassion of his nature should be shown, and also the self-command of his spirit" (*NPNF*1 12:166). Job became a model of sincere grief and piety in times of tragedy.
JOB—NOTE ON 1:21 naked. Having nothing (Ec 5:14; 1Tm 6:7). The LORD gave. Yahweh is the source of everything. Cf 1Sm 3:18 for similar formula. blessed be the name of the LORD. Cf Ps 113:2 for similar blessing. Satan is foiled, for Job does not curse the Lord, but blesses Him.
JOB—NOTE ON 1:22 wrong. Much debated Hbr term; refers elsewhere to insipid, worthless food (cf 6:7; Jer 23:13).
JOB—NOTE ON 1:13–22 Job's actions display the depths of his grief. But rather than curse God, Job blesses and worships Him. He displays no regret, as though he suspects his loss is the result of sin by someone in his family. He sees God's hand at work in his suffering. Though Job loses virtually all his possessions, he does not lose trust in the Lord. • "And take they our life, Goods, fame, child, and wife, Though these all be gone, Our vict'ry has been won; The Kingdom ours remaineth." Amen. (LSB 656:1)

JOB—NOTE ON 2:1–3 Almost identical passage to 1:6–8. Satan, who earlier accused Job of having ulterior motives, now is seen as having an ulterior motive himself—to discredit the Lord through Job.

JOB—NOTE ON 2:3 integrity. From same root as "blameless." Used in 2:9; 27:5; 31:6; elsewhere in the OT only in Pr 11:3. incited me. Used in a derogatory sense here and in 36:18; 1Sm 26:19; 2Sm 24:1.

JOB—NOTE ON 2:4 Skin for skin! Proverbial saying that could mean a person would exchange anything he or she has for something else of similar or better value.

JOB—NOTE ON 2:5 his bone and his flesh. Together, means "his body." Bones were considered the seat of illness (Lm 1:13); thus Satan has in mind a debilitating disease.

JOB—NOTE ON 2:6 in your hand. Cf 1:12. Greg: "The safeguard of protection goes along with the permission to smite…. And so with the very justice of the permission there is mixed a certain measure of pity, that in one and the same contest, both His lowly servant might rise by oppression, and the towering enemy be brought down by the permission" (ALF 18:133).

JOB—NOTE ON 2:7 loathsome sores. Singular noun in Hbr. A nontechnical term for a grievous inflammation, a boil. Some associate this description with leprosy, though the exact disease is unknown. The disease is characterized with infections, darkened and peeling skin (30:28, 30), and broken and festering skin (7:5). Other symptoms could include emaciation (19:20), fever (30:30b), fits of depression (7:16; 30:15–17), weeping (16:16a), sleeplessness (7:4), nightmares (7:14), putrid breath (19:17), failing vision (16:16b), rotting teeth (19:20), and haggard looks (2:12). Such torturing disfigurement points to the Suffering Servant of Isaiah, whose "appearance was so marred, beyond human semblance…. He had no form or majesty that we should look at Him" (Is 52:14; 53:2). This is the last time Satan is heard or seen in Jb.

JOB—NOTE ON 2:8 piece of broken pottery. Broken pottery had many uses; here a potsherd is used for scraping or scratching the sores. sat in the ashes. Custom associated with grief (2Sm 13:19; Est 4:1, 3; Dn 9:3; Jnh 3:6).

JOB—NOTE ON 2:9 wife. Only time we hear from her. Mentioned by Job in his complaint (19:17) and oath (31:10). Though she is not physically afflicted, she also suffers the loss of children and wealth. hold fast your integrity? Echo of 2:3 and Yahweh's words there. Words are used here in derision, as a temptation aiding Satan. Curse God and die. Possibly an indirect way of encouraging suicide.

JOB—NOTE ON 2:1–10 Job demonstrates great reserve, but also a sense of fatalism. He feels there is nothing he can do. Though he certainly cannot aid himself, he can pray for the Lord's deliverance. This is the Lord's promise and great comfort in the face of all adversity: We can call on the Lord Almighty in prayer; He has promised to answer. • Lord, lead us to call upon Your name in every trouble, pray, praise, and give thanks. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 2:11 Eliphaz. Edomite name that means "God is fine gold"; also the name of one of Esau's sons and a ruler of his people (Gn 36:4, 6–12, 15–16). Temanite. Teman was a son of Eliphaz (Gn 36:11, 15, 42) and also the name of a large Edomite area, southeast of the Salt Sea, famous for its wisdom (Jer 49:7). The Edomites were descendants of Esau (aka Edom; Gn 25:30), brother of Jacob (aka Israel; Gn 32:28), father of the Israelites. Edom led many invasions against Israel (1Sm 14:47; Ezk 25:14), for which the prophet Obadiah announced God's judgment against them (Ob 1–14). Bildad the Shuhite. Possible descendant of Shuah, Abraham's son by his concubine Keturah and founder of a desert tribe related to the nomadic Midianites (Gn 25:2; 1Ch 1:32). Zophar the Naamathite. Name is unique to Jb, as is the location. These friends presumably traveled some distance to visit Job. Little is known about them.

JOB—NOTE ON 2:12 they did not recognize him. Likely a result of Job's disease. tore their robes. In grief, just as Job had done (1:20). sprinkled dust on their heads. Flinging dust into the air so that it fell on the head was another sign of grief.

JOB—NOTE ON 2:13 sat with him on the ground. Another gesture of grief. seven days and seven nights. Normal period of mourning.

JOB—NOTE ON 2:11–13 An important subtheme is Job's friendships. Job's friends display genuine, appropriate sorrow and care. When friends and family mourn and suffer, abide with them. Share their grief, and look for opportunities to comfort them. Pray to the "God of all comfort" on their behalf, for "through Christ we share abundantly in comfort too" (2Co 1:3, 5). • Shelter me, O Lord, with the blessed wounds of Jesus, who is the friend of sinners. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON Chs 3–37 These dialogues of Job with his friends do not always reflect divine truth. Therefore, they should be used cautiously. See pp 779–82. In the ensuing battle of words, the movement of thought from one point of contention to the next is circular. Each speaker draws concentric circles of argumentation around the central topic, repeating the issue and elaborating proof and rebuttal from various points of view. It is very effective in its total impact. See "Legal Language, " p 792.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:1 After this. After seven days of silence. cursed the day of his birth. Lit, "his day" (see note, 1:4). Contrary to his wife's advice (2:9), Job curses himself. Today, we would describe Job as depressed.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:3 Introduces the rest of the chapter by giving a synopsis: vv 4–5 condemn the day, and vv 6–9 condemn the night. Ambr: "Job had recognized that to be born is the beginning of all woes, and therefore wished that the day on which he was born might perish, so that the origin of all troubles might be removed, and wished that the day of his birth might perish that he might receive the day of resurrection" (*NPNF*2 10:178).

JOB—NOTE ON 3:4 Let that day be darkness! Opposite from the command of God at creation, "Let there be light" (Gn 1:3). May God above not seek it. Since God's interest gives existence to a day and a season, Job wishes that God above would not even seek or show interest in the day, causing it to perish.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:5 deep darkness. Hbr term is same as "shadow of death" (Ps 23:4). Cf 10:21–22; 12:22; 16:16; 24:17; 28:3; 34:22; 38:17. blackness of the day. Eclipse of the sun.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:6 let it not come into the number of the months. Poetic; eliminate the day from the calendar, much as there is no Feb 30 on our calendar.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:7 barren. Originally, rocky soil that fails to yield crops (Is 49:21). joyful cry. At the birth of a child.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:8 who curse. Professional sorcerers. the day. Same consonants in Hbr, but supplied with different vowels, give the word "sea" or "day." Leviathan. Sea monster that turns beauty into dust and confusion. See note, 41:1; cf Is 27:1; Ps 74:14; 104:26; Ezk 29:3–5. Early Church translators and interpreters regarded Leviathan as a whale (see Greg, ALF 18:193).

JOB—NOTE ON 3:9 stars of its dawn. Morning stars, planets that shine before the rising sun (Venus, Jupiter, Mars, Mercury, or Saturn). eyelids of the morning. Poetic; description of the dawn.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:10 Job feels the day of his birth should be cursed because it allowed him to be born.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:11 Introduces a section (vv 11–19) expressing a longing for death. Why. Rhetorical question; Job has found no answer.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:12 knees receive me? Suggests a parent's acceptance of the newborn.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:13 Death itself holds no terrors for Job. In this state of mind, Job thinks himself better off dead.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:14 kings and counselors of the earth. Job envisions his grave among majestic tombs. ruins. Everyone's efforts end in ruins.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:16 stillborn child. Used elsewhere only in Ps 58:8 and Ec 6:3.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:17–18 the wicked … the prisoners. Those accustomed to trouble are quiet in death.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:20 Introduces a section (vv 20–23) that expresses a hatred of life. misery. Same root as "trouble" in v 10. bitter in soul. Biting dejection that attends a crushing defeat. Cf 1Sm 1:10; 22:2; 2Sm 17:8; Pr 31:7.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:21–22 long for death … rejoice exceedingly. Job's wish for death (suicide) was never acted upon. Only someone whose life is full of misery would long for death.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:23 hedged in? For the first time, Job holds God directly responsible for his situation. This hedge is no longer one of protection (1:10), but one to prevent his escape from the prison of life.

JOB—NOTE ON 3:24–26 Very thing Job fears (the loss of God's favor) has happened to him.

JOB—NOTE ON ch 3 Even the most optimistic people will reach despair when overwhelmed by pain and suffering, as the examples of prisoners of war demonstrate. The mind snaps just as bones do. Scripture does not teach that death is a friend to those who suffer—death is always an enemy (1Co 15:26), but one overcome by the Lord. Commend those who despair to Jesus, who likewise cried, "My God, My God, why have You forsaken Me?" (Mt 27:46) and rose from the dead to say, "Peace be with you" (Jn 20:21). "Job is excused though he was not troubled by past evil deeds (Job 2:3–10). Therefore, troubles are not always punishments or signs of wrath. Indeed, terrified consciences should be taught that there are more important purposes for afflictions (2 Corinthians 12:9), so that they do not think God is rejecting them when they see nothing but God's punishment and anger in troubles" (Ap XIIB 61). • Lord, train my heart by Your Word in the midst of afflictions, that I may have a quiet conscience, at peace by Your grace. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 4:1 Temanite. See note, 2:11.

JOB—NOTE ON 4:2 impatient? Captures the idea of weariness, whether of mind, spirit, or body. Cf v 5.

JOB—NOTE ON 4:5 it. Unexpected disaster that has come upon Job, who has lost his family, wealth, social position, and health all at once. Without warning, his life is destroyed, and he reacts with dismay.

JOB—NOTE ON 4:6 fear of God. Includes saving faith as well as submission to God's will. Eliphaz challenges Job to remember the relationship he has had with God up to now and the way he has lived his faith. In genuine faith, Job has lived an ethically upright and moral life, yet he is experiencing tremendous loss.

JOB—NOTE ON 4:7 Main point of Job's friends: bad times are God's punishment for sin. If you have not done anything wrong, you do not have anything to fear. Eliphaz has no room in his philosophy for suffering as part of God's plan for His people. See p 837.

JOB—NOTE ON 4:9 breath of God. Instrument of God's all-powerful action at creation (cf Gn 2:7) or in judgment (cf Is 30:33). Eliphaz thinks God always rewards the righteous with good things and punishes the evildoers during their earthly lives. If Eliphaz is right, then Job is trying to hide some secret sin that God is punishing.

JOB—NOTE ON 4:10–11 A lion projects strength and ferocity and often serves as a symbol for the wicked (e.g., Ps 22:13, 21). God "break[s] the teeth" of these lions (Ps 58:6), and they are destroyed. Eliphaz uses this image as an illustration from nature of God's judgment and punishment of the wicked (v 9).

JOB—NOTE ON 4:12 Eliphaz relates a supernatural experience to back up his point and to add the idea that nobody is perfect. Even the righteous should expect to suffer a little because even they are not entirely without fault before God.

JOB—NOTE ON 4:15 A spirit. In his terrifying nighttime experience, Eliphaz does not identify the "spirit" (Hbr ruach) that brushed by his face and appeared before him.

JOB—NOTE ON 4:16 form. In Nu 12:6–8, God tells Aaron and Miriam that He normally appears to prophets in visions and in dreams, but with Moses He speaks personally. Moses beholds the "form" of the Lord, unlike ordinary prophets. It is likely that the "spirit" of v 15 is either the Lord or an angel He has sent.

JOB—NOTE ON 4:17 Eliphaz makes the point that there are no human beings who can be righteous on their own before God. Eliphaz's own reaction of terror in the presence of the Lord (or an angel) illustrates this point. But this does not really help Job or answer the more serious question: how can God justify a sinful person (9:2)?

JOB—NOTE ON 4:18 servants … angels. Begins Eliphaz's response to the revelation of v 17. God judged even the angels, the mightiest created beings known in Scripture. The Bible never reveals the reason some angels fell into sin and rebellion against God, but pride may have been their downfall (cf Is 14:12–15).

JOB—NOTE ON 4:19 in houses of clay. God created man from the dust of the ground (Gn 2:7) and, after death, man returns to the earth (Gn 3:19). A clay house may not last long and is fragile, vulnerable to attacks. So, too, the human being lives only a short time in a fragile body, much weaker and humbler than angels. If God condemns the fallen angels for their sin, how much more will He condemn sinful humankind?

JOB—NOTE ON 4:21 tent-cord. Pulling up a tent-cord causes the whole tent to collapse. Seen from a purely human perspective, life soon ends and, like waves against sand castles on the beach, time soon erases human accomplishments and memory.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:1 holy ones. Angels that serve the Lord (cf Dt 33:2). No angel could serve as mediator between God and Job. Not even these extremely powerful beings could intercede for him before the Lord.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:2 fool. One who denies God and lives a life of self-indulgent wickedness (cf Ps 10; 14; see p 1016). Job was no fool. vexation. Eliphaz wants to make the general point that a constant state of anger or jealousy destroys a person's health (Pr 14:29–30). Eliphaz warns Job that if he continues in his agitated emotional state, he will suffer the same fate as the "fool" or the "simple," even though Job was neither.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:3 I cursed his dwelling. The "fool" opposes God, seeks his own welfare, acts aggressively toward his neighbors, and refuses instruction. In contrast to the security of the righteous believer (v 24), the home, business, and family of the "fool" are fleeting. Eliphaz vividly draws the distinction between the fool's eventual outcome and the believer's final disposition. See p 1016.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:5 even out of thorns. Desolation of the fool (the wicked) will be so complete that even the hard-to-reach grains (those that sprouted among thorns and produced little) will be lost to others.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:6 Eliphaz points out that people reap what they sow; those who reap trouble and loss (as did Job) do so because they did something wrong. In other words, trouble does not just happen—it happens for a reason.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:7 as the sparks fly upward. As surely as sparks from a fire fly upward on the heated air, so people are born to a life of trouble, sorrow, and endless toil. "Sparks" may refer to the Canaanite god Rephesh, associated with fire.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:8–16 Eliphaz praises God as the One who provides for all people and rescues the poor and downtrodden. By implication, Job should entrust his problems to the Lord and bear his present (temporary) troubles in confidence.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:8 seek God. In contrast to the "fool" who ignores God, Eliphaz turns to God for direction, purpose, and meaning in life. In times of trouble, he advises Job, turn to God for help (as David advises in Ps 37:5). See "seek," p 843.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:13 God's wisdom seems foolish to humanity's sinful nature (Paul's point when he quotes this verse in 1Co 3:19). All the plans and crafty schemes of wicked people eventually come to nothing because God rules the world with perfect justice.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:14 Instead of enlightening, human wisdom darkens the mind. Human wisdom leads away from the true light, God, and seeks only its own welfare. This blindness is no accident—it is inspired by Satan and empowered by human will. Cf 2Co 4:4.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:16 Although Eliphaz ends his hymn of praise on a note of hope, he has not helped Job at all. Job knows God, appreciates God's providence, and understands God's rescue of the poor and downtrodden. Eliphaz's worldview assumes that suffering happens only in response to sin. Even Job, generally righteous, must have sinned somehow to bring about his suffering. Eliphaz thinks this suffering will not last long and that God will eventually rescue Job. Human wisdom has no room for a theology of the cross. See p 837.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:17 God reproves. Eliphaz reminds Job that suffering can serve to show people their sin and as a discipline to correct rebellious behavior before it is too late (cf Heb 12:3–11). Almighty. Hbr shaddai. Title used 30 times in Jb, almost twice as often as in all other OT books.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:18–27 The Lord does not deliver Job from his troubles right away. Eliphaz suggests that Job should cheer up because God will eventually restore him when he had suffered enough. Throughout his speech, Eliphaz misses the point entirely.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:19 six … seven. Rhetorical device to indicate complete protection from all evil (cf Pr 6:16).

JOB—NOTE ON 5:21 lash of the tongue. Poetic; accusation and slander from enemies (cf Ps 64).

JOB—NOTE ON 5:22 shall not fear the beasts of the earth. Wild animals, as distinct from domestic animals (cf Gn 1:24–25). Wild animals, such as lions, leopards, and crocodiles, were a real threat to people throughout Canaan.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:24 fold. Sheepfold, protective enclosure for livestock.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:25 your offspring. All Job's children are dead! Eliphaz paints a rosy picture for those favored by the Almighty. No doubt Eliphaz's "comfort" hurt Job deeply and galled him immensely, making him feel much worse.

JOB—NOTE ON 5:27 it is true. Eliphaz shared the day's conventional wisdom. Those who have not experienced the loss, suffering, and grief of Job offer "expert" advice and proclaim it "true."

JOB—NOTE ON Chs 4–5 Eliphaz, the first friend who tries to comfort Job, only adds to Job's misery. His "encouragement" discourages Job because Eliphaz never really connects with Job or his pain. He only offers platitudes. When you reach out to a friend or family member, do not give answers that simply bandage deep hurts. Listen carefully to the sufferer and learn to share the pain. God does use adversity to discipline His people, as Eliphaz pointed out (5:17–18; cf Heb 12:1–13). In the midst of trial, we might doubt God's love for us. But the cross shows us the measure of God's love. By the power of the Holy Spirit, we can see suffering as a tool to refine faith and strengthen our relationship with God in Jesus Christ. Luth: "When faith begins, God does not forsake it; He lays the holy cross on our backs to strengthen us and to make faith powerful in us…. Where suffering and the cross are found, there the Gospel can show and exercise its power. It is a Word of life. Therefore it must exercise all its power in death. In the absence of dying and death it can do nothing, and no one can become aware that it has such power and is stronger than sin and death" (AE 30:126). • Father, strengthen us by Your Holy Spirit so that we do not despair or falter when pressed by trial and tribulation; for Jesus' sake. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 6:2–3 vexation. Eliphaz says that "vexation" kills the fool (5:2). sand. Job responds as if to say, "My vexation weighs more than all the sand in the sea." (Wet sand was proverbially heavy; Pr 27:3.) Eliphaz completely fails to grasp the dimensions of Job's suffering. rash. Job does not apologize for his outbursts but challenges Eliphaz and others to understand why he cannot exercise self-restraint in such catastrophic circumstances.

JOB—NOTE ON 6:4 arrows of the Almighty. Spiritual and mental anguish. In 7:20, the Lord uses Job as a target. Job thinks God has become his enemy. Job is unaware of the conversation between God and Satan in chs 1–2 and cannot perceive God's love and confidence in him.

JOB—NOTE ON 6:5 Animals are content when fed but make noise when they feel the pain of hunger. Job vents his grief and anger because of the pain of the catastrophes.

JOB—NOTE ON 6:6 mallow? Any plant from the genus malva, which produces an unappealing slime. In other words, the speech of Eliphaz in chs 4–5 is bland, shallow, and insipid.

JOB—NOTE ON 6:9 crush me. Job asks God to take his life, "crushing" him back into the dust from which he was made (Gn 3:19). Even in deep despair, Job does not consider suicide. He leaves the decision to God.

JOB—NOTE ON 6:10 not denied. Job has not yet yielded to the temptation to "curse God and die" (2:9). If God would end Job's life at this point, then Job would at least have the comfort of knowing that he died with his integrity intact (a point even Eliphaz admitted, 4:6). the words of the Holy One. Eliphaz claims a special revelation (4:16b–21) but does not clearly reveal who spoke to him. Job has also received revelation and knows its source: the Holy One.

JOB—NOTE ON 6:13 any help in me. Job finds nothing in himself that helps—no strength, no patience, no power, no confidence. He only wishes to die before he breaks completely.

JOB—NOTE ON 6:14 He. Job's overcritical remarks apply not only to Eliphaz but also to all who came to offer their "help." In his great pain, Job does not acknowledge their friendship or recognize their attempts to comfort him.

JOB—NOTE ON 6:15–17 Job compares his friends ("brothers") to the wadis or creek beds in the Near East that overflow in the rainy season (when the extra water is not needed) and dry up in the summer (when farmers could really use the water). They are fair-weather friends, unreliable when really needed.

JOB—NOTE ON 6:18–20 Sometimes commercial caravans, desperate for water, left the highway in search of a stream (v 18). Finding only dry riverbeds, they died (a vivid and harsh picture of Job's own situation). Even experienced traders from Tema and Sheba could find themselves in this predicament. Confident of finding water, they become disappointed ("ashamed") to find only dry creeks. Job expects his friends to stand by him (like the caravan travelers expected water), but they fail to provide any help at all (like dry riverbeds).

JOB—NOTE ON 6:21 you. Plural; all those who advised Job. Since they have not ever been in his situation, they are unable to understand it. Their "help" has been no help at all.

JOB—NOTE ON 6:22–23 Redeem me. Hbr padah, "ransom," "redeem." Job first uses the language of redemption that will become central to the Book. Padah is used in parallel with ga'al ("redeem"; cf Hos 13:14; Jer 31:11), from which the word "Redeemer" comes (19:25). Job does not ask his friends for money or to expose themselves to danger. He asks them to understand his despair, but they cannot do so.

JOB—NOTE ON 6:26 Job's friends try to correct his "words" or "speech," the symptom of his pain, without addressing the cause of those words. They are responding to what Job said (mere "wind") rather than the root of the problem—his suffering. Job wants them to feel his anguish, not discuss a theory of suffering.

JOB—NOTE ON 6:27 cast lots. Job compares their heartlessness to the callous disregard of a person who would "cast lots" (like rolling dice) for the sale of orphans or to negotiate the price of a "friend."
JOB—NOTE ON 6:28–29 Job appeals to his friends as a friend. Again, he wants their understanding, support, and sympathy.
JOB—NOTE ON 6:30 Cannot my palate discern. Using the picture of a tongue and palate that still sense accurately what is placed on them, Job assures his friends that he knows the difference between right and wrong.
JOB—NOTE ON ch 6 Job harshly accuses Eliphaz and his other friends of failing to provide even the smallest amount of comfort or help. When we are down and out, we should avoid attacking those who try to help. Do not expect someone who has never experienced your kind of loss to understand. However, we should welcome their friendship and good intentions. Only God truly understands your situation. In Christ Jesus, He has experienced the full range of human suffering (Heb 4:14–16). • Father, when we are at our lowest point, turn our faces to the cross of Christ. Open our hearts so that we know You truly understand our loss and suffering. Help us find strength in Jesus. "What a friend we have in Jesus, All our sins and griefs to bear! What a privilege to carry Ev'rything to God in prayer!" Amen. (LSB 770:1)
JOB—NOTE ON Ch 7 Job turns his complaint away from his friends and toward God.
JOB—NOTE ON 7:2 A slave longed for the evening shadows, a signal that the day's labor was finished. The hired man normally received his pay at the end of each day, a necessity for buying food for the next day.
JOB—NOTE ON 7:3–4 Job complains that he gets no "pay" at all for months, not just days, of hard labor. The shade of night brings no rest; depression frequently causes sleeplessness.
JOB—NOTE ON 7:5 Job emphasizes the physical symptoms of his disease. His skin disease constantly breaks out in some places as it heals in others. See note, 2:7.
JOB—NOTE ON 7:6 weaver's shuttle. Shuttle for a handloom glides back and forth rapidly to create the final product. Job lost all hope for physical and emotional recovery prior to his impending death.
JOB—NOTE ON 7:7–21 Job addresses God directly.
JOB—NOTE ON 7:9 Sheol. Hbr for "grave" (as here) or, in some contexts, for "hell." Job emphasizes the disappearance of a person upon death, similar to the vanished cloud in the sky. From a purely natural perspective, a person dies, is buried, and is seen no more. See p 792.

JOB—NOTE ON 7:12 a sea monster. The sea and the largest creatures in it are sometimes used to symbolize God's most powerful enemies (e.g., Ps 74:13–14; cf Jb 41). Job complains that he is neither God's enemy nor is he powerful, yet God has treated him as though he were both.
JOB—NOTE ON 7:14 You. Job blames God for the dreams and visions that interrupt his sleep and exhaust him at night.
JOB—NOTE ON 7:16 The depth of Job's hopelessness is revealed in the plaintive cry to God: "Leave me alone."
JOB—NOTE ON 7:17 You. For a similar question in a much more positive context, cf Ps 8:4–8. Job can see only his own pain, and it colors his view of everything else.
JOB—NOTE ON 7:19 swallow my spit? Ancient proverb, used in Arabic even today, meaning "a very short time."
JOB—NOTE ON 7:20 watcher of mankind? Ordinarily, "watcher" refers to God, who "watches over" human beings, protecting and providing for them. Job, however, describes God watching humankind as an enemy army watches a besieged city, waiting to attack a weak spot. mark? Target (cf 6:4).
JOB—NOTE ON 7:21 Job acknowledges his sinfulness and pleads for mercy. Bern: "Throwing down the weight of my own will, I may breathe easily under the light burden of charity; that I may not be overborne any longer by servile fear, nor allured by selfish cupidity, but may be impelled by Your spirit, the spirit of liberty, which is that of Your children" (SLSB, p 199).
JOB—NOTE ON ch 7 In his grief and bitter pain, Job turns to God with this desperate cry: "Leave me alone" (v 16). Painful experiences, such as being diagnosed with a terminal illness or the sudden death of a loved one, can leave us angry with God. By the cross, we understand that God loves us and works through everything in our lives for our salvation (Rm 8:28). In Christ alone, we receive full assurance of God's love for us. Luth: "This consignment into Satan's hands which is held up to your eyes and heart is a temptation for an hour and a moment of time, not for your perdition but to try you, for your salvation and endless gain" (AE 6:95). • Lord, teach me each day to beg Your pardon and believe Your promise that even amid suffering, You are working for my good. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 8:1 Shuhite. See note, 2:11.
JOB—NOTE ON 8:2 Bildad attacks Job for the things he said (chs 6–7). Picking up the cry "How long" from 7:19, Bildad applies it to Job.
JOB—NOTE ON 8:3 Bildad defends God's integrity and justice, a key issue.
JOB—NOTE ON 8:4 For Bildad, the death of Job's children is proof they sinned and deserved to die. How cruel can a well-intentioned "friend" be?
JOB—NOTE ON 8:6 if you are pure and upright. Bildad thinks God saves only the pure, not sinners. If Job is indeed innocent, God will eventually restore him. Like Eliphaz, Bildad believes only the guilty suffer.
JOB—NOTE ON 8:7 latter days … great. Bildad speaks more truthfully than he realizes. Cf 1:3; 42:10–17.
JOB—NOTE ON 8:8–10 fathers. Eliphaz appealed to a supernatural experience to confirm his understanding of suffering (4:12–16). Bildad turns to previous generations ("bygone ages" is equivalent to "the fathers" in this verse) for confirmation of his simplistic and mechanical view of suffering and reward. Their ancestors formulated and handed down the traditional teaching that people suffer because God punishes them for sin.
JOB—NOTE ON 8:11–13 they wither before any other plant. Bildad uses the image of the papyrus and reed plants to illustrate his "wisdom." When the water source for these plants dries up, they wither and die prematurely just like wicked people. Bildad wrongly holds that if you are righteous, God blesses you with health and wealth. If you are wicked, He punishes you with suffering.
JOB—NOTE ON 8:14 spider's web. A spider's web (Hbr beth, "house") lasts only a short time and tears easily. Wicked people place their confidence in other things besides God and are inevitably brought to ruin.
JOB—NOTE ON 8:18 it will deny him. When a wicked person is gone, no lasting memory remains. Even the place where that person lived and worked will deny having seen him.
JOB—NOTE ON 8:19 joy. Bildad apparently uses "joy" ironically; the "joy" a wicked person experiences lasts briefly. out of the soil others will spring. When that individual is gone, others move in (as new plants replace dead ones in a flower bed). No memory of the wicked remains whatsoever.
JOB—NOTE ON 8:20–21 God will not reject. Bildad summarizes his philosophy in v 20 and applies it to Job in vv 21–22. He speaks positively, as though Job were pure. If Job will repent and seek God (vv 5–6), then God will reward him (v 7).

JOB—NOTE ON 8:22 Those who hate you. The wicked generally hate the righteous (Ps 35). Jb names no personal enemies of Job, other than Satan (1:9). be no more. Bildad's speech ends with the same Hbr word as that in Job's speech (7:21).

JOB—NOTE ON ch 8 Bildad argues backward: sin produces suffering; therefore, all who suffer must have sinned against God. The Bible does teach that sin brought suffering and death (Rm 5:12), but this does not mean that an individual's suffering is the direct consequence of some particular sin against God. In Christ Jesus, our perfectly righteous Savior, God atoned for all sin (Rm 3:21–26). In the midst of trials, we need constant and regular reassurance of God's love for us, anchored in the cross of Christ. Luth: "People who have gone through spiritual trials know how necessary it is to support their heart with a sure and strong comfort that will finally bring them back to the hope of grace and help them to forget the wrath. Often a single day or a single month is insufficient for this purpose; but just as the alleviation of sickness requires a long time, so these wounds of the heart are not cured at once or by a single word" (AE 2:118). • Cure my heart and bind my wounds, O Redeemer, with Your grace, which is ever new. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 9:2–3 it is so. Job agrees with Bildad's theological statement that God does not pervert justice (8:3). how can a man be in the right before God? Reflects the key issue of Jb (1:8–9). He notes that people cannot vindicate themselves before God. The great power of God makes it impossible for mortal humans to defend themselves against Him. All this shows Job that he must have an arbiter or mediator (vv 15, 33).

JOB—NOTE ON 9:4 hardened. Stubborn resistance against God is futile.

JOB—NOTE ON 9:6 pillars. The earth and also the heavens are poetically described as resting on pillars (1Sm 2:8). However, 26:7 states that God "hangs the earth on nothing."

JOB—NOTE ON 9:7 does not rise. If He does not want the sun to shine, it will not (e.g., during an eclipse). God controls even the celestial bodies.

JOB—NOTE ON 9:8 Themes of God's power as Creator and Redeemer also come together in Is 44:24. The point: trust God, who has power to save!

JOB—NOTE ON 9:9 Bear … Orion … Pleiades. Three well-known constellations. See note, 38:31. chambers. Perhaps another constellation or a reference to the stars south of the constellations.

JOB—NOTE ON 9:11 passes by me. Job laments that he cannot establish contact with God to plead his case. For Job, God is like a shadowy figure that quickly passes by without stopping or turning aside.
JOB—NOTE ON 9:12 snatches away. God takes what He wants—who can stop Him or call Him to account?
JOB—NOTE ON 9:13 helpers. Less-powerful military allies that joined with Rahab (cf Is 51:9). Rahab. Figure borrowed from Babylonian creation myth; she symbolizes God's powerful enemies, which He has defeated.
JOB—NOTE ON 9:15 I must appeal for mercy to my accuser. Courtroom imagery; Job acknowledges that he cannot argue with God, even though Job thinks he is in the right. God is too powerful, and His anger is overwhelming. The best Job can do is plead for mercy (which he cannot do without losing his integrity).
JOB—NOTE ON 9:16 listening to my voice. Job despairs of getting a fair hearing before God, even if Job were to speak with Him directly.
JOB—NOTE ON 9:17 wounds without cause. Job argues that his suffering is disproportionate to his offense, whatever that may be. He cannot yet see any reason for his pain and loss.
JOB—NOTE ON 9:20 prove me perverse. Even if God allowed Job to call Him to account, Job fears he could not make a reasonable defense—he would condemn himself in the presence of God Almighty.
JOB—NOTE ON 9:21 blameless. See note, 1:1. Job will not beg for mercy, because he is convinced he has done nothing wrong. He continues to maintain his integrity.
JOB—NOTE ON 9:22–23 It is all one. Job portrays God as treating all people the same. Regardless of their actions, He destroys them. He mocks. God derides the wicked and innocent together (cf Ps 2, esp v 4).
JOB—NOTE ON 9:24 Job unwittingly describes what happened in chs 1–2. He holds God responsible for his suffering and for injustice in the world. Nowhere else in Job's speeches does he come so close to accusing God of injustice. Remember that Job speaks from great pain, anguish, and grief. He sees everything through the eyes of his own suffering and is unaware of God's plan and purpose.
JOB—NOTE ON 9:26 skiffs of reed. Light rowboats or small sailing ships. These were often made of papyrus (reed), a plant that grows in marshy areas in the Near East. Propelled by a good wind, a light ship would move across the water very fast.

JOB—NOTE ON 9:29 Job thinks any effort to defend himself would be useless.
JOB—NOTE ON 9:30 lye. Even the most powerful cleaning agents cannot purify him.
JOB—NOTE ON 9:31 pit. Place of burial; associated with decomposing bodies. my own clothes will abhor me. He is so filthy that his own clothes would refuse to stay on him.
JOB—NOTE ON 9:33 arbiter. Hbr mokiach. A person who settles quarrels, sets things right. Job laments the lack of a mediator between God and himself who could resolve this problem and reconcile them. lay his hand on us both. Concrete image of someone who could reach out to these two hostile parties (God and Job) and bring them together again. Greg: "The Redeemer of Mankind, who was made the Mediator between God and Man through the flesh … did both convict man, that he might not sin, and withstand God, that He might not smite; He gave examples of innocency that He took upon Him the punishment due to wickedness" (ALF 18:541).
JOB—NOTE ON ch 9 Job has no hope of fixing the problem with God. God is too powerful and there is no one to mediate between him and God—not even Job's friends. When we are at our lowest, we might agree with Job that there is no hope. If we focus on our pain or problems and look only to ourselves or others for help, we should not be surprised to find only despair. Without a mediator, we face the full wrath of God. Looking back on his first service as a priest, Luther recounted: "[When I] thought I had to speak to God without a Mediator, I felt like fleeing from the world like Judas. Who can bear the majesty of God without Christ as Mediator?" (AE 54:234; cf 1Tm 2:5). • Thank You, heavenly Father, for sending Your Son, our Savior Jesus, to reconcile us to You through the cross and to intercede for us every day (1Jn 2:1). Amen.
JOB—NOTE ON 10:3–7 the work of Your hands. Job wonders why God would treat him so badly. A mere human might treat another person this way, but God is no mere human. In fact, all creation (including humanity) is the work of God's hands. Job personalizes this truth in vv 8–12.
JOB—NOTE ON 10:8 "God created the body and soul of Adam and Eve before the fall. But He also created our bodies and souls after the fall. Even though they are corrupt, God still acknowledges them as His work" (FC Ep I 4). Cf Ps 139:14.

JOB—NOTE ON 10:10 Manufacture of cheese requires careful measurement, attention to detail, and patient waiting. If God took such care in creating Job, why would God treat him so harshly?

JOB—NOTE ON 10:14 do not acquit me. Job pictures God as unwilling to forgive his iniquity for any reason. Guilty or not, God has decided to punish Job as if he was guilty of some heinous sin. Typically, people would offer sacrifices for their sin (cf 1:5; 42:8); however, Job has nothing to sacrifice (1:14–17).

JOB—NOTE ON 10:16 like a lion. Hosea also pictures God as a lion hunting his prey (Hos 5:14; 11:10). Hosea warned his generation that God will hunt down the guilty, but Job feels that if he were to try to take a stand against God, God would come after him with savage fury and renewed hostility.

JOB—NOTE ON 10:17 fresh troops. Shifting his imagery, Job fears that if he should make an effort to defend himself, God would send in reinforcements for even greater attacks on him.

JOB—NOTE ON 10:20 find a little cheer. In his despair, Job can only wish for God to leave him alone in the little time remaining to him.

JOB—NOTE ON 10:21–22 land of darkness. Abandoning any explicit hope, Job paints the darkest picture possible of death and the grave. Only deep blackness awaits him. See p 792. Job's hope will eventually reappear (as in 19:25–27), but for now, his depression overwhelms him.

JOB—NOTE ON ch 10 God can do with Job as He pleases (v 15), so Job sees his own position as a "lose/lose" situation. If he has sinned, then he has no hope before God, since God is righteous and punishes sinners. If he has not sinned, he still has no hope before God, because God is all-powerful, the Creator and Lord. We must remind ourselves and others that God provides hope for all sinners in Christ Jesus. Luth: "So only the knowledge of Christ preserves me. From this I conclude: The devil and God are two enemies. Therefore, while God loves life, the devil hates life. The knowledge of God can consequently be so pictured as if it is God's will to be angry, and one may be led to think that our Lord God and the devil are both intent on strangling us. To this one must reply, 'Life is God's aim, and so he will not slay you'" (AE 54:34). • Father, shine the light of Jesus, even when everything else is deep darkness. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 11:1 Zophar. Third of Job's friends to speak. Being last suggests that Zophar was the youngest or perhaps simply the least respected; in contrast to Eliphaz and Bildad, who each speak three times, Zophar speaks twice. Naamathite. See note, 2:11.
JOB—NOTE ON 11:2 multitude of words. Zophar accuses Job of talking too much; Zophar will go on to add the accusations that Job is self-righteous (vv 4–6), opinionated (vv 7–12), and headstrong (vv 13–20). In all of this, he exaggerates. a man full of talk. Lit, "a man of lips"; in general, Hbr is concrete and uses strong images rather than abstractions.
JOB—NOTE ON 11:3 Should your babble silence men. Zophar continues the rhetorical questions of the previous verse. To him, the answers are obvious: Job needs to be answered and refuted.
JOB—NOTE ON 11:4 For you say, "My doctrine is pure." Not a fair summary. While Job has protested his innocence, he has claimed neither that his doctrine or teaching was pure nor that he was "clean in God's eyes." Job admitted he was a sinner (7:21) and he simply wanted to get a hearing with God (9:14), although he was arguing his case too strongly.
JOB—NOTE ON 11:5 But oh, that God would speak. Zophar wishes that God would speak to Job, confident that He would agree with Zophar's position. open His lips. Zophar contrasts God's silence with Job's verbosity (v 2).
JOB—NOTE ON 11:6 secrets of wisdom! According to Zophar, Job needs to be enlightened. manifold in understanding. Lit, "twofold"; wisdom is not simply one-sided or simple, but it has a hidden side as well as the obvious. Zophar wants God to enlarge Job's understanding so that he will see the error of his ways. God exacts less of you than your guilt deserves. Lit, "God is forgetting [much of] your guilt."
JOB—NOTE ON 11:7 find out the deep things. Zophar says that Job is unable to understand God, esp since he refuses to accept God as Zophar presents Him.
JOB—NOTE ON 11:8 higher than heaven. God Himself expresses a parallel thought in Is 55:9. Sheol. Here used to mean the place or abode of the dead. It swallows up everyone—both the wicked and the righteous—for all must die. See note, 7:9, see also p 792.
JOB—NOTE ON 11:9 longer … broader. Darkness of death into which all must pass is vast and incomprehensible.

JOB—NOTE ON 11:10 imprisons and summons the court. God is in control and acts as both arresting officer and sentencing judge who calls the court to order. God is the all-powerful Lord of nature and also the dispenser of justice. who can turn Him back? Again Zophar uses rhetorical questions to make his point.
JOB—NOTE ON 11:11 worthless men. Carries idea of "men of emptiness"; we might say "hollow men." Zophar's language is insulting, implying that Job is among these people.
JOB—NOTE ON 11:12 when a wild donkey's colt is born a man! Proverb. Job cannot accept Zophar's insights anymore than a wild ass can give birth to a person. Zophar will argue that if Job repents, there is still a chance for him.
JOB—NOTE ON 11:13–20 As wise King Solomon noted, "There is nothing new under the sun" (Ec 1:9). Zophar would fit well with many today who preach "victorious" living. He asserts that we are able to live a good life and that when we do, God will bless us abundantly. He allows little place for suffering in the life of the godly, because, by his definition, godly living goes hand in hand with a life of comfort and blessings, while suffering belongs with the wicked.
JOB—NOTE ON 11:13 stretch out your hands. If your heart is right with God, outward worship—as symbolized by hands outstretched in prayer—will follow. See p 1277. Individuals must prepare their own hearts and behavior.
JOB—NOTE ON 11:14 put it far away. Zophar's human-centered religion is esp clear here, where he asserts that individuals can put away their own iniquity.
JOB—NOTE ON 11:15 face without blemish. When you put sin out of your life, Zophar contends, you will be spotless. In contrast, biblical teaching says that it is impossible to save ourselves because by nature we "were dead in the trespasses and sins" (Eph 2:1).
JOB—NOTE ON 11:16–17 forget your misery … brighter than the noonday. Zophar continues with the argument that Job can change his condition of suffering once he changes his behavior.
JOB—NOTE ON 11:18 feel secure. Zophar's idea of security rests in a person's control over his or her own spiritual destiny.
JOB—NOTE ON 11:19 many will court your favor. Rather than fearing what might happen from others, Zophar's good man will be honored by others. History has shown the falseness of this notion, since the righteous are often persecuted and hated by the world.

JOB—NOTE ON 11:20 their hope. Zophar closes his argument by contrasting the end of the wicked with what he has just described as the lot of the godly. The only hope that the wicked have is to escape this miserable life in death. But wicked people often prosper in this life, while the God-fearing suffer (Ps 73:5). Rather than wanting to die, the psalmist says that "they have no pangs until death" (73:4).

JOB—NOTE ON ch 11 Of the three friends, Zophar is the most vehement in his denunciation of Job. He does not appeal to visions (Eliphaz) or tradition (Bildad). He simply knows Job is a terrible sinner, for how else can Job's extreme sufferings be explained? This is the natural religion of humans in its clearest form: there is no Gospel, only Law. As Zophar focuses on condemning the sinner, he has no room for sympathy or even tact. • Heavenly Father, keep us from all self-righteousness, which sees our blessings as coming from our flawed and feeble efforts rather than from Your almighty and gracious hand. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 12:1 Then Job answered. Having responded to Eliphaz and Bildad, Job begins his third monologue in answer to his would-be comforters. It is the longest, covering three chapters. Job's concept of God is much loftier and more awesome than that of Eliphaz, Bildad, and Zophar. Although Job cannot reason out God's dealings, he does comprehend that God's ways are far above the puny insights and efforts of mortal man. In this way, Job shows how limited and small their outlooks are.

JOB—NOTE ON 12:2 the people. Seems to be a sarcastic reference to Eliphaz, Bildad, and Zophar as the great or outstanding people in the land. Expression has to do with the landed gentry, the upper class or elite.

JOB—NOTE ON 12:3 not inferior. Job counters that he knows as much as his friends. Indeed, Job will go on to show that he is superior (42:8). Who does not know. Job says they have nothing to offer but clichés, which are of no help. Moreover, Job will show that true common sense is on his side.

JOB—NOTE ON 12:4 laughingstock. Once the most powerful and influential man in the land, Job is now, in his fallen condition, so lowly that anyone can mock him and laugh at him—and they do. (Cf 19:18.)

JOB—NOTE ON 12:5 contempt for misfortune. When life is going smoothly, it is easy for people to become arrogant and condescending toward those who are down and out. But that life of ease could be turned upside down overnight.

JOB—NOTE ON 12:6 robbers are at peace. Job asserts that God does not punish the wicked (cf Ps 73). Ultimately, of course, those who reject God are punished (Ps 73:27). who bring their god in their hand. Idol worshipers, who must carry their gods about by hand. Cf Jer 10:5. Most idols were doll-sized and could easily be carried. Cf Gn 31:19, 34.

JOB—NOTE ON 12:7–12 Based on God's creation—including our own experiences—we can draw conclusions about reality. Job concludes that obviously many things in life—in particular, human suffering—are beyond human control. Contrary to what his friends have been arguing, our welfare is not a simple cause-effect relationship with our righteousness or sinfulness. Rather, God is in control. What He does frequently has no apparent relationship to our efforts to do what is right. This is the heart of Job's dilemma.

JOB—NOTE ON 12:7–8 beasts … birds … bushes … fish. In referring to these creatures and plant life, Job alludes to all of nature. The words are reminiscent of Gn 1, which recounts God's creation of everything in six days. See p 792.

JOB—NOTE ON 12:9 hand of the LORD has done this? Rich poetic language of Jb is evident in this verse, as Job enlists various figures of speech. One is anthropomorphism, in which human characteristics are applied to God (as a spirit [Jn 4:24], God does not have physical hands). Another figure of speech is synecdoche, in which a part of something represents the whole. "The hand" represents God's power.

JOB—NOTE ON 12:10 In His hand. God controls everything.

JOB—NOTE ON 12:11 ear … palate. Job turns from all of nature to the individual person. He argues that our senses, through which we experience life, enable us to verify what is true or false. Later, Elihu will echo these words (34:3).

JOB—NOTE ON 12:12 Wisdom … understanding. With the accumulation of experience, we gain wisdom and understanding.

JOB—NOTE ON 12:13 With God are wisdom and might … counsel and understanding. Job begins a doxology or poem of praise for God's wisdom and power (vv 13–25). In contrast to his friends, Job maintains an outlook that is God centered, not human centered. He appeals to what is called the "natural knowledge of God" to make his point that God is in control of His creation. Job's reference to God's attributes brings to mind Paul's famous doxology (Rm 11:33–36). Though Job acknowledges that God's ways are beyond us, he is not yet ready to praise God. Instead, he questions why God acts as He does. Rather than accept the Almighty's mysterious ways, Job wants to argue.

JOB—NOTE ON 12:14–15 Nothing can resist God, not an individual person or the forces of nature. Job's doxology declares that God is the originator of both pain and pleasure.

JOB—NOTE ON 12:16 the deceived and the deceiver are His. Some human beings are gullible, and others are deceptive. Neither can mock or fool God. Indeed, while Job does not speak of God as a prankster, he does insinuate that God toys with people for seemingly arbitrary reasons known only to Him.

JOB—NOTE ON 12:17–21 stripped. Job lists those who rely on wisdom for their authority: counselors, judges, kings, priests, elders, and princes. Job says that God takes away what knowledge they have. Paul would later echo the words of Job (and Is 29:14): "I [God] will destroy the wisdom of the wise…. Has not God made foolish the wisdom of the world?" (1Co 1:19–20). binds a waistcloth. In some ancient wrestling matches, the winner would remove the belt of the defeated, which symbolized the removal of the person's power. With so many examples, Job shows that, unlike Zophar, he is not speaking theoretically. God can and does bring down the mighty. History is replete with examples. Moreover, people in Job's day, as in our own, could no doubt look at contemporary examples of this truth.

JOB—NOTE ON 12:22 uncovers the deeps out of darkness. Job breaks away from what God can do against specific people to a more general statement of God's power. God can bring to light what is hidden to human beings. Zophar had wished that God would enlighten Job. Job responds that God can indeed cast light on the mysterious. Both Job and Zophar are confident that if and when God does make His purpose clear, they will be vindicated.

JOB—NOTE ON 12:23 He makes nations great. In making his case for divine control over all of life, Job gave examples from the natural world and from human leaders; he now points to nations. God can and does set up and bring down nations (40:15–23).

JOB—NOTE ON 12:24 He takes away understanding. What understanding leaders have is a gift from God, but God can remove that insight and thus hasten the downfall of nations, as even "the chiefs of the people … wander in a pathless waste."

JOB—NOTE ON 12:25 stagger like a drunken man. The line between the high and mighty and the lowly and mocked is thin. Job satirizes an earlier statement by Eliphaz (5:14).

JOB—NOTE ON ch 12 Whereas Zophar has wrongly focused on people's supposed ability to shape their own destiny, Job correctly recognizes God's control. Our righteousness does not determine our well-being, or lack thereof. Rather, it is all in God's hands. When we become discouraged, it is vital that we remember God's wisdom and power. Although Job does not acknowledge God's use of these attributes for our good, in Christ "we know that for those who love God all things work together for good" (Rm 8:28). • Lord, keep us always in this blessed assurance! Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 13:1–5 These verses may fit better with what precedes them than with what follows. Job summarizes his claims to wisdom and understanding, in distinction to Zophar (and the other two friends). Job overstates his knowledge. He wants desperately to show that his insights are as good as or better than those of his friends.

JOB—NOTE ON 13:2 I am not inferior to you. Job is quite defensive. Given everything he has been through, his attitude is understandable, esp since his friends have shown little sympathy and even less understanding.

JOB—NOTE ON 13:3 the Almighty. Hbr 'el-shaddai, "God Almighty." See note, 5:17. All of Job's friends have now spoken against him. Finding no support, Job appeals to the omnipotent God. argue my case with God. Job's sense of suffering unjustly is so deep that he wants to argue with God (cf Ps 44). In this he was not—and is not—unique. When confronted with hardships, we all have a tendency to think we are getting a worse deal than we deserve.

JOB—NOTE ON 13:4 whitewash with lies. Cover the truth with lies to make themselves look good. worthless physicians. They had come to help him, but they only make things worse!

JOB—NOTE ON 13:5 keep silent. Job wishes that instead of opening their mouths in worthless and untrue advice, his friends would simply keep silent. Job's wish was not to be granted.

JOB—NOTE ON 13:6 Hear now my argument. Job asks for his friends' attention as he makes his case.

JOB—NOTE ON 13:7 Will you speak falsely for God. Job admitted that he did not fully understand God's ways. The friends, however, had presumed to speak for God. Yet, as Job showed in his response, what they had said did not square with reality.
JOB—NOTE ON 13:8 show partiality. Lit, "lift up the face to someone." Refers to the granting of a special favor from the wrong motives. Will you plead the case for God? Job asks if they are trying to win God's favor by acting as His lawyers and arguing His case for Him. Human beings, esp those who consider themselves very religious, can make the mistake of thinking that God needs them to defend Him. Job shows that this is not at all true, for God is in control of everything and perfectly capable of defending Himself. He calls us to confess Him, not to defend Him. Job acts as a lawyer probing his accusers with a series of questions.
JOB—NOTE ON 13:9 can you deceive Him. Answer to this rhetorical question is no. Job implies that his friends think their accusations against Job will please God. God sees through all human duplicity. "Do not be deceived: God is not mocked, for whatever one sows, that will he also reap" (Gal 6:7).
JOB—NOTE ON 13:10 if in secret you show partiality. People see only outward appearances, but God looks into hearts and sees secret motives. He sizes up people accordingly (1Sm 16:7).
JOB—NOTE ON 13:11 majesty terrify. As the Israelites experienced at Mount Sinai, no one can stand in God's glorious presence without being terrified. Toward the beginning of Jesus' ministry, Peter experienced the same terror when he saw Christ's supernatural power in the miraculous catch of fish. Peter exclaimed, "Depart from me, for I am a sinful man" (Lk 5:8). It is our own sin and accusing conscience that make us tremble when confronted with the glory of the almighty and holy God.
JOB—NOTE ON 13:12 proverbs of ashes … defenses of clay. Picturesque way of saying that their advice and arguments will not hold up in the light of truth. Like ashes, they blow away; like a clay pot, they shatter. Job has been right in asserting that God was not pleased with their behavior and their arguments (42:7–9).
JOB—NOTE ON 13:13 let come on me what may. After Job is finished, he will welcome God's verdict. The friends are merely spouting conventional wisdom, without testing it against reality.

JOB—NOTE ON 13:14 take my flesh in my teeth. Figure of speech; occurs only here in the OT. It may refer to a person in such pain that he or she bites his or her own flesh to keep from screaming or complaining. While the meaning is uncertain, the parallel line of the verse suggests that it is another way of saying that he is taking his life in his hands by his boldness in confronting God.
JOB—NOTE ON 13:15 I will hope in Him. See ESV note. Could be translated either as an expression of hope or of hopelessness. Given Job's confidence in God's power and his own willingness to confront God, the positive and bolder rendering is more likely. Other passages commend this understanding (19:25–27). argue my ways. Job's determination to present his case borders on self-righteousness. He has not yet appreciated God's use of suffering as discipline (cf Heb 12:6), but he is confident that he can trust God even in his dire condition.
JOB—NOTE ON 13:16 salvation. Hbr yeshu'ah (also translated as the names Joshua and Jesus). Job's salvation—his deliverance from pain, dishonor, and even God's apparent anger—can only come from God. His only hope is to turn to the very One who seems hostile toward him! See p 843.
JOB—NOTE ON 13:17–28 In this section, Job is appealing to God. He wants to speak, even to argue, with God and find salvation in God.
JOB—NOTE ON 13:17 Keep listening. Job knows that his friends are more interested in asserting their preconceived ideas than in hearing his case. He repeatedly appeals for silence (vv 5–6, 13) over the cacophony of their debate.
JOB—NOTE ON 13:18 I know that I shall be in the right. Some might see this as pride on Job's part. However, Job constantly looks beyond himself. Although he erroneously thinks he can argue with the Almighty, he is right in wanting to communicate with the one source of help in time of trouble.
JOB—NOTE ON 13:19 who will contend with me? Apart from God, there is no one who can dispute Job's case. be silent and die. If someone could argue against him, Job would simply give up.
JOB—NOTE ON 13:20 grant me two things. Job makes special requests of the Almighty. not hide myself from Your face. Job does not want to be separated from God, as when Cain exclaimed, "Behold, You [God] have driven me today away from the ground, and from Your face I shall be hidden" (Gn 4:14).

JOB—NOTE ON 13:21 withdraw Your hand. Job pleads for God's mercy. God's hand can be either a blessing (e.g., Ne 2:18) or an affliction (Ps 139:5); here, Job views it in the latter sense. let not dread. Freedom from suffering is not enough. Job asks that it be accompanied by freedom from dread of God. To be physically comfortable yet spiritually terrified is a horrible condition. "The Gospel teaches that through faith in Christ the forgiveness of sins and reconciliation are received, and the terrors of sin and of death are overcome" (Ap V 170).

JOB—NOTE ON 13:22 answer … reply. What Job longs for is to communicate with God, to speak with Him and to hear from Him. As Christians, we know that we enjoy exactly that privilege: God speaks to us in His Word, the Bible, and we reply as we speak to Him in prayer.

JOB—NOTE ON 13:23 Make me know my transgression. Job asks God to show him his sin. At the end of Jb, this request will be granted, as Job will come to true repentance (ch 42).

JOB—NOTE ON 13:24 hide Your face. God is, in Luther's words, the "hidden God." We catch glimpses of His power and wisdom in nature. We learn of Him as our Savior only as He reveals Himself through His Word.

JOB—NOTE ON 13:25 driven leaf. Job refers to the process of winnowing grain: the light leaves and useless husks of chaff blow away, while the heavier, good grain falls to the ground (cf Ps 1:4). Job wonders why God wants to frighten what is already fragile.

JOB—NOTE ON 13:26 write bitter things. Job sees God as writing up an indictment against him. iniquities of my youth. Job admits he is not sinless. His words are reminiscent of the psalmist's prayer "Remember not the sins of my youth" (Ps 25:7).

JOB—NOTE ON 13:27 stocks. Device for restraining slaves, criminals, or captives. Job feels hemmed in. Sufferings remind us of how limited we are and how dependent we are on God for every breath we take. a limit for the soles of my feet. See ESV note. God has either treated Job like a prisoner by limiting where he can go or has tattooed or branded his feet, as might happen to a slave (the latter is mentioned in the legal Code of Hammurabi). In either case, Job is stating that he is held in check by the Almighty.

JOB—NOTE ON 13:28 rotten thing. Human beings are in a state of decay and death.

JOB—NOTE ON ch 13 Job rightly sees that the world is in a state of frustration; sin is still so powerfully at work in our world, and even in our lives as believers. St Paul wrote, "The whole creation has been groaning together" (Rm 8:22). We long for deliverance. That deliverance cannot come through our own frail efforts. Only God can bring it about. He has done this through His Son, Jesus Christ, who "has borne our griefs and carried our sorrows" so that "with His stripes [of suffering] we are healed" (Is 53:4–5). • O Lord, amid life's sufferings and sorrows, show us that in Christ we are assured of Your love both now and for eternity. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 14:1–2 few of days and full of trouble. One might properly understand this passage in two ways: (1) life is short and full of trouble, or (2) already when we are only a few days old, we face many troubles. This and the following verse are often quoted at funerals. like a flower. The older we get, the more we realize how quickly life flies by. Flowers bloom and flourish in their beauty, only to wither and die in a short time (cf Is 40:6–8).

JOB—NOTE ON 14:3 bring me into judgment. Given the brevity of life, Job wonders aloud why God should even notice and judge a person.

JOB—NOTE ON 14:4 clean thing out of an unclean? We are all born in sin (cf Ps 51:5). It seems unfair to Job that God should judge us since life is short and filled with trouble and we are born into an unclean (sinful) condition. How can God expect much of any of us? not one. Job answers his own question.

JOB—NOTE ON 14:5 his days. Job asserts that God controls the length of our brief life. LXX includes the words "on earth." David expresses it this way: "But I trust in You, O LORD.... My times are in Your hand" (Ps 31:14–15).

JOB—NOTE ON 14:6 like a hired hand. A manager doesn't expect a great deal out of a mere hired hand. Job wonders why God should be so interested in what we do.

JOB—NOTE ON 14:7–9 hope for a tree. After some species of trees are cut down, they will sprout new shoots (suckers) from their roots. its root grow old … like a young plant. Isaiah also uses this picture to describe the Savior coming from the "stump of Jesse" (father of King David and ancestor of Christ; Is 11:1–2). Centuries later, long after the royal line of David seemed dead, Jesus would fulfill these words. Contrary to what religions of reincarnation (e.g., Hinduism and Buddhism) teach, an individual does not come back. The Bible teaches that we die once and then face the judgment (Heb 9:27).

JOB—NOTE ON 14:10 where is he? More than a rhetorical question. Later in this ch and more explicitly in 19:25–27, Job expresses hope in the life to come.
JOB—NOTE ON 14:11–12 rises not again. Job seems to say there is no resurrection; though it is possible he has not yet come to the conviction of life after death, more likely he is referring to the passing away of this world (cf vv 13–17).
JOB—NOTE ON 14:13 hide me in Sheol. Job wants to escape this life of suffering and asks God to take him into the realm of the dead. See p 792. appoint me a set time. The moment God's anger passes, Job wants the Lord to remember him. remember. Hbr zakar. Job asks God to remember him beyond death. When the Lord "remembers" us, He acts on our behalf.
JOB—NOTE ON 14:14 days of my service. As Job's life prior to all his suffering showed, he believed that we are on earth to serve and worship God. my renewal. Though this may refer to renewal in this life, the context shows that Job sees renewal even after death.
JOB—NOTE ON 14:15 I would answer you. Job longs to speak with God and serve Him. He envisions God also longing to be in a relationship with His servant.
JOB—NOTE ON 14:16–17 not keep watch over my sin. Aug: "See how Job, too, confesses his sins, and says how sure he is that there is none righteous before the Lord. So he is sure of this also, that if we say we have no sin, the truth is not in us. While, therefore, God bestows on him His high testimony of righteousness, according to the standard of human conduct, Job himself, taking his measure from the rule of righteousness [says] … 'How shall a mortal man be just before the Lord?'" (*NPNF*1 5:50). Job sees forgiveness as coming from the hand of the Almighty. my transgression. Contrary to what Zophar argued, forgiveness is not accomplished by our efforts. sealed up. Merchants sealed bags of goods with a signet stamped onto the binding. Job pictures forgiveness as a sealing up of sin (so it does not contaminate) and a covering (so it is no longer visible).
JOB—NOTE ON 14:18 mountain falls. Job notes the awesome power of the Almighty, similar to what the psalmist writes: "God is our refuge and strength … though the mountains be moved into the heart of the sea" (Ps 46:1–2). God holds power over all of nature, even the seemingly indestructible mountains. The psalm speaks of God's protective power; here Job refers only to the power, but not the protection.

JOB—NOTE ON 14:19 destroy the hope of man. Job sees God's awesome power in nature as a sign of His condemning power over sinful people. Nature's force points toward God's Law and judgment.
JOB—NOTE ON 14:20 You change his countenance. Job is saying that God can crush the human spirit and sadden our expression. He can do this through suffering or simply through the ravages of old age.
JOB—NOTE ON 14:21–22 perceives it not. In the pain of suffering or old age, we are not even aware of what is happening with our own children—whether they are being honored or brought down. When we die, of course, we are even less aware. only for himself. Pain can be so overpowering that we are unable even to see what is going on beyond our own body. On this outcry, Job ends his refutation of Zophar and the first round of discussions.
JOB—NOTE ON ch 14 Job expresses the hope of forgiveness and life, but struggles with an overwhelming awareness of God's heavy hand upon weak and sinful human beings like himself. In other words, Job has focused on the condemning power of God's Law, rather than on the forgiving and renewing power of the Gospel. We are like that when we suffer. We tend to see only the anger and condemnation, but we fail to see that even in the darkest hour, God is a God of forgiveness and love. On the cross, Christ suffered not only inscrutable pain physically, emotionally, and mentally for us, but He also suffered hellish spiritual anguish. Through Him we enjoy God's love, now and eternally. Our sufferings can remind us of His greater sufferings on our behalf. They also remind us that this earth is not our permanent home—heaven is our home. • Almighty God, forgive our many doubts, strengthen our faith, and lead us through this life to the joys of heaven. Amen.
JOB—NOTE ON 15:1 Temanite. See note, 2:11.
JOB—NOTE ON 15:2 windy. Not empty and unsubstantial, but like the "east wind"—a destructive, scorching wind. Unlike God's words, Job's words are not only unprofitable but also destructive. See note, 4:9.
JOB—NOTE ON 15:4 fear of God. See ESV note. Short for the "fear of God" that is equated with wisdom. See p 1001. By casting such wisdom aside, Job diminishes the ability to have meditative prayer. Eliphaz is concerned that Job is destroying his faith. meditation. Lit, "concern"; what focuses the mind.
JOB—NOTE ON 15:8 council of God? Eliphaz accuses Job of claiming privileged access to the council of God as if he is the wisest human of all.

The "council" is the gathering of the heavenly hosts before God's throne, as leading officials would gather at the throne room of a king (cf 1:6; 2:1; 1Ki 22:19).
JOB—NOTE ON 15:10 Eliphaz appears to be speaking of his generation. He and Job are mature men. The LXX reads that Job lived 170 years after his trial to the age of 240. According to this tradition, Job was 70 when he was sorely afflicted.
JOB—NOTE ON 15:11 comforts of God … word that deals gently. Eliphaz thinks Job is haughty to reject the consolations of God transmitted "gently" by Eliphaz. Eliphaz thinks his own words are inspired (4:12–16).
JOB—NOTE ON 15:14 Cf 4:17–21; 14:1–4, where Job concedes the negative answer. Eliphaz says that if Job admitted mankind's mortality and frailty in general, he should also concede his own particular wickedness. In this context, it is impossible for a person to be accounted righteous, because humans are morally weak by nature.
JOB—NOTE ON 15:15 holy ones. Even the angels and the heavens are finite and consequently are not absolutely beyond the possibility of sin and contamination. I.e., these superior spirits are still so inferior to God that He does not entrust His secrets to them. See note, v 8.
JOB—NOTE ON 15:16 Not referring to just Job, but to any human being. Such an absolute standard does not cancel the distinction between good persons and evil.
JOB—NOTE ON 15:18–19 from their fathers. See note, 8:8–10. Eliphaz tells Job he can trust these words because they come from the wise, whose teaching was reviewed by an earlier generation. The tradition goes back three long generations. the land … no stranger. The fathers lived where no foreign influence corrupted their teaching.
JOB—NOTE ON 15:21 prosperity. Hbr shalom, "peace." destroyer will come. Dreading the loss of security, the wicked keep hearing the sound of their impending doom.
JOB—NOTE ON 15:24 distress and anguish terrify him. Inner anguish and distress dominate the life of the wicked; they are forever plagued by an awareness of their doom. Does not contradict v 26; the wicked remain defiant toward God in their terror.
JOB—NOTE ON 15:26 thickly bossed shield. Shield made in a bulging shape; thick embossment forms a hump. Symbolic for the insane stubbornness and hostility the unrepentant display against God; they are thickheaded and thick hearted.

JOB—NOTE ON 15:27 covered his face with his fat. Describes fleshly security against all unrest and pain. The wicked person's fatness is a mark of strength and is also ascribed to the arrogant. It signifies trust in self, instead of in God.
JOB—NOTE ON 15:30 he will depart. The wicked die like plant life stripped of its vitality; they breathe their last breath.
JOB—NOTE ON 15:32 branch. Offspring. not be green. Renewal is not possible for this tree because its life is squeezed out of it.
JOB—NOTE ON 15:33 New growth symbolizes life and fruitfulness. The wicked suffer devastation of their blooms long before the harvest.
JOB—NOTE ON 15:35 birth to evil. "Evil" has the sense of "self-deception, vanity." People who mischievously plan (or birth) evil for others deceive themselves.

JOB—NOTE ON ch 15 Eliphaz admonishes Job to receive his inspired counsel, since he feels that Job thinks too highly of himself and his own wisdom. Today, we must not assume that someone's mental, emotional, and/or spiritual agony is the result of unrepentant rebellion; it could very well be that God is refining that person's faith. Just as the afflictions of Christ overflow into our lives, so also our comfort in Christ overflows; we are being made like our Savior (1Co 1:5; Php 3:10). When we are perplexed in our affliction, may we—through the eyes of faith—see Christ, whose affliction saved us from sin and death! • Lord, may the pains and struggles I experience teach me the wisdom of fearing You, and may Your comforts and gentle words quench the flames of distress. Through the merits of Jesus. Amen.
JOB—NOTE ON 16:2 miserable comforters. Oxymoron; the more comfort they offer, the more pain they inflict.
JOB—NOTE ON 16:5 Job knows the difference between mere words and real deeds of love. He believes he could comfort them if they were suffering.
JOB—NOTE ON 16:7 my company. His entire intimate social world (cf 19:13–20). Job is alone in his misery.
JOB—NOTE ON 16:9 hated. Hbr satam ; likely refers to Satan. Job describes what he perceives as God's strange or alien character as the destroying beast raging against mortals. His description is reminiscent of Satan (cf 1Pt 5:8).

JOB—NOTE ON 16:13 my gall. Job feels as if God has torn open his vital organs, mortally wounding him. The gallbladder symbolizes something bitter and pictures Job's emotions and affections as spilling bitterness.

JOB—NOTE ON 16:14 breach. God's forces break down Job's defenses and penetrate his interior world.

JOB—NOTE ON 16:15 sackcloth. Hbr saq ; rough cloth woven from goat or camel hair. He wears the tokens of grief. See note, 1:20. All his power and dignity had been covered with the deepest humiliation.

JOB—NOTE ON 16:17 Job uses language similar to the liturgical confession of worshipers entering the temple precinct (cf Ps 24:4). He sees no transgression that would account for God's hostility.

JOB—NOTE ON 16:18–19 As Moses called heaven and earth as witnesses (Dt 4:26; 32:1), so Job calls on earth and heaven to testify about God's flagrant violation of justice.

JOB—NOTE ON 16:18 cover not my blood. Innocent Abel's blood cried to God for justice "from the ground" (Gn 4:10). Job does not want the earth to let his blood be silenced until God acts on his plea for a favorable verdict.

JOB—NOTE ON 16:19–21 He who testifies for me is on high. This heavenly "witness" is God Himself. Job appeals to God (v 20) against God (v 21). He appeals to the God of justice and forgiveness, as he knows the true God must really be, and against the strange and raging God he is experiencing. The "witness" here, like the "arbiter" of 9:33, is more likely an intercessor or intermediary who will plead with God like a "man does with his neighbor" (v 21). This longing for an advocate before God, who Himself is God, became a reality in Christ (1Jn 2:1–2). See note, Jb 19:25.

JOB—NOTE ON 16:21 a son of man. Representative of fallen humanity. See p 2098.

JOB—NOTE ON 16:22 the way. The way of no return (cf 10:21), to the land of the dead. See p 792.

JOB—NOTE ON ch 16 Job's misery only increased through the aggravating words of his friends. Everyone has abandoned him. Even God treated Job as His enemy. But Job confesses that God will nevertheless be his witness and intermediary at the coming judgment. I.e., Job properly keeps justification as something outside of himself; his witness/intermediary will deliver him. Regardless of the circumstances and the depth of darkness you may face, call on Jesus Christ, the only mediator between God and all people (1Tm 2:5). No matter how bad things may be, Christ is now interceding for you at the right hand of God (Rm 8:34). • We rejoice, O Father, that Your Son intercedes for us. Hear our plea. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 17:2 mockers. Not necessarily his friends. A crowd may have gathered. While they jeer him, his eyes focus on the hostility reflected in their faces.

JOB—NOTE ON 17:3 security. Lit, "striking hands"; gesture confirms the agreement. Since Job has no witness for his security (someone who will lay down a pledge for him in the heavenly court), he prays that God Himself will be merciful and be that witness. The Christian knows that this hope is indeed fulfilled in God's Son, but it is not known how clearly Job himself saw this. Job has taken a decisive step toward his certain conviction and declaration, recorded in 19:25–27.

JOB—NOTE ON 17:4 You … them. God closed the mockers' hearts.

JOB—NOTE ON 17:5 Not a curse, but a proverbial saying. His detractors deserve the punishment of those who denounce their friends in order to enrich themselves.

JOB—NOTE ON 17:6 byword. Public disgrace. Entire community scorns him.

JOB—NOTE ON 17:7 dim from vexation … members … a shadow. Physicians in ancient times believed that the eye had a source of light within it, perhaps because of the way the eye reflects light outward. Job is further distressed over the deterioration of his body. His eyes are so dim that objects flit before them like shadows.

JOB—NOTE ON 17:9 righteous. Job says he must hold to what he believes is right. Aug: "A man may be called righteous, who has gone so far towards perfection in righteousness as to be very near it; and this we do not deny to have been in the power of many even in this life, when they walk in it by faith" (NPNF 1 5:167). Truly, the one who clings to the Righteous One is righteous.

JOB—NOTE ON 17:10 come on again. The friends may have begun to leave.

JOB—NOTE ON 17:13–16 hope for Sheol as my house. See p 792. To find relief from his pain.

JOB—NOTE ON 17:14 pit. The grave or Sheol.

JOB—NOTE ON 17:16 bars. Wooden beams used to secure gates; may depict Sheol as a prison. See p 792.

JOB—NOTE ON ch 17 After Job's great confession of faith in his heavenly witness-mediator, he begins to consider his outward circumstances once again. He describes how the situation was becoming bleaker. As you see your own weakness, "draw near to God, and He will draw near to you" (Jas 4:8). God "put up security" for you when Christ laid down His life, giving His precious blood! • We praise You, O Christ, for covering us with Your perfect righteousness! Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 18:1 Shuhite. See note, 2:11.

JOB—NOTE ON 18:3 counted as cattle? Considered stupid like cattle.

JOB—NOTE ON 18:4 forsaken for you. For Bildad, the moral order is deeply connected with the natural order. Asking for a change in the moral order—for God to restore Job apart from repentance—is like asking God to change the physical world.

JOB—NOTE ON 18:5 light of the wicked. Prosperity of the wicked will be utterly destroyed.

JOB—NOTE ON 18:13 firstborn of death. Death's most important ally, which brings the greatest devastation. death. Hbr maweth. Likely the disease afflicting Job. consumes. Mot, the Canaanite god of the dry season, was depicted as eating people. Drought brings famine, hunger, and death.

JOB—NOTE ON 18:14 king of terrors. Among the terrors besetting people, death reigns supreme.

JOB—NOTE ON 18:19–20 Death will find its prey regardless of where the victims flee. They of the west … them of the east. News about the death of the wicked spreads everywhere.

JOB—NOTE ON 18:21 knows not God. Does not recognize God or honor Him in the proper manner. Chapter seems to emphasize the moral disobedience of the wicked rather than their ignorance of doctrine. Bildad implies that Job needs to consider the moral ramifications of his refusal to repent of the sin that has caused his misery.

JOB—NOTE ON ch 18 Bildad implies that unless Job repents, he will suffer the ravages of death. (Yet Bildad's idea of justification is legalistic; Job must get his act together.) Certainly "the king of terrors" (v 14) threatens us, because "death spread to all men because all sinned" (Rm 5:12) and "the wages of sin is death" (Rm 6:23). However, we remember the joyous message of Scripture that in Christ we have "passed from death to life" (Jn 5:24). • O Christ, by Your death You opened to me the dwellings of the righteous. Lead me, I pray, by strong steps in the path of life. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 19:3 ten times. Round number for "repeatedly" or "often"; a full measure.
JOB—NOTE ON 19:4 my error remains with myself. Job will have to deal with his sin. No one else can take God's office to punish him or place his transgression on another person.
JOB—NOTE ON 19:5 Chrys: "Not only was there no one to soothe him but many even on many sides beset him with taunts. And you see him lamenting this bitterly" (*NPNF*1 9:196).
JOB—NOTE ON 19:6 Job asserts that God has entrapped or tricked him into sinning, the way a fowler lures and traps wild birds.
JOB—NOTE ON 19:7 no justice. God appears to treat Job with unprovoked anger. As a result, Job receives neither an answer to his prayer about why he is suffering nor any relief from his persistent pain. God has not, however, ever revealed Himself as Job's enemy. In fact, this alien work of God (see note, Is 28:21) is part of God's way of leading Job to the great climactic description of the Redeemer (v 25).
JOB—NOTE ON 19:14 Job is denied solace of company, respect, and intimacy of family. Bonds of moral obligation and affection are shamelessly severed. See note, 42:11. Like the Servant of the Lord (Is 53), Job is treated as an outcast.
JOB—NOTE ON 19:16 Those who did the daily chores in Job's house now regard their master as a stranger. The servants' high esteem for Job has turned to contempt. Chrys: "Let the sufferings of that man [Job] then be the medicines for our ills, and his grievous surging sea the harbor of our sufferings, and in each of the accidents which befall us, let us consider this saint. Seeing one person exhausting the misfortunes of the universe, we shall conduct ourselves bravely in those [misfortunes] which fall to our share, and—as to some affectionate mother, stretching forth her hands on all sides, and receiving and reviving her terrified children—so let us always flee to this book [of Job]. Even if the pitiable troubles of all men assail us, let us take sufficient comfort for all and so depart" (*NPNF*1 9:196–97).
JOB—NOTE ON 19:17 breath. Hbr ruach, "spirit," "life's breath." strange to my wife. Those who ought to empathize with Job find him repulsive both physically and spiritually.

JOB—NOTE ON 19:20 bones stick to my skin. His body is so wasted away that the skin has tightened around his bones. escaped by the skin of my teeth. Likely a reference to the effects of his disease (cf v 17). The "skin" may be Job's gums or the skin surrounding his teeth. This saying has become an English proverb for a narrow escape. Job expresses amazement that his body continues to sustain any life at all.

JOB—NOTE ON 19:23 inscribed. Suggests carving upon some durable substance. Writing and composition were highly developed by the second millennium BC. book! Permanent written record of his testimony. A "book" might be a scroll or a tablet of clay, a metal plate, or a stone slab.

JOB—NOTE ON 19:24 iron pen. Job wants his case to become a matter of indelible record. "Pen" is used not only for a reed pen or brush for writing with ink but also for an iron stylus or chisel used on stone. See note, 20:24.

JOB—NOTE ON 19:25–27 "We affirm that no one but God alone can separate human nature and this corruption of human nature from each other. This will fully come to pass through death, in the 'blessed' resurrection. At that time our nature, which we now bear, will rise and live eternally without original sin and be separated and divided from it. As it is written in Job 19:26–27, 'After my skin has been thus destroyed, yet in my flesh I shall see God, whom I shall see for myself, and my eyes shall behold'" (FC Ep I 10). Life after death is undeniably prominent in these verses. Three times Job confidently asserts, I shall see God. Mention of "flesh," "eyes," and "heart" (lit, "kidneys") shows that Job thinks of his future, vindicated existence in bodily terms.

JOB—NOTE ON 19:25 Redeemer. Hbr go'el. See "redeem," p 843. Comparable to "arbiter" of 9:33 and "witness" of 16:18–22. The Redeemer is God. Job appeals to God against God (see note, 16:19–21). In light of the fuller biblical revelation, we know that Christ, the God-man, fulfills the description of the Redeemer. In support of this view that Job appeals to God Himself are the following: (1) Job consistently recognizes God as the ultimate arbiter in all matters of justice; (2) Job knows that nothing can deliver a person from the wrath of God's Law other than God Himself; (3) the Lord Himself confirms all of this in chs 40–41; (4) in Job's final plea (ch 31), he puts his legal case solely into the hands of God. As Christians, we know this appeal is to Jesus Christ, the Second Person of the Trinity, who as a person is distinct from the other two persons of the Godhead. at the last. The ultimate Last Day, as in Mt 25:31–46 and Rv 20:11–15. Job yearns for public acquittal of the righteous.

JOB—NOTE ON 19:26 destroyed. Death. yet in my flesh I shall see God. Job is certain that there will be a glorious resurrection of the body on the Last Day, that the very skin that clothed him during his mortal life will again cover the flesh that has become subject to decay and corruption. From this very same body, Job knows that he will see God. 1 Clem: "Do we then deem it any great and wonderful thing for the Maker of all things to raise up again those that have piously served Him in the assurance of a good faith? … Job says, 'You shall raise up this flesh of mine, which has suffered all these things'" (ANF 1:12). Aug: "No doubt [these words] were a prophecy of the resurrection of the flesh" (NPNF 1 2:508; cf Chem, LTh 1:320).

JOB—NOTE ON 19:29 be afraid … judgment. Job is warning his friends that, by siding with God against an innocent victim, they can expect retribution by the sword. When the dust settles, the friends will also know there is a time of judgment, a time when accounts will be settled. In view of the Redeemer who will stand at the last, the judgment of v 29 is the Last Judgment.

JOB—NOTE ON ch 19 When Job's physical condition grows closer to death and he considers a permanent memorial to record his innocence, his spirit soars to his only hope: the Redeemer, God Himself. The divine Redeemer will stand on the earth on the Last Day. Job will receive his vindication in his resurrected body, from which he will see the Redeemer with his own eyes. Today, the Redeemer sees you in your helpless state. As a true Redeemer who buys back His kinsman from bondage, Christ has won you for Himself at the cost of His own flesh and blood. • Come, Lord Jesus, raise up Your saints! Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 20:1 Naamathite. See note, 2:11.

JOB—NOTE ON 20:2 haste within me. Zophar expresses deep agitation at Job's discrediting his wisdom. He is defensive, and so he retorts.

JOB—NOTE ON 20:3 spirit answers me. He claims to have received a special revelation, either from his "understanding" (reason) or a divine source.

JOB—NOTE ON 20:5 Zophar concedes that the wicked may indeed prosper, having something to shout or sing about, but this cause for celebration is short-lived.

JOB—NOTE ON 20:8 he will be chased away like a vision of the night. As the morning light chases away a night vision, so the memory of the evildoer will be chased quickly away. Cf 4:13.
JOB—NOTE ON 20:16–18 Suddenly struck down as if bitten by "a viper," the wicked will no longer feast their eyes on their prosperity. They will not enjoy the results of their labor to the full; they will not participate in celebrating earth's blessings. The wicked are described literally as not being able to swallow, referring to the ill-gotten gain as convulsing them or causing them to vomit up their gains. They cannot enjoy them.
JOB—NOTE ON 20:22 hand of everyone in misery. Hands of all the destitute—not just those the wicked have made destitute—will come upon the evildoers to avenge the injustice done to the needy. The full force of misery will "come against" them in the military sense, as in an attack.
JOB—NOTE ON 20:23 To fill his belly to the full. For once, the wicked may have enough and more than enough. They may have thought they knew the satisfaction of greed, but the wicked will not know what full satisfaction is until they are filled with the wrath of God!
JOB—NOTE ON 20:24 iron weapon. Some have contended that the Book of Job must have been written late, since he mentions iron implements and the iron age does not begin until c 1300 BC. However, a smelted iron blade has been discovered at Tell Asmar, Iraq, and dated to c 2800 BC. Also, the Egyptians are known to have used iron tools beginning c 2500 BC.
JOB—NOTE ON 20:25 gallbladder. Physical injury likened to an arrow through the gallbladder means certain death and also points to divine justice. Punishment reaches to the core of the wicked person's corruption.
JOB—NOTE ON 20:26 Utter darkness. Recurring symbol of death and destruction (3:4–5; 12:25; 15:22–23; 18:18); represents the gloomy domain of the underworld (10:21–22; 17:13). The wicked belong to the darkness for they have rebelled against the light (24:13–17).
JOB—NOTE ON 20:27 heavens … earth. Heaven and earth function as enduring witnesses (e.g., Dt 32:1). Two witnesses are the legal minimum required for a verdict. Cf Dt 19:15.
JOB—NOTE ON 20:28 day of God's wrath. Final public judgment, the decisive day of retribution against the evildoer.
JOB—NOTE ON ch 20 Zophar elaborates his list of calamities for the wicked. In doing this, however, he assumes that the truly righteous are somehow exempt from external miseries and must enjoy prosperity now ("theology of glory"; see p 837). Such misunderstanding tempts us to lose our proper motivation for clinging to the Lord. Our goal is not this earth, which is fading, but "the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus" (Php 3:14). • "Rejoice insofar as you share Christ's sufferings, that you may also rejoice and be glad when His glory is revealed" (1Pt 4:13). Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 21:2 comfort. Instead of bringing him "the comforts of God," as they professed (15:11), his friends turned out to be miserable comforters. The only consolation they can offer is to listen while he unburdens himself of complaints.

JOB—NOTE ON 21:5–6 lay your hand over your mouth. Cover your mouth in awe, a common gesture of someone in shock. Mystery of God's inscrutable ways produces dismay and "shuddering."

JOB—NOTE ON 21:9 rod of God. Discipline was commonly applied with a stick. Punishment Job feels (9:34) does not fall upon the wicked.

JOB—NOTE ON 21:13 in peace they go down to Sheol. Or, "they die in an instant," without lingering agony of disease or disaster.

JOB—NOTE ON 21:17 the lamp. A healthy life; "put out" refers to premature death. Job, however, is saying that this does not characterize the lives of the wicked.

JOB—NOTE ON 21:19 Let him pay it out to them, that they may know it. Refers to punishment for iniquity. Job maintains that the wicked, not their children, should suffer for their own crimes and face their own judgment.

JOB—NOTE ON 21:23–26 One. First of two types of people who are not classified as good and bad, righteous and wicked, but as fortunate and unfortunate, regardless of moral character (cf vv 23–24, 25–26). Life is complicated and does not disclose clear patterns of reward and punishment. From the well-nourished rich man in vv 23–24, whose body is filled with vigor, strength, and health, to the bitter, poor person in v 25, death always has the final say, and it says the same thing to all people, regardless of their moral condition.

JOB—NOTE ON 21:28 prince … wicked. Two descriptions are tied together: the prince has risen to his exalted position by extortion and violence.

JOB—NOTE ON 21:30 evil man is spared in the day of calamity. Travelers of v 29 have seen the houses of the wicked still standing after a natural disaster. While Job offers no other evidence for his belief, the general principle is undeniable.

JOB—NOTE ON 21:32 watch is kept over his tomb. Endowments are prepared by the rich, which may include employed servants to ensure the proper care of their tomb.

JOB—NOTE ON 21:33 clods. Lumps or masses of earth or clay. In this case, clods are "sweet" because the wicked rest in peace in their great grave that honors them.

JOB—NOTE ON ch 21 Job's friends ignore the observable fact that many among the wicked prosper and live seemingly easy lives. By truthfully describing life on earth, Job is reminded to look beyond this life for his hope and righteousness. We, too, must look beyond the injustice we observe and continually confess that our outward predicament does not define God's attitude toward us. While the houses of the wicked remain after earthly storms, the spiritual houses of those in Christ endure forever against sin, the world, and the devil because they are built on the rock that is Christ (Mt 7:24–27). • Dear Lord Jesus Christ, assure us that nothing will ever take us from Your hands (Jn 10:28), that even our death will be precious to You (Ps 116:15), and that we, like Your servant Job, will see You with our own eyes when our bodies are raised from the grave (19:26–27). Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 22:1 Temanite. See note, 2:11.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:2–5 Rhetorical questions. Grammar demands a negative answer in vv 2–4. People were created solely because of God's grace and mercy, not for divine profit. Eliphaz argues that if God should chastise someone, it must not be for a selfish purpose, but because of human sin.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:2 profitable. Can also be translated "useful."
JOB—NOTE ON 22:3 is it gain to him if you make your ways blameless? Though God does not personally benefit from the blameless deeds of the righteous, He certainly takes pleasure in them (1:8) and uses such deeds to benefit others. Cf Mt 5:14–16.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:4 Is it for your fear of Him that He reproves you. With this sarcastic question, Eliphaz makes Job responsible for his own suffering, suggesting that God was punishing Job for his sins.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:5 Is not your evil abundant? Grammar demands a positive answer. Observing Job's sorry condition, Eliphaz concludes that Job must certainly be horribly evil. Yet righteousness or wickedness is not determined by appearances, but solely by God's gift of faith. Cf Rm 1:16–17.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:6–11 Accusations have no basis other than Eliphaz's imagination, as he attempts to think of reasons for Job's suffering. Against this, Job maintains his innocence (23:7, 11).
JOB—NOTE ON 22:6 exacted pledges. In order to borrow money, people needed to provide a pledge (e.g., cloak or donkey) as collateral. Eliphaz accuses Job of treating his poorer neighbor ruthlessly, perhaps by demanding too much collateral or by foreclosing on the loan early, thereby keeping the collateral.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:12 high in the heavens? Though Scripture speaks of God in this way (Ps 2:4; 113:5–6), it does not mean He is far from us. Such phrases mean that He is present everywhere (e.g., Eph 4:10).
JOB—NOTE ON 22:13 but you say. After accusing Job of sinning against his neighbor (vv 5–9), Eliphaz now accuses him of despising God.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:14 clouds veil Him. Eliphaz puts words into Job's mouth, suggesting that Job acts in unrepentance because he thinks God is unable to see him. vault of heaven. Firmament or "expanse" (see note, Gn 1:6). Eliphaz refers to this as the place where God walks.

JOB—NOTE ON 22:15 Will you keep to the old way. Eliphaz's call to repentance for the wickedness he supposed Job committed. In Eliphaz's estimation, the only way to cure Job's suffering is for Job to turn and do good.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:16 their foundation. Perhaps refers to the flood (Gn 6–8). Everything the wicked had built their lives on was destroyed in the water of God's judgment.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:17–20 Here Eliphaz echoes what Job said in 21:14–16, but in the context of his entire speech, Eliphaz applies these words to Job himself.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:18 Yet He filled their houses with good things. "God certainly gives daily bread to everyone without our prayers, even to all evil people" (SC, Fourth Petition, p xxxviii). Cf Mt 5:45.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:20 what they left the fire has consumed. Where v 16 possibly alludes to the flood, the reference to fire here evokes the memory of Sodom and Gomorrah (Gn 19). The things the wicked accumulate as evidence of their power and greatness will at last be destroyed. Scripture also associates the Last Day with destructive fire. Cf Heb 10:27; 2Pt 3:7.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:21–26 Eliphaz's call to repentance contains many good points. What he says about God is often correct. Sinners must not only recognize their sin (v 21) but also hear and believe the Word (v 22). Acts that show love for God rather than for money are also part of repentance. The problem is that Eliphaz's exhortation is completely irrelevant in Job's case. Eliphaz fails to recognize that Job is already repentant (19:25–27) and that Job's suffering has nothing to do with unrepentant sin or divine punishment (1:6–12).
JOB—NOTE ON 22:21 Agree with God. Eliphaz argues that Job must first admit his accusations (22:6–10, 13–14) are true before God will relieve his suffering.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:23 return. From Hbr shub ; common term for repentance. See note, v 21.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:24 Ophir. Known for its fine gold. Cf Ps 45:9. Exact location unknown. Solomon later received 420 talents of gold from Ophir (cf 1Ki 9:26–28). stones of the torrent-bed. Stones from the creek bottom. Eliphaz wants Job to throw away all of his riches.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:27 pay your vows. Voluntary expression of love for God, often a special sacrifice offered to God. Other vows could also be taken. Cf Nu 6:1–21. Once undertaken, a vow could not be broken. See p 7.

JOB—NOTE ON 22:28 it will be established for you. Eliphaz assumes that when people repent of their sin, everything automatically improves and goes well for them. Job is living proof that this is not so.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:29 they. This pronoun could refer to "your ways" (v 28) or to "the lowly" (v 29) because of the parallelism of the poetry. The latter best fits the sense of the passage. It is because of pride. See ESV note. Translation is difficult. Expression of encouragement may be intended, as we say, "Take pride." the lowly. Hbr expression unique to Job; lit, "one lowly of eyes," a person who looks downward in humility.
JOB—NOTE ON 22:30 delivered through the cleanness of your hands. Intercessory prayer by a believer, similar to Abraham's prayer for Sodom. Cf Gn 18:22–33. See Jesus' words to Peter: "When you have turned again, strengthen your brothers" (Lk 22:32).
JOB—NOTE ON ch 22 Eliphaz's speech calls Job to repentance, and as such, this chapter is profitable for meditating on one's own sin and the need for God's deliverance. Putting ourselves in Job's place for a moment, who can argue with Eliphaz when he accuses us of failing to love both neighbor (vv 5–9) and God (vv 12–14) alike? Surely Eliphaz is also correct when he declares that God will listen to our repentant prayers (v 27)! Yet the sufferings Job bears are not because of his sin, as Eliphaz assumes. The Lord humbles him in order to exalt him. This is truly the way of the cross. See p 837. • O Lord, in all circumstances, grant us sincere repentance, delight us in Your ways, and lift our faces to behold You. Amen.
JOB—NOTE ON 23:2 my hand is heavy. Job's agony tempts him to lose self-control, and he must discipline himself to keep himself in check. Cf 1Co 1:27.
JOB—NOTE ON 23:3 Him. The heavenly Father, who allowed Job to suffer in this way. Cf 1:6–12. seat! God's judgment throne.
JOB—NOTE ON 23:4 arguments. Job envisions a court scene in which he could present his case to God. See p 792. When God later gives Job opportunity to speak (40:1–5), Job changes his mind and wisely declines to argue.
JOB—NOTE ON 23:5 After presenting his arguments (v 4), Job would await God's righteous judgment, anticipating that God would find him innocent of Eliphaz's charges in 22:6–7, 13–14.

JOB—NOTE ON 23:6 pay attention. Job knows that God would condescend to hear Job's plea and self-defense and not overwhelm Job with His majesty. Job's insight offers comfort to all Christians who cry out to God. God will happily incline His ear to their prayers, just as an earthly father does not turn his children away but welcomes and listens to their requests (SC, Lord's Prayer Introduction, p xxxvii).
JOB—NOTE ON 23:7 upright man. Likely refers to Job, but perhaps Job's recognition that he has a righteous advocate with the Father (1Jn 2:1) who will obtain Job's justification on his behalf. acquitted. The heavenly courtroom is one of the most ancient images of God's relation to people. Cf 1Ki 22:19; Ps 103:19–22. Job is confident that God will declare him innocent. See p 792.
JOB—NOTE ON 23:8 not there. Job's senses cannot perceive God's eternal presence. God's invisibility requires Job and all people to live by faith and not by sight. Cf 2Co 5:7.
JOB—NOTE ON 23:9 not behold. Job wishes to see God with his naked eye—something that will happen for him and for all in the resurrection. Cf 19:25–27.
JOB—NOTE ON 23:10 tried. See note, v 7. I shall come out as gold. Job believes a trial would prove him innocent, as pure as smelted gold. Where Eliphaz earlier called on Job to regard God as more precious than gold (22:25), here Job confesses his belief that God will regard him likewise.
JOB—NOTE ON 23:11 His steps … His way. Cf Dt 30:15–18. Job maintains that he has lived faithfully.
JOB—NOTE ON 23:12 commandment. Though God later speaks directly to Job in chs 38–41, God's commands were also written into Job's heart. Cf Rm 2:15. Aug: "Behold the meek man, behold one taught in the law of God, the eternal law of God I mean. For that law on tables was not yet given to the Jews in the time of Job, but in the hearts of the godly there remained still the eternal law, from which that which was given to the people was copied" (*NPNF*1 6:353).
JOB—NOTE ON 23:13 He is unchangeable. Lit, "He [God] is in one." See ESV note. Statement of God's uniqueness, which anticipates the ancient creed of Israel, "Hear, O Israel: The LORD our God, the LORD is one" (Dt 6:4). turn. Hbr shub, "who can change Him?"
JOB—NOTE ON 23:14 appoints for me. God seems like Job's enemy, acting randomly and maliciously. Job recognizes that God makes and carries out His own plan for His servants, even if they do not understand how or why.

JOB—NOTE ON 23:17 because of the darkness. While Job fears God (v 15), he refuses to be afraid of anything else. Even though Job can perceive only darkness and gloom (see note, v 8), God alone remains both his terror (v 16) and his confidence.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:1 His days? When God passes judgment and the wicked are called to account.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:2 move landmarks. Steal land by rearranging boundaries. Cf Dt 27:17.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:3 pledge. See note, 22:6.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:4 thrust the poor off the road. Charge does not seem as serious as the others Job mentions here, unless it describes how the wicked deprive the poor of the basic rights due them as fellow citizens. hide themselves. The poor consider it much better simply to "disappear" and live anonymously, rather than to suffer the open derision and spite of the wicked.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:5–12 Job inventories the misery that the poor must suffer at the hands of the rich.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:5 wild donkeys in the desert. Like beasts, the poor must search arid and desolate places for their food, while the rich occupy the fertile areas. seeking game. Without flocks or herds, the poor must hunt for meat.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:6 fodder. Food for animals, which the poor must eat for lack of anything else. glean. Following after the harvester to pick up leftover stalks of grain. Cf Ru 2:3.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:9 snatch the fatherless child. Taking an infant into slavery because of its mother's debts. take a pledge. See note, 22:6. In a slave-owning society, even children could be collateral for a loan.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:10 hungry, they carry the sheaves. The poor are not even allowed a portion of the grain they harvest and store for the rich. Cf Dt 25:4; Lk 15:16.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:11 olive rows. Olive orchard.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:12 God charges no one with wrong. Job complains that the wicked seem to get away with their crimes, while he must suffer for no apparent reason. Jeremiah voiced a similar complaint (cf Jer 12:1–4).

JOB—NOTE ON 24:13–15 light. Criminals work at night. Darkness evoked images of death, Sheol, and the absence of God. Cf 3:4–7; 10:21–22. Light indicated safety, life, and truth.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:16 dig through houses. Thieves could enter a house by creating a hole in its mud-brick wall.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:17 deep darkness is morning. As many people rise in the morning to go about their work, so the murderer (v 14), the adulterer (v 15), and the thief (v 16) rise at nightfall and pursue their craft under the cover of darkness.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:18–24 As with 26:5–14 and 27:13–23, Job appears to endorse his friends' principle of divine retribution on the wicked (e.g., 22:29–30). However, Job consistently denies that this principle applies in his own case.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:18 You. One who observes the wicked of vv 13–17 and concludes they shall soon be judged. on the face of the waters. Like autumn leaves in a rushing stream, the wicked will quickly come to ruin. portion. Wealth and inheritance.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:19 snow waters. As warm weather melts snow, so shall the wicked disappear. Sheol. See p 792.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:20 broken like a tree. As a tree splits in a powerful wind, so shall the wicked be broken.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:22 by His power. In His wisdom, God allows the wicked to remain for a while. they rise up. The wicked appear to prosper quickly but soon become dissatisfied with success. As part of their punishment, God robs them of their zest for life.
JOB—NOTE ON 24:24 cut off. Separated from all others, mired in the isolation of Sheol. Cf v 19.
JOB—NOTE ON Chs 23–24 Job complains that God seemed distant and impossible to find (23:3). Yet he remains convinced—by faith and not by sight (2Co 5:7)—that God does not change His will (23:13–14). Though you suffer poverty and injustice, know that the Lord wills your good and desires your salvation. • O almighty and merciful Lord, draw near. Acquit my guilt and calm my fears. Answer me gently through Christ Jesus, my Lord. Amen.
JOB—NOTE ON 25:1 Shuhite. See note, 2:11.
JOB—NOTE ON 25:2 Dominion and fear are with God. God alone is all-powerful. No one succeeds in opposing Him, because His dominion is too great. makes peace in His high heaven. His reign extends everywhere. Ancient conflict between God and Satan resulted in Satan's expulsion from heaven (cf Lk 10:18; Rv 12:7–9). Cf 26:13.

JOB—NOTE ON 25:3 His armies? The angels, the hosts of heaven. See p 1291.

JOB—NOTE ON 25:4 can man be in the right before God? Bildad realizes that sinful humankind has no way to justify itself. His argument implies that "might makes right." he who is born of woman. Any person. pure? Truly, all people are born impure and sinful and need God's cleansing. Cf 5:7; Ps 51:5.

JOB—NOTE ON 25:5 As the sun outshines all other heavenly bodies, so God's greatness outshines all other things. By contrasting the heavenly bodies with the greatness of God, Bildad casts humankind into an even deeper shadow.

JOB—NOTE ON 25:6 man, who is a maggot. Though the image seems unbecoming, it expresses humility before God. Cf Ps 22:6. Luth: "We have no right to indulge in much bragging and boasting when we step before God. Even if we were members of the highest aristocracy on earth … before God we would still be nothing but bags of worms or bags of manure, infested with lice, maggots, stinking and foul" (AE 22:133).

JOB—NOTE ON ch 25 The brevity of this last speech by Job's friends shows they have finally run out of arguments. Bildad's speech is a good sermon for Job and for everyone. He calls us to humility and contrition before God. We can offer no defense for ourselves and for our sins; we must throw ourselves entirely on God's mercy. • Praise be to God! "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness" (1Jn 1:9). Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 26:1–4 Job uses bitter sarcasm to respond to Bildad's speech (ch 25). Bildad's words concerning God's greatness and humankind's lowliness offer very little comfort to Job as he sits in the ashes (2:8) and suffers.

JOB—NOTE ON 26:5 dead tremble under the waters. In the judgment and darkness of Sheol. See p 792. their inhabitants. Sea creatures. Where Bildad measured God's greatness by looking up into the sky (25:5), Job probes the depths of the earth and the seas to find anything like God. The Lord will surpass Job's efforts (chs 40–41).

JOB—NOTE ON 26:6 Sheol. See note, 7:9. naked before God. No one hides from God, not even those in Sheol. Cf Ps 139:7–10; see p 792. Abaddon. Bottomless pit; another name for Sheol. Word comes from a verb meaning "to destroy" and describes a place of death and damnation (28:22; 31:12) that is known to God. Cf Pr 15:11; Rv 9:11.
JOB—NOTE ON 26:7 the void … hangs the earth on nothing. God created the earth out of nothing, solely by the power of His Word. Cf Heb 11:3. By the same power, all things now remain in their right place, dependent on nothing but God.
JOB—NOTE ON 26:8 binds up the waters in His thick clouds. Reference to work God began on second day of creation and continues to do. Cf Gn 1:6–8.
JOB—NOTE ON 26:10 a circle. Cf Gn 1:7–8. boundary. Horizon, from which dawn and sunset begin.
JOB—NOTE ON 26:11 pillars of heaven. Figurative for the towering mountains (cf 9:5–6; see note, 9:6).
JOB—NOTE ON 26:12 Rahab. See note, 9:13.
JOB—NOTE ON 26:13 fleeing serpent. Elsewhere called "Leviathan." See notes, 3:8; 41:1.
JOB—NOTE ON 26:14 outskirts. God's mighty deeds recorded in vv 7–13 are relatively small things that He effortlessly performed. whisper … thunder. We have heard only a little of God's work. How much more remarkable to hear the rest!
JOB—NOTE ON ch 26 The almighty God has created the heavens and the earth (v 7) and still controls all things (vv 8–10). But this work is merely the "outskirts of His ways" (v 14)—as if the entire creation were a little fringe hanging from the edge of His cloak! As great as the creation appears in our eyes, our Creator towers above it. Yet, for our salvation, the limitless Creator allowed Himself to be confined to the limits of our humanity when Jesus Christ was conceived by the Holy Spirit and born of the Virgin Mary. • Cover me, O Lord, in Your robe of righteousness, and tower over my foes. Amen.
JOB—NOTE ON 27:1 discourse. A speech. Job's friends remain silent, so Job continues to build his defense.
JOB—NOTE ON 27:2 As God lives. Job swears in God's name that he will not lie. Others who spoke oaths in God's name include Abraham's servant

(Gn 24:3) and Jesus (Mt 26:63–64). See "vow," p 7. made my soul bitter. Job's repeated complaint. Cf 7:11; 10:1; 21:25.
JOB—NOTE ON 27:3 the spirit of God. Hbr ruach 'eloah ; synonym for "soul" or "life." in my nostrils. Suggests that this spirit is the breath of life, not the Holy Spirit. Cf Gn 2:7.
JOB—NOTE ON 27:5 you. Job's friends. till I die. Job vows to maintain his innocence unto death.
JOB—NOTE ON 27:6 I hold fast my righteousness. Or, "I will not let go of my righteousness." Job does not claim to be sinless; he claims only to be innocent of the great sins of which his friends have accused him. my heart does not reproach. His conscience is clear.
JOB—NOTE ON 27:7–8 David likewise prays for the death of his enemies. Cf Ps 5:10; 54:5. The martyrs pray similarly in Rv 6:10. Such prayers call on God to avenge those who suffer at the hands of the wicked. Cf Dt 32:43; Rm 12:19.
JOB—NOTE ON 27:9 Will God hear his cry. When God's patience with the wicked finally expires, He closes His ears to their cries for mercy. Cf 35:13; Is 1:15.
JOB—NOTE ON 27:11 hand of God. God's act of discipline and/or judgment.
JOB—NOTE ON 27:13 portion. That which the wicked shall "inherit" from God.
JOB—NOTE ON 27:14 God elsewhere threatens to punish lawbreakers to the third and fourth generation (Ex 20:5).
JOB—NOTE ON 27:15 pestilence. Hbr maweth ; lit, "death." See note, 18:13. Weapons of God's judgment will strike those who are wicked until none survive. Similar waves of judgment occur in Ex 7:14–10:29; 12:29–32; Rv 16.
JOB—NOTE ON 27:16–17 The wicked may hoard wealth for themselves, but in the day of God's wrath, those who are righteous and innocent—the very people exploited in pursuit of wealth—will divide their goods. Cf Pr 13:22.
JOB—NOTE ON 27:18 Place of the wicked is temporary.
JOB—NOTE ON 27:20 Terrors. Job echoes Eliphaz's earlier accusation, 22:10–11.
JOB—NOTE ON 27:21 east wind. The sirocco, a hot, dusty wind that blows in from the desert, creating sleeplessness and unrest (cf 1:9). Inability to sleep gives opportunity for the consciences of the wicked to torment them and to create panic at the ominous, blowing sounds outside.

JOB—NOTE ON 27:22–23 It. East wind is the relentless agent of God's wrath. headlong flight. Running like a terrorized animal, he attempts to escape the blowing sand. clasps … hisses. Taunts. Words paired because of their similar sound in Hbr.
JOB—NOTE ON ch 27 Job refuses to abandon his confidence. He knows and confesses "what is with the Almighty" (v 11), namely, that he will finally be vindicated (v 6), while his enemies will be swept away (vv 13–23). Job's faith in God grows stronger in the face of his difficulties, just as iron is strengthened on the anvil and in the forge. No matter what befalls him, Job entrusts all things to his Creator. • Lord, no matter what struggle we may endure in this earthly life, we know that "by God's power [we] are being guarded through faith for a salvation ready to be revealed in the last time" (1Pt 1:5). Amen.
JOB—NOTE ON Ch 28 Job makes another declaration of faith of similar importance to that in ch 19.
JOB—NOTE ON 28:2 Mining was already an established trade in Job's day and included ore collection by hand, smelting, and the casting of metal objects. Prosperous mines were in Egypt, Edom, Syria, and the Arabian Peninsula, among other places. See map, p 780.
JOB—NOTE ON 28:4 away from where anyone lives. Ancient miners would travel far from inhabited areas in their quest for precious ore. they hang in the air. Miners—usually slaves—would be lowered by ropes into vertical mine shafts, where they would swing precariously back and forth as they attempted to dig ore from the walls of the shaft.
JOB—NOTE ON 28:5 turned up as by fire. Miners would sometimes build a large fire near the wall of the tunnel, heating up the water in the rocks to make them crack open.
JOB—NOTE ON 28:7 falcon's eye. Despite notoriously good vision, falcons cannot see the paths people dig deep beneath the earth.
JOB—NOTE ON 28:8 lion. Considered the most courageous of beasts.
JOB—NOTE ON 28:9–11 Unlike the beasts mentioned in vv 7–8, human ingenuity has enabled people to explore the depths of the earth, uncovering amazing treasures that no one could ever dream of finding. But for all their great successes, people cannot find wisdom (v 12).

JOB—NOTE ON 28:10 channels. Same word is used for the Nile River Delta and refers to the network of shafts that miners dig through the earth.
JOB—NOTE ON 28:11 streams. Springs deep within the earth are a source for aboveground streams and rivers.
JOB—NOTE ON 28:12 wisdom. Knowledge and understanding that is not available through exploration or observation, but given only by God. Cf vv 20–28; Is 11:2; 1Co 1:18–25. See pp 775–78.
JOB—NOTE ON 28:16 Ophir. See note, 22:24.
JOB—NOTE ON 28:17 glass. Testimony to ingenuity and power of human invention, glass was highly valued in the ancient world. Egypt and Phoenicia were both famous for glassware.
JOB—NOTE ON 28:19 Ethiopia. Hbr kush ; the Upper Nile region of East Africa, named after Noah's grandson (Gn 10:6).
JOB—NOTE ON 28:20 From where, then, does wisdom come? After arraying all of the world's riches (vv 15–19) and all the hard work dedicated to finding them (vv 1–11), Job declares wisdom to be greater and more elusive than all riches.
JOB—NOTE ON 28:21 concealed from the birds. See note, v 7. If the sharp-eyed birds of the air cannot see the hidden elements beneath the earth, how much more is wisdom hidden from their view!
JOB—NOTE ON 28:22 Abaddon and Death say. Personification. See note, 26:6.
JOB—NOTE ON 28:23 it. Wisdom (v 20), which is known and given only by God.
JOB—NOTE ON 28:25 its weight. Describing the wind's ability to bend trees and fill the sails of ships.
JOB—NOTE ON 28:27 He saw it. God does not discover wisdom as though He previously did not know where to find it. Rather, Job juxtaposes the keenest vision of the great birds (vv 7, 21) with God's all-seeing eye. Cf 2Ch 16:9; Pr 15:3. Wisdom is virtually given a "bodily" form: not only was wisdom present at creation (v 25), but God saw it (as if wisdom were visible) and He established it (i.e., gave it a firm position). Some scholars compare v 27 to Pr 8:22–31, where wisdom again is described in substantive, personified terms. declared. Hbr saphar, "count," "proclaim." Word is also used to form "scroll," on which reports were written. The Lord prepares for humankind His report on wisdom, delivered in v 28.

JOB—NOTE ON 28:28 the fear of the Lord. See note, 1:1. God reveals that which cannot be discovered by any human effort. Wisdom is not merely scientific knowledge or technological ability. See pp 775–78; cf Ps 111:10; Pr 9:10; Is 11:2. Lord. Hbr 'adonai, "master," commonly used of God, but occurs only here in Jb.

JOB—NOTE ON ch 28 People cannot find wisdom by their own reason or strength. God alone can give it through His declaration—His Word. St Paul calls Christ Jesus "our wisdom and our righteousness and sanctification and redemption" (1Co 1:30). Christ, our Wisdom, was revealed to us in the manner described by Job here: God the Father has revealed Him to us in His powerful declaration (v 27), the Scriptures, so that we may "fear" Him. • All-knowing Lord, grant me wisdom through Your Son, my Savior and the only source of true wisdom. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 29:2–3 lamp. Symbol for God's blessing and guidance.

JOB—NOTE ON 29:4 friendship of God. Job enjoyed God's intimate counsel. God instructed him so that he prospered and enjoyed his family.

JOB—NOTE ON 29:6 washed with butter. Figurative for wealth and prosperity, because the person had sufficient milk to make butter. streams of oil! Olive oil pouring from a stone press. Job's prosperity is described as streaming from him for the benefit of the needy (vv 12–13; 15–16). See p 236. In 1Ki 17:12, the lack of oil and flour spelled death for the widow of Zarephath and her son.

JOB—NOTE ON 29:7 The city gates were the places in which public business was conducted, contracts executed, legal judgments handed down, and government administered (Gn 23; Dt 22:15). See p 792. Job had high standing in his community and was known as the preeminent wise man of his day (1:3).

JOB—NOTE ON 29:8 withdrew. Young men of the community showed deep respect by retreating into the background. rose and stood. Elders rose and, advancing toward Job, stood until he had seated himself.

JOB—NOTE ON 29:10 tongue stuck. Everyone was silent, waiting for Job to speak. These verses (v v 7–11) show the unqualified respect accorded Job.

JOB—NOTE ON 29:12 delivered the poor. Job used his resources to rescue the needy in their distress. Here, charity to the needy was not a function of government but a sign of Job's compassion.

JOB—NOTE ON 29:14 Clothing was often symbolic of station (cf v 25). However, here clothing represented gifts of God. Job was covered with the divine gifts.
JOB—NOTE ON 29:15 Luth: "Any person can be eye, soul, and belly to another, when he guides him, gives life to him, and preserves him in life and carefully bears him in the womb" (AE 10:143). Chrys: "He who does not turn aside from the calamities of others, will not suffer even in his own misfortunes, because he has learned to sympathize. He who will not bear the griefs of sympathy, will learn all sorrow in his own person. In the case of a bodily disease, when the foot is mortified, if the hand does not sympathize by cleansing the wound—washing away the discharge, and applying a plaster—it will suffer the like disease of its own. So she who will not minister to another when she is not herself afflicted, will have to bear sufferings of her own. For the evil spreading from the other part will reach to this [part] also, and the question will not be of ministering to the other, but of its own cure and relief. So it is here also. He that will not relieve others, will be a sufferer himself" (*NPNF*1 13:504).
JOB—NOTE ON 29:18 I shall die in my nest. Job expected that he would live out his days under God's care in his snug home, like a bird in its nest with its family. This expectation was overturned by the onslaught of the adversary.
JOB—NOTE ON 29:19 Job describes his expectation of prosperity and long life as a tree planted by a stream, which always has sufficient water.
JOB—NOTE ON 29:20 bow ever new. Wood of his bow would not dry out; therefore, the bowstring would not lose its tautness. Symbol of manly strength (Ps 18:34).
JOB—NOTE ON 29:23 People awaited Job's words like children eagerly awaited the first sweet drops of a spring rain to fall in their mouths (cf Zec 10:1).
JOB—NOTE ON 29:25 Job describes his condescension to those he helped. He helped the people in need by choosing the best way for them to go. He lived with them so he could share even in their suffering of bereavement and comfort them in their losses.
JOB—NOTE ON 30:1 dogs of my flock. Vicious insult. Dogs were regarded with contempt, despite their use in protecting flocks. These people were unworthy even to keep company with sheepdogs.

JOB—NOTE ON 30:3 gnaw the dry ground. Pictures deplorable state resulting from starvation. Starving people may try to fill their empty bellies with dirt, just as persons deprived of certain minerals are driven to eat dirt.
JOB—NOTE ON 30:4 saltwort. Plant that grows in salty regions of the Near East. In extreme need, roots of this plant could be ground to make a crude flour for bread.
JOB—NOTE ON 30:5–8 These brutish people are the outcasts, true troglodytes, considered unfit to live in human society. Those for whom Job once provided charity now consider themselves superior to him.
JOB—NOTE ON 30:5 They. Lowly people who now taunt Job. More respectable people would drive these lowly drifters out of their towns and farmsteads.
JOB—NOTE ON 30:7 bray. Mournful and inarticulate cry from those who have been driven out of their human community.
JOB—NOTE ON 30:9 byword. Job's fall into suffering has already made him a proverb of scorn and derision. See note, 17:6.
JOB—NOTE ON 30:11 loosed my cord. Job is like a bow "unstrung" by God (cf 29:20), making him liable to abuse. cast off restraint. Those who once would have shown deep respect for Job now find that he is at their mercy. Job's authority and honor no longer restrain them.
JOB—NOTE ON 30:14 breach. Hole broken in a fortress by attackers.
JOB—NOTE ON 30:18 binds me. Job's garments, once flowing and opulent, now bind and chafe his sore, swollen skin.
JOB—NOTE ON 30:20 I stand. Common posture for prayer. See p 1277.
JOB—NOTE ON 30:21 turned cruel. Job feels that God has become his fierce and unrelenting enemy. Luth: "The fiercer our sufferings are, the greater and more wonderful are the things that are worked in the saints. It is a proof of grace and God's goodwill when they are disciplined by the cross and afflictions" (AE 6:355). Luth: "In sudden terrors and dangers [our nature] is turned from the true God because it believes He is wrathful, as Job did…. But this is to imagine another god and not to remain in the simplicity of the faith that there is one God. Nor is God cruel, but He is 'the Father of comfort' (2 Cor. 1:3). Because He delays His help, our hearts make a wrathful idol of God, who is always like Himself and constant" (AE 12:374).
JOB—NOTE ON 30:23 bring me to death. Ultimate end of suffering is death itself; the Lord allows Job to reach the brink of death.

JOB—NOTE ON 30:24 heap of ruins. A Hbr term related to the word for "Ai," the ruins used as a fortification in Jsh 8; it means "disaster" and is another term for "ruins." ruins … disaster. Describes Job's desperate situation. cry for help? See ESV note. The LXX wrongly suggests that Job considers taking his life by his own hand or by asking someone else to kill him. The Hbr more likely means that Job appealed to God as desperately as a man threatened with the total collapse of his world or as frantically as a drowning person stretches out his hand for help.
JOB—NOTE ON 30:27 inward parts. Churning in his belly or inner emotional turmoil (Ps 42:5).
JOB—NOTE ON 30:28 darkened. Result of his disease or a sorrowful mood.
JOB—NOTE ON 30:29 ostriches. In ancient times, ostriches lived in the Near East. They make a haunting, lonely sound at night.
JOB—NOTE ON 30:30 skin turns black. Skin disease. Cf v 28; 7:5.
JOB—NOTE ON 30:31 lyre. Multistringed instrument in the harp family. pipe. Reed flute or whistle. Musical instruments were signs of celebration and joy, but Job's distress turned them to instruments of mourning.
JOB—NOTE ON Chs 29–30 Luth: "Job did not deserve such punishments by his life; for he was God-fearing, guileless, and virtuous…. It tends to instruct and comfort us when we learn that God often causes even the innocent to experience the most serious misfortunes and punishments, merely in order to test them. When faint hearts feel the punishments, they immediately think of sin, and believe that these are punishments for sin. But one must maintain that the godly experience many evils, solely in order that they may be tested" (AE 2:319). • Merciful Lord, test me and prove me not on my own merits or strength. For then, I would surely fail. But test and prove me on the merits of Jesus Christ, who cannot fail to redeem me when I stumble. Amen.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:1 covenant with my eyes. Job promised to avoid looking upon young women so as not to give an opportunity to lust. Cf Mt 6:22–23. Hipp: "He who looks upon a woman, even though he escape the temptation, does not come away pure of all lust. And why should one have trouble, if he can be chaste and free of trouble? See what Job says: 'I made a covenant with mine eyes, that I should not think of another's wife.' Thus well does he know the power of abuse. And Paul for this reason kept 'under his body, and brought it into subjection' [1Co 9:27]" (ANF 5:173).

JOB—NOTE ON 31:2 portion … heritage. Job applies his argument of 27:13. Ch 31 presents the "rewards" from God due him for various sins. Yet he disagrees with the accusation of Zophar in 20:29, who presumed that Job is suffering because of wickedness.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:6 weighed. Job believes that he is blameless before God on the basis of his works. He believes that if he is put into the balance of justice, he will be proved just in God's sight. Job is again arguing that God has been unrighteous by permitting suffering to strike him.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:7 my heart has gone after my eyes. Job consciously avoided the desires of his heart, thinking that he would remain morally clean (Ec 2:10). spot has stuck. A moral blemish through action is like a blotch on the hand that mars its physical perfection (cf Dn 1:4).
JOB—NOTE ON 31:8 Invoking a curse on himself.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:10 grind for another. Grinding meal is a service of low status in another's household. The imagery has sexual connotations, perhaps due to the bowed position of the person grinding or the association of the mill's handle with a phallus. bow down on her. Implying sexual intercourse.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:11 punished by the judges. Community's legal system dealt with disorder caused by sexual relations outside of marriage. Breaking the marriage vow breaks the foundational bond of society and hurts not just husband and wife but also children, neighbors, community, and finally the Creator of holy marriage.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:12 Abaddon. See note, 26:6. all my increase. Refers to products of the agricultural harvest (2Ki 8:6). Job understands that adultery is a disordering sin that can have devastating effects in the community, including economic effects.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:14 God rises up? To bring witness against the wickedness Job describes (Dt 19:16–17).
JOB—NOTE ON 31:15 fashion us in the womb? Each person is created specially by God, and God Himself sees to a person's protection.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:16–22 Job is calling down a divine curse upon himself if he has not cared for the poor and needy.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:16 poor. Those who have fallen on hard times and are pressed to find enough to eat. Caring for the poor is a blessing to the giver (Ps 41:1). The Lord promises to rescue the poor through the Messiah's ministry (Is 11:4). widow. A woman without a husband was in a socially ambiguous position. She was a special object of charity because she was often impoverished (Ru 2:2; Dt 14:29).

JOB—NOTE ON 31:17 fatherless. The fatherless are seen in the same disadvantaged category as widows and the poor.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:18 Job describes his lifelong practice of caring for the poor. In caring for many, he became a surrogate parent.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:21 my help in the gate. Job never used his influence with the courts to cover up violence against the helpless. See p 792.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:23 terror of calamity. Job admits that his works were motivated by fear rather than love. Such works may serve our neighbor but do not truly glorify God.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:24–28 Job explains what he has not done wrong.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:24 fine gold. Perhaps polished or completely refined gold. Emphasizes monetary value of Job's fortune.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:26 sun … moon. Objects of idolatrous worship in the ancient Near East.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:27 my mouth has kissed my hand. Figure of speech describing narcissistic self-absorption. Luth: "It is iniquity to kiss one's own hand, Job 31:27, to establish one's own works, to refuse obedience under the guise of something good or better, and thus iniquitously to prefer one's own opinion to that of a superior, of Christ and of God, etc." (AE 11:292).
JOB—NOTE ON 31:30 curse. Job had not pronounced a wish that those who had hurt him should have evil befall them.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:32 sojourner. Foreigner. Providing lodging for travelers was basic hospitality.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:33 hiding my iniquity in my bosom. Sin hidden away and unconfessed, just as Adam tried to hide his iniquity. See ESV note.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:35 my signature! Lit, "my tav." Hbr letter tav was shaped like a plus mark or cross and could stand as a signature. Cf Ezk 9:4, 6. indictment. Hbr sepher; a book or legal document. adversary! Lit, "man of my dispute." In this judicial proceeding before God (Dt 25:1), Job believes that God will vindicate him against the indictment of his three friends. See p 792.
JOB—NOTE ON 31:36 carry it on my shoulder. Written indictment against him (v 35) was worn as a matter of pride, so certain was Job that God would vindicate him. as a crown. Job was even luxuriating in this misbegotten accusation against him, turning it into a crown (1Pt 4:14–16).

JOB—NOTE ON 31:37 like a prince. Job approaches the Almighty confident of his status before Him. Note the difference between Job and Adam (Gn 3:8).
JOB—NOTE ON 31:39 Job had sharecroppers on his land whom he never left destitute.
JOB—NOTE ON ch 31 Job bases his speech on the idea that moral behavior merits God's favor and that immoral behavior earns God's displeasure. If anyone could be justified before God based on good works, it would have been Job. But God's justice is too uncompromising, and His ways on earth are hidden. Job will learn that God has His purpose in suffering. There is no way for humans to see behind the mask of God, to know God's will apart from Scripture. He reveals His gracious will through the Word, not by reason or experience. • Set before our eyes Your good and gracious will toward us in the suffering, death, and resurrection of Jesus. Amen.
JOB—NOTE ON Ch 32 It was customary for people to sit together after calamity and try to determine the cause (Jnh 1:7; Jsh 7), esp if the calamity fell on the whole community.
JOB—NOTE ON 32:1 righteous in his own eyes. Author hints that Job was vindicated only in his own eyes and not before God. Elihu's speeches (chs 32–37) are aimed at correcting this basic flaw in Job's relationship to God. Job was not serving God "for no reason" (1:9). Because he expected a reward for his piety, he ranted against God's administration of justice. Before God Himself appears on the scene (chs 38–42), Elihu plays the role of His defense attorney. He has "something to say on God's behalf" in order to "ascribe righteousness to" his Maker (36:2–3). In defending divine providence, he operates in part with the principles advocated by Job's three friends. However, he does not attempt to relate them primarily and directly to Job's situation, as they did, but rather urges him to see himself in the perspective of God's absolute perfection. God, he points out, is just—for the simple reason that He is God, the almighty Creator of the universe and the omniscient Ruler of heaven and earth. God is not affected in His being by the behavior of puny people; nevertheless, He is concerned about the destiny of the work of His hand. According to His good and gracious will, He uses affliction to correct and purify humankind.
JOB—NOTE ON 32:2 Elihu. "He is my God." Barachel. "El (God) blesses." Elihu comes from a godly family. Buzite. Probably a native of Buz in eastern Arabia. He is an outsider in this circle of friends, which makes him all the more hesitant to speak.

JOB—NOTE ON 32:3 answer. Job's three friends were unable to muster a response to Job's self-defense.
JOB—NOTE ON 32:4 older than he. Honor of speaking first was given to those who were thought to be wiser due to their age.
JOB—NOTE ON 32:6 young. Cf v 4.
JOB—NOTE ON 32:8 breath of the Almighty. Only God the Lord gives true spiritual wisdom. See note, 4:9.
JOB—NOTE ON 32:13 God may vanquish him, not a man. Elihu warns against the pride in Job's friends. They presume that if they could not overcome Job's self-righteousness, only God could—no other person could.
JOB—NOTE ON 32:18 spirit. Here Elihu is speaking of the strong conviction within himself. In Jb, "spirit" refers to the Spirit of God only once (33:4).
JOB—NOTE ON 32:19 When wine is fermenting, it produces carbon dioxide. The gas causes pressure in the container and will cause its lid to blow if not properly vented. Elihu is compelled to speak a word to Job, as though under pressure (cf Jer 20:9).
JOB—NOTE ON ch 32 Martin Luther believed God allowed Job's suffering to try and test his faith. When we feel such trials, we, too, can be comforted knowing that God is not punishing us because of our sin, but is strengthening our faith through testing. • Lord, guide me by the answers of Your Word, and silence the opinions of those who break counsel with You. Amen.
JOB—NOTE ON Ch 33 Elihu is talking about redemption and forgiveness, in contrast to the others. Despite what Job sees and experiences in the suffering around him, Elihu is recommending that Job still trust in God. He cannot believe that Job's suffering implies divine wrath. Luth: "This is the constant course of the church at all times, namely, that promises are made and that then those who believe the promises are treated in such a way that they are compelled to wait for things that are invisible, to believe what they do not see, and to hope for what does not appear. He who does not do this is not a Christian. For Christ Himself entered into His glory only by first descending into hell. When He is about to reign, He is crucified. When He is to be glorified, He is spit on. For He must suffer first and then at length be glorified. Moreover, God does this in order to test our hearts, whether we are willing to do without the promised blessings for a time. We shall not do without them forever. This is certain. And if God did not test us and postpone His promises, we would not be able to love Him wholeheartedly. For if He immediately gave everything He promises, we would not believe but would immerse ourselves in the blessings that are at hand and forget God" (AE 5:202). Job's only hope is in the redeeming mercy of God, not in self-justifying speeches.

JOB—NOTE ON 33:1 Elihu's approach is conciliatory and more intimate in tone than the formal and more aloof style of the three friends, who did not address Job by name.

JOB—NOTE ON 33:3 Elihu is not claiming that he is righteous before God. He claims his own speech to Job is righteous because God Himself is the origin of the speech (v 12).

JOB—NOTE ON 33:4 God is the ultimate source of all life. Elihu uses terms from creation.

JOB—NOTE ON 33:6 toward God. "Over against God" is how life is lived in faith. Comparisons based on conventional definitions of morality are impossible because they come from self-justifying evasions. pinched off from a piece of clay. Elihu is claiming that he is a mere human being and living over against God, just as Job is. Elihu's human solidarity with Job is once again drawn from creation (Gn 2:7).

JOB—NOTE ON 33:10 He. God. Elihu describes the position of Job, often using Job's earlier words (9:21; 16:17; 12:4; 10:7). He summarizes Job's view that God has been unfair toward Job, arbitrarily finding "occasions against" him.

JOB—NOTE ON 33:11 feet in the stocks. Restraint assured that those who fled would trip and fall. Elihu thinks God places such close restraints that there is no escape from spiritual collapse.

JOB—NOTE ON 33:14–15 one way, and in two. Idiom meaning "in several ways." God reveals Himself in more than one way. Elihu argues that God has given a clear witness to His gracious will, and that a person is at fault who does not perceive this good will (1Tm 2:4). God certainly speaks two messages: Law and Gospel (vv 16–17). dream … vision of the night. These would occur in a deep sleep (4:13). See p 74.

JOB—NOTE ON 33:16 Clear communication of God's wrath against sin and His ultimate judgment. Through the Law, God drives us to repentance. See Ap XIIA 28–29.

JOB—NOTE ON 33:19 God warns us of our weakness so that we might cast ourselves upon His mercy alone. Luth: "We are reminded of our weakness in order that no matter how great the gifts are that we possess, we may not exalt ourselves but may remain humble and fear God. From those who do not do this He turns His face away, and trouble and perplexity follow" (AE 3:8).
JOB—NOTE ON 33:22 the pit. Death. See p 792. those. Divine messengers who bring death.
JOB—NOTE ON 33:23–24 Job (and perhaps Elihu) understands the messenger is the preincarnate Christ (19:25), who is the "one mediator between God and men" (1Tm 2:5). See p 39.
JOB—NOTE ON 33:23 one of the thousand. Elihu is speaking conditionally and may not believe in a mediator who is "one of the thousand," i.e., the number of witnesses to what is right.
JOB—NOTE ON 33:24 ransom. Atoning price to deliver from death (Ps 49:7–8).
JOB—NOTE ON 33:25 fresh with youth. Rescue of dramatic proportions, as though youth has been restored by this return from the brink of death (Ps 103:5).
JOB—NOTE ON 33:26 accepts him. God accepts people by grace because of the work of the Redeemer. restores to man his righteousness. Righteousness is a gift from God. "Those reconciled are counted as righteous and as God's children. This is not because of their own purity, but through mercy for Christ's sake, provided only that they receive this mercy through faith" (Ap IV 86).
JOB—NOTE ON 33:27 not repaid. God does not deal with humans as they deserve. He does not pay back, or we would instantly perish.
JOB—NOTE ON 33:28 redeemed my soul. Rescue from "the pit," which is death (see p 792).
JOB—NOTE ON 33:29 twice, three times. Not a limitation of divine mercy. In the speech of Elihu, the Lord repeatedly seeks the good of people.
JOB—NOTE ON 33:30 the light of life. God is the source of all life. To have the gift of life is to be rescued from the darkness (Gn 1:3).
JOB—NOTE ON 33:32 justify you. Elihu does not believe that Job will be able to respond adequately to his speeches (32:3, 13).
JOB—NOTE ON ch 33 "God puts His saints to work in various ways and often holds back the rewards of works-righteousness. He does this so that they may learn not to trust in their own righteousness and may learn to seek God's will rather than the rewards. This can be seen with Job, Christ, and other saints" (Ap V 77). Elihu argues that there is no clear correlation between our experience of suffering (or good) and the will of God. Christ is the typical example, in that the Chosen One is arrested, beaten, shamefully mocked and brutally put to death on the cross, and yet He is the very beloved treasure of His Father. There are no signs of His value in His quiet and humble life or in His willing suffering and death, yet to whom else has God said, "You are My Son, today I have begotten You" (Heb 1:5)? Only faith sees that the crucified man is the beloved Son and dearest treasure of His Father. • Lord, teach us to see our suffering and understand its meaning through the lens of the suffering of Christ, Your beloved Son. If He so suffered and could also be and remain the Beloved of God, so also may we suffer without fear that You have forfeited divine grace toward us. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 34:1–9 As young Elihu begins his second speech, he directs his first words toward Job's friends, doing so in a manner that sounds boastful and haughty, possibly detracting from the reception his message receives. In our youth, we may at times speak in a manner that is offensive to others, but as with Elihu, God can use our imperfect efforts to teach important truths.

JOB—NOTE ON 34:1 Then Elihu answered. Indication that an argument is being continued. Elihu's second speech follows, continuing until v 37.

JOB—NOTE ON 34:2 wise men. Elihu addresses the three friends, speaking ironically, for he considers himself to be wiser than they. you who know. More irony. Elihu considers himself the teacher. Because of his boastful manner, Elihu's reputation has suffered. He is, however, a young man of some wisdom, and he offers helpful counsel to Job, showing new ways to look at his suffering and stressing God's persistent love and mercy toward His people.

JOB—NOTE ON 34:3 ear tests words … palate tastes food. Ear judges between true and false, even as the mouth judges between good and bad. Elihu claims a superior ability to test words.

JOB—NOTE ON 34:4 choose … know. For his listeners' benefit, Elihu announces his intention to analyze Job's claims.

JOB—NOTE ON 34:5 For. Links v 4 to Job's claims, explaining why they must be looked into. Elihu summarizes the heart of Job's complaints. in the right. Cf 9:15, 20. Job has claimed to be innocent of any overt wrongdoing. my right. Job has claimed that his right to justice has been denied.

JOB—NOTE ON 34:6 I am counted a liar. Job also has claimed that he is considered a liar, that onlookers conclude from his dire circumstances that he cannot be innocent. my wound. Lit, "my arrow." Poetically, the instrument for wounding stands for the wound it caused. Cf 6:4; 16:12. Job's wound is deeper than his external injuries.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:7 drinks up scoffing. Elihu berates Job for his capacity to scoff commonly held beliefs, doing so as easily as one might drink water. scoffing. Job's scorn of moral truth.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:8 evildoers … wicked men? Because of Job's insistence of innocence (v 5), Elihu places him in the company of overt evildoers. A man of God does not walk in such company.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:9 he has said. Not a known quote of Job but Elihu's representation of Job's opinion. profits a man nothing. Job has lamented that nothing is to be gained by being on good terms with God. Elihu sees this as scoffing God. Cf 9:22–24, where Job states that disaster and calamity befall both the blameless and the wicked.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:10 Therefore. Introduces Elihu's opinion in contrast to Job's in v 9. men of understanding. Lit, "men of heart," the heart being the seat of intelligence in Hbr thought. Continuation of the irony in v 2. far be it. Same term as in Gn 18:25, introducing an emphatic negative statement (e.g., "God would never do such a thing!"). wrong. To Elihu's way of thinking, Job's conviction in v 9 comes close to charging God with wrongdoing (12:4–6; 24:1–12) and is nothing short of wickedness.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:11 according to the work of a man he will repay him. Elihu states his understanding of divine justice: God will pay back people according to what they have done, good for good and evil for evil. This general principle, found frequently in OT Wisdom Literature and in NT descriptions of the final judgment, is correctly understood only in light of the scriptural truths that doing evil is the cause of a person's damnation (Rm 6:23) and that doing good is the result and evidence—never the cause—of a person's salvation by grace, for Christ's sake, through faith (Eph 2:8–10; Heb 11:6).
JOB—NOTE ON 34:12 Elihu assumes the role of God's defender against the position taken by Job and summarized in v 9.

JOB—NOTE ON 34:13 Who gave Him charge. Rhetorical question anticipating the response "no one." God's power and authority are derived from Himself, and He reports to no one. Elihu supports his statement in v 12 by zealously defending God's glory.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:14–15 His spirit and His breath. Divine breath and the human spirit are related (Gn 2:7). flesh. All living things, as in 12:10 and 28:21. God demonstrates His grace every moment by granting life and breath to humankind. When He withdraws His breath, human beings return to dust (Ec 12:7). A warning to Job of the danger of challenging God—to do so is to risk one's life.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:16 hear this. Hbr is singular. Elihu speaks directly to Job, intent on correcting Job's attitude regarding God's justice. He believes his point should be obvious to anyone, belittling Job.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:17 justice govern? In ancient thought, there was no separation of power in government. Justice and governing power were ideally united in the ruler. The word for "govern" can also be translated as "bind up," as in Hos 6:1, where it speaks of bandaging wounds (cf Ps 147:2–3). God cannot be thought of as hating justice.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:18 Worthless one. Most depraved and despicable of society, the opposite of a king (except when the king governs unjustly). God holds accountable such kings and nobles. Cf Dt 13:13–14.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:19 princes … rich … poor. All people, from the wealthy upper class to the powerless, depend on God for their existence and are accountable to Him for their conduct. all the work of His hands? The reason why all are treated alike.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:20 In a moment they die. God's impartiality is shown in the way the great and small alike die, esp when they do not expect it. shaken and pass away. OT elsewhere speaks of the shaking back and forth of mountains (Ps 18:7) or the sea (Jer 5:22). Although the rich and powerful are seen to be the most stable, they are as vulnerable as the poor to sudden catastrophe. by no human hand. Idiom suggesting that death happens effortlessly, as with the flick of a finger. Death's suddenness is seen as evidence of God's involvement. The manner in which God rules the world proves He is righteous and mighty. His justice is not thwarted by the mightiest of the mighty, nor is it bent in favor of the richest of the rich. While we often view what happens to us and around us from the much smaller perspective of our own lives and times, the proper picture of God's rule is much larger. He has greater things in mind for us that diminish present circumstances.

JOB—NOTE ON 34:21 His eyes. God is able to hold people accountable because He sees every person's behavior (24:23). He sees every misstep and keeps a record of human faults. Cf Ps 1:6.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:22 gloom or deep darkness. Cf 3:7; Ps 139:11–12; Jer 23:24. God's eyes penetrate the cover of darkness sought by evildoers.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:23 go before God. Job had asked for an opportunity to face God, as in 9:32 and 24:1. God has no need for additional opportunity to examine a human. He is too exalted to be asked to give an accounting of His rule.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:24 without investigation. No further investigation is necessary, even for the mighty. God knows how they act and He responds as necessary, deposing powerful rulers and giving their positions to others.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:25 overturns. God takes away power and authority. in the night. God acts when least expected.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:26 strikes. Lit, "to clap hands" in anger (Nu 24:10; Ezk 21:17) or "to beat one's thighs" in mourning (Jer 31:19), expressions describing actions that cause shame. in a place for all to see. While the wickedness of the powerful is often clandestine, punishment of the powerful brings shame on them in the public square.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:27 turned aside. Their behavior is serious and their punishment public because their rejection was deliberate, not following or rightly regarding God's laws and teachings.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:28 cry of the poor. God sides with the poor. The oppressive manner of the evildoers arouses God's anger. In this way, evildoers effectively bring about their own punishment.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:29 When He is quiet. Elihu intends to answer Job's complaint about God's silence. God may allow affairs on earth to take their ordinary course for a time, but He also sets things right in His time. When He hides His face. At times, God seems to withdraw from a nation or an individual entirely.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:30 should not reign. Continues the thought begun in v 28. In due time, God no longer permits godless rulers to remain in power and to do harm to the people in their care. God's slowness to act does not mean that He will be unjust.

JOB—NOTE ON 34:31 will not offend any more. Elihu intends in an indirect manner to put repentant words into Job's mouth, beginning with a confession borne out of affliction.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:32 teach me. Second element of repentance, willingness to learn from God. do it no more? A third element of repentance, a resolve not to continue in sin.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:33 repayment to suit you. Job has demanded that God prove his innocence. Elihu suggests to Job that it is foolish for him to expect God to respond on such terms. you must choose, and not I. Elihu cannot do the right thing for Job. declare. Perhaps Elihu pauses here to await response from Job. Since Job does not answer, Elihu goes on.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:34 Men of understanding. Cf v 10. Elihu boldly states that anyone with any understanding will recognize the truth of what he has said versus what Job has spoken.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:35 without knowledge. Eliphaz accused Job of "windy knowledge" (15:2). without insight. Job's complaints against God and his avowal of innocence are senseless.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:36 tried to the end. Elihu gets caught up in emotion and calls down judgment on Job for his stubbornness. answers. By his silence, Job holds fast to earlier speeches, the kind of answers only an evil person would give.
JOB—NOTE ON 34:37 rebellion. Job's attitude and words have fostered unbelief among the people, adding to his offense. claps. May refer to a gesture that incites rebellion, such as the modern gesture of thumbing one's nose. See p 1276.
JOB—NOTE ON ch 34 Elihu maintains that when Job, a mere human, dictates to God how or when He must act, Job must be charged with rebellion. Questioning God's actions in our lives or world may lead to serious sin. But God is patient with us, even as He was with Job. • Gracious Lord, forgive our rebelliousness and impatience, and strengthen our faith that we may truly accept Your will for our lives. Amen.
JOB—NOTE ON 35:1 answered. Elihu's third speech follows, continuing until v 16.
JOB—NOTE ON 35:2 this. Seemingly contradictory statement and questions made by Job, which Elihu will now address. right. Word commonly used by Job in his claim to be "right, innocent, not guilty of wrongdoing." See note, v 3.

JOB—NOTE ON 35:3 How am I better off. Second point made by Job, that it apparently makes no difference to God whether one sins or does not sin. Elihu maintains that it is inconsistent to expect vindication because of innocence and at the same time maintain that God does not care how a person acts. Elihu here overreacts and fails to allow Job to express his feelings, as did the psalmist in Ps 42; 43.
JOB—NOTE ON 35:4 friends. Those who share Job's ideas, some of whom are probably present and listening to Elihu's speech. But Job is foremost on his mind, and Elihu is confident that he will be able to help him.
JOB—NOTE ON 35:5 heavens. Like Zophar in 11:7–8, Eliphaz in 22:12, and even Job in 9:8–9, and in the spirit of Ps 8:3, Elihu appeals to creation beyond the reach of human beings to support his answer that follows.
JOB—NOTE ON 35:6 accomplish against Him … do to Him? Elihu asserts that God is so far above people that there is nothing, good or bad, that they can do to affect His essential nature.
JOB—NOTE ON 35:7 give to Him … receive from your hand? While moral behavior has consequences on earth, it cannot be used to compel or persuade God.
JOB—NOTE ON 35:8 wickedness … righteousness. Elihu grants that moral behavior works to the good or ill of others and therefore has significance, but it does not affect the heavenly realm.
JOB—NOTE ON 35:9 people cry out. Job has charged that God lets oppressions go unrequited and that His silence only serves to encourage the wicked (24:1–12).
JOB—NOTE ON 35:10 none says. Elihu charges that while people like Job pray for help, they often are so turned in on themselves and their troubles that they fail fully to trust the justice and goodness of their Maker and turn to Him. gives songs in the night. Elihu argues that the cries of the people often are not properly focused into earnest petitions for God's help, which would enable them to sing even in darkest times. In OT times, and still today, God's people sustain themselves by singing psalms (cf Ps 30:4–5; 143:7–10), expressing their disappointment in a broken world, and fostering hope that God will deliver them.
JOB—NOTE ON 35:11 teaches us more. In 12:7–8, Job said that the beasts and birds could teach his friends. Here, Elihu states that there is more to be learned by turning to God Himself.

JOB—NOTE ON 35:12 they. "People" of v 9. They are "evil men" because of their failure to call upon God, who has so much help to give.
JOB—NOTE ON 35:13 does not hear an empty cry. According to Elihu, the emptiness of the cry can cause God not to answer. Cries addressed to no one are fruitless.
JOB—NOTE ON 35:14 How much less. Serious blow to Job. Elihu does not give gentle advice. If God does not hear the cries of the oppressed when they are mistakenly directed, it is even less likely that He will hear the cries of Job, who is so mistaken in his ideas and attitude.
JOB—NOTE ON 35:15 He does not take much note of transgression. Cf v 3. Job was convinced that God judges independently of people's conduct. This adds another reason why God does not hear his cries. Job's false notions number him with the "pride of evil men" in v 12.
JOB—NOTE ON 35:16 empty talk. Lit, "wind," "whiff of air." Job's many words lack substance.
JOB—NOTE ON ch 35 Elihu believes that Job has added unbelief to his sin by complaining so bitterly. In doing so, Elihu fails to consider some understandable human emotion on Job's part. Not all lamenting represents unbelief. Yet our own complaints about the conditions of our lives, though humanly understandable, can betray a weakness of faith. God may use affliction to strengthen our faith and to refocus our lives on the affliction endured by His Son for our salvation. • Gracious Lord, grant that the varying circumstances of our lives will always serve to strengthen us in faith and life. Amen.
JOB—NOTE ON 36:1 continued. Elihu's tone becomes more compassionate, believing that he still has important wisdom from God to share with whoever is listening. Elihu's fourth and final speech continues until 37:24.
JOB—NOTE ON 36:2 Bear with me. Elihu remains confident that he can convince his audience if they will be patient. on God's behalf. Elihu intends to strengthen the case for God's goodness and justice.
JOB—NOTE ON 36:3 knowledge from afar. Since the source of knowledge determines its validity, Elihu claims that he can be trusted because his knowledge comes from where God dwells (i.e., his words are inspired). ascribe righteousness. To show that someone is just or fair.
JOB—NOTE ON 36:4 one. Elihu, totally confident in his ability to communicate. perfect in knowledge. Also used in 37:16 with reference to God, but with different Hbr usage. Same Hbr word for "perfect" is used in 1:1; 1:8; and 2:3 to characterize Job. Here, Elihu claims knowledge of speech that is perfect or complete, i.e., beyond reproof or rebuttal.

JOB—NOTE ON 36:5 strength of understanding. Lit, "strength of heart." See note, 34:10. God punishes the wicked and defends the just without fail.

JOB—NOTE ON 36:6 wicked … afflicted. In response to Job's rhetorical question (21:7), Elihu asserts that God does deliver justice to the afflicted by judging the wicked and terminating their successes.

JOB—NOTE ON 36:7–9 the righteous. Those who are faithful to God in due time are exalted like kings, as in the story of Joseph (Gn 37; 39–50). they. The "righteous" from v 7 can fall victim to pride when elevated to important positions and then stray from the right way. bound in chains. Chains used for captives kept them from escaping as in Na 3:10. cords of affliction. Affliction makes those who err conscious that they are bound in sins. declares to them their work. Elevation to important positions may make them proud and arrogant.

JOB—NOTE ON 36:10 opens their ears. God makes them pay attention. to instruction. Lit, "to His warning." God continues to work with them though they have fallen into sin, causing them to accept obediently what is being taught, as in Is 50:4–5. return. Repent and turn away from evildoing. See note, 22:23. God uses affliction to cause the righteous who have sinned to return to a faithful way of life.

JOB—NOTE ON 36:11 listen. One of two possible responses to affliction. The first is to recognize God speaking through affliction, submit to His instruction, and experience a pleasant change in one's life. See note, v 12 for the second response. complete their days. They will live a full and long life. prosperity … pleasantness. From Hbr words similar in meaning: "happiness," "success," "well-being" (i.e., "the greatest happiness").

JOB—NOTE ON 36:12 perish by the sword. Second of two possible responses to affliction by the righteous who have fallen into sin. See note, v 11. If those who suffer do not obey God's instruction through affliction, they will meet with a premature end. die without knowledge. Reason for their early death. Since they have rejected God, He has withdrawn His breath (34:14), and they perish.

JOB—NOTE ON 36:13 godless in heart. Those who do not believe and trust in God (cf 8:13). cherish anger. They become obstinate and stay angry at their circumstances and at God. binds them. Describes the extent of the conditions God has brought upon them. Elihu understands that the basic spiritual need of people stems from their hardness of heart—including their refusal to yield to God, to cry out to Him in distress (Ps 107:13), or to hear His voice in suffering.

JOB—NOTE ON 36:14 cult prostitutes. Lit, "among the male prostitutes." Speaks of dying in shame. Alludes to the short lives of temple prostitutes of the Canaanite religions.

JOB—NOTE ON 36:15 Summary statement by Elihu as he teaches Job and his friends how God uses affliction and adversity to deliver the righteous when they have fallen into sin. See p 837.

JOB—NOTE ON 36:16 allured. Same verb as in 2:3, where God says that Satan "incited" Him against His servant Job. Elihu thinks there is still hope for Job. God, with tender compassion, delivers His people (Hos 2:14). out of distress. Lit, "from the jaws of distress." God is endeavoring to pull Job away from even greater sorrow. a broad place. In Hbr thought, broad, open spaces symbolized deliverance or prosperity, while cramped, narrow places symbolized distress and oppression. table was full of fatness. Elihu wants Job to believe that God intends to restore him to prosperity with a large household and a table piled high with rich food.

JOB—NOTE ON 36:17 you. Job is full of judgment, not prosperity. judgment on the wicked. Judgment rightly due to wicked people.

JOB—NOTE ON 36:18 wrath … scoffing. Job's anger could interfere with God's instruction and returning to Him. ransom. Hbr kopher, lit, "covering," "atonement," used to end trouble (Yom Kippur, "day of atonement"). Word can be used in the context of a bribe (1Sm 12:3). Elihu wants Job to return to God without resentment. See "redeem," p 843.

JOB—NOTE ON 36:19 cry for help … force of your strength? Rhetorical question. Elihu warns Job that none of his own resources will help him escape his afflictions brought about by his sin.

JOB—NOTE ON 36:20 long for the night. Job often ends his speeches by speaking of his death, which is associated with darkness (7:21; 10:18–22; 17:13–16). Elihu encourages Job not to look for escape in premature death but to learn from his suffering. vanish. Sudden, quiet departure in death.

JOB—NOTE ON 36:21 this you have chosen. Elihu is fearful that Job has already made the wrong choice by seeking to avoid his affliction rather than learning from it.

JOB—NOTE ON 36:22 God is exalted. Important part of God's teaching is the use of discipline.
JOB—NOTE ON 36:23 prescribed for Him. Rhetorical questions. No one has the right to tell God how to act, so no one can accuse Him of failing to act in the right way.
JOB—NOTE ON 36:24 Remember to extol. People are to praise God, not challenge Him. men have sung. Luth: "When sadness comes to you and threatens to gain the upper hand, then say: Come, I must play our Lord Christ a song on the organ (be it the Te Deum laudamus or the Benedictus); for Scripture teaches me that He loves to hear joyful song and stringed instruments. And strike the keys with a will, and sing out until the thoughts disappear, as David and Elisha (1Sam. 16:23; 2 Kings 3:15) did. If the devil returns and suggests cares or sad thoughts, then defend yourself with a will and say: Get out, devil, I must now sing and play to my Lord Christ" (WLS § 3105).
JOB—NOTE ON 36:25 it. God's power displayed in creation.
JOB—NOTE ON 36:26 know Him not … unsearchable. We cannot fully know God's greatness or fathom His age in human years.
JOB—NOTE ON 36:27–38:1 Although Scripture does not tell us specifically what was happening as Elihu spoke, the context suggests that there was a storm brewing and then breaking loose during this time, which culminated in the Lord's appearance in the whirlwind.
JOB—NOTE ON 36:27 draws up the drops of water. Elihu demonstrates a good understanding of the water cycle. Cf Ec 1:7.
JOB—NOTE ON 36:28 drop on mankind. "Man" (Hbr 'adam) is related to Hbr word for "earth" ('adamah). As the earth receives its rain, so also does mankind.
JOB—NOTE ON 36:29 Can anyone understand. Grammar anticipates a negative answer. pavilion? In 27:18, the same Hbr word refers to the hut of a watchman. Here, it refers to God's abode in heaven.
JOB—NOTE ON 36:30 covers the roots of the sea. Lightning's brightness reveals even the depths of the sea.
JOB—NOTE ON 36:31 by these He judges. Elihu believes the water cycle and storms are under God's control, used by Him not only to provide food in abundance but also to discipline the peoples of the earth.
JOB—NOTE ON 36:32 covers His hands with the lightning. Lit, "upon hands He covers light." God takes hold of lightning like a tool. Despite its zigzag route, lightning follows God's command. "O Thou strong and almighty God, I hear Thy voice in the clouds; I see Thy lightnings flash, and listen to the roar and noise of Thy thunder. Strong is Thine arm and great Thy might; if Thou choosest, Thou canst in the twinkling of an eye dash me and all men, together with all creatures, to the ground. But, O Lord, Lord, remember Thy tender mercies and Thy loving-kindness; for they have been ever of old. Remember not the sins of my youth nor my transgressions; according to Thy mercy remember Thou me for Thy goodness' sake. Rebuke me not in Thine anger, neither chasten me in Thy hot displeasure" (Starck, p 467).

JOB—NOTE ON 36:33 cattle also declare. Cattle seem to know when a storm is coming.

JOB—NOTE ON ch 36 Elihu counsels Job that the Lord uses affliction not just for our punishment but also for our deliverance. Allow affliction to open your ears (v 15b) to learn the Lord's purposes, and to open your mouth in praises (v 24). Praise Christ most highly, who delivers you from evil by His agony and bloody sweat. • O Lord, lay Your hands on the cross, and use that tool for my instruction and deliverance. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON Ch 37 Elihu sees storms as acts of God that display His lordship. Fear of an approaching storm can produce a wildly beating heart. Throughout this section, Elihu reveals an impressive understanding of atmospheric conditions and their effects.

JOB—NOTE ON 37:2 Keep listening. Addressed to Job and his friends. His voice. Cf 28:26; Ps 29. rumbling. In Is 31:4, the verb form of this word is used of the growling of a lion. Job has been disturbed by God's activity in his life. Elihu is telling Job that God's presence will naturally unsettle him.

JOB—NOTE ON 37:3 it. Lightning. corners. Lit, "fringes," "borders," as of a carpet. The earth is described like a carpet with four corners.

JOB—NOTE ON 37:4 After it. Elihu recognizes the cause and effect of lightning and thunder.

JOB—NOTE ON 37:5 cannot comprehend. Summary statement pertaining not only to storms but also to the following verses, which speak of God's wondrous power.

JOB—NOTE ON 37:7 seals up the hand. Human activity is affected by the weather, which can halt planting and harvest.

JOB—NOTE ON 37:9 chamber. Ancients believed various winds were stored in chambers in heaven; when God willed, He opened the doors of the appropriate chamber. the scattering winds. Winds from the north that brought the cold, driving rain.

JOB—NOTE ON 37:10 breath of God ice. Metaphor for a chilling wind. frozen fast. Words used of molten metal becoming a solid mass.
JOB—NOTE ON 37:11 loads. Corresponding noun form in Is 1:14 is translated "burden." moisture. Hbr word occurs only here. Some translators suggest it means "hail."
JOB—NOTE ON 37:12 around and around. Brings to mind cloud action in a tornado. accomplish all. Despite technological advances, people remain at the mercy of the weather, but it is not out of control. The clouds are carrying out God's commands.
JOB—NOTE ON 37:13 correction. Lit, "whip"; symbol of punishment. His land. Through the weather, God attends to the needs of His chosen people. causes it to happen. According to Elihu, rain can be violent or gentle, scarce or overabundant, but never without purpose.
JOB—NOTE ON 37:14 Hear this. Elihu does not want this teaching moment to pass for Job. stop and consider. He is confident that if Job would just pause a moment and pay attention, Job would see that his position has been foolish.
JOB—NOTE ON 37:15–20 Do you know. First of five rhetorical questions (vv 15, 16–17, 18, 20a, 20b). Of course, Job does not know how God actually commands clouds and lightning.
JOB—NOTE ON 37:16 balancings. See ESV note. Hbr word occurs only here in the OT.
JOB—NOTE ON 37:17 When the sirocco blows off the desert, life stands still, and every creature seeks shade. Clothing becomes unbearably hot.
JOB—NOTE ON 37:18 cast metal mirror? Mirrors were made of polished bronze. Ancients thought of the sky as a hard dome, a firmament, an "expanse" (see note, Gn 1:6). When the sirocco blows, the sky looks as though it has been poured out like a molten liquid, hard and unbreakable, giving no rain.
JOB—NOTE ON 37:19 Teach us. "Cause us to know." Elihu uses sarcasm, suggesting Job must have a level of enlightenment not possessed by those around him, who are speechless before such a majestic and powerful Creator. Job had called for an audience with God (31:35).
JOB—NOTE ON 37:20 I would speak? Elihu indicates that he would never assume to speak directly to God (cf Ex 20:18–19). Did a man ever wish.

Elihu's final rhetorical question. To presume to speak directly to God would be tantamount to a death wish.
JOB—NOTE ON 37:21 no one looks. The sky becomes impossible to look at when the wind first sweeps the clouds aside and the sun breaks through.
JOB—NOTE ON 37:22 Out of the north. From the same direction as the rains come. Cf Ps 48:2. Elihu prepares Job for the coming storm in which God will appear (chs 38–41). golden splendor. When sunlight plays on the clouds, the colors are majestic, reminding us of God's majesty.
JOB—NOTE ON 37:23 find. Job speaks of finding God in 23:3. Elihu states that God is beyond such reach. power; justice. These two qualities, often separated on earth, are inseparable in God (34:17). abundant righteousness. Result of power and justice in perfect combination.
JOB—NOTE ON 37:24 fear. Reverence and trust (1:1; 28:28). Elihu returns to the most important theme of wisdom (see pp 779–82).
JOB—NOTE ON ch 37 The awesome power of a storm reminds us how truly small we are. Elihu tells Job to abandon obstinacy and, with proper fear and trust, to submit to God as his Lord, thereby preparing Job for God's visit in the whirlwind (38:1). All of the days of our lives are spent in such preparation. Though we may become distracted by many things in this life, both bane and blessing, God prepares us for His visitation, when all that will matter will be our confidence in His grace through Jesus Christ, our Lord. • Gracious God, prepare me for Your appearing. Amen.
JOB—NOTE ON 38:1 the LORD. Hbr yahweh is used as in the opening chapters. By this name, God revealed Himself to Moses as the Savior and as the God who established a gracious covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (Ex 3:15). answered. Theophany. See p 39. whirlwind. Mighty tornadolike tempest threatens Job with destruction, in marked contrast to the "still small voice" that came to Elisha (1Ki 19:12). God often appeared in storms (Ex 19:16; 2Ki 2:1; Ps 18:12–14; Zec 9:14). The Lord comes to Job as Job had requested (23:3–5), answering Job's blustery and windy words (16:3). Earlier, Job stated that if the Lord came to him in a whirlwind, He would crush Job (9:17). Instead of crushing him, the Lord speaks with him as Job had hoped (23:6–7) and as Elihu had assured him (33:14–17). His confrontation is a loving, gracious response to Job's many questions. said. Instead of answering Job's specific questions, the Lord floods Job with further questions to demonstrate His creative power and continuing presence in the midst of the ambiguities of this life.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:2 darkens counsel. Job's questions, which he thought would teach the Lord, were corrupted by his ignorance of the Lord's inscrutable ways (cf Ac 2:23; Rm 11:31–33). Job did not just cloud the issue; he spoke out of ignorance. Elihu warned Job that no mortal could stand before the Lord in a legal battle (34:23). Yet the Lord graciously and caringly restrains judgment. God's theme throughout the following two speeches is that His design of creation needed no counsel or cooperation by humanity.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:3 Dress for action. See ESV note. To free the legs for running, people would gird their loins by binding their flowing garments around their waists. Now is the time for Job to "roll up his sleeves" and prepare himself for verbal combat and to talk like God—if he dares.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:4 laid the foundation. The Lord speaks of creation in terms of building a house with plans (v 5) that are known to the Architect of the universe, but not to the laborers in the building. The Lord echoes Eliphaz's sarcastic comment about Job being born "before the hills" (15:7). With sarcastic questions, the Lord shows Job how little he knows. All is under His control, as Job had acknowledged earlier (12:13). understanding. Comes only from the One who is Wisdom Himself, the Word who was with God and who was God (Jn 1:1) at creation.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:7 morning stars sang together. Chem: "He adds this regard to the angels" (LTh 1:165). Angels sang festively at creation. They rejoiced again at re-creation, which began at the incarnation of Jesus and culminated in Christ's resurrection and ascension. There was celestial joy at the beginning of time, and there will be joy at the end of the world (Rv 19:1–3). The preeminent Morning Star is Jesus Himself (Rv 22:16). Yet Job was unaware of these heavenly hosts. sons of God. See note, 1:6.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:8 when it burst out from the womb. Personifies creation of the seas as a birthing event. The infant waters gush into the swaddling cloths of the clouds (v 9). Many in the ancient Near East thought of water as an evil element, but it is a gracious gift from God, always under His caring dominion and delimitation (vv 10–11). Babylonian mythology described the creation as the destruction of a monster, Tiamat, whose body was used to construct the world.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:13 skirts of the earth. Edges of daylight—dusk and dawn—are portrayed as folds of a tablecloth or blanket, under which evil activities occur. shaken. As the sun rises, the wicked are shaken out of the dark folds of their sinful practices and exposed by the bright light of God's justice (cf Jn 3:19–21).

JOB—NOTE ON 38:14 Once a seal is pressed into the clay, the image is clear. See note, Jer 32:10. So also once the sunlight begins to brighten the eastern skies, the beautiful contours of creation take on greater clarity and details. Earth's colors become visible in the Lord's sunlight, as the texture of a garment becomes clear in daylight.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:15 uplifted arm. Although the wicked literally raise their arms in violence, the Lord hampers them in His own ways. In the very midst of their evil acts, God has the power to intervene mercifully, as in the case of Abimelech (Gn 20:6) and Abraham (Gn 22:12).

JOB—NOTE ON 38:16 The ocean's depth continues to be explored today. Only God knows the full, extravagant beauty and oddities of nature.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:17 The Lord is refuting Job's earlier assertions about Sheol (10:21–22; 14:13–14; 17:13–16; see p 792). Earlier, Job and Zophar had spoken about death and the place of the dead as though they understood it (7:9; 11:8; 26:5–6; cf 33:18), but now such audacity is silenced. death … deep darkness? Hbr maweth … tsalmaweth; wordplay. Deepest depths are easily within the Lord's providential care.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:19 dwelling. At creation, the Lord set the limits of light and darkness by separating them into their own "areas" (Gn 1:4). In this verse, they are personified as residents of two distinct regions, completely unknown to Job and unable to be controlled by him (v 20).

JOB—NOTE ON 38:21 Sarcasm. A ridiculous suggestion to silence Job's impudence. Job was not very old in terms of the age of the rest of creation, perhaps 70, but he spoke as though he knew things about the very act of creation itself. There is no biblical evidence that Job or others existed as spirits before birth.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:22–25 Rain is a blessing (Dt 28:12). From the Lord's celestial arsenal, natural elements become weapons of mass destruction. On several occasions, the Lord used the weather to help His people, particularly in times of battle (cf Ex 9:18–26; Jsh 10:11; Is 30:30–32; Jer 10:13; Ezk 13:11, 13; 38:22). So the Lord continues providentially to supervise every aspect of the world and individual lives.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:28–30 The Lord implies that He alone is the cause of the natural world. father. The Lord not only creates but also cares for His creation, just as a good earthly father begets, nurtures, and cares for his family.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:29 Rather than being the work of mythical (and pagan) deities, dew, frost, rain, and snow are products of the Lord's continuing preservation of the world.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:31 Pleiades … Orion? Well known constellations. Pleiades is sometimes popularly called "the Seven Sisters." The stars of constellations were thought to be held together by chains. The ancients used constellations as celestial timekeepers and guides, marking the arrival of the fall and winter seasons (9:9). Already by 4000 BC, the Pleiades announced the vernal equinox. Today, they are still recognized for their seasonal significance.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:32 Mazzaroth. Difficult Hbr term; transliterated here. Refers to a star or a constellation (Mazzaloth in 2Ki 23:5) that appeared only at certain times of the year as part of a zodiacal sign. Bear. Lit, "the lion." Constellation Ursa Major, "Big Bear," contains the Big Dipper, the stars of which are often called "children." These star clusters are all under God's providential dominion.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:33 rule. Constellations' patterns of appearances have always provided guidance for human beings, particularly for ancient astronomers. According to the Lord's own divine creation (Gn 1:14), they were created "to rule the day and … rule the night" (Gn 1:16).

JOB—NOTE ON 38:37 waterskins of the heavens. Hides of animals were used as containers for liquids, particularly for water and wine. Although God sends rain on all people (Mt 5:45), the rain does not always water the same area. The Lord is precise in ordering where rain lands and what it waters.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:39 lion. The Lord now turns to the kingdom of wild animals. Asian lions, smaller and more aggressive than African lions, once roamed throughout southeastern Europe, the Near East, North Africa, and into India. The Lord cared for them, providing instinctual direction (v 40) and unique abilities.

JOB—NOTE ON 38:41 Young ravens are similarly cared for by the Lord. The psalmist reminds us, "The eyes of all look to You, and … You satisfy the desire of every living thing" (Ps 145:15–16).

JOB—NOTE ON 39:1–4 mountain goats. Perhaps ibex, which live on extremely steep cliffs even today in Israel. Known to give birth speedily and without complications. A newborn kid is able to walk within a day and to run and jump within 48 hours. The Lord has established the orderly times for all these nearly miraculous events, in the complete ignorance of human beings.

JOB—NOTE ON 39:6 salt land. Asiatic wild donkeys can live where vegetation and water are very scarce and where no other large animal could be supported. Researchers have observed that the wild donkey can live without water longer than any other animal in the horse family. These donkeys were unperturbed by the fear of being domesticated (v 7). They lived in relative safety on the open salt flats near the Salt Sea, where they could see humans from a great distance.

JOB—NOTE ON 39:9 wild ox. Hbr uncertain. Suggests an enormous beast with great horns, probably a kind of bison. Word is sometimes translated "unicorn" (KJV), but with no justification; word implies the animal had two large horns. Ancient rulers hunted wild buffalo; their extraordinary strength was proverbial (Nu 24:8). Undomesticated animals in this section of God's speech are still cared for by the Lord Himself.

JOB—NOTE ON 39:13–18 This description of the ostrich provides a comic shift.

JOB—NOTE ON 39:13 plumage of love? See ESV note. love? Hbr chasidah ; can be translated as "gracious"; i.e., the ostrich's wings are graceful, yet lack an actual functional purpose for flight.

JOB—NOTE ON 39:16 deals cruelly. Ostriches often clumsily trample on their own nests and break their own eggs. This gave rise to the folk saying "cruel as ostriches." Yet the ostrich is capable of great speed when running and is respected for that fact (v 18). Not a bird for flight, the ostrich still is able to laugh at horses (v 18).

JOB—NOTE ON 39:19 horse. Only domesticated animal in this list. Horses, employed chiefly in warfare, were imported from the steppes of Central Asia, first appearing in Mesopotamia and Egypt around 2000 BC. Horses were valued for their speed, strength, and aggressiveness. Thus, in Job's time, horses were seen as awesome wonder-animals.

JOB—NOTE ON 39:21 Battle imagery. Mighty chargers often brought terror to warriors who were used to fighting on foot. Spirited steeds of beauty, strength, and speed were nearly fearless; they reflected a superior confidence in their own Creator.

JOB—NOTE ON 39:24 swallows the ground. Distances were quickly diminished as the horses sped across the open plains.
JOB—NOTE ON 39:26 hawk. Large bird of prey, perhaps a falcon (Lv 11:16 and Dt 14:15 are the only other places where the word is used). These birds follow the thermal updrafts as they effortlessly soar above the earth. They picture humanity's desire for freedom in their awesome ability for unfettered flight.
JOB—NOTE ON 39:27 eagle. Another bird of prey, perhaps a vulture. Eagles always locate their nests in the tops of trees or in craggy overhangs in rocky heights. In Ex 19:4, God says He carried Israel as on "eagles' wings." So Job has been carried by the Lord, despite his ignorance of God's preserving presence (2:6)
JOB—NOTE ON 38:1–40:2 In the whirlwind, Job comes face-to-face with the reality of his humanity. Although Job accused the Lord of being unfair, God responded with a mild, yet firm counteraccusation. The Lord reminded Job that He not only created the world but also continues to care for it. We, too, question God and wonder whether He is actually in charge of the daily events of our lives. Coming face-to-face with our Creator brings us to our knees. Yet the fearsome face of the Creator also smiles on Job and shows him mercy. • Thank You, Lord, for answering us face-to-face in the person of Your Son. His life, death, and resurrection give us answers to our deepest questions. Your love is awesome. Amen.
JOB—NOTE ON 40:4–5 In the face of God's overwhelming questions, Job remains silent. I am … small. He is humbled by the Lord's questions, just as he was made small by the afflictions of his life. Job must stop himself from even responding. Earlier (6:24), he had agreed to be silent. Job seems ready to drop his case, but the Lord is not done with him.
JOB—NOTE ON 40:3–5 Like Job, we, too, may become silent before the Lord, but it is often to plan our further defense or to pout in rebellious self-righteousness. How much we miss by trying to justify our own lives! God continues to wait for us and loves us with a never-ending love, which is ours in Christ. With the hymn writer, we can break our silence and sing, • "When darkness veils His lovely face, I rest on His unchanging grace; In ev'ry high and stormy gale My anchor holds within the veil. On Christ, the solid rock, I stand; All other ground is sinking sand." Amen. (LSB 575:2) JOB—NOTE ON 40:6–41:34 Second round of questions. Again illustrates Job's lack of understanding and thoughtless inquisitiveness. By describing the most incomprehensible land and sea monsters to Job, God demonstrates His power over all things. In fact, the words about Behemoth and Leviathan hint at God's conflict with and supremacy over Satan—the most dangerous "beast" in creation.

JOB—NOTE ON 40:6 whirlwind. See note, 38:1.

JOB—NOTE ON 40:7 Dress for action. See note, 38:3.

JOB—NOTE ON 40:9 thunder. See note, 37:2.

JOB—NOTE ON 40:10–14 glory and splendor. The Lord's brilliant appearance fills the heavens (Ps 96:6; 104:1; 111:3). If Job would be God, he should also demonstrate divine ability to execute justice on the wicked (vv 11–12). Then he would be able to save himself (v 14). Otherwise, the Lord is graciously present, ruling everything justly, and willing and able to help Job in his times of greatest need.

JOB—NOTE ON 40:15 Behemoth. From common Hbr word for "animal" or "beast." Unique plural form used with singular verbs, "the Beast." Scholars often suggest that the animal being described is a hippopotamus, because at this point in the speech the term depicts a rather docile, gargantuan herbivore. Some see in the description an antediluvian sauropodlike dinosaur. Because of the plural form, some scholars understand the term as typological, representing the worst form of bestial behaviors and not a real animal at all. This unusual creature teaches Job how the Lord's mysterious ways are beyond human understanding.

JOB—NOTE ON 40:18 iron. One of the most abundant elements on earth that was known among the earliest civilizations (28:2; Gn 4:22). See note, 20:24. Mention of iron and bronze gives the sense that Behemoth is "hard as nails."

JOB—NOTE ON 40:19 first. Hbr expression, "the best," "the chief." Does not mean that Behemoth was the first creature that God created. sword! Even the Lord arms Himself before approaching.

JOB—NOTE ON 40:21 lotus … lies. Not the water-lily lotus, but a treelike thorny plant (Zizyphus lotus) that grew in swampy regions of Israel as well as in Africa. Under such large and lush vegetation, many animals would rest. Behemoth takes its place as the monarch of the marshland.

JOB—NOTE ON 40:22 lotus trees. Cf v 21. willows. Trees growing near banks of rivers and in watery places where Behemoth would rest secure.

JOB—NOTE ON 40:23 Jordan. The Lord connects the Israelite readers to this text by referring to a Jordanlike stream. Hippos (see note, v 15) at one time lived in eastern Mediterranean rivers (e.g., the Orantes River). Job probably lived farther east.

JOB—NOTE ON 41:1 Leviathan. Hbr term; scholars debate its meaning. Many suggest it is a crocodile; others suggest it is a whale or dinosaurlike creature. The description goes beyond a literal explanation to depict something completely and monstrously evil, a force opposed to the Lord Himself. Ultimately, Leviathan represents the devil, the serpent (Gn 3) whom God defeats (cf Is 27:1). Though God may play with Leviathan (Ps 104:26), in the end, He crushes Leviathan's heads (Ps 74:14; in light of Gn 3:15). fishhook. In ancient times, bronze and iron hooks were used not only to catch fish but also to control wild animals and subdue prisoners (hooks were placed in their mouth [v 2] and attached to a lead rope). press down his tongue. Leviathan cannot be muzzled by using a cord bridling his mouth.

JOB—NOTE ON 41:3 Sarcasm. This animal will not plead his case by asking for leniency or mercy, as Job had been doing. Leviathan will remain defiant.

JOB—NOTE ON 41:5 bird. Sparrows and doves were considered suitable pets for children to hold and care for. Leviathan cannot be domesticated. The imagery is ludicrous.

JOB—NOTE ON 41:9 laid low. Bowing down in obeisance was a common custom for showing respect. Leviathan's opponents' knees buckle, and they lose hope. People cringe before Leviathan, since they have no ability to resist its horrible presence. Leviathan stands at the end of Job as a symbol of Satan's power and opposition to the Almighty. (See Jesus' words in Jn 12:31; 14:30; 16:11.)

JOB—NOTE ON 41:14 doors of his face? Leviathan's mouth is like a set of doors. They cannot be pried open or clamped shut (vv 1–2). Terror fills his mouth!

JOB—NOTE ON 41:18–21 sneezings flash forth light. Description of Leviathan is beyond that of any known animal. Some interpreters have suggested that this verse speaks of a dragon, while others see this merely as a way of developing poetic imagery in v 18. eyelids of the dawn. The boundary of the horizon. See note, 26:10.

JOB—NOTE ON 41:24 Leviathan cannot be killed; its heart cannot be pierced. millstone. Commonly made from black basalt, a fine-grained volcanic stone.

JOB—NOTE ON 41:27 iron. See note, 20:24.
JOB—NOTE ON 41:29 No weapon was capable of destroying this unique animal. Whether attacked by sword or spear, dart or javelin (v 26), this monster's skin is impenetrable. Stones and clubs are just as ineffective.
JOB—NOTE ON 41:30 potsherds. Smaller pieces of broken pottery may look similar to the scales of a reptile. sledge. Used for breaking grain away from stalks. Usually made up of two boards with a large rock placed on top to weigh it down, then dragged over the grain on the threshing floor to separate the kernels of grain from the stalks. As Leviathan moves over the floor of a body of water, it smoothes out the mud. Leviathan slithers on its belly (cf Gn 3:14).
JOB—NOTE ON 41:31 the sea. Estuarine (or saltwater) crocodiles are known to swim miles out into the ocean. When a crocodile vocalizes, the vibrations make the water bubble. Other large beasts produce similar results. The sea becomes like a bubbling apothecary's cauldron.
JOB—NOTE ON 41:34 sons of. In Semitic usage, such family expressions are used for describing other relations. A "brotherhood" of proud beings is meant. pride. In 28:8, same term is used for "proud beasts." Cf Is 14:13–14 for example of a sinfully proud ruler.
JOB—NOTE ON 40:6–41:34 Job finally recognizes his real insignificance in comparison with Leviathan's might and defiance. Today, many view defiance as a virtue, but reliance on the Lord is the only hope we, like Job, have. Though we can tame or cage most any animal today, the beasts of war, disease, and turmoil constantly break free and trample us. They overpower us and certainly remove our self-reliance. Yet God's own greatness and love for us overcomes them all. Despite the seemingly insurmountable nature of evils around us, God is not only in control, He is also working for us in Christ. • "Though devils all the world should fill, All eager to devour us, We tremble not, we fear no ill; They shall not overpow'r us. This world's prince may still Scowl fierce as he will, He can harm us none. He's judged; the deed is done; One little word can fell him." Amen. (LSB 656:3)
JOB—NOTE ON 42:2 purpose. Term can refer to God's goodwill (Jer 23:20) or people's evil will or schemes (Ps 139:20; Pr 12:2).
JOB—NOTE ON 42:3–4 Although Job does not receive a direct answer to his questions, he admits the foolishness of his past comments by citing God's speech. He is sorry for sitting in judgment of his Creator's justice. He admits that he questioned the Lord out of ignorance of the Lord's might and mercy. He thought God was unfair according to human standards, when, in fact, the Lord always acts according to His own mysterious purposes (Rm 11:33). Job breaks his silence and speaks from his heart.

JOB—NOTE ON 42:5 hearing of the ear. Job trusted in the Lord, but his knowledge of the Lord had been like hearsay. He had lived according to the word he had learned. Now, however, through the whirlwind, he has seen directly the Lord's might and mercy. See p 39.

JOB—NOTE ON 42:6 repent. Hbr nacham, "to regret," "be sorry." Job recognizes himself as being a mere man (Gn 3:19). See note, 1:20. Dust is a biblical symbol for mortality (4:19). An ancient practice of repentance was to cover one's head with ashes (2:8, 12; Is 58:5; Jnh 3:8). Dust and ashes have strong connotations of self-negation and worthlessness, yet they identify Job with the patriarchs as a humble suppliant. Repentance is never solely a human act, but something that happens to the individual when confronted by God. A change of heart occurs. This change worked by God's Holy Spirit through the Word affects Job's attitude as well as his life. He regrets his imprudent indictments of God's injustice.

JOB—NOTE ON 42:1–6 Job represents all of humanity's failure in trying to avoid the wages of sin (Rm 5:12). Finally, we must admit that we seldom can comprehend God's ways, because sin clouds our understanding. We need not put on sackcloth and ashes; God wants only "a contrite heart" (Ps 51:17). What Job could not do to save himself, God did by sending "His only Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have eternal life" (Jn 3:16). • Lord, we thank You for Jesus and for taking control of our lives by Your divine Spirit. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 42:7 Temanite. See note, 2:11. against you. Eliphaz, the leader of Job's three friends, is addressed by God. The three friends had sinned against the Lord. Job's friends portrayed the Lord as a cold, heartless being who punished sinners in proportion to their sins but did not readily have mercy. They measured the Lord according to human standards of justice, thereby misleading Job into questioning divine justice. as My servant Job has. Job is now vindicated. Although no absolution is spoken, the Lord's action provides the clear forgiveness desired by Job. Job depended on a personal mediator—the Lord. Job's relationship is once again restored to what it was at the beginning (1:8; 2:3). The Lord has accepted Job's recantation and gives Job the title "My servant." This suggests a close relationship of mutual friendship and high honor as referenced in the beginning of the story (1:8). Other noteworthy "servants" include Moses, Joshua, and Isaiah's Suffering Servant (see p 1178).

JOB—NOTE ON 42:8 seven bulls and seven rams. Equivalent to several years' wages for an individual person, or what was required of nobility (Nu 23:1; 1Ch 15:25–26). a burnt offering … pray … prayer. To appease the Lord's righteous anger. See pp 170–71. Job, in remarkable irony, becomes the mediator for his friends. He is appointed the priestly task of praying for them. In other words, Job returns to the duties of his spiritual leadership (1:5), acting as the patriarchs had prior to the establishment of a formal priesthood. Job can approach the Lord directly, knowing He will always do what is right and proper.

JOB—NOTE ON 42:9 prayer. Job's prayers for reconciliation are heard and answered, so that Job's friends are forgiven (Jas 5:16; 1Jn 5:16). Job serves as priest and mediator, anticipating Jesus' role for us (1Tm 2:5–6). Job's experience of suffering becomes a greater model later in the OT (Is 53:12) and ultimately in the NT (Lk 23:34; Heb 7:24–28), when Jesus approaches the Lord's throne and makes intercession for all sinners (Rm 8:34). The irony of Job praying for his friends is enhanced by the fact that they argued that God was angry with Job. The reality is that their comments so displeased God that only Job can be their mediator! Even their offerings were insufficient.

JOB—NOTE ON 42:7–9 Here we see Job praying for his friends, who, though they acted friendly, were actually his spiritual enemies. Job did not accuse his friends and ask for judgment, but followed the Lord's gracious lead and acted as their mediator before the Lord. Jesus, who suffered for us, also pleads for us daily. He is our priestly intercessor and our personal Savior from sin, death, and the devil. • Lord, teach us the friendly arts of intercession and patience, for You have shown such friendship to us. Amen.

JOB—NOTE ON 42:10 prayed. Job's restoration is an act of grace, not a reward for faithfulness. His mediating actions again show that he is no longer the accuser of the Lord, but one who in repentance and recognition receives double from a gracious God. As vv 11–15 show, the Lord provides for those who experience the cross. twice as much. Job's blessings exceed what he had originally possessed. Yet that was not his motivation for service. Only the Lord's vindication avails for him, and the Lord is seen as a life-giving healer.

JOB—NOTE ON 42:11 Then came to him. During his time of affliction, Job had complained that he was ostracized (19:13–19). Now the family returns, and Job becomes a host once again. Hospitality was one of the supreme characteristics of nobility in biblical times. Job has been blessed with sufficient wealth that he can be generous to all who have needs or desires. In biblical times, eating together showed that a relationship was strong or restored (Dt 14:26b). We do not know why Job's family was not at his side throughout the earlier chapters, but the Lord does not criticize them for failing to visit Job. each of them gave. Job's family and friends brought great riches to him, providing literally "silver pieces" (unique term used only here, in Gn 33:19, and in Jsh 24:32, suggesting this was an early form of money and worth much) as well as gold rings—either finger rings or earrings (Gn 35:4; Jgs 8:24). Job's riches come from God, although God uses Job's friends and family as divine instruments of providence. God has apparently blessed them also, so that they can be generous to Job.

JOB—NOTE ON 42:12 Job's possessions increase twofold as a sign of God's gracious beneficence. All that he had lost (1:3) in terms of sheep, camels, yokes of oxen, and female donkeys are returned to him with interest (Ex 22:4).

JOB—NOTE ON 42:13 Job's restoration is composed not only of material possessions. Children are given to him again. Because children are priceless gifts from God, they cannot be replaced like cattle or property on a two-for-one basis. (The LXX doubles the number of children.) Because his original sons and daughters were in heaven, it can be understood that he did have his family double in size. Chrys: "He suffered afflictions, you say. True. But those afflictions were the occasion of great good. His substance was doubled, his reward increased, his righteousness enlarged, his crown was splendid, his prize glorious. Both his spiritual and temporal blessings were augmented. He lost his children, but he received, not these restored, but others in their room, and those too he had safe for the Resurrection. Had they been restored, the number would have been diminished, but now having given others in their stead, He will present them also at the Resurrection" (*NPNF*1 13:504).

JOB—NOTE ON 42:14 Each name is symbolic of something beautiful. Their Hbr names, transliterated in the text, can be translated as "Turtle Dove," "Cassia" (Cinnamon), and "(Flask of) Antimony" (an ebony-colored powder used as eye shadow in ancient times).

JOB—NOTE ON 42:15 an inheritance among their brothers. According to Mosaic Law, a man's inheritance was divided among the sons in the family (Nu 27:1–8; 36). However, Job is so blessed with property and goods, and his daughters are so pleasing, that he divides his goods among both sons and daughters. Job's experience of the Lord's fairness, justice, and equality in life is demonstrated in his own family dealings. Curiously, Job's wife is not mentioned here, although because the children are identified, we can assume that she remained at his side as he remained faithful to her (31:9–10).

JOB—NOTE ON 42:16 140 years. See note, 15:10. As in his other blessings, Job's life is lengthened as well, considering that the normal life span after the flood was closer to 70 years (Ps 90:10). If he was 70 at the time of his affliction, he would have lived longer than Terah (205), Abraham (175), Isaac (180), and Jacob (147). The length of Job's life points to his living during the patriarchal era of Israel. He also is blessed to see his children's children's children, a true blessing (Ps 128:6; Pr 17:6).

JOB—NOTE ON 42:17 Job died. No mention of an afterlife is given here. Certainly, his death was like that of patriarchs and faithful servants where the epitaph "full of days" was used: Abraham (Gn 25:8), Isaac (Gn 35:29), David (1Ch 29:28), and the priest Jehoiada (2Ch 24:15). In the certain confidence of one who believes God, the author does not need to reaffirm Job's resurrection faith; he will see God (19:25–27). One may wonder why there is no mention of Satan at the end of the story. It is likely that chs 40–41, which describe the Lord's power over Behemoth and Leviathan, also signify His power over Satan. See notes for those chapters. Ephr: "[Death boasted to Satan,] You went down to contend with Job, and he conquered you and came up; but I, after he had conquered you, then conquered him" (*NPNF*2 13:207). Yet death loses its boast before Job's Redeemer! Jerome: "[Job] hopes for a resurrection; no, rather he knew and saw that Christ, his Redeemer, was alive, and at the Last Day would rise again from the earth. The Lord had not yet died, and the athlete of the Church saw his Redeemer rising from the grave" (*NPNF*2 6:439).

JOB—NOTE ON 42:10–17 We often take our blessings in life for granted: our families, our friends, even our possessions. If they would be taken away, we would undoubtedly be filled with remorse and regret for not valuing them as we ought. Even when everything is wonderful, we can forget about God's gracious providence and gift of justification. The Book of Job returns us to the roots of our existence—our faithful Lord. In the midst of suffering comes the bright light of victory in our Redeemer—Christ. Lutheran hymn writer Paul Gerhardt penned Joblike hymn stanzas during the difficult Thirty Years' War, a century after the Reformation: • "Why should cross and trial grieve me? Christ is near With His cheer; Never will He leave me. Who can rob me of the heaven That God's Son For me won When His life was given? When life's troubles rise to meet me, Though their weight May be great, They will not defeat me. God, my loving Savior, sends them; He who knows All my woes Knows how best to end them." Amen. (LSB 756:1–2)

BOOK ONE

The Way of the Righteous and the Wicked

1 [1]†Blessed is the man[1]

who walks not in the counsel of the
wicked,
nor stands in the way of sinners,
nor sits in the seat of scoffers;

[2]† but his delight is in the law[2] of the LORD,
and on his law he meditates day and night.

[3]† He is like a tree planted by streams of water that yields its fruit in its season,
and its leaf does not wither.
In all that he does, he prospers.

[4]† The wicked are not so,
but are like chaff that the wind drives
away.

[5]† Therefore the wicked will not stand in the judgment,
nor sinners in the congregation of the
righteous;

[6]† for the LORD knows the way of the righteous,
but the way of the wicked will perish.

The Reign of the Lord's Anointed

2 [1]Why do the nations rage[3]

and the peoples plot in vain?

[2]† The kings of the earth set themselves,
and the rulers take counsel together,
against the Lord and against his Anointed,
saying,
[3]† "Let us burst their bonds apart
and cast away their cords from us."

[4]† He who sits in the heavens laughs;
the Lord holds them in derision.
[5] Then he will speak to them in his wrath,
and terrify them in his fury, saying,
[6]† "As for me, I have set my King
on Zion, my holy hill."

[7]† I will tell of the decree:
The Lord said to me, "You are my Son;
today I have begotten you.
[8] Ask of me, and I will make the nations
your heritage,
and the ends of the earth your possession.
[9]† You shall break[1] them with a rod of iron and dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel."

[10]† Now therefore, O kings, be wise;
be warned, O rulers of the earth.

[11]† Serve the Lord with fear,
and rejoice with trembling.
[12]† Kiss the Son,
lest he be angry, and you perish in the way,
for his wrath is quickly kindled.
Blessed are all who take refuge in him.

Save Me, O My God

3 A Psalm of David, when he fled from Absalom his son.

1 O Lord, how many are my foes!
Many are rising against me;
2† many are saying of my soul,
there is no salvation for him in God. Selah[2]

3† But you, O Lord, are a shield about me,
my glory, and the lifter of my head.
4† I cried aloud to the Lord,
and he answered me from his holy hill.
Selah

5† I lay down and slept;
I woke again, for the Lord sustained me.
6 I will not be afraid of many thousands of people who have set themselves against me all around.

7† Arise, O Lord!
Save me, O my God!
For you strike all my enemies on the cheek;
you break the teeth of the wicked.

8 Salvation belongs to the Lord;
your blessing be on your people! Selah

Answer Me When I Call

4 To the choirmaster: with stringed instruments. A Psalm of David.

1† Answer me when I call, O God of
my righteousness!
You have given me relief when I was in
distress.
Be gracious to me and hear my prayer!

2† O men,[1] how long shall my honor be turned into shame?
How long will you love vain words and seek after lies? Selah
3† But know that the Lord has set apart the godly for himself;
the Lord hears when I call to him.

4† Be angry,[2] and do not sin;
ponder in your own hearts on your beds,
and be silent. Selah
5† Offer right sacrifices,
and put your trust in the Lord.

6† There are many who say, "Who will show us
some good?
Lift up the light of your face upon us,
O Lord!"
7† You have put more joy in my heart than they have when their grain and wine abound.

8 In peace I will both lie down and sleep;
for you alone, O LORD, make me dwell in safety.

Lead Me in Your Righteousness

5 To the choirmaster: for the flutes. A Psalm of David.

1 Give ear to my words, O Lord;
consider my groaning.
2† Give attention to the sound of my cry,
my King and my God,
for to you do I pray.
3† O Lord, in the morning you hear my voice;
in the morning I prepare a sacrifice for you[3]
and watch.

4 For you are not a God who delights in
wickedness;
evil may not dwell with you.
5† The boastful shall not stand before your eyes;
you hate all evildoers.
6 You destroy those who speak lies;
the Lord abhors the bloodthirsty
and deceitful man.

7† But I, through the abundance of your steadfast
love,
will enter your house.
I will bow down toward your holy temple
in the fear of you.
8† Lead me, O Lord, in your righteousness
because of my enemies;
make your way straight before me.

9† For there is no truth in their mouth;
their inmost self is destruction;
their throat is an open grave;
they flatter with their tongue.
10 Make them bear their guilt, O God;
let them fall by their own counsels;
because of the abundance of their transgressions cast them out,
for they have rebelled against you.

11† But let all who take refuge in you rejoice;
let them ever sing for joy,
and spread your protection over them,
that those who love your name may exult
in you.
12† For you bless the righteous, O Lord;
you cover him with favor as with a shield.

O Lord, Deliver My Life

6 To the choirmaster: with stringed instruments; according to The Sheminith.[1]
A Psalm of David.

1 O Lord, rebuke me not in your anger,
nor discipline me in your wrath.
2† Be gracious to me, O Lord, for I am languishing;
heal me, O Lord, for my bones are
troubled.
3 My soul also is greatly troubled.
But you, O Lord—how long?

4† Turn, O Lord, deliver my life;
save me for the sake of your steadfast love.
5† For in death there is no remembrance
of you;
in Sheol who will give you praise?

6 I am weary with my moaning;
every night I flood my bed with tears;
I drench my couch with my weeping.
7 My eye wastes away because of grief;
it grows weak because of all my foes.

8† Depart from me, all you workers of evil,
for the Lord has heard the sound of my weeping.
9 The Lord has heard my plea;
the Lord accepts my prayer.
10† All my enemies shall be ashamed and greatly

troubled;
they shall turn back and be put to shame
in a moment.

In You Do I Take Refuge

7 A Shiggaion[2] of David, which he sang to the Lord concerning the words of Cush, a Benjaminite.

1 O Lord my God, in you do I take refuge;
save me from all my pursuers and
deliver me,
2† lest like a lion they tear my soul apart,
rending it in pieces, with none to deliver.

3† O Lord my God, if I have done this,
if there is wrong in my hands,
4 if I have repaid my friend[1] with evil
or plundered my enemy without cause, 5† let the enemy pursue my soul and overtake it,
and let him trample my life to the ground
and lay my glory in the dust. Selah

6† Arise, O Lord, in your anger;
lift yourself up against the fury of my
enemies;
awake for me; you have appointed a
judgment.
7† Let the assembly of the peoples be gathered about you;
over it return on high.

8† The Lord judges the peoples;
judge me, O Lord, according to
my righteousness
and according to the integrity that is in me.

9† Oh, let the evil of the wicked come to an end,
and may you establish the righteous—
you who test the minds and hearts,[2]
O righteous God!
10 My shield is with God,
who saves the upright in heart.
11† God is a righteous judge,
and a God who feels indignation every day.

12† If a man[3] does not repent, God[4] will whet his
sword;
he has bent and readied his bow;
13† he has prepared for him his deadly weapons,
making his arrows fiery shafts.
14† Behold, the wicked man conceives evil
and is pregnant with mischief
and gives birth to lies.
15 He makes a pit, digging it out,
and falls into the hole that he has made.
16 His mischief returns upon his own head,
and on his own skull his violence descends.

17 I will give to the Lord the thanks due to his righteousness,
and I will sing praise to the name of the Lord, the Most High.

How Majestic Is Your Name

8 To the choirmaster: according to The Gittith.[5] A Psalm of David.

1† O Lord, our Lord,
how majestic is your name in all the earth!
You have set your glory above the heavens.
2† Out of the mouth of babies and infants,
you have established strength because of your foes,
to still the enemy and the avenger.

3 When I look at your heavens, the work of your fingers,
the moon and the stars, which you have set in place,
4† what is man that you are mindful of him,
and the son of man that you care for him?

5† Yet you have made him a little lower than the heavenly beings[1]
and crowned him with glory and honor.
6† You have given him dominion over the works of your hands;
you have put all things under his feet,
7 all sheep and oxen,
and also the beasts of the field,
8† the birds of the heavens, and the fish of the sea,
whatever passes along the paths of the seas.

9 O LORD, our Lord,
how majestic is your name in all the
earth!

I Will Recount Your Wonderful Deeds

9 [2] To the choirmaster: according to Muth-labben.[3] A Psalm of David.

1 I will give thanks to the Lord with my whole heart;
I will recount all of your wonderful
deeds.
2 I will be glad and exult in you;
I will sing praise to your name, O Most High.

3† When my enemies turn back, they stumble and perish before[4] your
presence.
4† For you have maintained my just cause;
you have sat on the throne,
giving righteous judgment.

5† You have rebuked the nations; you have made the wicked perish;
you have blotted out their name forever
and ever.
6 The enemy came to an end in everlasting ruins;
their cities you rooted out;
the very memory of them has perished.

7† But the Lord sits enthroned forever;
he has established his throne for justice,
8 and he judges the world with righteousness;
he judges the peoples with uprightness.

9† The LORD is a stronghold for the oppressed,
a stronghold in times of trouble.
10† And those who know your name put their trust in you,
for you, O LORD, have not forsaken those who seek you.

11† Sing praises to the LORD, who sits enthroned in Zion!
Tell among the peoples his deeds!
12† For he who avenges blood is mindful of them;
he does not forget the cry of the afflicted.

13† Be gracious to me, O LORD!
See my affliction from those who hate me,
O you who lift me up from the gates of death,
14† that I may recount all your praises,
that in the gates of the daughter of Zion
I may rejoice in your salvation.

15 The nations have sunk in the pit that they made;
in the net that they hid, their own foot has been caught.
16† The LORD has made himself known; he has executed judgment;
the wicked are snared in the work of their own hands. Higgaion.[1] Selah

17† The wicked shall return to Sheol,
all the nations that forget God.

18 For the needy shall not always be forgotten,
and the hope of the poor shall not perish
forever.

19 Arise, O Lord! Let not man prevail;
let the nations be judged before you!
20 Put them in fear, O Lord!
Let the nations know that they are but men! Selah

Why Do You Hide Yourself?

10 [1]†Why, O Lord, do you stand far away?
Why do you hide yourself in times of trouble?

[2]†† In arrogance the wicked hotly pursue the poor;
let them be caught in the schemes that they have devised.
[3]† For the wicked boasts of the desires of his soul,
and the one greedy for gain curses[2] and renounces the Lord.
[4]† In the pride of his face[3] the wicked does not seek him;[4]
all his thoughts are, "There is no God."
[5]† His ways prosper at all times;
your judgments are on high, out of his
sight;
as for all his foes, he puffs at them.
[6] He says in his heart, "I shall not be moved;
throughout all generations I shall not meet adversity."
[7]† His mouth is filled with cursing and deceit
and oppression;
under his tongue are mischief and iniquity.
[8]† He sits in ambush in the villages;
in hiding places he murders the innocent.
His eyes stealthily watch for the helpless; [9]† he lurks in ambush like a lion in his thicket;
he lurks that he may seize the poor;
he seizes the poor when he draws him into his net.
[10] The helpless are crushed, sink down,

and fall by his might.
11 He says in his heart, “God has forgotten,
he has hidden his face, he will never see it.”

12 Arise, O Lord; O God, lift up your hand;
forget not the afflicted.
13 Why does the wicked renounce God and say in his heart, “You will not call to account”?
14† But you do see, for you note mischief and vexation,
that you may take it into your hands;
to you the helpless commits himself;
you have been the helper of the
fatherless.
15 Break the arm of the wicked and evildoer;
call his wickedness to account till you find none.

16† The Lord is king forever and ever;
the nations perish from his land.
17† O Lord, you hear the desire of the afflicted;
you will strengthen their heart; you will incline your ear
18† to do justice to the fatherless and the oppressed,
so that man who is of the earth may strike terror no more.

The Lord Is in His Holy Temple

11 [1] †To the choirmaster. Of David.

In the Lord I take refuge;
how can you say to my soul,
"Flee like a bird to your mountain,

[2] for behold, the wicked bend the bow;
they have fitted their arrow to the string
to shoot in the dark at the upright in heart; [3] † if the foundations are destroyed,
what can the righteous do?"[1]

[4] † The Lord is in his holy temple;
the Lord's throne is in heaven;
his eyes see, his eyelids test the children of
man.
[5] † The Lord tests the righteous,
but his soul hates the wicked and the one who loves violence.
[6] † Let him rain coals on the wicked;
fire and sulfur and a scorching wind shall be the portion of their cup.
[7] For the Lord is righteous;
he loves righteous deeds;
the upright shall behold his face.

The Faithful Have Vanished

12 To the choirmaster: according to The Sheminith.[1] A Psalm of David.

1† Save, O Lord, for the godly one is gone;
for the faithful have vanished from among
the children of man.
2† Everyone utters lies to his neighbor;
with flattering lips and a double heart they speak.

3† May the Lord cut off all flattering lips,
the tongue that makes great boasts,
4† those who say, "With our tongue we will prevail,
our lips are with us; who is master
over us?"

5† "Because the poor are plundered, because the needy groan,
I will now arise," says the Lord;
"I will place him in the safety for which he longs."
6† The words of the Lord are pure words, like silver refined in a furnace on the ground,
purified seven times.

7† You, O Lord, will keep them;
you will guard us[2] from this generation
forever.
8 On every side the wicked prowl,

as vileness is exalted among the children of man.

How Long, O Lord?

13 [1]† To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

How long, O Lord? Will you forget me
forever?
How long will you hide your face from me?

[2]† How long must I take counsel in my soul
and have sorrow in my heart all the day?
How long shall my enemy be exalted over me?

[3]† Consider and answer me, O Lord my God;
light up my eyes, lest I sleep the sleep of
death,
[4]† lest my enemy say, "I have prevailed over
him,"
lest my foes rejoice because I am shaken.

[5]† But I have trusted in your steadfast love;
my heart shall rejoice in your salvation.
[6]† I will sing to the Lord,
because he has dealt bountifully with me.

The Fool Says, There Is No God

14 [1]† To the choirmaster. Of David.

The fool says in his heart, “There is no
God.”
They are corrupt, they do abominable
deeds,
there is none who does good.

[2]† The Lord looks down from heaven on
the children of man,
to see if there are any who understand,[1]
who seek after God.
[3]† They have all turned aside; together they have become corrupt;
there is none who does good,
not even one.

[4]† Have they no knowledge, all the evildoers
who eat up my people as they eat bread
and do not call upon the Lord?

[5]† There they are in great terror,
for God is with the generation of the
righteous.
[6] You would shame the plans of the poor,
but[2] the Lord is his refuge.

[7]† Oh, that salvation for Israel would come out
of Zion!
When the Lord restores the fortunes of his

people,
let Jacob rejoice, let Israel be glad.

Who Shall Dwell on Your Holy Hill?

15 [1]† A Psalm of David.

O Lord, who shall sojourn in your tent?
Who shall dwell on your holy hill?

[2]† He who walks blamelessly and does what is right and speaks truth in his heart;
[3]† who does not slander with his tongue
and does no evil to his neighbor,
nor takes up a reproach against his friend;
[4]† in whose eyes a vile person is despised,
but who honors those who fear the Lord;
who swears to his own hurt and does not change;
[5]† who does not put out his money at interest
and does not take a bribe against the innocent.
He who does these things shall never be moved.

You Will Not Abandon My Soul

16

1 †A Miktam[1] of David.

Preserve me, O God, for in you
I take refuge.

2 † I say to the Lord, “You are my Lord;
I have no good apart from you.”

3 † As for the saints in the land, they are the excellent ones,
in whom is all my delight.[2]
4 † The sorrows of those who run after[3] another god shall multiply;
their drink offerings of blood I will not pour
out
or take their names on my lips.

5 † The Lord is my chosen portion and my cup;
you hold my lot.
6 † The lines have fallen for me in pleasant places;
indeed, I have a beautiful inheritance.

7 † I bless the Lord who gives me counsel;
in the night also my heart instructs me.[4] 8 † I have set the Lord always before me;
because he is at my right hand, I shall not be shaken.

9 † Therefore my heart is glad, and my whole being[5] rejoices;
my flesh also dwells secure.
10 † For you will not abandon my soul to Sheol, or let your holy one see corruption.[6] 11 † You make known to me the path of life;
in your presence there is fullness of joy;
at your right hand are pleasures forevermore.

In the Shadow of Your Wings

17 [1]† A Prayer of David.
Hear a just cause, O Lord; attend to my cry!
Give ear to my prayer from lips free of deceit!

[2] From your presence let my vindication come!
Let your eyes behold the right!

[3]† You have tried my heart, you have visited me by night,
you have tested me, and you will find
nothing;
I have purposed that my mouth will not transgress.
[4]† With regard to the works of man, by the word of your lips
I have avoided the ways of the violent.
[5] My steps have held fast to your paths;
my feet have not slipped.

[6]† I call upon you, for you will answer me,
O God;
incline your ear to me; hear my words.
[7]† Wondrously show[1] your steadfast love,
O Savior of those who seek refuge
from their adversaries at your right hand.
[8]† Keep me as the apple of your eye;
hide me in the shadow of your wings, [9] from the wicked who do me violence,
my deadly enemies who surround me.

10 They close their hearts to pity;
with their mouths they speak arrogantly.
11 They have now surrounded our steps;
they set their eyes to cast us to the ground.
12 He is like a lion eager to tear,
as a young lion lurking in ambush.

13 Arise, O Lord! Confront him, subdue him!
Deliver my soul from the wicked by your sword, 14 from men by your hand, O Lord,
from men of the world whose portion is in this life.[2]
You fill their womb with treasure;[3]
they are satisfied with children,
and they leave their abundance to their infants.

15 As for me, I shall behold your face in righteousness;
when I awake, I shall be satisfied with your likeness.

The Lord Is My Rock and My Fortress

18 To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David, the servant of the Lord, who addressed the words of this song to the Lord on the day when the Lord rescued him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul. He said:

1 I love you, O Lord, my strength.
2† The Lord is my rock and my fortress and my deliverer,
my God, my rock, in whom I take refuge,
my shield, and the horn of my salvation,
my stronghold.
3† I call upon the Lord, who is worthy to be praised,
and I am saved from my enemies.

4† The cords of death encompassed me;
the torrents of destruction assailed me;[1] 5† the cords of Sheol entangled me;
the snares of death confronted me.

6† In my distress I called upon the Lord;
to my God I cried for help.
From his temple he heard my voice,
and my cry to him reached his ears.

7†† Then the earth reeled and rocked;
the foundations also of the mountains
trembled
and quaked, because he was angry.
8 Smoke went up from his nostrils,[2]

and devouring fire from his mouth;
glowing coals flamed forth from him.
9† He bowed the heavens and came down;
thick darkness was under his feet.
10† He rode on a cherub and flew;
he came swiftly on the wings of the wind.
11† He made darkness his covering, his canopy
around him,
thick clouds dark with water.
12 Out of the brightness before him hailstones and coals of fire broke through his clouds.

13 The Lord also thundered in the heavens,
and the Most High uttered his voice,
hailstones and coals of fire.
14 And he sent out his arrows and scattered
them;
he flashed forth lightnings and routed them.
15† Then the channels of the sea were seen,
and the foundations of the world were laid bare
at your rebuke, O Lord,
at the blast of the breath of your nostrils.

16† He sent from on high, he took me;
he drew me out of many waters.
17† He rescued me from my strong enemy
and from those who hated me,
for they were too mighty for me.
18 They confronted me in the day of my
calamity,
but the Lord was my support.

19† He brought me out into a broad place;
he rescued me, because he delighted in me.

20† The Lord dealt with me according to my
righteousness;
according to the cleanness of my hands he rewarded me.
21† For I have kept the ways of the Lord,
and have not wickedly departed from my
God.
22 For all his rules[1] were before me,
and his statutes I did not put away from me.
23 I was blameless before him,
and I kept myself from my guilt.
24 So the Lord has rewarded me according to
my righteousness,
according to the cleanness of my hands in his sight.

25†† With the merciful you show yourself
merciful;
with the blameless man you show yourself
blameless;
26 with the purified you show yourself pure;
and with the crooked you make yourself
seem tortuous.
27 For you save a humble people,
but the haughty eyes you bring down.
28† For it is you who light my lamp;
the Lord my God lightens my darkness.
29† For by you I can run against a troop,
and by my God I can leap over a wall.
30† This God—his way is perfect;[2]
the word of the Lord proves true;

he is a shield for all those who take refuge
in him.

31† For who is God, but the Lord?
And who is a rock, except our God?—
32† the God who equipped me with strength and made my way blameless.
33† He made my feet like the feet of a deer
and set me secure on the heights.
34† He trains my hands for war,
so that my arms can bend a bow of bronze.
35† You have given me the shield of your salvation,
and your right hand supported me,
and your gentleness made me great.
36† You gave a wide place for my steps under
me,
and my feet did not slip.
37† I pursued my enemies and overtook them,
and did not turn back till they were
consumed.
38 I thrust them through, so that they were not able to rise;
they fell under my feet.
39 For you equipped me with strength for the battle;
you made those who rise against me sink
under me.
40 You made my enemies turn their backs
to me,[3]
and those who hated me I destroyed.
41 They cried for help, but there was none to save;
they cried to the Lord, but he did not answer them.

42 I beat them fine as dust before the wind;
I cast them out like the mire of the streets.

43† You delivered me from strife with the people;
you made me the head of the nations;
people whom I had not known served me.
44† As soon as they heard of me they obeyed me;
foreigners came cringing to me.
45 Foreigners lost heart
and came trembling out of their fortresses.

46† The LORD lives, and blessed be my rock,
and exalted be the God of my salvation—47† the God who gave me vengeance
and subdued peoples under me, 48† who delivered me from my enemies;
yes, you exalted me above those who rose
against me;
you rescued me from the man of violence.

49† For this I will praise you, O LORD, among the
nations,
and sing to your name.
50† Great salvation he brings to his king,
and shows steadfast love to his anointed,
to David and his offspring forever.

The Law of the Lord Is Perfect

19 [1]†To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

The heavens declare the glory of God,
and the sky above[1] proclaims his handiwork.

[2]† Day to day pours out speech,
and night to night reveals knowledge.
[3]† There is no speech, nor are there words,
whose voice is not heard.
[4]† Their voice[2] goes out through all the
earth,
and their words to the end of the world.
In them he has set a tent for the sun,
[5] which comes out like a bridegroom leaving his chamber,
and, like a strong man, runs its course with
joy.
[6] Its rising is from the end of the heavens,
and its circuit to the end of them,
and there is nothing hidden from its heat.

[7]†† The law of the Lord is perfect,[3]
reviving the soul;
the testimony of the Lord is sure,
making wise the simple;
[8] the precepts of the Lord are right,
rejoicing the heart;
the commandment of the Lord is pure,
enlightening the eyes;
[9] the fear of the Lord is clean,
enduring forever;

the rules[4] of the Lord are true,
and righteous altogether.
10 More to be desired are they than gold,
even much fine gold;
sweeter also than honey
and drippings of the honeycomb.
11 Moreover, by them is your servant
warned;
in keeping them there is great reward.

12 Who can discern his errors?
Declare me innocent from hidden faults.
13 Keep back your servant also
from presumptuous sins;
let them not have dominion over me!
Then I shall be blameless,
and innocent of great transgression.

14 Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart
be acceptable in your sight,
O Lord, my rock and my redeemer.

Trust in the Name of the Lord Our God

20 [1]†† To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

May the Lord answer you in the day of
trouble!
May the name of the God of Jacob protect
you!

[2]† May he send you help from the sanctuary
and give you support from Zion!
[3]† May he remember all your offerings
and regard with favor your burnt sacrifices!
Selah

[4]† May he grant you your heart's desire and fulfill all your plans!
[5]† May we shout for joy over your salvation,
and in the name of our God set up
our banners!
May the Lord fulfill all your petitions!

[6]† Now I know that the Lord saves his anointed;
he will answer him from his holy heaven
with the saving might of his right hand.
[7]† Some trust in chariots and some in horses,
but we trust in the name of the Lord our
God.
[8]† They collapse and fall,
but we rise and stand upright.

9† O LORD, save the king!
May he answer us when we call.

The King Rejoices in the Lord's Strength

21 [1]† To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

O Lord, in your strength the king rejoices,
and in your salvation how greatly he exults!

[2]† You have given him his heart's desire and have not withheld the request of his lips. Selah

[3]† For you meet him with rich blessings;
you set a crown of fine gold upon his head.

[4]† He asked life of you; you gave it to him,
length of days forever and ever.

[5]† His glory is great through your salvation;
splendor and majesty you bestow on him.

[6]† For you make him most blessed forever;[1]
you make him glad with the joy of your presence.

[7]† For the king trusts in the Lord,
and through the steadfast love of the Most High he shall not be moved.

[8]† Your hand will find out all your enemies;
your right hand will find out those who hate
you.

[9]† You will make them as a blazing oven
when you appear.
The Lord will swallow them up in his wrath,
and fire will consume them.

[10]† You will destroy their descendants from the
earth,
and their offspring from among the children of

man.
11 Though they plan evil against you, though they devise mischief, they will not succeed.
12 For you will put them to flight;
you will aim at their faces with your bows.

13† Be exalted, O LORD, in your strength!
We will sing and praise your power.

Why Have You Forsaken Me?

22 To the choirmaster: according to The Doe of the Dawn. A Psalm of David.

1 † My God, my God, why have you
forsaken me?
Why are you so far from saving me, from the words of my groaning?
2 O my God, I cry by day, but you do not
answer,
and by night, but I find no rest.
3 † Yet you are holy,
enthroned on the praises[1] of Israel.
4 † In you our fathers trusted;
they trusted, and you delivered them.
5 To you they cried and were rescued;
in you they trusted and were not put
to shame.

6 † But I am a worm and not a man, scorned by mankind and despised by the
people.
7 † All who see me mock me;
they make mouths at me; they wag their
heads;
8 † “He trusts in the Lord; let him deliver him;
let him rescue him, for he delights in him!”

9 † Yet you are he who took me from the womb;
you made me trust you at my mother’s breasts.
10 † On you was I cast from my birth, and from my mother's womb you have been my God.

11 Be not far from me,
for trouble is near,
and there is none to help.

12† Many bulls encompass me;
strong bulls of Bashan surround me;
13 they open wide their mouths at me,
like a ravening and roaring lion.

14† I am poured out like water,
and all my bones are out of joint;
my heart is like wax;
it is melted within my breast;
15† my strength is dried up like a potsherd,
and my tongue sticks to my jaws;
you lay me in the dust of death.

16† For dogs encompass me;
a company of evildoers encircles me;
they have pierced my hands and feet[2]— 17† I can count all my bones—
they stare and gloat over me;
18† they divide my garments among them,
and for my clothing they cast lots.

19†† But you, O Lord, do not be far off!
O you my help, come quickly to my aid!
20 Deliver my soul from the sword, my precious life from the power of the dog!
21† Save me from the mouth of the lion!

You have rescued[3] me from the horns of the wild oxen!

22† I will tell of your name to my brothers;
in the midst of the congregation I will praise
you:
23† You who fear the Lord, praise him!
All you offspring of Jacob, glorify him,
and stand in awe of him, all you offspring of Israel!
24† For he has not despised or abhorred
the affliction of the afflicted,
and he has not hidden his face from him,
but has heard, when he cried to him.

25† From you comes my praise in the great congregation;
my vows I will perform before those who fear him.
26† The afflicted[1] shall eat and be satisfied;
those who seek him shall praise the Lord!
May your hearts live forever!

27† All the ends of the earth shall remember and turn to the Lord,
and all the families of the nations
shall worship before you.
28 For kingship belongs to the Lord,
and he rules over the nations.

29† All the prosperous of the earth eat and worship;
before him shall bow all who go down to the dust,

even the one who could not keep himself
alive.
30 Posterity shall serve him;
it shall be told of the Lord to the coming generation;
31 they shall come and proclaim his righteousness to a people yet unborn,
that he has done it.

The Lord Is My Shepherd

23 [1]† A Psalm of David.

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

[2]† He makes me lie down in green pastures.
He leads me beside still waters.[2]
[3]† He restores my soul.
He leads me in paths of righteousness[3]
for his name's sake.

[4]† Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death,[4]
I will fear no evil,
for you are with me;
your rod and your staff,
they comfort me.

[5]† You prepare a table before me
in the presence of my enemies;
you anoint my head with oil;
my cup overflows.
[6]† Surely[1] goodness and mercy[2] shall follow me
all the days of my life,
and I shall dwell[3] in the house of the Lord
forever.[4]

The King of Glory

24 [1]† A Psalm of David.
The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof,[5]
the world and those who dwell therein,

[2]† for he has founded it upon the seas
and established it upon the rivers.

[3]† Who shall ascend the hill of the Lord?
And who shall stand in his holy place?
[4]† He who has clean hands and a pure heart, who does not lift up his soul to what is false
and does not swear deceitfully.
[5]† He will receive blessing from the Lord and righteousness from the God of his
salvation.
[6]† Such is the generation of those who seek
him,
who seek the face of the God of Jacob.[6]
Selah

[7]†† Lift up your heads, O gates!
And be lifted up, O ancient doors,
that the King of glory may come in.
[8] Who is this King of glory?
The Lord, strong and mighty,
the Lord, mighty in battle!
[9] Lift up your heads, O gates!
And lift them up, O ancient doors,
that the King of glory may come in.

[10] † Who is this King of glory?
The LORD of hosts,
he is the King of glory! Selah

Teach Me Your Paths

25 [1]† [1] Of David.

To you, O Lord, I lift up my soul.

2 O my God, in you I trust;
let me not be put to shame;
let not my enemies exult over me.
3† Indeed, none who wait for you shall be put
to shame;
they shall be ashamed who are wantonly treacherous.

4† Make me to know your ways, O Lord;
teach me your paths.
5 Lead me in your truth and teach me,
for you are the God of my salvation;
for you I wait all the day long.

6† Remember your mercy, O Lord, and your steadfast love,
for they have been from of old.
7† Remember not the sins of my youth or my transgressions;
according to your steadfast love remember
me,
for the sake of your goodness, O Lord!

8† Good and upright is the Lord;
therefore he instructs sinners in the way.
9 He leads the humble in what is right,

and teaches the humble his way.
10† All the paths of the Lord are steadfast love and faithfulness,
for those who keep his covenant and his testimonies.

11† For your name's sake, O Lord, pardon my guilt, for it is great.
12 Who is the man who fears the Lord?
Him will he instruct in the way that he should choose.
13† His soul shall abide in well-being,
and his offspring shall inherit the land.
14† The friendship[2] of the Lord is for those who
fear him,
and he makes known to them his covenant.
15† My eyes are ever toward the Lord,
for he will pluck my feet out of the net.

16 Turn to me and be gracious to me,
for I am lonely and afflicted.
17 The troubles of my heart are enlarged;
bring me out of my distresses.
18† Consider my affliction and my trouble,
and forgive all my sins.

19 Consider how many are my foes,
and with what violent hatred they hate me.
20 Oh, guard my soul, and deliver me!
Let me not be put to shame, for I take refuge in you.

[21] † May integrity and uprightness preserve me,
for I wait for you.

[22] † Redeem Israel, O God, out of all his troubles.

I Will Bless the Lord

26

1 † Of David.

Vindicate me, O Lord,
for I have walked in my integrity,
and I have trusted in the Lord without wavering.

2 † Prove me, O Lord, and try me;
test my heart and my mind.[1] 3 For your steadfast love is before my eyes,
and I walk in your faithfulness.

4 I do not sit with men of falsehood,
nor do I consort with hypocrites.
5 † I hate the assembly of evildoers,
and I will not sit with the wicked.

6 † I wash my hands in innocence
and go around your altar, O Lord, 7 † proclaiming thanksgiving aloud,
and telling all your wondrous deeds.

8 † O Lord, I love the habitation of your house
and the place where your glory dwells.
9 Do not sweep my soul away with sinners,
nor my life with bloodthirsty men, 10 in whose hands are evil devices,
and whose right hands are full of bribes.
11 But as for me, I shall walk in my integrity;
redeem me, and be gracious to me.

12 † My foot stands on level ground;
in the great assembly I will bless the
LORD.

The Lord Is My Light and My Salvation

27 [1]† Of David.

The Lord is my light and my
salvation;
whom shall I fear?
The Lord is the stronghold[2] of my life;
of whom shall I be afraid?

[2]† When evildoers assail me
to eat up my flesh,
my adversaries and foes,
it is they who stumble and fall.

[3]† Though an army encamp against me,
my heart shall not fear;
though war arise against me,
yet[3] I will be confident.

[4]† One thing have I asked of the Lord,
that will I seek after:
that I may dwell in the house of the Lord
all the days of my life,
to gaze upon the beauty of the Lord
and to inquire[1] in his temple.

[5]† For he will hide me in his shelter
in the day of trouble;
he will conceal me under the cover of his tent;
he will lift me high upon a rock.

6† And now my head shall be lifted up above my enemies all around me,
and I will offer in his tent
sacrifices with shouts of joy;
I will sing and make melody to the Lord.

7 Hear, O Lord, when I cry aloud;
be gracious to me and answer me!
8† You have said, “Seek[2] my face.”
My heart says to you,
“Your face, Lord, do I seek.”[3]
9 Hide not your face from me.
Turn not your servant away in anger,
O you who have been my help.
Cast me not off; forsake me not,
O God of my salvation!
10† For my father and my mother have
forsaken me,
but the Lord will take me in.

11 Teach me your way, O Lord,
and lead me on a level path
because of my enemies.
12† Give me not up to the will of my adversaries;
for false witnesses have risen against me,
and they breathe out violence.
13† I believe[4] that I shall look upon the goodness
of the Lord
in the land of the living!
14† Wait for the Lord;
be strong, and let your heart take courage;
wait for the Lord!

The Lord Is My Strength and My Shield

28 [1]†Of David.

To you, O Lord, I call;
my rock, be not deaf to me,
lest, if you be silent to me,
I become like those who go down to the pit.

[2]† Hear the voice of my pleas for mercy,
when I cry to you for help,
when I lift up my hands
toward your most holy sanctuary.[5]

[3]† Do not drag me off with the wicked,
with the workers of evil,
who speak peace with their neighbors
while evil is in their hearts.
[4] Give to them according to their work
and according to the evil of their deeds;
give to them according to the work of their
hands;
render them their due reward.
[5]† Because they do not regard the works of the Lord
or the work of his hands,
he will tear them down and build them up no
more.
[6] Blessed be the Lord!
For he has heard the voice of my pleas for
mercy.
[7]† The Lord is my strength and my shield;
in him my heart trusts, and I am helped;

my heart exults,
and with my song I give thanks to him.

8 † The Lord is the strength of his people;[1]
he is the saving refuge of his anointed.
9 † Oh, save your people and bless your heritage!
Be their shepherd and carry them forever.

Ascribe to the Lord Glory

29 [1]A Psalm of David.

Ascribe to the Lord, O heavenly beings,[2]
ascribe to the Lord glory and strength.

[2]† Ascribe to the Lord the glory due his name;
worship the Lord in the splendor of holiness.[3]

[3]†† The voice of the Lord is over the waters;
the God of glory thunders,
the Lord, over many waters.
[4] The voice of the Lord is powerful;
the voice of the Lord is full of majesty.

[5]† The voice of the Lord breaks the cedars;
the Lord breaks the cedars of Lebanon.
[6]† He makes Lebanon to skip like a calf,
and Sirion like a young wild ox.

[7]† The voice of the Lord flashes forth flames of fire.
[8]† The voice of the Lord shakes the wilderness;
the Lord shakes the wilderness of Kadesh.

[9]† The voice of the Lord makes the deer give birth[4]
and strips the forests bare,
and in his temple all cry, “Glory!”

10 † The Lord sits enthroned over the flood;
the Lord sits enthroned as king forever.
11 May the Lord give strength to his people!
May the Lord bless[5] his people with peace!

Joy Comes with the Morning

30 A Psalm of David. A song at the dedication of the temple.

1 † I will extol you, O Lord, for you have drawn me up
and have not let my foes rejoice over me.
2 † O Lord my God, I cried to you for help,
and you have healed me.
3 † O Lord, you have brought up my soul
from Sheol;
you restored me to life from among those who go down to the pit.[1]

4 † Sing praises to the Lord, O you his saints,
and give thanks to his holy name.[2]
5 † For his anger is but for a moment,
and his favor is for a lifetime.[3]
Weeping may tarry for the night,
but joy comes with the morning.

6 † As for me, I said in my prosperity,
"I shall never be moved."
7 † By your favor, O Lord,
you made my mountain stand strong;
you hid your face;
I was dismayed.

8 To you, O Lord, I cry,
and to the Lord I plead for mercy:
9 † "What profit is there in my death,[4]
if I go down to the pit?[5]

Will the dust praise you?
Will it tell of your faithfulness?
10 † Hear, O Lord, and be merciful to me!
O Lord, be my helper!”

11 † You have turned for me my mourning into dancing;
you have loosed my sackcloth
and clothed me with gladness,
12 † that my glory may sing your praise and not be silent.
O Lord my God, I will give thanks to you forever!

Into Your Hand I Commit My Spirit

31 [1]† To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

In you, O Lord, do I take refuge;
let me never be put to shame;
in your righteousness deliver me!

[2]† Incline your ear to me;
rescue me speedily!
Be a rock of refuge for me,
a strong fortress to save me!

[3]† For you are my rock and my fortress;
and for your name's sake you lead
me and guide me;
[4]† you take me out of the net they have hidden for me,
for you are my refuge.
[5]† Into your hand I commit my spirit;
you have redeemed me, O Lord, faithful
God.

[6]† I hate[1] those who pay regard to worthless idols,
but I trust in the Lord.
[7]† I will rejoice and be glad in your steadfast
love,
because you have seen my affliction;
you have known the distress of my soul,
[8]† and you have not delivered me into the hand of the enemy;
you have set my feet in a broad place.

9† Be gracious to me, O Lord, for I am in
distress;
my eye is wasted from grief;
my soul and my body also.
10† For my life is spent with sorrow,
and my years with sighing;
my strength fails because of my iniquity,
and my bones waste away.

11 Because of all my adversaries I have become a reproach,
especially to my neighbors,
and an object of dread to my acquaintances;
those who see me in the street flee from me.
12† I have been forgotten like one who is dead;
I have become like a broken vessel.
13† For I hear the whispering of many—terror on every side!—
as they scheme together against me,
as they plot to take my life.

14 But I trust in you, O Lord;
I say, “You are my God.”
15† My times are in your hand;
rescue me from the hand of my enemies and
from my persecutors!
16† Make your face shine on your servant;
save me in your steadfast love!
17† O Lord, let me not be put to shame,
for I call upon you;
let the wicked be put to shame;
let them go silently to Sheol.
18† Let the lying lips be mute, which speak insolently against the

righteous
in pride and contempt.

19 Oh, how abundant is your goodness,
which you have stored up for those who fear
you
and worked for those who take refuge in
you,
in the sight of the children of mankind!
20† In the cover of your presence you hide them
from the plots of men;
you store them in your shelter
from the strife of tongues.

21† Blessed be the LORD,
for he has wondrously shown his steadfast love to me
when I was in a besieged city.
22† I had said in my alarm,[2]
"I am cut off from your sight."
But you heard the voice of my pleas for mercy
when I cried to you for help.
23†† Love the LORD, all you his saints!
The LORD preserves the faithful but abundantly repays the one who acts in pride.
24† Be strong, and let your heart take courage,
all you who wait for the LORD!

Blessed Are the Forgiven

32 [1]† A Maskil[1] of David.

Blessed is the one whose transgression is forgiven,
whose sin is covered.

[2]† Blessed is the man against whom the Lord counts no iniquity,
and in whose spirit there is no deceit.

[3]†† For when I kept silent, my bones wasted
away
through my groaning all day long.
[4]† For day and night your hand was heavy
upon me;
my strength was dried up[2] as by the heat of summer. Selah
[5]† I acknowledged my sin to you, and I did not cover my iniquity;
I said, "I will confess my transgressions to the Lord,"
and you forgave the iniquity of my sin. Selah

[6]† Therefore let everyone who is godly offer prayer to you at a time when you may be found;
surely in the rush of great waters,
they shall not reach him.
[7]† You are a hiding place for me;
you preserve me from trouble;
you surround me with shouts of deliverance. Selah

[8] † I will instruct you and teach you in the way
you should go;
I will counsel you with my eye upon you.
[9] † Be not like a horse or a mule, without
understanding,
which must be curbed with bit and bridle,
or it will not stay near you.

[10] † Many are the sorrows of the wicked,
but steadfast love surrounds the one who trusts in the Lord.
[11] † Be glad in the Lord, and rejoice, O righteous,
and shout for joy, all you upright in heart!

The Steadfast Love of the Lord

33 [1] † Shout for joy in the Lord, O you righteous! Praise befits the upright.

[2] † Give thanks to the Lord with the lyre;
make melody to him with the harp of ten strings!
[3] † Sing to him a new song;
play skillfully on the strings, with loud shouts.

[4] † For the word of the Lord is upright,
and all his work is done in faithfulness.
[5] † He loves righteousness and justice;
the earth is full of the steadfast love of the Lord.

[6] † By the word of the Lord the heavens were made,
and by the breath of his mouth all their host.
[7] † He gathers the waters of the sea as a heap;
he puts the deeps in storehouses.

[8] † Let all the earth fear the Lord;
let all the inhabitants of the world stand in awe of him!
[9] † For he spoke, and it came to be;
he commanded, and it stood firm.

10† The Lord brings the counsel of the nations to nothing;
he frustrates the plans of the peoples.
11† The counsel of the Lord stands forever,
the plans of his heart to all generations.
12† Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord,
the people whom he has chosen as his
heritage!

13† The Lord looks down from heaven;
he sees all the children of man;
14 from where he sits enthroned he looks out
on all the inhabitants of the earth, 15† he who fashions the hearts of them all and observes all their deeds.
16 The king is not saved by his great army;
a warrior is not delivered by his great strength.
17† The war horse is a false hope for salvation,
and by its great might it cannot rescue.

18† Behold, the eye of the Lord is on those who
fear him,
on those who hope in his steadfast love, 19† that he may deliver their soul from death
and keep them alive in famine.

20†† Our soul waits for the Lord;
he is our help and our shield.
21† For our heart is glad in him,
because we trust in his holy name.
22† Let your steadfast love, O Lord, be upon us,
even as we hope in you.

Taste and See That the Lord Is Good

34 [1] Of David, when he changed his behavior before Abimelech, so that he drove him out, and he went away.

1† I will bless the Lord at all times;
his praise shall continually be in my mouth.
2† My soul makes its boast in the Lord;
let the humble hear and be glad.
3† Oh, magnify the Lord with me,
and let us exalt his name together!

4† I sought the Lord, and he answered me
and delivered me from all my fears.
5† Those who look to him are radiant,
and their faces shall never be ashamed.
6† This poor man cried, and the Lord heard
him
and saved him out of all his troubles.
7† The angel of the Lord encamps around those who fear him, and delivers
them.

8†† Oh, taste and see that the Lord is good!
Blessed is the man who takes refuge in
him!
9† Oh, fear the Lord, you his saints,
for those who fear him have no lack!
10† The young lions suffer want and hunger;
but those who seek the Lord lack no good thing.

11† Come, O children, listen to me;
I will teach you the fear of the Lord.
12† What man is there who desires life and loves many days, that he may see good?
13† Keep your tongue from evil
and your lips from speaking deceit.
14† Turn away from evil and do good;
seek peace and pursue it.

15† The eyes of the Lord are toward the
righteous
and his ears toward their cry.
16† The face of the Lord is against those who do evil,
to cut off the memory of them from the
earth.
17† When the righteous cry for help, the Lord hears
and delivers them out of all their troubles.
18† The Lord is near to the brokenhearted and saves the crushed in spirit.

19† Many are the afflictions of the righteous,
but the Lord delivers him out of them all.
20† He keeps all his bones;
not one of them is broken.
21† Affliction will slay the wicked,
and those who hate the righteous will be condemned.
22† The Lord redeems the life of his servants;
none of those who take refuge in him will be condemned.

Great Is the Lord

35 [1]†Of David.

Contend, O Lord, with those who contend
with me;
fight against those who fight against me!

[2]† Take hold of shield and buckler
and rise for my help!
[3]† Draw the spear and javelin[1]
against my pursuers!
Say to my soul,
“ I am your salvation!”

[4]†† Let them be put to shame and dishonor who seek after my life!
Let them be turned back and disappointed
who devise evil against me!
[5]† Let them be like chaff before the wind,
with the angel of the Lord driving them
away!
[6]† Let their way be dark and slippery,
with the angel of the Lord pursuing them!

[7]† For without cause they hid their net for me;
without cause they dug a pit for my life.[1] [8] Let destruction come upon him when he does not know it!
And let the net that he hid ensnare him;
let him fall into it—to his destruction!

9 Then my soul will rejoice in the Lord,
exulting in his salvation.
10† All my bones shall say,
"O Lord, who is like you,
delivering the poor
from him who is too strong for him,
the poor and needy from him who robs
him?"

11† Malicious[2] witnesses rise up;
they ask me of things that I do not know.
12† They repay me evil for good;
my soul is bereft.[3]
13† But I, when they were sick—
I wore sackcloth;
I afflicted myself with fasting;
I prayed with head bowed[4] on my chest.
14 I went about as though I grieved for my friend or my brother;
as one who laments his mother,
I bowed down in mourning.

15† But at my stumbling they rejoiced and gathered;
they gathered together against me;
wretches whom I did not know
tore at me without ceasing;
16† like profane mockers at a feast,[5]
they gnash at me with their teeth.

17† How long, O Lord, will you look on?
Rescue me from their destruction,
my precious life from the lions!

18† I will thank you in the great congregation;
in the mighty throng I will praise you.

19† Let not those rejoice over me
who are wrongfully my foes,
and let not those wink the eye
who hate me without cause.
20† For they do not speak peace,
but against those who are quiet in the land
they devise words of deceit.
21† They open wide their mouths against me;
they say, “Aha, Aha!
Our eyes have seen it!”

22† You have seen, O Lord; be not silent!
O Lord, be not far from me!
23 Awake and rouse yourself for my vindication,
for my cause, my God and my Lord!
24† Vindicate me, O Lord, my God,
according to your righteousness,
and let them not rejoice over me!
25 Let them not say in their hearts,
“Aha, our heart’s desire!”
Let them not say, “We have swallowed him up.”

26† Let them be put to shame and disappointed
altogether
who rejoice at my calamity!
Let them be clothed with shame and dishonor
who magnify themselves against me!

27 ††Let those who delight in my righteousness shout for joy and be glad
and say evermore,
"Great is the LORD,
who delights in the welfare of his servant!"
28 Then my tongue shall tell of your
righteousness
and of your praise all the day long.

How Precious Is Your Steadfast Love

36 To the choirmaster. Of David, the servant of the Lord.

1 Transgression speaks to the wicked deep in his heart;[1]
there is no fear of God
before his eyes.
2 For he flatters himself in his own eyes that his iniquity cannot be found out and hated.
3 The words of his mouth are trouble and
deceit;
he has ceased to act wisely and do good.
4 He plots trouble while on his bed;
he sets himself in a way that is not good;
he does not reject evil.

5 Your steadfast love, O Lord, extends to the
heavens,
your faithfulness to the clouds.
6 Your righteousness is like the mountains of God;
your judgments are like the great deep;
man and beast you save, O Lord.

7 How precious is your steadfast love, O God!
The children of mankind take refuge in the shadow of your wings.
8 They feast on the abundance of your house,
and you give them drink from the river
of your delights.

9 For with you is the fountain of life;
in your light do we see light.

10 Oh, continue your steadfast love to those who know you,
and your righteousness to the upright of
heart!
11 Let not the foot of arrogance come upon me,
nor the hand of the wicked drive me away.
12 There the evildoers lie fallen;
they are thrust down, unable to rise.

He Will Not Forsake His Saints

37 [1] ✝[1] Of David.

Fret not yourself because of evildoers;
be not envious of wrongdoers!

2 For they will soon fade like the grass and wither like the green herb.

3 ✝ Trust in the Lord, and do good;
dwell in the land and befriend
faithfulness.[2]
4 ✝ Delight yourself in the Lord,
and he will give you the desires of your heart.

5 ✝ Commit your way to the Lord;
trust in him, and he will act.
6 ✝ He will bring forth your righteousness as the light,
and your justice as the noonday.

7 ✝ Be still before the Lord and wait patiently for
him;
fret not yourself over the one who prospers
in his way,
over the man who carries out evil devices!

8 Refrain from anger, and forsake wrath!
Fret not yourself; it tends only to evil.
9 ✝ For the evildoers shall be cut off,

but those who wait for the Lord shall inherit the land.

10 In just a little while, the wicked will be no
more;
though you look carefully at his place, he will not be there.
11 But the meek shall inherit the land
and delight themselves in abundant peace.

12 The wicked plots against the righteous and gnashes his teeth at him, 13 but the Lord laughs at the wicked,
for he sees that his day is coming.

14 The wicked draw the sword and bend their
bows
to bring down the poor and needy,
to slay those whose way is upright;
15 their sword shall enter their own heart,
and their bows shall be broken.

16 Better is the little that the righteous has
than the abundance of many wicked.
17 For the arms of the wicked shall be broken,
but the Lord upholds the righteous.

18 The Lord knows the days of the blameless,
and their heritage will remain forever;
19 they are not put to shame in evil times;
in the days of famine they have abundance.

20 But the wicked will perish;
the enemies of the Lord are like the glory of the pastures;
they vanish—like smoke they vanish away.

21 The wicked borrows but does not pay back,
but the righteous is generous and gives;
22 for those blessed by the Lord [1] shall inherit
the land,
but those cursed by him shall be cut off.

23 The steps of a man are established by the Lord,
when he delights in his way;
24 though he fall, he shall not be cast headlong,
for the Lord upholds his hand.

25 I have been young, and now am old,
yet I have not seen the righteous forsaken or his children begging for bread.
26 He is ever lending generously,
and his children become a blessing.

27 Turn away from evil and do good;
so shall you dwell forever.
28 For the Lord loves justice;
he will not forsake his saints.
They are preserved forever,
but the children of the wicked shall be cut off.

29 The righteous shall inherit the land
and dwell upon it forever.

30† The mouth of the righteous utters wisdom,
and his tongue speaks justice.
31† The law of his God is in his heart;
his steps do not slip.

32 The wicked watches for the righteous and seeks to put him to death.
33† The LORD will not abandon him to his power or let him be condemned when he is brought to trial.

34† Wait for the LORD and keep his way,
and he will exalt you to inherit the land;
you will look on when the wicked are
cut off.

35 I have seen a wicked, ruthless man, spreading himself like a green laurel tree.[1] 36 But he passed away,[2] and behold, he was no
more;
though I sought him, he could not be found.

37† Mark the blameless and behold the upright,
for there is a future for the man of peace.
38† But transgressors shall be altogether destroyed;
the future of the wicked shall be cut off.

39 ✝ The salvation of the righteous is from the LORD;
he is their stronghold in the time of
trouble.
40 The LORD helps them and delivers them;
he delivers them from the wicked and saves
them,
because they take refuge in him.

Do Not Forsake Me, O Lord

38 [1]† A Psalm of David, for the memorial offering.

O Lord, rebuke me not in your anger,
nor discipline me in your wrath!

[2]†† For your arrows have sunk into me,
and your hand has come down on me.

[3]† There is no soundness in my flesh
because of your indignation;
there is no health in my bones
because of my sin.
[4]† For my iniquities have gone over my head;
like a heavy burden, they are too heavy
for me.

[5]† My wounds stink and fester
because of my foolishness, [6]† I am utterly bowed down and prostrate;
all the day I go about mourning.
[7]† For my sides are filled with burning,
and there is no soundness in my flesh.
[8]† I am feeble and crushed;
I groan because of the tumult of my heart.

[9]† O Lord, all my longing is before you;
my sighing is not hidden from you.
[10]† My heart throbs; my strength fails me,
and the light of my eyes—it also has gone
from me.

11 ✝✝ My friends and companions stand aloof
from my plague,
and my nearest kin stand far off.

12 ✝ Those who seek my life lay their snares;
those who seek my hurt speak of ruin
and meditate treachery all day long.

13 ✝ But I am like a deaf man; I do not hear,
like a mute man who does not open
his mouth.
14 I have become like a man who does not hear,
and in whose mouth are no rebukes.

15 ✝ But for you, O Lord, do I wait;
it is you, O Lord my God, who will
answer.
16 For I said, “Only let them not rejoice over
me,
who boast against me when my foot slips!”

17 ✝ For I am ready to fall,
and my pain is ever before me.
18 ✝ I confess my iniquity;
I am sorry for my sin.
19 ✝ But my foes are vigorous, they are mighty,
and many are those who hate
me wrongfully.
20 Those who render me evil for good accuse me because I follow after good.

[21]† Do not forsake me, O Lord!
O my God, be not far from me!
[22]† Make haste to help me,
O Lord, my salvation!

What Is the Measure of My Days?

39 To the choirmaster: to Jeduthun. A Psalm of David.

1 I said, “I will guard my ways,
that I may not sin with my tongue;
I will guard my mouth with a muzzle,
so long as the wicked are in my presence.”
2 I was mute and silent;
I held my peace to no avail,
and my distress grew worse.
3 My heart became hot within me.
As I mused, the fire burned;
then I spoke with my tongue:
4 “O Lord, make me know my end
and what is the measure of my days;
let me know how fleeting I am!
5 Behold, you have made my days a few handbreadths,
and my lifetime is as nothing before you.
Surely all mankind stands as a mere breath!
6 Surely a man goes about as a shadow!
Surely for nothing[1] they are in turmoil;
man heaps up wealth and does not know who will gather!

7 “And now, O Lord, for what do I wait?
My hope is in you.
8 Deliver me from all my transgressions.
Do not make me the scorn of the fool!
9 I am mute; I do not open my mouth,
for it is you who have done it.
10 Remove your stroke from me;

I am spent by the hostility of your hand.
11 † When you discipline a man
with rebukes for sin,
you consume like a moth what is dear
to him;
surely all mankind is a mere breath! Selah

12 † "Hear my prayer, O LORD,
and give ear to my cry;
hold not your peace at my tears!
For I am a sojourner with you,
a guest, like all my fathers.
13 † Look away from me, that I may smile again,
before I depart and am no more!"

My Help and My Deliverer

40 [1]†To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

I waited patiently for the Lord;
he inclined to me and heard my cry.

[2]† He drew me up from the pit of destruction,
out of the miry bog,
and set my feet upon a rock,
making my steps secure.
[3]† He put a new song in my mouth,
a song of praise to our God.
Many will see and fear,
and put their trust in the Lord.

[4]† Blessed is the man who makes the Lord his trust,
who does not turn to the proud,
to those who go astray after a lie!
[5]† You have multiplied, O Lord my God, your wondrous deeds and your thoughts
toward us;
none can compare with you!
I will proclaim and tell of them,
yet they are more than can be told.

[6]† In sacrifice and offering you have not delighted,
but you have given me an open ear.[1]
Burnt offering and sin offering
you have not required.
[7]† Then I said, “Behold, I have come;
in the scroll of the book it is written

of me:
8 † I delight to do your will, O my God;
your law is within my heart.”

9 † I have told the glad news of deliverance[2]
in the great congregation;
behold, I have not restrained my lips,
as you know, O Lord.
10 † I have not hidden your deliverance within my
heart;
I have spoken of your faithfulness and your
salvation;
I have not concealed your steadfast love and
your faithfulness
from the great congregation.

11 † As for you, O Lord, you will not restrain your mercy from me;
your steadfast love and your faithfulness will ever preserve me!
12 † For evils have encompassed me
beyond number;
my iniquities have overtaken me,
and I cannot see;
they are more than the hairs of my head;
my heart fails me.

13 † Be pleased, O Lord, to deliver me!
O Lord, make haste to help me!
14 † Let those be put to shame and disappointed
altogether
who seek to snatch away my life;
let those be turned back and brought to

dishonor
who delight in my hurt!
15 † Let those be appalled because of their shame
who say to me, “Aha, Aha!”

16 † But may all who seek you
rejoice and be glad in you;
may those who love your salvation
say continually, “Great is the Lord!” 17 † As for me, I am poor and needy,
but the Lord takes thought for me.
You are my help and my deliverer;
do not delay, O my God!

O Lord, Be Gracious to Me

41 [1] ††To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

Blessed is the one who considers the poor![1]
In the day of trouble the Lord delivers him;

[2] † the Lord protects him and keeps him alive;
he is called blessed in the land;
you do not give him up to the will of his enemies.
[3] † The Lord sustains him on his sickbed;
in his illness you restore him to full health.[2]

[4] † As for me, I said, "O Lord, be gracious to me;
heal me,[3] for I have sinned against you!"
[5] † My enemies say of me in malice,
"When will he die, and his name perish?"
[6] † And when one comes to see me, he utters empty words,
while his heart gathers iniquity;
when he goes out, he tells it abroad.
[7] † All who hate me whisper together about me;
they imagine the worst for me.[4]

[8] † They say, "A deadly thing is poured out[5] on him;
he will not rise again from where he lies."
[9] † Even my close friend in whom I trusted, who ate my bread, has lifted his heel against me.

[10]† But you, O Lord, be gracious to me,
and raise me up, that I may repay them!

[11]† By this I know that you delight in me:
my enemy will not shout in triumph over me.
[12]† But you have upheld me because of my integrity,
and set me in your presence forever.

[13]† Blessed be the Lord, the God of Israel,
from everlasting to everlasting!
Amen and Amen.

BOOK TWO

Why Are You Cast Down, O My Soul?

42 To the choirmaster. A Maskil[1] of the Sons of Korah.

1† As a deer pants for flowing streams,
so pants my soul for you, O God.
2† My soul thirsts for God,
for the living God.
When shall I come and appear before God?[2] 3† My tears have been my food day and night,
while they say to me all the day long,
"Where is your God?"
4† These things I remember,
as I pour out my soul:
how I would go with the throng
and lead them in procession to the house of God
with glad shouts and songs of praise,
a multitude keeping festival.

5†† Why are you cast down, O my soul,
and why are you in turmoil within me?
Hope in God; for I shall again praise him,
my salvation[3] 6† and my God.

My soul is cast down within me;
therefore I remember you
from the land of Jordan and of Hermon, from Mount Mizar.
7† Deep calls to deep
at the roar of your waterfalls;
all your breakers and your waves
have gone over me.

[8]† By day the LORD commands his steadfast
love,
and at night his song is with me,
a prayer to the God of my life.
[9]† I say to God, my rock:
"Why have you forgotten me?
Why do I go mourning
because of the oppression of the enemy?"
[10]† As with a deadly wound in my bones,
my adversaries taunt me,
while they say to me all the day long,
"Where is your God?"

[11]† Why are you cast down, O my soul,
and why are you in turmoil within me?
Hope in God; for I shall again praise him,
my salvation and my God.

Send Out Your Light and Your Truth

43 [1]† Vindicate me, O God, and defend my cause against an ungodly people,
from the deceitful and unjust man
deliver me!

[2]† For you are the God in whom I take refuge;
why have you rejected me?
Why do I go about mourning
because of the oppression of the enemy?

[3]† Send out your light and your truth;
let them lead me;
let them bring me to your holy hill
and to your dwelling!
[4]† Then I will go to the altar of God,
to God my exceeding joy,
and I will praise you with the lyre,
O God, my God.

[5]† Why are you cast down, O my soul,
and why are you in turmoil within me?
Hope in God; for I shall again praise him,
my salvation and my God.

Come to Our Help

44 To the choirmaster. A Maskil [1] of the Sons of Korah.

1† O God, we have heard with our ears,
our fathers have told us,
what deeds you performed in their days,
in the days of old:
2† you with your own hand drove out the nations,
but them you planted;
you afflicted the peoples,
but them you set free;
3† for not by their own sword did they win the land,
nor did their own arm save them,
but your right hand and your arm,
and the light of your face,
for you delighted in them.

4† You are my King, O God;
ordain salvation for Jacob!
5† Through you we push down our foes;
through your name we tread down those who rise up against us.
6 For not in my bow do I trust,
nor can my sword save me.
7 But you have saved us from our foes
and have put to shame those who hate us.
8† In God we have boasted continually,
and we will give thanks to your name forever. Selah

9† But you have rejected us and disgraced us
and have not gone out with our armies.
10† You have made us turn back from the foe,
and those who hate us have gotten spoil.
11† You have made us like sheep for slaughter
and have scattered us among the nations.
12† You have sold your people for a trifle,
demanding no high price for them.
13 You have made us the taunt of our neighbors,
the derision and scorn of those around us.
14† You have made us a byword among the
nations,
a laughingstock[1] among the peoples.
15 All day long my disgrace is before me,
and shame has covered my face 16† at the sound of the taunter and reviler,
at the sight of the enemy and the avenger.

17† All this has come upon us,
though we have not forgotten you,
and we have not been false to your covenant.
18 Our heart has not turned back, nor have our steps departed from your way;
19† yet you have broken us in the place of jackals
and covered us with the shadow of death.
20† If we had forgotten the name of our God
or spread out our hands to a foreign god, 21† would not God discover this?
For he knows the secrets of the heart.
22† Yet for your sake we are killed all the day long;

we are regarded as sheep to be slaughtered.

23† Awake! Why are you sleeping, O Lord?
Rouse yourself! Do not reject us forever!
24† Why do you hide your face?
Why do you forget our affliction and oppression?
25 For our soul is bowed down to the dust;
our belly clings to the ground.
26† Rise up; come to our help!
Redeem us for the sake of your steadfast
love!

Your Throne, O God, Is Forever

45 To the choirmaster: according to Lilies. A Maskil[2] of the Sons of Korah;
a love song.

1 † My heart overflows with a pleasing theme;
I address my verses to the king;
my tongue is like the pen of a ready scribe.

2 † You are the most handsome of the sons of
men;
grace is poured upon your lips;
therefore God has blessed you forever.
3 † Gird your sword on your thigh, O mighty one,
in your splendor and majesty!

4 † In your majesty ride out victoriously for the cause of truth and meekness and
righteousness;
let your right hand teach you awesome
deeds!
5 Your arrows are sharp
in the heart of the king's enemies;
the peoples fall under you.

6 † Your throne, O God, is forever and ever.
The scepter of your kingdom is a scepter of uprightness;
7 † you have loved righteousness and hated
wickedness.
Therefore God, your God, has anointed you with the oil of gladness beyond your companions;

8 your robes are all fragrant with myrrh and aloes and cassia.
From ivory palaces stringed instruments
make you glad;
9 daughters of kings are among your ladies of honor;
at your right hand stands the queen in gold
of Ophir.

10 Hear, O daughter, and consider, and incline
your ear:
forget your people and your father's house,
11 and the king will desire your beauty.
Since he is your lord, bow to him.
12 The people[1] of Tyre will seek your favor with gifts,
the richest of the people.[2]

13 All glorious is the princess in her chamber,
with robes interwoven with gold.
14 In many-colored robes she is led to the
king,
with her virgin companions following
behind her.
15 With joy and gladness they are led along
as they enter the palace of the king.

16 In place of your fathers shall be your sons;
you will make them princes in all the earth.
17 I will cause your name to be remembered in all generations;

therefore nations will praise you forever and ever.

God Is Our Fortress

46 To the choirmaster. Of the Sons of Korah. According to Alamoth.[1] A Song.

1 † God is our refuge and strength,
a very present[2] help in trouble.
2 † Therefore we will not fear though the earth
gives way,
though the mountains be moved into the heart of the sea,
3 † though its waters roar and foam, though the mountains tremble at its swelling. Selah

4 † There is a river whose streams make glad the city of God,
the holy habitation of the Most High.
5 † God is in the midst of her; she shall not be moved;
God will help her when morning dawns.
6 † The nations rage, the kingdoms totter;
he utters his voice, the earth melts.
7 † The Lord of hosts is with us;
the God of Jacob is our fortress. Selah

8 † Come, behold the works of the Lord,
how he has brought desolations on the earth.
9 † He makes wars cease to the end of the earth;
he breaks the bow and shatters the spear;
he burns the chariots with fire.
10 † "Be still, and know that I am God.

I will be exalted among the nations,
I will be exalted in the earth!”
11 † The Lord of hosts is with us;
the God of Jacob is our fortress. Selah

God Is King over All the Earth

47 To the choirmaster. A Psalm of the Sons of Korah.

1† Clap your hands, all peoples!
Shout to God with loud songs of joy!
2† For the Lord, the Most High, is to be feared,
a great king over all the earth.
3† He subdued peoples under us,
and nations under our feet.
4† He chose our heritage for us,
the pride of Jacob whom he loves. Selah

5† God has gone up with a shout,
the Lord with the sound of a trumpet.
6 Sing praises to God, sing praises!
Sing praises to our King, sing praises!
7† For God is the King of all the earth;
sing praises with a psalm![1]

8 God reigns over the nations;
God sits on his holy throne.
9† The princes of the peoples gather as the people of the God of Abraham.
For the shields of the earth belong to God;
he is highly exalted!

Zion, the City of Our God

48 [1]†A Song. A Psalm of the Sons of Korah.

Great is the Lord and greatly to be praised
in the city of our God!
His holy mountain, [2]† beautiful in elevation,
is the joy of all the earth,
Mount Zion, in the far north,
the city of the great King.

[3] Within her citadels God has made himself known as a fortress.

[4]†† For behold, the kings assembled;
they came on together.
[5] As soon as they saw it, they were astounded;
they were in panic; they took to flight.
[6] Trembling took hold of them there,
anguish as of a woman in labor.
[7]† By the east wind you shattered
the ships of Tarshish.
[8]† As we have heard, so have we seen in the city of the Lord of hosts,
in the city of our God,
which God will establish forever. Selah

[9]† We have thought on your steadfast love,
O God,
in the midst of your temple.
[10]† As your name, O God,
so your praise reaches to the ends of the earth.
Your right hand is filled with righteousness.

11 Let Mount Zion be glad!
Let the daughters of Judah rejoice
because of your judgments!

12 Walk about Zion, go around her,
number her towers,
13 consider well her ramparts,
go through her citadels,
that you may tell the next generation 14 that this is God,
our God forever and ever.
He will guide us forever.[1]

Why Should I Fear in Times of Trouble?

49 To the choirmaster. A Psalm of the Sons of Korah.

1 Hear this, all peoples!
Give ear, all inhabitants of the world,
2 both low and high,
rich and poor together!
3 My mouth shall speak wisdom;
the meditation of my heart shall be
understanding.
4 I will incline my ear to a proverb;
I will solve my riddle to the music of the lyre.

5 Why should I fear in times of trouble,
when the iniquity of those who cheat me
surrounds me,
6 those who trust in their wealth
and boast of the abundance of their riches?
7 Truly no man can ransom another,
or give to God the price of his life, 8 for the ransom of their life is costly
and can never suffice, 9 that he should live on forever
and never see the pit.

10 For he sees that even the wise die;
the fool and the stupid alike must perish
and leave their wealth to others.
11 Their graves are their homes forever,[1]
their dwelling places to all generations,

though they called lands by their own names.
12† Man in his pomp will not remain;
he is like the beasts that perish.

13† This is the path of those who have foolish confidence;
yet after them people approve of their boasts.[2] Selah
14† Like sheep they are appointed for Sheol;
death shall be their shepherd,
and the upright shall rule over them in the morning.
Their form shall be consumed in Sheol,
with no place to dwell.
15† But God will ransom my soul from the power of Sheol,
for he will receive me. Selah

16 Be not afraid when a man becomes rich,
when the glory of his house increases.
17† For when he dies he will carry nothing away;
his glory will not go down after him.
18† For though, while he lives, he counts himself blessed
—and though you get praise when you do well for yourself—
19† his soul will go to the generation of his fathers,
who will never again see light.
20† Man in his pomp yet without understanding is like the beasts that perish.

God Himself Is Judge

50 [1]†A Psalm of Asaph.

The Mighty One, God the Lord, speaks and summons the earth
from the rising of the sun to its setting.

[2]† Out of Zion, the perfection of beauty,
God shines forth.

[3]† Our God comes; he does not keep silence;[1]
before him is a devouring fire,
around him a mighty tempest.
[4]† He calls to the heavens above and to the earth, that he may judge his
people:
[5]† "Gather to me my faithful ones,
who made a covenant with me by sacrifice!"
[6]† The heavens declare his righteousness,
for God himself is judge! Selah
[7]† "Hear, O my people, and I will speak;
O Israel, I will testify against you.
I am God, your God.
[8]†† Not for your sacrifices do I rebuke you;
your burnt offerings are continually before
me.
[9] I will not accept a bull from your house
or goats from your folds.
[10]† For every beast of the forest is mine,
the cattle on a thousand hills.
[11] I know all the birds of the hills,

and all that moves in the field is mine.
12 “If I were hungry, I would not tell you,
for the world and its fullness are mine.
13 Do I eat the flesh of bulls
or drink the blood of goats?
14 Offer to God a sacrifice of thanksgiving,[2]
and perform your vows to the Most High, 15 and call upon me in the day of trouble;
I will deliver you, and you shall glorify
me.”

16 But to the wicked God says:
“What right have you to recite my statutes
or take my covenant on your lips?
17 For you hate discipline,
and you cast my words behind you.
18 If you see a thief, you are pleased with him,
and you keep company with adulterers.
19 “You give your mouth free rein for evil,
and your tongue frames deceit.
20 You sit and speak against your brother;
you slander your own mother’s son.
21 These things you have done, and I have been silent;
you thought that I[1] was one like yourself.
But now I rebuke you and lay the charge
before you.

22 “Mark this, then, you who forget God, lest I tear you apart, and there be none to deliver!
23 The one who offers thanksgiving as his sacrifice glorifies me;

to one who orders his way rightly
I will show the salvation of God!”

Create in Me a Clean Heart, O God

51 To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David, when Nathan the prophet went to him, after he had gone in to Bathsheba.

1 † Have mercy on me,[2] O God,
according to your steadfast love;
according to your abundant mercy
blot out my transgressions.
2 † Wash me thoroughly from my iniquity,
and cleanse me from my sin!

3 For I know my transgressions,
and my sin is ever before me.
4 † Against you, you only, have I sinned
and done what is evil in your sight,
so that you may be justified in your words
and blameless in your judgment.
5 † Behold, I was brought forth in iniquity,
and in sin did my mother conceive me.
6 † Behold, you delight in truth in the inward
being,
and you teach me wisdom in the secret
heart.

7 † Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean;
wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.
8 † Let me hear joy and gladness;
let the bones that you have broken rejoice.
9 Hide your face from my sins,
and blot out all my iniquities.
10 † Create in me a clean heart, O God,

and renew a right[1] spirit within me.
11 Cast me not away from your presence,
and take not your Holy Spirit from me.
12 Restore to me the joy of your salvation,
and uphold me with a willing spirit.

13 Then I will teach transgressors your ways,
and sinners will return to you.
14 Deliver me from bloodguiltiness, O God,
O God of my salvation,
and my tongue will sing aloud of your righteousness.
15 O Lord, open my lips,
and my mouth will declare your praise.
16 For you will not delight in sacrifice, or I would give it;
you will not be pleased with a burnt offering.
17 The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit;
a broken and contrite heart, O God, you will not despise.

18 Do good to Zion in your good pleasure;
build up the walls of Jerusalem;
19 then will you delight in right sacrifices,
in burnt offerings and whole burnt
offerings;
then bulls will be offered on your altar.

The Steadfast Love of God Endures

52 To the choirmaster. A Maskil [2] of David, when Doeg, the Edomite, came and told Saul, "David has come to the house of Ahimelech."

1 † Why do you boast of evil, O mighty man?
The steadfast love of God endures all the day.

2 † Your tongue plots destruction,
like a sharp razor, you worker of deceit.
3 † You love evil more than good,
and lying more than speaking what is right.
Selah
4 You love all words that devour,
O deceitful tongue.

5 † But God will break you down forever;
he will snatch and tear you from your tent;
he will uproot you from the land of the living. Selah
6 † The righteous shall see and fear,
and shall laugh at him, saying,
7 "See the man who would not make God his refuge,
but trusted in the abundance of his riches
and sought refuge in his own destruction!"[1]

[8] † But I am like a green olive tree in the house of God.
I trust in the steadfast love of God
forever and ever.
[9] † I will thank you forever,
because you have done it.
I will wait for your name, for it is
good,
in the presence of the godly.

There Is None Who Does Good

53 To the choirmaster: according to Mahalath.
A Maskil [2] of David.

1 ††† The fool says in his heart, “There is no God.”
They are corrupt, doing abominable iniquity;
there is none who does good.

2 † God looks down from heaven
on the children of man
to see if there are any who understand,[3]
who seek after God.

3 They have all fallen away;
together they have become corrupt;
there is none who does good,
not even one.

4 † Have those who work evil no knowledge,
who eat up my people as they eat bread,
and do not call upon God?

5 † There they are, in great terror,
where there is no terror!
For God scatters the bones of him who encamps against you;
you put them to shame, for God has rejected them.

[6]† Oh, that salvation for Israel would come out
of Zion!
When God restores the fortunes of his people,
let Jacob rejoice, let Israel be glad.

The Lord Upholds My Life

54 To the choirmaster: with stringed instruments. A Maskil [1] of David, when the Ziphites went and told Saul, "Is not David hiding among us?"

1 † O God, save me by your name, and vindicate me by your might.
2 O God, hear my prayer;
give ear to the words of my mouth.

3 † For strangers[2] have risen against me;
ruthless men seek my life;
they do not set God before themselves.
Selah

4 † Behold, God is my helper;
the Lord is the upholder of my life.
5 † He will return the evil to my enemies;
in your faithfulness put an end to
them.

6 † With a freewill offering I will sacrifice to
you;
I will give thanks to your name,
O Lord, for it is good.
7 For he has delivered me from every trouble, and my eye has looked in triumph on my
enemies.

Cast Your Burden on the Lord

55 To the choirmaster: with stringed instruments. A Maskil [3] of David.

1 † Give ear to my prayer, O God, and hide not yourself from my plea for
mercy!
2 Attend to me, and answer me;
I am restless in my complaint and I moan,
3 † because of the noise of the enemy,
because of the oppression of the wicked.
For they drop trouble upon me,
and in anger they bear a grudge against me.

4 † My heart is in anguish within me;
the terrors of death have fallen upon me.
5 Fear and trembling come upon me,
and horror overwhelms me.
6 † And I say, “Oh, that I had wings like a dove!
I would fly away and be at rest;
7 † yes, I would wander far away;
I would lodge in the wilderness; Selah
8 I would hurry to find a shelter
from the raging wind and tempest.”

9 † Destroy, O Lord, divide their tongues;
for I see violence and strife in the city.
10 † Day and night they go around it on its walls,
and iniquity and trouble are within it; 11 ruin is in its midst;

oppression and fraud
do not depart from its marketplace.

12 For it is not an enemy who taunts me—
then I could bear it;
it is not an adversary who deals insolently
with me—
then I could hide from him.
13 But it is you, a man, my equal,
my companion, my familiar friend.
14 We used to take sweet counsel together;
within God's house we walked in the throng.
15 Let death steal over them;
let them go down to Sheol alive;
for evil is in their dwelling place and in their
heart.

16 But I call to God,
and the LORD will save me.
17 Evening and morning and at noon
I utter my complaint and moan,
and he hears my voice.
18 He redeems my soul in safety
from the battle that I wage,
for many are arrayed against me.
19 God will give ear and humble them,
he who is enthroned from of old, Selah
because they do not change and do not fear God.

20 My companion[1] stretched out his hand against his friends;
he violated his covenant.
21 His speech was smooth as butter,
yet war was in his heart;

his words were softer than oil,
yet they were drawn swords.

22† Cast your burden on the LORD,
and he will sustain you;
he will never permit
the righteous to be moved.

23† But you, O God, will cast them down into the pit of destruction;
men of blood and treachery
shall not live out half their days.
But I will trust in you.

In God I Trust

56 To the choirmaster: according to The Dove on Far-off Terebinths. A Miktam[1] of David, when the Philistines seized him in Gath.

1 † Be gracious to me, O God, for man tramples
on me;
all day long an attacker oppresses me;
2 my enemies trample on me all day long,
for many attack me proudly.
3 When I am afraid,
I put my trust in you.
4 † In God, whose word I praise,
in God I trust; I shall not be afraid.
What can flesh do to me?

5 † All day long they injure my cause;[2]
all their thoughts are against me for evil.
6 They stir up strife, they lurk;
they watch my steps,
as they have waited for my life.
7 † For their crime will they escape?
In wrath cast down the peoples, O God!

8 † You have kept count of my tossings;[3]
put my tears in your bottle.
Are they not in your book?
9 † Then my enemies will turn back in the day when I call.
This I know, that[4] God is for me.

10† In God, whose word I praise,
in the LORD, whose word I praise,
11 in God I trust; I shall not be afraid.
What can man do to me?

12† I must perform my vows to you, O God;
I will render thank offerings to you.
13† For you have delivered my soul from death,
yes, my feet from falling,
that I may walk before God
in the light of life.

Let Your Glory Be over All the Earth

57 To the choirmaster: according to Do Not Destroy. A Miktam[1] of David, when he fled from Saul, in the cave.

1 † Be merciful to me, O God, be merciful to me,
for in you my soul takes refuge;
in the shadow of your wings I will take refuge,
till the storms of destruction pass by.
2 † I cry out to God Most High,
to God who fulfills his purpose for me.
3 † He will send from heaven and save me;
he will put to shame him who tramples
on me. Selah
God will send out his steadfast love and his faithfulness!

4 † My soul is in the midst of lions;
I lie down amid fiery beasts—
the children of man, whose teeth are spears and arrows,
whose tongues are sharp swords.

5 † Be exalted, O God, above the heavens!
Let your glory be over all the earth!

6 They set a net for my steps;
my soul was bowed down.
They dug a pit in my way,
but they have fallen into it themselves.
Selah
7 † My heart is steadfast, O God,

my heart is steadfast!
I will sing and make melody!
8 † Awake, my glory![2]
Awake, O harp and lyre!
I will awake the dawn!
9 † I will give thanks to you, O Lord, among the peoples;
I will sing praises to you among the nations.
10 † For your steadfast love is great to the heavens,
your faithfulness to the clouds.

11 † Be exalted, O God, above the heavens!
Let your glory be over all the earth!

God Who Judges the Earth

58 To the choirmaster: according to Do Not Destroy. A Miktam[3] of David.

1† Do you indeed decree what is right, you gods?[4]
Do you judge the children of man uprightly?
2† No, in your hearts you devise wrongs;
your hands deal out violence on earth.

3† The wicked are estranged from the womb;
they go astray from birth, speaking lies.
4† They have venom like the venom of a serpent,
like the deaf adder that stops its ear,
5 so that it does not hear the voice of charmers
or of the cunning enchanter.

6† O God, break the teeth in their mouths;
tear out the fangs of the young lions,
O Lord!
7† Let them vanish like water that runs away;
when he aims his arrows, let them be blunted.
8† Let them be like the snail that dissolves into slime,
like the stillborn child who never sees the sun.
9† Sooner than your pots can feel the heat
of thorns,
whether green or ablaze, may he sweep
them away![1]

10 † The righteous will rejoice when he sees the vengeance;
he will bathe his feet in the blood of the
wicked.
11 † Mankind will say, “Surely there is a reward
for the righteous;
surely there is a God who judges on earth.”

Deliver Me from My Enemies

59 To the choirmaster: according to Do Not Destroy. A Miktam [2] of David, when Saul sent men to watch his house in order to kill him.

1 Deliver me from my enemies, O my God;
protect me from those who rise up against me;
2 deliver me from those who work evil,
and save me from bloodthirsty men.

3† For behold, they lie in wait for my life;
fierce men stir up strife against me.
For no transgression or sin of mine, O Lord,
4 for no fault of mine, they run and make ready.
Awake, come to meet me, and see!
5† You, Lord God of hosts, are God of Israel.
Rouse yourself to punish all the nations;
spare none of those who treacherously plot evil. Selah

6† Each evening they come back,
howling like dogs
and prowling about the city.
7† There they are, bellowing with their mouths with swords in their lips—
for "Who," they think,[1] "will hear us?"

8 But you, O Lord, laugh at them;
you hold all the nations in derision.

9 O my Strength, I will watch for you,
for you, O God, are my fortress.
10† My God in his steadfast love[2] will meet me;
God will let me look in triumph on my
enemies.

11† Kill them not, lest my people forget;
make them totter[3] by your power and bring them down,
O Lord, our shield!
12† For the sin of their mouths, the words of their lips,
let them be trapped in their pride.
For the cursing and lies that they utter,
13† consume them in wrath;
consume them till they are no more,
that they may know that God rules over Jacob to the ends of the earth. Selah

14† Each evening they come back,
howling like dogs
and prowling about the city.
15 They wander about for food and growl if they do not get their fill.

16† But I will sing of your strength;
I will sing aloud of your steadfast love in the morning.
For you have been to me a fortress
and a refuge in the day of my distress.
17 O my Strength, I will sing praises to you,
for you, O God, are my fortress,
the God who shows me steadfast love.

He Will Tread Down Our Foes

60 To the choirmaster: according to Shushan Eduth. A Miktam [4] of David; for instruction; when he strove with Aram-naharaim and with Aram-zobah, and when Joab on his return struck down twelve thousand of Edom in the Valley of Salt.

1† O God, you have rejected us, broken our defenses;
you have been angry; oh, restore us.
2† You have made the land to quake; you have torn it open;
repair its breaches, for it totters.
3† You have made your people see hard things;
you have given us wine to drink that made us stagger.

4† You have set up a banner for those who fear
you,
that they may flee to it from the bow.[1]
Selah
5† That your beloved ones may be delivered, give salvation by your right hand and answer us!

6† God has spoken in his holiness:[2]
"With exultation I will divide up Shechem
and portion out the Vale of Succoth.
7† Gilead is mine; Manasseh is mine;
Ephraim is my helmet;
Judah is my scepter.
8† Moab is my washbasin;
upon Edom I cast my shoe;
over Philistia I shout in triumph."[3]

9† Who will bring me to the fortified city?
Who will lead me to Edom?
10† Have you not rejected us, O God?
You do not go forth, O God, with our armies.
11† Oh, grant us help against the foe,
for vain is the salvation of man!
12 With God we shall do valiantly;
it is he who will tread down our foes.

Lead Me to the Rock

61 To the choirmaster: with stringed instruments. Of David.

1 Hear my cry, O God,
listen to my prayer;
2† from the end of the earth I call to you
when my heart is faint.
Lead me to the rock
that is higher than I,
3 for you have been my refuge,
a strong tower against the enemy.

4† Let me dwell in your tent forever!
Let me take refuge under the shelter of your wings! Selah
5† For you, O God, have heard my vows;
you have given me the heritage of those who fear your name.

6† Prolong the life of the king;
may his years endure to all generations!
7† May he be enthroned forever before God;
appoint steadfast love and faithfulness to watch over him!

8† So will I ever sing praises to your name,
as I perform my vows day after day.

My Soul Waits for God Alone

62 To the choirmaster: according to Jeduthun. A Psalm of David.

1 For God alone my soul waits in silence;
from him comes my salvation.
2 He only is my rock and my salvation,
my fortress; I shall not be greatly shaken.

3 How long will all of you attack a man
to batter him,
like a leaning wall, a tottering fence?
4 They only plan to thrust him down from his high position.
They take pleasure in falsehood.
They bless with their mouths,
but inwardly they curse. Selah

5 For God alone, O my soul, wait in silence,
for my hope is from him.
6 He only is my rock and my salvation,
my fortress; I shall not be shaken.
7 On God rests my salvation and my glory;
my mighty rock, my refuge is God.

8 Trust in him at all times, O people;
pour out your heart before him;
God is a refuge for us. Selah

9† Those of low estate are but a breath;
those of high estate are a delusion;
in the balances they go up;
they are together lighter than a breath.
10† Put no trust in extortion;
set no vain hopes on robbery;
if riches increase, set not your heart on
them.

11†† Once God has spoken;
twice have I heard this:
that power belongs to God,
12† and that to you, O Lord, belongs steadfast
love.
For you will render to a man
according to his work.

My Soul Thirsts for You

63 A Psalm of David, when he was in the wilderness of Judah.

1† O God, you are my God; earnestly I seek you;
my soul thirsts for you;
my flesh faints for you,
as in a dry and weary land where there is no water.
2† So I have looked upon you in the sanctuary,
beholding your power and glory.
3† Because your steadfast love is better than life,
my lips will praise you.
4† So I will bless you as long as I live;
in your name I will lift up my hands.

5† My soul will be satisfied as with fat and rich food,
and my mouth will praise you with joyful lips,
6† when I remember you upon my bed,
and meditate on you in the watches of the
night;
7† for you have been my help,
and in the shadow of your wings I will sing
for joy.
8† My soul clings to you;
your right hand upholds me.

9† But those who seek to destroy my life shall go down into the depths of the
earth;
10† they shall be given over to the power of the
sword;

they shall be a portion for jackals.
11† But the king shall rejoice in God;
all who swear by him shall exult,
for the mouths of liars will be stopped.

Hide Me from the Wicked

64 [1] To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.
Hear my voice, O God, in my complaint;
preserve my life from dread of the enemy.

[2] Hide me from the secret plots of the
wicked,
from the throng of evildoers,
[3] who whet their tongues like swords,
who aim bitter words like arrows,
[4] shooting from ambush at the blameless, shooting at him suddenly and without
fear.
[5] They hold fast to their evil purpose;
they talk of laying snares secretly,
thinking, "Who can see them?"
[6] They search out injustice, saying, "We have accomplished a diligent search."
For the inward mind and heart of a man
are deep!

[7] But God shoots his arrow at them;
they are wounded suddenly.
[8] They are brought to ruin, with their own tongues turned against them;
all who see them will wag their
heads.
[9] Then all mankind fears;
they tell what God has brought about
and ponder what he has done.

10 † Let the righteous one rejoice in
the LORD
and take refuge in him!
Let all the upright in heart exult!

O God of Our Salvation

65 [1]† To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David. A Song.

Praise is due to you,[1] O God, in Zion,
and to you shall vows be performed.

[2]† O you who hear prayer,
to you shall all flesh come.
[3]† When iniquities prevail against me,
you atone for our transgressions.
[4]† Blessed is the one you choose and bring near,
to dwell in your courts!
We shall be satisfied with the goodness of your house,
the holiness of your temple!

[5]† By awesome deeds you answer us with righteousness,
O God of our salvation,
the hope of all the ends of the earth
and of the farthest seas;
[6]† the one who by his strength established the mountains,
being girded with might;
[7] who stills the roaring of the seas,
the roaring of their waves,
the tumult of the peoples,
[8]† so that those who dwell at the ends of the earth are in awe at your signs.
You make the going out of the morning and the evening to shout for joy.

9 † You visit the earth and water it;[2]
you greatly enrich it;
the river of God is full of water;
you provide their grain,
for so you have prepared it.
10 † You water its furrows abundantly,
settling its ridges,
softening it with showers,
and blessing its growth.
11 † You crown the year with your bounty;
your wagon tracks overflow with abundance.
12 † The pastures of the wilderness overflow,
the hills gird themselves with joy, 13 † the meadows clothe themselves with flocks,
the valleys deck themselves with grain,
they shout and sing together for joy.

How Awesome Are Your Deeds

66 [1]† To the choirmaster. A Song. A Psalm.
Shout for joy to God, all the earth;

[2]† sing the glory of his name;
give to him glorious praise!
[3]† Say to God, "How awesome are your
deeds!
So great is your power that your enemies come cringing to you.
[4]† All the earth worships you
and sings praises to you;
they sing praises to your name." Selah

[5] Come and see what God has done:
he is awesome in his deeds toward the children of man.
[6]† He turned the sea into dry land;
they passed through the river on foot.
There did we rejoice in him,
[7]† who rules by his might forever,
whose eyes keep watch on the nations—
let not the rebellious exalt themselves. Selah

[8]† Bless our God, O peoples;
let the sound of his praise be heard, [9]† who has kept our soul among the living and has not let our feet slip.
[10]† For you, O God, have tested us;
you have tried us as silver is tried.
[11]† You brought us into the net;
you laid a crushing burden on our backs;

12† you let men ride over our heads;
we went through fire and through water;
yet you have brought us out to a place of abundance.

13† I will come into your house with burnt
offerings;
I will perform my vows to you,
14† that which my lips uttered and my mouth promised when I was in trouble.
15† I will offer to you burnt offerings of fattened animals,
with the smoke of the sacrifice of rams;
I will make an offering of bulls and goats. Selah

16† Come and hear, all you who fear God,
and I will tell what he has done for my soul.
17 I cried to him with my mouth,
and high praise was on[1] my tongue.[2] 18† If I had cherished iniquity in my heart,
the Lord would not have listened.
19 But truly God has listened;
he has attended to the voice of my prayer.

20 Blessed be God,
because he has not rejected my prayer
or removed his steadfast love from me!

Make Your Face Shine upon Us

67 To the choirmaster: with stringed instruments. A Psalm. A Song.

1† May God be gracious to us and bless us and make his face to shine upon us, Selah
2† that your way may be known on earth,
your saving power among all nations.
3† Let the peoples praise you, O God;
let all the peoples praise you!

4† Let the nations be glad and sing for joy,
for you judge the peoples with equity
and guide the nations upon earth. Selah
5† Let the peoples praise you, O God;
let all the peoples praise you!

6† The earth has yielded its increase;
God, our God, shall bless us.
7† God shall bless us;
let all the ends of the earth fear
him!

God Shall Scatter His Enemies

68 [1]† To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David. A Song.
God shall arise, his enemies shall be scattered;
and those who hate him shall flee before
him!

[2] As smoke is driven away, so you shall drive
them away;
as wax melts before fire,
so the wicked shall perish before God!
[3]† But the righteous shall be glad;
they shall exult before God;
they shall be jubilant with joy!

[4]† Sing to God, sing praises to his name;
lift up a song to him who rides through the deserts;
his name is the Lord;
exult before him!
[5]† Father of the fatherless and protector of widows
is God in his holy habitation.
[6]† God settles the solitary in a home;
he leads out the prisoners to prosperity,
but the rebellious dwell in a parched land.

[7]† O God, when you went out before your
people,
when you marched through the wilderness, Selah
[8]† the earth quaked, the heavens poured down

rain,
before God, the One of Sinai,
before God, the God of Israel.
9 † Rain in abundance, O God, you shed abroad;
you restored your inheritance as it
languished;
10 your flock[1] found a dwelling in it;
in your goodness, O God, you provided for the needy.

11 † The Lord gives the word;
the women who announce the news are a great host:
12 "The kings of the armies—they flee, they flee!"
The women at home divide the spoil—13 though you men lie among the sheepfolds—
the wings of a dove covered with silver,
its pinions with shimmering gold.
14 † When the Almighty scatters kings there,
let snow fall on Zalmon.

15 † O mountain of God, mountain of Bashan;
O many-peaked[2] mountain, mountain of Bashan!
16 Why do you look with hatred, O many-peaked mountain,
at the mount that God desired for his abode,
yes, where the LORD will dwell forever?
17 † The chariots of God are twice ten thousand,
thousands upon thousands;
the Lord is among them; Sinai is now in the sanctuary.

18 You ascended on high,
leading a host of captives in your train
and receiving gifts among men,
even among the rebellious, that the Lord
God may dwell there.

19 Blessed be the Lord,
who daily bears us up;
God is our salvation. Selah
20 Our God is a God of salvation, and to God, the Lord, belong deliverances
from death.
21 But God will strike the heads of his enemies,
the hairy crown of him who walks in his guilty ways.
22 The Lord said,
"I will bring them back from Bashan,
I will bring them back from the depths of the sea,
23 that you may strike your feet in their blood, that the tongues of your dogs may have their portion from the foe."

24 Your procession is[1] seen, O God,
the procession of my God, my King, into the sanctuary—
25 the singers in front, the musicians last,
between them virgins playing tambourines:
26 "Bless God in the great congregation,
the Lord, O you[2] who are of Israel's fountain!"
27 There is Benjamin, the least of them, in the lead,

the princes of Judah in their throng,
the princes of Zebulun, the princes of Naphtali.

28 † Summon your power, O God,[3]
the power, O God, by which you have worked for us.
29 Because of your temple at Jerusalem
kings shall bear gifts to you.
30 Rebuke the beasts that dwell among the reeds,
the herd of bulls with the calves of the peoples.
Trample underfoot those who lust after tribute;
scatter the peoples who delight in war.[4]
31 Nobles shall come from Egypt;
Cush shall hasten to stretch out her hands to God.

32 † O kingdoms of the earth, sing to God;
sing praises to the Lord, Selah 33 to him who rides in the heavens, the ancient heavens;
behold, he sends out his voice, his mighty
voice.
34 Ascribe power to God,
whose majesty is over Israel,
and whose power is in the skies.
35 Awesome is God from his[5] sanctuary;
the God of Israel—he is the one who gives power and strength to his
people.
Blessed be God!

Save Me, O God

69 To the choirmaster: according to Lilies. Of David.

1 Save me, O God!
For the waters have come up to my neck.[6]
2 I sink in deep mire,
where there is no foothold;
I have come into deep waters,
and the flood sweeps over me.
3 I am weary with my crying out;
my throat is parched.
My eyes grow dim
with waiting for my God.

4 More in number than the hairs of my head
are those who hate me without cause;
mighty are those who would destroy me,
those who attack me with lies.
What I did not steal must I now restore?
5 O God, you know my folly;
the wrongs I have done are not hidden from you.

6 Let not those who hope in you be put to shame through me,
O Lord God of hosts;
let not those who seek you be brought to dishonor through me,
O God of Israel.

7† For it is for your sake that I have borne reproach,
that dishonor has covered my face.
8† I have become a stranger to my brothers,
an alien to my mother's sons.

9† For zeal for your house has consumed me,
and the reproaches of those who reproach
you have fallen on me.
10† When I wept and humbled[1] my soul with fasting,
it became my reproach.
11 When I made sackcloth my clothing,
I became a byword to them.
12† I am the talk of those who sit in the gate,
and the drunkards make songs about me.

13† But as for me, my prayer is to you, O Lord.
At an acceptable time, O God,
in the abundance of your steadfast love
answer me in your saving faithfulness.
14 Deliver me
from sinking in the mire;
let me be delivered from my enemies
and from the deep waters.
15 Let not the flood sweep over me,
or the deep swallow me up,
or the pit close its mouth over me.

16 Answer me, O Lord, for your steadfast love is good;
according to your abundant mercy, turn to me.
17† Hide not your face from your servant;
for I am in distress; make haste to answer me.

18 † Draw near to my soul, redeem me;
ransom me because of my enemies!

19 † You know my reproach,
and my shame and my dishonor;
my foes are all known to you.
20 Reproaches have broken my heart,
so that I am in despair.
I looked for pity, but there was none,
and for comforters, but I found none.
21 † They gave me poison for food,
and for my thirst they gave me sour wine
to drink.

22 †† Let their own table before them become a snare;
and when they are at peace, let it become a trap.[2]
23 Let their eyes be darkened, so that they cannot see,
and make their loins tremble continually.
24 Pour out your indignation upon them,
and let your burning anger overtake them.
25 † May their camp be a desolation;
let no one dwell in their tents.
26 For they persecute him whom you have struck down,
and they recount the pain of those you have wounded.
27 Add to them punishment upon punishment;
may they have no acquittal from you.[1] 28 † Let them be blotted out of the book of the living;

let them not be enrolled among the righteous.

29 But I am afflicted and in pain;
let your salvation, O God, set me on high!

30 I will praise the name of God with a song;
I will magnify him with thanksgiving.
31 This will please the LORD more than an ox
or a bull with horns and hoofs.
32 When the humble see it they will be glad;
you who seek God, let your hearts revive.
33 For the LORD hears the needy and does not despise his own people who are prisoners.

34 Let heaven and earth praise him,
the seas and everything that moves in them.
35 For God will save Zion
and build up the cities of Judah,
and people shall dwell there and possess it;
36 the offspring of his servants shall inherit it,
and those who love his name shall dwell in it.

O Lord, Do Not Delay

70 To the choirmaster. Of David, for the memorial offering.

1 Make haste, O God, to deliver me!
O Lord, make haste to help me!
2 Let them be put to shame and confusion
who seek my life!
Let them be turned back and brought to
dishonor
who delight in my hurt!
3 Let them turn back because of their shame
who say, “Aha, Aha!”

4 May all who seek you
rejoice and be glad in you!
May those who love your salvation
say evermore, “God is great!”
5 But I am poor and needy;
hasten to me, O God!
You are my help and my deliverer;
O Lord, do not delay!

Forsake Me Not When My Strength Is Spent

71 [1]†In you, O Lord, do I take refuge;
let me never be put to shame!

[2]† In your righteousness deliver me and rescue me;
incline your ear to me, and save me!
[3]† Be to me a rock of refuge,
to which I may continually come;
you have given the command to save me,
for you are my rock and my fortress.

[4]† Rescue me, O my God, from the hand of the
wicked,
from the grasp of the unjust and cruel
man.
[5] For you, O Lord, are my hope,
my trust, O Lord, from my youth.
[6]† Upon you I have leaned from before my
birth;
you are he who took me from my mother's
womb.
My praise is continually of you.

[7]† I have been as a portent to many,
but you are my strong refuge.
[8] My mouth is filled with your praise,
and with your glory all the day.
[9]† Do not cast me off in the time of old age;
forsake me not when my strength is spent.
[10] For my enemies speak concerning me;

those who watch for my life consult together
11 and say, “God has forsaken him;
pursue and seize him,
for there is none to deliver him.”

12† O God, be not far from me;
O my God, make haste to help me!
13† May my accusers be put to shame and
consumed;
with scorn and disgrace may they be covered
who seek my hurt.
14† But I will hope continually and will praise you yet more and more.
15 My mouth will tell of your righteous acts,
of your deeds of salvation all the day,
for their number is past my knowledge.
16† With the mighty deeds of the Lord God I will come;
I will remind them of your righteousness,
yours alone.

17†† O God, from my youth you have taught me,
and I still proclaim your wondrous deeds.
18† So even to old age and gray hairs,
O God, do not forsake me,
until I proclaim your might to another
generation,
your power to all those to come.
19† Your righteousness, O God, reaches the high heavens.
You who have done great things,
O God, who is like you?

20† You who have made me see many troubles and calamities
will revive me again;
from the depths of the earth
you will bring me up again.
21† You will increase my greatness
and comfort me again.

22† I will also praise you with the harp
for your faithfulness, O my God;
I will sing praises to you with the lyre,
O Holy One of Israel.
23 My lips will shout for joy,
when I sing praises to you;
my soul also, which you have redeemed.
24† And my tongue will talk of your righteous
help all the day long,
for they have been put to shame and disappointed
who sought to do me hurt.

Give the King Your Justice

72 [1]†Of Solomon.

Give the king your justice, O God,
and your righteousness to the royal son!

[2]† May he judge your people with
righteousness,
and your poor with justice!
[3]† Let the mountains bear prosperity for the
people,
and the hills, in righteousness!
[4] May he defend the cause of the poor of the
people,
give deliverance to the children of the needy,
and crush the oppressor!

[5]† May they fear you[1] while the sun endures,
and as long as the moon, throughout all generations!
[6] May he be like rain that falls on the mown grass,
like showers that water the earth!
[7] In his days may the righteous flourish,
and peace abound, till the moon be no
more!

[8]† May he have dominion from sea to sea,
and from the River[2] to the ends of
the earth!
[9]† May desert tribes bow down before him,
and his enemies lick the dust!
[10]† May the kings of Tarshish and of the coastlands

render him tribute;
may the kings of Sheba and Seba
bring gifts!
11 May all kings fall down before him,
all nations serve him!

12 For he delivers the needy when he calls,
the poor and him who has no helper.
13 He has pity on the weak and the needy,
and saves the lives of the needy.
14 From oppression and violence he redeems their life,
and precious is their blood in his
sight.

15 Long may he live;
may gold of Sheba be given to him!
May prayer be made for him continually,
and blessings invoked for him all the day!
16 May there be abundance of grain in
the land;
on the tops of the mountains may it wave;
may its fruit be like Lebanon;
and may people blossom in the cities
like the grass of the field!
17 May his name endure forever,
his fame continue as long as the sun!
May people be blessed in him,
all nations call him blessed!

18 Blessed be the Lord, the God of Israel,
who alone does wondrous things.
19 Blessed be his glorious name forever;

may the whole earth be filled with his glory!
Amen and Amen!

[20] † The prayers of David, the son of Jesse, are ended.

BOOK THREE

God Is My Strength and Portion Forever

73 [1]† A Psalm of Asaph.

Truly God is good to Israel,
to those who are pure in heart.

[2]† But as for me, my feet had almost stumbled,
my steps had nearly slipped.
[3]† For I was envious of the arrogant
when I saw the prosperity of the wicked.

[4]† For they have no pangs until death;
their bodies are fat and sleek.
[5] They are not in trouble as others are;
they are not stricken like the rest of mankind.
[6] Therefore pride is their necklace;
violence covers them as a garment.
[7] Their eyes swell out through fatness;
their hearts overflow with follies.
[8] They scoff and speak with malice;
loftily they threaten oppression.
[9] They set their mouths against the heavens,
and their tongue struts through the earth.
[10] Therefore his people turn back to them,
and find no fault in them.[1] [11] And they say, “How can God know?
Is there knowledge in the Most High?”
[12] Behold, these are the wicked;
always at ease, they increase in riches.
[13]† All in vain have I kept my heart clean and washed my hands in innocence.
[14]† For all the day long I have been stricken and rebuked every morning.

15 If I had said, “I will speak thus,”
I would have betrayed the generation of your children.

16 But when I thought how to understand this,
it seemed to me a wearisome task, 17 until I went into the sanctuary of God;
then I discerned their end.

18 Truly you set them in slippery places;
you make them fall to ruin.
19 How they are destroyed in a moment,
swept away utterly by terrors!
20 Like a dream when one awakes,
O Lord, when you rouse yourself, you despise them as phantoms.
21 When my soul was embittered,
when I was pricked in heart,
22 I was brutish and ignorant;
I was like a beast toward you.

23 Nevertheless, I am continually with you;
you hold my right hand.
24 You guide me with your counsel,
and afterward you will receive me to glory.
25 Whom have I in heaven but you?
And there is nothing on earth that I desire besides you.
26 My flesh and my heart may fail, but God is the strength[1] of my heart and my portion forever.

27 † For behold, those who are far from you shall perish;
you put an end to everyone who is unfaithful to you.
28 But for me it is good to be near God;
I have made the Lord God my refuge,
that I may tell of all your works.

Arise, O God, Defend Your Cause

74 [1] †A Maskil [2] of Asaph.

O God, why do you cast us off
forever?
Why does your anger smoke against the sheep of your pasture?

[2] † Remember your congregation, which you have purchased of old,
which you have redeemed to be the tribe
of your heritage!
Remember Mount Zion, where you have dwelt.
[3] † Direct your steps to the perpetual ruins;
the enemy has destroyed everything in the
sanctuary!

[4] † Your foes have roared in the midst of your meeting place;
they set up their own signs for signs.
[5] They were like those who swing axes
in a forest of trees.[3] [6] And all its carved wood
they broke down with hatchets and hammers.
[7] They set your sanctuary on fire;
they profaned the dwelling place of your
name,
bringing it down to the ground.
[8] † They said to themselves, “We will utterly subdue them”;
they burned all the meeting places of God in
the land.

9† We do not see our signs;
there is no longer any prophet,
and there is none among us who knows how long.
10 How long, O God, is the foe to scoff?
Is the enemy to revile your name forever?
11† Why do you hold back your hand, your right
hand?
Take it from the fold of your garment[1] and destroy them!

12†† Yet God my King is from of old,
working salvation in the midst of the earth.
13 You divided the sea by your might;
you broke the heads of the sea monsters[2]
on the waters.
14 You crushed the heads of Leviathan;
you gave him as food for the creatures of the wilderness.
15 You split open springs and brooks;
you dried up ever-flowing streams.
16 Yours is the day, yours also the night;
you have established the heavenly lights
and the sun.
17 You have fixed all the boundaries of the earth;
you have made summer and winter.

18† Remember this, O Lord, how the enemy scoffs,
and a foolish people reviles your name.
19† Do not deliver the soul of your dove to the wild beasts;
do not forget the life of your poor forever.

20 † Have regard for the covenant, for the dark places of the land are full of the habitations of violence.
21 † Let not the downtrodden turn back in
shame;
let the poor and needy praise your name.

22 † Arise, O God, defend your cause;
remember how the foolish scoff at you all the day!
23 Do not forget the clamor of your foes,
the uproar of those who rise against you,
which goes up continually!

God Will Judge with Equity

75 To the choirmaster: according to Do Not Destroy. A Psalm of Asaph. A Song.

1† We give thanks to you, O God;
we give thanks, for your name is near.
We[3] recount your wondrous deeds.

2† "At the set time that I appoint
I will judge with equity.
3† When the earth totters, and all its inhabitants,
it is I who keep steady its pillars. Selah
4† I say to the boastful, 'Do not boast,' and to the wicked, 'Do not lift up your horn;
5† do not lift up your horn on high,
or speak with haughty neck.'"

6† For not from the east or from the west and not from the wilderness comes lifting up,
7 but it is God who executes judgment,
putting down one and lifting up another.
8† For in the hand of the Lord there is a cup with foaming wine, well mixed,
and he pours out from it,
and all the wicked of the earth
shall drain it down to the dregs.

[9] † But I will declare it forever;
I will sing praises to the God of Jacob.
[10] † All the horns of the wicked I will cut off, but the horns of the righteous shall be lifted up.

Who Can Stand Before You?

76 To the choirmaster: with stringed instruments. A Psalm of Asaph. A Song.

1 † In Judah God is known;
his name is great in Israel.
2 † His abode has been established in Salem,
his dwelling place in Zion.
3 † There he broke the flashing arrows,
the shield, the sword, and the weapons of
war. Selah

4 † Glorious are you, more majestic
than the mountains of prey.
5 † The stouthearted were stripped of their spoil;
they sank into sleep;
all the men of war
were unable to use their hands.
6 † At your rebuke, O God of Jacob,
both rider and horse lay stunned.

7 † But you, you are to be feared!
Who can stand before you
when once your anger is roused?
8 From the heavens you uttered judgment;
the earth feared and was still,
9 when God arose to establish judgment,
to save all the humble of the earth. Selah

10 † Surely the wrath of man shall praise you;
the remnant[1] of wrath you will put on like a belt.

11 † Make your vows to the Lord your God and perform them;
let all around him bring gifts
to him who is to be feared, 12 who cuts off the spirit of princes,
who is to be feared by the kings of the earth.

In the Day of Trouble I Seek the Lord

77 To the choirmaster: according to Jeduthun. A Psalm of Asaph.

1 I cry aloud to God,
aloud to God, and he will hear me.
2 In the day of my trouble I seek the Lord;
in the night my hand is stretched out without wearying;
my soul refuses to be comforted.
3 When I remember God, I moan;
when I meditate, my spirit faints. Selah

4 You hold my eyelids open;
I am so troubled that I cannot speak.
5 I consider the days of old,
the years long ago.
6 I said,[1] "Let me remember my song in the
night;
let me meditate in my heart."
Then my spirit made a diligent search:
7 "Will the Lord spurn forever,
and never again be favorable?
8 Has his steadfast love forever ceased?
Are his promises at an end for all time?
9 Has God forgotten to be gracious?
Has he in anger shut up his compassion?"
Selah

10 Then I said, "I will appeal to this,
to the years of the right hand of the Most High."[2]

11† I will remember the deeds of the LORD;
yes, I will remember your wonders of old.
12 I will ponder all your work,
and meditate on your mighty deeds.
13† Your way, O God, is holy.
What god is great like our God?
14 You are the God who works wonders;
you have made known your might among the peoples.
15† You with your arm redeemed your people,
the children of Jacob and Joseph. Selah

16†† When the waters saw you, O God, when the waters saw you, they were afraid;
indeed, the deep trembled.
17† The clouds poured out water;
the skies gave forth thunder;
your arrows flashed on every side.
18 The crash of your thunder was in the whirlwind;
your lightnings lighted up the world;
the earth trembled and shook.
19† Your way was through the sea,
your path through the great waters;
yet your footprints were unseen.[3] 20† You led your people like a flock
by the hand of Moses and Aaron.

Tell the Coming Generation

78 1 ✝A Maskil [4] of Asaph.
Give ear, O my people, to my teaching;
incline your ears to the words of
my mouth!

2 I will open my mouth in a parable;
I will utter dark sayings from of old,
3 ✝ things that we have heard and known,
that our fathers have told us.
4 We will not hide them from their children,
but tell to the coming generation
the glorious deeds of the Lord, and his might,
and the wonders that he has done.

5 ✝ He established a testimony in Jacob and appointed a law in Israel,
which he commanded our fathers
to teach to their children, 6 that the next generation might know them,
the children yet unborn,
and arise and tell them to their children,
7 ✝ so that they should set their hope in God
and not forget the works of God,
but keep his commandments;
8 ✝ and that they should not be like their fathers,
a stubborn and rebellious generation,
a generation whose heart was not steadfast,
whose spirit was not faithful to God.

9 ✝ The Ephraimites, armed with[1] the bow, turned back on the day of battle.

10 They did not keep God's covenant,
but refused to walk according to his law.
11 They forgot his works
and the wonders that he had shown them.
12 † In the sight of their fathers he performed wonders
in the land of Egypt, in the fields of Zoan.
13 † He divided the sea and let them pass through it,
and made the waters stand like a heap.
14 In the daytime he led them with a cloud,
and all the night with a fiery light.
15 He split rocks in the wilderness and gave them drink abundantly as from the deep.
16 He made streams come out of the rock
and caused waters to flow down like rivers.

17 † Yet they sinned still more against him, rebelling against the Most High in the desert.
18 They tested God in their heart
by demanding the food they craved.
19 They spoke against God, saying,
"Can God spread a table in the wilderness?
20 He struck the rock so that water gushed out and streams overflowed.
Can he also give bread
or provide meat for his people?"

21 Therefore, when the LORD heard, he was full of wrath;
a fire was kindled against Jacob;
his anger rose against Israel,

22 because they did not believe in God
and did not trust his saving power.
23 Yet he commanded the skies above
and opened the doors of heaven, 24 and he rained down on them manna to eat and gave them the grain of heaven.
25 Man ate of the bread of the angels;
he sent them food in abundance.
26 He caused the east wind to blow in the
heavens,
and by his power he led out the south wind;
27 he rained meat on them like dust,
winged birds like the sand of the seas;
28 he let them fall in the midst of their camp,
all around their dwellings.
29 And they ate and were well filled,
for he gave them what they craved.
30 But before they had satisfied their craving,
while the food was still in their mouths, 31 the anger of God rose against them,
and he killed the strongest of them
and laid low the young men of Israel.

32 In spite of all this, they still sinned;
despite his wonders, they did not believe.
33 So he made their days vanish like[1] a breath,[2]
and their years in terror.
34 When he killed them, they sought him;
they repented and sought God earnestly.
35 They remembered that God was their rock,
the Most High God their redeemer.
36 But they flattered him with their mouths;
they lied to him with their tongues.

37 Their heart was not steadfast toward him;
they were not faithful to his covenant.
38 Yet he, being compassionate, atoned for their iniquity
and did not destroy them;
he restrained his anger often
and did not stir up all his wrath.
39 He remembered that they were but flesh,
a wind that passes and comes not again.
40 How often they rebelled against him in the wilderness
and grieved him in the desert!
41 They tested God again and again and provoked the Holy One of Israel.
42 They did not remember his power[3]
or the day when he redeemed them from the foe, 43 when he performed his signs in Egypt
and his marvels in the fields of Zoan.
44 He turned their rivers to blood,
so that they could not drink of their streams.
45 He sent among them swarms of flies, which devoured them,
and frogs, which destroyed them.
46 He gave their crops to the destroying locust
and the fruit of their labor to the locust.
47 He destroyed their vines with hail and their sycamores with frost.
48 He gave over their cattle to the hail
and their flocks to thunderbolts.
49 He let loose on them his burning anger,
wrath, indignation, and distress,
a company of destroying angels.
50 He made a path for his anger;
he did not spare them from death,

but gave their lives over to the plague.
51 He struck down every firstborn in Egypt,
the firstfruits of their strength in the tents
of Ham.
52 Then he led out his people like sheep
and guided them in the wilderness like a flock.
53 He led them in safety, so that they were not afraid,
but the sea overwhelmed their enemies.
54 And he brought them to his holy land,
to the mountain which his right hand
had won.
55 He drove out nations before them;
he apportioned them for a possession
and settled the tribes of Israel in their tents.

56 Yet they tested and rebelled against the Most High God
and did not keep his testimonies, 57 but turned away and acted treacherously like their fathers;
they twisted like a deceitful bow.
58 For they provoked him to anger with their high places;
they moved him to jealousy with
their idols.
59 When God heard, he was full of wrath,
and he utterly rejected Israel.
60 He forsook his dwelling at Shiloh,
the tent where he dwelt among mankind, 61 and delivered his power to captivity,
his glory to the hand of the foe.
62 He gave his people over to the sword
and vented his wrath on his heritage.
63 Fire devoured their young men, and their young women had no marriage

song.
64 Their priests fell by the sword,
and their widows made no lamentation.
65† Then the Lord awoke as from sleep,
like a strong man shouting because of wine.
66 And he put his adversaries to rout;
he put them to everlasting shame.

67† He rejected the tent of Joseph;
he did not choose the tribe of Ephraim,
68†† but he chose the tribe of Judah,
Mount Zion, which he loves.
69† He built his sanctuary like the high heavens,
like the earth, which he has founded
forever.
70 He chose David his servant
and took him from the sheepfolds; 71† from following the nursing ewes he brought
him
to shepherd Jacob his people,
Israel his inheritance.
72 With upright heart he shepherded them
and guided them with his skillful hand.

How Long, O Lord?

79

1 A Psalm of Asaph.

O God, the nations have come into your inheritance;
they have defiled your holy temple;
they have laid Jerusalem in ruins.

2 They have given the bodies of your servants
to the birds of the heavens for food,
the flesh of your faithful to the beasts of
the earth.
3 They have poured out their blood like water
all around Jerusalem,
and there was no one to bury them.
4 We have become a taunt to our neighbors,
mocked and derided by those around us.

5 How long, O Lord? Will you be angry forever?
Will your jealousy burn like fire?
6 Pour out your anger on the nations
that do not know you,
and on the kingdoms
that do not call upon your name!
7 For they have devoured Jacob and laid waste his habitation.

8 Do not remember against us our former iniquities;[1]
let your compassion come speedily to meet us,
for we are brought very low.
9 Help us, O God of our salvation,

for the glory of your name;
deliver us, and atone for our sins,
for your name's sake!
10 Why should the nations say,
"Where is their God?"
Let the avenging of the outpoured blood of your servants
be known among the nations before our eyes!

11† Let the groans of the prisoners come before you;
according to your great power, preserve those doomed to die!
12† Return sevenfold into the lap of our neighbors
the taunts with which they have taunted you, O Lord!
13† But we your people, the sheep of your pasture,
will give thanks to you forever;
from generation to generation we will recount your praise.

Restore Us, O God

80 To the choirmaster: according to Lilies. A Testimony. Of Asaph, a Psalm.

1 † Give ear, O Shepherd of Israel,
you who lead Joseph like a flock!
You who are enthroned upon the cherubim, shine forth.
2 † Before Ephraim and Benjamin and Manasseh, stir up your might
and come to save us!

3 † Restore us,[2] O God;
let your face shine, that we may be saved!

4 † O Lord God of hosts,
how long will you be angry with your people's prayers?
5 † You have fed them with the bread of tears and given them tears to drink in full measure.
6 You make us an object of contention for our neighbors,
and our enemies laugh among themselves.

7 † Restore us, O God of hosts;
let your face shine, that we may be saved!

8 †† You brought a vine out of Egypt;
you drove out the nations and planted it.

9 You cleared the ground for it;
it took deep root and filled the land.
10 The mountains were covered with its shade,
the mighty cedars with its branches.
11† It sent out its branches to the sea
and its shoots to the River.[1] 12† Why then have you broken down its walls, so that all who pass along the way pluck its fruit?
13† The boar from the forest ravages it,
and all that move in the field feed on it.

14† Turn again, O God of hosts!
Look down from heaven, and see;
have regard for this vine, 15† the stock that your right hand planted,
and for the son whom you made strong for
yourself.
16† They have burned it with fire; they have cut
it down;
may they perish at the rebuke of your face!
17† But let your hand be on the man of your right hand,
the son of man whom you have made strong
for yourself!
18† Then we shall not turn back from you;
give us life, and we will call upon your
name!

19† Restore us, O Lord God of hosts!
Let your face shine, that we may be saved!

Oh, That My People Would Listen to Me

81 To the choirmaster: according to The Gittith.[2] Of Asaph.

1 Sing aloud to God our strength;
shout for joy to the God of Jacob!
2 Raise a song; sound the tambourine,
the sweet lyre with the harp.
3 Blow the trumpet at the new moon,
at the full moon, on our feast day.

4 For it is a statute for Israel, a rule[1] of the God of Jacob.
5 He made it a decree in Joseph
when he went out over[2] the land of Egypt.
I hear a language I had not known:
6 "I relieved your[3] shoulder of the burden;
your hands were freed from the basket.
7 In distress you called, and I delivered you;
I answered you in the secret place of thunder;
I tested you at the waters of Meribah. Selah
8 Hear, O my people, while I admonish you!
O Israel, if you would but listen to me!
9 There shall be no strange god among you;
you shall not bow down to a foreign god.
10 I am the Lord your God,
who brought you up out of the land of Egypt.
Open your mouth wide, and I will fill it.

11 “But my people did not listen to my voice;
Israel would not submit to me.
12† So I gave them over to their stubborn hearts,
to follow their own counsels.
13† Oh, that my people would listen to me,
that Israel would walk in my ways!
14 I would soon subdue their enemies
and turn my hand against their foes.
15†† Those who hate the Lord would cringe
toward him,
and their fate would last forever.
16† But he would feed you[4] with the finest of the wheat,
and with honey from the rock I would satisfy you.”

Rescue the Weak and Needy

82

[1] †A Psalm of Asaph.

God has taken his place in the divine council;
in the midst of the gods he holds
judgment:

[2] †† "How long will you judge unjustly
and show partiality to the wicked? Selah
[3] Give justice to the weak and the fatherless;
maintain the right of the afflicted and the destitute.
[4] Rescue the weak and the needy;
deliver them from the hand of the wicked."

[5] † They have neither knowledge nor
understanding,
they walk about in darkness;
all the foundations of the earth are shaken.

[6] † I said, "You are gods,
sons of the Most High, all of you;
[7] † nevertheless, like men you shall die,
and fall like any prince."[1]

[8] † Arise, O God, judge the earth;
for you shall inherit all the nations!

O God, Do Not Keep Silence

83 [1]A Song. A Psalm of Asaph.

O God, do not keep silence;
do not hold your peace or be still,
O God!

[2]† For behold, your enemies make an uproar;
those who hate you have raised their
heads.
[3]† They lay crafty plans against your people;
they consult together against your treasured
ones.
[4]† They say, “Come, let us wipe them out as a nation;
let the name of Israel be remembered no
more!”
[5]† For they conspire with one accord;
against you they make a covenant—
[6]† the tents of Edom and the Ishmaelites, Moab and the Hagrites,
[7] Gebal and Ammon and Amalek,
Philistia with the inhabitants of Tyre;
[8]† Asshur also has joined them;
they are the strong arm of the children
of Lot. Selah

[9]† Do to them as you did to Midian,
as to Sisera and Jabin at the river Kishon, [10]† who were destroyed at En-dor,
who became dung for the ground.
[11] Make their nobles like Oreb and Zeeb,
all their princes like Zebah and Zalmunna,

12† who said, “Let us take possession for ourselves
of the pastures of God.”

13 O my God, make them like whirling dust,[2]
like chaff before the wind.
14† As fire consumes the forest,
as the flame sets the mountains ablaze, 15† so may you pursue them with your tempest
and terrify them with your hurricane!
16† Fill their faces with shame,
that they may seek your name, O Lord.
17 Let them be put to shame and dismayed
forever;
let them perish in disgrace, 18† that they may know that you alone,
whose name is the Lord,
are the Most High over all the earth.

My Soul Longs for the Courts of the Lord

84 To the choirmaster: according to The Gittith.[1] A Psalm of the Sons of Korah.

1† How lovely is your dwelling place,
O Lord of hosts!
2† My soul longs, yes, faints
for the courts of the Lord;
my heart and flesh sing for joy
to the living God.

3† Even the sparrow finds a home,
and the swallow a nest for herself,
where she may lay her young,
at your altars, O Lord of hosts,
my King and my God.
4† Blessed are those who dwell in your house,
ever singing your praise! Selah

5† Blessed are those whose strength is in you,
in whose heart are the highways to Zion.[2] 6† As they go through the Valley of Baca
they make it a place of springs;
the early rain also covers it with pools.
7† They go from strength to strength;
each one appears before God in Zion.

8† O Lord God of hosts, hear my prayer;
give ear, O God of Jacob! Selah

9† Behold our shield, O God;
look on the face of your anointed!

10† For a day in your courts is better than a thousand elsewhere.
I would rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God
than dwell in the tents of wickedness.
11† For the Lord God is a sun and shield;
the Lord bestows favor and honor.
No good thing does he withhold from those who walk uprightly.
12† O Lord of hosts,
blessed is the one who trusts in you!

Revive Us Again

85 To the choirmaster. A Psalm of the Sons of Korah.

1 † Lord, you were favorable to your land;
you restored the fortunes of Jacob.
2 † You forgave the iniquity of your people;
you covered all their sin. Selah
3 You withdrew all your wrath;
you turned from your hot anger.

4 † Restore us again, O God of our salvation,
and put away your indignation toward us!
5 Will you be angry with us forever?
Will you prolong your anger to all generations?
6 † Will you not revive us again,
that your people may rejoice in you?
7 † Show us your steadfast love, O Lord,
and grant us your salvation.

8 † Let me hear what God the Lord will speak, for he will speak peace to his people, to his saints;
but let them not turn back to folly.
9 † Surely his salvation is near to those who fear
him,
that glory may dwell in our land.

10 † Steadfast love and faithfulness meet;
righteousness and peace kiss each other.
11 Faithfulness springs up from the ground,
and righteousness looks down from the sky.

12 † Yes, the LORD will give what is good,
and our land will yield its increase.
13 † Righteousness will go before him
and make his footsteps a way.

Great Is Your Steadfast Love

86 [1]† A Prayer of David.
Incline your ear, O Lord, and
answer me,
for I am poor and needy.

[2] Preserve my life, for I am godly;
save your servant, who trusts in you—you are my God.
[3] Be gracious to me, O Lord,
for to you do I cry all the day.
[4]† Gladden the soul of your servant,
for to you, O Lord, do I lift up my soul.
[5]† For you, O Lord, are good and forgiving, abounding in steadfast love to all who call upon you.
[6]† Give ear, O Lord, to my prayer;
listen to my plea for grace.
[7]† In the day of my trouble I call upon you,
for you answer me.

[8]† There is none like you among the gods,
O Lord,
nor are there any works like yours.
[9] All the nations you have made shall come and worship before you, O Lord,
and shall glorify your name.
[10] For you are great and do wondrous things;
you alone are God.
[11]† Teach me your way, O Lord,
that I may walk in your truth;
unite my heart to fear your name.

12 I give thanks to you, O Lord my God, with my whole heart,
and I will glorify your name forever.
13† For great is your steadfast love toward me;
you have delivered my soul from the depths of Sheol.

14† O God, insolent men have risen up against
me;
a band of ruthless men seeks my life,
and they do not set you before them.
15† But you, O Lord, are a God merciful and gracious,
slow to anger and abounding in steadfast
love and faithfulness.
16† Turn to me and be gracious to me;
give your strength to your servant,
and save the son of your maidservant.
17† Show me a sign of your favor, that those who hate me may see and be put
to shame
because you, LORD, have helped me and comforted me.

Glorious Things of You Are Spoken

87 [1]† A Psalm of the Sons of Korah. A Song.
On the holy mount stands the city he founded;

[2]† the Lord loves the gates of Zion
more than all the dwelling places of Jacob.
[3]† Glorious things of you are spoken,
O city of God. Selah

[4]† Among those who know me I mention Rahab and Babylon;
behold, Philistia and Tyre, with Cush[1]—
"This one was born there," they say.
[5]† And of Zion it shall be said,
"This one and that one were born in her";
for the Most High himself will establish her.
[6]† The Lord records as he registers the
peoples,
"This one was born there." Selah

[7]† Singers and dancers alike say,
"All my springs are in you."

I Cry Out Day and Night Before You

88 A Song. A Psalm of the Sons of Korah. To the choirmaster: according to Mahalath Leannoth. A Maskil [1] of Heman the Ezrahite.

1 † O Lord, God of my salvation;
I cry out day and night before you.
2 Let my prayer come before you;
incline your ear to my cry!

3 † For my soul is full of troubles,
and my life draws near to Sheol.
4 I am counted among those who go down to the pit;
I am a man who has no strength,
5 † like one set loose among the dead,
like the slain that lie in the grave,
like those whom you remember no more,
for they are cut off from your hand.
6 † You have put me in the depths of the pit,
in the regions dark and deep.
7 † Your wrath lies heavy upon me,
and you overwhelm me with all your waves. Selah

8 † You have caused my companions to shun me;
you have made me a horror[2] to them.
I am shut in so that I cannot escape;
9 † my eye grows dim through sorrow.
Every day I call upon you, O Lord;
I spread out my hands to you.

10 † Do you work wonders for the dead?
Do the departed rise up to praise you? Selah 11 † Is your steadfast love declared in the grave, or your faithfulness in Abaddon?
12 † Are your wonders known in the darkness,
or your righteousness in the land
of forgetfulness?

13 But I, O LORD, cry to you;
in the morning my prayer comes before you.
14 † O LORD, why do you cast my soul away?
Why do you hide your face from me?
15 † Afflicted and close to death from my youth up,
I suffer your terrors; I am helpless.[3]
16 Your wrath has swept over me;
your dreadful assaults destroy me.
17 They surround me like a flood all day long;
they close in on me together.
18 † You have caused my beloved and my friend
to shun me;
my companions have become darkness.[4]

I Will Sing of the Steadfast Love of the Lord

89 1 †A Maskil [5] of Ethan the Ezrahite.

I will sing of the steadfast love of the Lord,
forever;
with my mouth I will make known
your faithfulness to all generations.

2 For I said, "Steadfast love will be built up
forever;
in the heavens you will establish
your faithfulness."
3 † You have said, "I have made a covenant
with my chosen one;
I have sworn to David my servant:
4 † 'I will establish your offspring forever,
and build your throne for all generations.'"
Selah

5 † Let the heavens praise your wonders,
O Lord,
your faithfulness in the assembly of the holy ones!
6 † For who in the skies can be compared to the Lord?
Who among the heavenly beings[1] is like the
Lord,
7 † a God greatly to be feared in the council of the holy ones,
and awesome above all who are around
him?
8 † O Lord God of hosts,
who is mighty as you are, O Lord,
with your faithfulness all around you?

9 You rule the raging of the sea;
when its waves rise, you still them.
10† You crushed Rahab like a carcass;
you scattered your enemies with your mighty arm.
11† The heavens are yours; the earth also is yours;
the world and all that is in it, you have founded them.
12† The north and the south, you have created
them;
Tabor and Hermon joyously praise your
name.
13 You have a mighty arm;
strong is your hand, high your right hand.
14† Righteousness and justice are the foundation
of your throne;
steadfast love and faithfulness go
before you.
15† Blessed are the people who know the festal
shout,
who walk, O Lord, in the light of
your face,
16 who exult in your name all the day
and in your righteousness are exalted.
17† For you are the glory of their strength;
by your favor our horn is exalted.
18† For our shield belongs to the Lord,
our king to the Holy One of Israel.

19† Of old you spoke in a vision to your godly one,[2] and said:
"I have granted help to one who is mighty;
I have exalted one chosen from the people.
20† I have found David, my servant;
with my holy oil I have anointed him,

21 so that my hand shall be established with him;
my arm also shall strengthen
him.
22 The enemy shall not outwit him;
the wicked shall not humble him.
23 I will crush his foes before him
and strike down those who hate him.
24 My faithfulness and my steadfast love shall be with him,
and in my name shall his horn be exalted.
25 I will set his hand on the sea
and his right hand on the rivers.
26 He shall cry to me, ‘You are my Father,
my God, and the Rock of my salvation.’
27 And I will make him the firstborn,
the highest of the kings of the earth.
28 My steadfast love I will keep for him forever,
and my covenant will stand firm[1] for him.
29 I will establish his offspring forever and his throne as the days of the heavens.
30 If his children forsake my law
and do not walk according to my rules,[2] 31 if they violate my statutes and do not keep my commandments, 32 then I will punish their transgression
with the rod
and their iniquity with stripes, 33 but I will not remove from him my steadfast
love
or be false to my faithfulness.
34 I will not violate my covenant or alter the word that went forth from my lips.
35 Once for all I have sworn by my holiness;

I will not lie to David.
36† His offspring shall endure forever,
his throne as long as the sun before me.
37† Like the moon it shall be established forever,
a faithful witness in the skies.” Selah

38† But now you have cast off and rejected;
you are full of wrath against your anointed.
39† You have renounced the covenant with your
servant;
you have defiled his crown in the dust.
40 You have breached all his walls;
you have laid his strongholds in ruins.
41† All who pass by plunder him;
he has become the scorn of his neighbors.
42† You have exalted the right hand of his foes;
you have made all his enemies rejoice.
43 You have also turned back the edge of his
sword,
and you have not made him stand in battle.
44 You have made his splendor to cease
and cast his throne to the ground.
45† You have cut short the days of his youth;
you have covered him with shame. Selah

46 How long, O Lord? Will you hide yourself
forever?
How long will your wrath burn like fire?
47† Remember how short my time is!
For what vanity you have created all the children of man!
48† What man can live and never see death?

Who can deliver his soul from the power of Sheol? Selah

49† Lord, where is your steadfast love of old,
which by your faithfulness you swore to David?
50† Remember, O Lord, how your servants are mocked,
and how I bear in my heart the insults[1] of all the many nations, 51† with which your enemies mock, O Lord, with which they mock the footsteps of your anointed.

52† Blessed be the Lord forever!
Amen and Amen.

BOOK FOUR

From Everlasting to Everlasting

90 [1]† A Prayer of Moses, the man of God.

Lord, you have been our dwelling place[2]
in all generations.

[2]† Before the mountains were brought forth,
or ever you had formed the earth and the world,
from everlasting to everlasting you are God.

[3]† You return man to dust
and say, “Return, O children of man!”[3] [4]† For a thousand years in your sight
are but as yesterday when it is past, or as a watch in the night.

[5]† You sweep them away as with a flood; they are like a dream,
like grass that is renewed in the morning:
[6] in the morning it flourishes and is renewed;
in the evening it fades and withers.

[7]† For we are brought to an end by your anger;
by your wrath we are dismayed.
[8]† You have set our iniquities before you,
our secret sins in the light of your presence.

9 For all our days pass away under your wrath;
we bring our years to an end like a sigh.
10 The years of our life are seventy,
or even by reason of strength eighty;
yet their span[4] is but toil and trouble;
they are soon gone, and we fly away.
11 Who considers the power of your anger, and your wrath according to the fear of
you?

12 So teach us to number our days
that we may get a heart of wisdom.
13 Return, O LORD! How long?
Have pity on your servants!
14 Satisfy us in the morning with your steadfast
love,
that we may rejoice and be glad all our days.
15 Make us glad for as many days as you have afflicted us,
and for as many years as we have seen evil.
16 Let your work be shown to your servants,
and your glorious power to their children.
17 Let the favor[1] of the Lord our God be upon us,
and establish the work of our hands
upon us;
yes, establish the work of our hands!

My Refuge and My Fortress

91 [1]†He who dwells in the shelter of the Most High
will abide in the shadow of the Almighty.

[2] I will say[2] to the Lord, “My refuge and my fortress,
my God, in whom I trust.”

[3]† For he will deliver you from the snare of the fowler
and from the deadly pestilence.
[4]† He will cover you with his pinions,
and under his wings you will find refuge;
his faithfulness is a shield and buckler.
[5]† You will not fear the terror of the night,
nor the arrow that flies by day,
[6] nor the pestilence that stalks in darkness,
nor the destruction that wastes at noonday.

[7]† A thousand may fall at your side,
ten thousand at your right hand,
but it will not come near you.
[8]† You will only look with your eyes
and see the recompense of the wicked.

[9] Because you have made the Lord your dwelling place—
the Most High, who is my refuge[3]— [10]† no evil shall be allowed to befall you,
no plague come near your tent.

11 For he will command his angels concerning
you
to guard you in all your ways.
12 On their hands they will bear you up,
lest you strike your foot against a stone.
13 You will tread on the lion and the adder;
the young lion and the serpent you will trample underfoot.

14 “Because he holds fast to me in love, I will deliver him;
I will protect him, because he knows my
name.
15 When he calls to me, I will answer him;
I will be with him in trouble;
I will rescue him and honor him.
16 With long life I will satisfy him
and show him my salvation.”

How Great Are Your Works

92 [1] A Psalm. A Song for the Sabbath.
It is good to give thanks to the Lord,
to sing praises to your name,
O Most High;

[2] to declare your steadfast love in the morning,
and your faithfulness by night,
[3] to the music of the lute and the harp,
to the melody of the lyre.
[4] For you, O Lord, have made me glad by your work;
at the works of your hands I sing for joy.

[5] How great are your works, O Lord!
Your thoughts are very deep!
[6] The stupid man cannot know;
the fool cannot understand this:
[7] that though the wicked sprout like grass
and all evildoers flourish,
they are doomed to destruction forever;
[8] but you, O Lord, are on high forever.
[9] For behold, your enemies, O Lord,
for behold, your enemies shall perish;
all evildoers shall be scattered.

[10] But you have exalted my horn like that of the wild ox;
you have poured over me[1] fresh oil.
[11] My eyes have seen the downfall of my

enemies;
my ears have heard the doom of my evil
assailants.

12† The righteous flourish like the palm tree
and grow like a cedar in Lebanon.
13 They are planted in the house of the LORD;
they flourish in the courts of our God.
14† They still bear fruit in old age;
they are ever full of sap and green, 15† to declare that the LORD is upright;
he is my rock, and there is no unrighteousness in him.

The Lord Reigns

93 [1]†† The Lord reigns; he is robed in majesty;
the Lord is robed; he has put on strength
as his belt.
Yes, the world is established; it shall never be moved.

[2] Your throne is established from of old;
you are from everlasting.

[3]† The floods have lifted up, O Lord,
the floods have lifted up their voice;
the floods lift up their roaring.
[4] Mightier than the thunders of many
waters,
mightier than the waves of the sea,
the Lord on high is mighty!

[5]† Your decrees are very trustworthy;
holiness befits your house,
O Lord, forevermore.

The Lord Will Not Forsake His People

94 [1]† O Lord, God of vengeance,
O God of vengeance, shine forth!

[2]† Rise up, O judge of the earth;
repay to the proud what they deserve!
[3] O Lord, how long shall the wicked,
how long shall the wicked exult?
[4] They pour out their arrogant words;
all the evildoers boast.
[5]† They crush your people, O Lord,
and afflict your heritage.
[6]† They kill the widow and the sojourner,
and murder the fatherless;
[7] and they say, "The Lord does not see;
the God of Jacob does not perceive."

[8]†† Understand, O dullest of the people!
Fools, when will you be wise?
[9] He who planted the ear, does he not hear?
He who formed the eye, does he not see?
[10] He who disciplines the nations, does he not rebuke?
He who teaches man knowledge—
[11]† the Lord—knows the thoughts of man,
that they are but a breath.[1]

[12]† Blessed is the man whom you discipline,
O Lord,
and whom you teach out of your law,

13 to give him rest from days of trouble,
until a pit is dug for the wicked.
14 For the Lord will not forsake his people;
he will not abandon his heritage;
15 for justice will return to the righteous,
and all the upright in heart will follow it.

16 Who rises up for me against the wicked?
Who stands up for me against evildoers?
17 If the Lord had not been my help,
my soul would soon have lived in the land
of silence.
18 When I thought, "My foot slips,"
your steadfast love, O Lord, held me up.
19 When the cares of my heart are many,
your consolations cheer my soul.
20 Can wicked rulers be allied with you,
those who frame injustice by statute?
21 They band together against the life of the
righteous
and condemn the innocent to death.[2] 22 But the Lord has become my stronghold,
and my God the rock of my refuge.
23 He will bring back on them their iniquity and wipe them out for their
wickedness;
the Lord our God will wipe them out.

Let Us Sing Songs of Praise

95 [1]‡‡Oh come, let us sing to the LORD;
let us make a joyful noise to the rock of our salvation!

[2]‡ Let us come into his presence with thanksgiving;
let us make a joyful noise to him
with songs of praise!
[3]‡ For the LORD is a great God,
and a great King above all gods.
[4]‡ In his hand are the depths of the earth;
the heights of the mountains are his also.
[5] The sea is his, for he made it,
and his hands formed the dry land.

[6]‡ Oh come, let us worship and bow down;
let us kneel before the LORD, our Maker!
[7]‡ For he is our God,
and we are the people of his pasture,
and the sheep of his hand.
Today, if you hear his voice,
[8]‡‡ do not harden your hearts, as at Meribah,
as on the day at Massah in the wilderness, [9]‡ when your fathers put me to the test and put me to the proof, though they had seen my work.
[10]‡ For forty years I loathed that generation and said, “They are a people who go astray
in their heart,
and they have not known my ways.”

[11] † Therefore I swore in my wrath,
“They shall not enter my rest.”

Worship in the Splendor of Holiness

96 [1]†Oh sing to the Lord a new song;
sing to the Lord, all the earth!

[2]†† Sing to the Lord, bless his name;
tell of his salvation from day to day.
[3] Declare his glory among the nations,
his marvelous works among all the peoples!
[4]† For great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised;
he is to be feared above all gods.
[5]† For all the gods of the peoples are worthless
idols,
but the Lord made the heavens.
[6]† Splendor and majesty are before him;
strength and beauty are in his sanctuary.

[7] Ascribe to the Lord, O families of the peoples,
ascribe to the Lord glory and strength!
[8]† Ascribe to the Lord the glory due his name;
bring an offering, and come into his courts!
[9]† Worship the Lord in the splendor of holiness;[1]
tremble before him, all the earth!

[10]† Say among the nations, "The Lord reigns!
Yes, the world is established; it shall never
be moved;
he will judge the peoples with equity."

[11]† Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth
rejoice;

let the sea roar, and all that fills it;
12 let the field exult, and everything in it!
Then shall all the trees of the forest sing
for joy
13† before the LORD, for he comes,
for he comes to judge the earth.
He will judge the world in righteousness,
and the peoples in his faithfulness.

The Lord Reigns

97 [1]†The Lord reigns, let the earth rejoice;
let the many coastlands be glad!

[2]† Clouds and thick darkness are all around him;
righteousness and justice are the foundation
of his throne.
[3] Fire goes before him
and burns up his adversaries all around.
[4] His lightnings light up the world;
the earth sees and trembles.
[5] The mountains melt like wax before the Lord,
before the Lord of all the earth.

[6]† The heavens proclaim his righteousness,
and all the peoples see his glory.
[7]† All worshipers of images are put to
shame,
who make their boast in worthless
idols;
worship him, all you gods!

[8]† Zion hears and is glad,
and the daughters of Judah rejoice,
because of your judgments, O Lord.
[9]† For you, O Lord, are most high over all the
earth;
you are exalted far above all gods.

10 † O you who love the Lord, hate evil!
He preserves the lives of his saints;
he delivers them from the hand of the
wicked.
11 † Light is sown[1] for the righteous,
and joy for the upright in heart.
12 Rejoice in the Lord, O you righteous,
and give thanks to his holy name!

Make a Joyful Noise to the Lord

98 [1]†A Psalm.

Oh sing to the Lord a new song,
for he has done marvelous things!
His right hand and his holy arm
have worked salvation for him.

[2] The Lord has made known his salvation;
he has revealed his righteousness in the sight of the nations.
[3]† He has remembered his steadfast love and faithfulness
to the house of Israel.
All the ends of the earth have seen
the salvation of our God.

[4]† Make a joyful noise to the Lord, all the
earth;
break forth into joyous song and sing
praises!
[5]† Sing praises to the Lord with the lyre,
with the lyre and the sound of melody!
[6] With trumpets and the sound of the horn make a joyful noise before the King, the Lord!

[7]† Let the sea roar, and all that fills it;
the world and those who dwell in it!
[8] Let the rivers clap their hands;
let the hills sing for joy together
[9]† before the Lord, for he comes to judge the earth.

He will judge the world with righteousness,
and the peoples with equity.

The Lord Our God Is Holy

99 [1]†The Lord reigns; let the peoples tremble!
He sits enthroned upon the cherubim; let
the earth quake!

[2]† The Lord is great in Zion;
he is exalted over all the peoples.
[3]† Let them praise your great and awesome name!
Holy is he!
[4]† The King in his might loves justice.[1]
You have established equity;
you have executed justice
and righteousness in Jacob.
[5]† Exalt the Lord our God;
worship at his footstool!
Holy is he!

[6]† Moses and Aaron were among his priests, Samuel also was among those who called upon his name.
They called to the Lord, and he answered
them.
[7]† In the pillar of the cloud he spoke to
them;
they kept his testimonies
and the statute that he gave them.

[8]† O Lord our God, you answered them;
you were a forgiving God to them,
but an avenger of their wrongdoings.
[9]† Exalt the Lord our God,

and worship at his holy mountain;
for the LORD our God is holy!

His Steadfast Love Endures Forever

100 [1] A Psalm for giving thanks.

Make a joyful noise to the Lord, all the
earth!

[2] Serve the Lord with gladness!
Come into his presence with singing!

[3] Know that the Lord, he is God!
It is he who made us, and we are his;[1]
we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.

[4] Enter his gates with thanksgiving,
and his courts with praise!
Give thanks to him; bless his name!

[5] For the Lord is good;
his steadfast love endures forever,
and his faithfulness to all generations.

I Will Walk with Integrity

101

[1] A Psalm of David.

I will sing of steadfast love and
justice;
to you, O Lord, I will make music.

[2] I will ponder the way that is
blameless.
Oh when will you come to me?
I will walk with integrity of heart
within my house;
[3] I will not set before my eyes
anything that is worthless.
I hate the work of those who fall away;
it shall not cling to me.
[4] A perverse heart shall be far from me;
I will know nothing of evil.

[5] Whoever slanders his neighbor secretly
I will destroy.
Whoever has a haughty look and an arrogant heart
I will not endure.

[6] I will look with favor on the faithful in the land,
that they may dwell with me;
he who walks in the way that is blameless shall minister to me.

7 No one who practices deceit
shall dwell in my house;
no one who utters lies
shall continue before my eyes.

8 Morning by morning I will destroy all the wicked in the land, cutting off all the evildoers
from the city of the LORD.

Do Not Hide Your Face from Me

102 A Prayer of one afflicted, when he is faint and pours out his complaint before the Lord.

1 Hear my prayer, O Lord;
let my cry come to you!
2† Do not hide your face from me
in the day of my distress!
Incline your ear to me;
answer me speedily in the day when I call!

3†† For my days pass away like smoke,
and my bones burn like a furnace.
4† My heart is struck down like grass and has withered;
I forget to eat my bread.
5† Because of my loud groaning
my bones cling to my flesh.
6† I am like a desert owl of the wilderness,
like an owl[1] of the waste places;
7 I lie awake;
I am like a lonely sparrow on the housetop.
8† All the day my enemies taunt me;
those who deride me use my name for a curse.
9† For I eat ashes like bread
and mingle tears with my drink, 10† because of your indignation and anger;
for you have taken me up and thrown me down.
11† My days are like an evening shadow;
I wither away like grass.

12 † But you, O Lord, are enthroned forever;
you are remembered throughout all
generations.
13 You will arise and have pity on Zion;
it is the time to favor her;
the appointed time has come.
14 † For your servants hold her stones dear
and have pity on her dust.
15 Nations will fear the name of the Lord, and all the kings of the earth will fear your
glory.
16 For the Lord builds up Zion;
he appears in his glory;
17 he regards the prayer of the destitute
and does not despise their prayer.

18 † Let this be recorded for a generation to
come,
so that a people yet to be created may
praise the Lord:
19 † that he looked down from his holy height;
from heaven the Lord looked at the earth, 20 † to hear the groans of the prisoners,
to set free those who were doomed
to die,
21 † that they may declare in Zion the name of
the Lord,
and in Jerusalem his praise, 22 when peoples gather together,
and kingdoms, to worship the Lord.

23† He has broken my strength in midcourse;
he has shortened my days.
24 “O my God,” I say, “take me not away in the midst of my days—
you whose years endure
throughout all generations!”

25† Of old you laid the foundation of the
earth,
and the heavens are the work of your
hands.
26 They will perish, but you will remain;
they will all wear out like a garment.
You will change them like a robe, and they will pass away,
27† but you are the same, and your years have no end.
28† The children of your servants shall dwell secure;
their offspring shall be established before
you.

Bless the Lord, O My Soul

103

1 Of David.

Bless the Lord, O my soul,
and all that is within me,
bless his holy name!

2 Bless the Lord, O my soul,
and forget not all his benefits,
3 who forgives all your iniquity,
who heals all your diseases,
4 who redeems your life from the pit,
who crowns you with steadfast love and mercy,
5 who satisfies you with good
so that your youth is renewed like the eagle's.

6 The Lord works righteousness and justice for all who are oppressed.
7 He made known his ways to Moses,
his acts to the people of Israel.
8 The Lord is merciful and gracious,
slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love.
9 He will not always chide,
nor will he keep his anger forever.
10 He does not deal with us according to our sins,
nor repay us according to our iniquities.
11 For as high as the heavens are above the earth,
so great is his steadfast love toward those who fear him;

12 as far as the east is from the west,
so far does he remove our transgressions
from us.
13† As a father shows compassion to his children,
so the Lord shows compassion to those who fear him.
14† For he knows our frame;[1]
he remembers that we are dust.

15† As for man, his days are like grass;
he flourishes like a flower of the field;
16 for the wind passes over it, and it is gone,
and its place knows it no more.
17† But the steadfast love of the Lord is from everlasting to everlasting on those who
fear him,
and his righteousness to children's
children,
18† to those who keep his covenant
and remember to do his commandments.
19† The Lord has established his throne in the heavens,
and his kingdom rules over all.

20†† Bless the Lord, O you his angels,
you mighty ones who do his word,
obeying the voice of his word!
21† Bless the Lord, all his hosts,
his ministers, who do his will!
22† Bless the Lord, all his works,
in all places of his dominion.
Bless the Lord, O my soul!

O Lord My God, You Are Very Great

104

1 ✝Bless the Lord, O my soul!
O Lord my God, you are very great!
You are clothed with splendor and majesty,

2 ✝✝ covering yourself with light as with a garment,
stretching out the heavens like a tent.
3 ✝ He lays the beams of his chambers on
the waters;
he makes the clouds his chariot;
he rides on the wings of the wind;
4 he makes his messengers winds,
his ministers a flaming fire.

5 ✝ He set the earth on its foundations,
so that it should never be moved.
6 You covered it with the deep as with a garment;
the waters stood above the mountains.
7 At your rebuke they fled;
at the sound of your thunder they took to flight.
8 The mountains rose, the valleys sank down to the place that you appointed for them.
9 You set a boundary that they may not pass,
so that they might not again cover
the earth.

10 ✝ You make springs gush forth in the valleys;
they flow between the hills;

11 they give drink to every beast of the field;
the wild donkeys quench their thirst.
12 Beside them the birds of the heavens dwell;
they sing among the branches.
13† From your lofty abode you water the mountains;
the earth is satisfied with the fruit of your work.

14† You cause the grass to grow for the livestock and plants for man to cultivate,
that he may bring forth food from the earth 15† and wine to gladden the heart of man, oil to make his face shine
and bread to strengthen man's heart.

16† The trees of the LORD are watered abundantly,
the cedars of Lebanon that he planted.
17 In them the birds build their nests;
the stork has her home in the fir trees.
18 The high mountains are for the wild goats;
the rocks are a refuge for the rock badgers.

19 He made the moon to mark the seasons;[1]
the sun knows its time for setting.
20† You make darkness, and it is night,
when all the beasts of the forest creep about.
21 The young lions roar for their prey,
seeking their food from God.
22 When the sun rises, they steal away
and lie down in their dens.
23† Man goes out to his work and to his labor until the evening.

24 O Lord, how manifold are your works!
In wisdom have you made them all;
the earth is full of your creatures.
25 Here is the sea, great and wide,
which teems with creatures innumerable,
living things both small and great.
26 There go the ships,
and Leviathan, which you formed to play
in it.[1]

27 These all look to you,
to give them their food in due season.
28 When you give it to them, they gather it up;
when you open your hand, they are filled with good things.
29 When you hide your face, they are dismayed;
when you take away their breath, they die
and return to their dust.
30 When you send forth your Spirit,[2] they are created,
and you renew the face of the ground.

31 May the glory of the Lord endure forever;
may the Lord rejoice in his works, 32 who looks on the earth and it trembles,
who touches the mountains and they
smoke!
33 I will sing to the Lord as long as I live;
I will sing praise to my God while I have
being.
34 May my meditation be pleasing to him,
for I rejoice in the Lord.

35† Let sinners be consumed from the earth,
and let the wicked be no more!
Bless the LORD, O my soul!
Praise the LORD!

Tell of All His Wonderful Works

105 [1]†† Oh give thanks to the Lord; call upon his name;
make known his deeds among the peoples!

[2]† Sing to him, sing praises to him;
tell of all his wondrous works!
[3] Glory in his holy name;
let the hearts of those who seek the Lord
rejoice!
[4] Seek the Lord and his strength;
seek his presence continually!
[5]† Remember the wondrous works that he has
done,
his miracles, and the judgments he uttered,
[6] O offspring of Abraham, his servant,
children of Jacob, his chosen ones!

[7]† He is the Lord our God;
his judgments are in all the earth.
[8] He remembers his covenant forever,
the word that he commanded, for a
thousand generations,
[9] the covenant that he made with Abraham,
his sworn promise to Isaac,
[10] which he confirmed to Jacob as a statute,
to Israel as an everlasting covenant, [11] saying, “To you I will give the land of Canaan
as your portion for an inheritance.”

12† When they were few in number,
of little account, and sojourners in it,
13 wandering from nation to nation,
from one kingdom to another people,
14 he allowed no one to oppress them;
he rebuked kings on their account,
15† saying, “Touch not my anointed ones,
do my prophets no harm!”

16†† When he summoned a famine on the land and broke all supply[1] of bread, 17 he had sent a man ahead of them,
Joseph, who was sold as a slave.
18† His feet were hurt with fetters;
his neck was put in a collar of iron;
19† until what he had said came to pass,
the word of the Lord tested him.
20 The king sent and released him;
the ruler of the peoples set him free;
21 he made him lord of his house
and ruler of all his possessions, 22† to bind[2] his princes at his pleasure
and to teach his elders wisdom.

23† Then Israel came to Egypt;
Jacob sojourned in the land of Ham.
24 And the Lord made his people very fruitful and made them stronger than their foes.
25† He turned their hearts to hate his people,
to deal craftily with his servants.

26† He sent Moses, his servant,
and Aaron, whom he had chosen.

27 They performed his signs among them
and miracles in the land of Ham.
28 He sent darkness, and made the land dark;
they did not rebel[3] against his words.
29 He turned their waters into blood
and caused their fish to die.
30 Their land swarmed with frogs,
even in the chambers of their kings.
31 He spoke, and there came swarms of flies,
and gnats throughout their country.
32 He gave them hail for rain,
and fiery lightning bolts through their land.
33 He struck down their vines and fig trees,
and shattered the trees of their country.
34 He spoke, and the locusts came,
young locusts without number,
35 which devoured all the vegetation in their land
and ate up the fruit of their ground.
36 He struck down all the firstborn in their land,
the firstfruits of all their strength.

37 † Then he brought out Israel with silver and gold,
and there was none among his tribes who stumbled.
38 Egypt was glad when they departed,
for dread of them had fallen upon it.

39 He spread a cloud for a covering,
and fire to give light by night.
40 They asked, and he brought quail, and gave them bread from heaven in

abundance.
41 He opened the rock, and water gushed
out;
it flowed through the desert like a river.
42 For he remembered his holy promise,
and Abraham, his servant.

43 So he brought his people out with joy,
his chosen ones with singing.
44 And he gave them the lands of the nations,
and they took possession of the fruit of the peoples' toil,
45 that they might keep his statutes
and observe his laws.
Praise the LORD!

Give Thanks to the Lord, for He Is Good

106 [1]† Praise the Lord!
Oh give thanks to the Lord, for he is
good,
for his steadfast love endures forever!

[2]† Who can utter the mighty deeds of the Lord,
or declare all his praise?
[3]† Blessed are they who observe justice,
who do righteousness at all times!

[4]† Remember me, O Lord, when you show favor to your people;
help me when you save them,[1] [5]† that I may look upon the prosperity of your chosen ones,
that I may rejoice in the gladness of your
nation,
that I may glory with your inheritance.

[6]†† Both we and our fathers have sinned;
we have committed iniquity; we have done
wickedness.
[7]† Our fathers, when they were in Egypt,
did not consider your wondrous
works;
they did not remember the abundance of your steadfast love,
but rebelled by the sea, at the Red Sea.
[8]† Yet he saved them for his name's sake,
that he might make known his mighty

power.
9 He rebuked the Red Sea, and it became dry,
and he led them through the deep as through a desert.
10† So he saved them from the hand of the foe and redeemed them from the power of the enemy.
11 And the waters covered their adversaries;
not one of them was left.
12† Then they believed his words;
they sang his praise.

13† But they soon forgot his works;
they did not wait for his counsel.
14† But they had a wanton craving in the wilderness,
and put God to the test in the desert;
15† he gave them what they asked,
but sent a wasting disease among them.

16† When men in the camp were jealous of Moses
and Aaron, the holy one of the LORD, 17† the earth opened and swallowed up Dathan,
and covered the company of Abiram.
18 Fire also broke out in their company;
the flame burned up the wicked.

19† They made a calf in Horeb
and worshiped a metal image.
20† They exchanged the glory of God
for the image of an ox that eats grass.
21 They forgot God, their Savior,

who had done great things in Egypt, 22† wondrous works in the land of Ham,
and awesome deeds by the Red Sea.
23† Therefore he said he would destroy
them—
had not Moses, his chosen one,
stood in the breach before him,
to turn away his wrath from destroying
them.

24† Then they despised the pleasant land,
having no faith in his promise.
25 They murmured in their tents,
and did not obey the voice of the Lord.
26 Therefore he raised his hand and swore to
them
that he would make them fall in the
wilderness,
27 and would make their offspring fall among the
nations,
scattering them among the lands.

28† Then they yoked themselves to the Baal of Peor,
and ate sacrifices offered to the dead;
29 they provoked the Lord to anger with their
deeds,
and a plague broke out among them.
30† Then Phinehas stood up and intervened,
and the plague was stayed.
31† And that was counted to him as
righteousness
from generation to generation forever.

32† They angered him at the waters of Meribah,
and it went ill with Moses on their
account,
33 for they made his spirit bitter,[1]
and he spoke rashly with his lips.

34† They did not destroy the peoples,
as the Lord commanded them, 35 but they mixed with the nations
and learned to do as they did.
36† They served their idols,
which became a snare to them.
37† They sacrificed their sons
and their daughters to the demons; 38† they poured out innocent blood,
the blood of their sons and daughters,
whom they sacrificed to the idols of Canaan,
and the land was polluted with blood.
39† Thus they became unclean by their acts,
and played the whore in their deeds.

40† Then the anger of the Lord was kindled against his people,
and he abhorred his heritage;
41 he gave them into the hand of the nations,
so that those who hated them ruled over
them.
42 Their enemies oppressed them,
and they were brought into subjection under their power.
43 Many times he delivered them,
but they were rebellious in their purposes

and were brought low through their iniquity.

44† Nevertheless, he looked upon their distress,
when he heard their cry.
45† For their sake he remembered his covenant,
and relented according to the abundance of his steadfast love.
46† He caused them to be pitied
by all those who held them captive.

47 Save us, O LORD our God,
and gather us from among the nations,
that we may give thanks to your holy name
and glory in your praise.

48† Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel,
from everlasting to everlasting!
And let all the people say, "Amen!"
Praise the LORD!

BOOK FIVE

Let the Redeemed of the Lord Say So

107 [1]†† Oh give thanks to the Lord, for he is good,
for his steadfast love endures forever!

[2]† Let the redeemed of the Lord say so,
whom he has redeemed from trouble[1] [3]† and gathered in from the lands,
from the east and from the west,
from the north and from the south.

[4]† Some wandered in desert wastes, finding no way to a city to dwell in;
[5] hungry and thirsty,
their soul fainted within them.
[6]† Then they cried to the Lord in their trouble,
and he delivered them from their distress.
[7] He led them by a straight way till they reached a city to dwell in.
[8]† Let them thank the Lord for his steadfast love,
for his wondrous works to the children of
man!
[9]† For he satisfies the longing soul,
and the hungry soul he fills with good things.

[10]† Some sat in darkness and in the shadow of
death,
prisoners in affliction and in irons, [11]† for they had rebelled against the words of God,
and spurned the counsel of the Most High.

12† So he bowed their hearts down with hard labor;
they fell down, with none to help.
13† Then they cried to the Lord in their trouble,
and he delivered them from their distress.
14† He brought them out of darkness and the shadow of death,
and burst their bonds apart.
15 Let them thank the Lord for his steadfast love,
for his wondrous works to the children of
man!
16† For he shatters the doors of bronze
and cuts in two the bars of iron.

17† Some were fools through their sinful ways,
and because of their iniquities suffered affliction;
18† they loathed any kind of food,
and they drew near to the gates of death.
19 Then they cried to the Lord in their trouble,
and he delivered them from their distress.
20† He sent out his word and healed them,
and delivered them from their destruction.
21 Let them thank the Lord for his steadfast love,
for his wondrous works to the children of
man!
22 And let them offer sacrifices of thanksgiving,
and tell of his deeds in songs of joy!

23† Some went down to the sea in ships,
doing business on the great waters;
24 they saw the deeds of the Lord,
his wondrous works in the deep.
25 For he commanded and raised the stormy

wind,
which lifted up the waves of the sea.
26 They mounted up to heaven; they went down to the depths;
their courage melted away in their evil plight;
27 they reeled and staggered like drunken men
and were at their wits' end.[2]
28 Then they cried to the LORD in their trouble,
and he delivered them from their distress.
29 He made the storm be still,
and the waves of the sea were hushed.
30 Then they were glad that the waters[1] were
quiet,
and he brought them to their desired haven.
31 Let them thank the LORD for his steadfast love,
for his wondrous works to the children of
man!
32 Let them extol him in the congregation of the people,
and praise him in the assembly of the elders.

33 He turns rivers into a desert,
springs of water into thirsty ground, 34 a fruitful land into a salty waste,
because of the evil of its inhabitants.
35 He turns a desert into pools of water,
a parched land into springs of water.
36 And there he lets the hungry dwell,
and they establish a city to live in;
37 they sow fields and plant vineyards
and get a fruitful yield.
38 By his blessing they multiply greatly,
and he does not let their livestock diminish.

39 When they are diminished and brought low through oppression, evil, and sorrow,
40 he pours contempt on princes
and makes them wander in trackless wastes;
41† but he raises up the needy out of affliction
and makes their families like flocks.
42 The upright see it and are glad,
and all wickedness shuts its mouth.

43† Whoever is wise, let him attend to these things;
let them consider the steadfast love of the
LORD.

With God We Shall Do Valiantly

108 [1]A Song. A Psalm of David.

My heart is steadfast, O God!
I will sing and make melody with all my being![2]

[2] Awake, O harp and lyre!
I will awake the dawn!
[3] I will give thanks to you, O Lord, among the peoples;
I will sing praises to you among the nations.
[4] For your steadfast love is great above the heavens;
your faithfulness reaches to the clouds.

[5] Be exalted, O God, above the heavens!
Let your glory be over all the earth!
[6] That your beloved ones may be delivered,
give salvation by your right hand and answer me!

[7] God has promised in his holiness:[3]
"With exultation I will divide up Shechem
and portion out the Valley of Succoth.
[8] Gilead is mine; Manasseh is mine;
Ephraim is my helmet,
Judah my scepter.
[9] Moab is my washbasin;
upon Edom I cast my shoe;
over Philistia I shout in triumph."

10 Who will bring me to the fortified city?
Who will lead me to Edom?
11 Have you not rejected us, O God?
You do not go out, O God, with our armies.
12 Oh grant us help against the foe,
for vain is the salvation of man!
13 With God we shall do valiantly;
it is he who will tread down our foes.

Help Me, O Lord My God

109 [1]To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.
Be not silent, O God of my praise!

[2]† For wicked and deceitful mouths are opened
against me,
speaking against me with lying tongues.
[3] They encircle me with words of hate,
and attack me without cause.
[4]† In return for my love they accuse me,
but I give myself to prayer.[1] [5] So they reward me evil for good,
and hatred for my love.

[6]† Appoint a wicked man against him;
let an accuser stand at his right hand.
[7]† When he is tried, let him come forth guilty;
let his prayer be counted as sin!
[8]† May his days be few;
may another take his office!
[9]† May his children be fatherless
and his wife a widow!
[10]† May his children wander about and beg, seeking food far from the ruins they inhabit!
[11] May the creditor seize all that he has;
may strangers plunder the fruits of his toil!
[12] Let there be none to extend kindness to
him,
nor any to pity his fatherless children!
[13] May his posterity be cut off;

may his name be blotted out in the second
generation!
14 May the iniquity of his fathers be remembered before the LORD,
and let not the sin of his mother be blotted
out!
15 Let them be before the LORD continually,
that he may cut off the memory of them
from the earth!

16 For he did not remember to show
kindness,
but pursued the poor and needy
and the brokenhearted, to put them to death.
17 He loved to curse; let curses come[2] upon
him!
He did not delight in blessing; may it be far[3] from him!
18 He clothed himself with cursing as his coat;
may it soak[4] into his body like water,
like oil into his bones!
19 May it be like a garment that he wraps
around him,
like a belt that he puts on every day!
20 May this be the reward of my accusers from
the LORD,
of those who speak evil against my life!

21 But you, O GOD my Lord, deal on my behalf for your name's sake;
because your steadfast love is good,
deliver me!
22 For I am poor and needy,

and my heart is stricken within me.
23 I am gone like a shadow at evening;
I am shaken off like a locust.
24 My knees are weak through fasting;
my body has become gaunt, with no fat.
25 I am an object of scorn to my accusers;
when they see me, they wag their heads.

26† Help me, O Lord my God!
Save me according to your steadfast love!
27 Let them know that this is your hand;
you, O Lord, have done it!
28† Let them curse, but you will bless!
They arise and are put to shame, but your servant will be glad!
29 May my accusers be clothed with dishonor;
may they be wrapped in their own shame
as in a cloak!

30 With my mouth I will give great thanks to the Lord;
I will praise him in the midst of the throng.
31 For he stands at the right hand of the needy
one,
to save him from those who condemn his soul to death.

Sit at My Right Hand

110

1 † A Psalm of David.

The Lord says to my Lord:
"Sit at my right hand,
until I make your enemies your footstool."

2 † The Lord sends forth from Zion
your mighty scepter.
Rule in the midst of your enemies!
3 † Your people will offer themselves freely on the day of your power,[1]
in holy garments;[2]
from the womb of the morning,
the dew of your youth will be yours.[3] 4 † The Lord has sworn and will not change his mind,
"You are a priest forever
after the order of Melchizedek."

5 † The Lord is at your right hand;
he will shatter kings on the day of his wrath.
6 † He will execute judgment among the nations,
filling them with corpses;
he will shatter chiefs[4]
over the wide earth.
7 † He will drink from the brook by the way;
therefore he will lift up his head.

Great Are the Lord's Works

111 [1]† [5] Praise the Lord!
I will give thanks to the Lord with my whole heart,
in the company of the upright, in the congregation.

[2]†† Great are the works of the Lord,
studied by all who delight in them.
[3] Full of splendor and majesty is his work,
and his righteousness endures forever.
[4] He has caused his wondrous works to be remembered;
the Lord is gracious and merciful.
[5]† He provides food for those who fear him;
he remembers his covenant forever.
[6]† He has shown his people the power of his works,
in giving them the inheritance of the
nations.
[7] The works of his hands are faithful and just;
all his precepts are trustworthy;
[8] they are established forever and ever,
to be performed with faithfulness and
uprightness.
[9] He sent redemption to his people;
he has commanded his covenant forever.
Holy and awesome is his name!
[10]† The fear of the Lord is the beginning of
wisdom;
all those who practice it have a good
understanding.
His praise endures forever!

The Righteous Will Never Be Moved

112 [1]† [1] Praise the Lord!
Blessed is the man who fears the Lord,
who greatly delights in his
commandments!

[2]† His offspring will be mighty in the
land;
the generation of the upright will be blessed.
[3]† Wealth and riches are in his house,
and his righteousness endures forever.
[4]† Light dawns in the darkness for the
upright;
he is gracious, merciful, and righteous.
[5]† It is well with the man who deals generously and lends;
who conducts his affairs with justice.
[6]† For the righteous will never be moved;
he will be remembered forever.
[7]† He is not afraid of bad news;
his heart is firm, trusting in the Lord.
[8] His heart is steady; he will not be afraid, until he looks in triumph on his adversaries.
[9]† He has distributed freely; he has given to the poor;
his righteousness endures forever;
his horn is exalted in honor.
[10]† The wicked man sees it and is angry;
he gnashes his teeth and melts away;
the desire of the wicked will perish!

Who Is like the Lord Our God?

113

1 †Praise the Lord!
Praise, O servants of the Lord,
praise the name of the Lord!

2 Blessed be the name of the Lord
from this time forth and forevermore!
3† From the rising of the sun to its setting,
the name of the Lord is to be praised!

4† The Lord is high above all nations,
and his glory above the heavens!
5 Who is like the Lord our God,
who is seated on high,
6 who looks far down
on the heavens and the earth?
7† He raises the poor from the dust
and lifts the needy from the ash heap, 8 to make them sit with princes,
with the princes of his people.
9† He gives the barren woman a home, making her the joyous mother of
children.
Praise the Lord!

Tremble at the Presence of the Lord

114 [1]When Israel went out from Egypt, the house of Jacob from a people of strange language,

[2]† Judah became his sanctuary,
Israel his dominion.

[3]† The sea looked and fled;
Jordan turned back.
[4] The mountains skipped like rams,
the hills like lambs.

[5] What ails you, O sea, that you flee?
O Jordan, that you turn back?
[6] O mountains, that you skip like rams?
O hills, like lambs?

[7]† Tremble, O earth, at the presence of the Lord,
at the presence of the God of Jacob, [8] who turns the rock into a pool of water,
the flint into a spring of water.

To Your Name Give Glory

115 [1]†Not to us, O Lord, not to us, but to your name give glory, for the sake of your steadfast love and your faithfulness!

[2] Why should the nations say,
"Where is their God?"
[3]† Our God is in the heavens;
he does all that he pleases.

[4]† Their idols are silver and gold,
the work of human hands.
[5] They have mouths, but do not speak;
eyes, but do not see.
[6] They have ears, but do not hear;
noses, but do not smell.
[7] They have hands, but do not feel;
feet, but do not walk;
and they do not make a sound in their throat.
[8]† Those who make them become like them;
so do all who trust in them.

[9]† O Israel,[1] trust in the Lord!
He is their help and their shield.
[10] O house of Aaron, trust in the Lord!
He is their help and their shield.
[11] You who fear the Lord, trust in the Lord!
He is their help and their shield.

[12]† The Lord has remembered us; he will bless us;
he will bless the house of Israel;

he will bless the house of Aaron;
13 he will bless those who fear the LORD,
both the small and the great.

14 † May the LORD give you increase,
you and your children!
15 May you be blessed by the LORD,
who made heaven and earth!

16 † The heavens are the LORD's heavens, but the earth he has given to the children of
man.
17 † The dead do not praise the LORD,
nor do any who go down into silence.
18 † But we will bless the LORD
from this time forth and forevermore.
Praise the LORD!

I Love the Lord

116 [1]† I love the Lord, because he has heard my voice and my pleas for mercy.

[2] Because he inclined his ear to me,
therefore I will call on him as long as I live.
[3]† The snares of death encompassed me;
the pangs of Sheol laid hold on me;
I suffered distress and anguish.
[4]† Then I called on the name of the Lord:
"O Lord, I pray, deliver my soul!"

[5]† Gracious is the Lord, and righteous;
our God is merciful.
[6]† The Lord preserves the simple;
when I was brought low, he saved me.
[7]† Return, O my soul, to your rest;
for the Lord has dealt bountifully with you.

[8] For you have delivered my soul from death,
my eyes from tears,
my feet from stumbling;
[9]† I will walk before the Lord
in the land of the living.

[10]† I believed, even when[1] I spoke,
"I am greatly afflicted";
[11]† I said in my alarm,
"All mankind are liars."

12† What shall I render to the Lord
for all his benefits to me?
13† I will lift up the cup of salvation
and call on the name of the Lord,
14† I will pay my vows to the Lord
in the presence of all his people.

15† Precious in the sight of the Lord
is the death of his saints.
16† O Lord, I am your servant;
I am your servant, the son of your maidservant.
You have loosed my bonds.
17† I will offer to you the sacrifice of thanksgiving
and call on the name of the Lord.
18† I will pay my vows to the Lord
in the presence of all his people, 19† in the courts of the house of the Lord,
in your midst, O Jerusalem.
Praise the Lord!

The Lord's Faithfulness Endures Forever

117 [1] †Praise the Lord, all nations!
Extol him, all peoples!

[2] For great is his steadfast love toward us,
and the faithfulness of the Lord endures
forever.
Praise the Lord!

His Steadfast Love Endures Forever

118 [1]†† Oh give thanks to the Lord, for he is
good;
for his steadfast love endures forever!

[2]† Let Israel say,
"His steadfast love endures
forever."
[3] Let the house of Aaron say,
"His steadfast love endures forever."
[4] Let those who fear the Lord say,
"His steadfast love endures forever."

[5]†† Out of my distress I called on the Lord;
the Lord answered me and set me free.
[6]† The Lord is on my side; I will not fear.
What can man do to me?
[7] The Lord is on my side as my helper;
I shall look in triumph on those who
hate me.

[8] It is better to take refuge in the Lord
than to trust in man.
[9] It is better to take refuge in the Lord
than to trust in princes.

[10]† All nations surrounded me;
in the name of the Lord I cut them off!
[11] They surrounded me, surrounded me on every side;
in the name of the Lord I cut them off!

12 † They surrounded me like bees;
they went out like a fire among thorns;
in the name of the Lord I cut them off!
13 † I was pushed hard,[1] so that I was falling,
but the Lord helped me.

14 † The Lord is my strength and my song;
he has become my salvation.
15 Glad songs of salvation are in the tents of the righteous:
"The right hand of the Lord does valiantly,
16 the right hand of the Lord exalts,
the right hand of the Lord does valiantly!"

17 † I shall not die, but I shall live,
and recount the deeds of the Lord.
18 † The Lord has disciplined me severely,
but he has not given me over to death.

19 †† Open to me the gates of righteousness,
that I may enter through them
and give thanks to the Lord.
20 † This is the gate of the Lord;
the righteous shall enter through it.
21 I thank you that you have answered me
and have become my salvation.
22 † The stone that the builders rejected
has become the cornerstone.[2] 23 † This is the Lord's doing;
it is marvelous in our eyes.
24 † This is the day that the Lord has made;
let us rejoice and be glad in it.

25† Save us, we pray, O Lord!
O Lord, we pray, give us success!

26† Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord!
We bless you from the house of the Lord.
27† The Lord is God,
and he has made his light to shine upon us.
Bind the festal sacrifice with cords,
up to the horns of the altar!

28 You are my God, and I will give thanks to you;
you are my God; I will extol you.
29† Oh give thanks to the Lord, for he is good;
for his steadfast love endures forever!

Your Word Is a Lamp to My Feet

Aleph

119 1 † [1] Blessed are those whose way is blameless, who walk in the law of the Lord!

2 † Blessed are those who keep his testimonies,
who seek him with their whole heart,
3 who also do no wrong,
but walk in his ways!
4 † You have commanded your precepts
to be kept diligently.
5 Oh that my ways may be steadfast
in keeping your statutes!
6 Then I shall not be put to shame, having my eyes fixed on all your
commandments.
7 I will praise you with an upright heart,
when I learn your righteous rules.[2] 8 † I will keep your statutes;
do not utterly forsake me!

Beth

9 † How can a young man keep his way
pure?
By guarding it according to your word.
10 † With my whole heart I seek you;
let me not wander from your
commandments!
11 † I have stored up your word in my heart,
that I might not sin against you.

12† Blessed are you, O Lord;
teach me your statutes!
13† With my lips I declare
all the rules[3] of your mouth.
14 In the way of your testimonies I delight
as much as in all riches.
15† I will meditate on your precepts
and fix my eyes on your ways.
16 I will delight in your statutes;
I will not forget your word.

Gimel

17† Deal bountifully with your servant,
that I may live and keep your word.
18† Open my eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of your law.
19† I am a sojourner on the earth;
hide not your commandments from me!
20† My soul is consumed with longing
for your rules[1] at all times.
21† You rebuke the insolent, accursed ones,
who wander from your commandments.
22 Take away from me scorn and contempt,
for I have kept your testimonies.
23† Even though princes sit plotting against me,
your servant will meditate on your statutes.
24† Your testimonies are my delight;
they are my counselors.

Daleth

25† My soul clings to the dust;
give me life according to your word!

26† When I told of my ways, you answered me;
teach me your statutes!
27† Make me understand the way of your
precepts,
and I will meditate on your wondrous works.
28† My soul melts away for sorrow;
strengthen me according to your word!
29 Put false ways far from me
and graciously teach me your law!
30† I have chosen the way of faithfulness;
I set your rules before me.
31 I cling to your testimonies, O Lord;
let me not be put to shame!
32† I will run in the way of your commandments
when you enlarge my heart![2]

He

33† Teach me, O Lord, the way of your statutes;
and I will keep it to the end.[3] 34† Give me understanding, that I may keep your law
and observe it with my whole heart.
35† Lead me in the path of your commandments,
for I delight in it.
36 Incline my heart to your testimonies,
and not to selfish gain!
37† Turn my eyes from looking at worthless things;
and give me life in your ways.
38† Confirm to your servant your promise,
that you may be feared.
39 Turn away the reproach that I dread,
for your rules are good.

40† Behold, I long for your precepts;
in your righteousness give me life!

Waw

41† Let your steadfast love come to me,
O Lord,
your salvation according to your promise;
42† then shall I have an answer for him who taunts me,
for I trust in your word.
43 And take not the word of truth utterly out of
my mouth,
for my hope is in your rules.
44 I will keep your law continually,
forever and ever,
45† and I shall walk in a wide place,
for I have sought your precepts.
46† I will also speak of your testimonies before
kings
and shall not be put to shame, 47† for I find my delight in your commandments,
which I love.
48† I will lift up my hands toward your commandments, which I love,
and I will meditate on your statutes.

Zayin

49† Remember your word to your servant,
in which you have made me hope.
50† This is my comfort in my affliction,
that your promise gives me life.
51† The insolent utterly deride me,

but I do not turn away from your law.
52 When I think of your rules from of old,
I take comfort, O Lord.
53 Hot indignation seizes me because of the wicked,
who forsake your law.
54 Your statutes have been my songs
in the house of my sojourning.
55 I remember your name in the night, O Lord,
and keep your law.
56 This blessing has fallen to me,
that I have kept your precepts.

Heth

57 The Lord is my portion;
I promise to keep your words.
58 I entreat your favor with all my heart;
be gracious to me according to your promise.
59 When I think on my ways,
I turn my feet to your testimonies;
60 I hasten and do not delay
to keep your commandments.
61 Though the cords of the wicked ensnare me,
I do not forget your law.
62 At midnight I rise to praise you,
because of your righteous rules.
63 I am a companion of all who fear you,
of those who keep your precepts.
64 The earth, O Lord, is full of your steadfast
love;
teach me your statutes!

Teth

65 † You have dealt well with your servant,
O LORD, according to your word.
66 Teach me good judgment and knowledge,
for I believe in your commandments.
67 † Before I was afflicted I went astray,
but now I keep your word.
68 You are good and do good;
teach me your statutes.
69 The insolent smear me with lies, but with my whole heart I keep your
precepts;
70 † their heart is unfeeling like fat,
but I delight in your law.
71 † It is good for me that I was afflicted,
that I might learn your statutes.
72 The law of your mouth is better to me than thousands of gold and silver pieces.

YODH

73 † Your hands have made and fashioned me;
give me understanding that I may learn your
commandments.
74 † Those who fear you shall see me and
rejoice,
because I have hoped in your word.
75 † I know, O LORD, that your rules are
righteous,
and that in faithfulness you have
afflicted me.
76 † Let your steadfast love comfort me
according to your promise to your servant.
77 Let your mercy come to me, that I may live;

for your law is my delight.
78† Let the insolent be put to shame, because they have wronged me with
falsehood;
as for me, I will meditate on your
precepts.
79 Let those who fear you turn to me,
that they may know your testimonies.
80 May my heart be blameless in your
statutes,
that I may not be put to shame!

Kaph

81† My soul longs for your salvation;
I hope in your word.
82 My eyes long for your promise;
I ask, “When will you comfort me?” 83† For I have become like a wineskin in the smoke,
yet I have not forgotten your statutes.
84 How long must your servant endure?[1]
When will you judge those who persecute me?
85† The insolent have dug pitfalls for me;
they do not live according to your law.
86 All your commandments are sure;
they persecute me with falsehood; help me!
87 They have almost made an end of me on
earth,
but I have not forsaken your precepts.
88† In your steadfast love give me life,
that I may keep the testimonies of your mouth.

Lamedh

89† Forever, O Lord, your word is firmly fixed in the heavens.
90 Your faithfulness endures to all generations;
you have established the earth, and it stands fast.
91† By your appointment they stand this day,
for all things are your servants.
92 If your law had not been my delight,
I would have perished in my affliction.
93† I will never forget your precepts,
for by them you have given me life.
94† I am yours; save me,
for I have sought your precepts.
95† The wicked lie in wait to destroy me,
but I consider your testimonies.
96† I have seen a limit to all perfection, but your commandment is exceedingly broad.

Mem

97† Oh how I love your law!
It is my meditation all the day.
98 Your commandment makes me wiser than my enemies,
for it is ever with me.
99† I have more understanding than all my teachers,
for your testimonies are my meditation.
100† I understand more than the aged,[2]
for I keep your precepts.

101 I hold back my feet from every evil way,
in order to keep your word.
102† I do not turn aside from your rules,
for you have taught me.
103† How sweet are your words to my taste,
sweeter than honey to my mouth!
104† Through your precepts I get understanding;
therefore I hate every false way.

Nun

105† Your word is a lamp to my feet
and a light to my path.
106† I have sworn an oath and confirmed it,
to keep your righteous rules.
107† I am severely afflicted;
give me life, O Lord, according to your word!
108† Accept my freewill offerings of praise, O Lord,
and teach me your rules.
109† I hold my life in my hand continually,
but I do not forget your law.
110 The wicked have laid a snare for me,
but I do not stray from your precepts.
111† Your testimonies are my heritage forever,
for they are the joy of my heart.
112 I incline my heart to perform your statutes forever, to the end.[1]

Samekh

113† I hate the double-minded,
but I love your law.

114 You are my hiding place and my shield;
I hope in your word.
115† Depart from me, you evildoers,
that I may keep the commandments of my God.
116 Uphold me according to your promise, that I may live,
and let me not be put to shame in my hope!
117 Hold me up, that I may be safe
and have regard for your statutes continually!
118 You spurn all who go astray from your statutes,
for their cunning is in vain.
119† All the wicked of the earth you discard like dross, therefore I love your testimonies.
120† My flesh trembles for fear of you,
and I am afraid of your judgments.

Ayin

121† I have done what is just and right;
do not leave me to my oppressors.
122† Give your servant a pledge of good;
let not the insolent oppress me.
123 My eyes long for your salvation
and for the fulfillment of your righteous promise.
124 Deal with your servant according to your steadfast love,
and teach me your statutes.
125 I am your servant; give me understanding,

that I may know your testimonies!
126† It is time for the Lord to act,
for your law has been broken.
127 Therefore I love your commandments above gold, above fine gold.
128† Therefore I consider all your precepts to be right;
I hate every false way.

Pe

129 Your testimonies are wonderful;
therefore my soul keeps them.
130† The unfolding of your words gives light;
it imparts understanding to the simple.
131† I open my mouth and pant,
because I long for your commandments.
132 Turn to me and be gracious to me,
as is your way with those who love your
name.
133† Keep steady my steps according to your promise,
and let no iniquity get dominion over me.
134† Redeem me from man's oppression,
that I may keep your precepts.
135† Make your face shine upon your servant,
and teach me your statutes.
136† My eyes shed streams of tears,
because people do not keep your law.

Tsadhe

137 Righteous are you, O Lord,
and right are your rules.

138 You have appointed your testimonies in righteousness
and in all faithfulness.
139† My zeal consumes me,
because my foes forget your words.
140† Your promise is well tried,
and your servant loves it.
141† I am small and despised,
yet I do not forget your precepts.
142† Your righteousness is righteous forever,
and your law is true.
143 Trouble and anguish have found me out,
but your commandments are my delight.
144 Your testimonies are righteous forever;
give me understanding that I may live.

Qoph

145 With my whole heart I cry; answer me,
O Lord!
I will keep your statutes.
146 I call to you; save me,
that I may observe your testimonies.
147† I rise before dawn and cry for help;
I hope in your words.
148† My eyes are awake before the watches of the
night,
that I may meditate on your promise.
149† Hear my voice according to your steadfast love;
O Lord, according to your justice give me life.
150† They draw near who persecute me with evil
purpose;
they are far from your law.
151 But you are near, O Lord,

and all your commandments are true.
152 Long have I known from your testimonies that you have founded them forever.

Resh

153 Look on my affliction and deliver me,
for I do not forget your law.
154† Plead my cause and redeem me;
give me life according to your promise!
155† Salvation is far from the wicked,
for they do not seek your statutes.
156† Great is your mercy, O Lord;
give me life according to your rules.
157 Many are my persecutors and my adversaries,
but I do not swerve from your testimonies.
158 I look at the faithless with disgust,
because they do not keep your commands.
159† Consider how I love your precepts!
Give me life according to your steadfast love.
160† The sum of your word is truth,
and every one of your righteous rules
endures forever.

Sin and Shin

161† Princes persecute me without cause,
but my heart stands in awe of your words.
162† I rejoice at your word
like one who finds great spoil.
163 I hate and abhor falsehood,
but I love your law.
164† Seven times a day I praise you for your righteous rules.

165† Great peace have those who love your law;
nothing can make them stumble.
166 I hope for your salvation, O Lord,
and I do your commandments.
167 My soul keeps your testimonies;
I love them exceedingly.
168† I keep your precepts and testimonies,
for all my ways are before you.

Taw

169† Let my cry come before you, O Lord;
give me understanding according to your word!
170† Let my plea come before you;
deliver me according to your word.
171 My lips will pour forth praise,
for you teach me your statutes.
172 My tongue will sing of your word,
for all your commandments are right.
173 Let your hand be ready to help me,
for I have chosen your precepts.
174† I long for your salvation, O Lord,
and your law is my delight.
175 Let my soul live and praise you,
and let your rules help me.
176† I have gone astray like a lost sheep; seek your servant,
for I do not forget your commandments.

Deliver Me, O Lord

120

[1] A Song of Ascents.

In my distress I called to the Lord,
and he answered me.

[2] Deliver me, O Lord,
from lying lips,
from a deceitful tongue.

[3] What shall be given to you,
and what more shall be done to you,
you deceitful tongue?
[4] A warrior's sharp arrows,
with glowing coals of the broom tree!

[5] Woe to me, that I sojourn in Meshech, that I dwell among the tents of Kedar!
[6] Too long have I had my dwelling among those who hate peace.
[7] I am for peace,
but when I speak, they are for war!

My Help Comes from the Lord

121

[1] A Song of Ascents.

I lift up my eyes to the hills.
From where does my help come?

[2] My help comes from the Lord,
who made heaven and earth.

[3] He will not let your foot be moved;
he who keeps you will not slumber.
[4] Behold, he who keeps Israel will neither slumber nor sleep.

[5] The Lord is your keeper;
the Lord is your shade on your right hand.
[6] The sun shall not strike you by day,
nor the moon by night.

[7] The Lord will keep you from all evil;
he will keep your life.
[8] The Lord will keep your going out and your coming in
from this time forth and forevermore.

Let Us Go to the House of the Lord

122 [1] A Song of Ascents. Of David.

I was glad when they said to me,
"Let us go to the house of the Lord!"

[2] Our feet have been standing within your gates, O Jerusalem!

[3] Jerusalem—built as a city
that is bound firmly together, [4] to which the tribes go up,
the tribes of the Lord,
as was decreed for[1] Israel,
to give thanks to the name of the Lord.
[5] There thrones for judgment were set,
the thrones of the house of David.

[6] Pray for the peace of Jerusalem!
"May they be secure who love you!
[7] Peace be within your walls
and security within your towers!"
[8] For my brothers and companions' sake
I will say, "Peace be within you!"
[9] For the sake of the house of the Lord
our God,
I will seek your good.

Our Eyes Look to the Lord Our God

123 [1]A Song of Ascents.

To you I lift up my eyes,
O you who are enthroned in the heavens!

[2] Behold, as the eyes of servants
look to the hand of their master,
as the eyes of a maidservant
to the hand of her mistress,
so our eyes look to the Lord our God,
till he has mercy upon us.

[3] Have mercy upon us, O Lord, have mercy upon us,
for we have had more than enough of contempt.
[4] Our soul has had more than enough of the scorn of those who are at ease,
of the contempt of the proud.

Our Help Is in the Name of the Lord

124 [1] A Song of Ascents. Of David.

If it had not been the Lord who was on our side—
let Israel now say—
[2] if it had not been the Lord who was on our side
when people rose up against us,
[3] then they would have swallowed us up
alive,
when their anger was kindled against us;
[4] then the flood would have swept us away,
the torrent would have gone over us;
[5] then over us would have gone
the raging waters.

[6] Blessed be the Lord,
who has not given us
as prey to their teeth!
[7] We have escaped like a bird
from the snare of the fowlers;
the snare is broken,
and we have escaped!

[8] Our help is in the name of the Lord,
who made heaven and earth.

The Lord Surrounds His People

125

1 † A Song of Ascents.

Those who trust in the Lord are like Mount Zion,
which cannot be moved, but abides
forever.

2 † As the mountains surround Jerusalem,
so the Lord surrounds his people,
from this time forth and forevermore.

3 † For the scepter of wickedness shall not rest
on the land allotted to the righteous, lest the righteous stretch out their hands to do wrong.

4 † Do good, O Lord, to those who are good,
and to those who are upright in their hearts!

5 But those who turn aside to their crooked ways
the Lord will lead away with evildoers!
Peace be upon Israel!

Restore Our Fortunes, O Lord

126

1 † A Song of Ascents.
When the Lord restored the fortunes
of Zion,
we were like those who dream.

2 Then our mouth was filled with laughter,
and our tongue with shouts of joy;
then they said among the nations,
"The Lord has done great things for them."
3 The Lord has done great things for us;
we are glad.

4 † Restore our fortunes, O Lord,
like streams in the Negeb!
5 Those who sow in tears
shall reap with shouts of joy!
6 † He who goes out weeping,
bearing the seed for sowing,
shall come home with shouts of joy,
bringing his sheaves with him.

Unless the Lord Builds the House

127 [1] A Song of Ascents. Of Solomon.

Unless the Lord builds the house,
those who build it labor in vain.
Unless the Lord watches over the city,
the watchman stays awake in vain.

[2] It is in vain that you rise up early and go late to rest,
eating the bread of anxious toil;
for he gives to his beloved sleep.

[3] Behold, children are a heritage from the Lord,
the fruit of the womb a reward.
[4] Like arrows in the hand of a warrior are the children[1] of one's youth.
[5] Blessed is the man
who fills his quiver with them!
He shall not be put to shame
when he speaks with his enemies in the gate.[2]

Blessed Is Everyone Who Fears the Lord

128 [1] A Song of Ascents.
Blessed is everyone who fears the Lord,
who walks in his ways!

[2] You shall eat the fruit of the labor of your
hands;
you shall be blessed, and it shall be well
with you.

[3] Your wife will be like a fruitful vine
within your house;
your children will be like olive shoots
around your table.
[4] Behold, thus shall the man be blessed who fears the Lord.

[5] The Lord bless you from Zion!
May you see the prosperity of Jerusalem
all the days of your life!
[6] May you see your children's children!
Peace be upon Israel!

They Have Afflicted Me from My Youth

129 [1] A Song of Ascents.

"Greatly[1] have they afflicted me from my youth"—
let Israel now say—

[2] "Greatly have they afflicted me from my youth,
yet they have not prevailed against me.
[3] The plowers plowed upon my back;
they made long their furrows."
[4] The Lord is righteous;
he has cut the cords of the wicked.
[5] May all who hate Zion
be put to shame and turned backward!
[6] Let them be like the grass on the housetops,
which withers before it grows up,
[7] with which the reaper does not fill his hand
nor the binder of sheaves his arms, [8] nor do those who pass by say,
"The blessing of the Lord be upon you!
We bless you in the name of the Lord!"

My Soul Waits for the Lord

130

[1] A Song of Ascents.

Out of the depths I cry to you, O Lord!

[2] O Lord, hear my voice!
Let your ears be attentive
to the voice of my pleas for mercy!

[3] If you, O Lord, should mark iniquities,
O Lord, who could stand?
[4] But with you there is forgiveness,
that you may be feared.

[5] I wait for the Lord, my soul waits,
and in his word I hope;
[6] my soul waits for the Lord
more than watchmen for the morning,
more than watchmen for the morning.

[7] O Israel, hope in the Lord!
For with the Lord there is steadfast love,
and with him is plentiful redemption.
[8] And he will redeem Israel
from all his iniquities.

I Have Calmed and Quieted My Soul

131

[1] A Song of Ascents. Of David.

O Lord, my heart is not lifted up;
my eyes are not raised too high;
I do not occupy myself with things too great and too marvelous for me.

[2] But I have calmed and quieted my soul,
like a weaned child with its mother;
like a weaned child is my soul
within me.

[3] O Israel, hope in the Lord
from this time forth and forevermore.

The Lord Has Chosen Zion

132

1 A Song of Ascents.

Remember, O Lord, in David's favor,
all the hardships he endured,

2 how he swore to the Lord and vowed to the Mighty One of Jacob,
3 "I will not enter my house
or get into my bed, 4 I will not give sleep to my eyes
or slumber to my eyelids, 5 until I find a place for the Lord,
a dwelling place for the Mighty One of Jacob."

6 Behold, we heard of it in Ephrathah;
we found it in the fields of Jaar.
7 "Let us go to his dwelling place;
let us worship at his footstool!"

8 Arise, O Lord, and go to your resting place,
you and the ark of your might.
9 Let your priests be clothed with righteousness,
and let your saints shout for joy.
10 For the sake of your servant David,
do not turn away the face of your anointed
one.

11 † The Lord swore to David a sure oath
from which he will not turn back:
“One of the sons of your body[1]
I will set on your throne.
12 † If your sons keep my covenant
and my testimonies that I shall teach them, their sons also forever
shall sit on your throne.”

13 † For the Lord has chosen Zion;
he has desired it for his dwelling place:
14 “This is my resting place forever;
here I will dwell, for I have desired it.
15 † I will abundantly bless her provisions;
I will satisfy her poor with bread.
16 † Her priests I will clothe with salvation,
and her saints will shout for joy.
17 † There I will make a horn to sprout for David;
I have prepared a lamp for my
anointed.
18 † His enemies I will clothe with shame,
but on him his crown will shine.”

When Brothers Dwell in Unity

133 [1]† A Song of Ascents. Of David.

Behold, how good and pleasant it is
when brothers dwell in unity![2]

[2]† It is like the precious oil on the head, running down on the beard,
on the beard of Aaron,
running down on the collar of his robes!
[3]† It is like the dew of Hermon,
which falls on the mountains of Zion!
For there the Lord has commanded the blessing,
life forevermore.

Come, Bless the Lord

134

[1] A Song of Ascents.

Come, bless the Lord, all you servants of the Lord, who stand by night in the house of
the Lord!

[2] Lift up your hands to the holy place and bless the Lord!

[3] May the Lord bless you from Zion,
he who made heaven and earth!

Your Name, O Lord, Endures Forever

135

1 †Praise the Lord!
Praise the name of the Lord,
give praise, O servants of the Lord,

2† who stand in the house of the Lord,
in the courts of the house of our God!
3† Praise the Lord, for the Lord is good;
sing to his name, for it is pleasant![1]
4† For the Lord has chosen Jacob for himself,
Israel as his own possession.

5 For I know that the Lord is great,
and that our Lord is above all gods.
6† Whatever the Lord pleases, he does,
in heaven and on earth,
in the seas and all deeps.
7† He it is who makes the clouds rise at the end
of the earth,
who makes lightnings for the rain and brings forth the wind from his storehouses.

8† He it was who struck down the firstborn of Egypt,
both of man and of beast;
9 who in your midst, O Egypt,
sent signs and wonders
against Pharaoh and all his servants;
10 who struck down many nations
and killed mighty kings,

11 Sihon, king of the Amorites,
and Og, king of Bashan,
and all the kingdoms of Canaan,
12† and gave their land as a heritage,
a heritage to his people Israel.

13 Your name, O Lord, endures forever,
your renown,[2] O Lord, throughout all ages.
14† For the Lord will vindicate his people
and have compassion on his servants.

15† The idols of the nations are silver and gold,
the work of human hands.
16 They have mouths, but do not speak;
they have eyes, but do not see;
17 they have ears, but do not hear,
nor is there any breath in their mouths.
18 Those who make them become like them,
so do all who trust in them!

19†† O house of Israel, bless the Lord!
O house of Aaron, bless the Lord!
20† O house of Levi, bless the Lord!
You who fear the Lord, bless the Lord!
21† Blessed be the Lord from Zion,
he who dwells in Jerusalem!
Praise the Lord!

His Steadfast Love Endures Forever

136 [1]‡‡Give thanks to the Lord, for he is good,
for his steadfast love endures forever.

[2]† Give thanks to the God of gods,
for his steadfast love endures forever.
[3]† Give thanks to the Lord of lords,
for his steadfast love endures forever;

[4]‡ to him who alone does great wonders,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
[5] to him who by understanding made
the heavens,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
[6] to him who spread out the earth above the
waters,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
[7] to him who made the great lights,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
[8] the sun to rule over the day,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
[9] the moon and stars to rule over the night,
for his steadfast love endures forever;

[10]‡ to him who struck down the firstborn of Egypt,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
[11] and brought Israel out from among them,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
[12] with a strong hand and an outstretched arm,

for his steadfast love endures forever;
13 to him who divided the Red Sea in two,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
14 and made Israel pass through the midst of it,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
15 but overthrew[1] Pharaoh and his host in the Red Sea,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
16 to him who led his people through the
wilderness,
for his steadfast love endures forever;

17† to him who struck down great kings,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
18 and killed mighty kings,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
19 Sihon, king of the Amorites,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
20 and Og, king of Bashan,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
21 and gave their land as a heritage,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
22 a heritage to Israel his servant,
for his steadfast love endures forever.

23†† It is he who remembered us in our low estate,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
24 and rescued us from our foes,
for his steadfast love endures forever;
25 he who gives food to all flesh,
for his steadfast love endures forever.

[26] † Give thanks to the God of heaven,
for his steadfast love endures forever.

How Shall We Sing the Lord's Song?

137 [1]† By the waters of Babylon,
there we sat down and wept,
when we remembered Zion.

[2]† On the willows[1] there
we hung up our lyres.
[3]† For there our captors
required of us songs,
and our tormentors, mirth, saying,
"Sing us one of the songs of Zion!"

[4]† How shall we sing the Lord's song
in a foreign land?
[5]† If I forget you, O Jerusalem,
let my right hand forget its skill!
[6]† Let my tongue stick to the roof of my mouth,
if I do not remember you,
if I do not set Jerusalem
above my highest joy!

[7]† Remember, O Lord, against the Edomites
the day of Jerusalem,
how they said, "Lay it bare, lay it bare,
down to its foundations!"
[8]†† O daughter of Babylon, doomed to be destroyed,
blessed shall he be who repays you with what you have done to us!
[9]† Blessed shall he be who takes your little

ones
and dashes them against the rock!

Give Thanks to the Lord

138

1 † Of David.

I give you thanks, O Lord, with my whole heart;
before the gods I sing your praise;

2 † I bow down toward your holy temple and give thanks to your name for your steadfast love and your faithfulness, for you have exalted above all things
your name and your word.[1]

3 † On the day I called, you answered me;
my strength of soul you increased.[2]

4 † All the kings of the earth shall give you thanks, O Lord, for they have heard the words of your mouth,

5 † and they shall sing of the ways of the Lord,
for great is the glory of the Lord.

6 † For though the Lord is high, he regards the lowly,
but the haughty he knows from afar.

7 † Though I walk in the midst of trouble,
you preserve my life;
you stretch out your hand against the wrath of my enemies,
and your right hand delivers me.

8 † The Lord will fulfill his purpose for me;
your steadfast love, O Lord, endures

forever.
Do not forsake the work of your hands.

Search Me, O God, and Know My Heart

139 [1]† To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

O Lord, you have searched me and known me!

[2] You know when I sit down and when I rise up;
you discern my thoughts from afar.
[3] You search out my path and my lying down
and are acquainted with all my ways.
[4] Even before a word is on my tongue,
behold, O Lord, you know it altogether.
[5]† You hem me in, behind and before,
and lay your hand upon me.
[6] Such knowledge is too wonderful for me;
it is high; I cannot attain it.

[7]† Where shall I go from your Spirit?
Or where shall I flee from your presence?
[8]† If I ascend to heaven, you are there!
If I make my bed in Sheol, you are there!
[9]† If I take the wings of the morning
and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea, [10]† even there your hand shall lead me,
and your right hand shall hold me.
[11]† If I say, "Surely the darkness shall cover me,
and the light about me be night," [12] even the darkness is not dark to you;
the night is bright as the day,
for darkness is as light with you.

13† For you formed my inward parts;
you knitted me together in my mother's
womb.
14† I praise you, for I am fearfully and wonderfully made.[1]
Wonderful are your works;
my soul knows it very well.
15† My frame was not hidden from you,
when I was being made in secret, intricately woven in the depths of the
earth.
16† Your eyes saw my unformed substance;
in your book were written, every one of
them,
the days that were formed for me,
when as yet there was none of them.

17† How precious to me are your thoughts,
O God!
How vast is the sum of them!
18† If I would count them, they are more than the sand.
I awake, and I am still with you.

19† Oh that you would slay the wicked, O God!
O men of blood, depart from me!
20 They speak against you with malicious intent;
your enemies take your name in vain![2]
21† Do I not hate those who hate you,
O Lord?
And do I not loathe those who rise up against you?

22† I hate them with complete hatred;
I count them my enemies.

23† Search me, O God, and know my heart!
Try me and know my thoughts![3] 24† And see if there be any grievous way in me,
and lead me in the way everlasting![4]

Deliver Me, O Lord, from Evil Men

140 [1] † To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

Deliver me, O Lord, from evil men;
preserve me from violent men,

[2] who plan evil things in their heart
and stir up wars continually.
[3] † They make their tongue sharp as a serpent's,
and under their lips is the venom of asps.
Selah

[4] Guard me, O Lord, from the hands of the wicked;
preserve me from violent men,
who have planned to trip up my feet.
[5] † The arrogant have hidden a trap for me,
and with cords they have spread a net;[1]
beside the way they have set snares for me.
Selah

[6] I say to the Lord, You are my God;
give ear to the voice of my pleas for mercy, O Lord!
[7] † O Lord, my Lord, the strength of my salvation,
you have covered my head in the day of battle.
[8] Grant not, O Lord, the desires of the wicked;
do not further their[2] evil plot, or they will be exalted! Selah

9† As for the head of those who surround me, let the mischief of their lips overwhelm
them!
10† Let burning coals fall upon them!
Let them be cast into fire,
into miry pits, no more to rise!
11 Let not the slanderer be established in the
land;
let evil hunt down the violent man speedily!

12† I know that the LORD will maintain the cause of the afflicted,
and will execute justice for the needy.
13† Surely the righteous shall give thanks to your
name;
the upright shall dwell in your presence.

Give Ear to My Voice

141 [1]A Psalm of David.

O Lord, I call upon you; hasten to me!
Give ear to my voice when I call to you!

[2]† Let my prayer be counted as incense before you,
and the lifting up of my hands as the evening sacrifice!

[3]‡† Set a guard, O Lord, over my mouth;
keep watch over the door of my lips!
[4]† Do not let my heart incline to any evil,
to busy myself with wicked deeds
in company with men who work iniquity,
and let me not eat of their delicacies!

[5]† Let a righteous man strike me—it is a kindness;
let him rebuke me—it is oil for my head;
let my head not refuse it.
Yet my prayer is continually against their evil deeds.
[6]† When their judges are thrown over the cliff,[1]
then they shall hear my words, for they are pleasant.
[7]† As when one plows and breaks up the earth,
so shall our bones be scattered at the mouth of Sheol.[2]

8 But my eyes are toward you, O God,
my Lord;
in you I seek refuge; leave me not defenseless![3]
9 Keep me from the trap that they have laid
for me
and from the snares of evildoers!
10 Let the wicked fall into their own nets,
while I pass by safely.

You Are My Refuge

142 A Maskil [4] of David, when he was in the cave.
A Prayer.

1 With my voice I cry out to the Lord;
with my voice I plead for mercy to the Lord.
2† I pour out my complaint before him;
I tell my trouble before him.

3† When my spirit faints within me,
you know my way!
In the path where I walk
they have hidden a trap for me.
4 Look to the right and see:
there is none who takes notice of me;
no refuge remains to me;
no one cares for my soul.

5† I cry to you, O Lord;
I say, "You are my refuge,
my portion in the land of the living."
6† Attend to my cry,
for I am brought very low!
Deliver me from my persecutors,
for they are too strong for me!
7† Bring me out of prison,
that I may give thanks to your name!
The righteous will surround me,
for you will deal bountifully with me.

My Soul Thirsts for You

143

[1] A Psalm of David.

Hear my prayer, O Lord;
give ear to my pleas for mercy!
In your faithfulness answer me, in your righteousness!

[2] Enter not into judgment with your servant,
for no one living is righteous before you.

[3] For the enemy has pursued my soul;
he has crushed my life to the ground;
he has made me sit in darkness like those long dead.
[4] Therefore my spirit faints within me;
my heart within me is appalled.

[5] I remember the days of old;
I meditate on all that you have done;
I ponder the work of your hands.
[6] I stretch out my hands to you;
my soul thirsts for you like a parched land.
Selah

[7] Answer me quickly, O Lord!
My spirit fails!
Hide not your face from me,
lest I be like those who go down to the pit.
[8] Let me hear in the morning of your steadfast love,
for in you I trust.

Make me know the way I should go,
for to you I lift up my soul.

9 † Deliver me from my enemies, O Lord!
I have fled to you for refuge![1] 10 † Teach me to do your will,
for you are my God!
Let your good Spirit lead me
on level ground!

11 † For your name's sake, O Lord, preserve my life!
In your righteousness bring my soul out of trouble!
12 † And in your steadfast love you will cut off my enemies,
and you will destroy all the adversaries of my soul,
for I am your servant.

My Rock and My Fortress

144

1 † Of David.

Blessed be the Lord, my rock,
who trains my hands for war,
and my fingers for battle;

2 he is my steadfast love and my fortress,
my stronghold and my deliverer,
my shield and he in whom I take refuge,
who subdues peoples[1] under me.

3 † O Lord, what is man that you regard him,
or the son of man that you think of him?
4 Man is like a breath;
his days are like a passing shadow.

5 † Bow your heavens, O Lord, and come down!
Touch the mountains so that they smoke!
6 † Flash forth the lightning and scatter them;
send out your arrows and rout them!
7 † Stretch out your hand from on high;
rescue me and deliver me from the many waters,
from the hand of foreigners,
8 † whose mouths speak lies
and whose right hand is a right hand of falsehood.

9 † I will sing a new song to you, O God;
upon a ten-stringed harp I will play to you,

10 who gives victory to kings, who rescues David his servant from the cruel sword.
11 † Rescue me and deliver me
from the hand of foreigners,
whose mouths speak lies
and whose right hand is a right hand of
falsehood.

12 † May our sons in their youth
be like plants full grown,
our daughters like corner pillars
cut for the structure of a palace; 13 † may our granaries be full,
providing all kinds of produce;
may our sheep bring forth thousands and ten thousands in our fields; 14 may our cattle be heavy with young,
suffering no mishap or failure in bearing;[2]
may there be no cry of distress in our streets!
15 † Blessed are the people to whom such blessings fall!
Blessed are the people whose God is the LORD!

Great Is the Lord

145

1 † [3] A Song of Praise. Of David.

I will extol you, my God and King,
and bless your name forever and ever.

2 Every day I will bless you and praise your name forever and ever.

3 † Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised,
and his greatness is unsearchable.

4 † One generation shall commend your works to another,
and shall declare your mighty acts.

5 † On the glorious splendor of your majesty,
and on your wondrous works, I will meditate.

6 They shall speak of the might of your awesome deeds,
and I will declare your greatness.

7 They shall pour forth the fame of your abundant goodness and shall sing aloud of your righteousness.

8 † The Lord is gracious and merciful,
slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love.

9 The Lord is good to all,
and his mercy is over all that he has made.

10 † All your works shall give thanks to you,
O LORD,
and all your saints shall bless you!
11 † They shall speak of the glory of your kingdom
and tell of your power, 12 to make known to the children of man your[1]
mighty deeds,
and the glorious splendor of your kingdom.
13 †† Your kingdom is an everlasting kingdom,
and your dominion endures throughout all
generations.
[The LORD is faithful in all his words
and kind in all his works.][2]
14 The LORD upholds all who are falling and raises up all who are bowed down.
15 † The eyes of all look to you,
and you give them their food in due season.
16 † You open your hand;
you satisfy the desire of every living thing.
17 † The LORD is righteous in all his ways
and kind in all his works.
18 † The LORD is near to all who call on him,
to all who call on him in truth.
19 † He fulfills the desire of those who fear him;
he also hears their cry and saves them.
20 † The LORD preserves all who love him,
but all the wicked he will destroy.

21 † My mouth will speak the praise of the LORD,
and let all flesh bless his holy name forever
and ever.

Put Not Your Trust in Princes

146 [1]Praise the Lord!
Praise the Lord, O my soul!

[2]† I will praise the Lord as long as I live;
I will sing praises to my God while I have my being.

[3]† Put not your trust in princes,
in a son of man, in whom there is no
salvation.
[4]† When his breath departs, he returns to
the earth;
on that very day his plans perish.

[5]† Blessed is he whose help is the God of Jacob, whose hope is in the Lord his God,
[6]† who made heaven and earth,
the sea, and all that is in them,
who keeps faith forever;
[7]† who executes justice for the oppressed,
who gives food to the hungry.

The Lord sets the prisoners free;
[8]† the Lord opens the eyes of the blind.
The Lord lifts up those who are bowed down;
the Lord loves the righteous.
[9]† The Lord watches over the sojourners;
he upholds the widow and the fatherless,
but the way of the wicked he brings to ruin.

10 The LORD will reign forever,
your God, O Zion, to all generations.
Praise the LORD!

He Heals the Brokenhearted

147 [1]Praise the LORD!
For it is good to sing praises to our
God;
for it is pleasant,[1] and a song of praise is fitting.

[2]† The LORD builds up Jerusalem;
he gathers the outcasts of Israel.
[3]† He heals the brokenhearted
and binds up their wounds.
[4]† He determines the number of the stars;
he gives to all of them their names.
[5] Great is our Lord, and abundant in
power;
his understanding is beyond measure.
[6] The LORD lifts up the humble;[2]
he casts the wicked to the ground.

[7]† Sing to the LORD with thanksgiving;
make melody to our God on the lyre!
[8] He covers the heavens with clouds;
he prepares rain for the earth;
he makes grass grow on the hills.
[9]† He gives to the beasts their food,
and to the young ravens that cry.
[10] His delight is not in the strength of the horse,
nor his pleasure in the legs of a man,
[11] but the LORD takes pleasure in those who fear
him,
in those who hope in his steadfast love.

12 Praise the LORD, O Jerusalem!
Praise your God, O Zion!
13† For he strengthens the bars of your gates;
he blesses your children within you.
14 He makes peace in your borders;
he fills you with the finest of the wheat.
15† He sends out his command to the earth;
his word runs swiftly.
16 He gives snow like wool;
he scatters hoarfrost like ashes.
17 He hurls down his crystals of ice like crumbs;
who can stand before his cold?
18† He sends out his word, and melts them;
he makes his wind blow and the waters
flow.
19† He declares his word to Jacob,
his statutes and rules[1] to Israel.
20† He has not dealt thus with any other nation;
they do not know his rules.[2]
Praise the LORD!

Praise the Name of the Lord

148 [1]†Praise the Lord!
Praise the Lord from the heavens;
praise him in the heights!

[2]† Praise him, all his angels;
praise him, all his hosts!

[3]† Praise him, sun and moon,
praise him, all you shining stars!
[4]† Praise him, you highest heavens,
and you waters above the heavens!

[5]† Let them praise the name of the Lord!
For he commanded and they were created.
[6]† And he established them forever and ever;
he gave a decree, and it shall not pass away.[3]

[7]† Praise the Lord from the earth,
you great sea creatures and all deeps,
[8]† fire and hail, snow and mist,
stormy wind fulfilling his word!

[9] Mountains and all hills,
fruit trees and all cedars!
[10] Beasts and all livestock,
creeping things and flying birds!

11 Kings of the earth and all peoples,
princes and all rulers of the earth!
12 Young men and maidens together,
old men and children!

13 Let them praise the name of the LORD,
for his name alone is exalted;
his majesty is above earth and heaven.
14† He has raised up a horn for his people,
praise for all his saints,
for the people of Israel who are near to
him.
Praise the LORD!

Sing to the Lord a New Song

149

1 †Praise the Lord!
Sing to the Lord a new song,
his praise in the assembly of the godly!

2† Let Israel be glad in his Maker;
let the children of Zion rejoice in their King!
3† Let them praise his name with dancing,
making melody to him with tambourine
and lyre!
4 For the Lord takes pleasure in his people;
he adorns the humble with salvation.
5† Let the godly exult in glory;
let them sing for joy on their beds.
6† Let the high praises of God be in their throats
and two-edged swords in their hands, 7 to execute vengeance on the nations
and punishments on the peoples, 8 to bind their kings with chains
and their nobles with fetters of iron, 9† to execute on them the judgment written!
This is honor for all his godly ones.
Praise the Lord!

Let Everything Praise the Lord

150 [1] Praise the Lord!
Praise God in his sanctuary;
praise him in his mighty heavens![1]

[2] Praise him for his mighty deeds;
praise him according to his excellent greatness!

[3] Praise him with trumpet sound;
praise him with lute and harp!
[4] Praise him with tambourine and dance;
praise him with strings and pipe!
[5] Praise him with sounding cymbals;
praise him with loud clashing cymbals!
[6] Let everything that has breath praise the Lord!
Praise the Lord!

Introduction to Psalms

Reading Psalms

The shepherd's weathered hand gently worked the strings of the harp. He created a sequence of harmonious tones that ascended and descended the rolling Judean hills. Poetry flowed from his lips like a meadow spring, recounting the day's experiences and offering heavenward thanks.

The shepherd boy David learned to play and sing in just such a setting, while watching his father's flocks of sheep or goats. The Lord made David a warrior-poet and a prophet who united the tribes of Israel as a harmonious kingdom. His collection of songs accompanied by the harp is the basis of the Psalter, one of the most beloved books of the Holy Bible.

Luther on the Psalms

Many of the holy fathers prized and praised the Psalter above all the other books of the Scripture. To be sure, the work itself gives praise enough to its author; nevertheless we must give evidence of our own praise and thanks.

Over the years a great many legends of the saints, … books of examples, and histories have been circulated … [and] the Psalter has been neglected. It has lain in such obscurity that not one psalm was rightly understood. Still it gave off such a fine and precious fragrance that all pious hearts felt the devotion and power in the unknown words and for this reason loved the book.

I hold, however, that no finer book of examples or of the legends of the saints has ever come, or can come, to earth than the Psalter. If one were to wish that from all the examples, legends, and histories, the best should be collected and brought together and put in the best form, the result would have to be the present Psalter. For here we find not only what one or two saints have done, but what he has done who is the very head of all saints. We also find what all the saints still do, such as the attitude they take toward God, toward friends and enemies, and the way they conduct themselves amid all dangers and sufferings. Beyond that there are contained here all sorts of divine and wholesome teachings and commandments.

The Psalter ought to be a precious and beloved book, if for no other reason than this: it promises Christ's death and resurrection so clearly —and pictures his kingdom and the condition and nature of all Christendom—that it might well be called a little Bible. In it is comprehended most beautifully and briefly everything that is in the entire Bible. It is really a fine enchiridion or handbook. In fact, I have a notion that the Holy Spirit wanted to take the trouble himself to compile a short Bible and book of examples of all Christendom or all saints, so that anyone who could not read the whole Bible would here have anyway almost an entire summary of it, comprised in one little book.

[The Words of the Saints.] Beyond all that, the Psalter has this noble virtue and quality. Other books make much ado about the works of the saints, but say very little about their words. The Psalter is a gem in this respect. It gives forth so sweet a fragrance when one reads it because it relates not only the works of the saints, but also their words, how they spoke with God and prayed, and still speak and pray. Compared to the Psalter, the other legends and examples present to us nothing but mere silent saints; the Psalter, however, pictures for us real, living, active saints.

Compared to a speaking man, a silent one is simply to be regarded as a half-dead man; and there is no mightier or nobler work of man than speech. For it is by speech, more than by his shape or by any other work, that man is most distinguished from other animals. By the carver's art even a block of wood can have the shape of a man; and an animal can see, hear, smell, sing, walk, stand, eat, drink, fast, thirst—and suffer from hunger, frost, and a hard bed—as well as a man.

[The Hearts of the Saints.] Moreover the Psalter does more than this. It presents to us not the simple, ordinary speech of the saints, but the best of their language, that which they used when they talked with God himself in great earnestness and on the most important matters. Thus the Psalter lays before us not only their words instead of their deeds, but their very hearts and the inmost treasure of their souls, so we can look down to the foundation and source of their words and deeds. We can look into their hearts and see what kind of thoughts they had, how their hearts were disposed, and how they acted in all kinds of situations, in danger and in need. The legends and examples, which speak only of the deeds and miracles of the saints, do not and cannot do this, for I cannot know how a man's heart is, even though I see or hear of many great deeds that he does. And just as I would rather hear what a saint says than see the deeds he does, so I would far rather see his heart, and the treasure in his soul, than hear his words. And this the Psalter gives us most abundantly concerning the saints, so that we can be certain of how their hearts were toward God and of the words they spoke to God and every man….

What is the greatest thing in the Psalter but this earnest speaking amid these storm winds of every kind? Where does one find finer words of joy than in the psalms of praise and thanksgiving? There you look into the hearts of all the saints, as into fair and pleasant gardens, yes, as into heaven itself. There you see what fine and pleasant flowers of the heart spring up from all sorts of fair and happy thoughts toward God, because of his blessings. On the other hand, where do you find deeper, more sorrowful, more pitiful words of sadness than in the psalms of lamentation? There again you look into the hearts of all the saints, as into death, yes, as into hell itself. How gloomy and dark it is there, with all kinds of troubled forebodings about the wrath of God! So, too, when they speak of fear and hope, they use such words that no painter could so depict for you fear or hope, and no Cicero or other orator so portray them.

And that they speak these words to God and with God, this, I repeat, is the best thing of all. This gives the words double earnestness and life. For when men speak with men about these matters, what they say does not come so powerfully from the heart; it does not burn and live, is not so urgent. Hence it is that the Psalter is the book of all saints; and everyone, in whatever situation he may be, finds in that situation psalms and words that fit his ease, that suit him as if they were put there just for his sake, so that he could not put it better himself, or find or wish for anything better.

[The Communion of Saints.] This also serves well another purpose. When these words please a man and fit his case, he becomes sure that he is in the communion of saints, and that it has gone with all the saints as it goes with him, since they all sing with him one little song. It is especially so if he can speak these words to God, as they have done; this can only be done in faith, for the words [of the saints] have no flavor to a godless man.

Finally there is in the Psalter security and a well-tried guide, so that in it one can follow all the saints without peril. The other examples and legends of the silent saints present works that one is unable to imitate; they present even more works which it is dangerous to imitate, works which usually start sects and divisions, and lead and tear men away from the communion of saints. But the Psalter holds you to the communion of saints and away from the sects. For it teaches you in joy, fear, hope, and sorrow to think and speak as all the saints have thought and spoken.

In a word, if you would see the holy Christian Church painted in living color and shape, comprehended in one little picture, then take up the Psalter. There you have a fine, bright, pure mirror that will show you what Christendom is. Indeed you will find in it also yourself and the true [“Know yourself”], as well as God himself and all creatures….

To this may God the Father of all grace and mercy help us, through Jesus Christ our Lord, to whom be praise and thanks, honor and glory, for this German Psalter and for all his innumerable and unspeakable blessings to all eternity. Amen, Amen. (AE 35:253–57)

[Types of Psalms.] The entire Psalter may be treated in a fivefold fashion, that is, we may divide it into five groups. First, some psalms prophesy. They speak, for example, of Christ and the church or what will happen to the saints. This class includes all the psalms that contain promises and warnings—promises for the godly and warnings for the ungodly. Second, there are psalms of instruction, which teach us what we should do and what we should avoid, in accordance with the law of God. This class includes all the psalms that condemn human doctrines and praise the Word of God. Third, there are psalms of comfort, which strengthen and comfort the saints in their troubles and sorrows but rebuke and terrify the tyrants. This class includes all the psalms that comfort, exhort, stimulate endurance, or rebuke the tyrants. Fourth are the psalms of prayer, in which we call on God, praying in all kinds of distress. To this class belong all the psalms that lament or mourn or cry out against our foes. Fifth, are the psalms of thanks, in which God is praised and glorified for all his blessings and help. This class includes all the psalms that praise God for his works. These are the psalms of the first rank, and for their sake the Psalter was created; therefore it is called in Hebrew Sefer Tehillim, that is, a praise book or book of thanksgiving.

Now, we should understand that the Psalms, with all their verses, cannot always be classified so precisely and exactly into these groups. At times one psalm might contain two, three, or even all five classifications, so that one psalm may belong in all five divisions, with prophecy, instruction, comfort, prayer, and thanksgiving lying next to one another. However, this is the intention, that the reader may understand that the Psalter deals with these five topics. The classifications are a help, so that we might more easily understand the Psalter, become adapted to it, and also be able to learn and keep it. (PIML, pp 6–7)

HEBREW NAMES FOR PSALMS

Psalm superscriptions use different names for the psalms. Scholars don't always understand the meaning of these names. They perhaps identify different types of psalms.

Name: Mizmor
Translation: "Psalm"; refers to sound made by strings of a harp
Examples: 3; 4; etc.

Name: Shir
Translation: Song
Examples: 18

Name: Shir yedidoth
Translation: Song of love
Examples: 45

Name: Shir hammaloth
Translation: Song of ascents
Examples: 120–34

Name: Shir tehillah
Translation: Song of praise
Examples: 145

Name: Tepillah
Translation: Prayer
Examples: 17; 86

Name: Miktam
Translation: (meaning unknown)
Examples: 16; 56–60

Name: Maskil
Translation: Skilled or artistic piece?
Examples: 32; 42; 45; 52–55; 74; 78; 88–89; 142

Name: Shiggaion
Translation: (meaning unknown)
Examples: 7

For more of Luther's insights on this Book, see Lectures on the Psalms I, II and Selected Psalms I, II, and III (AE 10–14) and Exhortation of Psalm 127 (AE 45:311–37).

Key Terms and Phrases in the Psalms

To learn more about how the Psalms describe God and His work, and how His people responded in prayer and praise, read the definitions below. These pages will unlock many of the common mysterious expressions and practices of the Israelites.

The Lord's "righteousness" and "steadfast love" dominate theology in the Psalms. Key phrases and imagery gather around these attributes of Yahweh, which are the basis for praying, praising, and trusting in Him. For an overview of this theology, and to grow more familiar with the Psalms and how they anticipate the work of Jesus, "the Son of David," read through the following definitions. Take note of how they relate to one another. Include these rich expressions in your own prayers and praise. To study specific examples of these terms, refer to the concordance (pp 2243–2372). For other lists of key terms, see pp 5–7; pp 1078–80; pp 1901–4.

arm. In Israelite thought, an image of strength. See hand and right hand.

bless. Hbr barak, "To bestow ability for success" (from the greater person to the lesser) or "to praise a person's ability for success" (from the lesser person to the greater). Refers to bending the knees, perhaps to kneel and receive a pronouncement of inheritance with all its wealth (cf Gn 27). "Bless the Lord" has the sense of "greet" and is common in the Psalms, expressing thanks and praise (34:1; 145:1, 10). In faith, praise is the greatest gift we can offer to our Lord. The blessing that came from the temple at Jerusalem now resonates through the Church, brought by pastors, missionaries, teachers, and other Christians who proclaim the Gospel of Christ's sacrifice. See "curse," p 6.

blessed. Hbr 'ashar, "happy, blissful" having God's gifts. See note, Gn 12:3. However, see also p 879.

call. Hbr qara', "to call upon," "name," or "summon." "Call on God's name" describes speaking God's name in prayer, repentance, or consulting the Lord by Urim and Thummim, administered by the high priest. See seek.

courts of the Lord. The various courtyards that surrounded the tabernacle and temple were restricted by the various standards of holiness. To enter these holy places was to enter God's presence. See layout of Herod's late temple, p 1838. See also presence.

deliver. Translates various Hbr terms. Primarily natsal, which has the sense "to pull or draw out," therefore, "to rescue, save" as the Lord delivered Israel in the exodus from Egypt (cf Col 1:13). See p 1902.

faithfulness. From Hbr 'aman, "to be steady, faithful, true," from which our term "Amen" comes. An attribute of God celebrated in the Psalms. See steadfast love ; see also "love," p 1903.

fear. Hbr yare', as in "fear the Lord" and "fear God"—common expressions in the Psalms. They mean to "trust in the Lord." See p 1001.

for Your name's sake. That is, "for the sake of the Lord's good reputation." The preciousness of God's name is illustrated by the way He guards it and by the delight He takes when people use His name well. Everything God does for His people reveals Himself and demonstrates His character. It brings glory to His name. See name.

gracious. From Hbr chanan, "to be gracious, generous, compassionate." An attribute of God celebrated in the Psalms. See p 1902; see also "favor," p 6.

great congregation. From Hbr qahal, "assembly." The gathering of God's people at the tabernacle or temple.

hand. Hbr yad, "hand, including the forearm." An image for God's saving power. See right hand and arm.

horn. An image of power. Animals with horns are bold; in Israelite thought, a horned animal with its head held high symbolized strength and triumph.

just. See righteous.

justice. See righteousness.

meditate. Translates Hbr hagah and siach, terms about speaking. A person holds his attention by uttering words of Scripture or prayers to focus his thoughts. The Israelites meditated on God's Word by reciting it. The believer explores God's Word, since "there is always something left over to understand and to do. Therefore you must never be proud, as if you were already full" (Luth, AE 11:434). Chem: "Each person, in whatever station or calling he has, may meditate on the law of the Lord and speak of His testimonies" (LTh 2:380). Luther suggests that this verb recalls the singing of the birds, "so the church continuously fills its mouth with preaching in joy and gladness like that of the little birds" (AE 11:437, n 23).

mercy. Translates various Hbr terms (see steadfast love and gracious). Hbr rachamim, "tender mercy," "compassion" from the term for "womb," it pictures the tender love a mother has for her children. See note, Is 49:15.

name. Hbr shem. Its meanings can include "reputation," "fame," and "memory." Yahweh's name bears His being and power to save (54:1). See call, seek, and for Your name's sake.

new song. Hbr shir chadash, a song written to celebrate God's new work of salvation. The "old song" was the Song of Moses, which celebrated the redemption from Egypt (Ex 15:1–18). The "new song" in the Psalms often celebrated redemption from exile (cf Ne 12:27). Rv 5:8–9 says the "new song" is about the final redemption through Jesus.

path(s). See way(s).

Praise the Lord. Hbr hallelu yah, "praise Yah[weh]." An exclamation of thankful praise to the one true God.

presence. Hbr panim, "face," so "to be in front of someone/something." To "enter God's presence" typically refers to visiting the temple or tabernacle for worship. See courts of the Lord. An advancing warrior naturally "faced" his enemies, so the Lord's "presence" or "face" is fearsome to His enemies. See "be with," p 5.

redeem. Translates two terms. Hbr ga'al, "to ransom, deliver, buy back" (see note, Ru 2:20). Hbr padah, "to ransom," used esp by Moses for the ransoming of the firstborn from sacrifice (cf Ex 13:13). The Lord redeemed Israel by rescuing them from slavery. In the NT, "redeem" and "ransom" describe Jesus' work (Eph 1:7; 1Pt 1:18–19). See "atonement," p 5; see also p 1904.

remember. Hbr zakar, "to recall" or "keep in mind." God could not forget His covenant with His people. When He "remembers" them, He actively works to keep His promise to protect and save them.

right hand. In Israelite thought, the right hand was the favored one. As such, it symbolized the place of privilege or strength. The chief court official was seated at the king's right hand as a symbol of his power and authority. The term can describe God's chosen servant (e.g., King David). See hand.

righteous. Hbr tsadaq, "proved right" or "in good order." Used to describe a person in a right relationship with God, trusting God's promised salvation and living by the covenant promise. The Psalms describe how the wicked plot against the righteous, but the Lord watches over the righteous and delivers them. God is righteous because He faithfully and justly keeps His Word.

righteousness. Hbr tsedaqah, "blamelessness, honesty, justice." An attribute of God praised in the Psalms. The expression "in Your righteousness deliver me" (71:2; cf 5:8; 31:1; 89:16; 119:40; 143:11) describes the psalmist asking God to keep His promise of salvation (see "righteous acts" and "deeds of salvation" in 71:15). He is the source of righteousness (4:1), which is the basis for the biblical teaching of righteousness or justification through faith (cf Gn 15:6; Rm 3:21–5:11). See p 792.

rock. Translates two terms: Hbr sela', "rock" or "cliff face"; Hbr tsur, "massive rock" or "boulder." Psalms use the terms interchangeably for a place of refuge or hiding. The Lord is "the Rock of my salvation" (89:26). See Zion.

saints. Translates two terms: Hbr qedoshim, those "set apart, holy," God's chosen people who serve Him; Hbr chasidim, those "loyal, devout, faithful" (see steadfast love). Nearly always with possessive pronoun (e.g., "His saints"). God's people are declared holy because of God's work, not their own. See "holy," p 7.

salvation. Hbr yeshu'ah, "deliverance." Sometimes translated as "victory" because of military imagery. God defeated Pharaoh and his army during the exodus, and subsequently conquered all enemies that would separate His people from Him. His righteousness is victorious over wickedness, and thus salvation comes to His people solely because of Him. See redeem and deliver. Chem: "In the Psalms for the first time the word ya¯sha, from which is derived the name 'Jesus' begins to be used in reference to the matter of salvation" (LTh 2:458).

seek. Translates two terms: Hbr baqash, "look for"; Hbr darash, "care about, examine, inquire." The Lord is sought in three ways: (1) through calling on His name in prayer, (2) by consulting Him through Urim and Thummim administered by the high priest, and (3) through the study of His Word. A visit to the tabernacle or temple is frequently implied. Unbelievers do not seek God. Believers seek Him in an attitude of repentance, not selfishness. See call.

Selah. A Hbr musical notation. See p 993.

steadfast love. Hbr chesed, "loyalty" to one's community; most common term for God's grace in the Psalms (125 times). Luther described chesed as "goodness in action" (AE 14:50). See next entry. God's unwavering devotion to the salvation of His people finds its fulfillment in the cross of Christ. See "love," p 1903.

steadfast love and faithfulness. A common word pair in the Psalms, epitomizing the Lord's care for His people. See steadfast love, faithfulness. See note, Ex 34:6.

upholds. Hbr samak, "sustain, support." The arms of the wicked will not support them before God on the Last Day, while the Lord's arms are under the righteous to hold them up. See arm, hand, and right hand.

way(s). Hbr derek, "trodden path," used for a "pattern of behavior or custom." "The way of the Lord" is twofold: He punishes sinfulness, but He also shows mercy to the repentant (see note, Ex 33:13). See p 1904; see also "walk," p 7.

Zion. A Hbr name that could be derived from a Semitic term for "defend" (as in a fortress) or "to be bald" (as in a defendable rocky space; see rock). Zion is the defensive hill before the temple mount, between the Kidron and Tyropean valleys (see map, p 493). It was captured by David from the Jebusites (2Sm 5:6–7). In the Psalms, Zion often describes the Temple Mount, where God dwelt among His people and where they sought Him; by extension, it can include Jerusalem, Israel, and God's people here and in eternity (i.e., the Church). See presence.

Challenges for Readers

Organization. The authors, dates, and circumstances for a number of psalms are not clear. These lapses in our knowledge can make it difficult to understand certain passages. Though the Psalms should be thought of as a single book, attempts by scholars to provide a comprehensive explanation for their arrangement and relationships have not been fully convincing. Psalms can appear in groups based on a specific type or author (see p 840). But deeper connections do not always come through. Some commentators have noted that different parts of the Psalms tend to use different names for God (Yahweh or Elohim) but they cannot, in a satisfying way, explain why.

Poetic Format. Psalms at times express themselves in difficult ways (see pp 777–78). Various notes hint at their musical format and use.

Violence. The most difficult psalms are the imprecatory psalms, which express surprising anger and violence (see p 879).

Superscriptions. The Hebrew text and the LXX have significant differences in their superscriptions. For example, the LXX attributes 13 more psalms to David than does the Hebrew. Scholars had assumed that the superscriptions were written late, during the Maccabean Age. But recent study has suggested that some superscriptions are as old as the psalms they describe. The superscriptions were certainly ancient by the time the psalms were translated into Greek, since the translators clearly did not understand many of the poetic and musical terms. Thirteen psalms contain historical information, describing events in David's life (3; 7; 18; 34; 51; 52; 54; 56; 57; 59; 60; 63; and 142).

Blessings for Readers

The Israelites used two different names for the Psalms as a collection of holy writings: tepillot ("prayers," cf Ps 72:20) and tehillim ("praises"). These are the chief uses of the Psalms in all ages, as described by Luther above. The Psalms have a way of connecting with the daily concerns of our lives and guiding us in heartfelt prayer and worship. For these reasons, they remain the most devotional portion of Scripture and the inspiration for hymnals and prayer books.

A third important use for the Psalms is instruction. They teach so much about the blessings and challenges of walking in the Lord's ways. They constantly point forward to the appearance of Jesus for our salvation. NT interpreters saw the life and words of David as foretastes and prophecies of the Son of David, the Messiah. Christological psalms include 2; 22; 41; 45; 69; and 110.

OUTLINE

The Psalms are divided into ancient collections or "books," each ending with a doxology (41:13; 72:18–20; 89:52; 106:48; 150 or 145–50). These divisions for the Psalms may have taken place as early as the third century BC. Early Jewish commentaries suggested that the five Books of the Psalms are comparable to the Five Books of Moses (Gn through Dt).

Book: I. Ps 1–41
Principal Authors: Intensely personal psalms of David Possible Historical Context: Life of David; 11th century BC; time of the tabernacle Book: II. Ps 42–72
Principal Authors: Psalms of David and the kingdom; nationalistic Possible Historical Context: Reigns of David and Solomon; 11th and 10th centuries BC; time of the first temple
Book: III. Ps 73–89
Principal Authors: Psalms of Asaph and the Sons of Korah; nationalistic Possible Historical Context: Reign of Solomon; 10th century BC; some difficult to date Book: IV. Ps 90–106

Principal Authors: Anonymous psalms and laments
Possible Historical Context: Historical context less clear; some of the psalms refer to earlier writers such as Moses (Ps 90) and David (e.g., Ps 122), but others refer to the time of exile in Babylon (Ps 137), 6th century BC
Book: V. Ps 107–50
Principal Authors: Songs of ascents and praise; psalms of David Possible Historical Context
Ps 73–89 are often associated with early writers but may reflect use for later events. Older Ps may have been adapted according to the needs of the worshipers, making the dating of Ps esp difficult (cf Ps 79 introduction). Many believe Ps 90–106 were brought together after both Israel and Judah had fallen. The hopes of a great nation established by King David had been crushed by the Babylonian captivity. In answer to that defeat, these psalms direct the people's attention to God as the everlasting King.

Names in the Psalms

Nearly two-thirds of the Psalms have names of OT figures associated with them. However, scholars cannot always tell whether they were written by these persons, for these persons, or about these persons. The chart below shows the names associated with various psalms.

Categories of the Psalms

Some psalms may be in two or more categories.

1. Wisdom psalms: 1, 19:8–15, 34, 37, 49, 73, 78, 111, 112, 119, 127, 128, 133, and 139
2. Messianic/Royal psalms: 2, 20, 21, 45, 72, 89, 101, 110, 132, 144, and enthronement psalms: 47, 93, and 96–99
3. Individual Laments: 3–7, 10–14, 16, 17, 22, 23, 25–28, 31, 35, 36, 38–43, 51–59, 61–64, 69, 71, 73, 86, 88, 102, 109, and 130
4. Community Laments: 44, 60, 74, 77, 79, 80, 83, 85, 89, 90, 94, 123, 126, 129, and 137
5. Imprecatory psalms: 35, 69, 79, and 109
6. Individual psalms of praise: 9, 18, 30–32, 40, 66, 92, 116, and 138
7. Psalms of trust: 23, 27, 62, 63, 71, and 131
8. Community psalms of praise: 106, 124, and 129
9. Hymns/psalms of descriptive praise: 8, 19, 29, 33, 57, 65, 66, 89, 100, 103, 104, 111, 113, 117, 134–136, 139, and 145–150
10. Psalms of creation: 8, 19, 104, and 139
11. Psalms of Zion: 46, 48, 76, 84, and 87
12. Liturgical psalms: 24, 66, 107, 118, 121, 122. Ps 120–134 are Songs of Ascent to the temple for Feast of Weeks. The Hallel psalms (113–118) were sung at the Passover meal and at other major festivals.

Violence in the Psalms

The Imprecatory, or Curse, Psalms
Ps 35; 55; 59; 69; 79; 109; and 137

> O daughter of Babylon, doomed to be destroyed, blessed shall he be who repays you with what you have done to us! Blessed shall he be who takes your little ones and dashes them against the rock! (Ps 137:8–9)

A number of psalms use curses and express themselves so violently that modern readers find them shocking and even wonder how they could appear in the Sacred Scriptures. When the psalmist's emotions spill over into violence, it is important to understand why.

Israel's Calling and Frustration

The psalmists were among God's chosen people, Abraham's descendants, to whom God said, "I will bless you and make your name great, so that you will be a blessing. I will bless those who bless you, and him who dishonors you I will curse, and in you all the families of the earth shall be blessed" (Gn 12:2–3). These promises included the responsibility to bear witness to Yahweh by showing mercy to foreigners but also the violent punishment of the Canaanite tribes, whose works offended God (e.g., child sacrifice; see p 345). See also "devote to destruction," p 6.

In their day-to-day lives, the psalmists could not always see the broad fulfillment of God's promises and calling. Instead, they experienced all manner of persecution and suffering, even from those whom they had not harmed (Ps 35:12; 109:4–5). Since Israel's enemies were also God's enemies (Ex 23:22), the psalmists struggled to understand why the Lord did not come to their aid (Ps 35:17, 22–23). In these reflections, the psalmists often realized that their own unfaithfulness caused their struggles. Amid doubts and frustrations, the psalmists expressed their zeal (Ps 119:139) for what they knew was good, right, and true, which God's enemies mocked and destroyed.

Suffering and Feelings of Revenge

Ps 137:1–2 shows the context for the horribly violent statement that ends the psalm (v 9). The psalm opens with Judeans in Babylon, enslaved and mocked by their captors. When the captors demand "songs of Zion," the prisoners remember the violent destruction of their city by the Babylonians and the slaughter of Judeans who fled the city, pursued by Edomites (v 7).

With zeal and envy, the psalmist relished the truth that the Babylonians and Edomites—instruments of God's punishment on sinful Judah—were also doomed to destruction (v 8). In this way, the psalm illustrates feelings of violent revenge on God's enemies (cf Rv 6:10).

The term translated "blessed" in 137:8–9 does not invoke God's blessing on the violence. The Hebrew term describes the glee of the one who brings punishment. See "blessed," p 842.

Praying the Imprecatory Psalms

Christians should understand that the violent outbursts in these psalms are not prescriptions for the behavior of God's people but illustrations of emotions that God's people will indeed experience. Christians today who lose loved ones to war or to violent criminals will have these same feelings of anger and revenge. Praying the imprecatory psalms can help God's people express their anguish before God rather than act out their feelings in an unjust way. Imprecatory psalms prayed with psalms of repentance and hope can guide troubled hearts through the feelings they cannot escape.

God called Israel to be a blessing to all nations (Gn 12:3). He has likewise called us to bear witness to His grace. Along with this high calling, our knowledge of God's approaching judgment on the wicked and our painful experiences in life drive us to anticipate the day of wrath, which will end injustices. For these reasons, the imprecatory psalms still have an important role to play in the prayers of God's people.

Complaining to God

In these psalms [Ps 6, 44, 74, 88, 90] the psalmists experience God's wrath as the heart of their problem and the cause of their present distress. They interpret the distress in the light of Yahweh as the Lord of life who promises a life rich in blessings to all who would be faithful to Him. They know that those who are unfaithful are entitled to a broken relationship with Yahweh that ends in death and misery. In some of the psalms it is assumed that God originally was provoked to anger by the people's sin. His wrath, however, has dragged on beyond what is [considered] reasonable. In other psalms no explanation is given for why God should be angry. God appears to act contrary to His character, contrary to His way of acting in the past, in violation of the relationship into which He has entered with His people, and in violation of His promises. The result is that His own reputation suffers.

In this situation the psalmists hold these discrepancies up to God's nose. They tell Him exactly how they experience His current actions and inactivity toward them. They complain and protest and ask God to be the one He has told the people He is and the one He has revealed in the past. They firmly believe, in total disregard of present evidence, that God is still rich in steadfast love and compassion, that He is still the one who forgives sin, that His promises and covenant are still valid and unchangeable, and that His former actions when He made Israel into His people are still characteristic of the way He deals with His people. They protest God's work of wrath as not being His proper work, and they seek His steadfast love and help that is given for the sake of His steadfast love.

They further assume that they matter to God. Because He has chosen them to be His people, He is "stuck" with them. Thus their situation affects His reputation. God is zealous for the first commandment (Ex 20:2–5) and does not want to have His reputation damaged among the nations.

The psalmists do not explain away their suffering either by pretending that it is not real or by seeing it as what one simply has to expect in this world. They do not grant that anything is beyond their God's control.

Ancient Use of Psalms in Worship

Ritual Acts: Pilgrimage
References: Ps 120–34
Notes: Israelites were required to make annual pilgrimages to the sanctuary (cf Ex 23:17). Singing psalms was part of the journey.
Ritual Acts: Procession
References: Ps 24:7, 9; 48; 118:19–20; 132
Notes: Ps 132 may have been used as a reenactment of the moving of the ark of the covenant (2Sm 6).
Ritual Acts: Dancing
References: Ps 149:3; 150:4; cf Ex 15:20; Jgs 21:16–24; 2Sm 6:14, 16
Notes: Dance was not an individualistic action, as in modern times, but a liturgical act. (E.g., in Ex 32:19, Moses was angry at the dancing before the golden calf because the Israelites were performing a ritual dance as idol worship.) Israelites probably used ritual dances in processions to the sanctuary.
Ritual Acts: Entrance Liturgies
References: Ps 15; 24:3–6
Notes: Priests or Levites may have asked the questions found in these psalms. The people may have voiced the responses before entering the worship area.
Ritual Acts: Invocation
References: Ps 33:1; 111:1; 113:1; 146–50
Notes: These psalms seem to have opened a service of praise, prayer, or sacrifice. They invite the congregation to participate with the priests and Levites.
Ritual Acts: Versicle and Response
References: Ps 124; 129; 136
Notes: Ps 124:1 and 129:1 command, "Let Israel now say." May be a cue from a priest or Levite for the congregation to recite a response.
Ritual Acts: Choirs
References: Ps 4; 5; 6; etc.
Notes: Many psalms were written for the choirmaster.
Ritual Acts: Ceremonial Washings
References: Ps 26:6; 51:7

Notes: Washing was a regular part of service at the temple because of the animal sacrifices, but it was also an expression of forgiveness and purity.

Ritual Acts: Offering

References: Ps 66:13–15

Notes: The Law of Moses does not prescribe words to accompany the sacrificial acts of the priests. The psalms seem to serve as "words of institution" for the sacrifices.

Ritual Acts: Lament/Fasting

References: Ps 44; 60; 74; 79; etc.

Notes: In times of national crisis, and perhaps also during festivals, Israelites used lament psalms and fasted.

The Jewish intertestamental book 4 Maccabees remarks that the psalms were used in the home (18:9–10, 15). Parents were responsible for teaching them to their children.

Types of Sin

The three most common expressions for disobedience to God's will are (1) transgressions, (2) iniquity, and (3) sin. Each of these is associated with a different action for removing sin: (1) Transgressions are like an ugly blotch on a page or an entry of a debt that must be blotted out, i.e., expunged from the record (Is 43:25; Ps 109:14; Nu 5:23; Ac 3:19; Col 2:14). (2) Iniquity is like a filthy garment that must be washed thoroughly. In ancient times, this required vigorous action. Clothes were beaten on flat stones in a stream or were trampled to loosen the dirt (on ceremonial cleanness, cf Ex 19:10). (3) Sin is a stain that "lye" and "much soap" cannot remove (Jer 2:22); it yields only to God's cleansing action. The blood of animals was applied to the altar to symbolize that it was hallowed "from the uncleannesses of the people of Israel" (Lv 16:19).

But the blood of bulls and goats did not have the power to do what became a reality in the blood of Jesus, which "cleanses us from all sin" and from "all unrighteousness" (cf 1Jn 1:7, 9; Heb 10:14).

God's Word in Psalm 119

In Ps 119, eight words repeatedly describe God's Word. Several of these words are used in each stanza, with all eight appearing in stanzas Waw (vv 41–48), Heth (vv 57–64), Yodh (vv 73–80), Kaph (vv 81–88), and Pe (vv 129–36). Since each term describes God's Word, Hebrew poetry uses them in parallel lines, complementing one another in meaning (see pp 777–78). God's promise gives life because of God's trustworthy nature (Pr 30:5; see note, Ps 119:38).

Law. Hbr torah, "instruction" or "direction," including God's Commandments as well as His proclamation of love and mercy in the Messiah, Jesus. Torah eventually came to describe the Five Books of Moses (Gn; Ex; Lv; Nu; Dt). The Torah provides God's instructions and truth, which guide our steps in all situations.

testimonies. Hbr 'eduth, the "witnesses" of the covenant. The 10 "words" written on the tablets of the Law (Ex 20:2–17), which Moses stored in the ark of the covenant. See commandments.

precepts. Hbr piqqudim, things "deserving attention," "appointed for observation" (the verb means "to visit" or "attend to"). Each teaching of God's precious Word deserves the attention of His people.

statutes. Hbr chuqqoth, thing "prescribed" or "due" (the verb means "to engrave" or "inscribe"). Things written as decrees.

commandments. Hbr mitswoth, things "charged," "commanded," or "commissioned" by the Lord.

rules. Hbr mishpatim, "judgments." A legal term for the decisions of a judge. This can include rules to be followed as well as declarations of freedom and innocence. Therefore, the term frequently describes justification and God's mercy.

word. Hbr dabar, something "spoken." Used for all manner of messages (edicts, reports, commands, promises) or a "matter" about which one speaks.

promises. Hbr 'amaroth, "utterances" or "sayings," esp those of command or promise. When the saying involves fulfillment, "promise" is the preferred translation.

Some of these terms might make us think of dry, dead rules by which one has to live. Certainly God's Word proclaims rules for us to keep. However, Ps 119 repeatedly emphasizes that God gives life "according to" His Word. Generally, this phrase comes at the end of a verse, clinching the request with the certainty of God's previous promise. The psalmist prays according to "Your word" (vv 9, 25, 28, 65, 107, 169, 170), "Your promise" (vv 41, 58, 76, 133, 154), "Your rules" (v 156), and "Your steadfast love" (v v 124, 149, 159). (He also notes that the insolent do not live according to the Law [v 85].)

"According to" God's Word, the psalmist asks for direction in life (v 9), for life itself (vv 25, 107), for strength (v 28), for understanding (v 169), for deliverance (v 170), and he acknowledges God's blessings (v 65). Just as God's Word created the world (Gn 1) and God's breath gave Adam life (Gn 2:7), God's spoken and written Word gives life, hope, and salvation. In the NT, Jesus, the Word, "became flesh" for our salvation (Jn 1:14).

Life's God-Given Value

In 1920, two German physicians published a book called The Permission to Destroy Life Unworthy of Life. In it, they argued that "death assistance" should be extended to "empty shells of human beings" such as those with brain damage, some psychiatric conditions, and mental retardation. They argued that money spent to care for "meaningless life" could be used by those socially and physically fit. It was just a matter of determining which lives were worthy of life. History demonstrates that such thinking led to brutal Nazi experiments and death camps, forced sterilization programs in some European countries, and radical "eugenics" movements in Britain and the United States.

God Gives Value to Life

The value of human life does not depend upon what someone is able to do or not to do. God creates life. God made the first two human beings in His image (Gn 1:26–27). Even though this image was lost when sin came into the world, this original, lofty position still gives value to human life (cf Gn 9:6).

First, when God told Adam and Eve to be fruitful and multiply (Gn 1:28), He set in motion a biological process for procreation. But God is still involved in this process. "For You formed my inward parts; You knitted me together in my mother's womb. I praise You, for I am fearfully and wonderfully made. Wonderful are Your works" (Ps 139:13–14; cf Jb 10:8–12; 31:15). You are handmade by God! Everyone is. Whether you are an embryo growing in a womb, a young man in his prime, or a grandma in a nursing-home bed—every human life has this God-given value.

Second, God redeemed human life. God loved what He made with His hands so much that He sent His Son to pay the price to buy all human life back from sin and death. "You were bought with a price," Paul says (1Co 6:20). You know what that price was. It was not with "silver or gold, but with the precious blood of Christ" (1Pt 1:18–19). The hands that knit you in your mother's womb stretched out on a cross, were pierced with nails, and bled the cleansing blood of forgiveness. Every human being is a human being for whom Jesus Christ died. The embryo in the Petri dish, the child with Down syndrome yet to be born, the young woman who is brain damaged, and the elderly man with Alzheimer's disease have all been bought with a price. That price gives them value regardless of their stage of development or their condition.

Finally, God gives special value to those He calls as His own. God's grace given in Baptism flows to the infirm as well as to the healthy. The mentally retarded little girl is as much a child of God as the pastor who baptizes her. Value comes from what God is able to do in and through His children, not from the capabilities of His children. Paul says that God is able to do "far more abundantly than all we ask or think" and that this abundant power of God is "at work within us" (Eph 3:20; cf Eph 4:24; Col 3:10). We minimize God's power when we say He cannot be at work in and give value to the deformed baby who lives only a few hours. We minimize God’s power when we say He cannot be at work in and give value to the grandma who has lived 95 years but no longer remembers her family.

Life Worthy of Life!

An elderly pastor living in a nursing home struggled each day to care for his wife, who had lost virtually all physical strength and the ability to communicate. Despite these troubles, her husband visited with her each day, recalling the life of love and commitment they still shared. They little realized that their simple gestures were carefully and thoughtfully observed by a young man working at the nursing home. The couple's loving interaction moved the young man to consider dedicating himself to the pastoral ministry.

"Why is God keeping me around?" "The quality of Grandma's life just isn't what it used to be." You may have said similar things. Take note: such statements reflect a view of the value of life based on people's abilities rather than on God's ability. Assigning value to human life based on mental or physical capacity can lead to the foreboding conclusion that maybe there is life not worthy of life.

Not so! All life is worthy of life, because God makes it so. He created life with His hands. You and every life have handmade value! God redeemed life with His outstretched hands. You and every life have been bought with a price! God's power is at work in those He calls His own. You and every child of God are instruments of His power (Jer 1:5). Thank God for the gift of life! Thank God for the value He gives to every life!

Note: Life is a gift from God, but it is impossible to know God's purpose in all circumstances. If you are struggling with a seemingly untimely loss of life, see note, 1Ki 14:13. If you are feeling guilt for helping to end a new life through abortion, see note, 1Jn 3:20.

Music and Instruments in Israel

At times, the psalm prescripts give titles of tunes. Here are examples: "The Death of the Son" (9), "The Doe of the Morning" (22), "Lilies" (45; 69), "A Dove on Distant Oaks" (56), "Do Not Destroy" (57–59; 75), "Lily of the Covenant" (60; 80), and "Suffering of Affliction" (88). Such titles inspire the imagination, pointing to the range of sorrow, beauty, and joy expressed in ancient Israelite music.

The Jewish Talmud records that the Levites usually played cymbals for beating time, nine soprano harps for melody, and two bass harps (cf 1Ch 25:1, 6). Hebrew has a variety of words for stringed instruments, but harps seem to be the basic instruments of worship. Large orchestras were formed for special services (2Ch 5:12–13). See Bach's comment in the note for 1Ch 25.

bell. Small bronze bells were sewn to the hem of the high priest's garment so that they sounded as he walked. Cf Ex 28:33–35.

castanets. Small shells or pieces of wood or ivory fastened to thumb and finger and then clicked together. Cf 2Sm 6:5.

choir. The chief "instrument" for praising God is the human voice, which can make music in combination with God's own Word. Cf Ne 12:40. See voice.

choirmaster. Probably a liturgical notation, indicating either that the director of music should collect the psalm for Israel's worship services or that the leader of the Levitical choir should speak this psalm (cf 1Ch 23:5, 30; 25; Ne 11:17).

clapping. Even hands can keep rhythm in praise to God. Cf Ps 47:1.

cymbals. Copper or bronze percussion instruments (1Ch 15:19). Hbr term describes "ringing" or "resounding." Cf Ps 150:5.

dance. See note, 149:3. Hbr words for dance mean to skip, hop, leap, and whirl. Dances could be performed in a circle. Women are described dancing together (cf Ex 15:20). David danced in priestly garb when the ark was brought to Jerusalem (2Sm 6:14–16). This is the only specific reference to male dancing. See p 959.

flute. Hbr chalil; from a term meaning "to pierce" or "to bore." A double-piped flute with holes bored in it for creating different musical notes. Cf harp. Hbr nebel. Name refers to the instrument's shape, like that of a bottle or jar. It was a large instrument with 10 or 12 strings of varying length, which were plucked. Cf Ps 33:2.

1Sm 10:5–6. Numerous clay figurines have been discovered depicting the playing of this instrument.

lute. Hbr kinor. Smaller than the harp, with five or so strings, which were plucked or strummed with a plectrum.

lyre. See lute.

pipes. See flute.

Selah. Hbr; untranslatable. Mainly in the first two books of Psalms. Probably refers to the accompaniment of the harps during the psalm.

strings. See harp.

tambourine. Hbr term includes hand drums. These were usually played by women (Ex 15:20), as shown by numerous clay figurines of women playing such instruments.

trumpet. Hbr shophar, "ram's horn." Most frequently mentioned instrument in the Bible, it had both religious and military uses. Priests sounded the trumpet to call people to worship (Ps 81:3–4; 98:6). Its loud blast was used as a signal rather than as music. Cf 2Sm 6:15. Trumpets were not played with other instruments.

trumpet(s). Hbr chatsotserah, "bugle." Instrument, made of silver or bronze, was long and straight and had limited musical range. Like the shophar, this instrument had sacred and military functions. It marked the progress of the offerings (Nu 10:1–10; 98:6). Trumpets were not played with other instruments.

voice. Most common and best instrument of music, because it can convey God's Word. Cf 2Ch 29:27–28; Ps 47:6. See choir.

Note: Some Protestant churches do not use musical instruments to accompany their singing and even forbid their use in worship. They argue that the New Testament does not teach the use of musical instruments for worship. The Psalms clearly record how important instrumental music was for worshipers who gathered at the temple (e.g., Ps 47; 150). Likewise, the Book of Revelation notes the use of musical instruments in heaven! (Note the mention of harps in Rv 5:8; 15:2 and trumpets in Rv 8:2, 6, 13.)

Study Notes

PSALMS—NOTE ON Book One Ps 1–41; see p 844.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 1 Author and date of composition unknown. Based on the psalm's high regard for God's Word, the author may have been a scholar of the Law.

Format: V v 1–2, the blessed; v v 3–4, a contrast; v v 5–6, the wicked.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 1:1 Blessed. Happy condition of person described in v v 1–3. See p 842. walks … stands … sits. A progression from following after to settling in with the worst kind of sinners. wicked. Hbr resha'im, people who disobey God's Law and are excluded from public worship and the covenant community. sinners. People who habitually sin. scoffers. People who robustly mock and ridicule God's Law. The progression describes people who, perhaps naively, begin to imitate those who despise God's Law and replace it with what suits their own whims. Imitation leads to alliance, and alliance leads to assimilation. This leads to outright rejection and even ridicule of God and His Word. Those who refuse to tread this path avoid this downward spiral. As such, they are truly blessed.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 1:2 law. See p 971. meditates. See p 842. "The Law is a mirror in which God's will and what pleases Him are exactly portrayed. This mirror should be constantly held up to the believers and be diligently encouraged for them without ceasing" (FC SD VI 4). day and night. Constantly. Luth: "This blessed man has his love, the Law of God, always in his mouth, always in his heart and, if possible, always in his ear" (AE 14:298). Chem: "The Spirit of renewal works a willingness of this kind in the believers" (LTh 2:341).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 1:3 like a tree. The Egyptian "Wisdom of Amenemope" contrasted a tree in a field with a tree in a garden, i.e., a hot-tempered wild person with a silent, cultivated person. fruit. He produces something from which others benefit. does not wither. Is strong despite adverse circumstances. prospers. Luth: "Beware that prosperity is not understood as prosperity of the flesh. This prospering is hidden; it is so deep within the spirit that if you do not hold fast to it in faith, you might rather call it the greatest adversity. For just as the devil violently hates the 'leaves' and the Word of God, so he also hates those who teach it and listen to it; and he persecutes them with the help of the powers of the whole world. So you are witness to the greatest of all miracles when you hear that everything prospers which the blessed man does. For what is more wonderful than that the believers increase when they are destroyed, that they multiply when they are diminished, that they overcome when they are subdued, that they enter when they are cast out, that they are victorious when they are defeated? … Thus God exalts His saints, that the height of misfortune becomes the height of prosperity" (AE 14:304).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 1:4 drives away. Winnowing farmers harvested the grain and, on a breezy evening, would throw it into the air. Since the chaff was lighter than the grain, the breeze would blow the chaff away. Accumulated chaff was burned—a vivid picture of the end of a life divorced from God!

PSALMS—NOTE ON 1:5 the judgment. God's final judgment. The wicked will not be able to withstand the final judgment. congregation. Israelites who gather for public worship. Also can refer to all those who trust in God for their salvation gathering at the final judgment.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 1:6 way of the righteous … way of the wicked. See p 844. Not simply the behavior of these two types of people, but particular dispositions toward God and theologies. The wicked hold God's Word in contempt and utter disregard. The righteous order their lives and view the world according to God's Word and wisdom. See pp 775–78.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 1 Shows us the destiny of both the righteous and the wicked. The wicked will, at the final judgment, find themselves alienated from God and, ultimately, inheritors of eternal damnation. No one is exempt from this most frightening fate. Yet God has provided a different way. He sets us on the way of righteousness and keeps us on it through His Word. The means of grace forever remind us—even when we have succumbed to the various temptations of life—that, through the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ, our destination is certain. We will stand holy before God in the final judgment as members of the congregation of the righteous. • O Lord, bless our meditation on the accomplished fact of our salvation, through Christ Jesus. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 2 Ascribed to David in Ac 4:25 (perhaps because the whole Psalter is associated with him). The context of the psalm may be David's coronation or the coronation of one of Jerusalem's other kings. The first strophe (v v 1–3) may hint at the later wars of David (cf 2Sm 8; 10).

Format: V v 1–3, the nations oppose the Lord; v v 4–6, the Lord establishes His king; v v 7–9, the Son's rule; v v 10–12, a warning.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 2:2 Anointed. One consecrated by having oil poured on his head (e.g., David was anointed king by the prophet Samuel; 1Sm 16:13). See note, 1Sm 10:1.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 2:3 cast away their cords. Pictures independence sought by vassal kingdoms.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 2:4 laughs. God, in His infinite splendor, is not so far removed from creation that He is unaware of human deeds. Ever mindful of His creation, He mocks those who have the audacity to circumvent His laws and plans as Creator. Luth: "Let us laugh at raging Satan and the world (yes, even at sin and our conscience in us). Truly, because the punishment of the godless is delayed up to now, it is certain that God is also laughing, God, who is in heaven and cannot be driven from there by impious men. Therefore He rightly laughs at their vain attempts. We may think that we would also laugh if we were seated in such a high place and a fortress so fortified…. But these thoughts reveal our lack of faith. For all of us who believe in Christ are most truly in that same heaven in which the Lord dwells, if not in the flesh, nevertheless in faith and in the Word" (AE 12:25).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 2:6 Zion. See p 844.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 2:7 decree. God's announcement of a king (e.g., the prophet Nathan announced David's appointment as Saul's successor; 2Sm 7:5–17). This was ultimately fulfilled in Jesus. You are My Son … I have begotten You. Cf 2Sm 7:14. Just: "His generation would take place for men" (ANF 1:244). Mel: "He is by nature the Son into whom the substance of the Father has been propagated" (Chem, LTh 1:88). Chem: "In Hebrew the word is yalad … to beget from the essence" (LTh 1:101).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 2:9 break. In Mesopotamian texts, a king's rule was often likened to the act of smashing pottery. Thus, "break" here means to rule (see ESV note). iron … potter's vessel. Synonyms for strength and weakness.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 2:10 "It should be the first care of kings to advance God's glory" (Tr 54).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 2:11 fear … rejoice with trembling. God's mercy and protection cause His subjects to rejoice. At the same time, His righteousness shakes the disobedient. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 2:12 Kiss. A subject acknowledged the dominance of a king by kissing the hem of his garment or his hand. the Son. See note, v 7. quickly kindled. The irreverent are subject to the king's wrath. take refuge. To acknowledge and surrender to the one whom God, in His infinite wisdom, has chosen to rule.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 2 Those who plot against God's elect incite God's wrath. The Lord, not human beings, anointed Israel's king and elected this nation for His plan of salvation. Ultimately, the Messiah—the Anointed One—was born from the nation of Israel. God preserved Israel so that through the offspring of one of David's descendants, Mary, the Savior of humankind was born. Those who "take refuge in Him"—i.e., trust in Him for their salvation—are truly blessed. • Lord Jesus, despite our miserable and constant rebellion, You rescue us from sin. Lead us to embrace Your gracious rule with joyful hearts. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 3 This psalm of David describes Absalom's attempt to undermine his father's rule (2Sm 15–17). It was written toward the end of David's reign.

Format: Vv 1–2, rising foes; v v 3–4, the Lord's protection; v v 5–6, not afraid; v 7, a prayer for salvation; v 8, salvation and blessing.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 3:2 Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 3:3 shield about me. God's protection is all-encompassing. glory. I.e., the source of David's glory, since his fame came from God.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 3:4 holy hill. Zion (see p 844).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 3:5 When vigilance waned, God continued to protect and sustain.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 3:7–8 Save me … Salvation. See p 843. In warfare, victory came only if God fought for and through His people.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 3 This psalm recounts a dark period in David's life. His enemies, including his own son, have overwhelmed and opposed him. Despite his foes' claim that David's sins preclude him from salvation, David remains confident that God will protect and deliver him. Despite our miserable condition (and certain end), God shields us from our foes, lifts us, and directs our eyes to His great mercy displayed in the cross of Christ. He assures us that salvation belongs to Him and is given to those who trust in Him. • "You, O LORD, are a shield about me, my glory, and the lifter of my head. Arise, O LORD! Save me, O my God!" Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 4 This psalm was for the director of Israel's worship services, or perhaps it was to be spoken or sung by the director of a liturgical choir. choirmaster. See p 993. stringed instruments. See p 993.

Format: V v 1–3, the Lord hears; v v 4–5, trust the Lord; v v 6–7, joy from the Lord; v 8, peace from the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 4:1 my righteousness! See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 4:2 O men, how long. Bern: "You are deaf to the voice of truth, and you know not the purpose of Him who thinks thoughts of peace, who also speaks peace to His people, and to His saints, and to such as are converted in heart" (SLSB, p 159). Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 4:3 set apart. God separates and protects those who hear and obey His Word.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 4:4 Be angry. "Tremble." Psalmist exhorts his readers to fear, for he has called God to his aid (v 3), and God has promised to protect the godly. do not sin. Mel: "Rule over your sorrow and bend your mind so that you may willingly be obedient to God in your anguish" (Chem, LTh 2:367).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 4:5 right sacrifices. In addition to fearing God, which implies guilt, the psalmist urges foes to make atonement.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 4:6 light of Your face. Allusion to the Aaronic blessing in Nu 6:24–26, requesting that God direct His kindness toward His people.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 4:7 they. Psalmist's foes.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 4 David complains that his enemies are speaking ill of him as king in an attempt to shame him. He reminds them that God sets apart the godly from those who behave in such a manner. How often do we find ourselves speaking ill of people in positions of authority? of colleagues and peers? God's Word condemns unjust complaints. Through David, God encourages us to turn from our sinful ways and "trust in the LORD" (v 5). Such trust brings peace of mind and eternal peace. • You alone, O Lord, make me dwell in safety. Teach me to judge rightly and dwell in peace. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 5 choirmaster. See p 993. flutes. See p 993.

Format: V v 1–3, prayer and sacrifice; v v 4–6, God's hate; v v 7–8, God's love; v v 9–10, prayer against enemies; v v 11–12, bless the righteous.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 5:2 King. King David acknowledges Yahweh as King of kings.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 5:3 morning. Prayer is the most important part of the day. In other words, the day will start, be filled, and end with prayer. watch. Wait in expectation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 5:5 hate. Chem: "God hates sin and is exceedingly angry not only at the original fall into sin but at our actual sins…. It cannot be said that God is the will which causes anyone to sin" (LTh 1:191, 218). If God did not hate evil, His love would not be holy and just. Mel: "He has poured out His great wrath against sin upon His Son who was put to death for us and paid our penalty. By the intercession of this payment we are received" (Chem, LTh 2:657).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 5:7 steadfast love. See p 843. Your house … holy temple. The tabernacle or the heavenly temple, where God and human beings will dwell together. The great temple of Jerusalem was built by Solomon after his father David's death.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 5:8 way straight. To offer protection and guidance on the path of life.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 5:9 inmost self. One's physical and emotional core. open grave. Devoid of life.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 5:11 spread Your protection. "He daily preserves and defends us against all evil and misfortune" (LC II 17). love Your name. His name, made known through His deeds and Word, evokes love and causes joy.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 5:12 favor. See p 6.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 5 Boasting and deceit inevitably lead to destruction. David's petition reveals that God leads us out of such sins and covers us with His favor. God declares us righteous and thus covers us with His favor through faith in Christ's atoning sacrifice for all of our sins. • Keep us ever mindful of this great gift of righteousness by faith alone, O Lord. Through Word and Sacrament, cover us and remind us of Your constant and protective favor. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 6 One of seven penitential psalms (cf 32; 38; 51; 102; 130; 143). The exact context of this prayer for deliverance is uncertain. As he writes this, David seems to be extremely ill as a result of mental anguish over sin. choirmaster. See p 993. Sheminith. Lit, "the eighth," which may refer to a musical setting or to an eight-stringed instrument.

Format: V v 1–3, a prayer for mercy; v v 4–5, life and death; v v 6–7, mourning; v v 8–10, the Lord hears.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 6:2 heal me. Beyond physical restoration, this appeal can extend to both body and soul. troubled. "[A] conscience feels God's wrath against sin. This is unknown to secure people living according to the flesh" (Ap XIIA 32).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 6:4 Turn. Psalmist feels God has turned His attention elsewhere. To turn toward the psalmist again is to deliver him from adversity and, in this context, the fear of death. deliver … save … steadfast love. See pp 842–43.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 6:5 no remembrance. No worship. Sheol. See p 792.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 6:8 workers of evil. Any habitual sinner with evil designs.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 6:10 turn back. Retreat, acknowledgment of defeat.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 6 David pleads with the Lord for deliverance from anxiety, physical discomfort, and sickness caused by a growing awareness of his sinful condition. Luther referred to such mental torment as Anfechtung, a German term for the state of despair and doubt we human beings experience when coming to terms with the consequences of our failure to meet the demands of God's Law. Scripture clearly reveals that the result of sin is death (Rm 6:23), but how seriously do we take this threat? Consider this: nearly 2,000 years ago, our sinful condition was so desperate that God sent His own Son to pay the price. God be praised! Through faith in Christ's redemption, our sins have been forgiven. • Lord, hear my plea, and accept my prayer through the merits of Jesus, who prays for me. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 7 Shiggaion. Rare Hbr word, possibly a liturgical device; see note, Hab 3:1. Some scholars argue that it borrows from an ancient Assyrian (or Akkadian) word that means "to complain" or "to lament." Cush, a Benjaminite. Since Cush was from the tribe of Benjamin, he was almost certainly an ally of David's enemy Saul.

Format: V v 1–2, pursuers are like lions; v v 3–5, vow of innocence; v v 6–7, appointed judgment; v v 8–11, shield of the righteous; v v 12–16, punish the unrepentant; v 17, vow to thank and praise.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 7:2 tear my soul. As a shepherd, David was certainly familiar with the destruction a lion could cause as it picked apart a carcass.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 7:3 this. Charges brought against David in v 4.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 7:5 my glory. Honor. Selah. See p 993.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 7:6 awake. Hyperbole, for the Lord does not sleep (cf 121:4), emphasizing David's feelings and dire situation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 7:7 assembly. Not just David's enemies, but also God's enemies.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 7:8 judges. Statement of fact: God judges all people. The penalty may be immediate or delayed, but it is certain (cf v 11). David asks that he not be treated by an unfair standard. He is confident about God's gracious outpouring and crediting of righteousness upon those who repent (cf v v 10–11). "When David boasts in other places about his righteousness, he speaks about his own cause against the persecutors of God's Word. He does not speak of his personal purity" (Ap V 205). May we, too, be so confident in the blessings of repentance credited to us by God through faith.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 7:9 test. Examine or search.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 7:11 righteous judge. Judge who deliberates fairly and without error on the basis of the law. See p 792. feels indignation. Is moved to righteous anger.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 7:12 repent. See p 1080. God's Word turns our thoughts back to Him. The first step in repentance is acknowledging the truth of what God has told us about ourselves: we are conceived and born sinful creatures in dire need of God's mercy. whet. To sharpen on a whetstone in preparation for battle. God is not idle when His judgment is delayed.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 7:13 fiery. Flaming arrows; God shoots lightning.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 7:14 conceives … is pregnant … gives birth. Lies are premeditated and nurtured by the wicked. evil. Chem: "The corrupt inclination of our nature which produces evil desires, even if the intention has not been made" (LTh 2:429).
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 7 David, confident of his righteousness, petitions the Lord to judge him and his enemies justly. He repeatedly asserts that the righteousness of God's justice must destroy unrepentant sinners, and he compares God's wrath to that of a soldier preparing to meet his foe. What a startling image for those who refuse to repent of their sins! Yet the Lord also offers salvation through Christ Jesus. • O God, readily forgive and turn away Your righteous indignation from me. Put a new song on my lips —"praise to the name of the LORD, the Most High." Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 8 References to the moon and stars make this psalm esp appropriate for evening worship. choirmaster. See p 993. Gittith. Meaning unclear; perhaps a musical instrument or particular melody.

Format: V v 1–2, Your majestic name; v v 3–4, humankind seems unimportant; v v 5–8, the Lord gives dominion to humankind; v 9, chorus.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 8:1 LORD. Hbr yahweh, the personal, revealed name of God (cf Ex 3:14; 6:2–8). our Lord. Hbr 'adonai, common term used to address a king, ruler, or anyone in position of authority. See p 1227. The psalm begins by crying out the name of the one and only true God, then confesses Him to be our ruler. majestic. The name of Yahweh is rightfully described. Yahweh alone is, always has been, and always will be the one who exists and, by extension, is always present to act on behalf of humankind for our salvation. glory. God's majesty is tangibly revealed on earth in the wonderful details and design of creation (esp in Christ's human nature and work) and extends beyond our view into the heavens.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 8:2 babies and infants … established strength. God's majesty and glory are found throughout the created order. They are most clearly and personally displayed in the incarnation of His Son and the reconciliation of humankind through the Holy Child, Jesus. This is God's most glorious and majestic work, but it is also a paradox. See p 837. Luth: "This is the way Christ's kingdom is established, namely, not with human force, wisdom, counsel or power, but with the Word and the Gospel preached by infants and sucklings…. By 'infants' He does not mean young children who cannot talk … but plain, simple, unsophisticated people, who are like infant children in that they set aside all reason, grasp and accept the Word with simple faith, and let themselves be led and directed by God like children. Such people are also the best scholars and pupils in Christ's kingdom" (AE 12:108). "Children should be constantly urged and moved to honor God's name and to have it always upon their lips for everything that may happen to them" (LC I 70).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 8:4 what is man. David considers the place of human beings in the created order and, more important, their significance to God. son of man. Hbr ben 'adam, "son of Adam." Human beings enjoy a special relationship with their Creator. V v 5–8 explain the special status and role that human beings enjoy over the rest of creation.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 8:5 Emphasizes the special status God bestows on humans who enjoy His care and attention. Luther translates: "Thou wilt let Him be forsaken of God for a little while," and applies the passage to Christ (AE 12:124). the heavenly beings. Hbr 'elohim, "God," or "divine beings." The LXX identifies them as angels (cf Heb 2:5, 7).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 8:6 dominion. Gn 1:26–27 refers to the inborn duty of human beings to rule over creation. works. Or, created ones, possibly referring to the heavenly beings (v 5). Though human beings have been given an extraordinary responsibility and great authority, David reminds us that creation is the work of God's hands. Thus, human beings see themselves as God's humble and responsible servants in their role as rulers over creation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 8:8 paths of the seas. Currents in the oceans used by sailors as trade routes.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 8 Luth: "David concludes this psalm just the way he began it. He thanks the Lord, our Ruler, for His great and inestimable blessing, for establishing such a kingdom and calling and gathering His church, which gloriously praises His name throughout the world and thanks Him in heaven. Let us follow the example of this singer of praises as he prophesies to us. The Lord is our Ruler, too, and His kingdom is established and founded from the mouths of babes and sucklings. We entered it by Baptism, and we are called to it daily through Word and Gospel. With David we also hope to come to where we shall see the heavens, the work of His fingers, the moon and the stars which He will prepare. He won the kingdom with great trouble and anguish. Now He is crowned with honor and adornment and has everything under His feet. For this we give God our praise and thanks, but especially for the fact that He has brought us to a light and knowledge that does not spring up out of human reason but out of Christ. He is our Sun, who died for us and was raised from the dead, lives and reigns, so that through Him we might be saved. To this end may God help us all. Amen. Glory to God alone" (AE 12:135–36).
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 9 Based on the LXX, Ps 9 and 10 are understood by many scholars to comprise one psalm. Some commentators suggest that the psalm was composed later in David's lifetime, after the ark of the covenant was brought to and permanently kept in Jerusalem (v 11). choirmaster. See p 993. Muth-labben. Probably a musical notation.

Format: V v 1–2, thanks and praise; v v 3–4, righteous judgment; v v 5–6, the wicked rebuked; v v 7–8, the Lord's justice; v v 9–10, the Lord is a stronghold; v v 11–12, enthroned in Zion; v v 13–14, prayer for graciousness; v v 15–16, nations trapped; v 17, end of the wicked; v 18, not forgotten; v v 19–20, judge the nations.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 9:3 Your presence. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 9:4 just cause. As the anointed king of Israel, God's elect, David knew his cause was just, so long as it was informed by God's counsel.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 9:5 blotted out … forever. Utter destruction so as to disappear from the historical register, like the Canaanites, whom Israel overthrew. An even more harrowing truth is suggested here. The Creator forgets those who die outside the bounds of His grace, i.e., apart from faith in Christ Jesus.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 9:7 God will always remain the ruler of the nations and, moreover, will always uphold the cause of righteousness, on behalf of those who trust in Him. See pp 1565–66.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 9:9 stronghold. Fortress or place of refuge.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 9:10 seek You. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 9:11 Zion! See p 844.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 9:12 avenges blood. Cf Dt 32:43.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 9:13 gates of death. Ancient Mesopotamians believed that, immediately after death, the deceased passed through seven gates on the way to the netherworld. But Scripture uses this term in reference to hell. See notes, Jb 17:16; Mt 16:18.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 9:14 daughter of Zion. Personification of Jerusalem. See p 1079.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 9:16 made Himself known. Revealed Himself—His will and His Law—in the text of Scripture and, more appropriate to this context, through various miraculous interventions in history. Higgaion. Hbr term of uncertain meaning; probably a musical notation, perhaps indicating an interlude. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 9:17 Sheol. See p 792.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 9 "The wicked are snared in the work of their own hands," David observes in this psalm. How timeless is this truth! How often do we dig ourselves deeper into sin just to cover up a previous sin? Ultimately, our sin carries the most frightening of consequences—death and damnation. However, as David reminds us, if we acknowledge our sin and God's wonderful deeds on our behalf, especially through Christ, we can be confident of His mercy toward us so we, too, can "be glad and exult" (v 2) in His name. • Dear Lord Jesus, we continually recount, through praise and thanksgiving, Your wonderful deeds. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 10 See Ps 9 intro.

Format: V 1, the Lord is hidden; v v 2–11, the wicked's thoughts and deeds; v v 12–15, the Lord helps the afflicted; v v 16–18, the Lord hears and does justice.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 10:1 hide Yourself. Because of the deeds of wicked men and women, it seems that God is hidden away, unwilling, at least presently, to intervene.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 10:2–11 Deeds of the wicked are listed.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 10:2 wicked. See note, 1:1.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 10:3 curses. Those who acquire goods and wealth through dubious and wicked means and out of sheer greed often praise God for their gain. This praise, however, is empty and insincere. To God, it is the same as if the wicked were cursing Him. See note, Gn 12:3; see also p 6.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 10:4 seek Him. See p 843. There is no God. The self-deluding thought that there is no God is the height of wickedness, for all of creation testifies to the existence of a Creator. See note, Rm 1:20.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 10:5 His. The wicked's. When the wicked happen to experience prosperity, they continue in their arrogance, thinking they will continue to prosper "at all times." It appears that the ways of wicked human beings and God's justice will never meet. However, there will be an end to the wicked's prosperity when God returns to judge both the living and the dead.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 10:7 mouth … tongue. Bern: "Let divine fear transfix your flesh, that the desire of the flesh may not deceive you. It flatters, but under its tongue is suffering and sorrow; it weeps, but betrays; it betrays to catch the poor when it has attracted him" (SLSB, p 184).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 10:8 ambush. A tactic most characteristic of the wicked, who are hostile without warning.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 10:9 poor. Those who have few resources to defend themselves make the easiest targets.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 10:14 take it into Your hands. To deal with it.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 10:16 nations. Reference to the Canaanites, who, due to their wickedness, had been crushed and ceased to exist. See note, 9:5.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 10:17 strengthen their heart. Give courage and provide hope for the future. "God also requires that you weep and ask … so that you may kindle your heart to stronger and greater desires and make wide your cloak to receive much" (LC III 27).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 10:18 of the earth. Emphasizes that human beings are mere creatures and, as such, are nothing compared to God's power.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 10 The psalmist confidently prays that God will root out those who are wicked and take advantage of the weak and poor throughout Israel so that they "may strike terror no more" (v 18). Such behavior, David reminds us, will be called into account. There is hope, however, whether we have taken advantage of the weak or have been the victim of oppression. The Lord has compassion on those oppressed by sin. • In mercy, Lord, bring "justice to the fatherless and the oppressed." Eradicate terror and injustice from the earth. Forgive us, and come quickly to establish Your kingdom. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 11 Written during a time in which the danger posed by David's enemies was so great that even the king's counselors encouraged him to retreat into hiding (2Sm 15–17). choirmaster. See p 993.

Format: V v 1–3, plight of the righteous; v v 4–5, the holy Lord tests the righteous; v v 6–7, wicked and righteous contrasted.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 11:1 you. Probably David's well-intended but cowardly friend(s) or adviser(s) who had counseled him to flee from impending danger. your mountain. The Israelites often took refuge in the wooded mountains. David hid when pursued by Saul.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 11:3 foundations. World's underlying structure or order. Luther referred to this underlying structure as "stations," meaning (1) religion, or spiritual life, (2) power, or political life, and (3) domestic economy, or family life. Luth: "Where such stations operate as they should, there things go well in the world, and there is the very righteousness of God. But where such stations are not maintained, it makes for unrighteousness. Now God declares concerning these stations that they must remain if the world is to stand, even though many oppose and rage against them. Therefore the psalmist says that His righteousness endures forever. All sects and man-made righteousness will finally perish, but these stations remain and preserve [secular] righteousness in the world" (AE 13:358; cf AE 54:446).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 11:4 Though the Lord's heavenly throne seems remote, God remains interested in human affairs. Therefore, He continues to test or examine the deeds and intentions of human beings (v 5).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 11:5 tests. See note, v 4. hates. Holiness and justice, as God's attributes, must cause revulsion against the wicked designs of humans. Oh, that we would have such a righteous hate toward our own sin! See note, 5:5.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 11:6 a scorching wind. Utter destruction caused by a storm of fire and sulfur, reminiscent of a volcanic eruption's fiery cloud. This wind would ensure that anything that survived would be snuffed out. See p 879. portion of their cup. Due reward or punishment. See note, Is 51:17.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 11 David confesses his confidence in the Lord's unmovable favor. The Lord, David writes, "tests the righteous" (v 5). Our faith is often tested and often found wanting. God's faithfulness and mercy toward us, however, never wanes or fails. Despite our lack of faith and even our wicked deeds, He extends His grace as a refuge from our sinful nature and the sinful works of others. He does so audibly and visibly through Word and Sacrament, as a testament of His great and unending love for us. • In You, O Lord, we take refuge. Though we are found wanting for righteousness, save us by the righteousness of Christ. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 12 As a youth, David was repeatedly mistreated by King Saul (e.g., 1Sm 18:6–11). Later, King David was the target of further intrigues, including the famous one involving his son Absalom (2Sm 15–18). choirmaster. See p 993. Sheminith. Lit, "the eighth," a note about musical setting; meaning uncertain.

Format: V v 1–2, everyone lies; v v 3–4, flattery and boasting judged; v v 5–6, the Lord's words are pure; v v 7–8, the Lord guards us.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 12:1 Save, O LORD. See "salvation," p 843; cf Mt 14:30.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 12:2 double heart. The human heart is often the source of duplicity and deceit (Mk 7:21–23).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 12:3 cut off. David's proposed solution to the treachery surrounding him is drastic. The expression often means to execute someone.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 12:4 our lips are with us. The evil express their confidence to one another. In stark contrast is the boast of the righteous, "God is with us."
PSALMS—NOTE ON 12:5 poor … needy. God's people who suffer for the sake of righteousness (cf Mt 5:3).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 12:6 pure words. God's Word is the opposite of what the wicked utter. Whereas the evil use words to deceive and destroy, God's Holy Word delivers life and salvation. See notes, 19:7; 33:4. purified seven times. Thoroughly. See p 217. Chem: "[God] purges and separates the opinions of reason and the Law that have intruded themselves into the doctrine of justification" (LTh 2:464). See notes, Mal 3:2–3.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 12:7 this generation forever. At times, the wicked prevail, but they shall not prevail in eternity. Jesus also spoke against "this generation" in Mt 11:16; 12:41.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 12 A cry for help in the face of treachery and deceit. Unchecked wickedness sometimes leads us to doubt that God is watching out for us. Such despair is a great evil and can ruin our souls, but it can also help us to appreciate our complete dependence on God and His unfailing promises to save and defend us. • Lord, use the surrounding evil and the threats they pose to drive us once again to a lively hope in our promised salvation; through Christ Jesus, our Lord. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 13 Best understood as having been written while David was being pursued by King Saul. On numerous occasions, David was nearly killed. choirmaster. See p 993.

Format: V v 1–2, waiting on the Lord; v v 3–4, prayer for an answer; v v 5–6, the Lord's bountiful love and salvation.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 13:1 hide. Psalmist expresses dismay and frustration that God seems indifferent to his suffering. David's feeling of abandonment is not the result of a sin he has committed (as in Ps 51). Rather, he fears that his enemies will succeed in their plan to kill him.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 13:2 counsel in my soul. Describes pain in the soul, which fits well with the next poetic line.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 13:3 light up my eyes. See note, Jb 17:7. sleep of death. David is afraid to rest his eyes. King Saul tried long and hard to kill the youthful David as recorded in 1Sm.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 13:4 If David's enemies succeed in their plan to kill him, people might think that God Himself is against him. David seems esp disturbed that his death would be taken as a sign of God's judgment.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 13:5 steadfast love. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 13:6 bountifully. God sets right what is wrong in our lives. Thus, after the Lord deals "bountifully" with the psalmist in 116:7, his soul is once again allowed to come to rest (cf Mt 11:28–30).
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 13 In moments of fear and frustration, our prayers can easily slip into blaming God for our problems. Asking "How long, O LORD?" (v 1) is okay. Casting blame on the Lord and reproving His failure to act according to our wishes and timetables, however, comes close to blasphemy. When our prayers question God and His ways, we do well to remember that Jesus not only commanded us to pray but also graciously promised to hear our prayers and intercede for us before the Father. No matter how weak our prayers or deep our frustration, Jesus' grace makes up for their shortcomings. • Lord Jesus, You conquered death and the grave and, therefore, can handle anything, including our impatient or even disrespectful prayers. Teach us to know that You are greater than all things, so that we pray confidently, Thy will be done. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 14 Continual warning against unbelief; vivid picture of what the righteous ought always to avoid. choirmaster. See p 993.

Format: Each verse has three poetic lines except v v 5–6, which together make four lines.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 14:1 There is no God. Atheism, while increasingly common, is nothing new. The fool described here denies God "in his heart." There are people whose actions deny God's existence, even though they do not profess atheism. abominable. Behaviors that betray a particularly profound darkness of the heart and soul. As v 4 attests, abominable deeds usually involve the abuse of others. none who does good. Quoted as a blanket condemnation of all people in Rm 3:12. Apart from Christ, we cannot please God.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 14:2 seek after God. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 14:3 Cited by Paul, Rm 3:12. Our works cannot make us righteous before God (cf Rm 3:23).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 14:4 call upon the LORD? See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 14:5–6 In due time, God will act on behalf of the poor, as v 7 makes clear.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 14:7 Zion! See p 844. Jacob … Israel. References to God's chosen people.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 14 Though atheism and irreligion are increasingly accepted, indeed even fashionable in modern societies, they are destructive beliefs that finally lead to moral abandon and eternal death. Because this psalm clarifies the depth of human sinfulness, it also illumines the greatness in Jesus' redemption. He atoned for all the sins of all people and graciously calls all, even the most perverse, to forgiveness and eternal life. • Lord Jesus, when we despair because of the world's increasing hostility or indifference to You, help us also to see the greatness of Your love and grace. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 15 Many scholars think that Ps 15 was an entry prayer that reminded the Israelites of their need for holiness in God's presence. Chem: "He is not describing the cause of our justification or the means of apprehending righteousness, nor the form wherein our righteousness actually consists, but He is describing it by its fruits and who they are who have attained true righteousness and dwell in the church of God" (LTh 2:641).

Format: V 1, Your holy hill; v v 2–5, a description of the worthy.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 15:1 Poses a daunting question: Who is worthy to enter and remain in God's holy presence? Your tent? The tabernacle. (See diagram, p 139.) Later, God's dwelling was the Jerusalem temple, built on Mount Zion.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 15:2 blamelessly. See note, Jb 1:1. truth in his heart. Sincerity. This quality is necessary for one to approach God, for He can read the heart and is not swayed by appearances (1Sm 16:7; cf Lk 18:9–14).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 15:3 The three vices listed in this verse contrast sharply with the three godly behaviors described in the preceding verse.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 15:4 swears. See note, Nu 30:2. to his own hurt. The righteous promise to do something harmful to themselves for the good of others. Though the righteous despise a vile person, they still have mercy for others.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 15:5 money at interest. In contrast to the surrounding pagan cultures, where loans often led to enslavement (cf Mt 18:23–24), lending of money in ancient Israel was intended to help the poor (Ex 22:25; Lv 25:35–37; Dt 23:19–20). The prophets repeatedly rail against any abuse of the poor and vulnerable.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 15 Sincerity and the righteous treatment of others, as taught in the Ten Commandments, are emphasized as the foundation to genuine worship. Sad to say, there are times that we come to worship God in an unworthy manner. E.g., we may remain unreconciled with others or persist in behaviors we know to be wrong. As God's true temple and the mercy seat where full forgiveness is freely given, our Lord Jesus Christ still calls us unto Himself. Through His grace, we are made right with God and counted worthy to stand before the Father's throne. • Almighty God, grant that all our worship and life may be acceptable in Your sight; through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 16 Luth: "A prophecy of the suffering and resurrection of Christ, as the apostles themselves powerfully indicate (Acts 2:25 and 13:35)" (PIML, p 22). Miktam. See p 841.

Format: V v 1–2, prayer for refuge; v 3, saints; v 4, idolaters; v v 5–6, inheritance of God's people; v v 7–8, the Lord's counsel; v v 9–10, rescue from corruption; v 11, joy at God's right hand.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 16:1 This first verse, which expresses confidence in God's ability to save even as it cries out for help, sets the tone for the entire psalm. The psalmist expresses a confidence in the Lord that extends beyond the grave.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 16:2 no good apart from You. David emphasizes the Lord as his one source of blessing, a criticism of idolatry.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 16:3 saints. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 16:4 drink offerings. Surrounding nations often worshiped their gods by pouring libations on the ground or on an altar. take their names on my lips. David refuses to invoke or confess any pagan deity.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 16:5 chosen portion … lot. Cf Jsh 13–19; 21 for Joshua's distribution of the Promised Land after the conquest. David claims that the Lord is as precious to him as his ancestral plot of land. portion. See p 7. cup. Psalmist offers his drink offering to the Lord, not the surrounding pagan deities. See note, Lv 23:37.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 16:6 beautiful inheritance. David offers thanks and praise for a beautiful estate and holding of property. However, David also refers to his eternal dwelling (cf v v 10–11).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 16:7 counsel. Throughout the Psalms, the Lord is praised for the counsel He gives by means of the Torah (or written Word; cf 119:24). in the night also my heart instructs me. David prayed and meditated on God's Word nightly.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 16:8 at my right hand. David writes as though the Lord stands beside him and holds his hand, like a father caring for his son. See p 843. The Lord is the focus of David's service and his ally.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 16:9 The knowledge that the Lord is always present and active in his life leaves David with a profound sense of well-being and security.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 16:10 Sheol. See p 792. corruption. Because of his enduring relationship with the giver and sustainer of life, David is confident that the righteous will endure despite physical death. This prophesies Jesus' resurrection (Ac 2:25–28).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 16:11 at Your right hand. Because David keeps the Lord at his right hand (so we read in v 8), he also has a sure and certain hope that God will keep him at His right hand, where there is fullness of eternal joy. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 16 The psalm praises the Lord for numerous earthly blessings but moves toward a climactic expression of hope for life in God's presence beyond the grave. Far too often our prayers are simply laundry lists of earthly desires. This psalm reminds us of our greater need to thank and praise God and make spiritual blessings a priority (see note, Eph 1:3). Those who have the Lord have the source of all good things, even everlasting life. We who are in Christ have been set at God's right hand, where we can never be removed. • Lord, keep us in Your presence throughout our earthly pilgrimage, that we may come to the fullness of Your joy in heaven; through Jesus Christ, our resurrected Lord. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 17 Possibly another of David's cries for deliverance during the time King Saul was trying to kill him, as recorded throughout 1Sm.

> Format: V v 1–2, prayer for vindication; v v 3–5, tested by the Lord; v v 6–7, prayer for an answer; v v 8–9, prayer for safety; v v 10–12, the arrogant attack; v v 13–14, prayer for deliverance; v 15, satisfied with the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 17:1–2 The theme: David pleads for vindication from God, the source of his justification. Your presence. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 17:3 tried … visited … tested. David's plea (v v 1–2) introduces his case (v v 3–5). He testifies that the Lord has repeatedly examined his heart and tested him. visited me by night. Surprise inspection.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 17:4 the word of Your lips. The Lord's instructions and promises.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 17:6 call upon You. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 17:7 steadfast love. See p 843. right hand. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 17:8–9 David uses a pair of vivid images as he begs for protection from his enemies. apple of Your eye. Eye's pupil. shadow of Your wings. The cherubim of God's throne were winged (Ex 25:20). A mother hen hides her chicks under her wings to protect them. Cf Lk 13:34; see notes, 57:1; Ezk 10:1.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 17:10–12 David portrays his persecutors as hard-hearted and arrogant, as predatory as a wild beast.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 17:11 our. If David wrote this psalm when Saul was after him, David refers to the men who joined him in the wilderness (cf 1Sm 27:2).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 17:12 He. Perhaps King Saul.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 17:13 Scripture depicts God fighting on behalf of His people at the Red Sea, at Jericho, and in David's own battle against Goliath (1Sm 17).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 17:14 portion is in this life. Those who despise God's Word and His ways can enjoy life only in this world. Unrepentant wickedness finally forfeits a share of heaven.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 17:15 behold Your face … likeness. David is thinking forward to eternity (1Jn 3:2).
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 17 David begs for protection from a bloodthirsty enemy. A tragic consequence of the world's fall into sin is that we often suffer through no particular fault of our own. Job is the classic case of one who suffers innocently. God's ability to turn injustice into good is best illustrated by Jesus' innocent death on the cross. That horrible miscarriage of justice worked life and salvation for all people. • Lord, keep our eyes fixed on Jesus, the author and perfecter of our faith. He saved us by enduring great injustice and now sits at Your right hand. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 18 Royal thanksgiving hymn. Twin themes of gratitude and praise permeate the psalm. choirmaster. See p 993. his enemies … Saul. Along with a variant form of Ps 18, superscription also appears in 2Sm 22:1, which provides the historical setting.

Format: V v 1–3, the deliverer; v v 4–5, cords of death; v 6, the Lord hears; v v 7–12, the Lord comes down; v v 13–15, the Lord attacks; v v 16–19, the Lord rescues; v v 20–24, rewarded for righteousness; v v 25–30, the Lord protects the humble; v v 31–42, equipped by the Lord; v v 43–45, forgiveness subdued; v v 46–48, God be blessed; v v 49–50, salvation for David's offspring.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:2 horn. See p 842. stronghold. In Israel, mountain strongholds (such as Masada) were high and inaccessible.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:3–6 Psalmist recollects perils that assailed him and his desperate cry to the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:4 cords of death. Lit, "the labor pains of death surrounded me."

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:5 cords of Sheol. See p 792. No less than death and the grave had taken hold of David.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:6 temple. The tabernacle, God's dwelling on earth (cf 2Sm 6), where David prayed.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:7–19 David rehearses God's powerful response to his cries for mercy.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:7–8 David reports the way God responded to his prayer, evoking images of divine glory that occurred when God gave the Law at Mount Sinai (Ex 19:16–20:21). Thunder, lightning, fire, smoke, and earthquakes accompanied God's action.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:9 bowed the heavens. Imagery of the Lord stretching open a hole in the atmosphere so that He can descend to earth. thick darkness. Additional aspects of the Lord's manifestation on Sinai (cf v 11; Dt 4:11).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:10 cherub. Angelic creature that appears with manifestations of the divine glory. See note, Ezk 10:1. wings of the wind. The Lord is portrayed as riding cherubim and flying like the wind.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:11–14 coals of fire. Amid the darkness already described, there are also flashes of fire and lightning, poetically described in v 14 as the Lord's arrows. The Lord's voice thundered from Mount Sinai.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:15 channels … foundations. Cf God's deliverance at the Red Sea (Ex 14:21–31).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:16 many waters. See "torrents," v 4.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:17–18 Reminder that David's perils resulted from enemies amassed against him, not from forces of nature.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:19 broad place. Opposite of a tight spot; a secure place, the fortress and stronghold mentioned in v 2.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:20 according to my righteousness. David does not claim sinlessness here and in the following verses, but rather asserts that he is the innocent victim of human jealousy and unprovoked intrigue.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:21–24 the ways of the LORD. See p 844. The Lord promised reward to those who followed His teaching. David refers to human righteousness in this passage, which remains imperfect. Only the righteousness given through faith in Christ is judged perfect before God (Rm 3:22–28).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:25–50 God is repeatedly thanked and praised for His goodness.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:25–26 While God is good and gracious to all, He does not treat iniquity and righteousness alike. God is merciful to those reflecting divine attributes.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:28 God is the source of physical light (Gn 1:3) and spiritual light (Ps 27:1).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:29 by You I can run against a troop … leap over a wall. Picturing an indefensible assault (cf Php 4:13).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:30 proves true. Is always vindicated. The theme of vindication appears throughout the Psalms (e.g., 26:1; 35:24; 43:1; 54:1).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:31 See SC, First Commandment, p xxxv; cf Ex 20:3; Is 43:10; 44:6; 45:5, 21.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:32 Here David acknowledges that both physical strength and moral uprightness are God's gracious gifts.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:33 like the feet of a deer. Sure in the most difficult circumstances.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:34 trains my hands for war. Strength training from the ultimate warrior.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:35 right hand. See p 843. Your gentleness made me great. Lit, "your humility made me great." It is exceedingly rare in the Scriptures that humility is attributed to God. Cf Php 2:5–11, where Christ's humility and obedience unto death is praised.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:36 wide place. See note, v 19.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:37–42 Shocking as it may sound to modern ears, the OT frequently depicts God as commanding and then helping to carry out the annihilation of Israel's enemies. He destroyed the Egyptians at the Red Sea (Ex 14) and leveled Jericho (Jsh 6). This clarifies David's boasts (v v 37–38, 42). See p 879.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:43 people. Nations surrounding Israel.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:44 foreigners. Including the Philistines, whose defeat at David's hand is related in 2Sm 21:15–22.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:46 The LORD lives. Canaanites similarly asserted that "Baal lives," yet only the Lord could make good on the claim. His repeated acts of salvation prove this.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:47 vengeance. Typically includes ideas of spitefulness and hard-heartedness. When the Lord gives vengeance, however, He restores, turns injustice into peace, and so moves us to rejoice. See p 879.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:48 man of violence. Probably Saul.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:49 among the nations. Psalmist declares God's deliverance before all people. The Gospel is always universal in scope. This song is also our song, to be prayed by all believers.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 18:50 anointed … offspring forever. According to the covenant given by the Lord to David in 2Sm 7, one of his descendants would sit on the throne forever. David's greater Son, Jesus Christ, fulfills this promise. "Of the increase of His government and of peace there will be no end" (Is 9:7).

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 18 David exults, "The LORD … is worthy to be praised" (v 3). This truth makes our failures to render Him thanks and praise a grievous affront. In this psalm, David recounts a time when the very cords of death were dragging him down into the abyss. The deliverance God provided him reminds us of our own victory over the grave, achieved for us by the risen Lord Jesus. • Grant me Your grace, Lord Jesus, that I fervently sing the praises of what You have done and make Your name known to all people. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 19 Luth: "A prophecy. It speaks of how the Gospel would spread to all the world, as far as the heavens extend. Day and night it would be spread, not only in Hebrew but in all languages" (PIML, p 27). choirmaster. See p 993.

Format: V v 1–6, the heavens declare God's glory; v v 7–11, the Lord's Word is rewarding; v v 12–13, deliverance from error; v 14, prayer of meditation.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 19:1 heavens declare … sky above proclaims. Theme of first major portion (v v 1–6): creation bears witness to God and, in its own way, sets forth His praise.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 19:2 Day to day pours out speech. Each new day effectively bears witness to God's creative power and providential care.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 19:3–4 Difficult poetry. The testimony and praise borne by the heavens are both unmistakable and universal.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 19:4–6 Psalmist gets specific about how the heavens declare God's glory. The sun daily runs its course through the firmament, giving life and heat to the entire world. In contrast to the surrounding pagan religions, which worshiped the sun as a deity, the Israelite faith understood it to be a creation that fulfilled its Creator's bidding. like a bridegroom leaving his chamber. A wedding took place under a special canopy. See pp 54–55. God, like a father, sets up such a canopy for the sun. The sun emerges each day as joyful as a new husband.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 19:7–9 law … testimony … precepts … commandment … fear … rules. Synonymous terms and parallel thoughts. The psalmist repeatedly echoes his praise of God's perfect Word. See p 971.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 19:7 The law of the LORD is perfect. His Law completely recounts what the Lord has done to redeem His people. See note, 12:6. Bern: "[The Law] alone which can turn away the mind from the love of itself and of the world and direct it towards God. Neither fear nor selfish love converts the soul. They change sometimes the outward appearance or the actions, but never affect the heart" (SLSB, p 196).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 19:10–11 The culmination of this psalm's second major section. honeycomb. A delicacy. warned. Hbr zahab, "shining." Light could guide or warn the viewer away from danger. God's Word instructs us and reminds us of the promised rewards for faithfulness. reward. Or, "consequence."

PSALMS—NOTE ON 19:12–13 Confession of unworthiness and plea for God's grace. "Our churches teach that private Absolution should be retained in the churches, although listing all sins is not necessary for Confession. For, according to the Psalm, it is impossible. 'Who can discern his errors?'" (AC XI 1–2). "Original sin is not a minor corruption. It is so deep a corruption of human nature that nothing healthy or uncorrupt remains in man's body or soul, in his inward or outward powers [Romans 3:10–12]. As the Church sings: Through Adam's fall is all corrupt, Nature and essence human. This damage cannot be fully described. It cannot be understood by reason, but only from God's Word" (FC Ep I 8–9). presumptuous sins. Sins that result from unbridled pride. In keeping with his plea for grace, the psalmist also asks for humility.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 19:14 acceptable in Your sight. Connected to the foregoing confession and pleas for God's grace. Apart from God's grace, nothing can find favor with Him. redeemer. See "redeem," p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 19 The heavens continually declare God's praise, and the forces of nature daily show forth His glory as they faithfully carry out the duties He has assigned them. Too bad we so often fail in the fulfillment of our divinely appointed tasks. Marvelous as the heavens are, and eloquent as nature's testimony to the greatness of the Creator, God's forgiveness and grace as revealed in His Word are even more glorious. • "O LORD, my rock and my redeemer: Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in Your sight" (v 14); through Christ Jesus. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 20 Possibly an antiphonal prayer offered before King David led his troops into battle. Likely used in times of peace as well, just as the British regularly sing "God Save the Queen." choirmaster. See p 993.

Format: V v 1–3, blessing in the Lord's name; v v 4–5, hope for answered prayer; v v 6–8, trust in the Lord's name; v 9, a prayer for the king.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 20:1–5 you. Directed to Israel's king, the current monarch.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 20:1 name … protect. See p 843. The Lord's name was placed on His people (Nu 6:22–27). Since they belong to Him, He will protect them.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 20:2 sanctuary … Zion! The tabernacle was God's dwelling place on earth and the place from which God's blessings issued forth. David moved it to Mount Zion. Cf 2Sm 6.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 20:3 offerings … burnt sacrifices! As the OT attests elsewhere, special sacrifices (1Sm 7:7–11; 13:7–13) and prayers (1Ki 8:44–

45) were frequently offered before Israel's troops waged war. Selah. See p 993.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 20:4 desire … plans! Strategies in the upcoming struggle.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 20:5 banners! To set up one's banner means to prevail in battle. Depictions of troops raising their flags are modern examples of this metaphor.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 20:6 Lord saves His anointed. The king speaks about himself. See note, 2:2.right hand. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 20:7 chariots … horses. Cutting-edge military equipment possessed by the Philistines. See note, 1Sm 13:5. we trust in the name. Through prayer, the faithful place their trust in the Lord and His reputation as a warrior.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 20:8 They collapse and fall. End of those who place their hope in horses and chariots.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 20:9 He. The Lord alone is able to hear and save.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 20 The people desire God's blessing for their king as he prepares to lead them into battle. In modern developed countries we are easily tempted to place our confidence in certain leaders and technological wonders rather than in God. Doing so, however, is little more than old-fashioned idolatry. When we humbly pray for the authorities God has placed over us, He unfailingly answers and acts on our behalf in accord with His good and gracious will. • Guide and direct our rulers, O King of kings and Lord of lords, so that they ever acknowledge You rather than trust in their earthly might. Lead us in the way of righteousness and peace. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 21 Luth: "A prophecy of the kingdom of Christ, the kingdom which is and remains eternally and spiritually before God" (PIML, p 29). choirmaster. See p 993.

Format: V v 1–2, the king rejoices; v v 3–7, blessings for the king; v v 8–12, destruction for his enemies; v 13, the Lord's power.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 21:1 strength … salvation. Twin motives for the king's joy; leading themes of the psalm.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 21:2 The king has received everything he asked for and could have hoped for. Selah. See p 993.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 21:3 You meet him. Often refers to the access granted through prayer and worship at the tabernacle or temple.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 21:4 asked life. David sought God's deliverance from Saul and other enemies.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 21:5 glory. Not the result of the king's efforts, but honor the Lord has graciously bestowed on him.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 21:6 blessed forever. Cf v 4; the blessings pertain to eternal life. joy of Your presence. One of the greatest blessings of heaven, of course, is basking in the fullness of God's presence (cf Rv 21:3). See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 21:7 not be moved. The result of trusting steadfastly in the Lord is that one cannot be so much as shaken, let alone toppled over.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 21:8–12 Psalm shifts from addressing God to addressing the king. Series of encouragements are spoken directly to the king.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 21:9 blazing oven. Those who set themselves against the Lord's anointed king will get burned (cf Heb 12:29).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 21:10 destroy their descendants. Passages such as this raise ethical concerns. The reason for a take-no-prisoners approach was to keep idolatrous Canaanite ways from infecting God's people. God commanded that the Israelites utterly destroy the Canaanites when they took possession of the Promised Land (Dt 20:16–18). See p 879.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 21:13 Cf v 1.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 21 This psalm not only offers thanks to God for Israel's king (v v 1–7) but also encourages him with promises of the Lord's blessing (v v 8–12). Part of our Christian responsibility, as this psalm and St Paul remind us, is to offer thanksgiving and petitions on behalf of our ruling authorities. Failing to do so is an act of ingratitude. The Scriptures testify throughout that God establishes and uses the various governments of the world not only to serve His people's earthly needs, but even to further the spread of the Gospel. • "God bless our native land; Firm may she ever stand Through storm and night…. Thou who art ever nigh, Guarding with watchful eye, To Thee aloud we cry: God save the state!" Amen. (LSB 965:1–2)
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 22 Just: "The whole Psalm refers … to Christ" (ANF 1:248). choirmaster. See p 993. The Doe of the Dawn. Possibly the name of the tune that accompanied this text.

Format: V v 1–2, no answer or rest; v v 3–5, our fathers trusted You; v v 6–8, scorned and despised; v v 9–11, trust from birth; v v 12–13, surrounded by bulls; v v 14–15, strength is gone; v v 16–18, encircled by dogs; v v 19–21, prayer for rescue; v v 22–24, encouragement to praise the Lord; v v 25–26, praise in the congregation; v v 27–28, the Lord rules all nations; v v 29–31, all shall serve Him.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:1 forsaken. Psalm expresses profound loneliness: God seems completely absent. Jesus quoted from this verse on the cross (Mt 27:46; Mk 15:34), as He paid the penalty of human sin. Ter: "If you shall still seek for predictions of the Lord's cross, [this] Psalm will at length be able to satisfy you, containing as it does the whole passion of Christ" (ANF 3:166). Mel: "This … describes His obedience at the time when God poured out His wrath upon the Son against the sins of the human race…. He willingly assumed these infirmities for us in order that He might become the sacrifice" (Chem, LTh 1:89). far from saving. God is omnipresent, but suffering makes relief seem impossibly distant.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:3 holy. Despite the questions and concerns raised in v v 1–2, the speaker knows that God is holy and above reproach. He is not the source of these problems. enthroned on the praises. In the tabernacle, God was enthroned over the ark of the covenant, flanked by cherubim. The praises of His people testify to His identity. See diagrams, pp 139, 541, 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:4 You delivered them. God delivered Israel from oppression, particularly in the exodus. David asks God to deliver him also. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:6 Contrast with v v 3–5. worm. The lowest, most helpless creature, held in contempt. The Messiah was despised by many who saw Him (Is 53).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:7 mock. Vividly fulfilled at Jesus' crucifixion (Lk 23:35–37). make mouths. Others look at him with their mouths hanging open in disgust or mockery.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:8 he delights in Him! The sufferer trusts God.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:9 took me. Safely brought me through childbirth. trust You. From infancy, the speaker has had God's gift of faith. As a baby is loved and fed by its mother and trusts her, so God's child continually receives His blessings and responds in faith. Cf 8:2.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:10 cast from my birth … my God. Throughout his life, David was utterly reliant on God. Chem: "The making by God applies not only to the raw material, the dust of the ground but also to the procreation of men of all time" (LTh 1:169).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:12 bulls. The sufferer feels alone even though surrounded by others. He compares the people to bulls, ready to gore or crush their victim. Bashan. Grazing area east of the Sea of Chinnereth, famous for producing large bulls. See color map 2.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:14 poured out. The exhausted sufferer can no more hold himself up than water can hold a specific shape.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:15 dust of death. He is nearly dead and ready to be buried. Humanity, created of dust, will return to dust at death (Gn 3:19).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:16 dogs. The oppressors, earlier compared to bulls (v 12), are likened to a pack of wild dogs, attacking a helpless victim. pierced. As dogs bite the limbs of their victim, so evildoers have wounded the sufferer. These verses find their highest fulfillment in Jesus' crucifixion.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:17 count all my bones. The speaker, deprived of food, is in a pitiful, emaciated state. On the cross, Jesus' body was stretched out, making His bones easy to discern.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:18 cast lots. They randomly chose someone to receive Jesus' clothing. John cites this verse as a fulfilled prophecy when the soldiers cast lots for Jesus' clothing (Jn 19:24).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:19–21 The focus turns from the oppressors to God, his only hope. Just: "The remainder of the Psalm makes it manifest that He knew His Father would grant to Him all things which He asked, and would raise Him from the dead" (ANF 1:252).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:19 my help. God Himself.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:21 wild oxen! Again, his enemies are compared to wild beasts. Here they are oxen, ready to gore their victim.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:22 brothers … congregation. God's deliverance moves believers to worship. Heb 2:12–13 applies this verse to Jesus and identifies us as these brothers.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:23 you … offspring … offspring. Three parallel phrases declare that all of God's people should praise Him. fear the LORD. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:24 afflicted. God notices and responds to all human needs (cf v 26). This applies to Christ, who was afflicted by God (Is 53:4).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:25 great congregation. God's people gathered for worship at the tabernacle. God's deliverance is cause for worship. vows. Cf v 22. He repeats his promise, confident in the Lord's deliverance. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:26 afflicted. A proverb. God delivers His people, and they should respond in worship. eat. Response to God's blessings could include a peace offering. Cf Lv 3; 7:15.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:27 ends of the earth. Christ's Great Commission foreshadowed (Mt 28:18–20). turn. See p 1080. all the families of the nations shall worship. Not every person will come to faith, but the Gospel will spread to all nations.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:29 eat and worship. People from all nations will join in the worship depicted in v 26. down to the dust … the one. All mortals, anyone subject to death.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 22:30–31 it … it. God's great deliverance will not be forgotten. He has brought deliverance in countless ways, but most wonderfully in Christ's crucifixion and resurrection.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 22 Facing great opposition, the psalmist initially feels that God has forsaken him and is ignoring his prayers. After remembering God's faithfulness and deliverance, he believes that God will deliver him and commits himself to telling that message to others. We, too, may feel alone and forsaken by God. Truly we deserve to be forsaken by Him because of our sinfulness. But, as this psalm foretells, God Himself came to be our Redeemer. While many human beings have shared these feelings, this psalm finds its greatest fulfillment in Jesus Christ, who spoke it from the cross (Mt 27:46). Christ truly was forsaken by His Father and died alone so that we could be reconciled to our God. We are never alone because our crucified, resurrected Savior is with us. • Loving Savior, Your death and resurrection have made us Your people. Lead us to proclaim Your constant care. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 23 Luth: "A psalm of thanks in which a Christian heart praises and thanks God for teaching him and keeping him on the right way, comforting and protecting him in every danger through His holy Word" (PIML, p 32).

Format: V v 1–3, the Lord leads; v 4, the Lord is present; v v 5–6, the Lord provides forever.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 23:1 shepherd. Common term describing kings in Near Eastern culture. As a shepherd cares for all the needs of his flock, God cares for every human need: physical, emotional, and spiritual. not want. This does not mean that he has no desires; rather, all of his needs will be met. A proper host supplies the basics: food, drink, and protection. Chrys: "This is great wealth, this is treasure. If we have the fear of God, we want nothing; if we have not this, though we have royalty itself, we are the poorest of all men" (*NPNF*1 13:197).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 23:2 pastures. God provides abundantly and daily. "The Sacrament is given as a daily pasture and sustenance, that faith may refresh and strengthen itself so that it will not fall back in such a battle, but become ever stronger and stronger. The new life must be guided so that it continually increases and progresses" (LC V 24–25). still waters. Sheep cannot safely drink from swift streams; they need quiet pools. God not only gives us what we need, but He also gives it to us in the best possible way.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 23:3 restores. A shepherd protected his sheep and kept them alive by his care. The Good Shepherd does even more. He cares for every human need. Ultimately, Christ alone restores our soul as He sacrifices His life for His sheep (Jn 10:11). paths of righteousness. Or, "the right path." See p 843. Shepherds lead sheep along safe paths, to the proper destination. Jesus Himself is the way, the righteous path (Jn 14:6).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 23:4 valley of the shadow of death. Or, "very deep shadow of death." Even in life's most frightening situations, we can be confident of God's guiding presence. Indeed, when God is with us, the valley of the shadow of death is one of the "paths of righteousness." with me. The Good Shepherd does not send His sheep into places He will not go; He leads and is with us always (Mt 28:20). rod. A club c 2 ft long. staff. A long, straight walking stick used to guide the sheep and pull down leafy branches for them.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 23:5 prepare a table. Emblem of hospitality and trust. In Christ, God gives us not only ordinary food but also the gift of Christ's body and blood in the Lord's Supper. presence of my enemies. David, like all of God's people, experienced God's providential care even when facing adversity. anoint. A banquet guest might be given oil to put on his head as a sign of hospitality. The oil acted like lotion, soothing the skin. Shepherds carried such oil in cattle- or ram-horn containers.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 23:6 follow me. God does not give His blessings once; His goodness and mercy are continually given to His children. in the house of the LORD forever. More than worship in the tabernacle. God's people not only know His blessings in this life but will live with Him in heaven forever.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 23 In faith, David declares that since Yahweh is his shepherd, he "shall not want" (v 1). Our Good Shepherd lovingly provides everything that we need in this life, but we often fail to recognize that these gifts come from Him. Instead, we focus on things that we want, but do not need. How wonderful that our Shepherd does not withhold His blessings from us, but still cares for these needs and more: He gives us His own Son! • Good Shepherd, open our eyes to see Your blessing. Open our ears to hear Your voice. Open our hearts that we may love You. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 24 This psalm, which may have been written for the return of the ark of the covenant to the tabernacle (2Sm 6:12–15) calls God's people to worship, noting His creation and glory.

Format: V v 1–2, the earth is the Lord's; v v 3–6, those who seek the Lord; v v 7–10, the King of glory enters.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 24:1 the LORD's. All creation belongs to God the Creator.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 24:2 upon the seas. On the third day of creation, God separated the dry land from the sea (Gn 1:9–10; 2Pt 3:5). The order He gave the earth continues to this day.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 24:3 hill of the LORD. Mount Zion, with its focal point, the tabernacle. See Ps 48 intro. These verses may have been responsively spoken by worshipers going to the temple. See p 959.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 24:4 clean hands … pure heart. By joining an external part (hands) with an internal part (heart), David asserts that both ritual and moral purity are important. The OT ceremonial law was fulfilled by Christ and no longer binds us. Our only purity is given to us by Christ. lift up his soul. An expression meaning to trust, dedicate your life, or worship something. The true worshiper lifts his soul to God alone (25:1).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 24:5 receive blessing … righteousness. God's children are not righteous by their own works; God declares them righteous for the sake of Christ (Gal 3:6).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 24:6 seek Him. See p 843. Selah. See p 993.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 24:7–10 Likely sung responsively by worshipers, intensifying as they repeat their cry for the gates to open. The response identifies the Lord three times (v v 8, 10), implying the triune nature of God. Cf Nu 6:24–26.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 24:7 gates. Worshipers ascending to the tabernacle reach Jerusalem's gates and call for them to open before God. David personifies the gates, showing that it is an honor to be in God's presence. If the gates are to lift up their heads in honor, how much more should God's people rejoice in His gracious presence.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 24:10 King of glory? Bern: "The Firstbegotten from the dead, He who opened to believers the kingdom of Heaven, the Lamb of the tribe of Judah, who opens and no more shuts, at whose entrance with complete authority [this song] was sung by the heavenly powers" (SLSB, p 170).
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 24 Those who worship the Lord need "clean hands and a pure heart" (v 4). Sinful human beings are neither prepared nor worthy to be in God's presence or worship Him. Yet God forgives us, covers us with Christ's righteousness, and enables us to worship Him. This is why worship begins with Confession of sins and Absolution. By God's grace, we worship with clean hands and a pure heart. • Merciful Lord, I confess all my sins to You, trusting in Your promises. Forgive me, for Jesus' sake. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 25 Acrostic psalm; see pp 777–78.

Format: V v 1–3, prayer for victory; v v 4–5, prayer for teaching; v v 6–7, appeal to God's memory; v v 8–10, the Lord instructs sinners; v v 11–15, those who fear the Lord; v v 16–18, prayer for forgiveness; v v 19–21, prayer for deliverance; v 22, prayer for redemption.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 25:1 lift up. Gesture of offering. David's life is dedicated to God.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 25:3 wait. Though God's child requests many things from God in prayer, God acts in His own time. David waits for God to answer, but he has confident hope.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 25:4 Your ways. See p 844.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 25:6 mercy … steadfast love. See pp 842–43.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 25:7 sins of my youth. David does not excuse past sins or claim that they were not sinful, nor does he teach an age of accountability. Rather, he confesses that sin has affected his entire life. All sins require God's forgiveness.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 25:8–9 God does not require humans to earn His forgiveness or gifts. He teaches sinners and leads the humble (those not esteemed by the world).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 25:10 keep His covenant. Those who live in the Lord's covenant (by faith) receive the blessings of God's steadfast love and faithfulness. Faith does not earn these blessings, but receives them.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 25:11 For Your name's sake. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 25:13 inherit the land. God once promised the land of Israel to His people if they kept the covenant. Part of their responsibility was to teach His commands to their children (Dt 6:7). When the children lived in the covenant, they would continue to possess the land. See "portion," p 7.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 25:14 friendship. Those who have faith live in a close, personal relationship with God.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 25:15 the net. A poetic description of David's affliction by his enemies. He depicts himself as a helpless animal, trapped in a net.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 25:18 forgive all my sins. V v 16–20 summarize David's afflictions. His problems are not all external. He is a sinner who deserves some of these calamities. He rightly pleads for God's forgiveness.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 25:21 May integrity and uprightness preserve me. Having already confessed his sinfulness and being confident in God's grace, David prays for God's help that he may have integrity and be upright.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 25:22 Redeem. See p 843. David's personal plea is expanded to include the whole nation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 25 David prays, "For You I wait all the day long" (v 5). God promises to answer prayer, but we may be impatient or tempted to question His answers. Even when our faithfulness fails, God is faithful. He hears our prayers and truly acts for our good. In faith, we patiently wait for Him. • Almighty God, give us the trust and patience to wait for You and the faith to believe Your promises. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 26 The plea of a man who has been falsely accused of wrongdoing. This psalm may have been sung by worshipers as they entered the temple gates.

Format: V v 1–3, a prayer for vindication; v v 4–5, separated from the wicked; v v 6–7, at the Lord's altar; v v 8–10, a prayer for distinction from the wicked; v v 11–12, determination to bless the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 26:1 Vindicate. Facing false accusations, David calls for God's perfect examination that will exonerate him. walked in my integrity. He has not been deceitful or hypocritical.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 26:2 God's perfect knowledge is not limited to external behavior. He knows our hearts, thoughts, and intentions. Only He truly knows us.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 26:5 assembly of evildoers. Contrasting David's desire to worship in the "great assembly" (v 12), he rejects the "assembly of evildoers," those who reject God. See note, 1:1.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 26:6 wash. Washing hands could indicate innocence (Mt 27:24) or ceremonial cleanness (Ex 30:17–21). Either way, David again asserts the falsehood of the charges against him. Your altar. A person could approach God's altar only through the forgiveness of sins.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 26:7 telling. Worship included remembrance and celebration of God's saving acts. David not only goes to the tabernacle, but he also proclaims the Lord's work.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 26:8 habitation. David loves being in God's house, where he finds sanctuary, protection, and God's loving presence. glory dwells. He doesn't love the tabernacle for its beauty, but because God promised to be there. John says that Christ is God's tabernacle, and we see God's glory in Him (Jn 1:14).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 26:12 great assembly. See "great congregation," p 842. Aug: "I will not hide Your blessing, O Lord, from those whom You have called; for next to the love of You I join the love of my neighbor" (*NPNF*1 8:64). bless the LORD. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 26 In faith, David worships, proclaiming God's wondrous deeds. He loves worship and being in God's presence (v 8). In worship, we sometimes focus on ourselves instead of on God. God calls us to repentance so that He may bless us and forgive us. Strengthened in faith, we respond by telling others of the great things He has done. • Blessed Trinity, forgive us, and empower us to worship You in faith and joy. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 27 Note the change of mood: the first six verses express David's confidence in God; v v 7–13 are a prayer for His help, forgiveness, and guidance. This structure may indicate that this psalm was used as part of the tabernacle liturgy. If so, a sacrifice and prayer may have been offered after v 6.

Format: V 1, fearless with the Lord; v 2, foes fall; v 3, confident; v 4, a prayer to dwell in the Lord's house; v 5, the Lord's protection; v 6, sacrifices of joy; v v 7–10, a prayer for the Lord to answer; v v 11–12, a prayer for guidance; v v 13–14, wait for the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 27:1 light. Reveals things for what they are, dispelling the darkness of sin, evil, or despair. Jesus is the "light of the world" (Jn 8:12). Aug: "The Lord is … my light, for He removes my ignorance; my salvation, for He takes away my infirmity" (*NPNF*1 3:264). stronghold. Offering safety and protection. With God's protection, we have nothing to fear. See note, 18:2.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 27:2 eat up my flesh. Figure of speech for giving false witness. Gossip and lies are destructive.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 27:3 confident. In faith, David is not anxious about the outcome of a battle or any other crisis.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 27:4 seek. See p 843. dwell in the house of the LORD. David is not asking to become a priest; he wants to enjoy God's presence throughout his life. See "presence," p 843. beauty of the LORD. As sinners, we cannot physically see God in worship, but we recognize God's goodness and character. God's children who come in faith do not find a wrathful, terrifying God. God is beautiful to those who receive the Gospel. inquire. To seek God's counsel by coming to the tabernacle. May also be translated "meditate," in which case David is restating his desire to worship. temple. Tabernacle. See note, 5:7.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 27:5 His shelter … His tent. The tabernacle, God's dwelling place. God offers safety and protection to those who come into His home.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 27:6 head shall be lifted up. Depicting victory. His enemies will be brought low, but he will be exalted in honor. He can hold his head up high. His tent. See note, v 5. shouts of joy. He will worship not from obligation but in response to God's gifts. David will add his own joyful shouts and music to the sacrifices offered.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 27:8 Seek My face. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 27:10 Likely a hypothetical statement, since there is no biblical record of David's parents forsaking him. Even if his family abandoned him, God would remain faithful.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 27:12 David does not specifically identify these enemies. May refer to a specific crisis or, in general terms, to those who opposed his kingship.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 27:13 land of the living! Although it's possible to see this as a reference to heaven, more likely it affirms God's action in this world. David saw God's protection and blessing in this life.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 27:14 wait. See note, 25:3.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 27 David recognizes that when the Lord is on his side, he has nothing to fear. Human beings are prone to fearful responses. We worry about problems in this life, acting as if we face them alone. Yet God is our light and our salvation. Since He has redeemed us, we have nothing to fear. "If God is for us, who can be against us?" (Rm 8:31). • O Christ, my light and my salvation, comfort me and strengthen my faith. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 28 A prayer for help, followed by words of praise in anticipation of God's answer. It may come from the time when Absalom rebelled against David. David is troubled by his enemies' duplicity and lack of faith, fearing for his life (v 1). These words also apply to other trying times. Faced with affliction, we rely on God's help and anticipate His blessing.

Format: V v 1–2, a prayer to be heard; v v 3–5, repay the evil; v v 6–7, the Lord's help; v v 8–9, save Your people.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 28:1 rock. See p 843. pit. The grave. He fears for his life. See p 792.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 28:2 lift up my hands. Gesture of worship. See p 1276. Your most holy sanctuary. Place where God has promised to be present.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 28:3 speak peace. David's enemies are deceitful and hypocritical. They speak favorably, but secretly plot evil.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 28:5 David may be specifically referring to their attack on the monarchy God established, but this equally applies to any failure to recognize God's work. works … work of His hands. David's enemies have done evil with their hands (v 4), but they do not see what God is doing.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 28:7 strength … shield. God provides help for offense (strength) and defense (shield) against David's enemies. David does not rely on his own power; his only hope is in the Lord's power and protection (cf v 8).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 28:8 strength. As God strengthened David, so He blesses all His people. anointed. As king, David was the Lord's anointed. Likewise, the nation has been anointed as a kingdom of priests (Ex 19:6). See note, 2:2.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 28:9 shepherd and carry. Cf Ps 23.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 28 Facing personal crisis, David realizes he is unable to protect and save himself. He needs God to be his strength and shield. As sinners, we cannot save ourselves. We recognize our helplessness and need for God's grace. Our Savior comes, giving us His strength and protecting us from our enemies by paying the penalty of our sins. • Lord Jesus, my strength and my shield, I trust in You. Be my shepherd and carry me forever. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 29 Luth: "A prophecy of the Gospel, that it shall resound with power in all the world…. He established the flood, Baptism, in which the old Adam is drowned and the new man arises" (PIML, p 38).

Format: V v 1–2, ascribe glory to the Lord; v v 3–4, the Lord's voice; v v 5–6, Lebanon's response; v v 7–8, the Lord's voice; v 9, others respond; v v 10–11, the Lord enthroned.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 29:2 splendor of holiness. As the priests in the tabernacle wore special vestments for worship, the angels are adorned with holiness.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 29:3–9 Luth: "People think: If I could hear God speaking in His own Person, I would run so fast to hear Him that my feet would bleed…. If in former times someone had said: I know of a place in the world where God speaks, and when you arrive there, you hear God Himself talking; and if I had come there, had seen a poor preacher baptize and preach, and people had said: This is the place; there God is speaking through the preacher: he is teaching God's Word—then I no doubt would have said: Ha! I have taken pains to come here, and I see only a minister! We should like to have God speak with us in His majesty; but I advise you: Do not go there. So experience certainly teaches. If He were to speak in His majesty, you would see what a running would begin, as there at Mount Sinai, where, after all, only the angels spoke; yet the mountain smoked and trembled. But now you have the Word of God in church, in books, in your home; and this is as certainly God's Word as if God Himself were speaking" (WLS § 4719).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 29:3 voice of the LORD. Exalts the glory of God's voice. He who called the universe into being speaks, and it is done (cf Jn 1:1). over the waters. Cf Gn 1:2. thunders. Human beings cannot adequately describe the power and wonder of God's voice. Here it is compared to thunder, a comparison repeated in Jn 12:29.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 29:5 cedars. Lebanon was famous for its tall, strong cedar trees. Canaanite worship honored such trees. With a word, the Lord breaks the trees.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 29:6 Lebanon. Mountain range and surrounding region in Syria, north of Israel. See color map 2. skip. The formidable mountains are likened to calves that flee from loud noises. Sirion. Hermon, the tallest mountain in Syria (Dt 3:9).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 29:7 flashes. God's voice, already compared to thunder, is depicted as lightning bolts.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 29:8 Kadesh. Likely refers to the desert that surrounds Mount Sinai. God's voice is heard far to the north and far to the south of Israel.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 29:9 deer give birth. Possibly the sound of God's voice frightens the deer, causing them to give birth early. However, the consonants in "deer" are the same as those in "oaks" (see ESV note); this reading continues the idea that God's voice shakes the trees. Glory. The angels praise God (v v 1–2). Likewise, nature declares His glory. If heaven and earth praise God, His people should also declare His glory.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 29:10 enthroned over the flood. God is greater than the greatest natural powers. Here David remembers the great flood (Gn 6–8), through which God saved Noah and his family.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 29 God's power is a terrifying thing. The sound of His voice brings forth creation, shakes the mountains and trees, and unleashes the great flood that destroyed the earth. We sinners might be destroyed by the power of His holy, powerful voice. Yet "the Word became flesh and dwelt among us" (Jn 1:14). God came to us in Jesus to speak His love and grace. In Baptism, flood and voice combine to cleanse us (this psalm was traditionally used at Baptisms). Hearing His gracious voice, we join heaven and earth in praise. • O Word of God, You became flesh to be our Savior. Let us hear Your powerful voice. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 30 In 2Sm 24 and 1Ch 21, David took a census of all men capable of fighting, indicating a reliance on human power over God's strength. As a consequence for this rebellion, a plague came on Israel, and 70,000 men died. In repentance, David bought land, built an altar, and offered a sacrifice to the Lord. This psalm was likely written to dedicate this land, the place where God's temple would later be built. of the temple. Lit, "for the house."

Format: V v 1–3, restored by the Lord; v v 4–5, praiseworthy favor; v v 6–7, strength in His favor; v v 8–10, appeal for help; v v 11–12, joy and thanks.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 30:1 drawn me up. As water from a well, David has been lifted up from death and despair.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 30:2 healed me. Physical healing (elsewhere used for salvation).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 30:3 Sheol. See p 792. pit. The grave or death. David did not literally die but feared for his life before God spared him.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 30:4 saints. See p 843. Holy ones. Saints are not holy because of their own righteousness but because God redeemed them and declares them holy.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 30:5 moment … lifetime. This contrast beautifully portrays the distinction between the Law and the Gospel. God rightly condemns and punishes sin, but because of Christ's work, His Gospel and favor continue forever. The Gospel predominates. favor. See p 6.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 30:6 moved. David confesses that he has had sinful confidence in his wealth.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 30:7 mountain. David's kingdom, centered in Jerusalem, which was built on mountains. The mountain contrasts with the pit (v 3). hid. God turned His face, His blessing, away from David for a time.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 30:9 pit. See note, v 3. David may still usefully serve God and others if he does not die.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 30:10 helper! Direct, personal plea for assistance. David has turned from self-reliance to trust in God.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 30:11 Complete change of attitude from sorrow to joy. dancing. Though Egyptians mourned through dance at funerals, Israelites danced for joyous occasions and in praise to God (cf Ex 15:20; 2Sm 6:14). See p 959. sackcloth. Rough clothing worn in mourning and humility. See note, Jb 16:15.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 30:12 my glory. Poetic way of describing David's soul—the most glorious part of himself.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 30 David summarizes his feelings and God's response in v 5. Sorrowful times in life are sometimes caused by things outside of our control and sometimes by our own sins. Trusting in God's deliverance, David knows that the sorrow he feels will be replaced with joy as God comforts him. We, too, are confident in God's promise to comfort us and dry our tears (Rv 7:17). • O God, comfort me with Your presence, and fill me with joy. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 31 Perhaps written when Saul's forces were pursuing David (e.g., 1Sm 23). choirmaster. See p 993.

Format: V v 1–2, prayer for rescue; v v 3–5, confession of God's care; v v 6–8, joy in God's rescue; v v 9–10, effects of iniquity; v v 11–13, adversaries; v v 14–18, prayer for rescue; v v 19–20, goodness stored up; v v 21–22, prayer under siege; v v 23–24, take courage.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:1 in Your righteousness. See p 843. Luth: "It does not say 'in my' but 'in thy righteousness,' that is, in the righteousness of Christ my God which becomes ours through faith and by the grace and mercy of God" (AE 31:299).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:2 rock of refuge. See p 843; cf v 3.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:3 for Your name's sake. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:4 they. Possibly the servants of Saul who sought to apprehend David in 1Sm 23.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:5 commit my spirit. His life is in God's hands. The speaker's suffering, and trust in God, came clearly into focus when Jesus spoke these words from the cross. "It is also useful that we form the habit of daily commending ourselves to God, with soul and body, wife, children, servants, and all that we have, against every need that may arise" (LC I 73). redeemed. See p 843. God's saving redemption puts the rest of life's challenges in perspective.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:6 hate. Rejection of idolatry, not seething hatred of other persons.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:7 steadfast love. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:8 broad place. See note, 18:19.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:9 eye is wasted. Poetic description for the extent of his tears. We might say he "cried his eyes out."
PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:10 because of my iniquity. His own sin has contributed to his suffering.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:12 forgotten. Other people act as if he is dead, giving no thought to him or his condition. a broken vessel. Pots that broke during firing or during a fall were a disappointment. They might be further crushed for mortar or used to scrape what you would not touch with your hands (cf Jb 2:7–8).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:13 hear the whispering of many. Those who do remember him are secretly plotting against him. they. His enemies, likely Saul's forces.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:15 My times are in Your hand. God is in control every moment.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:16 face shine. See note, Nu 6:25.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:17 Sheol. See p 792.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:18 David does not curse his enemies, but prays that God will deal with their injustice and stop their lies.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:20 cover of Your presence. As God's presence protected Israel from the pursuing Egyptian army (Ex 14:19–20), so He protected David. Similarly, Christ covers us with His justifying righteousness. Your shelter. The tabernacle, where God promised to be present, was a place of safety.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:21 Blessed. See p 842. besieged city. Cf 1Sm 23. After David delivered the city of Keilah from the Philistines, Saul attacked the city, hoping to capture him.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:22 Panic gives way to confidence from the Lord's faithfulness. See FC SD XI 74.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:23–24 Final word on God's faithfulness.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:23 saints! See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 31:24 wait. David applies his experiences to others. God was faithful to him; others who pray to God for deliverance should patiently wait for God to deliver them.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 31 David says that he hates those who trust in worthless idols; he trusts in the Lord (v 6). Too often, we devote our lives to worthless things and despise the things of God. Yet as God delivered David from his sin and enemies, He delivers us as well. Christ paid for our idolatry and indifference. His Spirit gives us the gift of faith so that we trust in the only true God. Now we join David in rejoicing in God's great salvation. • O triune God, strengthen my faith that I may worship You alone. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 32 Numbered with other penitential psalms (6; 38; 51; 102; 130; 143). Maskil. Penitential psalm of Confession and Absolution. Luther saw these psalms as instructive in the sense of wisdom and understanding within a spiritual and holy context over against a worldly context (cf 14:2; 53:2).

Format: V v 1–2, blessed in forgiveness; v v 3–4, wasting away; v 5, confession; v v 6–7, the Lord is a hiding place; v v 8–9, instruction; v v 10–11, proverbs of trust in the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 32:1 Blessed. See p 842. covered. Hbr kasah. God grants a verdict of not guilty in light of true confession (cf LC III 92). Christ's very blood (cf Heb 9:13–14) covers and cleanses us from all our sin. Aug: "Not by the merits of works, but by the grace of God, man is delivered, confessing his sins" (*NPNF*1 8:70). Luth: "The salvation of Christ is called 'salvations' and 'mercies' (cf. Ps. 28:8; 17:7; 25:6), because it saves many and ascribes a manifold salvation to all" (AE 10:146).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 32:2 no iniquity. When sin is confessed and Absolution occurs for the sake of Christ, God does not hold that sin against the penitent sinner. no deceit. Forgiven by God, the believer sincerely acknowledges his sin and does not try to excuse or cover it up. Aug: "Nor has he in his mouth boastings of righteousness, when his conscience is full of sins" (*NPNF*1 8:70).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 32:3–7 David speaks to God in the presence of the assembly; his discourse is for their benefit as well (cf Ap V 42).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 32:3 kept silent … wasted away. Luth: "For one who keeps silent (that is, who does not confess), his bones quickly grow old, that is, his powers in which he formerly stood in good things are always reduced more and more by sins" (AE 10:147).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 32:4 hand was heavy upon me. He presses us toward contrition, confession, and repentance (cf Rm 7). Selah. See p 993.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 32:5 acknowledged … did not cover. Cf v 1. confess. "Confession is mentioned at different times in the Psalms…. Such confession of sin, which is made to God, is contrition in itself. When confession is made to God, it must be made with the heart, not only with the voice, like actors on the stage. Confession is contrition in which, feeling God's anger, we confess that God is justly angry and that He cannot be reconciled by our works. Yet, we seek for mercy because of God's promise" (Ap XIIB 10). Forgave. Hbr kasah, "to cover up." When we intentionally cover our sin, it troubles both body and mind. When we confess our iniquity, God is faithful and just to forgive our sins (cf 51:1–2; Rm 4:7–8; 1Jn 1:8–9; see Ap XII 10; see also SC, Confession, p xl).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 32:6 "He shows that even saints ought to seek forgiveness of sins. They are more than blind who do not realize that wicked desires in the flesh are sins" (Ap V 47–48). when You may be found. Before the hour of judgment. See "seek," p 843. great waters. God may use extreme measures to disturb the routine of one's life in order to show His anger due to sin (cf 69:1–2; 144:7; Jb 7:12; Jer 5:22; 47:2). Aug: "Let none think, when the end has come suddenly, as in the days of Noah, that there remains a place of confession, whereby he may draw nigh unto God" (*NPNF*1 8:71).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 32:7 hiding place … shouts of deliverance. God takes David from seclusion to public acknowledgement from those who see God's work of salvation.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 32:8 eye upon you. Cf Lk 22:61. God graciously watches for the soul's welfare and its sinful desire to stray from Him.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 32:9 bit and bridle. Luth: "Through adversities they are drawn away from good times and are thus by scourge and chain led forcibly (as horses and mules are controlled by the bit) to faith and the church" (AE 10:149).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 32:10 the wicked. Impenitent and hardened hearts. They suffer because sin naturally brings sorrow.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 32:11 righteous. See p 843. upright in heart! The truly repentant confess their sins and, therefore, have every reason to be glad and rejoice in God's gifts of forgiveness, life, and salvation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 32 Luth: "The beginning of this psalm teaches two things: first, that all are in sins [no one is righteous] and no one is blessed; second, that no one is capable of meriting the forgiveness of sin, but it is the Lord alone who forgives freely by not imputing [guilt]" (AE 10:147). Ps 32 also shows the physical, mental, and spiritual implications of being silent in sin. God calls us to confess our sins quickly with contrite hearts in order to receive Absolution. Only He can relieve the troubled heart. "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness" (1Jn 1:9). • Lord Jesus Christ, grant me the honesty to examine my life according to Your Ten Commandments. Show me my sin, to know and feel it in my heart and disdain it. Most of all, grant forgiveness by Your gracious hand. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 33 Reference to a "new song" (v 3) suggests a national deliverance, such as Judah experienced in the time of Jehoshaphat (2Ch 20) or Hezekiah (2Ki 19); cf v v 10–11, 16–17. This is a liturgy of praise toward God, most likely accompanied by the voices of the Levitical choir (cf 1Ch 16:7–36; 25:1).

Format: V v 1–3, rejoice and praise; v v 4–5, the Lord's Word and work; v v 6–7, His Word and work in creation; v v 8–9, awe at His Word; v v 10–12, the Lord's counsel; v v 13–17, the Lord sees all; v v 18–19, the Lord sees those who fear Him; v v 20–22, hope in the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:1 righteous! … the upright. See p 843. God's people direct their very best praise to the Almighty for special as well as everyday reasons. Praise is always to be on our lips (cf 119:171; Eph 5:19). Luth: "Some rejoice in the Lord by taking pleasure in the blessings of spiritual salvation. It is these the apostle encourages with the words (Phil. 4:4): 'Brethren, rejoice in the Lord, and again I say, rejoice'" (AE 10:152).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:2 Give thanks. Hbr yadah. See note, 106:6. lyre … harp of ten strings! See p 993.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:3 new song. See p 843. loud shouts. Jubilant character of praise.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:4 word of the LORD. His infallible and inerrant revelation (written or spoken) to all humankind that describes His divine attributes and His mighty works of creation, mercy, forgiveness, and salvation through His Son, Jesus Christ. See note, v 6. See also notes, 12:6; 19:7.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:5 steadfast love. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:6 word of the LORD. The spoken Word of God brought into existence all things and sustains and governs all things. by the breath. God's Word creates the righteous and makes them strong, and by His Holy Spirit works saving faith. Chem: "The work of creation is proper to the Trinity or the Deity. Therefore it is attributed also to the Holy Spirit…. Therefore the Holy Spirit is truly God" (LTh 1:137). host. Stars of heaven.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:7 sea as a heap. Or, "wall." Shows the consummate ease of God Almighty (cf Gn 1:9–10; Jb 38:8–11; Pr 8:29; Jer 5:22).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:8 fear the LORD. See p 842. inhabitants. All are invited to praise God for His divine works. All—faithful and faithless, saint and sinner—receive God's creative gifts and sovereign rule.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:9 God's will and Word create all things. This moves souls to praise Him. Mel: "That things were created out of nothing is taught by this statement" (Chem, LTh 1:151).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:10 Aug: "[God brings down] them that seek not His Kingdom, but kingdoms of their own … them that covet earthly happiness … them that seek to rule over such peoples" (*NPNF*1 8:72).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:11 counsel. His ways and thoughts are higher and oppose the "counsel of the nations" (v 10).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:12 nation … chosen as His heritage! Israel is God's chosen people (cf Dt 9:29). See "portion," p 7.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:13–14 looks down from heaven. See note, Jb 22:12. Heaven is described as being above the earth and hell below, placed in an earthly context for our understanding. Heaven and hell are, however, not specifically located according to earthly terms in Holy Scripture. Heaven is God's throne from which He orchestrates all things, sustains all things, and sees all who dwell upon the earth.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:15 fashions the hearts. Bestowing the powers of the mind and will. observes. He watches to see how they will use His gifts. Chem: "The providence of God includes both His care and His governance" (LTh 1:167).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:17 war horse. See note, Jb 39:19.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:18 eye of the LORD. Human attribute ascribed to God, who is Spirit.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:19 famine. When the threat of sudden death or disaster comes, the Lord delivers. When famine threatens others, He miraculously sustains His own people as He did Elijah. God gives the nourishment of His Word and the bread of everlasting truth.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:20–22 Three-verse response to praise. The king is the protector of the citizen and God is the protector of His chosen people, Israel (cf 84:11; 91:4; 115:9–11; Dt 33:29; Pr 30:5).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:20 help. See note, Gn 2:18.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:21 His holy name. Yahweh (Ex 3:14). See p 1227.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 33:22 steadfast love. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 33 God's people are always to put their trust in Him alone and not in arms, generals, national defenses, and so on. Through His Word and Spirit, almighty God grants us faith in His Christ and His steadfast love. Thus, He gives us hope in our hearts and minds and certainty of His salvation in His Son, Jesus Christ. All praise, laud, and worship belong to our God, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. • O Lord Jesus Christ, through Your precious blood You redeemed me, a lost and condemned creature, and called me to be Your very own. Renew my heart in righteousness and holiness that I may praise and adore You. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 34 he changed his behavior. Cf 1Sm 21:10–15.

Format: V v 1–3, bless the Lord; v v 4–7, the Lord answers; v v 8–10, the Lord is good; v v 11–14, teaching the fear of the Lord; v v 15–18, the Lord hears and delivers; v v 19–22, the Lord redeems His servants.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:1 bless the LORD. See p 842. Aug: "When He gives them, bless; and when He takes them away, bless. For it is He who gives, it is He that takes away" (*NPNF*1 8:73).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:2 boast in the LORD. Boasting and humility are contrasted. The former is praise and rejoicing that outwardly proclaims God's gracious love and deeds toward His children. The psalmist emboldens the lowly.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:3 magnify. Lit, "make great" by praising. with me … together! Praise and worship in the congregation is much deeper and more meaningful than individual worship.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:4 sought the LORD. See "seek," p 843. Deliverance was sought from the Lord in prayer, and He answered that prayer. Aug: "Seek not from the Lord anything [else], but seek the Lord Himself, and He will hear you, and while you yet speak, He will say, 'Lo, here I am'" (*NPNF*1 8:74).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:5 radiant. Their faces will not be red with shame and embarrassment. God's children will have peaceful faces because they know that when they speak, God will listen and answer.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:6 poor man. David could not secure his salvation from Achish (cf 1Sm 21:10–12) but called upon the Lord, who delivered him from all his trouble. Like David, we depend on God for salvation from sin and death, both temporal and eternal.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:7 angel of the LORD. Hbr mal'ak yahweh, God's messenger sent to protect those who fear the Lord and to carry out His divine will on earth, namely, salvation (cf 35:5–6). Aug: "Our Lord Jesus Christ Himself is called in Prophecy, the Angel of the great Counsel, the Messenger of the great Counsel; so the Prophets called Him" (*NPNF*1 8:75). See p 1227.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:8–14 Note the series of 10 imperatives in this stanza, which invites the hearer to believe and trust in the Lord for salvation and all good things (referenced four times; v v 8, 10, 12, 14). A similar gracious exhortation is provided through the prophet Isaiah (55:1–3). The imperatives and promises combine to evoke faith, confidence, and good works. Cf Rm 10:8–13; 1Pt 3:8–12.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:8 taste and see. Perceive. Invitation for the saints to experience the Lord's trustworthiness. If you do not taste, you will not see.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:9 fear the LORD. See p 842. s*aints*. See p 843. have no lack! There will always be poverty, but in the grand scheme of God's creation and redemption, He allows none of His children to suffer want. See "Application," p 997.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:10 young lions. The strong and independent of a pride and cubs. Yet even they suffer hunger. lack no good thing. Chem: "God is daily at work in His world and embracing with His fatherly care especially those to whom He has given His Word" (LTh 1:158).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:11 Psalmist engages in teaching. See pp 995–98. O children. See note, Pr 1:8.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:12 desires life and loves many days. Life is meant to be full and rich and viewed as God's gift.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:13 Keep your tongue from evil. Aug: "Such are those men who would both do evil, and swear falsely, and speak blasphemy against God, and murmur, and defraud" (*NPNF*1 8:76).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:14 seek peace and pursue it. Not peace in the heart that he should seek from God, but as our Lord taught: "Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called sons of God" (Mt 5:9; cf Ps 37:37; 120:7; Pr 12:20; Zec 8:16–17, 19).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:15 righteous. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:16 face … against. Turned with focused intention, in this case, to punish. When Jesus became sin in our stead on the cross, His heavenly Father turned His face away from Him so that He might bear our punishment and be our Savior.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:17 Aug: "Fear not: only do what He commands; and if He delivers you not bodily, He will deliver you spiritually" (*NPNF*1 8:77).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:18 brokenhearted. Christians are not excluded from disappointments, temptations to sin, and other experiences that can test one's faith or crush it. Yet the Lord is near, and He saves! Aug: "A great mystery, Brethren. God is above all: you raise yourself, and touch Him not: you humble yourself, and He descends to you" (*NPNF*1 8:77).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:19 afflictions. Hbr ra'oth, "evils." That evil befalls the ungodly is understood, and yet God's children suffer the same troubles. We are not isolated from the evils of sin in this broken world, but we are saved by grace through faith in Christ. The righteous, after many tribulations, shall come to everlasting peace, where they will suffer no evil. See p 837.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:20 keeps all his bones. Specific example of God's care. See treatment of bones during the Passover meal and Jesus' crucifixion (Ex 12:46; Jn 19:36).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:21 Affliction will slay the wicked. Sin brings punishment and death as surely as gravity brings broken bones. If you defy God's created order, afflictions will follow.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 34:22 redeems. See p 843. Christ came to free us from the prison of sin, death, and the devil by means of His incarnation, sinless life, preaching, brutal cross, and glorious resurrection. condemned. People are conceived and born into sin and, as such, stand condemned at the moment of conception.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 34 The Lord turns His countenance of favor toward His children, saves them, and blesses them. The Lord turns His countenance away from the wicked and condemns them to eternal death, though His will is to save all people by grace through faith in Christ. • Dear heavenly Father, blessed are those who hear Your Word and fear You, for they seek Your grace and righteousness. Move us to praise and worship You with joyful hearts because of Your Word, Jesus, that we might inherit life everlasting. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 35 Men close to David have developed a destructive disdain for him. This psalm is most likely set during Saul's time (cf 1Sm 20; 23–26). Someone sought David's life and slandered him. In 1Sm 24:12, 15, David appeals to God as the righteous judge.

Format: V v 1–3, fight the enemies; v v 4–6, drive them to retreat; v v 7–8, pursuers' evil acts; v v 9–10, delivering the poor; v v 11–14, mourning the sick; v v 15–16, mockery; v v 17–18, a prayer for rescue; v v 19–21, treacherous foes; v v 22–25, a prayer for vindication; v 26, shame the foes; v v 27–28, delight in God's greatness.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:1 fight against. Battle of actions and words (cf Ex 15:1–18, 21, the songs of Moses and Miriam).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:2 buckler. Body-length shield with bowed surface, made of animal hide. God is asked to protect His faithful when the struggle against evil becomes too great.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:3 salvation. See p 843. David calls God to block the path of his pursuers with spear and javelin (cf Gn 3:23–24). Soul.

Equivalent here to personal pronoun "I." See note, 103:1–2.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:4–8 Imprecatory prayers. See p 879.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:4 Cf messianic Ps 22:16–18. them. Those making plans against David.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:5–6 chaff before the wind. See note, 1:4. David's pursuers are considered oppressive, yet worthless. angel of the LORD. See p 1227.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:6 dark and slippery. Aug: "These two ills are the great punishments of men: darkness, ignorance; a slippery way, luxury" (*NPNF*1 8:80).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:7 without cause. Those who were once David's compatriots (v 14) have now turned against him, plotting to take his life (10:8; 11:2; 64:4; 140:5). Cf Mt 21–27; Lk 23:2, where the plotting of the religious leaders of Jerusalem to put Jesus to death was certainly politically and religiously motivated (from the temporal standpoint).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:10 bones shall say. Aug: "In the Body of the Lord the name of bones is given to all the righteous, the firm in heart, the strong, yielding to no persecutions, no temptations" (*NPNF*1 8:82).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:11 witnesses. They keep plying him with questions about deeds of violence he knows nothing about (cf Ex 23:1–9; Mt 26:57–68). The charges are false. Our Lord's mock trial and beatings were a result of desperate, trumped-up charges. I do not know. Luth: "What is foreign to the deed is foreign to the conscience…. The Lord, who does not know sin, was not aware of sin. Therefore He suffered in ignorance, that is, without knowing" (AE 10:167).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:12 my soul is bereft. Luth: "They repaid Me with barrenness, though I had brought fertility…. Because they [wicked men] cut Christ in the flesh, by that very fact they were cut and scourged in their heart" (AE 10:167–68).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:13 they. His current oppressors. sackcloth. See note, Jb 16:15. afflicted myself with fasting. Cf Lv 16:29–34.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:15 my stumbling. Any mishap (cf 9:3; 27:2; 37:24; 56:13; 119:165). See note, Hos 4:5. wretches whom I did not know. David's experience makes his former friends glad. If there were once positive relationships, they are meaningless now.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:16 mockers at a feast. Lit, "profane men," "mockers for cake," or "table jesters." Though they appear harmless and upright at the table, they are plotting destruction. gnash. Describes potent rage as a result of hatred (cf Mt 13:42). Like carnivores, they want to trap, tear, and devour. Aug: "Wherever men find a Christian, they are wont to insult, to persecute, to deride him, to call him dull, senseless, of no spirit, of no knowledge" (*NPNF*1 8:84).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:17 How long, O Lord, will You look on? Such blatant injustice requires divine intervention. the lions! See note, v 16; cf 10:9; 17:12; 22:12–13, 21; 57:4; 58:6; 124:6.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:18 David always thought of how his experience would be profitable for his people. great congregation. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:19 wink the eye. See note, Pr 6:13–14; cf Ps 109:3; 119:161.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:20 quiet in the land. The meek, who live simply by God's Word.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:21 Aha. Expression of malicious joy. seen it! I.e., David's imagined fault or mistake, which justifies their condemnation of him.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:22 You have seen. The Lord sees the real fault deserving condemnation. be not silent! He will testify against David's foes. David prays with confidence that given God's omniscience, He is the righteous and just witness (cf v 11).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:24 Vindicate. Justify. See note, 26:1. according to Your righteousness. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:26 dishonor. Hbr describes blushing red. Accusers leave the scene with embarrassed red faces, burdened with the disgrace they have merited.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:27–28 my righteousness … Your righteousness. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 35:27 His servant. His chosen, or anointed, one.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 35 David appeals to God Almighty as divine warrior and righteous judge. He prays that God will come to his defense and rescue him from those who were once close friends but who now accuse, slander, and condemn him with malice. The Lord forbids that we accuse an innocent person (Eighth Commandment), that he or she might be wrongly punished in body, property, or reputation (cf Pr 22:1). He bids us to err on the side of the Gospel in the case of our neighbor, unless guilt is clear (cf Mt 18:15–18). As we endeavor to treat our neighbors fairly and with mercy, our merciful Lord justifies us according to His righteousness. • O Lord Jesus Christ, Son of God, Savior of the world, move us, we pray, to shun lies and to speak well of our neighbor. Build a strong bulwark around our name, reputation, and integrity that we might be protected from malicious gossip and deceitful tongues; through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 36 choirmaster. See p 993. A common superscription (55 psalms). servant of the LORD. David serves in an official capacity as a leader and instructor of the people.

Format: V v 1–4, way of the wicked; v v 5–6, the Lord's steadfast love; v v 7–9, blessings of His steadfast love; v v 10–12, end of evildoers.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 36:1 the wicked. David explains the enormity of iniquity. fear of God. See p 842. The wicked have totally lost the restraining dread of God's power, which curbs wickedness (cf Rm 3:18). Luther translates as "I am speaking from deepest conviction about the ungodly that there is no fear of God before their eyes."

PSALMS—NOTE ON 36:2 flatters. Hbr "makes smooth." The wicked have the illusion that their sin is not immediately found out or punished by God. In their warped thinking, they justify their iniquity, not considering God's righteous punishment.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 36:3 deceit. Luth: "A sham friend is more hateful than an open enemy" (AE 10:170). Cf 41:9; 55:13.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 36:4 on his bed. Since the fall, sin is our most basic impulse. The wicked lie awake at night, unable to rest because they just have to develop some evil scheme. (In contrast, the righteous meditate on God's Word both day and night; see note, 1:2.) The heart and mind determine the life, as Jesus would teach (cf Mt 12:33–37; Mk 7:21–23). Aug: "Our bed is our heart: there we suffer the tossing of an evil conscience; and there we rest when our conscience is good" (*NPNF*1 8:87).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 36:5–6 God's attributes are revealed in His actions: steadfast love, faithfulness, righteousness, judgment, and salvation extended to all creation, for the sake of His Son (cf 33:5; 89:14; 97:2; Hos 2:19–20; Is 9:7; Jer 9:24). See pp 842–43. Aug: "The Mercy [of God] which You give to Your Saints, is Heavenly, not earthly; is Eternal, not temporal…. For who could know the Heavenly Mercy of God, unless God should declare it unto men?" (*NPNF*1 8:88).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 36:6 mountains of God. Hills of Zion. man and beast. Aug: "Is not the saving of beasts also from God? For He who made man, made also beasts; He made both, saves both; but the saving of beasts is temporal" (*NPNF*1 8:88–89). Cf Gn 7:22–23; LC II 13–14.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 36:7 shadow of Your wings. See note, 17:8–9.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 36:8 abundance of Your house. Abundance of God's creation (food and drink). At the tabernacle, God's children feasted on the sacrifices. See pp 170–71.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 36:9 fountain of life. God and His Word are compared to refreshing waters (Pr 18:4; Is 55:1). God gives life in both the temporal and eternal realms. Ultimately, for sinners, God provides the water of life through Jesus Christ. Your light. Apart from Him, we are in darkness. Knowing Him brings enlightenment and joy.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 36:10–12 Closing prayer asking for God's mercy and protection. upright of heart. Sincere.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 36:11 foot… hand. Luth: "The foot of pride is the father of heretics, schismatics, sects, rebels, and apostates. Then follows the hand, the works and merits of their own life which they set up for themselves as righteousness" (AE 10:172). the wicked. People who try to make their way in the world either as a law to themselves (cf 10:2–11; 31:18; 73:6) or by relying on false gods (Jer 13:9–10).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 36:12 lie fallen … thrust down. Success and prosperity of the ungodly are fleeting. This psalm ends with the nature and ultimate destiny of wickedness. God has already overthrown all evil and wickedness through His Son, our Savior.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 36 • O heavenly Father, we rely on Your grace and protection in the midst of sin and the wicked works of those who test our faith. Your Word is truth. Do not allow courage to build in the hearts of Your enemies, who despise Your Word and Your Son. Do not let them proudly boast, "Where is your God?" Answer, we pray, those who oppress Your Holy Word. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 37 Acrostic poem, with two verses for each letter of the alphabet (irregular). See pp 777–78. This psalm provides teaching and comfort in the manner of Proverbs. It reconciles the tension between the prosperity of the wicked and the slander of the righteous (cf Ps 36). The crux of the poem is that leaders fail to trust in the Lord (cf v v 3–5, 7, 34, 39).

Format: V v 1–2, evildoers fade away; v v 3–4, trust the Lord; v v 5–6, He will act; v 7, wait patiently; v v 8–9, don't get angry; v v 10–11, wicked and meek contrasted; v v 12–13, the Lord laughs at the wicked; v v 14–15, wicked attack; v v 16–17, wicked and righteous contrasted; v v 18–19, blameless remain forever; v 20, wicked vanish; v v 21–22, wicked and righteous contrasted; v v 23–24, the Lord upholds the righteous; v v 25–26, the righteous and his children; v v 27–29, the righteous are preserved; v v 30–31, the righteous described; v v 32–33, the Lord guards the righteous; v 34, appeal for patience; v v 35–36, the wicked passed away; v v 37–38, future of the blameless and the wicked; v v 39–40, the Lord delivers.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:1–2 Fret not … not envious. The problem and the answer (cf Pr 24:19). evildoers. People who plot, scheme, default on debts, use political power to gain advantage and thus seem to flourish. "God puts His saints to work in various ways and often holds back the rewards of works-righteousness. He does this so that they may learn not to trust in their own righteousness and may learn to seek God's will rather than the rewards. This can be seen with Job, Christ, and other saints. And many psalms teach us about this" (Ap V 77). wither. Vegetation in the Holy Land dies quickly and can be used as fuel (cf Mt 3:10). Aug: "For now it is the season of winter. Your glory does not as yet appear. But if your love has but a deep root, like that of many trees during winter, the frost passes away, the summer (that is, the Day of Judgment) will come…. The root is within; where our root is, there is our life also, for there our love is fixed. And your life is hid with Christ in God" (*NPNF*1 8:91). Cf Col 3:1.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:3 Trust in the Lord. Leave things in God's hands as you perform your normal functions. befriend faithfulness. Despite persecution, stand fast where God has placed you and fulfill your calling.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:4 the desires of your heart. Aug: "Distinguish the 'desires of your heart' from the desires of your flesh; distinguish as much as you can" (*NPNF*1 8:92). "God wishes to give you everything exceedingly and abundantly according to your heart's desire. He who despises and casts this promise to the winds is not worthy ever to hear a word about God" (LC I 166).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:5 Commit … He will act. Cast your burden from yourself and upon Him (cf 1Pt 5:7). We pray, and He listens and answers, though He may delay.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:6 your righteousness. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:7–8 Be still. Quiet waiting for the Lord's action. fret not. Aug: "The 'way of the ungodly' is but a transitory happiness…. Its termination leads to the pit of hell. Now, your way is narrow; and 'few there be' that enter in through it: but into how ample a field it comes at the last, you ought to consider" (*NPNF*1 8:93).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:9 cut off. See note, 12:3. wait for the LORD. See note, 25:3. Waiting does not mean doing nothing. Rather, believers should continue to fulfill their present calling until the Lord presents a new opportunity in His time. E.g., David knew he would be king but had to wait (1Sm 16). inherit. Hbr yarash, a chief blessing of the covenant. See "portion," p 7.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:10–11 meek. Hbr 'anaw, "humble." They depend only on the Lord's goodness and grace. Aug: "Peace shall be your gold. Peace shall be your silver. Peace shall be your lands. Peace shall be your life, your God Peace" (*NPNF*1 8:94).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:12 gnashes his teeth. As if to consume God's righteous people.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:13 the Lord laughs … his day is coming. Cf 1Sm 26:10; Jb 18:20. Aug: "The day of the unjust, which God foresees, will come. What day is that? The day for all vengeance!" (*NPNF*1 8:94).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:14 sword … bows … bring down the poor and needy. Most cruel and brutal attack possible on the poor and defenseless.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:15 Cf 45:5. The wicked may hold sway in the temporal realm, but their injustice will be condemned, and they shall suffer eternal damnation on the Last Day.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:16 the little. God has not promised a life of ease and unbounded prosperity this side of heaven.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:17 upholds. See pp 843–44.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:18 blameless. See note, Jb 1:1.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:19 famine. Common challenge in an agricultural society. Even in famine, the blameless will survive because the Lord knows His own.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:20 glory of the pastures. Grass withers when winter comes.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:21 generous and gives. Blameless people repay their debts and give to their neighbor in need (cf Dt 15:6; 28:12, 44).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:22 blessed … cursed. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:23 steps … established by the LORD. Aug: "If the Lord did not order the steps of man, so crooked are they naturally, that they would always be going through crooked paths, and by pursuing crooked ways, would be unable to return again. He however came, and called us, and redeemed us, and shed His blood; He has given this ransom; He has done this good, and suffered these evils. Consider Him in what He has done, He is God! Consider Him in what He has suffered, He is Man!" (*NPNF*1 8:97).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:24 fall. At the same time saint and sinner, the righteous are tempted, turn, and commit actual sin, thus falling into the pit (cf Pr 24:16). Luth: "But the righteous are lifted up, because the wicked rely on dead things, while the righteous rely on the living Lord" (AE 10:174).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:25 forsaken … begging. In a corrupt and sinful world, the righteous can experience temporal need, but the Lord does not forsake them. "Here, then, you have a rich Lord. He is certainly enough for you" (LC I 253).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:26 lending generously … blessing. See note, v 21.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:27 Turn away. Repent. See p 1080. dwell forever. Temptation can temporarily cause the Christian to depart from the path of the righteous. When these temptations come, dismiss them by the Lord's power.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:28 saints. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:30 utters wisdom. See pp 775–78.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:31 law. See p 971. Aug: "The 'word of God in the heart' frees from the snare" (*NPNF*1 8:101).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:33 Aug: "Some [the martyrs] they slew with the sword; some they crucified; some they delivered to the beasts; some they burnt by fire; others they led about in chains, till wasted out by a long protracted decay. Assuredly 'the Lord forsakes not His Saints'" (*NPNF*1 8:101).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:34 Wait for the LORD. Dependence on and faithfulness to the Lord always go hand in hand with faithful obedience to His Commandments. way. See p 844.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:37 man of peace. One who loves peace and is at peace in the midst of trouble.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:38 future of the wicked. See note, v 13. cut off. See note, 12:3.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 37:39–40 Comforting conclusion; the Lord will deliver the righteous. Aug: "At present therefore let the righteous bear with the sinner; let the wheat bear with the tares; let the grain bear with the chaff: for the time of separation will come, and the good seed shall be set apart from that which is to be consumed with fire" (*NPNF*1 8:102). Cf Mt 13:30.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 37 This psalm stresses two things: the righteous are blessed of God in due season, and divine punishment will overtake the wicked. Our Lord does not abandon us, His children, to the schemes of the wicked, but on the Last Day He will fulfill our salvation and eternally deliver us from our enemies of sin, death, and the devil. • Heavenly Father, You have begun Your good work in us. Continue, we pray, to fill us with the wisdom and knowledge of Your life-giving Word. Grant that our cross and sufferings may direct our hearts and minds to You, O Christ, our sure and blessed hope. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 38 Acrostic. See pp 777–78. One of seven penitential psalms. Jewish tradition has the second half of the psalm as a liturgical prayer that accompanied the offering of Azkarah (memorial; cf Lv 24:7; Ps 70:1). David knows he has sinned and attributes his suffering to God's wrath.

Format: V v 1–2, the Lord's discipline; v v 3–4, heavy iniquities; v v 5–8, my sinful condition; v v 9–11, alone in my suffering; v 12, my foes; v v 13–14, deaf and mute; v v 15–16, waiting for the Lord; v v 17–20, confession; v v 21–22, plea for help.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:1 rebuke … discipline … wrath! David prays to be delivered from his deserved punishment from God. He prays for God's mercy to replace His heavy hand of wrath.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:2–8 David's argument as to why God should hear his plea. V v 3, 5–8 describe the totality of his affliction. All is not right between David and the Lord; the illness is punishment for sin.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:2 arrows. Cf Lm 3:12; Ezk 5:16.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:3 no soundness in my flesh … Your indignation. God may chastise us physically.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:4 heavy burden. Psychological and physical effects of his sin are described in v v 5–8. While this may not be confession, it is a sober acknowledgement. Sin is (1) a tyrant that constantly draws the sinner toward evil, while (2) simultaneously pushing downward, more and more increasing the pressure of sin, which (3) can result in bodily penalties and evils that go beyond our capacity to cope or turn back (cf Jer 10:19).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:5 wounds. Sin corrupts the whole body. Luth: "The sores are pride and the inborn sickness and remains of original sin. For that reason man is now swollen by nature and automatically stinks, that is, he creates scandal and is dissolved with festering" (AE 10:178).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:6 David is unable to raise himself to an upright position and suffers such pain that he mourns all his waking hours.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:7 sides. Variously translated as back, loins, or side. No small affliction affects his tender flesh.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:8 feeble … crushed … tumult of my heart. Feeling of desolation attacks his whole being.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:9 sighing is not hidden. The Lord hears his groaning. He does not despise or abhor his words. The penitent confesses his sins and asks for Absolution.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:10 light of my eyes. See note, Jb 17:7.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:11–14 Describes the betrayal of his false friends.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:11 stand aloof … stand far off. Psalmist's friends move from before him to contemplate their decision. Then they place themselves at a distance. Christ's friends did the same. Aug: "To those who wished to be near [Christ's] exaltation, yet thought not of His humility, He answered and said to them, 'Can you drink of the cup that I shall drink of?' … They 'drew nigh' in the body, but 'stood afar off' in their heart" (*NPNF*1 8:107–8). Cf Mt 20:22.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:12 Depicts a courtroom scene, where false witnesses condemn an innocent victim.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:13–14 I do not hear … like a mute man. Hearing and answering false charges is futile when faced with prearranged accusation and damning false witness (cf Is 53:7; Mt 26:57–68).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:15 O Lord my God, who will answer. Like a deaf-mute, David relies on God to answer his accusers (cf 1Sm 25:32–39).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:17 fall. Death seems imminent.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:18 confess. See note, v 9.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:19 Psalmist confessed his sin (v 18) but also his dismay that people he had not wronged were attacking him. Despite their blatant wickedness, his foes seem to go unpunished. Aug: "[My enemies] are well off: they rejoice in worldly prosperity; while I am suffering, and 'roaring with the groaning of my heart.' … This is their life; this life they praise; this they set their hearts upon: this they hold fast to their own ruin" (*NPNF*1 8:110).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:21 forsake. Hbr 'azab, "abandon." One of the psalmist's greatest fears. The prophets accused Israel of forsaking God.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 38:22 O Lord, my salvation! Beautiful pronouncement that deliverance comes only through almighty God. salvation! See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 38 The Lord chastises His children in order to turn them from temptation and sin and to keep them safe and faithful to Him. Sin that is not confessed becomes a burden on our bodies and souls and causes great despair. The Law as a guide accuses us and shows us our sin (cf Rm 3:20; 7:7). Here we see that God's divine will is ultimately for our good as believers. "O Lord, my salvation!" (v 22) is the beautiful confession that through the healing balm of the Lord's mercy, there is deliverance and Absolution. • O Lord God Almighty, we are in Your hands. You pronounce us sinners, and we accept the truth of Your Word. May we be quick to confess our sin. Thank You for leading us to this confession through Your Law and promises. Keep us alive, O blessed and faithful Redeemer, for in You alone do we trust. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 39 While Ps 38 spoke of silence before the enemy, Ps 39 speaks of silence before God. Both are prayers in times of illness (God's "discipline," v 11; 38:1); both acknowledge sin and express deep trust in God. choirmaster. See p 993. Jeduthun. One of David's three musicians (1Ch 6:44; 15:12; 16:41–42; 25:1, 6; 2Ch 5:12; 35:15). See p 840. Why this psalm was put into Jeduthun's (Ethan's) hands is unclear, as is David's specific life situation.

Format: V v 1–3, silence; v v 4–6, shortness of life; v v 7–11, deliver me from Your discipline; v v 12–13, prayer to be heard.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 39:1 tongue. Aug: "It is not without reason that the tongue is set in a moist place, but because it is so prone to slip" (NPNF 1 8:112).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 39:2 Luth: "[Holding our peace] is very hard to do when we suffer injury from those whom we have benefited, because we are generally quick to exaggerate and magnify the good we have done and the ingratitude of those people, and so we make accusations on a grand scale. And then grief is renewed, because it is a particularly sharp sorrow to receive injury and malice from one whom we have helped and at the same time to keep silent about the good we have done him and let it be construed as something evil" (AE 10:184).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 39:3 fire burned. The heart (center of thinking in Hbr) is being consumed with a rage of injustice, i.e., his languishing in psychological and physical torment (cf Jer 20:8–9). Finally he speaks.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 39:4 measure of my days. See note, 56:8, about the intimacy of God's attention to us.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 39:5 Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 39:6 shadow! A vapor, a mere breath in a vanity of vanities existence (cf Ec 1:1). This is an expression of extreme bitterness. Luth: "The sense that all things are vanity is not a matter of the things themselves but of the man who uses them vainly" (AE 10:186).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 39:7 My hope is in You. A wholesome transition.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 39:8 Deliver. See p 842. David didn't speak up in v 2, but in his heart he questioned God's reason for allowing him to fall into this pit. He didn't want to speak for fear of being "the scorn of the fool!" (cf 22:6–8; 69:6–12). Aug: "In no other way then can you be perfect in this life, than by knowing that you cannot be perfect in this life" (NPNF 1 8:116).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 39:9 I am mute. Cf v v 1–3.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 39:10 stroke … hostility of Your hand. God is the enemy of the unrepentant.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 39:11 like a moth. Depicts quiet, unsuspected ruin. all mankind … mere breath! Mel: "The calamities of this world are punishments for the sins of the whole race" (Chem, LTh 2:379).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 39:12 hold not Your peace. Tears move David to this modest prayer that God will no longer be silent but will absolve. sojourner … like all my fathers. We live under God's special care as strangers. God has welcomed us by His Word and Sacraments and makes us His children eternally. We are heirs of His kingdom of heaven. Aug: "The place where I am to abide for ever, should be rather called my home…. It is with God that I am a sojourner, with whom I am hereafter to abide, when I have reached my home" (NPNF 1 8:118). Cf 2Co 5:1.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 39:13 Look away. See note, 34:16.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 39 Veiled in uncertainty is a flickering faith that puts its hope in God and in His strength and promise to rescue all who call on His name. In the midst of this life of vapors, phantoms, and threats, we often push God away. Despite this, He hears and answers our prayers. For we are His children through His Word and Holy Baptism, and He is our safe harbor and anchor of salvation and protection. • Heavenly Father, what would we be if You forsook us, if You withdrew Your Word and Your hand? Enlighten us with Your Word. Let us walk in the light of Your blessed Son, our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 40 From an earlier time in David's life as an outlaw fleeing from Saul. Cf v 6; 1Sm 15:22. choirmaster. See p 993.

Format: V v 1–3, delivered by the Lord; v v 4–5, His deeds multiplied; v v 6–8, His desires; v v 9–10, His love declared; v v 11–12, hope for preservation; v v 13–15, disappoint my foes; v v 16–17, God is my help.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:1 waited patiently for the LORD. Aug: "I waited for the consolation of no mere mortal, who may be consumed by sorrow of his own, before he gives me comfort…. Let us mourn in company; let us weep together, let us 'wait patiently' together, let us join our prayers together also" (NPNF 1 8:119).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:2 pit of destruction. Mud remains after the water dries up. Cf Jer 38:1–6.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:3 new song. See p 843. fear … trust. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:4 Blessed. See p 842. turn to the proud. The arrogant and self-sufficient boast of their success apart from the one true God.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:5 Your wondrous deeds … thoughts. Salvation history is expounded before the faithful at the sanctuary. more than can be told. People cannot completely comprehend or number God's mighty works.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:6 In sacrifice and offering You have not delighted. See note, 51:10. open ear. Open by God's grace to hear and believe His Word (cf Rm 10:17) and live it (cf Pr 28:9; Is 48:8; 50:4–5). Luth: "We have two ears, first, so that we may be more apt to learn than to teach, to hear than to be heard, to yield to one speaking rather than to speak" (AE 10:188). "You have offered me Your Word that I may hear it, and You do require that I believe Your Word and Your promises. You truly desire to care for me and to help" (Ap XXIV 29). Burnt offering and sin offering. See p 170–71.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:7 I have come. David is at the tabernacle to pay his vows. scroll of the book. God's Word or Law. Leather scrolls were rolled up for carrying or for storage.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:8 delight. To find pleasure in one's inmost being by hearing God's Word and doing His will (cf Dt 6:6; Pr 3:3; 7:3). law. See p 971. within my heart. See note, 1:2.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:9 glad news of deliverance. See "deliver," p 842. great congregation. See p 842. not restrained my lips. We are duty bound to confess the virtues of His righteousness in corporate worship.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:10 not hidden … not concealed. Aug: "He believes; he 'lives by faith.' … He has not said in his heart, 'I do indeed believe in Christ; but I will not tell what I believe to this persecutor, who is raging against me, and threatening me'" (NPNF 1 8:125). steadfast love … faithfulness. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:11 mercy. See pp 842–43. steadfast love … faithfulness. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:12 encompassed me beyond number. Consequences of David's sins are catching up with him. more than the hairs of my head. Aug: "Who is there can calculate the number of the hairs of his head? Much less can he tell the number of his sins…. You have guarded against great ones; you do not now commit adultery, or murder; you do not plunder the property of others; you do not blaspheme; and do not bear false witness; those are the weightier kind of sins. You have guarded against great sins, what are you doing about your smaller ones?" (NPNF 1 8:126). I cannot see. Until enlightened by God's Word; then sin becomes painfully clear.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:13 deliver. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:14 Cf 38:12; 39:8; 41:5, 7. He prays that his ill-willed enemies, who want nothing less than to murder him, might be brought to shame.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:15 Aha. An expression of malicious joy.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:16 seek You. See p 843. Great is the LORD*!* Common and natural confession and word of praise.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 40:17 poor and needy. One who cannot draw himself from the pit of sin or secure salvation on his own. Aug: "It is He that makes rich those who are the true poor; and makes poor those who are falsely rich" (NPNF 1 8:128). deliverer. See "deliver," p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 40 One who has fallen away from God now cries out for His fatherly kindness and mercy. As saint and sinner, we are unable to keep God's Law perfectly, though He requires that we do so. By the power of His Word and Spirit and by faith, He instills in us a new desire. Our Lord Christ kept the Law perfectly and died on our behalf that we might live with Him in His kingdom. • O my Lord, help me, that by Your grace I might learn Your Commandments more completely each day. Preserve me, I earnestly pray, that by Your Holy Spirit I will never become ungrateful and seek after the world's vanity or other gods, but cling truly and solely to You, dear God and Father. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 41 David is sick, and his enemies are vengeful. The psalm can be placed within the time of Absalom's rebellion (cf 2Sm 14–15). choirmaster. See p 993.

Format: V v 1–3, the merciful blessed; v v 4–7, enemies; v v 8–10, betrayal; v v 11–12, God's delight; v 13, blessing.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 41:1–3 Chem: "[The] turning away of punishments, that is to say, in the midst of their troubles they will feel the reward for their kindnesses" (LTh 2:644).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 41:1 considers the poor! As king, David is to defend the powerless. He expects reward from the Lord (cf Mt 5:7). Luth: "O how often Christ speaks about a lowly heart and person, and nobody pays attention. But when a great and rich man speaks, all are filled with admiration" (AE 10:190).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 41:2 blessed. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 41:3 The LORD sustains him. David depended on healing for past illnesses and for the illness he now experiences. Sometimes people view health as equaling God's blessing and illness as equaling God's curse (see pp 779–82). Following God's Word can deliver one from calamity, disease, and misfortune, but believers will still suffer the effects of sin. Sin can be confessed and absolved, but its effects may have lifelong, widespread consequences.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 41:4 heal. Hbr rapha'. David literally prays for the healing of his soul (see ESV note). I have sinned. Troubles come as a result of sin, and we fully merit God's corrective hand, which at times is difficult to bear.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 41:5 enemies. Unprincipled and godless men plot against David in a time of weakness.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 41:6 comes to see me. Picture of court intrigue. A false friend spies on David's condition so he may report to David's enemies. empty words. False comfort.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 41:7 hate … whisper … imagine. Enemies engage in this threefold scheme to destroy David. Perhaps this refers to Absalom's scheme to take his father's kingdom.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 41:8 A deadly thing. Physical disability.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 41:9 close friend. Lit, "the man of my peace," one in whom David had full confidence (2Sm 16:23), who ate at his royal table and attended his court. A common meal was a strong expression of hospitality and trust. lifted his heel against me. Preparing for a hard blow as one would stomp an insect or a snake. The "close friend" is probably Ahithophel (2Sm 15:12; 17:1–4). Jesus quotes part of v 9 in Jn 13:18, referring to Judas's imminent betrayal. The psalm is messianic, because it foreshadows in the person of David our Lord's ministry, betrayal, crucifixion, and resurrection. As great David's greater Son, Jesus would experience betrayal like David did. Judas sat with Jesus at the Last Supper and even received bread from Jesus' hand. Could there be a more bitter betrayal? Aug: "Who is this man of His peace? Judas" (NPNF 1 8:131).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 41:10 raise me up … repay them! Request for healing and vengeance. This is David's duty, because God appointed him as king (cf 1Sm 25:33; 2Sm 3:39).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 41:11 my enemy will not shout in triumph over me. God will not leave David dead on the ground.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 41:12 integrity. Virtuous conduct before God. presence. See p 843. David is the divinely appointed royal servant of Israel's heavenly King (cf 101:7; 1Sm 16:22). forever. Cf 2Sm 7:15–16.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 41:13 The doxology that closes Book One of Psalms. Blessed. See p 842. Amen and Amen. See "faithfulness," p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 41 Two experiences afflict David: he is sick, and he suffers at the hands of enemies (traitors) who want his throne and his life. The Lord allows suffering in our lives, that our sins might be punished in the temporal sense, though we often cannot tell why we are suffering. Whatever the case, repent of your sins and pray for the Lord's mercy and guidance according to His Word. The Lord is gracious and merciful toward His precious children. Though His discipline may never seem to end, we know His love and mercy still abound for us. • Dear Father, thank You for Your infinite love and goodness toward us, Your dear children. Even when we are disciplined, we know You love us. Keep us in Your Word, in faith and in prayer. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Book Two Ps 42–72, distinguished from Book One by its use of the word "God" (Hbr 'elohim) rather than "the LORD" (yahweh). See p 844.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 42 Ps 42 and 43 appear separately, but are connected by a common refrain and lament (42:5, 11 and 43:5; 42:9 and 43:2). The connection is reinforced because Ps 43 has no superscription. The two psalms form three cycles focused on intense yearning for God and communion with Him at the temple. In distress, the psalmist wishes only for the temple in Jerusalem, the Lord's earthly location. Luth: "[The psalmist] desires to come to God's house and be comforted by the face of God…. For God's house is that place where God's Word is, and God's face is His presence, through which He makes Himself known and by means of His Word, reveals His grace" (PIML, pp 58–59). Maskil. See p 841. Sons of Korah. Descendants of Levi, temple musicians (1Ch 6:1, 22, 31).

Format: V v 1–4, longing for God; v v 5–6a, refrain of hope; v v 6b–10, life in exile; v 11, refrain of hope.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 42:1 flowing streams. Psalmist desires worship in God's house, where God's presence preserves his life. (Cf Jn 7:37–39, Jesus in the temple.) "As a deer with anxious and trembling eagerness strains toward a fresh, flowing stream, so I yearn anxiously and tremblingly for God's Word" (BEC 33).
